COLDS
Don't Upset Stomach By Drastic Dosing
Taking strong medicines into the stomach for colds may add to the misery by upsetting digestion. That's why 1 out of 3 Canadian mothers treat colds externally with Vicks VapoRub.
Just rubbed on throat, chest and back at bedtime, VapoRub acts on the skin like a warming poultice and —at the same time—gives off soothing medicated vapours that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages. Often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone.

Chapter 29
Aerial Hide-and-Seek

Instead of heading for the hangars, Cameron turned off toward the east in the direction Rene had told him the officers' barracks were located.

In the graying dawn, he made out the low row of shedlike buildings and waited near them. He heard voices, some gay, some grumbling at having to turn out at such an unearthly hour.

Soon a truck rolled down the street, headlights showing dimly. It stopped before the barracks. A single sound of the horn brought men tumbling from the building, and unobtrusively Bill joined them and ran toward the heavy vehicle.

He still had no definite plan, but was trusting that luck or inspiration would see him through. He fingered a heavy rock he had picked up and put in his pocket as, wedged tightly in the truck, he jostled and jolted along with the others.

Some were complaining, in half-drunken tones, at being routed at this hour for a patrol over the enemy lines. Other men, younger, were looking forward eagerly to the adventure.

"Poor Webster," he heard one officer say. "We wonder if he'll make it in time."

"Hans was in a pretty bad way the last I saw of him—he'd had too much wine," another commented. "If he doesn't show up—it will be too bad for him."

At the entrance to the hangars, the truck stopped and the officers piled out. Cameron managed to edge himself into the background and was one of the last through the gate. He had plenty of time to observe the procedure. Each man, as he passed, paused just long enough to give his name and have it checked by the officer there. Two soldiers, with bayonets fixed on their rifles, stood guard.

Cameron heard the officer bark at him: "Name?"

"Hans Weber," he answered, with a salute, as he had seen the other flyers do.

The others were ranging themselves in a line and an officer with a list in his hand was reading off names. Bill was thankful he had chosen one that started with "W" as the list was alphabetical. As each name was called, the number of a plane was sung out and an officer stepped forward briskly to the line of ships, propellers already turning, which were waiting with mechanics standing at attention beside them.

His name came at last. Pausing just long enough to shout "Here!" as "Hans Weber" was called, he dashed toward ship number twenty-six to which he had been assigned.

By the time he reached the plane the pilot already was climbing into the cockpit, and gestured for Bill to climb into the observer's place behind him. A thrill shot through Cameron as he saw it was a dual control plane. He adjusted his helmet and goggles, tightened his muffler about his neck, and let his right hand slip into his jacket pocket where he had placed the stone.

There was a terrific roar as the planes turned, speeded their motors, and took off in regular order. He blessed his luck again that he was last in the line, and as the mechanic jerked out the blocks from under the wheels and leaped back and his pilot turned the ship to head toward the end of the runway, Cameron leaned forward, the rock grasped tightly in his hand, and swung with all his force back of the Nazi flyer's ear.

The pilot slumped over in his seat and Bill dropped back and took hold of the dual controls. The ship barely faltered for an instant, not long enough to be noticed in the gray of the early morning, and Bill headed for the far side of the field where he had told Claire and Rene to wait for him.

A horrible fear flashed through his mind. What if they weren't there? What if they had misunderstood and were at the far side of the field? If they were, then he'd have to take a long chance of taxiing back, hoping that they would leap from there place of concealment and he could get them aboard before the ground crew discovered that anything was wrong.

His fears were groundless, though. As he purposely waggled his plane in a zig-zag, as he and Rene had agreed upon for a signal, he saw the two of them rise up from the far edge of the field and start toward him.

Swinging his plane about to head downwind, Cameron braked the ship to a dead stop and then clambered over into the front cockpit. He hoisted the body of the limp pilot from the seat and dumped it onto the ground just as Claire and Rene came panting up to the side of the plane.

With Bill pulling and Claire boosting, Rene managed to climb into the rear cockpit, and a minute later Claire was in beside him.

"Okay, carling." the girl cried. "Let's go!"

Already the hangar crew had sensed that something was wrong and a half dozen men were running toward them as Bill advanced his throttle, released his brakes and the Messerschmidt started to move.

He gave it the gas as far as he dared and the motor roared in response. He began to pick up speed, heading directly at the soldiers running toward the ship. Several had rifles in their hands, and one was carrying a machine gun. Sweeping in their direction, Bill laughed aloud as they flung themselves flat to avoid the charging plane. He hauled back on the stick then and the plane soared into the air.

Over the roar of the motors he heard the wail of a dozen sirens from the hangars as the alarm was sounded, and he knew that soon the air would be full of wireless warnings to the other ships of the squadron.

"I've got maybe ten minutes leeway," he told himself, "before they pick up the messages, verify them and learn the markings on this ship so that they know which one they are to chase. My smartest move is to start climbing, to get over them, as they'll come sweeping back at low altitude, looking for me."

He pulled back on the stick and turned up his motor to all it would take. The ship climbed sharply at an angle that threw Claire and Rene violently back against their seats, but when Bill looked around for a moment they were grinning at him and waved.

Rene was taking the cover from a machine gun mounted on the fuselage back of the observer's cock-pit, and Cameron took new courage. He knew the French lieutenant would give a good account of himself.

Up, up, up, the plane lifted, the altimeter registering 19,000 kilometres, which Cameron swiftly computed to about 12,000 feet. His ears ached.

In the gray clouds of the morning, he knew visibility at that height would be low, so he levelled off and headed straight for France.

Leaning over the side, he saw a squadron of ships far below him. They had seen him too, and started to climb. But Bill was so high opposite direction that he knew they never could catch him.

He had nothing to fear from anti-aircraft batteries, either, as he was well out of their range. The only worry now was being mistaken for a Nazi raider when he got over the French lines and falling victim to French fire before he could identify himself.

Then he remembered what Rene had hold him while they were still in the woods. He had asked the Frenchman how he kept from being shot down by his own men.

"I simply waggle my wings and dip the nose of the plane three times," Rene told him.

When Claire leaned forward and punched him in the back about an hour later, Bill glanced back. Rene was gesturing wildly with his good arm and pointing down. Bill thought he saw his lips forming the name, "Metz."

He put the ship into a dive and looked back for confirmation. When Rene nodded, he dropped down rapidly. He levelled off at frequent intervals, waggled his wings, and dipped three times, then went into a new dive. Repeating this manoeuvre, he soon was circling down over what he made out as a large field, which he could plainly seen in the light that now was streaming over the eastern horizon.

Circling slowly, the plane settled down. Its wheels touched the runway, it glided toward the hangars, and Cameron brought it to a stop.

He ripped off his helmet and goggles and Rene and Claire did the same as a squad of soldiers, bayonets fixed, came rushing toward them.

Rene was immediately recognized and a cheer went up from the men who assisted the three of them from the plane.

"France!" Claire exclaimed. "We're safe; Bill,—all of us, thanks to you!"

He held out his arms and she rushed into them.

IN WRONG OFFICE

"I need only a few more names . . .," he began.

The gray-haired man behind the desk said "no"—frigidly.

And then did the visitor notice the lettering on the door: "Anti-Saloon League of Oklahoma," W. J. Losinger, supt."

FINNS ADMIT PART OF SUMMA VILLAGE

Little Land Fighting Elsewhere

The communique indicated there was relatively little land fighting elsewhere yesterday, and stated that the Finns were victorious in what there was. The communique said the defenders repulsed attacks northeast of Lake Ladoga, where "our forces captured one of the enemy's positions." The Russian losses were said to be "heavy."

The Finns reported they bombed Russian encampments and railways and stations behind the Russian lines, and "engaged in several successful air battles."

500 Planes Take Part

The communique said 500 Russian planes took part in raids in the Isthmus in which earlier advices had reported 34 persons were killed and 60 injured in raids on towns. The Finns said they shot down eight enemy planes.

Principal attention continued to be centred on the Isthmus fighting, in which the Russians 16 days ago launched a great offensive which has been almost ceaseless since and in which the Finns state they have mowed the invading troops down "like wheat."

A military informant said prior to issuance of today's communique that the Russians had made no gains since Feb. 13.

Fiercest Phases

But, he said, the Russians were and presumably still are in Summa village, around which have raged the fiercest phases of the great battle which the Finns liken to France's stand at Verdun in the first Great War. The village has been demolished by shellfire, he added.

Summa is 20 miles southeast of Viborg (Viipuri), Finland's second largest city and apparent objective of the Russian drive.

(Today's Russian communique claimed the Red army was advancing toward Kamara, railway station four miles north of Summa, with the Finns "retreating to the rear, abandoning arms and war materials, and suffering grave losses.")

The Finnish informant said the Russians retained some first line positions east of Summa which they captured Feb. 13, as was reported in the Finnish communique of the following day.

The press representative at Finnish general headquarters said he had no information in the course of the battle today.

Mowed Down "Like Wheat"

Finnish officers said that their men had been mowing the Russians down "like wheat" in the Isthmus fighting, but that nevertheless the invaders continued their attack with unabated fury. The Finns have called up the classes of 1896-97—men of 42 to 44 years —to help beat back the drive.

According to the best military information, there is no question of the Finnish defences crumbling suddenly, but the task of fighting has grown exceedingly heavy.

A Finnish officer from Summa declared Finnish losses were "phenominally low" because of deep dugouts and well-camouflaged machine-gun nests. Concentrated artillery fire, he said, dropped 20,000 shells on the 10-mile front in a single hour.

"Yet, when the artillery ceased and the Russian infantry and tanks attacked," he said, "we all seemed to be still there, for all our machine-gun posts were mowing down the Russians like wheat."

Covered with Dead

All of No Man's Land in that sector is covered with Russian dead he said.

Last night's Finnish communique said 4,000 Russians were killed on the various fronts in one day, 2,500 of them in the Taipale sector. It did not mention Finnish losses.

After an afternoon alarm, Helsingfors residents were routed from their beds last night to shiver in shelters, but the capital was not bombed by Russian planes in either case. One group of raiders bombed Riihimaki, 20 miles to the north. Another, passing over Helsingfors in white moonlight, went on to some undisclosed objective.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES
If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reason-

Too Frivolous

By STANLEY CORDELL

At fifty-two Noel Winthrop became a self-appointed member of that vast and pitiable army of misunderstood husbands.

Noel had achieved an early success in life, and possessed a tidy fortune to prove it.

He had also achieved a noticeable bulge at his waistline, tufts of gray hairs behind his ears, a bald spot and an occasional touch of rheumatism. But for all this Noel wasn't old, or thought he wasn't.

He didn't feel like settling down and enjoying his wealth as most self-respecting men of fifty-two might be expected to do.

He didn't like golf or bridge or stilted parties or even a moderate amount of travel.

He had been a stern, hard-thinking business man all his life and he wanted to be—well, frivolous.

Noel's wife, Erla, was in favor of the quiet retirement.

Erla was large and capable and sensible.

She had married Noel when he was a clerk in an advertising agency office.

She had stood by him through a great many crises, had advised and comforted and suggested.

Rightfully enough she felt that credit for at least part of his success was due her.

And that was the crux of the whole thing.

That was why Noel felt that he was misunderstood—because Erla wanted him to retire and live a quiet life, because she didn't think he ought to be—well, frivolous.

Noel grieved over the matter, brooded over it, pitied himself and eventually decided that he wouldn't retire from business. No, sir. He'd continue going down to the office every day.

Most anything was better than staying at home under his wife's wing.

Erla didn't object.

On the contrary she agreed that in these trying times the office probably needed him.

There wasn't much for Noel to do (the office routine had long since been entrusted to younger and capable hands); he found plenty of time to sit around and talk to people, and to notice Miss Clow.

He had, in fact, been noticing Miss Clow for some time.

She had been employed by the office manager a month before to assist Miss Fisher, who was Noel's personal secretary.

There was something about her that made Noel feel he wasn't old at all. Not even fifty-two.

She had a heart-shaped face and dazzlingly attractive eyes, and sometimes the way she looked at him when he asked her a question made Noel remember the days of his youth when he was good looking and considered somewhat of a lady killer.

Obviously, he thought that charm which had made him that once had not left him.

Miss Clow had been attracted by it; there was no mistaking the admiration and distant, modestly concealed worship in her eyes.

Noel twiddled his mustache and thought.

It occurred to him that here was a girl of intelligence, a girl to whom he would enjoy talking, one who understood him and appreciated his qualities, one who didn't think him old and doddering and ready for the shelf.

Yes, he was sure that Miss Clow would be like that.

He knew women did Noel.

It took a lot of courage for Noel finally to get around to mentioning to Miss Clow what was on his mind and he made a rather clumsy job of it.

But what little embarrassment he may have felt was instantly dispelled by Miss Clow's round-eyed and emphatic response.

"Why, Mr. Winthrop, I'd just love to go out to dinner with you! I think it would be wun-der-ful!"

Noel called Erla on the phone and told her he wouldn't be home because he had to entertain a client at dinner.

Then he went down to the club, changed into the tuxedo he always kept there, hired a taxi and drove to the corner where he had arranged to meet Miss Clow.

She was waiting, and she insisted that they walk to the night club.

It was such a nice night and she just loved to walk, she told him.

Then she tucked her arm in his and Noel, even at fifty-two, felt a thrill.

They walked an extra two blocks to reach their destination, and Noel thought it was because Miss Clow wanted to be alone with him.

He thought so even when she stopped abreast of a women's dress shop window with an exclamation of wonder and awe.

A wistful look came into Miss Clow's eyes.

It pleased Noel, gave him a feeling of superiority and self-confidence to promise her that on the morrow the dress would be hers. And when she squeezed his arm and laughed delightedly he received thrill No. 2.

The stiffness, however, was forgotten when Miss Clow began to order.

He marvelled that such a tiny girl could want so many things to eat all at once.

It amused him and he laughed.

The champagne came and they drank a toast to each other.

Here was life, gayety, youth, the sort of thing he wanted and needed.

This was—well, being frivolous.

The orchestra began to play and Miss Clow began hopping around in her seat.

"Oh, let's dance!" she exclaimed. "Let's do!"

But Noel smiled and shook his head.

"Let's wait for a waltz," he suggested. "These new dances—well, I'm not used to them."

But Miss Clow didn't want to wait, and when she saw a boy at a nearby table whom she knew, she smiled at him and he came over and asked Noel if he might dance with Miss Clow.

Noel winced.

The boy was the son of a business acquaintance the son of a business acquaintance was only fifty-one!

Noel drank some more champagne, and when the next number was played he got to his feet with something like grim determination written in his eyes.

"Let's dance," he said to Miss Clow.

And Miss Clow looked a little frightened; she looked as if she hadn't expected that Noel would go that far. But she assented, and Noel swept her out on the floor.

"Swept" is the proper word for when Noel danced he required space, and woe be to any unfortunate who got in his path.

They circled the floor once and then Noel got a twinge. A sort of sinking sensation took hold of him.

He remembered his rheumatism and recognized the symptoms.

The twinge repeated itself.

One knee buckled and then straightened again.

Noel suddenly became aware that people were staring at him and grinning.

It made him mad and he hung on to Miss Clow quite desperately.

The same knee buckled again.

At the moment they were lumbering past a mirror and Noel caught a glimpse of himself. The glimpse revealed a doddering, baldheaded old man whose clothes didn't fit him very well and whose knees seemed to be giving way.

It required several minutes before he realized that the reflection was that of himself; that the slip of a girl who was clutched in his arms was Miss Clow.

The thought flashed across his mind that Miss Clow was young enough to be his daughter, but probably had been mistaken for his granddaughter.

He glanced at Miss Clow and glanced away again.

From the corner of his eye he could see people looking and grinning.

Erla was waiting up, as always, when Noel finally arrived home.

One look at him and she went running to mustard and hot water and towels.

She scolded mercilessly while helping him get undressed, but for once the scolding was exactly what he wanted to hear.

He eased his feet into the basin of hot water with a great groan of relief and smiled up at his wife.

"Erla," he said happily, "did I ever tell you were the most wonderful, beautiful, understanding—"

But Erla cut him short with an impatient gesture. "Oh, Noel, act sensible. Don't be so—well, frivolous."

WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Scattered preferred stocks turned strong in today's market but numerous leaders settled down at moderately lower levels. Declines of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

Bonds, commodities and foreign securities markets shifted in varying directions.

Brooklyn-Manhattan preferred jumped more than seven points to a new top for 1939-40. Advances also were posted for P.M.T. common, Cluett Peabody, and the preferreds of N.Y. Shipbuilding and Brooklyn-Queens Transit, these reaching new highs for the past year or longer.

Canadian issues were sluggish. Distillers Seagram inches back and Canadian Pacific improved while Canada 4s in the bond market, was in fair demand.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 16 —(CP)— Toronto Exchange speeded along today on the down grade in early action to show sizeable losses at noon, especially for the gold and the industrial shares. There was a minor recovery in the early afternoon but trading quieted on the upturn. Trade expanded to 243,000 shares.

Announcement of a further cut in the dividend, put Lake Shore back to 25 3-8, its low point for 7 years. Preston, Macassa, Pamour, East Malartic and Macleod-Cockshutt were soft spots in the secondary list.

Steep Rock backed up 15 cents to 2.45 and recovered part of the loss. Other base metal shares posted comparatively narrow changes. In the western oil list losses of 5 to 10 cents appeared for Home, Calgary and Edmonton and Foothills.

Utilities and senior oils held fairly well while the steels, papers and liquors were heavy.

Butter Lower On Poor Demand

Toronto, Feb. 16—With support still lacking, butter prices drifted still lower on a nominal market at Toronto yesterday. Eggs showed about the only activity in local produce lines.

Business came virtually to a standstill on the butter market. Ontario creamery solids were quoted at the nominal price of 27c per pound for No. 1 grades, with Western shipments available at the same figure.

The egg market maintained a firm tone as current supplies cleared under fair trading. Prices were unchanged in both sections of the market, but Government inspected lots packed in new cases brought 1-2c per dozen premium in the graded division.

Montreal Produce

Butter: First grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 28c to 28 1-4c; first grade solids, jobbing price, 27 1-2c to 27 3-4c.

Eggs: Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 24c; A-medium, 22c; A-pullets, 21c; B-large and C, unquoted. Receipts: 544 cases.

DIRECT SWEDISH AID FOR FINLAND

Communique Issued

The communique said:

"On various occasions the Swedish government has entertained fro mthe Finnish government proposals concerning deliveries of necessities. These proposals generally could be filled. The question of giving injured and invalided care in Sweden also was discussed, as well as sending civil workers from Sweden to Finland.

"Steps were taken in these respects.

"During a visit in Stockholm, members of the Finnish government then took up the question of personal military assistance. Only last Tuesday the Finnish Foreign Minister had talks about this matter with the Swedish Prime Minister, the Foreign Minister and the Minister of Defence.

No Change in Position

"On this occasion the transport of Swedish military troops was requested. From the Swedish side the matter was referred to the enunciated Swedish principles governing assistance to Finland as declared in the speech of the Swedish Prime Minister in the Swedish Riksdag Feb. 17 and which were generally accepted.

"There has been no change in this position."

In the speech mentioned Hansson declared Sweden would give Finland all material and humanitarian help possible, but that her efforts would be limited to such assistance.

May Issue Statement

No official metion was made of published reports that Finland, if unable to obtain direct military aid from Sweden, would request such aid from Great Britain and France. Assistance from the direction would entail the question of whether Sweden and Norway would permit transit across their territories.

Some diplomatic circles believe that Sweden, with her neutrality status becoming increasingly delicate as Finland's urgency increases under Russian pressure, may soon issue an official declaration on this matter.

Places no Obstacles

While refraining from offering any outright military aid to Finland, the Swedish government has placed no obstacles in the path of Swedes desiring to volunteer for Finnish service. Many officers and men have resigned from the Swedish army to go to Finland to fight.

Estimates on the number of Swedish volunteers now bearing arms for Finland vary greatly. Dispatches from Copenhagen in January put the number at 6,000, but unofficial figures from Helsingfors estimated the total at about 1,000. It is known that at least four contingents of Swedish volunteers have reached Finland, and one of these contingents—according to reports from Stockholm —numbered 500 men.

Reports from the war front also have indicated that Swedish fliers have been active in Finland, especially in the Arctic Salla front and northeast of Lake Ladoga.

The newspaper Aftonbladet said that Finland, having failed to win direct aid from Sweden, has declared she either must conclude peace with Russia or get direct help from the western powers.

The paper said the Finns thus could be expected within a day or so to accept offers of military aid from the western powers against the Russian invasion. (Great Britain and France already are giving a large measure of military aid; Aftonbladet apparently means sending regular troops.)

Members of the Finnish cabinet, including Premier Risto Ryti and Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner, were said to have visited Stockholm last week to plead for immediate direct military help or a great increase in the Swedish volunteer corps.

After debating the matter four days, the paper said, the Swedish government decided it could not give direct aid, although the Finnish delegation said the alternatives were a peace "on conditions greatly concerning Sweden," or help from the west with the understanding that Sweden and Norway would permit passage of troops.

The Swedish Socialist newspaper Folkets Dagblad also reported that direct Swedish aid had been refused.

Although there was no official confirmation of these reports, Scandinavian political circles were described as believing there was no question but what Finnish need of aid was urgent.

TWO HANDSOME DOGS AWAIT OWNERSHIP IN THE CITY POUND

Two handsome black dogs, males, believed to be part Newfoundland, are awaiting ownership in the city pound, Poundkeeper Thos. Thorne stated today.

Obviously left in the city by their owner, the animal are well-trained and show signs of careful attention. Attracted by the beauty and breeding marks of the dogs, several dog-lovers of the city have offered a home for them. They will be retained in the city pound until tomorrow night, when if not claimed disposition will be made.

OSHAWA'S TAX RATE SET AT 33½ MILLS

Oshawa's tax rate will be one and one-half mills lower this year than last, its city council decided at a meeting last night. The new rate is 31½ mills as compared to 33 mills of 1939.

Madeleine Carroll, called by many the most beautiful star on the screen, has the title role in the Gaumont picture, "I Was A Spy," which comes to the McCarthy Theatre next week with Herbert Marshall co-starring and other prominent parts played by Conrad Yeidt and Nigel Bruce.

OPPOSES GEO. TUSTIN

Howard Weese, 35-year-old reeve of Ameliasburg township, Prince Edward County, and treasurer of the Prince Edward-Lennox Liberal Association, will carry the Liberal standard in the forthcoming Federal election for his riding, delegates to the adjourned convention at Napanee decided yesterday.

The first convention held in Napanee a week ago at which twelve names were placed before the delegates failed to bring out a candidate.

Yesterday seven names were placed before the convention and of these, Stuart Simmons, Wilton; Dr. E. Burnham Wyllie, West Lake, a former Presbyterian minister, and Mr. Weese, allowed their names to stand.

Weese carried the final ballot by a 49-19 count after Dr. Wyllie had been eliminated in first ballot by one vote. A motion for the unanimous endorsement of the successful nominee followed the announcement of his selection.

Lennox County supplied the largest representation at the well-attended meeting, only seven delegates appearing from Prince Edward County due to snow-filled roads.

The nomination of the Ameliasburg reeve is a departure from the usual custom in the selection of political representatives for the riding, Federal candidates usually being selected from Lennox and the provincial representatives from Prince Edward.

Mr. Weese will oppose George Tustin, Napanee, Conservative, and ex-sitting member for the riding.

CARS DAMAGED IN COLLISION

Two motorists came to slight grief at the foot of Murney Hill on W. Bridge Street last night when, as the result of not knowing the other's intentions, fenders were dented and tempers riled. A truck from Prince Edward County was proceeding westerly on Bridge Street, the driver intending to turn left onto Highway 14 and had swung to the centre of the street in preparation for the turn, when it collided with another car endeavouring to pass it. The left front fender of the truck was dented as was the right front fender of the auto, but as damages were slight the parties settled the matter amicably between themselves.

WM. "BILL" WILSON TAKES NEW POSITION

William "Bill" Wilson, employed with the Keyes Supply Company, for the past three years has accepted a position as sales representative for Slaters of Owen Sound and will take up his residence there in the near future. Slaters handle automobile supplies and accessories and have a large clientele especially in Western and Northern Ontario. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are popular in the city and many will regret their departure but congratulations are in order for his advancement in his chosen field.

Youths Placed on 18-Months Probation

Gerald Connors and Ray Woods, Belleville youths charged with taking a car for "joyriding" purposes, were placed on probation for eighteen months during which time they will report monthly to Chief of Police Alex Kidd, and must pay for damages done to the car amounting to $40.00 within six months, after pleading guilty in police court before Magistrate Lloyd of Northbrook today.

Woods pleading guilty to an additional charge of drunkenness, will serve ten days in the county jail being unable to pay the assessed fine of ten dollars and costs. Costs of court proceedings in the first charge amounting to $2.75 will be paid by Saturday the youths promised.

The first charges arose when the two youths took a car belonging to Douglas Lewis, of this city, and went "joyriding" a pleasure trip that suddenly ended when the car crashed into a telephone pole.

Allen Sprague, appearing for the defendants told the bench that although he represented them he would in no way be a guarantor of their promise to make restitution for damages to the car. He pleaded for suspended sentence in view of the fact that the youths had promised to make good the cost of damages.

Magistrate Lloyd addressing the youths told them he was going to accept the recommendation of counsel and place them on suspended sentence. He strongly advised them to go to work and secure the money with which to pay their obligations.

"If this is not done," he warned, "you will be brought back here and sent to jail."

Father Charged With Keeping Girl From Attending School

Oscar Preston, Cannifton Road resident appeared in police court today charged with deliberately keeping a school-age girl from attending school He pleaded guilty, but on recommendation of Crown Attorney B C. Donnan, the case was enlarged until March 29th, when if evidence is submitted to the effect that the accused has not sent the child to school without a reasonable excuse, a penalty will be asked for.

The charges were preferred by City Truant Officer Fred Wiggins, who produced a statement of the child's attendance in court. He had called at the Preston home on several occasions and was given a different excuse each time, he said.

Accused produced a doctors certificate after he had told the court that illness was the reason for his child's non-attendance. Magistrate Lloyd, however, ruled that the certificate merely showed that the child was now able to go to school.

He warned Preston, that further absence of the child from school without proper excuses, would result in a fine or jail sentence.

Clever Costumes In Annual O. S. D. Ice Carnival

The O.S.D. rink was the scene of an interesting event in the school year last evening when the annual ice carnival, postponed from last week, was held with splendid success. The pupils entered whole heartedly into the carnival spirit, the bright lights of the rink played on a variety of picturesque and amusing costumes.

Judging of the best costumes presented a difficult task but after much deliberation the prizes for the evening were awarded as follows:

Best Dressed Girl—Inez Harris.
Best Dressed Boy—George Margo.
Most Original Boys' Costume—Leonard Raynor.
Most Original and Best Comic Girls' Costumes — Phyllis Thompson and Helen Strabac.

Following skating for which the weatherman had contributed an ideal evening, the boys and girls were entertained to refreshments, bringing the carnival to an enjoyable conclusion.

European Immigrants Generally Make Good Citizens Says Speaker

Most of the people who migrated to Canada from European countries have a high code of ethics and the desire to fit themselves into the life of their new national home, according to Rev. James McKay of the Church of All Nations, Toronto, in addressing the Men's Association of Bridge Street United Church last evening.

From all over Europe these people had come to Canada either to escape oppression or to find a fuller opportunity to employ their talents. Canadian immigration agents had given them glowing pictures of the advantages of this country and had been the means of inducing many to turn this way in seeking new homes, said Mr. McKay. They had undertaken any task, no matter how menial, in order to establish themselves.

Most people looked upon foreigners as disturbers, the speaker observed, but his experience had been very much to the contrary. Most of them would do anything to avoid going on relief, and it was only when they were driven to desperation that they turned to radical means of asserting their needs.

Mr. McKay told numerous stories of his contacts with the peoples of over thirty nations; how through the efforts of the church prejudices centuries old were broken down, and the different groups learned to live in harmony, one with the others.

"I believe the Almighty had a great purpose in bringing these people to this country," he declared. "That purpose was to teach them and us to live in harmony and thus set an example that would have its effect on the Old World."

The monthly supper meeting of the Men's Association was presided over by Mr. W. J. Morrison, who introduced the speaker.

HECKLERS GIVE ARTHUR ROEBUCK

Mackenzie King and his government.

"Where was he and that other pea shooter, Col. Drew, when Duplessis tried to scuttle Canadian unity?" asked Mr. Roebuck. "Three of Mr. King's Cabinet Ministers took their political lives in their hands and fought Duplessis. What did Hepburn and Drew do? They sat back, hoping, no doubt, that Duplessis would win."

Praises King Gov't

"What has this government done?" he asked, then answered. "On sea Canada need no longer sponge on the British Navy to protect our trade routes on this side of the Atlantic. In the air Canada is playing the biggest part in the Empire training scheme. On land she had enlisted 100,000 men and equipped and sent one whole division overseas.

"And not," he added quickly, "with boots with paper soles or guns that jammed in action. No body of soldiers ever left Canada so well clad as the First Division C.A.S.F.

"And how about food," he asked. "Where is the bully beef scandal of the last war." The salt pork and butter that wasn't fit to eat, the profiteering of the food barons. The answer is, there is none. That's what this government of Mackenzie King has done."

LITTLE CHANGE IN LABOR SITUATION

Toronto, Feb. 16—(CP) — Little material change was reported today in the industrial conditions in Ontario in the weekly reports from the employment offices of the Labor Department. Demand for farm help was mostly stable with Owen Sound saying that "indications are that there will be a scarcity of farm help."

Sarnia reported a noticeable increase in the registration of married men for farm work. Trade generally was "very quiet." Pembroke said things were better because of the re-employment of 80 men at the Petawawa military camp.

At Brantford there were 350 fewer unemployed registered than a year ago. Farm implement manufacturers had a pay roll of 1,600 better than last year but still 400 to 500 below the 1929 level. The January relief rolls showed 3,193 persons, compared with 5,061 a year ago.

Hamilton said there was no shortage of skilled labor. All firms with war orders are canvassed daily to make sure there is no hold up in production.

It will be six weeks before Kingston ship yards can start on their national defence orders, the employment service reported. Material will not arrive before that time.

London said factories were not taking on any extra men. On relief here in January were 4,028 persons compared to 5,896 a year ago. Niagara Falls said "No change in the industrial situation. Factories are all running on a full time basis with indications pointing to staff increases within a short time."

Demand for good machinists and tool makers with supply very limited, was reported from St. Catharines. Manufacturers reported business improving generally.

Registration of unemployed building mechanics showed considerable increase at St. Thomas. Construction was expected to start this week on new buildings at the Royal Canadian Air Force training centre.

Windsor said "there was no material change in conditions in the automobile industries." Last week there were 9,705 persons on relief, an increase of 32 over the previous week.

Restrictions Relaxed

London, Feb. 16 (CP) — Great Britain and France have concluded an accord considerably relaxing restrictions on their mutual trade, it was announced today.

The new agreement, latest of the wartime developments which have brought the two nations steadily closer together, was drawn up by Sir Andrews Duncan, president of the Board of Trade, and the French Minister of Commerce, Fernan Gentin. It is aimed further to develop trade between the two countries.

Following are the bequests: St. Mary's Cathedral, $10,000; Hotel Dieu hospital, $7,000; St. Mary's of the Lake Orphanage, $1,000.

CAPTAIN MAXWELL JOINS R. C. A. F.

Maxwell Trained Fliers in Camp Borden and Texas During Great War

Toronto, Feb. 16—(CP) — Captain Roy Maxwell, one of Canada's best-known fliers, has enlisted with the Royal Canadian Air Force training command here with the rank of flying officer it was learned today. He is 47.

Maxwell trained fliers in Camp Borden and Texas during the first Great War. In 1920 he made history by taking the first flight to Moose Factory on James Bay. He has made many "mercy flights" and in 1924 was made head of the newly-formed provincial air service, which he organized and directed until 1935.

Before joining the R.C.A.F. he was with Baillie-Maxwell Ltd., which operated from Nakina, Ont., and carried freight by airplane.

ELDERLY WOMAN DIVORCES HUSBAND

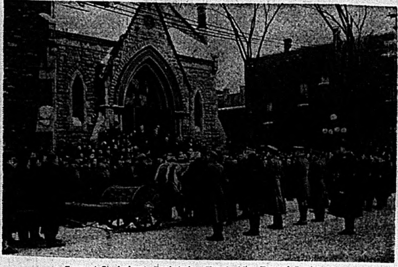
Elizabeth, N.J., Feb. 16—(AP)—Mrs. Emma Osborn, 82, mother of a 62-year-old son by a former marriage, was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty from her 62-year-old second husband. Mrs. Osborn charged among other things that Dr. Harry C. Osborn criticized her for doing things for the son during the 27 years of their marriage.

SENDING TANKS TO FINLAND

Paris, Feb. 16 (AP)—A French government spokesman said today France is sending a great many anti-tank guns to Finland as well as other artillery and airplanes.

He added that any foreign resident in France volunteering to join the Finnish army would be permitted to leave the country.

Canada Pays Its Last Respects To Beloved Governor-General



Scene at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church After Funeral Service

Funeral Procession Leaving Parliament Hill

Through hushed streets of the Dominion's capital, lined with thousands of persons waiting in reverent silence, the body of Canada's Governor-General was conveyed in a flagdraped casket from the Senate Chamber of the Parliament Buildings to St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, where a simple funeral service was held. After the funeral service, the casket was borne from the church and placed upon a gun carriage and drawn through packed streets to the Union Station by crews of the R.C.N.V.R.

Newly-Named County Judge is a Son of the Manse

Charles A. Cameron Pays Tribute to Fine Record of Service on Bench of Judge Deroche, Now Retiring After 32 or More Years—Says Judge Deroche is Inspiration to All Who Follow Him—New Judge's Study of Law Interrupted by Service Overseas—His Career

Messages of congratulation have poured in on Mr. Charles A. Cameron, whose appointment as judge of the County Court for Hastings, in succession to His Honour Judge G. E. Deroche who has retired after more than thirty years' service on the Bench, was announced late Thursday afternoon from the office of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King at Ottawa. On Thursday afternoon and during the evening many friends extended their expressions of congratulation to the new judge. Today the stream of messages continue to come in to the popular lawyer and former member of the House of Commons for Hastings South.

Pays Tribute to Judge Deroche

One of Mr. Cameron's first acts following his appointment, was to pay tribute to the career of service which it has been privileged Judge Deroche to give to the Country and the Province. He referred to the retirement of Judge Deroche as "the loss which this county will suffer after his long years of outstanding service." He pointed to the record of the retired Judge, his fine qualities of fairness and impartiality and said that he would long be "an inspiration to those who follow him."

His Honour Judge Deroche is wintering with Mrs. Deroche at Glendale, California, to which they drove by motorcar some months ago.

When Mr. Cameron will receive the patent of authority and when he will be sworn in as Judge is not known.

Interested in Veterans

The new appointee to the County Court Bench has always been interested in the cause of World-War veterans and this morning found him out of the city looking after the interest of one of the men who fought in the last Great War.

Mr. Cameron's appointment to the Bench in the county in which he has spent the past nineteen years and more will mean that the new judge will continue his residence in the city of Belleville, though the duties of his office will take him about the court district. Hastings is associated with District No. 9 which comprises the courts in the Counties of Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward County and Hastings.

Of Scottish Canadian Ancestry

The new judge comes of Scottish Canadian stock and is a native of that part of Eastern Ontario where the Scottish population is strong. Both his parents were born in Canada, his father being the Rev. Hugh Cameron, D.D., who resides in Ottawa and his mother, deceased, Martha D. Rose of Kingston.

Charles A. Cameron was born November 29th., 1892, at Morrisburg, Ontario and attended public school and high school in his native town.

After completing his studies at the Collegiate he attended Queen's University at Kingston and was graduated as Bachelor of Arts in 1913. In attending Queen's the new judge followed in the footprints of his father and other members of his family. There he studied history and political science, the course most used by young men seeking an Arts course in preparation for the study of law. Leaving Queen's, Mr. Cameron went to Alberta and began the study of law.

But the call of King and Country took him away from his studies and he enlisted in June 1916 with the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry. With this unit he served in France. Then he was commissioned to the Northamptonshire Regiment and served in France. He was transferred to the Royal Air Force and was associated with the Balloon Observation Department of the R.A.F. Throughout his war service he passed without injury.

On his return to Canada he took up the study of law at Osgoode Hall and was graduated in May 1920. In the late autumn of that year he came to Belleville and took over the practice of the late Francis S. Wallbridge. His brother Mr. A. R. Cameron followed and joined the firm of Cameron and Cameron of which he is still a member.

Lives on Queen Street

In the year 1924, Mr. Charles Cameron married Miss Katharine Eileen Cook, daughter of Dr. George E. Cook of St. George Street, Toronto. In Belleville Mr. and Mrs. Cameron reside at 29 Queen Street with their five children, Roderick, (Roddie), age 14 years, Eileen, 12 years, Hugh, 9 years, Katharine 6 year and Elizabeth, 18 months.

Mr. Cameron was created King's Counsel in 1935. In the same year he was elected as Liberal candidate for Hastings South in the General elections for the House of Commons.

He is a first cousin of Senator Herbert H. Horsey of Ottawa, who is well known in the Bay of Quinte section.

It was natural to a son of the manse that he should be deeply interested in the church. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, has owed a great deal to Mr. Cameron who has served it in many capacities. He is at present superintendent of the Sunday School. He is also a member of Queen's University Council and of the Board of Administration of Knox College in the University of Toronto and also of the General Board of Administration of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. He has served on the Board of Education of Belleville. He is president of the Belleville Branch of the Concert Association.

As a veteran of the Great War, Mr. Cameron was able to lend his services to the veterans' work after the war. He was secretary of the United Veterans' Association in Belleville for some time. In the House of Commons he has served on the special committee in relation to pension reform.

His political service is well-known both in his former constituency, and in Ottawa, where he enjoyed a well-merited share of popularity with his House of Commons colleagues. His efforts in the development of the Trenton base of the Royal Canadian Air Force are testified in the present modern structures and equipment of that place. He was largely instrumental in bringing to Belleville the latest Dominion Entomological Laboratory to be erected.

Retired Judge Native of Newburgh

Judge Deroche, who is succeeded by Mr. Cameron, was born in Newburgh, Ont., the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Deroche. He is 71 years of age. For some time he taught public school and turning his attention to law was articled to the firm of Deroche and Madden at Napanee and studied law at Osgoode Hall, Toronto. After graduation he practised his profession for a time at Deseronto. While resident there he contested the Federal riding of East Hastings in the general elections of 1906 against the late William B. Northrup, K.C.

It was a year or two later when he was appointed County Judge for Hastings, being then the youngest county judge or one of the youngest county judges of the Province. He was then 37 years of age. To him was given the opportunity for long and honourable service on the Bench.

Active in Church Work

When he came to Belleville to make his home here Judge Deroche became greatly interested in Bridge Street Church and all its activities. He founded the Business Men's Bible Class and was its teacher. This class he conducted for a number of years and he was able to exert a great influence in the work of the church in its relation to young men and older men. It honoured him with many church offices. He was prominent in the Laymen's Movement of some years ago and at the present time he is an elder of the church.

Crew of Freighter Landed at New York

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)— 12 members of the British freighter Sea Rambler, rescued from their sinking craft last Saturday about 540 miles east of St. Johns, Nfld., arrived today on the Norwegian freighter Mosdale.

"It was a magnificent piece of seamanship," said Alexander McLean, 34, of Lossiemouth, Scotland, describing how Thor Bille, third mate of the Mosdale, worked his lifeboat crew through heavy seas and a blinding snowstorm.

The Sea Rambler, a 2,327-ton vessel built in 1930, struck a gale which sent tons of water pounding over her decks. On the night of Feb. 9 a comber smashed in the No. 2 hatch and the ship began sinking.

The Kala Knudsen, arriving on the scene, suggested waiting for better weather, Captain Steve said, but he thought the weather might get worse, so his men went overside. The Kala Knudsen, not to be outdone, sent a boat over and took off 13 men.

Seamen on Cruisers Exeter and Ajax Royally Entertained

Plymouth, England, Feb. 16 (CP) —Three hundred seamen from the cruisers Ajax and Exeter, veterans of the battle with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, received a riotous welcome today as they marched through crowded streets to the Guildhall, where they were entertained at lunch by the Lord Mayor, Viscount Astor.

Running from the sidewalks, girls seized the arms of many of the marching sailors and kept step with them. A cheering throng of 10,000 persons crowded the Guildhall Square.

The Exeter, still bearing the scars of the naval engagement in which the Graf Spee was driven into Montevideo harbor, December 13 arrived here yesterday. The Ajax had reached home water some time previously.

Central Ontario Political Forces Preparing for Coming Campaign

All Constituencies Have Candidates Chosen Except Liberals of S. Hastings, Durham and Peterborough West — Real Battle Expected in Northumberland

THREE AT KINGSTON

Liberal forces, in swift reconnaissance action to select candidates for various ridings in this district following the Federal Government's decision to hold an election in March, are gradually settling down to campaign groundwork while Conservatives are busy consolidating their work in organization trenches dug months prior to the announcement.

To the casual observer, the feature "bout" of the electoral tournament in this district will take place in Northumberland when dynamic William (Billy) Fraser, Liberal stalwart who has held the seat for ten years, will oppose equally-dynamic Jamieson Bone, ex-mayor of Belleville.

Both are witty, clever speakers, at times a bit fiery-tongued perhaps, and electors of the sister county foresee a brilliant campaign in which both sides will neither ask nor give quarter.

Prince Edward-Lennox will witness for the first time in years a Prince Edward County candidate contesting a Federal seat. Conservatives will place their faith in member, who will cross election swords with Howard Weese, reeve of Ameliasburg, and Liberal standard-bearer, who was nominated as candidate in Napanee on Thursday after a previous convention had failed to bring forth a candidate.

In Hastings-Peterboro, Rorke Ferguson, Norham, and ex-member of the last government will oppose George White, Madoc lawyer, selected as Conservative candidate at nominations held a few months ago.

In Hastings South, while George Stokes, Conservative choice is busily laying the foundation of his campaign, rumor is rife as to who will succeed Judge C. A. Cameron, former M.P. who resigned a few weeks ago on account of ill-health.

Several names have been mentioned as possible successors to the former member but nothing definite will be decided until Nomination Day which falls on February 21st.

In Frontenac-Addington, both forces are ready for the fray with Angus McCallum seeking re-election under the Liberal banner and W. R. Aylesworth leading the Conservative attack.

In Peterborough West, Conservatives have named Gordon Fraser, as their Standard Bearer while Liberals must name a candidate to succeed J. J. Duffus, ex-sitting member recently appointed to the Senate. The same condition applies to Durham County where W. R. Strike has been selected Conservative candidate with the Liberal nominee yet to be appointed.

Kingston City will be the locale of a three-cornered battle with all three warriors nominated and preparing for the fray. Bearing the Liberal colors is the Hon. Norman Rogers, present Minister of National Defence; the Conservative nominee is T. A. Kidd, while Dr. A. E. Ross, has entered the lists as an Independent.

According to an unofficial tabulation today, figures show that a total of 336 candidates in the Dominion have been endorsed by constituency political associations. Of these, the Liberals have 119 candidates in the field, and the Conservatives 115. The C.C.F. have nominated 71 candidates and the balance is made up of various political factions including Social Crediters, Communists and Independents.

One hundred and forty-six candidates have been selected in Ontario's eighty-two ridings. With the present rush of conventions, all are expected to name candidates within the next few days.

MAGISTRATE MAKES RULING

London, Ont., Feb. 16 (CP) — City police shouldn't arrest soldiers on minor charges but should turn them over to military authorities, City Magistrate D. B. Menzies said today in the case of a soldier hailed before the court for disorderly conduct. The charge was withdrawn by the magistrate and the man was handed to military police for discipline by his commanding officers.

SCOTSMEN SEEK REVERSE OF BAN

London, Feb. 16—(CP-Cable)—Determined to save the kilt for Scotland's famous regiments, the chiefs of Highland Clans and Scottish members of parliament visited the war office today to seek reversal of the ban on the kilt as a battle dress.

The group interviewed Sir Victor Warrender, financial secretary to the war office, and army officers, and a promise was obtained that the whole case will be laid before Oliver Stanley, Secretary of State for war.

It was made clear that the group seeks retention of the kilt not merely as a walking out dress but as battle dress. It was argued that in the last war kilted regiments suffered no more from gas attacks than other regiments. The war office has contented that poison gases might cause severe burns to exposed knees.

Cheese Producers Want Price Pegged Below That Now Being Paid

Many Feel That Present Price Level Endangers Export

Ottawa, Feb. 16—Canadian cheese producers are hoping to peg the price of their product well below the price now being paid on the open market reports The Globe and Mail.

Ontario cheese producers, meeting in Ottawa Friday, viewed with anxiety the prospect of maintaining the present price structure, which, for the first time in years, has made it more profitable to produce cheese than to produce butter. Two pounds of cheese should equal the price of one pound of butter. Actually cheese is now eight cents out of line.

The situation was debated at length in the sessions Thursday and at even greater length in the corridors. The price of cheese is of great importance to the whole dairy industry, as it is the one product for which demand is greater than supply. If the price of cheese can be kept up more milk will flow to the cheese factories, the Canadian butter surplus will disappear and the price of butter will rise to a profitable level for producers.

Since the war started the Canadian Government has been attempting to negotiate a long-term cheese contract with the British Ministry of food. Last September, New Zealand signed a contract for the whole year's output at 75 shillings per cwt., equivalent to 13 cents a pound. This was just at the end of the Canadian cheese season, and British officials suggested to the British cheese trade that the Canadian price be kept down to 78 shillings.

Doubt Price to Hold

But fear of a shortage of Canadian cheddar, which is used very largely for putting a zip in British blended cheese, started competitive bidding which shot the Canadian price up to 111 shillings.

Producers admitted that this price would make them very happy if it could be held in the summer production season. In the winter, only a very few factories operate, so farmers are in the position of having a good price, but no cheese to sell, and that price is already beginning to slip.

Discussion today indicated that a price of 82 shillings per hundredweight, or 14 cents a pound, would be acceptable and if the Canadian Government can negotiate a contract for all Canada's exportable surplus at this price, the cheesemen will be happy.

The members today expressed great pleasure with the way the Federal Government bonus on high quality had worked out. Ontario farmers earned bonuses totalling $499,196.

There is a strong feeling that this bonus should be maintained throughout the war so that Canadian cheese will establish more firmly than ever its reputation for quality on the British market. Cheese men hope that Canadian cheese will be sold on the British domestic market, while New Zealand cheese goes to the troops in France. With quality maintained, there is a strong possibility that Canada can re-establish cheese in its old place of importance as a Canadian export.

By unanimous vote, the convention approved affiliation and financial support for the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture.

The 300 delegates, representing some 24,000 Ontario farmers, decided that a Dominion organization fully representative of the agricultural industry would be more effective in furthering the interests of the industry than unco-ordinated efforts of a score of unaffiliated organizations.

H. H. Hannam, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, told the delegates that farmers must be conscious of legislation affecting their welfare, and if their suggestions for legislation were to be made effective, a Dominion Chamber of Agriculture would receive more consideration from Governments than individual organizations.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

Toronto, Feb. 16—(CP)—Charged with perjury, Olive Esther McAlister, 33, of Toronto, was arrested last night by Toronto Detective-Sergeants William McAllister and Norman Tinsley and Provincial Officer Dave Adair of Belleville. The officers allege the woman applied for a marriage licence in Belleville on Feb. 8 and swore she was single when she was married.

Probabilities

Moderate northeast winds; fair. Sunday, partly cloudy and comparatively mild; probably light snow in some districts.

Russian Flier Seen Proceeding Towards Important Industrial City of Tampere—Finns State They Can Stand Harder Smashes Than Have Been Delivered

Helsingfors, Feb. 17 (AP). — The Finnish high command today balanced an announcement that its forces on the Karelian Isthmus had withdrawn to "new positions" with a victory at Kuhmo, on the eastern front, in which 1,800 Russians were killed.

The great battle on the isthmus, in its 17th day, continued unabated, tonight's communique said, admitting that "our forces withdrew in some places to new positions farther back" between the Gulf of Finland and the Vuoksi River.

The battle in the Kuhmo sector lasted several days, the Finns declared, and ended in complete destruction of Russian "special skiing groups" consisting of three battalions and reconnaissance detachment."

Another Finnish success was reported in the dispersal of "several columns consisting of about 180 sleds altogether" attempting to advance across the ice of Lake Ladoga.

Only remnants of the Russian force at Kuhmo "succeeded in es-

Why The Weather?

By Major A H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Indoor climate! Much has already been done in modifying indoor conditions for greater comfort. There seems to be however, a limit to which modification may be pushed because of the danger of making too great a contrast between indoor and outdoor conditions. Air conditioning has done much for comfort and to raise the vigor and consequently the production of workers. Relief has also been obtained through filtering the air and securing the proper amount of humidity. Since Americans owe much of their energy to the changeability of the climate, it is probable that too uniform conditions may not be so effectual as changes from day to day or from hour to hour.

Chamberlain Umbrella Sought as Souvenir

London, Feb. 17 (CP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain's umbrella — or one of his famous umbrellas — may yet be the proud possession of a colonel in the Canadian Active Service Force.

A group of Canadian soldiers on leave, walking through Whitehall yesterday, wandered up narrow Downing Street and entered the portal of No. 10, historic residence of the prime minister.

To one of Mr. Chamberlain's secretaries who received them, they said they would like nothing better than to take back to their colonel at Aldershot a Chamberlain umbrella.

The secretary promised an umbrella would be forwarded to them.

Later the Canadians went to The Guildhall. As they were being shown through the building they noticed a quill pen lying near the Lord Mayor's chair and there as a wild scramble for a souvenir.

When the scramble subsided the soldiers took turns sitting in the historic civic seat of London's chief magistrate.

Friends of John Buchan In Elsfield Village Pay Their Tribute

(By Fred Backhouse, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Elsfield, England, Feb. 17—(CP-Cable)—In the tiny 12th century church of this Oxfordshire village, friends of John Buchan gathered today to pay tribute to his memory.

For a score of years this has been the family church of the Buchans of Elsfield Manor. From the ancient oaken lectern the future Governor-General of Canada often read the lesson.

Today retainers from the village, who loved Mr. Buchan, the man who was always interested in their welfare, stood at the side of learned professors come to pay the homage of Oxford University to one of her most brilliant sons.

Eulogy Delivered

More than 200 mourners heard Professor Gilbert Murray, for many years Regius Professor of Greek at Oxford, deliver an eulogy of the late Lord Tweedsmuir.

The new Lord Tweedsmuir, in the uniform of Lieutenant of the Canadian Active Service Force, stood beside Miss Anna Buchan, sister of the late Governor-General of Canada. Hon. William Buchan, another son, was with Hon. Mrs. Norman Grosvenor, Lady Tweedsmuir's mother.

Among other relatives present were Colonel and Mrs. Arthur Grenfell, cousins of Lord Tweedsmuir, and Mrs. Peyton Jones, sister of Lady Tweedsmuir and. Mr. Jones.

The hymns were "Old Hundredth" and Bunyan's Pilgrim's song. The psalms were the 23rd and the 15th.

Nazis Press Their Conception Of Neutrality on Neutrals

Berlin, Feb. 17—(AP)— Adolf Hitler's newspaper declared today that "The German people never will forget" any nations refusing a "moderate" Nazi demand that they adhere to the German conception of neutrality.

The Volkischer Beobachter criticized Belgium and Switzerland particularly, and asserted neutrality means more than "renunciation of direct warlike acts: or "lip service for official usage."

"We believe that neutrals are obliged to record war events and the attitude of belligerent nations at least objectively," the newspaper said in developing a theme first expressed by Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels last week.

"Under the protective cloak of "democratic freedom of opinion," the newspaper added, "the views, acts and aims of a German nation of 80,000,000 intentionally are suppressed or misrepresented, but the claims of her opponents are reproduced to the greatest extent and supported."

The newspaper said Belgian citizens are "making propaganda for Belgium's participation in the war" by writing from Brussels for the French newspapers. It also criticized the "vulgar scolding" of "foreigners speaking high German" in Berne, Switzerland.

"It is only a step from these symptomatic occurrences to actual violation of neutrality," Hitler's organ continued. "Here lies the danger which forces us to the most careful watchfulness. . . ."

MANION PROMISES BETTER SHARE OF U.K. WHEAT MART

Charges Liberal Gov't, With Failure to Negotiate Wheat Agreement Due to Lack of Vision and Initiative

ADVOCATES PARLEY

Quite Possible, Says Manion, Woman May be Included in National Government Cabinet if Party Returned

Brandon, Man., Feb. 17 (CP).—An effort to make a deal with the British government for a better share of the United Kingdom wheat market was pledged here last night by Conservative leader R. J. Manion, making his first general election campaign speech in Western Canada.

In the first of two major addresses here, Dr. Manion charged the Liberal administration of Prime Minister Mackenzie King with failing to negotiate a wheat agreement with Great Britain recently because of lack of vision and initiative.

The Conservative leader discussed his wheat policy in a speech at the city hall and said he would define it further in his address at Regina tonight.

Three Youths To be Charged With Armed Robbery

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 17 (CP). — Three Chatham youths, captured following a police chase last night near Lambeth while riding in an allegedly stolen automobile, will be brought here today on charges of armed robbery on a Palmyra storekeeper and car theft.

The three, Jack Schamahorn, 18; Edmund Jewess, 18, and James Rhodes, 17, also are charged by London police with having offensive weapons. Police here charge the trio held up F. B. Kenny, Palmyra storekeeper, late yesterday and obtained a supply of gasoline. The car in which they were riding was taken from a Chatham street late yesterday.

Provincial Constable P. J. Grant of the London division said that when he brought the three to a halt by waving a revolver following a chase of more than a mile, he found them in possession of a loaded revolver, a hunting knife and a butcher knife in concealed sheaths.

CATS NOT "PROPERTY"

Towanda, Pa., Feb. 17 (AP)—No one can "steal" a cat because it's not "property" under United States law, says Justice of the Peace O. L. Grenell. With that decision, he dismissed Irving Johnson's theft charges against Mrs. Lydia Draper. Both claimed ownership of the same 12-year-old tabby.

Possibility of Germany Violating Neutrality Of Holland Problem

(By Sam Robertson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 17—(CP)—Possibility of Germany violating the neutrality of Holland, Belgium or both in an effort to strike a telling blow at Great Britain and France is one of the major problems facing the Allied command.

Fear of such an invasion has risen and fallen several times in recent months and it is to be expected it will appear again for the so-called low countries are a standing temptation to aggressive Hitlerism. However, such an invasion could have disadvantages as weighty as any advantages to be gained.

For instance, if the Nazis managed to overrun Belgium they would be in position to turn the main Maginot defence and strike at the portion of the French frontier least strongly fortified. But such a move would add more than 1,000,000 men—the fighting forces of the low countries—to the Allies' strength and extend the front operations.

A Nazi attack on the neighborly neutrals probably would cause the Allies to go to their rescue and this would draw a portion of the British and French forces out of their prepared defensive positions. But to the distinct disadvantage of Germany, it would throw open a direct air route from the British Isles to important industrial centres, of northwest Germany. These areas are approachable by British bombers only by a long and circuitous route.

Perhaps the most important gain the Nazis could achieve by violating the low countries is that it would provide advanced bases for air attacks on Britain and sea bases for submarines operating in the North Sea and the channel.

However, if the Nazis were unable to thrust through to the seaboard then the advantage likely would be with the Allies. The Nazis then would be more vulnerable to sea and air attacks launched from Britain.

FINLAND RECEIVES WAR MATERIALS FROM THE FRENCH

'Many' Planes, Shipment Hand Grenades and Artillery Have Arrived in Finland

NO FIGURES GIVEN

Paris, Feb. 17 (AP) — Military sources said today France has opened her stocks of war material, both old and modern, to help the Finns fight Russia.

Planes, anti-tank guns, heavy artillery, automatic weapons, and large quantities of other munitions have arrived in Finland, these sources said.

Among the consignments said to have been put to use already by the Finns at the front was a shipment of hand grenades which left France January 15.

The statement by military sources was the first comprehensive report of French aid to Finland since the League of Nations approved assistance to the embattled republic.

"Many French planes' have joined the Finnish squadrons, the military spokesmen said.

French officials declined to give exact figures on various types of material because such information would be of use to Russia. They said however that at the request of the Finnish government French heavy artillery of types used in the first great war and modern anti-tank guns had been dispatched.

The Finns were reported to have preferred the old type heavy artillery for certain types of action.

"Finland has an unlimited credit in our old material," a French spokesman said. He added that through a skillfully devised transport system all the aid has arrived safely.

France will continue to send aid, the spokesman declared.

Military dispatches from Finland indicated, French sources said, the Finnish situation is serious, but "not critical".

French experts pointed out that although the Russians have a foothold in the first Finnish defence line there exist "six or seven" additional lines which are fortified strongly.

Prisoners Freed From German Ship Landed in England

London, Feb 17—(CP)— H. M. S. Cossack landed British prisoners freed from the German prison ship Altmark at Leith, Scotland, this afternoon.

Ambulances were waiting for the injured.

The vessel docked at 3:40 p.m. (10:40 a.m. EST).

Leith is on the south side of the Firth of Forth.

The rescued men were taken away in ambulances and buses as great crowds outside the dock gates raised a roar of cheers audible half a mile away.

SWEDEN LEAVES DOOR OPEN TO HARASSED FINNS

Private Supplies and Volunteer Fighters Can Still Pass Through Country

PRESS OUTSPOKEN

London, Feb. 17 (CP)—Sweden's barrier against passage of foreign troops to fight for harassed Finland still leaves the way open for private supplies and volunteer fighters, diplomatic sources here said today.

In some quarters, Sweden's "no." to Finland's desperate appeal for help against Soviet Russia was considered to have left Great Britain and France as the only possible source of aid. Both already are sending quantities of munitions and planes.

Premier Per Albin Hansson's statement yesterday that Stockholm had declined Finland's request for the "transport of Swedish military groups to Finland" evoked warning editorials in the Daily Mail and the Daily Express, both captioned "SOS".

"Sweden knows her own necessities", the Express declared, "but if the day comes when she is confronted by threats, let her remember she turned a deaf ear to her neighbor's clamor for aid."

May Rue Decision.

The Daily Mail similarly suggested that "maybe the day will come when she will have cause to rue that decision." The Mail argued that the United States should help Finland by selling her guns, munitions and planes in "her hour of peril".

Although Britain and France were held to regard it virtually impossible to send large numbers of trained men to the Finnish fronts quickly, an informed source said they might consult again within the next few days on the Finns' urgent plight.

The belief was expressed here that direct intervention might lead to closer German-Russian relations and create new fronts in the western war.

British volunteers continued filing their applications for enlistment with the Finnish army. A Royal decree permitting British volunteers to serve in the Finnish army was published last night in the London Gazette.

German Tanker, Baldur, Seen Passing Outside Territorial Waters, Scuttled for Fear of Capture by British Warships

London, Feb. 17.—(CP) —Rescue of 300 to 400 British Merchant seamen from the German prison ship Altmark by British warships was reported today by the Admiralty.

In a battle in a narrow Norwegian Fjord, four Germans were killed and five wounded severely, while the British forces suffered one casualty, it reported.

The Altmark, a 12,000-ton specially built vessel, resisted capture with her three six-inch guns, British reports said, but one destroyer got alongside and delivered the prisoners.

At the same time the Altmark battle was in progress, the Admiralty said, the German tanker Baldur, was seen passing outside territorial waters. The Baldur crew scuttled her when the British demanded she halt.

The Admiralty said it had searched for the Altmark since the Battle of Montevideo, which ended in the destruction of the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

Herald Tribune Pays Tribute To British Navy

New York, Feb. 17 (CP) — The New York Herald Tribune today paid tribute to the "silent pressure of sea power" being waged against Germany by the "men from Plymouth and Portsmouth and Bristol and the Thames."

In an editorial prompted by the arrival at Plymouth of the cruiser Exeter one of the cruisers which defeated the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off Montevideo, the newspaper said the Exeter, with the Ajax and the Achilles, "has fulfilled the tradition once again and reminded the world that the British navy is still there." It added:

"The Exeter and her battle with the Graf Spee only dramatized the ceaseless dangers of patrol, the perils and discomforts of the minesweeping flotillas, the hardihood of the destroyer crews . . . .

"It may be hackneyed, but one cannot help quoting Mahan's famous line again: 'Those far distant, storm-beaten ships, upon which the grand army never looked, stood between it and the dominion of the world'."

Admiralty Communique On Rescue of Seamen From German Cruiser

London, Feb. 17—(CP)—Following is the text of the admiralty communique today describing the release of 300 to 400 captive British merchant seamen from the German "prison ship" Altmark by British destroyers:

It will be remembered that the Graf Spee sank seven British merchant ships in the south Atlantic before Christmas. The officers were made prisoners on board the pocket battleship and were tolerably treated.

The seamen, on the other hand, were confined in the Altmark, an auxiliary of the British fleet, which according to reports of the British prisoners liberated from the Graf Spee was armed with concealed guns.

Hardships Inflicted

Between 300 and 400 British merchant seamen were held prisoners in this vessel and, upon evidence of those of them who were transferred to the Graf Spee and later rescued, grievous hardships and severities were inflicted upon them.

Since then the Altmark vanished from the seas and no trace of her could be found until it appeared on the 15th of February that she was moving down the Norwegian coast, taking advantage of its peculiar configuaration and endeavoring to convey these three or four hundred British merchant seamen captives through Norwegian territorial waters to confinement in Germany.

Reconnaissance Made

Accordingly certain of his Majesty's ships which were conveniently disposed were set in motion and certain aircraft reconnaissances were made, as a result of which a vessel bearing the name of Altmark and conforming in every respect to her description, yesterday afternoon took refuge in the Norwegian fjord of Josing after having been sighted by coastal reconnaissance aircraft and intercepeted by his Majesty's ship Intrepid, Commander R. C. Gordon, Royal Navy.

Orders were given by the Admiralty with full authority of His Majesty's government to enter neutral waters, search the Altmark and rescue any prisoners if found on board.

Josing Fjord has a dead end and two Norwegian gun boats appeared at its mouth. The British commander Captain P. L. Vian, Royal Navy, of His Majesty's ship Cossack, was instructed to offer to place a joint British and Norwegian guard upon the ship and to escort it with British and Norwegian warships to Bergen, where a search could be conducted and the whole matter investigated according to international law. This offer was not accepted.

Had Permission to Use Waters

The captain of the Norwegian gunboat stated that the ship was unarmed, that he knew nothing about any prisoners on board, and that she had been examined at Bergen the day before and had received permission to use Norwegian

Norway Protests to Great Britain Over Action of British Warship's Crew Boarding German Armed Prison Vessel After Hand-to-Hand Battle

WANTS CAPTIVES

Dramatic Encounter Between British Destroyer and Altmark Graphically Described in Norwegian Communique Published at Oslo

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 17 (AP)—Norway protested to Great Britain today over the action of a British warship in boarding the German armed prison vessel Altmark and removing captive British merchant seamen after a hand-to-hand battle in Norwegian territorial waters.

Five German seamen were reported killed in the struggle when the German craft took refuge in Gjessingfjord near Stavanger.

Norway was reported to have asked Britain to return the British prisoners, pay compensation and in the future respect Norwegian sovereignty and territorial waters.

Communique Wording

The dramatic encounter between a British destroyer and the Altmark was described in a Norwegian communique published here which said:

"The German steamship Altmark yesterday afternoon arrived in Gjessingfjord escorted by a Norwegian torpedo boat. The ships were stopped by two British destroyers giving warning shots.

"Soon after five other British torpedo boats and a British warship arrived. The Norwegian vessel protested twice, and the Altmark and Norwegian torpedo boat entered Gjessingfjord while the British ships disappeared outside territorial waters.

"Later in the evening one of the British destroyers returned using searchlights. About 11 p.m. (5 p.m. EST) a British warship followed and stopped alongside the Altmark taking on board some of the British citizens who had been on the German ship whereafter the British warship disappeared."

Columbus, Ind., Feb. 17 (AP) — Members of the Nethel Baptist Church at nearby Walesboro met to burn the paid-off mortgage on the church property. As they assembled fire started in the church from an unknown origin and the congregation stood helplessly by as the debt-free property was destroyed. They estimated loss at $8,000.

British Ships Must Protect Crews Against Machine-Gun Attacks

London, Feb. 17—(CP)—The admiralty announced today all British ships must provide protection against machine-gun attack from enemy aircraft for their crew before leaving any port in the United Kingdom.

Simultaneously, Great Britain started registering an estimated 250,000 youths of 23 today for war service.

The admiralty order was effective immediately, and while it was only announced today, it was dated Feb. 14.

Ship owners were told they would be advised from time to time on the kind of protective equipment that would be required.

The mobilization program was stepped up to permit the quick absorption of the new recruits and to place 2,500,000 men under arms before 1941. Youths being registered today are expected to be called to army camp early in March.

A British pilot was reported to have bombed a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday as it submerged. The bomb was said to have struck just ahead of the disappearing periscope, and patches of oil appeared on the surface. The submarine, apparently destroyed or crippled, was not seen again.

Torpedoing of the 4,622-ton British freighter Langleeford in the Atlantic Wednesday was disclosed last night when 15 survivors landed on the west coast of Ireland in a lifeboat. They said one sailor had been killed by the torpedo, two died in the lifeboat and a second boat carrying the captain and 14 other crewmen were missing.

Indoor climate! Much has already been done in modifying indoor conditions for greater comfort. There seems to be however, a limit to which modification may be pushed because of the danger of making too great a contrast between indoor and outdoor conditions. Air conditioning has done much for comfort and to raise the vigor and consequently the production of workers. Relief has also been obtained through filtering the air and securing the proper amount of humidity. Since Americans owe much of their energy to the changeability of the climate, it is probable that too uniform conditions may not be so effectual as changes from day to day or from hour to hour.

Chamberlain Umbrella Sought as Souvenir

London, Feb. 17 (CP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain's umbrella — or one of his famous umbrellas — may yet be the proud possession of a colonel in the Canadian Active Service Force.

A group of Canadian soldiers on leave, walking through Whitehall yesterday, wandered up narrow Downing Street and entered the portal of No. 10, historic residence of the prime minister.

To one of Mr. Chamberlain's secretaries who received them, they said they would like nothing better than to take back to their colonel at Aldershot a Chamberlain umbrella.

The secretary promised an umbrella would be forwarded to them.

Later the Canadians went to The Guildhall. As they were being shown through the building they noticed a quill pen lying near the Lord Mayor's chair and there as a wild scramble for a souvenir.

When the scramble subsided the soldiers took turns sitting in the historic civic seat of London's chief magistrate.

Friends of John Buchan In Elsfield Village Pay Their Tribute

(By Fred Backhouse, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Elsfield, England, Feb. 17—(CP-Cable)—In the tiny 12th century church of this Oxfordshire village, friends of John Buchan gathered today to pay tribute to his memory.

For a score of years this has been the family church of the Buchans of Elsfield Manor. From the ancient oaken lectern the future Governor-General of Canada often read the lesson.

Today retainers from the village, who loved Mr. Buchan, the man who was always interested in their welfare, stood at the side of learned professors come to pay the homage of Oxford University to one of her most brilliant sons.

Eulogy Delivered

More than 200 mourners heard Professor Gilbert Murray, for many years Regius Professor of Greek at Oxford, deliver an eulogy of the late Lord Tweedsmuir.

The new Lord Tweedsmuir, in the uniform of Lieutenant of the Canadian Active Service Force, stood beside Miss Anna Buchan, sister of the late Governor-General of Canada. Hon. William Buchan, another son, was with Hon. Mrs. Norman Grosvenor, Lady Tweedsmuir's mother.

Among other relatives present were Colonel and Mrs. Arthur Grenfell, cousins of Lord Tweedsmuir, and Mrs. Peyton Jones, sister of Lady Tweedsmuir and, Mr. Jones.

The hymns were "Old Hundredth" and Bunyan's Pilgrim's song. The psalms were the 23rd and the 15th.

Nazis Press Their Conception Of Neutrality on Neutrals

Berlin, Feb. 17—(AP)— Adolf Hitler's newspaper declared today that "The German people never will forget" any nations refusing a "moderate" Nazi demand that they adhere to the German conception of neutrality.

The Volkischer Beobachter criticized Belgium and Switzerland, particularly, and asserted neutrality means more than "renunciation of direct warlike acts: or "lip service for official usage."

"We believe that neutrals are obliged to record war events and the attitude of belligerent nations at least objectively," the newspaper said in developing a theme first expressed by Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels last week.

"Under the protective cloak of "democratic freedom of opinion," the newspaper added, "the views, acts and aims of a German nation of 80,000,000 intentionally are suppressed or misrepresented, but the claims of her opponents are reproduced to the greatest extent and supported."

The newspaper said Belgian citizens are "making propaganda for Belgium's participation in the war" by writing from Brussels for the French newspapers. It also criticized the "vulgar scolding" of "foreigners speaking high German" in Berne, Switzerland.

"It is only a step from these symptomatic occurrences to actual violation of neutrality," Hitler's organ continued. "Here lies the danger which forces us to the most careful watchfulness. . . . "

The Conservative leader discussed his wheat policy in a speech at the city hall and said he would define it further in his address at Regina tonight.

Three Youths To be Charged With Armed Robbery

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 17 (CP). — Three Chatham youths, captured following a police chase last night near Lambeth while riding in an allegedly stolen automobile, will be brought here today on charges of armed robbery on a Palmyra storekeeper and car theft.

The three, Jack Schamahorn, 18; Edmund Jewess, 18, and James Rhodes, 17, also are charged by London police with having offensive weapons. Police here charge the trio held up F. B. It added:

"The Exeter and her battle with the Graf Spee only dramatized the ceaseless dangers of patrol, the perils and discomforts of the minesweeping flotillas, the hardihood of the destroyer crews . . .

"It may be hackneyed, but one cannot help quoting Mahan's famous line again: 'Those far distant, storm-beaten ships, upon which the grand army never looked, stood between it and the dominion of the world'."

Admiralty Communique On Rescue of Seamen From German Cruiser

London, Feb. 17—(CP)—Following is the text of the admiralty communique today describing the release of 300 to 400 captive British merchant seamen from the German "prison ship" Altmark by British destroyers:

It will be remembered that the Graf Spee sank seven British merchant ships in the south Atlantic before Christmas. The officers were made prisoners on board the pocket battleship and were tolerably treated.

The seamen, on the other hand, were confined in the Altmark, an auxiliary of the British fleet, which according to reports of the British prisoners liberated from the Graf Spee was armed with concealed guns.

Hardships Inflicted

Between 300 and 400 British merchant seamen were held prisoners in this vessel and, upon evidence of those of them who were transferred to the Graf Spee and later rescued, grievous hardships and severities were inflicted upon them.

Since then the Altmark vanished from the seas and no trace of her could be found until it appeared on the 15th of February that she was moving down the Norwegian coast, taking advantage of its peculiar configuaration and endeavoring to convey these three or four hundred British merchant seamen captives through Norwegian territorial waters to confinement in Germany.

Reconnaissance Made

Accordingly certain of his Majesty's ships which were conveniently disposed were set in motion and certain aircraft reconnaissances were made, as a result of which a vessel bearing the name of Altmark and conforming in every respect to her description, yesterday afternoon took refuge in the Norwegian fjord of Josing after having been sighted by coastal reconnaissance aircraft and intercepeted by his Majesty's ship Intrepid, Commander R. C. Gordon, Royal Navy.

Orders were given by the Admiralty with full authority of His Majesty's government to enter neutral waters, search the Altmark and rescue any prisoners if found on board.

Josing Fjord has a dead end and two Norwegian gun boats appeared at its mouth. The British commander Captain P. L. Vian, Royal Navy, of His Majesty's ship Cossack, was instructed to offer to place a joint British and Norwegian guard upon the ship and to escort it with British and Norwegian warships to Bergen, where a search could be conducted and the whole matter investigated according to international law. This offer was not accepted.

Had Permission to Use Waters

The captain of the Norwegian gunboat stated that the ship was unarmed, that he knew nothing about any prisoners on board, and that she had been examined at Bergen the day before and had received permission to use Norwegian

Norway Protests to Great Britain Over Action of British Warship's Crew Boarding German Armed Prison Vessel After Hand-to-Hand Battle

WANTS CAPTIVES

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 17 (AP)—Norway protested to Great Britain today over the action of a British warship in boarding the German armed prison vessel Altmark and removing captive British merchant seamen after a hand-to-hand battle in Norwegian territorial waters.

Five German seamen were reported killed in the struggle when the German craft took refuge in Gjessingfjord near Stavanger.

Norway was reported to have asked Britain to return the British prisoners, pay compensation and in the future respect Norwegian sovereignty and territorial waters.

Communique Wording

The dramatic encounter between a British destroyer and the Altmark was described in a Norwegian communique published here which said:

"The German steamship Altmark yesterday afternoon arrived in Gjessingfjord escorted by a Norwegian torpedo boat. The ships were stopped by two British destroyers giving warning shots.

"Soon after five other British torpedo boats and a British warship arrived. The Norwegian vessel protested twice, and the Altmark and Norwegian torpedo boat entered Gjessingfjord while the British ships disappeared outside territorial waters.

"Later in the evening one of the British destroyers returned using searchlights. About 11 p.m. (5 p.m. EST) a British warship followed and stopped alongside the Altmark taking on board some of the British citizens who had been on the German ship whereafter the British warship disappeared."

Cortland, N.Y., Feb. 17—(AP)—Police found the body of Ella Earley Spano, 25-year-old mother of three children, in a snowbank today. She had apparently been strangled.

Police Chief Ray Stevens said he was questoining her estranged husband, who he said came voluntarily to police headquarters before the body was discovered and declared: "You'll probably get a call pretty soon; I've had trouble with my wife."

IN DEBT AGAIN

Columbus, Ind., Feb. 17 (AP) — Members of the Nethel Baptist Church at nearby Walesboro met to burn the paid-off mortgage on the church property. As they assembled fire started in the church from an unknown origin and the congregation stood helplessly by as the debt-free property was destroyed. They estimated loss at $8,000.

British Ships Must Protect Crews Against Machine-Gun Attacks

London, Feb. 17—(CP)—The admiralty announced today all British ships must provide protection against machine-gun attack from enemy aircraft for their crew before leaving any port in the United Kingdom.

Simultaneously, Great Britain started registering an estimated 250,000 youths of 23 today for war service.

The admiralty order was effective immediately, and while it was only announced today, it was dated Feb. 14.

Ship owners were told they would be advised from time to time on the kind of protective equipment that would be required.

The mobilization program was stepped up to permit the quick absorption of the new recruits and to place 2,500,000 men under arms before 1941. Youths being registered today are expected to be called to army camp early in March.

A British pilot was reported to have bombed a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday as it submerged. The bomb was said to have struck just ahead of the disappearing periscope, and patches of oil appeared on the surface. The submarine, apparently destroyed or crippled, was not seen again.

Torpedoing of the 4,622-ton British freighter Langleeford in the Atlantic Wednesday was disclosed last night when 15 survivors landed on the west coast of Ireland in a lifeboat. They said one sailor had been killed by the torpedo, two died in the lifeboat and a second boat carrying the captain and 14 other crewmen were missing.

Two Members of Collegiate Staff Give Services Free

Two members of the staff of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School are giving their services gratis to members of his Majesty's Royal Canadian Air Force base at Trenton, Principal P. C. MacLaurin revealed to members of the Board of Education at the regular meeting last night.

In response to a request from an official of the Winter Extension Department of Queen's University that instructors in French-English and drafting be secured from the Belleville school Dr. F. G. Howard and Mr. D. Bews have been giving instruction to members of the Air Force in the respective subjects.

Dr. Howard, Mr. MacLaurin said, teaches his students at the air force base, accommodation being provided for him, while the base students in drafting receive instruction at the night classes now in vogue at the school on various nights of the week.

Instruction of members of military forces and the air force is being done along these lines in practically every centre where war activities are in progress, the principal stated.

Chairman of the board Reg. Moncrieff, who asked for the information, thanked the principal for his remarks. "I think it is only right that the public should know these things," the chairman added.

Letter to the Editor

Reply to Yachtsman

February 16, 1940.

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville.
Dear Sir,

As he asserts in his letter to you in yesterday's Ontario Intelligencer, "Yachtsman" did manage to pick up kindergarten knowledge of flag etiquette . . . . but not much more!

Since our government has not yet asked permission of the English House of Parliament to fly its special flag, the Union Jack, why should we wave it without the courtesy of obtaining their (necessary) authorization?

However, if, or, when the Union Jack ever becomes the Flag of Canada, I am completely in accord with "Yachtsman" in his desire to fly it in the proper and customary manner.

Yours sincerely,
"Canadian Citizen".

The auditorium, gymnasium and swimming pool will be in full operation as the student body at Albert College will continue their physical training before the view of the general public, who are cordially invited to attend the annual "open house".

Board of Education Passes Estimates of $137,995.34 for Collegiate and Public Schools

Total Estimates Are $152,105.00 but Grants and Other Estimated Revenues Bring Total to Above Figure

SOME INCREASES

School Reports by Miss Earchman and P. C. MacLaurin Adopted — Some Repairs on Schools Asked

Estimates of $137,995.34 to cover salaries of teachers, maintenance and necessities, necessary to the functioning of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and city public schools for 1940, will be presented to the Belleville City Council for payment according to a bylaw ratified by the Belleville Board of Education at its regular meeting last night.

The amount of the estimates is approximately one thousand dollars less than that of 1939.

A full membership of the board greeted Chairman Reg. Moncrieff when he opened the meeting shortly after eight o'clock. Following routine business, the board went immediately into committee of the whole with Lieut.-Col. E. A. Geen occupying the chair.

Readings of the bylaw presented by Chairman of Finance H. B. Fetterly, and its ultimate ratification by the board in committee of the whole, passed without discussion.

Salaries of public school teachers, repairs and necessities such as supplies, stationery, fuel, insurance, etc., required for both phases of education amount to $152,105.00 but government grants and other estimated revenue will reduce the amount to that requested in the bylaw.

Increases Granted.

At a special meeting of the board called on February 14 to deal with the estimates, the board endorsed the recommendation of the school management committee regarding salaries for 1940, that $400 be added to the four teachers whose names are listed elsewhere, in amounts of $100 each, and all other salaries remain as before. For the public schools it endorsed the recommendation that the thirty-one teachers qualified to receive increases be granted the usual amount of $50 each.

The supplies committee recommendation that an amount equal to last year plus ten per cent to cover extra cost of material sales tax, etc.; or a total of $9,240 for the collegiate institute and vocational school, and $8,880 for public schools was also adopted in the report of estimates. The amount for the collegiate institute and vocational school includes the sum of $250 set aside for the purchase of cadet uniforms.

The board at this meeting also recommended that the sum of $1,800 be placed in the estimates for the repairs and betterment of the collegiate institute and vocational school and the sum of $2,600 for the public schools. These figures to include amounts already spent for these purposes.

Lighting Conditions Discussed.

Miss E. A. Earshman, school nurse, addressed the board with regard to lighting conditions in a number of classrooms of public schools. She had inspected several rooms with a member of the board and found that conditions should be remedied.

Every classroom should be well lighted to ensure eye-health and efficiency, she advised, adding that translucent curtains and certain shades or colors introduced in the interior decorating scheme would be helpful.

An uneven distribution of light among the rows of desks was detrimental to children's eyesight, she added.

Attendance Good.

Except for a slight outbreak of chicken pox, which affected five class rooms, attendance in the city public schools during the last month has been very good, Miss Earshman told the board in her report.

Pupils given vision tests amounted to 509 with seventeen referred for further examination by an eye specialist. Glasses were fitted to three pupils and four replacements made. Eight dental clinics had been held where 26 children were treated. Several fillings and temporary treatment and extractions were made.

Thorough class room inspection had been given 438 pupils with 143 receiving rapid class room inspection. Several visits had been made.

Principal MacLaurin.

In his report to the board, Principal P. C. MacLaurin stated the health of the school was good. The average attendance for January was 94.72 per cent and the average attendance for the past five months was 95.12 per cent.

Permission to entertain Canadian officers and especially officers from overseas in the collegiate building was asked by Mr. MacLaurin, and granted by the board.

PREP GROUP OF "Y" ENJOYS SLEIGH RIDE

The members of the "Prep" group (boys 10 and 11 years) of the Y. M. C. A. gathered at the building at 7:30 o'clock last evening to participate in a sleigh drive about the city and suburbs. Following the drive the boys returned to the "Y" auditorium where they enjoyed hot cocoa, sandwiches and cake. Representatives of the "Y" staff supervised the drive and the social hour.

OBITUARY

NORMAN HOBSON
(Black Creek)

Picton, Feb. 17 (Special). — The death occurred at his home at Black Creek, on Thursday, Feb. 15, of Norman Hobson, one of the oldest residents of that locality. Well over the four-score mark, Mr. Hobson was born and spent his entire life in that community. He was a fisherman for many years and was an old time fiddler of local fame.

He is survived by two daughters, Miss Gena Hobson of Toronto and Helen (Mrs. Allan Shannon) of Black Creek, and one son, Dr. Walter Hobson of Perth. Mrs. Thomas McMahon is a sister of the deceased. The funeral service is being held in St. Gregory's Church on Saturday morning at ten o'clock with interment in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

THOMAS A. PERRY
(Madoc)

After a lengthy illness Thomas A. Perry passed away at his late residence in the village of Madoc on Friday, Feb. 16.

The late Mr. Perry, who was in his 38th year, was born in Smith's Falls, his parents being Mrs. Perry and the late Robert R. Perry. For the past seven years he resided in Madoc and was well esteemed in the community.

At one time he was a student at St. Joseph's University in New Brunswick. In religion he was a member of the Church of England.

The funeral will take place on Monday, Feb. 19, and interment will be made in White Lake Cemetery.

County Roads Now In Good Condition Says W. L. Langlois

Working day and night all week, county plows have succeeded in opening all roads that are regularly plowed by truck-plows in the county road system with the exception of the Stoco-Marlbank road stated County Road Superintendent W. L. Langlois.

In a resume of the week's activities following the blizzard of last Sunday and the heavy fall of snow on Wednesday, Mr. Langlois informed the Ontario Intelligencer that all clearing facilities of the county had been at work. Following the week-end blizzard, all roads were open by Tuesday.

The northerly gale of Tuesday and Wednesday however piled the snow back between heavy banks left from previous plowing on most country roads. Traffic itself kept the more heavily travelled roads open but by Thursday morning between 30 and 40 miles were absolutely impassable to traffic.

A motor hearse was pulled out of a snow bank on Tuesday a.m. and a plow despatched in time to clear the road for the funeral procession in the afternoon. Again during Wednesday night a snowplow was diverted from its regular run to open the Shannonville Road to allow a child suffering from appendicitis to be rushed to hospital. Numerous cars were pulled out of snowbanks on Wednesday particularly in the Read, Lonsdale and Marysville districts.

Widening out operations will be continued on the few roads that still provide only a narrow passage.

Hastings County has again been fortunate in being only on the fringe of a heavy storm, which left many badly blocked roads in Prince Edward County in its wake, Mr. Langlois said.

BREAKS COLLAR BONE PLAYING HOCKEY

Fifteen-year-old Roy Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thompson, 249 Ann St., sustained a fractured collar bone while playing hockey at the Queen Mary School rink yesterday afternoon. Dr. J. J. Robertson and Dr. R. Ross attended the lad, reduced the fracture and later the lad was taken home in an ambulance. Young Thompson was checked by an opponent in a hockey game and fell to the ice fracturing the small collar bone. No other injuries were sustained.

Proportion of Positive Reactors To T. B. Among 1st Year Pupils At Collegiate Only 10 Per Cent

This Percentage Ranks Among the Lowest for This Age Group in the Province

DOCTOR'S REPORT

Only One Pupil is Found to Have Disease and This is in Early Curable Stage and Patient Being Sent to Sanitarium

Proportion of positive reactors to tuberculosis among first pear students of the Belleville Collegiate Institute, the result of a test conducted by Dr G. G. Brearley, Division of Tuberculosis Prevention, was 10 per cent, a report of the test revealed at the regular Board of Education meeting last night.

This percentage ranks among the lowest for this age group in Ontario. In 1936, the first year of the survey, the percentage of positive reactors here was 30 per cent. This percentage has been decreasing steadily each year until it has reached its present low figure.

Dr. Brearley, in his report urged that students showing positive tuberculosis reaction in their first year should be encouraged to have their X-ray repeated at the next survey.

Report Given

Only one student was found to have tuberculosis disease in the survey, and she is being sent to a sanatorium for treatment, the report revealed. She is in the early curable stage and is not and has not been dangerous to others.

Following the test, students who were found to be positive reactors were X-rayed, as were 10 students who were tuberculosis positive at the previous survey. The student found to be suffering with the disease was in the latter group, indicating the need of yearly X-rays of T. B. positive young adult of this age.

319 Students Tested

The number of students T. B. tested was 319; those showing positive reaction, 31; previous positive reactions, 9; number X-rayed 45; number having T. B. disease 1; number having negative reaction 279.

In moving adoption of Dr. Brearley's report, Trustee A. B Payne told the Board that "it is a wonderful thing to see the steady reduction of this percentage.

He moved a vote of appreciation to Dr. Brearley and asked a letter be sent requesting that tests be continued next year.

Executive Confirms Candidature of George S. White

Marmora, Feb. 15—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the executive of Hastings-Peterboro Conservative Association was held today under the chairmanship of the President, R. A. Dean of Norwood, when Geo. S. White of Madoc, who was chosen as candidate over a year ago, expressed himself as being in complete accord with the stand of Dr. R. J. Manion's demand for a National government.

Mr. White declared that if the executive wished he is willing to allow his name to go before any convention open to any supporters of Dr. Manion's National government idea without regards to party lines.

After a full discussion and considering the very uncertain condition of the roads in this large riding, and the shortness of the time, the executive unanimously endorsed the stand taken by Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion regarding a win-the-war government and confirmed the candidature of Mr. White in view of his pledge.

R. Campbell, Foxboro Wins First Prize in Oat Div. at O. P. W. Fair

A member of the Stirling Boys' Grain Club last year, Mr. Campbell used a new rust resistant variety of oats called "Erban." This variety did particularly well for him last year.

In tenth place in the same class was Ray Hall of Trenton R. 5, also a member of the Stirling Club. He also showed the new "Erban" variety.

Over one hundred boys took part in the Junior Club work in Hastings County last year, Mr. Fair said, who received much valuable information through the medium of junior club projects. Boys wishing to take part in these club projects in 1940 should get in touch with him at Stirling, he added.

TWO BARRISTERS TO ACT IN ABSENCE

S. Gordon Robertson and Ormonde Butler, local barristers, were named as Acting Crown Attorneys for the County of Hastings during the absence from the city of Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., who with Mrs. Donnan is enroute to Florida for a vacation. Mr. Robertson will conduct the prosecutions during the progress of the semi-weekly city police court, while Mr. Butler will hold the same office during the weekly County Police Court proceedings at the Court House.

COLLISION OCCURS AT INTERSECTION

Considerable property damage resulted to a motor car that was in collision with a truck at the intersection of Bleecker Ave. and Bridge St. yesterday. Frank Kelly, 302 Bleecker Ave. was proceeding southerly in his motor car, while Millard's Dairy truck was going west on Bridge Street. As he approached the intersection Mr. Kelly applied the brakes of his car but the vehicle skidded sideways and collided with the heavier truck. The fenders and body of Mr. Kelly's car were badly damaged. P. C. Taylor conducted the investigation.

Deseronto

Deseronto, Feb. 17.—At the inaugural meeting of the Board of Education for the town of Deseronto for the year 1940 held last Wednesday evening, C. H. Sagar was chosen chairman of the board. There are four new members of the board this year, A. J. Rindell, H. Fingland, R. Wessman and Mrs. R. Marigold.

Reginald Wessman was elected vice-chairman and the committee elected is as follows:

Management—A. J. Rindell, H. Fingland and Miss M. Prickett.

Property—R. Wessman, A. Waddingham, Mrs. Marigold.

Finance—A. J. Rindell, A. Waddingham, Mrs. Clement.

Miss Helen Harvey was reappointed secretary.

The matter of securing a supply teacher to fulfil Miss Maxwell's duties on the staff of the local high school was left to the management committee who met on Friday evening and appointed Miss MacDonald of Prescott. Miss Maxwell is unable to teach due to ill-health.

Rev. C. E. S. Radcliffe, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church conducted the Lenten services in St. Mary Magdalene Church, Napanee. Sunday evening Rev. Archdeacon R. J. Dumbrille was the Lenten preacher in St. Mark's Church.

Deseronto schools were closed on Wednesday afternoon in tribute to the memory of Lord Tweedsmuir, the late Governor-General.

The funeral of the late Arthur Murphy was held on Monday morning from his late residence, Napanee Road, east of Deseronto, to St. Patrick's Church, Napanee, where Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Fr. Quinn.

The late Mr. Murphy passed away at his home on Friday after a short illness. The deceased who was popular as a farmer, with Mrs. Murphy and family moved to this district from Erinsville a number of years ago. He was 75 years of age. Mrs. Murphy passed away in July, 1939.

Two daughters, Mrs. Harold Young of Bath and Mrs. Stafford Burns of Napanee; two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Hunt and Mrs. Michael Craigen of Newburg, and two brothers, George Murphy of Newburg and Anthony Murphy of Napanee survive him.

Interment was made in St. Patrick's vault, Napanee.

The World's Day of Prayer was very fittingly observed by the ladies of the United, St. Mark's and the Presbyterian churches on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. E. C. Radcliffe, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Anglican Church took charge of the service, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Douglas, president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Church of the Redeemer and Mrs. A. H. Hoare, president of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church. Miss Mary Rogers presided at the piano during the service.

Two of Deseronto's young folks were united in marriage recently — Miss Ruth Germaine and Morden Sharpe of the R.C.A.F., Trenton.

Mrs. O. Flood has returned to Deseronto after visiting in Montreal the guest of her daughter, Mrs. T. Fitzgerald.

PILOT, PASSENGER RESCUED 36 HOURS AFTER CRACK-UP

Pair Had Difficult Time Keeping Warm After Machine Crashes During Blizzard

NEAR HALIFAX

Halifax, Feb. 17 (CP) — Pilot Jimmy Wade, who spent a day and a half beside his cracked-up plane at a frozen lake, was itching to get back into the air today.

Wade wanted to lose no time getting back into the air after a skirmish with death that ended when he arrived at a Halifax airport last night, 36 hours overdue on a regular 70-minute flight from Moncton, N.B.

If all planes here hadn't been grounded he would have been aboard one early today visiting the spot where he cracked up Thursday. He and other Canadian Airways men were to ook over the wreckage with an eye to possible salvage.

They hoped to save the motor of the plane. That was about all that was left as Wade tore nearly all the fabric off to use as fuel on the fire he built to attract the attention of would-be rescue planes.

Noonan insists that he owes his life to the pluck and resourcefulness of Wade.

The plane came down on the shores of Oak Hill Lake in Halifax County, when ice on the wings and windshield made it impossible for the pilot to keep it afloat. The ship was caught in Thursday morning's blizzard when it was only nine miles from Halifax.

Noonan, whom Wade had waved to the rear of the cabin just before the crash, wasn't able to get his safety belt fastened before it happened.

Used Fabric From Wings.

Wade got busy. When the storm abated, he kindled a fire. Everything was wet in the woods, the strips of fabric from the plane were needed to keep the tiny blaze going. When search planes flew over the area in the afternoon, Wade would pile on the precious fuel to make more smoke. When they passed by without seeing, he would snatch the fuel off.

Darkness fell. Wade gave Noonan his heavy flying togs, and took the passenger's civilian coat and hat. He got out a heavy engine covering and wrapped it around the injured man. Then he spent the night turning Noonan over and over, to keep him from freezing while he slept. Wade got no sleep.

Yesterday morning, search planes—there were fourteen of them in the air—started passing over again. He realized, however, that the chances of the snow-covered wreck being seen were slim.

Snare Rabbit.

As the day dragged on, the pilot remembered some fine wire that was in the cabin. He skilfully fashioned a snare with it, and set it in the woods near the plane. Net result—one fine rabbit. The two men agreed to save the rabbit for Saturday morning breakfast.

But they were destined to eat breakfast today under much more comfortable surroundings.

An observer in a Royal Canadian Air Force plane passing over the spot caught sight of a wisp of smoke. Then he saw the broken cross in the snow that was the plane.

The R.C.A.F. plane circled over the spot and sped back to Halifax airport. Within five minutes two rescue planes were on the way. They landed on a lake about a mile from the wreck. The rescue crew fought its way through four-foot snowdrifts, carried the 195-pound Noonan back over the tortuous way. Wade was able to walk unassisted.

The take-off from the lake was made in darkness, with only the landing lights of the planes to show the way. Fifteen minutes later the planes were safe in Halifax.

'Sledgehammer Gang' Active at Windsor

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 17—(CP)—The "sledgehammer gang" entered the office of the Traders Finance Corporation here during the night but police reported today that they apparently were scared off before they had time to open the strongbox.

The gang who have gained approximately $3,000 in loot, during the last three months from various safes they have opened abandoned a sledgehammer, two crow bars and a cold chisel in the office.

Removal of the hinges was all the damage done to the safe. Police believe they realized they would not have been able to smash it open in their customary style without attracting attention from a watchman, so they left when it could not be opened without force.

Falling off a ladder at his home at Glen Miller today, William Chard, twenty-six year old laborer was admitted to Belleville General Hospital suffering with a broken arm and fractured bone in a foot.

Dr. Stobie is in charge of the injured man, whose condition is said to be satisfactory.

OBITUARY

SHIRLEY E. HOWES

Shirley Ellis Howes, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Howes, passed away at the family residence, 186 James St., this Saturday morning, after an illness of three weeks' duration.

Besides her parents, she is survived by one brother, John Samuel Howes.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

Rev. F. Horton, Formerly of Foxboro, Resigns Charge

At a largely attended meeting of the Official Board of the Fraserville United Church Circuit held on Monday last, the 12th inst., a letter of resignation was read by the Recording Steward from the Rev. F. Horton. Mr. Horton intimated that the charge with its large territory was altogether too heavy for him, and he must ask to be relieved at the ensuing Conference. After much consideration the Board regretfully accepted the resignation.

Very high tribute was paid by the members to the most efficient work of Mr. and Mrs. Horton. It was moved by the Recording Steward, Mr. Fred Barnard and carried by an unanimous standing vote, "that we place on record our very best thanks and appreciation to the Rev. F. Horton for the very able manner in which he has carried on the work of this circuit during the past two years and also to Mrs. Horton for her very capable assistance. The circuit has enjoyed a high standard of preaching from Mr. Horton and the work was in a most satisfactory condition".

Mr. Horton who has served 32 years in the ministry will ask for another church at the Conference.

CHEESE OFFER SAID TOO LOW

14 Cents a Pound Held Below Production Cost

Woodstock, Feb. 17 — Cheese producers believe they ought to be guaranteed at least cost of production, the same as in the case of any other industry in the war-time setup, and the 78 shillings per cwt. suggested by the British Food Ministry is below production cost.

R. H. Mayberry of West Oxford, immediate past president of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association, emphasized this point in correcting an impression in a press report that discussion at the Ottawa convention this week indicated 14 cents a pound would be acceptable. There was in fact, he said, no such discussion in the convention.

"In my presidential address I said that owing to rapidly changing conditions producers did not feel justified in recommending any set figure for the season, and that we felt we should assist the national war effort to the utmost, but in doing so should be given the same assurance as that given to other industries and guaranteed the cost of production, at least, for their product," said Mr. Mayberry.

"As to just what the cost of production is at the present time, opinions vary, and it was not discussed definitely in the convention, but informal discussion was to the effect that cost of production ranged from 15 to 20 cents a pound. In all cases it was substantially above the present price level of 78 shillings per hundredweight suggested by the British Food Ministry. "We do not view the present price with alarm, but feel it is due to the speculative element in the Canadian cheese business when the New Zealand price is set. I particularly wish to correct any impression that 14 cents was an acceptable price."

GERMANY CLAIMS PRISONERS TAKEN

Also Claims Pursuit Plane Shot Down Bristol Bomber Over North Sea

Berlin, Feb. 17—(AP) — The German high command claimed today that German soldiers had taken prisoners near Saarbruecken on the western front.

Its communique said:

"In the west, in the region of the Warndt forest southwest of Saarbruecken, patrol action resulted in the capture of numerous prisoners.

"On the upper Rhine front, in various places, a lively exchange of machine-gun and rifle fire took place.

PAINT COMPANY ERECTS NEW SIGN

Front Street has another addition to its already full quota of flashing electric signs today. Employees of the local Martin Senour paint shop worked all yesterday afternoon fixing supports preparatory to hanging the heavy sign carrying the symbol of the famous paint company.

BELIEVES EMPIRE WILL GATHER AID OF NEW ALLIES

Lord Chatfield, Confident of Victory, Says 'We, Like Columbus, Look for New World'

BRITAIN'S STRENGTH

'We Shall Bring Our Great and Ever Growing Air Strength Into Play at Right Instant,' Says Sir Samuel Hoare

London, Feb. 17—(CP)— Members of the War Cabinet assured the nation today that the Empire is expecting victory and the help of additional allies.

Lord Chatfield, Minister for Coordination of Defence, told a Welsh audience at Cardiff he believed the Allies would gather comrades as we fight our way onward."

"We, like Columbus, are looking for a new world," he declared.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal, speaking at Nottingham, emphasized the economic aspects of the war and asserted:—

"Britain in war must become a more equal society than in peace. We must regulate our right to buy."

Sir Samuel said that if the nation is to maintain its fighting forces at full strength and at the same time expand its export trade "we must economize on the use of labor and the products of labor."

"If we do not maintain our export trade we must lose the war," he warned.

When Sir Samuel posed the whetorical question "What is the government's policy on the economic front?" a man in the audience interjected "starvation." The interruptor was removed from the hall.

Time To Build Up Strength.

Lord Chatfield declared that the allies are "fighting a battle for the good of the world" and added: "I believe a good part of the world realizes it."

He emphasized the growing might of Britain, saying that "we have gained valuable time to build up our strength for attack and defence."

"We shall bring our great and ever growing air strength into play at the right instant," he said. "We are now feeling the way, testing the enemy's skill and discovering his methods like a skilled boxer in the opening rounds."

FRENCH PATROL HURT BY MINES

Men Penetrated Deep Into German Territory to Reconnoitre

Paris, Feb. 17 (AP)—Military dispatches today reported a French patrol which had penetrated deep into Germany had suffered losses in a mined field.

One soldier was reported killed, three missing and eight wounded severely among the group which was operating in the region west of the Saar River.

Snow and low ceilings grounded aerial forces on both sides.

The French high command communique merely said, "nothing to report."

Paris, Feb. 17 (AP) —For holding secret Communist meetings, 11 Frenchmen, all under 20 years of age, were given prison terms ranging up to three years today.

The mother of one was sentenced to two years for allowing them to assemble in her home. France has banned Communist activities.

Amsterdam, Feb. 17 (AP) —The 1819-ton Norwegian freighter Kvernaas sunk last night in the North Sea after an explosion. Her crew of 20, some of whom were wounded, were picked up by the Netherlands steamship Oranjepolder and landed in Holland.

The survivors said they were uncertain whether the vessel struck a mine or was torpedoed. But they believed the ship hit a mine.

Paris, Feb. 17 (C.P. Havas) — The French government today signed an agreement with the Polish government-in-exile providing for formation of a Polish air force on French territory.

London, Feb. 27 (CP Cable) — Flags were out in Edmonton, north London suburb, today, to welcome 20 Canadian soldiers from Edmonton, Alta. The boys were officially welcomed at the British Legion Club this morning. Tomorrow the Canadians will place a wreath on the Edmonton Cenotaph before starting on a bus tour organized by their hosts. They will see the sights of the capital.

London, Feb. 17 (CP) —Britain's imports in January exceeded £100,000,000 ($445,000,000), the Board of Trade reported today, reaching the highest figure for that month in ten years.

Melbourne, Feb. 17 (C.P. Reuters) —Air Minister J. V. Fairbairn announced today that Great Britain has given Australia between 300 and 400 Fairey battle bombing plans and 400 Anson reconnaissance planes to be used in the Empire Air Training Plan.

London, Feb. 17 (CP)— The Maharajah of Gondal has placed one lakh of rupees ($3,375) at the disposal of the Admiralty for dependents of the men who lost their lives when the battleship Royal Oak was sunk by a German submarine October 14, it was disclosed today.

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, sent the Maharajah a personal message of thanks.

The Admiralty has divided the gift as follows: For officers' dependents, £250; for ratings' dependents, including those of Maltese ratings £7,200; for dependents of Navy, Army and Air Force Institute employees £50.

Regina, Feb. 17 (CP) —Registration of all men in Saskatchewan below the age of 40 should be undertaken at once, Tom Johnson, (C.C. Touchwood) said in the Legislature yesterday during debate on the Throne speech.

"I am not advocating conscription but I believe we should be prepared," he said. The registration would give the government information as to talents and abilities useful in the war effort.

Recruiting is going on apace at the Picton depot of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, where openings for a few good men are still available.

Conviction Grows Finland Must Fight Alone Unless Sweden Reverses Decision

Copenhagen, Denmark, Feb. 17 —(AP)—Amid conflicting reports today regarding Finland's next move to obtain help in her fight with Russia, the conviction grew she must fight on alone unless Sweden reverses a stand against permitting foreign troops and equipment to pass over Swedish soil.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet published a telephone interview with Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner denying reports he and Premier Risto Ryti are planning to fly to London to ask Great Britain for help.

Another Stockholm newspaper, the Falkets Dagblad, declared, however, that it had information that Finland may sign an agreement today with the western powers relative to military aid.

Observers pointed to the Swedish declaration forbidding the passage of foreign troops and equipment to Finland over Swedish soil. Sweden affords the only suitable access to Finland except the Baltic, controlled by the Germans, and Finland's Arctic port in the Petsamo region which the Russians control.

The Danish newspaper Extrabladet editorially commended: —"Sweden, however grieved she may be over her own decision has no other possibility.

"Finland put an ultimatum to Sweden, which in reality forced Sweden to choose between a belligerent or non-belligerent position. In order to make this choice Sweden had to forget both personal feelings and previous principles of the League Covenant and only think of her own existence.

"Since Sweden neither will help nor let through assistance from elsewhere Finland must now finish her fight alone."

(The newspaper reference to the covenant was to the League of Nation's decision branding Russia an aggressor and calling upon League members to help Finland.)

Political circles in Stockholm said they were convinced any change in the Swedish position would bring severe complications for Sweden as well as Finland.

An increased drive for Finnish volunteers was expected in Sweden immediately. One Swedish public reaction to Finland's plight was an increase in generosity in public collections. The central fund for Finland now totals 18,000,000 kronor (about $2,320,000). The Swedish building industry yesterday donated 960,000 kronor (about $230,400) for training airplane pilots for Finland.

FALL ON STAIR PROVES FATAL

Harry Reid of Hamilton Suffers Fracture of the Skull

Hamilton, Feb. 17 (CP).—Injured last night when he fell on a stair while leaving the wash room of an east end hall where he and his wife had attended a social evening, Harry Reid, 39, died two hours later in the general hospital. He was said to have suffered a fractured skull.

Reid, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie, operated the De Luxe Cafe here. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Patricia, seven.

Police said the stairway was in darkness and Reid fell down six steps, striking his head.

Building attendants told police the lights had been on and must have been turned off by some one.

Judge Ambrose Shea Refuses to Comment On Charge Levelled

Toronto, Feb. 17—(CP)— Judge Ambrose Shea, recently-appointed York County Court Judge, declined today to comment on a charge in the Financial Post that he had while a Magistrate at Kingston acted as Secretary and Treasurer of the Frontenac Construction Company of Kingston while that company had contracts with the Ontario Highways Department.

The article was brought to the attention of the Ontario legislature by Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, and Attorney-General Gordon Conant promised that an inquiry will be held.

"When the story made its appearance in the Financial Post, I wrote to the attorney-general giving an explanation," Judge Shea said. "I am, of course, making a further complete report to Mr. Conant. I feel that the explanation should come from the attorney-general rather than myself."

MAY FIX TOTAL OF REMUNERATION OF COUNCILLORS

Amendment May Set Maximum Number of Meetings

MAXIMUM OF SALARY

Toronto, Feb. 17—(CP)—Tendency of councillors in many Ontario municipalities to hold an excessive number of meetings is one of the major reasons behind an amendment to the Municipal Act now before the legislature which would fix a maximum annual remuneration for such councillors.

The present Act permits payment to councillors on a basis of so much a meeting, with no maximum fixed. The result has been it was said by one official today, that some councils meet two or three times a week.

The statute as it now stands fixes the maximum payment per meeting for each councillor. The Bill in its present form would make the matter of remuneration for members of councils and utilities commission subject to the approval of the municipal department.

The change will eventually effect every municipality in Ontario paying its councillors or Utilities Commissioners. Annual by-laws for such payments must be passed.

It was learned, however, that the government is considering amending the proposed amendment so that the approval of the Municipal Department for each bylaw will not be required. Instead the change may be to fix a maximum which each councillor or commissioner may receive in a year and leave the present scale of meeting rates unchanged. When the fees mount above the prescribed maximum, the councillor or commissioner would be eligible to receive no more, no matter how many meetings he might attend.

Letter Allegedly Written by Accused Read in Court

Hamilton, Feb. 17 (CP)—George Anderson, 29, for whom Detective Herbert Witthun travelled 1000 miles to Timmins and back, appered before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge in court today and elected to be tried by judge and jury on four charges of false pretences. He is alleged to have passed four worthless cheques, amounting in all to $130. After the presentation of the preliminary evidence Anderson was committed for trial on all four counts.

John Black was complainant in three of the cases.

G. W. Ballard, K.C., crown attorney, exhibited a letter received by Black and alleged to have been written by the accused. The following brief extract was read to the court: "I will be in Hamilton this week-end and they will have you identify me. If you say you can not identify me they will free me and I will be able to pay you. All you have to say is that I am not the man and you will be $150 in pocket."

IS CHINA ON POINT OF WINNING?

How the best intentions of the Japanese in war in China are being foiled by Chinese methods was told in a story this week in which it was stated that Japan had reached the limit of her ability to win and hold Chinese territory and had stopped winning the war without achieving her objectives, and that Japan could not strike effectively at Chinese resistance.

For over two and a half years the Japanese have been warring in China and while province after province has fallen into Japanese hands the Chinese never wavered in their faith that they would win the war. They claim that the Japanese proclamation urging Chiang Kai-Shek to surrender and saying that Japan would not extend her military operations further but would await his reply, is a confession of weakness.

Here is one of the anomalies of war in a modern day, waged against a vast nation, whose hundreds of millions of people and millions of square miles of territory are too powerful even though unorganized in the western sense to be overcome by a militarist state built on some western models.

It has been said that China has always won the last battle. If that is to come then Japan nears a sad ending. It has been declared that China has always swallowed up its invaders. Will this prove true in this war? The Chinese are not in doubt. They don't accept the Japanese suggestion but go right on in their own way, wearing down the enemy.

As far as the Japanese could foresee they should have won the war. They would be likely to look on the bright side. But really modern war as Japan fights it is too costly. It drains nations quickly while the Chinese, using a worn-out method of guerrilla warfare, do not spend as the Japanese do and the guerrillas prove more effective.

Back of all is the powerful race the Chinese are. Births in China outnumber deaths even from war while war deaths would be fatal to Japan in the course of time. Japan, too, has to cover a vast territory over which the Chinese may move as they like. Japan looks too small for the job.

And then there is the cost. That does not trouble the Chinese much, though they have means. But it does affect Japan greatly. Japan has every form of modern war machinery to attack a race which has not modernized itself. But if China is not modernized, it is led by a modern leader, Chiang Kai-Shek, who is not only one of the most brilliant military tacticians but also a statesman with noble ideals. He is one of the most brilliant men of the world today.

With his millions of men he will probably wear out the enemy. With his vast areas he may spread out the foe until the enemy becomes ineffective.

HIS GOODNESS LEAVES INFLUENCE

Sometimes the question is heard, why do not people show their affection to others while they are alive rather than wait for death to reveal their appreciation? There is of course ground for the charge that too often people neglect to pass the bouquet to the living.

But that should not and does not prevent the paying of tribute to the noble dead. This week brought the instance of Lord Tweedsmuir, whose death has made people think on the eternal realities as they have pondered on the greatness, the nobility and simplicity of the character of this man. A tribute to such a man is a tribute to the one who pays it and to mankind generally.

Lord Tweedsmuir's life was an open book for man to read. And it is sincerely believed that Canadians have read that life and have been enriched in a way that can never be fully weighed, because as Tennyson says "Our echoes roll from soul to soul and grow forever and forever." It is so with the great life of the late Governor-General, his influence goes marching on. In the choice which was made of a Governor-General in 1935 a kindly destiny decided that John Buchan should represent His Majesty the King in the Dominion. For that Canada must forever be grateful, for in him she has been privileged to see a truly great man in action, one in whom there was no guile, one who was above all things sincere and good.

There is a view held by some that goodness is not as dramatic as some other qualities. But that view is surely false. Lord Tweedsmuir showed the greatness of goodness and kindliness in his life. It was the character of this man which showed beneath all else. Goodness in him was not a negative quality, it was a motivating and energizing influence which moulded his whole life. And his life was dramatic as is shown by the grip it has taken on other men's minds. Canadians are better because Lord Tweedsmuir was privileged to live among us, to breathe the air we breathe and to feel the impulses which sway us. And as he influenced and understand us, we may be certain that we exerted an influence on him and we believe it was for good for one of his last letters told of his regret at the prospect of departure which would normally have closed his residence in Canada.

FINLAND'S STRUGGLE NOT IN VAIN

New York Times pays the highest tribute to the Finnish people in an editorial, headed "Salute to the Brave."

"For seventy-seven days the Finnish Army, fighting with its back to the wall, has staved off the inevitable. There has never been any reason to believe that a nation of a few million people could prevail against an adversary many times its size, unless it had assistance from its friends. The very courage of the Finns has tended to conceal this fact. Nothing can conceal it any longer. An enemy that can use its overwhelming superiority in the air to cripple lines of communication; an enemy that can throw literally hundreds of thousands of shells against a short front in a single day; an enemy that can bring up wave on wave of fresh troops from an almost enexhaustible stock of manpower; such an enemy cannot be held back forever. It is typical of the Finns that even after losing the first outposts of the only line that stands between them and destruction, they fight as gallantly as ever. But the Russians have served notice now of the pre-emptive force of numbers.

"No people ever came through a bitter ordeal with a finer record than the Finns. From the start they faced the fact that the longer their armies fought and the more damage they did to the prestige of the invader, the more terrible would be their punishment in defeat. They have not let that prospect rob them of their fire or their self-restraint. To the bravery of their own troops they have responded with quiet sacrifice. To the outside world they have given an example of democracy as every democrat must hope to find it in the hour of its trial: resourceful, self-reliant, generous, determined. The example humbles those who are forced to wonder whether their own faith could meet this cruel test.

"Whether outside aid will come in time to turn the tide that now runs toward catastrophe, only the future can reveal. But of this we may be certain, after the experience of these weeks: the struggle has not been in vain. In victory or in defeat, in safety or disaster, Finland will remain a living symbol and a present influence on the affairs of men as long as liberty is cherished."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

Removing Keloid—Scar Tissue—by Xray

One of the first operations I ever saw was the removal of a large keloid tumor from a fellow student's arm. A keloid tumor is an overgrowth of scar tissue following an injury. Nature, in closing a wound by forming hard white fibrous tissue, sometimes continues to form this scar tissue far past the needs of the wound, resulting in a raised mass of scar tissue.

This mass of scar tissue may be out of the way and cause no disturbance, or it may be in a place where it gets irritated or injured a number of times daily. There is often also itching more or less severe.

Until just a few years ago, this mass of scar tissue was always removed, when necessary, by surgery. The surgeon cut out all the scar tissue and brought the edges of the wound together, thus getting rid of the raised mass or lump. The results were usually satisfactory, but certain cases due to their size and location did not do so well.

As keloids are very common, it is gratifying to know that instead of surgery, treatment by Xray is now greatly used.

Dr. V. del Giudice, Buenos Aires Cancer Institute, during the past eight years has treated 300 keloids due to wounds, by means of superficial Xray treatments. Early in the treatment by Xray the itching disappears and a slight redness appears.

In the group of patients (300), 281 recovered, ten improved and there were nine failures.

As a rule, the keloid disappears after the first treatment. However, the treatment can be repeated after an interval of two or three months if necessary. A soft, flexible skin of normal color and appearance replaces the keloid after treatment.

The sooner the treatment is given as the keloid is developing, the better the results. Dr. del Giudice states that Xray treatment should be given with the first appearance of any infection in the wound (either surgical or non-surgical) as this treatment may prevent the formation of the keloid. He also advises the use of the Xray in helping "clean" wounds to heal more rapidly.

Dr. del Giudice believes that Xray treatment is the best method of removing keloids when the choice of method can be made.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

FEB. 17TH, 1920

Belleville and vicinity is at present experiencing the greatest snow blockade of years. Driving snow into deep drifts a northwestern gale developed last night and continued for the greater part of today. Traffic is tied up on the roads in the country and the few trains that reached here were far behind time. This afternoon a number of men were sent to the hospital to clear a road to that important institution, as it was practically impossible to get near the building. The storm has taught the city authorities a lesson, namely, that one or more snow ploughs are a necessity. At present the city has not a snow plough. Bakers and milk dealers found it a difficult task to get about the city and in some sections no deliveries were made. Ald. Charles Hanna, chairman of public works, did all he could to relieve the situation.

Hitler Confesses to Explorer Aspirations in United States

"Hitler's lust for power has become so great that he envisages the whole of Europe entirely under his own domination with the United States as a colony." These were the words of a woman who has met and talked not only with Hitler but with practically all of Europe's leaders. King Carol and General Franco are exceptions.

Rosita Forbes, famous explorer, writer and lecturer, who in an interview with the Montreal Gazette, talked of the proverbial "many things" is a living refutation of the old claim that a woman cannot be both beautiful and clever. Tall, slim, blue-eyed, her manner is as dynamic as her life has been. She knew Mussolini when—the "when" being in 1920 as she was about to start on her first journey across the Libyan desert and Mussolini, then the editor of Il Popolo in Milan, came to interview her!

But to get back to Hitler though Miss Forbes said she believed Canadians were more interested in "what is going on in England," she recalled a conversation with him in which he said, "You can keep Africa and your camels—I understand you are very fond of them — but leave the whole of America to me."

Hitler is completely unbalanced like many other geniuses," she said, "and success has gone to his head. He has changed greatly in the last six years." His "force obsession" was, she added, the most dangerous thing in the world.

Her admiration for the late Kemal Ataturk, whom she knew for years, is unbounded. He had no ambition except for Turkey and the Turks, she said, and she quoted his words to her that a village on the frontier inhabited by his own people was more important to him than a principality fifty miles away.

Miss Forbes was most anxious to note that she had never interviewed anyone except Hitler on one occasion in Berlin in 1933. Others of the great with whom the explorer has conversed include the Shah of Persia . Talking with him some years ago, she said, the Shah had observed that there would never be any community of interest between the Moslem and the Bolshevik, because their whole system of life was entirely opposite. The Shah held at that time that Turkey was Britain's Maginot Line in the east and said that the British should never again make the mistake regarding Turkey they did in the last war.

Miss Forbes added that the Allies could congratulate themselves on having gained a most valuable ally in Turkey. Turkey, she said, had never been known to break a treaty and always lived up to the letter of her word. She quoted the saying of the East. "You cannot defeat a Turk, you can only kill him."

The subject of the Near East brought up Stalin's name. The explorer remembered that Stalin had told her that he was "oil minded" because distances in Russia were so great that they could only be conquerred with oil. It might be, he had said, that Baku could not supply Russia with enough oil, and in that case Russia would of course be interested in Persian supplies.

She would not commit herself to any forecasting, but in connection with Italy's likely stand she quoted from a letter she had received recently from Count Grandi, the present Minister of Justice in Rome and a former Ambassador to the Court of St. James. He stated: "The war has ceased to be a military effort. Now it is a conundrum which may result in any combination of nations, but the British will always find a great deal of sympathy among the Italian people."

Miss Forbes was certain that the Italian people had no wish to fight for Germany.

Coming to Britain, Miss Forbes had only words of commendation for Mr. Chamberlain, whose position, she said, was becoming stronger and stronger. The Prime Minister, having reached the conclusion that war was the only possible solution to the European problem, was now determined to pursue it. "to Berlin and then some."

She reported the statement of a British lieutenant who, home on leave, commented on Mr. Chamberlain's visit to the war zone. Said the lieutenant: "I wouldn't have believed such energy and enterprise possible even in a debutante."

One American's View of the United States' Role in the Present War

Following is a letter written by Mr. Lawrence Hunt, of New York City, and published on the editorial page of The New York Times. The full text of Mr. Hunt's letter is herewith reproduced:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Pontius Pilate still lives. At the moment he exercises greater influence on our national thinking about foreign affairs than any other person living or dead. He strides the length and breadth of America, dinning his immortal philosophy of neutrality into our minds and hearts. You can hear him on the platform, over the radio, in the club car, at women's club meetings and labor union gatherings. You can read his words in current books, in magazines and newspapers. "Wash your hands", he says, "of this mess. I did once, and saved myself a lot of work and worry. That was none of my business. This is none of yours. So wash your hands of it now."

For the last twenty years we Americans have been fooling ourselves, as Pilate tried to do in another practical situation, when we've talked about America's foreign policy. We still are. It's not surprising. We have been deluged with a constant stream of propaganda about the 'Crime of Versailles,' "We won the war and what did we get?" The pathetic spectacle of a gullible American caught in the wily intrigues of Old World diplomacy, England expecting every American to do his duty, the "Merchants of Death" and the "Wall Street Bankers."

Today there's a new but equally polluted stream of propaganda luridly warning us against propaganda. The upshot of it all is that the thinking of many honest people has become confused, their nerves jangled and their emotions jaded. And as a nation we have managed so far to escape from reality and the tough responsibilities of being a first-rate power. I don't mean that we have lost the Puritanical vice of preaching to others, but we have failed to exercse the Puritanical virtue of doing our share — and more, if need be —of the hard work our very greatness requires of us.

Time For Thought Urged

The purpose of this letter is to suggest briefly that we average citizens question some of these slogans and catch-phrases which are doing so much to paralyze the moral driving force of the American people. Too many of us have been doing our thinking on foreign affairs by proxy. A lot of us let the columnists do it. I suggest that we stuff our ears for a while to the stately measures, the sounding brass and the tinkling cymbals of various of these. Maybe if we do that we can hear ourselves think.

Long before Hitler made the "Crime of Versailles" his favorite bedtime story of the German people many of our "intellectuals" were talking and writing about it in the fevered manner of a town gossip. Pseudo-historians, irresponsible journalists and disgruntled liberals who couldn't digest some of the rougher facts of life all did their bit. There was also some honest, intelligent and justified criticism of it.

As a treaty it had imperfections, having been drawn by imperfect men representing imperfect peoples, most of whom for four years had endured a war that was not exactly perfect. True, Germany lost some rather unprofitable colonies in Africa (in 1914 they accounted for less than one-half of 1 per cent of her foreign trade). Alsace-Lorraine was restored to France. Any objections? The house hears none.

Other Considerations

Then there were the reparations. Much too much. At any rate, machinery was set up whereby they could be scaled down to a reasonable figure and that was shortly done. Voluminous tears have been shed over the war-guilt clause. Through all the fog and smoke of controversy one thing is clear. England and France did not invade Belgium. The war was not fought on German soil. "But—but—the Germans are a proud people." Since when has such pride become a cardinal and cleansing virtue?

Do you remember what the German leaders said they were going to do to the rest of the world if they won? If you don't and are really interested, I suggest that you dig back into the official documents and the files of newspapers of twenty-five years ago, and also read the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk. The peace-at-any-price propagandists today will not tell you, nor will the facing-bothways columnists. Suffice it to say that had Germany won, the Treaty of Versailles, in comparison with the German peace terms, would have seemed like the Sermon on the Mount.

There was one magnificent attempt in the Versailles treaty for a better world—the League of Nations. Our President, Woodrow Wilson, fought hard for it. Those awful European nations, our recent associates, accepted it. America turned it down. We wanted to preach, not work, for a world of peace and ordered liberty

Tardieu's Treaty Summary

Yes, there's this and that and a thousand and one other things to be said about the "Crime of Versailles." I am merely suggesting a few things to remember.

The fairest summary of America's participation at the Versailles Peace Conference was made by Clemenceau's right-hand man, Tardieu: "A war won by four could not end in a peace dictated by one."

But "We won the war." Sure we did. Almost single-handed. Almost. Let's try to be honest with ourselves so that we may be fair to others. Let's remember what England and France and our other associates contributed to the winning of that war.

For instance, they fought the war for three years while we remained neutral and waxed rich at their expense. England, with a population one-third of ours, lost in dead alone nearly one million men; France with a population less than one third of ours, more than a million and a half; Canada with a population less than New York State, about 100,000. In other words had the United States suffered relatively as France did, our dead alone would have exceeded four and a half million men. As it was, we lost about 75,000.

We never knew the horror of an air raid, the terror and degradation of an invading army destroying our towns and cities and enslaving a large part of our civilian population to be hewers of wood and drawers of water in the enemy country. Fuel-less Sundays, Liberty Loan drives, and one peice of sugar instead of two were among our major enterprises. Yes, they helped — helped a lot, "turned the tide" and all that sort of thing. But as a nation we were spared the agony our comrades-in-arms endured. My point is that when we stop to think and make a real effort to be fair the propaganda we have been fed for several years seems a bit indecent.

There is something "phony" in the contrast between our noisy pride in our fighting prowess and our self-abasement as diplomatic morons. You know that oft-repeated phrase, "America has won every war and lost every peace conference." The next time some parlor intellectual repeats that phrase in the pompous manner of the man trying to make a conversational impression ask him how many and what peace conferences he's talking about. Did our diplomats lose for us the American Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War of 1845-46, the Spanish-American War or the World War (when we ducked our job by repudiating the League of Nations)? Didn't they do pretty well in the Louisiana and Alaska purchases, the Oregon boundary dispute, the Alaskan fisheries controversy, the Alabama claims the Venezuelan crisis of 1895? You may not be able to convince him, but at least you will have the satisfaction of exploding a myth.

"Fooling Ourselves"

At any rate, let's stop talking nonsense about being "bamboozled" by wily foreign diplomats. It's just another way of fooling ourselves and evading our responsibilities.

One of the favorite sports of writers who have consciously or unconsciously misled and misinformed the American public in recent years has been to deride the motives which caused the purposes which inspired America's entry into the last World War. They have created bogies and scarecrows, naming them "Merchants of Death" and the "Wall Street Bankers" and depicting them as beguiling and forcing the American people against their will to enter the war.

That just isn't so, and you and I know it. The average American doesn't give a damn what the "Wall Street Bankers" say or think or do expect when, as in the Nineteen Twenties, some of them sold us gilt-edged flypaper on which we were permanently stuck. Both our knowledge and common sense refuse to elevate the munition manufacturers into gods of human destiny. They make their unpleasant goods and sell them because there are people who want them and will buy them. Occasionally some overzealous salesman may have encouraged a Central American revolution, but to picture these practical gentlemen as playing a decisive role in the destinies of the world is plain silly.

America entered the last war for many reasons. The most immediate and compelling reason was simply that Germany, after repeated warnings and protests, continued to sink ships without warning, with a loss of American lives. If Germany had not sunk our ships and if American lives had not been lost in those actions, we would not have entered the war.

Faith in Ideals Cited

With all our faults, we Americans have a great faith in certain ideals—a faith that has moved mountains and has contributed mightily to our greatness as a nation. When Woodrow Wilson struck the moral note, the heart of America responded. Most Americans did believe that we were fighting "to make the world safe for democracy." Whether we succeeded or failed is irrelevant at this point. We did fight for something worth fighting for and we need feel no regret or shame for that motive and purpose.

Somewhat allied to the foregoing reason were our national heritage and traditions. English people, French people and American people believe in their hearts that individual freedom is one of those few things worth fighting for and, if need be, worth dying for.

The German ideal in the last war, as in the present one, was different, and—what is important for us to bear in mind—really endangered our ideal then as it does today. Despite all the effusions of flabby intellectuals, and of demagogic politicians, materialism is not the only driving force in American life. It wasn't in 1917 and it isn't now.

Americans Never Catspaws

Nor did we fight to pull England's chestnuts out of the fire. We never have. The propagandists who say we have done so cannot prove a single instance in our entire history as a nation to support their falsehood. And yet by using the Nazi-Communist tactic of repeating a falsehood again and again they have deceived some honest, well-meaning folk and have soothed those frantic people who cannot bear to face the simple but sometimes hard truths of life. Have you observed how these same propagandists will scream with rage because England is at moments reluctant to do the hard jobs of civilization which they urge us to shirk?

I have been discusisng the propaganda about America's part in the last war. At first sight it may seem like beating a dead horse because we now have another great war and must make up our minds what to do about it. The old propaganda has been mentioned because it has tended to warp our present attitudes. Consider briefly now some of the present-day pitfalls that constantly threaten our thinking.

"They're all alike." Who says so? Such strange bedfellows as Molotoff, the Soviet Minister of Foreign Affairs, Hugh Johnson and our milksop intellectuals who only yesterday were screaming at Chamberlain and Daladier for their "cowardly surrender" at Munich and their "betrayal" of Republican Spain. And to give point to their propaganda they tar us with their brushes, Molotoff referring to our treatment of the Cubans and Johnson to the American Indians.

We can ignore the Communist bunch for the moment — they are part of the price we pay for the freedom we cherish. But the propaganda is vicious to the extent it helps us to fool ourselves. We know better. Magna Carta, habeas corpus, the common law, William Shakespeare, the King James Bible, John Bunyan, Voltaire, Lafayette, the Rights of Man, Wordsworth and Bobby Burns—they are part of our heritage. They are not Prussian nor Nazi nor Communist.

The conquest of Austria, the ruins of Czecho-Slovakia, the massacre of the Poles, the attack on Finland, the torture of concentration camps, the bestial crimes against race and religion, purges, "blood baths", "Mein Kampf" and the Communist Manifesto—they are not English or French or American. No—we are not "all alike." We know all about that. But how long shall we let these propagandists help us delude ourselves?

Self-Delusion Is Seen

Perhaps the loveliest self-delusion we are enjoying at the moment is the picture of America acting as a sweet holier-than-thou peacemaker when the war ends. We will be happy, comfortable and "disinterested." Our former associates will have gone through the hell of a war they desperately tried to avoid; they will be suffering, poor and tired out. Therefore we can do some more preaching, tell them what sort of peace they should make (not too harsh on the Germans, because they are "a proud race") and how they must behave if they are to be like us.

Wait a minute. Suppose the Nazi-Comunists win? Well, brothers and sisters, if that happens, we'll have to do an awful lot more than preaching— far more than if we frankly and actively aided England and France now. It might be that we are counting a little too comfortably on the Maginot Line and the British fleet. And, despite the peace-at-any-price propagandists, we do count on them.

If the Allies win without our aid, by what right will we have a voice in the peace terms? What will have been America's contribution? A few cheers, lots of "moral support" and goods for cash down. Again, I say don't let the propagandists fool us. Let's not fool ourselves. We should at least be too adult for that.

The latest trick of Pontius Pilate propagandists is to warn us against propaganda. Apparently they assume that Americans are a simple, childlike, almost moronic people who need nurses and guards to keep them out of mischief. It is insidious stuff, which, taken in too large doses, is likely to cause moral impotence and intellectual sterility. It is reminiscent of the old Quaker's remark to his wife. "All the world's mad except thee and me, and even thou art a little mad."

"What Can We Believe?"

We are asked to shut our eyes to the most blazing truths, to avert our gaze from the plain facts of our contemporary life, to stuff our ears and to harden our hearts so that somehow, in some way, we can escape from the tough realities of this world and, as a nation, evade the tasks which nature, our moral traditions and the uncompromising forces of destiny have set for us to do.

This propaganda against propaganda makes many an average citizen throw up his hands and say, "What can I believe?" Well—you can believe in yourself, your own common sense, your own decent instincts, your own values and traditions which you cherish enough to fight for. These peace-at-any-price people who, consciously or unconsciously, are giving daily aid and comfort will do some harm and create more confusion before the courageous common sense of America says "Enough—you're a fake." They won't succeed, because we'll stop deceiving ourselves when the hour of decision is at hand.

The fashion of our present-day propagandists is to sneer at Uncle Sam for acting in 1917 the role of the Good Samaritan. According to these people, the Good Samaritan was a fool and a "sucker". He actually inconvenienced himself in doing his share as a member of the human family. There were no profits in what he did. But the Levite was the "wise guy." He "minded his own business" and went his own way. Didn't lose a nickel.

Perhaps Uncle Sam should do the same. I don't think he will. He isn't that sort of fellow. In due course he'll rub his eyes, stand up take off his coat, and do a man's job in a hard but worthwhile world.

New York City.

COL. DREW TAKES ISSUE WITH KING ON STATEMENT

Says Prime Minister Has Not Received "General Commendation" for Government War Effort

RECALLS INTERVIEW

London, Ont., Feb. 17.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King has "good reason" for knowing the Dominion Government's war effort has not received "general commendation", Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew said last night in an address to a Conservative nomination convention.

Col. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, spoke at a meeting which gave the unanimous nomination of the party in London Riding to T. P. Kingsmill, former Mayor of the city.

Recalling a conference with Mr. Mackenzie King October 3, a month after the outbreak of war, Col. Drew said the Prime Minister "made the surprising statement that our preparation was further advanced at that date than at corresponding date during the Great War".

"I immediately took issue with him", Col. Drew said, "and expressed hope that such a statement would not be repeated publicly because it was not correct. I pointed out that at a corresponding date during the last war 35,000 men were in training at Valcartier, and that they had their uniforms, vehicles and animals as well as the weapons with which to train.

Objects To War Contracts.

"I expressed the hope that the absence of public criticism on the part of the press or on our own part would not be taken as commendation of what had taken place. I said, however, that nothing was to be gained at the moment by discussing the failure to prepare for war so long as steps were taken to remedy the situation which existed."

On Nov. 3, Col. Drew said, he wrote to the prime minister describing alleged abuses in the issuance of war contracts. He read excerpts from the letter, citing particularly a contract let for bombs for the Royal Canadian Air Force, the leasing of a Montreal building to the Department of National Defence and the purchase of a home at Vancouver to serve as an officers' mess for the R.C.A.F.

"I gave Mr. King detailed information in regard to other improper contracts dealing with matters of much greater national concern than those which I have quoted," Col. Drew declared. "In those cases the situation is so serious that I do not propose to discuss them publicly. Mr. King has detailed information and I can only urge that his associates force him to deal with the abuses which exist."

Conscription Not Issue

Dealing with Mr. Mackenzie King's first speech of the Federal election campaign, Col. Drew said: "The suggestion that national government might deprive Canadians of their freedom is perhaps the most amazing of all Mr. King's arguments in view of what has happened elsewhere.

"Great Britain has national government. Australia has national government. New Zealand has national government, and so has France. If national government was necessary in every nation with which we are now allied, in war, it is indeed remarkable that national government becomes dangerous to freedom in Canada alone."

Col. Drew said the Prime Minister told his hearers that "unity was not brought about by so-called national government that might enforce conscription or disfranchise many classes of Canadian citizens." The Provincial Conservative leader said the three leaders of the Dominion's major parties had declared themselves against conscription and therefore "by no stretch of any honorable imagination is conscription now an issue."

CHAPTER 36

Joys and Sorrows

It was a gay party at the officers' mess at the air field near Metz later that morning. Bill Cameron had exchanged his Nazi uniform for one of horizon blue lent to him by the commandant who was about his size. Rene was resplendant in his own uniform, although the effect was somewhat spoiled by the fact that one arm was in a black silk sling.

The post doctor had examined his wound, said it was healing nicely and complimented Cameron and Claire on the manner in which they had treated it.

"A month's rest, plenty of good food and Rene will be as good as new," he said, cheerfully.

The commandant's wife had managed to make Claire fairly presentable in one of her gowns, and although she was a bit larger than the American girl, some skilfully placed pins had accomplished wonders in making the dress fit.

The three of them ate ravenously, their first good meal in days, and afterwards, over cigarettes, Rene insisted on recounting for the benefit of the commandant and members of his staff Bill's exploit in stealing the Nazi plane.

It was nearly noon before they could escape from their hosts. Then a staff car and driver were put at their disposal to take them to Paris.

"First, I must get in touch with Washington to report my whereabouts," Cameron said, his arm about Claire," and then you and I are going to call upon the maire of the First Arrondissement."

"Why in the world should we call on the mayor," Claire asked, snuggling closer to him.

"How else can we be married immediately? That's what we want, isn't it, dear?"

For answer, Claire put her lips up to him.

The car dropped Cameron at the American embassy to make a full report to the ambassador, and then at the Ministry of War to let Rene out. He, too, had a report to make to his superiors.

A few minutes later Claire was stepping to the sidewalk in front of her hotel and not long after that was luxuriating in her own bath, and getting into her own clothes.

It was five o'clock when Bill phoned that he was waiting in the lobby and that they had an appointment in fifteen minutes with the mayor in the Place du Louvre.

"We'll walk," he said as he greeted her in the lobby. "We can stop on the way and get a ring and some flowers. I'd like to get your engagement ring at the same time, but that's a matter that requires time and thought. Do you suppose you could wait to select it in New York day after tomorrow?'

"New York? Day after tomorrow?" she echoed.

"Yes. I talked with the chief on the transatlantic phone. We're to leave tonight by plane for Lisbon to make the Clipper for New York. We'll have time to do some shopping there day after tomorrow, and then take the train to Washington. When I explained that we were getting married, the chief decided he could give me a few hours off before I had to report. Later, we'll take a couple of months and go to Florida or California, or wherever else you want to go."

"How does that sound to you, darling"?

"Don't let that stop you. The French people don't mind — they understand such things."

So right in the heart of one of Paris' most brilliant shopping districts, a tall young American took a very pretty American girl in his arms and thoroughly kissed her before they walked on, hand in hand.

At the Mairie, they found Danny Brooks, Maria, Julie Roland, Welles Sanford, Captain Rene Martin and M. Mornet, the latter considerably crestfallen over his false identification of the body of William Cameron.

Claire had asked Danny over the phone to get in touch with Noel Yorke and invite him. She looked around but he wasn't there.

"He'll be sorry to have missed this," she said. "But he's away in the country. I don't know just when he will return."

If she knew what Claire and Bill and Rene knew — that he never would return to France — she didn't betray it and the girl wondered whether she realized the dangerous game her husband was engaged in. Maria seemed serenely self-possessed, although Claire thought she detected a worried expression about her eyes.

Was Maria a spy? Julie, too? What a strange thing to stand up here with two enemy agents looking on while the French official pronounced the words of the civil ceremony that made her Mrs. William Amherst Cameron!

After a flurry of congratulations and good-byes, they hurried back to the hotel to pack for the long journey. Cameron, who had recovered his bags at the embassy where they had been returned from the St. Croix, volunteered to help Claire.

"I have unpacked only one bag," he said. "We'll have to send most of our things by boat as the baggage will be limited on the Clipper."

The door of Claire's room was ajar and she had a momentary feeling of panic as she was certain she had locked it when she left. But with her husband to give her courage, she pushed the door boldly open and walked in.

Noel Yorke arose from a chair, smiling at them, and extended his hand.

"Congratulations, Claire, on everything." He turned to the man. "This is William Amherst Cameron, I presume. I am Noel Yorke, otherwise known as 'Z.Y.' Claire may have mentioned me to you."

"Oh, yes, indeed." Cameron shook his hand heartily. "Thanks to you, we're both here, happily married and about to leave for home the fastest possible way."

"Congratulations, again, to both of you. You found Frau Weber — er — cooperative?"

"A masterpiece of understatement," Cameron laughed. "I hope neither she nor her daughter suffered as a result of us."

"Not at all — they completely escaped suspicion after their place was searched, and as I understand it the same arrangements are to be carried on indefinitely. They are very valuable allies."

"It proved very useful. I suppose you'll keep on with this work?"

"Tonight 'Z.Y.' disappears forever — and the records will show that he was shot by a firing squad at St. Cyr as a spy — an enemy of France."

"But — but Mr. Yorke — you don't mean ......" Claire gasped, her face pale from the shock of his words.

"Your interest is very flattering" he said, with a faint smile. "I didn't intend to frighten you. But it is true that I will face a firing squad tonight — and there will be some one else with me — a beautiful woman. Some one you know."

"Maria?"

"Yes. We have unmistakable proof of her guilt. She had been working hand in glove with Roland. How many lives the two of them have cost France, we'll probably never know. She must die.

"But you?"

"The enemy must think I died, too — but the guns aimed at me will contain blanks. 'Z.Y.' will be gone, but I will live on — under some new identity, with my appearance considerably changed. There still is much work to be done."

"Does Rene — Does Rene know?

"Yes — he has been told. It almost killed him to learn of Maria's treachery, but he is reconciled. He knows it is the only solution. He is being sent to a hospital in the south of France for a month or two to recuperate from his wound —and, if possible, his broken heart."

"Poor Rene," Claire mourned. "He loves her so much."

"Thank goodness, Bill is taking me away from it." The girl turned to her husband with outstretched arms.

"I was a spy" playing next at the McCarthy Theatre with Madeleine Carroll and Herbert Marshall co-starred, portrays the actual experiences of a woman spy during the World War, being based on the reminiscences of Martha McKenna, most famous of British secret agents, whose career strangely paralleled that of Edith Cavell.

Martha McKenna wife of a British army officer, was Martha Cnockhaert during the war, a Belgian girl impressed by the Germans into service as a nurse in a war hospital. Although her patriotism impelled her to hate all things German, she nevertheless felt genuine compassion for the wounded German soldiers, and won their devotion by her tender care.

For her service as a nurse she was awarded the German Iron Cross. Meanwhile however, she had become a spy for the Allies, notifying them of troop movements, working with a hospital orderly, also a spy, to destroy a poison gas pump, directing the bombs that mutilated the soldiers she tried so hard to nurse back to health.

How she was trapped by the German secret service, the drama of her trial, her escape from execution are all contained in the film story, romanticized for the screen, but with its essential living human drama unchanged.

Madeleine Carroll who portrays on the screen the role played actually by Mrs. McKenna in real life, visited the famous spy in Brussels, and conferred with her on the details and background for her part. Herbert Marshall has the masculine lead, with Conrad Veidt assigned to the dramatic role of the German officer whose distressing duty it is to send a woman to the firing squad.

Late News Events

Fox-Movietone-News, a new presentation at the McCarthy Theatre, also a musical comedy in perfect technicolor, featuring Cliff Edwards entitled "Ride, Cowboy, Ride," are presented in addition to "I Was a Spy."

"Reno" and 'Haunted Gold"

Surpassing "Cimarron" and "Man of Conquest" for dramatic achievement and entertainment, Richard Dix and Gail Patrick head the big cast in "Reno" new R.K.O. Radio's smash hit now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, John Wayne, star of "Stagecoach" is also playing in "Haunted Gold" a four star western hit, both these features brings to the McCarthy Theatre a swell show and makes the program excellent entertainment all will enjoy.

AT THE BELLE

"Gulliver's Travels"

After two years of work by some two hundred artists and the expenditure of more money than it is good taste to mention, "Gulliver's Travels," Max Fleischer's full-length animated cartoon in technicolor is now on the Belle Theatre screen. "Gulliver" is the first picture of this kind to be produced since Walt Disney's "Snow White" of two seasons ago and the first ever to issue from Paramount's studios.

"Gulliver's Travels" comes from Jonathan Swift's immortal classic of the same name which, since its first appearance two centuries ago has been read by countless millions of children and adults alike and been translated into virtually every language on earth.

As translated onto celluloid by Fleischer, the Swift story deviates from the original only in the slightest degree. Like the book, it plots the amazing adventures of the English seaman whom an ocean storm shipwrecked on a faraway island of miniature people, tiny buildings and miniscule vegetation. All the main characters in the picture—with one notable exception—are the unique, lovable creatures Dean Swift drew, and the situations come directly from his unforgettable tale.

The picture opens with "Gulliver's" shipwreck on the shores of "Lilliput," a fantastic wonderland somewhere in the South Seas where the tallest inhabitants measures up to a man's boot and the highest building could be hidden behind a barrel. In spite of their size, the "Lilliputians" tie up the immense visitor while he is sleeping and he awakes to find himself their prisoner.

"Gulliver's" adventures crowd thick and fast when, after superhuman effort, the "Lilliputians" drag him to their capital city on a flat car. At first regarded as a menace, "Gulliver" turns into a national hero through his amazing feats of strength and soon becomes chief aide to "King Little", the ruler of the bantam kingdom.

The visitor gets the chance to perform his greatest feat when war threatens between "Lilliput" and the adjoining kingdom of "Blefuscu". The controversy hinges upon the question of what song shall be played at the wedding of "Prince David" of "Blefuscu" to "Princess Glory" of "Lilliput". "King Little" insists upon "Faithful", and "Lilliputian" national anthem, while the rival king, "Bombo" is just as determined to have it "Forever", the "Blefusouan" hymn. It is up to "Gulliver" to resolve the controversy, reunite the stricken lovers and prevent the war.

The musical score of "Gulliver's Travels" is on the same lavish scale as the rest of the production. There are eight new songs in all, most of them already hits on the radio and in night spots. They are, "Faithful" "Forever", "Bluebirds in the Moonlight", "Faithful Forever", "It's a Hap-Hap-Happy Day", "All's Well", "I Hear a Dream" and "We're All Together Now".

Select Short Treats.

A selected program of short treats have been assembled for exhibition on the same program including the popular Paramount British newsreel, a very funny multiple-reel allstar comedy, "Slightly At Sea" and a smart sportlight film "Juto Experts". Performances start daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.10 p.m.

COUNTY COUNCILS MAY BE GIVEN ASSESSORS

These Assessors Under Bill Would Only be Supervising Officials

NEW AMENDMENTS

Toronto, Feb. 17 (CP).—Ontario's 90-year-old county assessment system may be on its way out. The legislature took a step yesterday toward reaching more uniformity in it when it approved a bill giving the county councils the right to appoint supervising assessors.

Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, said he did not think public opinion was ready yet for a system whereby all assessments in county municipalities would be made by a county-appointed assessor, instead of the present method whereby each municipality in a county appoints its own assessor.

"This bill provides an intermediate step to educate local assessors to standards and then to apply these standards within a county," said Mr. Cross.

In brief, the bill provides for county assessors who, to make uniform the method of preparing assessment rolls in municipalities and to ascertain whether valuations made in each municipality bear a just relation one to another, shall supervise and advise the assessors of each municipality.

Former Premier George Henry (Con. York East) urged there should be some study of equalized assessments as between counties as government subsidies were based on them.

Amend Municipal Act.

An amendment to the Municipal Act, sponsored by Mr. Cross also, and which was given second reading, would make decisions of municipal councils in fixing salaries of their own members and of utilities commissions, subject to the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The House also approved second reading of a bill amending the Unwrought Metal Sales Act. The amendment would place on the purchaser of unwrought precious metals the onus of proving that the purchaser of unwrought precious metals

High-grading was a serious problem in Ontario's mining areas, Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, said in moving the amendment to the Unwrought Metal Sales Act. It was difficult to prove that a person in possession of ore had knowingly purchased it from a person who had no right to sell it and the amendment would remove the word knowingly.

Mr. Conant said there was tremendous difficulty in convicting the high-graders. They had "devious and sinister" ways of circumventing the law. They not only robbed mine owners. They robbed the government of taxes rightfully due.

"A whole network of people may be involved before stolen ores reach the market," said Mr. Conant. "The amendment would impose an obligation on the purchaser of unwrought metal to make sure of the source from which it is being purchased."

Promised Investigation

J. J. Glass (Lib. Toronto-St. Andrews) said he had general objections to legislation placing the onus of proof on an accused person. In effect the legislature was making a new crime.

At Winnipeg next month, Provincial Mines Ministers will discuss the whole question of uniformity of laws affecting mining, said Mr. Leduc.

Attorney-General Conant promised the legislature he would inquire into an allegation made in The Financial Post that Judge J. Ambrose Shea of the York County Court had while a Magistrate at Kingston acted as an official of the Frontenac Company which had contracts with the government.

Conservative leader George Drew brought the Shea matter to the House's attention. He said the Post charged that the Frontenac Company had contracts totalling $408,000 with the Ontario Highways Department from 1937 to 1939. Judge Shea was then Magistrate at Kingston and acted variously as Secretary and Treasurer of the Frontenac Company.

Mr. Conant said that Col. Drew's statement was the first time the matter had come to his attention. The situation was perhaps made a little delicate by the recent appointment of Magistrate Shea to the York County Bench.

The War This Week

(By Don Gilbert, Canadian Press Cable Editor)

The precarious position of the Finnish forces defending the Mannerheim Line against the onslaughts of the Red army with its seemingly inexhaustible reserve of manpower held the anxious attention of the sympathetic nations in the 24th week of the war between the Allied powers and Germany.

After 16 days of fighting in battle likened to the French army's great stand before Verdun a generation ago, the Finns yielded ground in the vicinity of Summa, 20 miles southeast of Vibourg (Viipuri), Finland's second city, but insisted that otherwise the system of fortifications across the Karelian Isthmus remained intact.

Prompts Hurried Visit

Military opinion was not inclined to believe that the Finns would collapse suddenly, but nevertheless turn of events prompted a hurried visit to Stockholm by a delegation of Finnish cabinet ministers to urge that the Swedish government provide regular military forces for service against the Russians. The Swedes, adhering to their position of firm neutrality, refused.

Great Britain recognized the seriousness of the Finnish position by legalizing enlistment of volunteers and thousands of men and women offered their services to the Finnish legation in London. The flow of British arms and munitions to Finland steadily increased in volume while France announced she was sending large quantities of anti-tank guns, aircraft and field artillery.

Anzacs Land

With the approach of Spring bringing nearer the inevitable test of strength between the opposing forces in the major theatre of war, Australian and New Zealand expeditionary troops were landed in Egypt and Palestine, adding to the formidable concentration of Allied power in the Near East.

Germany sought to counteract the Allies' favorable military and diplomatic position in southeastern Europe and the Near East by drawing closer to Red Russia. A new trade treaty between Berlin and Moscow was signed and German engineers were reported at work building fortifications on Russian supply lines over which the Nazis hope a steady stream of Russian oil, metals and foodstuffs will move to Germany.

An indication that Soviet-Nazi co-operation is not confined to trade and military matters was seen in a speech by Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the German labor front. Like the comintern in its manifestos from Moscow, Dr. Ley called upon "workers of all lands" to "unite to smash the rule of English capitalism."

Testifying to the effectiveness of the Allied blockade, and the paucity of butter fat in the Reich, the Nazi economy dictator Field Marshal Hermann Goering announced increased milk and butter prices. Official reason given was that the increases were designed to ease the lot of the farmers.

Three Large Freighters Sunk

In its campaign to destroy Allied shipping carrying food and raw materials to the British Isles, the German navy sank three large British freighters during the week and altogether sent to the bottom about 65,000 tons of Allied and neutral shipping. On the other side of the ledger, the Royal Navy destroyed at least four German U-boats while the 3,771-ton German freighter Wakama was scuttled in the south Atlantic by her own crew.

Glancing back 25 years: In the week of Feb. 11-17, 1915, the first division of the Canadian Expeditionary Force landed in France after a stormy passage from Avonmouth, Bristol channel port. Fighting was severe on the eastern and western fronts. The Russians withdrew before strong German attacks in east Prussia and Bukovina, but in France and Belgium the Allies made successful thrusts on several sectors.

ALBERTANS TO HAVE ELECTION

Dissolution of Legislature Made by Premier Aberhart Late on Friday

Edmonton, Feb. 17.— (CP)—Albertans will march to the polls March 21 to elect their ninth government.

Announcement of the provincial general election date and dissolution of the legislature was made by Premier Aberhart last night a few minutes after prorogation of a record-breaking session. At 8.31 p.m. (10.31 p.m. E.S.T.) the Premier announced Lieutenant-Governor had just signed the order dissolving the legislature

The world's first Social Credit government, elected in August, 1935, ended its legislature life with a long program—various committees and the assembly sitting almost continuously from 9 a.m. until prorogation at 8.15 p.m.

SHIPS SUNK THIS WEEK

Ships sunk this week the .ehgg ff
(By The Canadian Press)

German naval action accounted for the sinking of three large British freighters, averaging 10,000 tons apiece, in the week ending February 16. Five small British fishing boats and 14 neutral vessels were sent to the bottom in addition.

One of the many German vessels in refuge in neutral ports, the 3,771-ton Wakama, attempted to dash for the Reich. She was scuttled by her own crew in the South Atlantic when intercepted by British patrols.

The week's losses:

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

Repeated blows of the Red army have at last driven the Finnish forces back from many of their fortified positions in the Karelian Isthmus and the Russians are reported to be within 20 miles of the key Finnish city of Vibourg.

Russia first attempted to conquer Finland the easy way by attacking pincer fashion at a number of widely separated points. Had those attacks succeeded in cutting Finland in pieces Finnish resistance would have collapsed and Russian losses would have been comparatively slight.

They failed and the two-week old offensive still hammering at the Mannerheim line represents a change in tactics. The Red army is taking the harder course of throwing its weight against the Finns on their strongest positions. It is costing a lot but so far is succeeding.

In the First Great War the great offensives launched by the opposing armies usually tended to lose their force as the weeks went by. The further the attacking army penetrated the less became its striking power because, regardless of its reinforcements, it was forced to move over ground which had been churned and smashed by artillery fire.

The condition in the Karelian Isthmus is not the same and a weakening in the Russian offensive need not necessarily be expected. There the Russian forces have not penetrated to any great distance. They need not do so to achieve their primary objectives.

Russia apparently has an inexhaustible supply of fresh troops. The front is well served by railway lines and roads and new divisions may be moved up quickly and thrown into the fight without a tiring march over a wide expanse of conquered and devastated ground.

Fashion Flashes

THERE'S COLOR in resort wear clothes. A pretty outfit combines light blue gabardine slacks with a long jacket of dusty pink, closed with a blue slide fastened. Jacket has big patch pockets.

Here again are lovely print frocks flashing under fur coats. A frock of black silk crepe is printed with vivid jungle flower design in two shades of green, red, mauve and violet. Slim bodice, pleated skirt.

Attractive for now down south and for home later on, is a shirtwaist frock of sky blue wool crepe with a long loose jacket of flannel in the same shade. Saddle stitching trims both dress and coat.

An evening at home is more pleasant when a pretty house gown gladdens the scene. A beauty is in two shades of chiffon, pale mauve over pink, the mauve layer pleated all the way down. Wide satin girdle is in the two colors and has floor-length panel ends.

It's a big season for the little suit and blouse to be worn now under a fur coat and to appear with furs later. One such suit is in navy light weight wool jersey. The skirt has drapery and unpressed pleats, while the snug jacket has a little peplum. White lingerie blouse with double jabot.

An advance view of coming fashions shows emphasis on the fitted reefer. Fashion accents include revers with rounded notches, two buttons at the fitted waist and a six-gore back.

Madeleine Carroll and Herbert Marshall are co-starred in the production, "I Was A Spy," based on the real life story of British agent Martha McKenna, opening next at the McCarthy Theatre. Conrad Veidt is also featured.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, February 17

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE PROSPECT for fulfilled ambitions, of a business, financial and personal nature, is presaged by the planetary configurations. Financial promise is encouraged, with the support of those in places of influence and prestige. There is a menace of danger of loss with papers, writings or documents. There is a sign of courtship or matrimony for the eligible. Much conviviality, with pleasant friendship, is emphasized.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a progressive, prosperous and happy year, with probably courtship or marriage. There should be much pleasant friendliness in both home and business relations.

A child born on this day may be alert and versatile, and have fine creative talents and originality. But it may be changeable and lacking in steadiness.

For Sunday, February 18

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an interesting one. There is likely to be much mirth and frivolity among the young, with happy romances among the prospects, and much stirring around. But there is danger of fraud or duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is have promise of a progressive and prosperous year, with interest centered on the pursuit of pleasure; there may be much gay companionship. Be careful of all forms of fraud, trickery and schemes.

A child born on this day may be gay, vivacious and romantic, although being studious, original and ambitious. It should have a happy and successful career.

For Monday, February 19

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for much activity at a lively and harmonious pace. It is an auspicious time for approaching employers and those in power for favors and advancement. It would be well to curb tendencies to over-enthusiasm, extravagance and generosity.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a prosperous, progressive and happy year, with encouragement for approaching influential persons for tokens of preferment and honors. There are tendencies to over-generosity and expenditures.

A child born on this day may expect to enjoy a happy successful and generally prosperous life. It may be companionable and have a generous disposition.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

To Be Married

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I am to be married in June but we are not going to have a "wedding". We will have a best man and one bridesmaid.

1—Would it be correct to send announcements to our friends and relatives?

2—My father is a widower. Should he make the announcement, and how should his name be written?

3—Various friends have planned showers. Should the sister of my fiance (who lives in another city) be invited, although she is not acquainted with my friends?

4—Should I, as Mrs. John Jones, junior, always use the 'junior' although my husband's mother and father live in another city?

5—Is it correct to use one's husband's second name?

6—In receiving gifts from my future husband's relatives, his aunts grandmother, and so forth, whom I have never met, how should I address them when writing thank-you letters? Should these letters be signed with both our names?

1—Yes, since you are apparently inviting very few guests to your wedding, the most convenient way of informing the relatives and friends who are not to be invited to the wedding is to send them formal announcements of your marriage.

2—Yes, your father is the one who should make this announcement. His name, on the first line of the announcement, should read:

Mr. John Joseph Jones

3—It is not necessary to invite your fiance's sister, especially since she lives in another city, but it would be gracious to ask the hostess of one of the showers to invite her.

4—Yes, when the husband's mother and father are both living, the son and the son's wife use the Junior (or Jr.) after the name. Sometimes, when the husband's father is not living and when the son and his wife in different cities, both the widow and the son's wife use the same form of name. . . . Mrs. John Whiteside Jones.

5—Yes, and it's better to use the name spelled in full, in signatures and for formal occasions, then it is to use an initial.

6—When you write thank-you notes or any other kind of letter to the relatives of your prospective husband, relatives whom you have not met them, you probably will not have had an opportunity for them to give you permission to use an informal name.

Your thank-you notes should be signed with your name only. But of course, in the body of the letter you would also include the thanks and appreciation of your fiance.

Birth Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

1—Does receiving an announcement of a child's birth mean sending a present I am to have a baby soon, and because I live on the West coast and most of my relatives and friends live on the East coast, I plan to send announcement cards. Some of these friends are not especially intimate friends, but they used to be co-workers of mine. I would like to have them know about the birth of my baby, but I don't want them to thing that sending them an announcement means that they have to send a gift. Is there anything I can do about this?

2—If the girl is married, should the birth announcement be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. ——"?

Betty

1—You do not need to worry at all about the fact that these birth announcement cards may indicate to your friends that they should send gifts. Just regard them in your mind as what they are . . . announcement cards. They do not at all call for a present. Your friends will be happy indeed that you took this way of telling them the happy news. Some of your relatives and close friends may send you gifts for the new baby. Many of them will undoubtedly write you of their happiness in your happiness. The thing for you to do is to tell them the good news in this way, and let them use their own choice as to what they wish to do.

2—Yes, these formal birth announcements should be addressed to Mr. and Mrs., as in any other formal announcement.

A master draftsman, William Morris, invented the Morris chair.

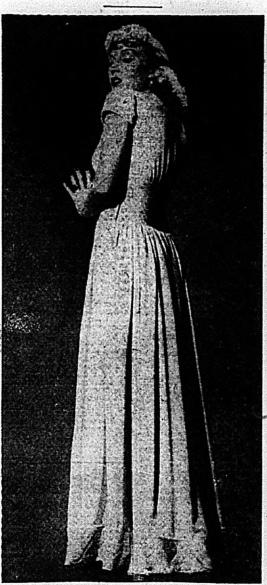
Argentina has repealed its decree compelling flour millers to buy all their wheat from the government grain regulating board.

Put a small lump of orris root into the rinsing water for handkerchiefs, blouses and other dainty apparel for a delightful perfume of violets.

Spirits of camphor will remove most fruit stains.

Wax the bottoms of legs of furniture and they will not scratch polished floors when moved around.

For Practical Purposes



By ALICE ALDEN

MID-SEASON is the time to get your white dinner or evening gown, especially if you are, of necessity, a practical person. It's right for now and spring, and, unless it's wool, it will serve warm weather uses, too. This model of heavy white crepe, beautifying Hollywood's Muriel Angelus, is simple, following the covered-up trend, with corded waistband, cap sleeves and hem. Comfortable, too, since there's not even a girdle to worry about. It will take lots of jewelry or none, the bodice being high and plain, or, if preferred, fresh flowers. Such a gown also accommodates dozens of little dressy jackets—taffeta, soft, colorful wool, sequin or what you will. Incidentally, you'll find pretty white jerseys in the shops these next few weeks, and at minimum prices, the majority cut similarly to this more expensive silk.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Has to Fight a Case of Hero-Worship

Dear Miss Fairfax,

I don't have to fight another woman; in my case it's hero-worship for another man. I'm engaged to a young man, with whom I've been going for over a year. We've been such good pals, always enjoying the same sports and having many things in common, which makes for a happy marriage.

Recently an airplane-pilot friend of his returned from a trip around the world. He's seven years older than my fiance, is witty and also a fascinating speaker. He has almost hypnotized my friend and is making a general stooge out of him. He's always included in our pleasure trips, and as he is always respectful to me, I can't get a thing on him. And B. thinks he's just about perfect.

I won't be able to stand much more of this without losing respect for B. Can you suggest a subtle approach to this situation?

I want to get back to the good times B. and I had together, without having this friend of his spoil my happiness.

Bewildered.

Believe it or not, there's an element in human nature that makes for hero-worship. These heroes do things we would like to do in our more idealistic moments. Hence the worship. When Lindbergh flew the Atlantic he was snowed in with mail by all the lesser mortals who would have loved to fly the Atlantic but lacked the courage.

Your fiance is a friend of this aviator. Undoubtedly he'd like to have those qualities which inspire a globe-girdling trip. Be patient with him. Don't be jealous. The boy friend's admiration penetrates a realm where you and all the other little women —myself included—have no part. Be thankful he takes you along on these expeditions. Human nature is just made that way. Don't look for trouble.

He Forgot to Give Her a Present on Their First Anniversary

Dear Miss Fairfax

I wonder if I'm wrong in feeling the way I do. Our first anniversary was soon after Christmas, so of course I didn't expect much, just a remembrance. I bought several little gifts for my husband—nothing expensive—but things he wanted.

He didn't even give me flowers. I know he loves me a great deal, but don't you think he should have given me something? We went to a movie and I had an especially nice dinner for him. It wasn't that he didn't remember, because he made several references to our "first anniversary".

He gave me two lovely presents for Christmas. If he was short of funds, although I'm sure he wasn't, I think he should have saved one of these gifts for the anniversary. I didn't say anything, but really felt "low". Do you blame me?

No Longer a Bride.

In these days, if a man takes his wife to a show, to my way of thinking it's the equivalent of an anniversary present. Of course, he might have bought you an inexpensive bunch of flowers from a push-cart on the way home, but he didn't and I would not invoke wraiths of under-valuation around the new home for this omission.

You tell me he gave you two lovely presents for Christmas. He probably spent all he could afford on those gifts. Don't look for crumpled rose-leaves when you're just married, my dear. In the happiest marriages there must be patience and forbearance. Keep your reserves for the big issues of life.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Squint

Curiously, cross eyes, or squint eyes, are considered laughable to some persons. To me, when a child has this abnormality, it is a very sad thing, though I know that today many such cases can be corrected and cured.

There are two common types of squint—paralytic and concomitant. In the first type, you don't notice anything wrong when the child is looking straight ahead, but when he directs his glance to one side, one eye remains looking straight ahead, or turns only slightly. In concomitant squint, the eyes are fixed at different angles and move in unison. That is, when looking straight ahead; one eye is normal, the other is turned either inward or outward. The one eye is always squinted, or out of line with the normal eye, yet they move together.

Most parents will do anything in the world to have this condition corrected in a child, for few physical handicaps will be so keenly felt by a child and few will tangle him up psychologically, attract to him the ridicule of his playmates and cause him to develop such a well rounded feeling of inferiority.

Concomitant squint almost always makes its appearance in infancy or childhood. If it is treated promptly, chances are all in favor of a complete recovery. But, if treatment is long delayed, or if for some reason the correct treatment isn't given, then there is the likelihood the unfortunate child will go through life with the abnormality.

We still don't know the actual cause of squint. Of the many theories advanced, none is completely satisfactory. In many cases I have seen, the parents first noticed the development of the trouble following some such disease as whooping cough or measles. As a result there are lot of parents who blame the infectious disease for the eye abnormality. To some extent, this may be true. This child whose muscular eye balance is weak, may have it upset by the shock of one of these diseases. But in such a case, there must have been a weakness, a potential squint in the first place.

The country doctor has an exceptionally good chance to study the influence of heredity. There is one organ—the eyes—upon which I think it has a big influence. I have noticed again and again that a child who develops cross eyes, or squint eyes, has a close relative who has had the same trouble. Because of having noted uncles, cousins or parents with this defect, I am on the watch for it in a baby in a family and very often I can give parents timely forewarning of what to expect. I did this once and it caused me a peck of trouble, because the parents thought I was "hexing" their child when I warned them to watch for cross eyes. Unfortunately for me—and for the child, it did develop squint and the father and mother still blame me.

Beauty Has A New Meaning

Cosmetics have their place but what do all the creams and powders you can use amount to when compared to the beauty which comes with vibrating health.

This is the modern test of beauty. The basis is robust health, with rich, red blood coursing through the body to nourish and vitalize muscles and nerves.

When health weakens, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food can be of great value in helping to restore richness to the blood and vigor to the whole body. You can win strength and poise and the attractiveness which health alone gives by using this well-known food treatment.

Why not get started, today? In a few days you will begin to note the benefits obtained from the use of this proven restorative.

"I had a wonderful experience on Thursday. We received an invitation (five officers) to attend a dinner given for us by our Allied Regiment the Royal Sussex of Chichester Sussex. Major H. Graham, Captain H. Leavens, M.O., Capt. R. Abraham, Lieut. H. Ruttan and myself were elected to go. What a time. A marvelous pheasant dinner. I sat beside a General Glasgow and Major Osborne and another General Osborne across from me, so you can see the kind of material we were guests of. They put us up at the best hotel and wouldn't let us go till they had shown us around Chichester and through the Chichester Cathedral built in 1091. I got pictures of it, as well as pictures of us all at the Officers' Mess. Then they had an official picture taken of us all which will be put in the Historical Records of both regiments along with the menu card of the dinner signed by us all commemorating the first dinner given to this Regiment (H. and P.E.) so I am very pleased that I attended."

COMBAT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Plan to help prevent rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Letters From the Troops

Jan. 4th, 1940.

Dear Sister:

Just a few lines to let you know this leaves me fine and hope you are the same.

I am sure having a good time where I am go to a show every night.

How is Sid? Is he working now or is he back home. I wish he was here as I have a hard time getting on the hang of the English money. We just got paid Wednesday and they gave me 5 pounds that is the same as $20 in our money.

We are getting our leave now, they gave us 5 days so I'm going to London. I was going to go to Glasgow but it cost about 2 pounds and a half to go by train and that is too much.

The eats we get are sure great, a whole lot better than we got on the boat.

I wrote mother the other day so thought I might better write to you before I go on my leave so it would give the letter time to get there.

The tobacco is quite dear over here, and it is not as good as our own.

I can't tell you the city I'm in as it is against army rules.

It is dark out every night and I have been out every night and have been late getting in but they didn't say anything as it was new, but I will get around somehow as we are all alike in the H. & P. E. Regiment.

Well Jennie as I can't think of much more news now but will tell you more the next time I write.

I suppose you missed me at Christmas. We had a great dinner Xmas as it was turkey and we had lots of it to eat.

I'm going to send some of my money home when I come back from leave so I will have something to have when I go back.

Tell mother I will write again as I wrote to her on the 1st of Jan. Will close for this time.

Love to all.

From your twin brother Pte Morley Fox.

My address is: Pte. Morley Fox, C4095 (5 Platoon) Headquarters Co., Hastings & Prince Edward Regiment, c-o Base Post Office Branch, Canada.

2 DANISH SHIPS ARE TORPEDOED

Only 18 Members of Crews Saved and Total on Ships Not Given

London, Feb. 16—(CP)—Reuters News Agency reported it understood two Danish ships, the 1,066-ton passenger vessel Sleipner and the 1,064-ton Rhone, had been torpedoed off the east coast of England early today and were feared lost.

It said six persons were believed saved from the Rhone and 12 from the Sleipner. Total aboard each was not given, however.

The agency also reported two Norwegian vessels were overdue and presumed to have been lost. They were the 1,000-ton Bisp which left a British port Jan. 20 with a cargo of coal for Norway and the 1,169-ton Start. The Bisp had a crew of 16.

Wreckage of a ship identified as the Scottish coast but its name could not be determined.

FORMER ASSESSOR COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Cobourg, Ont., Feb. 17—(CP)—Hugh Cameron, former Cobourg assesor, was committed for trial by judge when he pleaded not guilty yesterday to a charge of converting funds from the McArthur estate to his own use.

Walter Johnson, executor of the estate, testified that Cameron collected estate accounts on a commission basis. He alleged that only $1,107 of $1,857 collected was turned in by Cameron.

ANZACS MARCH BEFORE EMBARATION

Stepping out smartly, troops of the second Australian Imperial Forces pass the town hall in Sydney, Australia, as the Governor-General, Lord Gowrie, commander-in-chief of the Australian military force, takes the salute, early in January. It was the last parade the men made before going abroad. On Feb. 12, it was revealed that the first contingents of the expeditionary land forces of Australia and New Zealand disembarked at Suez to form part of the formidable army which Great Britain and France are concentrating in the near east.

Petes Secure Distinct Edge In Playoffs by Defeating Flyers Second Straight Time

Third Game of Series Will be Played in Peterboro on Monday Night

SCORE IS 4-1

Contest Listless and 1,500 Fans at Arena Had Little to Enthuse Over

Bagging two goals in the initial frame the Peterboro' "Petes" moved into a commanding lead of the district O.H.A. Intermediate "A" group championship, when they defeated the Air Force "Flyers" 4 to 1 at the Hume Arena last night. Over 1,500 fans saw the Petes skate the "Birdmen" into complete submission as the Liftlock City sextette assumed a decided edge in the group playoffs, having won the initial game of a possible five-game series at Peterboro earlier in the week. The third kame will be played in Peterboro on Monday, when the Air Force must either win or accept elimination in defeat.

Playing their poorest game of the season, the "Airmen" failed to cope with the fast-skating Petes at any stage of the game, despite the fact they held the Petes at even terms in the middle period. So badly were the homesters out-classed in the initial session, that the Flyers fired but three pucks at Harding, the Peterboro goalie, in the first 20 minutes of play. However, the Holway-led squad moved into the picture in the middle session and were out-lucked on several occasions as Baldwin, Irvine and Lemieux were literally robbed by some sensational goal-tending on the part of the Petes' goalie.

Power Play Clicks

With Lemieux in the penalty box as the result of an accidental trip, the Petes applied a power play early in the game and coupled with some poor clearing on the part of the Flyers in defence. Blewett rapped home Starr's pass-out from a corner, to open the scoring. The Petes' second goal came suddenly as Kingdon gained the rubber from a face-off near the Flyers' net and passed to Heal, who banged the 'boot-heel' past Gibson. The Flyers had but one chance to score in the initial period and it came when McNab sallied in on Harding, but fired into the pads.

With Kingdon languishing in the penalty box, early in the middle session, the Flyers applied the power and moved five to the offensive, but Eddie Starr proved an opportunist, intercepted a Flyer pass and on a break-away play raced in on the unprotected Gibson to score even with the Petes short-handed. Baldwin scored the Flyers' lone tally three minutes later as the result of some splendid and sensational stick-handling within the Petes' defensive zone. Trailing by two goals Coach Holway tossed five forwards over the boards in a final-period desperate attempt to snatch victory, but without avail and only to have the elusive Art Heal grab a loose puck and race around one lone Air Force defenceman to score the Petes' fourth counter.

Little Sensational Hockey

The game was one of the most common-placed contests played during the current season and was productive of little sensational hockey for the first half. However, in the dying stages, as the Flyers' moved to the offensive in desperation, the game opened up. Close checking on the part of both teams dominated the play and resulted in little wide-open hockey as the Flyers' combination plays literally failed to function.

Carrying too much speed all along the line the Petes were paced by Gardner and Crowe with some sturdy defence play, as Heale, Kingdon and Coughlin carried their forwards' pace. Irvine led the Flyers as the best player tossed over the boards by Coach Holway, as McNab, Lemieux and Baldwin carried the front line efforts.

The shots on net by periods were

Petes .. ..16 6 14—36
Flyers .. .. 3 7 7—17

Kilby Macdonald

Without saying that he's a copper-riveted cinch it can be safely mentioned that James Allan Kilby Macdonald is one of the favorites to win this winter's Calder trophy, the award made annually to the outstanding rookie in the N. H. L. Kilby (that's the part of his name that's generally used) comes from Ottawa and plays right wing on the Ranger forward line that has Clint Smith at centre and Lynn Patrick on left wing His scoring record looks even better (not that it needs to) when it is considered that another rookie, Alf Pike, shares the chores on the Patrick-Smith line with him. This is not his first season of play at Madison Square Garden, as he put in one year with New York Rovers, moving up to Philadelphia Ramblers for the two seasons previous to the present one. With the Ramblers he finished third in the Int.-Am. league individual scoring race last season and was leading the league when he was forced out with illness. The same jinx marred his N. H. L. debut this year. He missed four early season games, but after getting back he went to town and has since been getting goals singly and in pairs with great frequency. His amateur days were spent with Ottawa Montagnard juniors and Kirkland Lake and Noranda seniors, as well as N.Y. Rovers. He'll be 25 this September.

PORT COLBORNE, ST. CATHARINES CARRY ON FEUD

Tied for Second Place, Both Teams Win Friday Night Over Falls and Hamilton

WINNERS HAVE SERIES

Last Two Games of Schedule Next Week Between Sailors and St. Kitts Will Decide Second Place Standing

By the Canadian Press

Port Colborne and St. Catharines apparently are determined to carry on their feud for second place in the Senior "A" series of the Ontario Hockey Association right up to the eve of the playoffs.

Each won last night, the Ports defeating Niagara Falls 8-1 and the Saints downing Hamilton 5-2. This left them even with 38 points apiece, 12 behind the parading Toronto Goodyears.

Unwittingly the schedule-makers provided Niagara Peninsula fans with a rare treat for the final brace of games involving these clubs brings them together, Monday at Port Colborne and Wednesday at St. Catharines The loser in the series will not only drop to third but will have to oppose Toronto in the first round of the playoffs opening Friday.

After a shaky start in the first period which saw them tied 1-1 with Niagara at the end of the first period Port Colborne turned on the power in the second frame, Runions, Thompson and McKelvie scoring. Upper, Runions, Thompson and Fitzgerald completed the route in the final session Begin scored for Niagara in the opening 20 minutes and Upper got the first of his hat-trick contribution for the Ports. Niagara pressed into service Pupg Harrington, 49-year-old veteran. The former Niagara ace found the modern pace too hot, however, and he failed to rally his team from its losing habits.

Hamilton threatened for more than half the game to halt St. Catharines. Reynolds scored first for the Saints but Barlow levelled the count shortly after. Robertson shot Hamilton ahead with the only marker of the second chapter. Then the Saints came to life with Reynolds, Boyd, Backor and Pinder zipping the puck into the losing side's goal during the last session.

OFF FOR THE SOUTH

Still determined to remain a holdout until the Chicago Cubs come to terms acceptable to him, Dizzy Dean, pitcher, pop-off and prima donna, is shown boarding a train for Mississippi at the Illinois Central depot in Chicago. Dizzy is reported to have threatened that he will not return until the Cubs agree to give him a contract for $15,000 salary for the 1940 season.

Belleville Quintes Hold Kingston Indians to 5-5 Tie In First Junior Playoff Game

A FAST CONTEST

Goyer Collects Four Scoring Points With Clare and Storms Close Behind

After playing sixty minutes of lightning-fast and wide-open hockey at the Jock Harty Arena in Kingston last night, the local Holway-led Quintes and Wally Elmer's Kingston Juniors are right back where they started in their O.H.A. Junior "B" playoffs and will begin all over again when the return engagement is played here next Tuesday evening. Holding their fast-skating opponents to a 2-2 tie during the first twenty minutes of play, the locals outscored 2-1 in the second canto and then came back in the third period to outplay the Kingston lads and earn a 5-5 draw on the evening's engagement.

Stellar goalkeeping by Cook in the local's nets and also by Udall and Albertson, who shared the duties between the sticks for the Kingston lads, kept the count from mounting to cricket proportions as the opposing forwards barged right in to apparently have the goalies at their mercy. Goyer and Clare on the Quintes' defence were standouts with their rushing being particularly dangerous. Storms was right in there trying every moment that he was on the ice with Armstrong also turning in a good effort. Carleton and Nicholson were the pick of the Kingston lads but the teams as a whole are very evenly balanced and will take a lot of beating before being ousted from the O.H.A. playdowns.

Quintes Had First Shot

Belleville drew the first shot on goal as Clare sneaked through to test Udall, but the Kingston lads came right back and Cook was forced to be good on shots from their front line as they stormed the Belleville citadel. Goyer, after fanning on a couple of shots, broke the ice at the eight-minute mark with a pretty solo effort, but Nicholson came back a couple of moments later to knot the count. The Belleville defence looked weak on the play and Bearance slipped through only twenty seconds later to take a pass from Gray to put the homesters in the lead. Armstrong and Storms combined to tie it up again and the period ended with Smith slipping through only to miss the open net.

After only 45 seconds of the second period, Clare, Goyer and Ethier combined to put Belleville in the lead again and were having the best of the play, when Everett was chased for boarding. Kingston then took command but were unable to score, while Belleville was short-handed. With the teams at full strength again Gray and Lay knotted the count and Kingston went one up as Smith took Carleton's pass to beat Cook.

Score Lucky Counter.

Kingston went two up at the outset of the last period when Smith lofted one from centre ice striking Ethier on the arm and bounding into the net without Cook having a chance to save, but Clare and Goyer again combined to keep their team in the running. The Kingston lads were missing numerous chances to score as they swarmed around the Belleville net, but either they were too anxious and missed the net entirely or Cook came out to save what looked like sure goals. Storms, Goyer and Armstrong combined in a pretty passing play to fool Kingston defence and Storms waltzed right in on Albertson for the tying counter and also for what proved to be the last score of the game at the eight minute mark. With Belleville running into two cheap penalties, the Kingston lads strove hard to get a goal advantage for the next game but their power plays failed to click and at the gong were still storming the Belleville citadel.

Belleville — Goal, Cook; defence, Goyer and Clare; centre, Storms; wings, Armstrong and Ethier; subs, Bundy, Kiniski, Gerow, Butler, Gynn and Everett.

Experts Could Get Fancy All-Star Team From Holdouts

By Judson Bailey)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Feb. 17. — (AP)—A couple of fancy all-star teams could be selected from among baseball's holdouts, in case the all-star team selectors desire to branch out.

The holdout gag isn't what it used to be, and little attention has been given recently to the plight of the underpaid baseball performer.

There are several prominent major leaguers not yet under contract for 1940, and it seems like a lot of fun to team them up this way:—

AMERKS CAN END WINNING STREAK OF BLACK HAWKS

Loss by Americans Would Seriously Impair Chances of Getting Into Playoffs

One of the oddities of this National Hockey League season has been that at some time or other every team in the circuit with the exception of New York Americans has been able to compile varying unbeaten streaks with the famed 19 game stretch of New York Rangers the most notable.

Even Montreal Canadiens, seemingly just emerging from the throes of the season's worst slump, had an unbeaten stretch of six straight games at the start of the season. But the best record that the Americans have been able to fashion was two victories and a draw in successive games back in the first month of the schedule.

However, the Americans will have an opportunity to bring an end tomorrow night to the undefeated string of six now boasted by the fourth place Chicago Black Hawks. A loss to the Hawks would seriously impair American playoff hopes, for the men of Red Dutton have only a two point edge over the last place Canadiens and have played three games more.

Canadiens will knock off one of those games this week-end, however, as they meet the third place Toronto Maple Leafs tonight in Toronto and then at home tomorrow night. In the fourth scheduled contest of the week-end Detroit Red Wings will seek to put an end to their losing streak of four games, when they engage Rangers at the Motor City.

15,000 EXPECTED TO WITNESS MEET

New York A.C. Indoor Games Inaugurated Back in 1868 by W. B. Curtis

New York, Feb. 17 —(AP)—There will be 15,000 spectators in Madison Square Garden tonight for the annual indoor track meet of the New York Athletic Club.

They will see such specialists as Chuck Fenske and Glenn Cunningham in the mile, John Borican and John Woodruff in the 880, Bill Fritz in the 500. They'll see some of the world's best sprinters, hurdlers, jumpers and shot putters and some of the best relay teams. Fritz Queen's University sensation won the 500 last year.

All of this is a far cry from the evening of Nov. 11, 1868, when this same New York A.C. put on the first indoor track meet ever held in the United States. The club had been formed only two months before, with William B. Curtis, later to become known as the "father of the A.A.U."; Henry E. Buermeyer (one of tonight's main events is the Buermeyer 500) and John C. Babcock as its founding fathers.

The program for the first meet doesn't show that Curtis then possessed the only pair of spiked shoes in the country. Nor does it tell that all of the other competitors sought to borrow them, and that finally Curtis wore them in the 75 and 220-yard runs, H. J. Mavrane in the 440 and 880, Buermeyer in the shot put and hammer, and J. E. Russell, last of all, in winning the one-mile walk.

BRITISH RING HAS UPRISING IN ITS MIDST

Boxing Champions and Promoters Flout Official Board of Control to Detriment of Manly Art

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Feb. 17—(CP)—The season found Britain's boxing moguls going at it hammer and tongs in a battle which hasn't ended yet but which so far has resulted in the British Boxing "Board of Controls" losing control of the three biggest names in the local business.

They are Sydney Hulls, first promoter in Great Britain; Jack Solomons, manager of Eric Boon, frisky lightweight champion and Lonsdale Belt holder; and Harry Levene, manager of Larry Gains, Jock McAvoy and Dave Crowley. Jack Doyle's manager Dan Sullivan has promised the rebels his support.

When the trio pitched their licences at the BBBC they announced plans for establishing a control board composed of newspapermen and "business as usual in the New Year." The BBBC retaliated by announcing it would stage its own tournaments for charitable purposes.

The dissidents haven't yet found their panel of newspapermen but they've staged several unlicensed tournaments and no action has been taken against the participants. Meanwhile the BBBC hasn't yet put on a charity show, chiefly because most of the headliners are under the control of Hulls and company.

What It's All About

The trio had been summoned before the board to answer various charges. Hulls had refused to allow a BBBC steward into a dressing room and he didn't give Colonel R. E. Myddleton, chairman of the board, time to recite the case against him. Instead he told him he had lost £1,000 ($4,450) on the Boon-Crowley December fight as a result of a charity promotion countenanced by the board which injured both Boon and Crowley and caused postponement of Hull's advertised show. Furthermore he told the board it could try to collect its assessment on his failure.

Next came Solomons, who runs the Devonshire Club where Britain's best junior fighters cavort. He was asked to explain his loud conduct at the ringside after the Boon-Crowley fight, when the BBBC failed to produce the Lonsdale Belt to drape on its gladiator. It was lost. He asked that newspapermen who were present at the ringside should be invited to listen to his reply. The board refused so he threw his licence down beside Hulls'.

One important promotion group remains under the wing of the BBBC — the National Sporting Club — but even it has to depend on talent from the rebel camps for its regular Monday night shows at Empress Hall, Earl's Court.

Fred Dartnell, at the end of a survey of the situation in his News Chronicle sports column wrote: " . . . and the boxing public, conscious that the interests of the noble art are being badly served, may say with Mercutio, 'A plague on both your houses.' "

Jack Flinchum, the Hialeah riding sensation, is a skinny little youngster, but you get the tip off on what he can do with those hosses by his hands—they're as big as hams......Al Weill is going to send Arturo Godoy on a tour of the country.

Burgess Whitehead who had to be almost dragged to camp last year, has called the Giant offices three times within a week from North Carolina to inquire about training arrangements...Unable to buy class "B" players, Eddie Mooers is asking big league clubs to take over his Richmond franchise in the Piedmont loop....Kike, the Bengal mascot of the Louisiana State footballers, is on his way out. It cost $90 a month to feed him.

CALLING 'EM Between the Lines

Ken J. Colling

"You can publish in your paper that this series will be all over on Monday night," predicted Coach Frank Buckland of the Petes as we sallied into the Liftlock City dressing room after last night's 4-1 reverse of the Flyers. Naturally we couldn't argue too strenuously against Frank's contentions, as the Petes carry too much speed for the Flyers. However, we did get in a verbal crack to add mirth to Buckland's dig. "Well, at least we've got a junior team that is still in the running," we came back at Frank, all of which was prompted by the fact that Oshawa is a dead-letter cinch to rub the Petes juniors out of the O.H.A. picture, as it seems as though the local fans had better warm up to the "Quintes" and give the kids some support if hockey is to survive in Belleville. Getting back to the Petes-Flyers tangle it would now appear as though the Flyers missed the mail in the initial game of the series, as they weren't in the picture last night and with the third game in Peterboro, it looks like a dead issue, insofar as even a fourth game might be concerned.

Whatever way you look at it the Flyers didn't deserve to win last night, their defensive clearing was bad, their passing efforts were the worst of the year and generally speaking the Holway-led "airmen" got a general bad game out of their system. However there still remains that last hope that lies within the human breast—"there's one more game at least." Actually the Petes' forwards skate too fast for the Flyers and therefore give the Liftlock City sextette an advantage when it comes to defence. We don't like to be too critical as knowing the Flyers personally, we are convinced they are giving their utmost, but this year's edition of the Air Force hockey efforts lacks the aggressiveness of the old Flyers when the McNeely boys, Dan Cowley, Frank Lowery, Stan Partridge and the colorful Lalonde all possessed the will to win and plenty of fight.

In order to attain perfection and success any team, be it baseball, hockey or any team game, every department must function perfectly. In baseball it does not depend upon the number of hits obtained, but upon whether the tallies are registered at the most opportune time. In hockey a team may possess a strong defence and carry a certain amount of scoring punch, but if it does not possess that moneyed scoring drive when the winning goal is needed, their championship efforts are void of that element which is the difference between a winner and just another team. For instance here are some startling figures pertaining to the 1939 official averages of the American Baseball League:

"Boston and not New York, finished with the highest team batting average in the American League," points out Salsinger. "The Red Sox hit .291 and the Yankees .287.

"Chicago, scoring 755 runs to Detroit's 849, and driving in 681 runs to Detroit's 806 (a difference of 125) still finished ahead of Detroit in the American League standing.

"The difference was in pitching and fielding. Had the Tigers' attack been protected by better pitching and better fielding the team would have finished no lower than third instead of just above the .500 mark."

Just because the local Juniors were able to play the Kingston lads to a 5-5 tie in their own ice igloo last night, don't ever go selling these Kingston lads short for their return engagement here next Tuesday evening. Wally Elmer's charges are just about the niftiest bunch of puck chasers we have seen this winter and they pack all kinds of punch from their first string forward right down to the sub goalie. Carleton, their big rangy centre, is an especially dangerous player, but the team is very evenly balanced as is shown by their last night's scoring effort. Belleville's second line headed by Bundy and Kiniski did not show their real effectiveness last night but the truth is that Bundy's back is still bothering from the injury he received last week and had to be subbed frequently. Ethier was off color too, but Clare and Goyer packed plenty of "oomph," with Goyer's four scoring points of three assists and a goal proving his effectiveness. Clare helped himself to a couple of goals while Storms was right in there fighting every moment and Armstrong proved himself a mighty valuable player to have around, coming through for a nice goal and an assist as his effort.

There was fun and mirth at the Collegiate gym. yesterday afternoon when a basketball team composed of B.C.I. graduates, who call themselves the "Lonely Hearts" (maybe the gals are wise to 'em) beat the Collegiate senior cagers to 13. So ridiculous was the pastime that the boys appeared on the floor clad either in pyjamas or bath robes and a good time was had by all, especially the gal spectators. Now the "Lonely Hearts" are convinced they have a team of ranking hoopsters and are challenging the world. Any takers?

Do you remember when Natie Brown, who had previously stayed 10 rounds with Joe Louis before losing the decision, was knocked out in the fourth round of their second encounter at Kansas City three years ago tonight? Louis became the world's second Negro heavyweight boxing champion when he defeated James J. Braddock in June, 1937.

SPORT SPICE — The Trenton-Picton junior series resumes on Monday in Trenton with H. P. Holway as referee; it's a third and deciding game...The City Juvenile loop opens its semi-final playdowns here on Monday...Unless there is some consideration and co-operation shown by those to benefit, there'll be no juvenile hockey in Belleville next year...The world's professional badminton player, George Goodwin, is slated to appear here next Friday night.. "Red" Townsend is bringing Goodwin to town...They're having open house at Albert College tonight when the citizens may witness the school activities in the gymasium and swimming pool.

Moira

The Y.P.S. held their bi-monthly meeting in the vestry of the church on Monday evening with a good attendance. The president, Miss Betty Foster, opened the meeting and called upon Mr. J. Hart and Mrs. McInroy to conduct the recreational period. The Scripture lesson was given by Mrs. Nelson Welsh. A chorus was sung by Dorothy Thompson, Grace McInroy, June and Connie Williams. The story of the origin of St. Valentines was ably given by W. J. Hart. A duet "Life's Railway to Heaven" by Betty and Gordon Foster was much appreciated. Interesting readings were given by Nick Rusnak and D. McInroy. Mrs. A. Clare gave a splendid topic on "The Story and authors of several hymns." Hymn 47 followed by the Lord's prayer in unison brought the meeting to a close.

The snow plough has been making several trips this week keeping the roads well opened up for traffic.

Friends are pleased to welcome the Parrell family formerly of Rawdon who have come to make their home in our midst.

A number who have been ill with the grippe are able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Foster and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. Townsend spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Foster and celebrated the birthdays of Gordon and Lou Ann.

Church service was well attended Sunday evening. Mr. Stewart's text being "Am I My Brother's Keeper." Mrs. Nelson Welsh contributed a solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holbert spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Spencer, Rawdon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Vanderwater, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holbert and Mr. Jack Ketcheson were entertained to a Valentine party given by Miss Betty Foster on Wednesday evening.

The February meeting of Moira W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Mumby on Thursday 15th with thirteen members in attendance. A delicious pot-luck dinner was served by the hostess. At 2.30 the President, Mrs. W. McInroy opened the meeting with hymn 384. Mrs. L. Vanderwater led in prayer. The Scripture lesson was given by the president. A new program committee was appointed, namely Mrs. Nelson Welsh, Mrs. Chas. Ketcheson and Mrs. Angus Mumby. Mrs. Welsh favored with a guitar selection. Miss Betty Foster gave the topic on the life history of our late Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir.

Interesting readings were given by Mrs. W. J. Hart and Mrs. Charlotte Vanderwater on Possession and Desire. Another hymn and prayer closed the meeting. A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

FIGHTING IRISH BEAT GLEN ROSS BY 1-0 COUNT

Zion Hill Wins First Game of Playoffs for Title of Hastings Loop

GOALIE STARS

Stirling, Feb. 17 (Special). — Emerging victorious from a tough semi-final series with the Foxboro "Foxes" which they won by only a one-goal margin, the fighting Irish from Zion Hill took a hard-earned win from the league leading Glen Ross "Riversides" at the Stirling arena as they moved one step nearer the championship of the Centre Hastings Rural Hockey League. Their win was largely due to the efforts of Goalie Gifford who was the star of the evening turning in his finest game of the season.

Fast and Clean.

The game was fast and clean, both teams displaying smooth combination plays that were turned back only by the goal-tending of both Gifford and Hagerman. Referees Wallace and Hulin handled the game in a manner that met the approval of all, handing out only four penalties for minor offences. The first two periods featured splendid combination play by both front lines and occasional solo rushes from rear-guard hustlers.

Zion Gets the Break.

After three minutes in the final period Zion broke into the scoring, getting the only counter of the game when Brough and Faulkner broke through the Glen Ross defence. They skated right in on Hagermtn and the shot would have beaten any goalie. From this point on the boys "from up the river" were the aggressors and maintained a distinct edge on the play trying Gifford with long shots, corner shots, scrambles, and each time he was in the right place. In one furious burst of speed na less than eleven shots bounced off Gifford's pads. Time after time Glen Ross forwards raced in close and showered him with rubber but all were turned back in one of the smartest displays of goal minding seen here this year.

The two Pyears, Martin Armstrong and H. Hagerman were the pick of the "Riversides" with Sims, Tummon and Ray working well on the second line for the Zionites. Brough, Faulkner and Ketcheson turned in good efforts with Dickey and Bedford sealing up the defence in great style. But the orchids of stardom go to "Shrimp" Gifford in the Zion net.

The second game of the series which is the best two-of-three, will take place Tuesday night with the third game if necessary on Friday. The score is a fair indication of the closeness in ability of these two fast moving teams and the "Irishers" are out after the cup in two straight games.

Glen Ross — Goal, B. Hagerman; defence, Brown, Fraser; centre, Martin; wings, R. Pyear, G. Pyear; subs, H. Hagerman, J. Armstrong, MacDonald and Brooks.

Zion Hill—Goal, Gifford; defence, Dickey, Bedford; centre, Brough; wings, Ketcheson, Faulkner; subs, Sims, Tummon, Ray, Clarke.

Referees—E. Wallace and J. Hulin, Stirling.

First Period.
No score. No penalties.
Second Period.
No score.
Penalties—Faulkner, Bedford, and Armstrong.
Third Period.
1. Zion Hill, Brough (Faulkner) 3.20
Penalty—Brooks.

TWEED DEFEATS STIRLING 2-1

Teams Will Decide School Title After Marmora Withdraws From Loop

Stirling, Feb. 17 (Special).—When the status of some of Marmora's players in the Hastings High School League was questioned recently the officials of the Marmora team decided to withdraw the team rather than continue with the players in question. The northerners were resting at the top of the league with a comfortable lead when the decision was made. This turn in events left Tweed and Stirling to play off for the group honors.

In the first of the home and home series with goals to count which took place in the Stirling arena Thursday night the Tweed squad grabbed off a scant one-goal lead, defeating Stirling 2-1. With only a few minutes of the first period left Porritt scored for the visitors. McIntosh scored the equalizer in the second period. Late in the final period Vance scored the winning goal on a pass from Doyle. The second game will take place in Tweed Saturday night with the Tweed crew entering the contest with a one-goal lead.

First Period.
1. Tweed, Porritt 18.30
Second Period.
2. Stirling, McIntosh 19.10
Third Period.
3. Tweed, Vance (Doyle) 18.30
Penalty—Bastedo.

Tweed — Goal, Wagar; defence, Courneyea, Porritt; centre, Doyle; wings, Vance, Trudeau; subs, Langevin, Bergon, Hays, Connor, Meraunt.

Stirling—Goal, Tanner; defence, Walker and Pyear; centre, R. Walker; wings, Vandervoort, McGee; subs, Patterson, McIntosh, Bastedo, Lummiss and Francis.

Referees—Geraldi and Wells.

Picton

Picton — Mr. and Mrs. Andy Williams have returned from a month's visit to San Francisco, California.

Mrs. Hanson Huff, who has been ill in a Toronto hospital, is convalescing at her home here.

Valentine's Day was observed in the senior room of York Street school on Thursday afternoon. Following an exchange of valentines, the teacher, Mr. Don Walters, treated the children to candy.

BASS, LUNGE SEASON TO OPEN TWO DAYS EARLIER THAN USUAL

Bass and lunge fishing in this district will start two days earlier this year. A ruling from the Game and Fisheries Department indicates that June 29th. is the starting date, which gives fishermen the privilege of fishing over the July 1st. week-end. June 29th. falls on Saturday and Monday is July 1st., a holiday.

DIAMOND METEORS

McGraw Rose to Baseball Top by Aggressive Personality

Olean club member, 1890

At first base in 1910

At third base in 1904

McGraw as manager

McGraw in 1919

Plain pugnacity helped John J. McGraw lift himself from obscurity to fame and riches in baseball.

The "Little Napoleon" of the diamond was one of the toughest, most aggressive, two-fisted little men in the history of the game. McGraw combined his personal velocity with a fine, schooled cunning to develop the baseball strategy that was his watchword.

McGraw was working his way through school near his little upstate New York home town when baseball's scouts first found him. An agent from the Olean, Pa., club offered him $50 a month. He took it. Mac was switched off the mound to the infield —to his extreme vocal dissatisfaction.

Wanted to Pitch

McGraw was still demanding a post on the pitching slab when the Baltimore Orioles picked him up. Manager Edward Hanlon had a showdown with the angry McGraw. He plumped Mac down on the third sack and told him to stay there. Mac did stay there and he was one of the spark plugs which made the Orioles the fastest-stepping team in the country—from 1894 to '98.

"Mac", "Muggsy", "Little Napoleon"—they called him by all these names—came through in the pinches when the Orioles needed him. It was typical of McGraw, typical of baseball. McGraw had his eyes on the heights, and nothing could swerve him from the career he had set his heart on while still an inexperienced boy.

McGraw became a superb batter. Experts say he was the hardest hitting third sacker the game ever had. His base stealing amounted to grand larceny. In 1,080 games McGraw stole 447 bases. It was woe to any man who blocked a base path when little Mac hurled his 155 pounds and gleaming spikes at the bag.

McGraw was good and he knew it. With Napoleonic candor he demanded top salary from the St. Louis Nationals in 1900 and got it, $9,000 for one season.

McGraw's fame skyrocketed when he joined the New York Giants in 1902 as third baseman and manager. He two-fisted the club into second place in the 1903 race and won the pennant next year.

He won 10 pennants, got the Giants into second place 10 times, four times in third and twice in fourth position. McGraw's tongue was tough as his fists and many an umpire burned under his lashing vocabulary.

But John McGraw's heart was soft as an over-ripe tomato. He helped many an old-timer through the pinches in life. When he died in 1934, the poor boy from the little up-state New York town left a large estate, a well-spent life and an army of friends.

Slippery McGonigal was nobody's fool around race tracks. Occasionally it became necessary for him to go away for long stretches at a time until the race-track cops forgot what they wanted him for, then he'd show up with a new name and maybe some new clothes. His greatest stroke of genius at a disguise was when he had all his snags pulled and got himself a brand new set of grinders. Not only a new set of shining ivories, but a set with a lot of gold teeth in front, too.

It was surprising how different the gold teeth made him look. He'd had the plates for these made deeper so that they stretched the skin around his mouth, giving him the appearance of a long-faced, serious-looking youth.

Just to see what effect the gold teeth had, Slippery went into a saloon one night, wearing his white ones and had a few drinks with the bartender. Then he went back to his room and changed to his gold ones. He also changed his hat and suit. When he came back, he smiled broadly at the bartender and had a few more drinks.

"Tell me that yarn again," he said. "The one about the widow."

"What story was that?" the bartender said. "I don't recollect."

"The one you told me half an hour ago—when I was in here before."

The bartender shook his head. "Guess it must have been Gus, the bartender I relieve."

That was enough for Slippery. Why he was two men. This was something he had been waiting for all his life. When you could fool a bartender with nothing but a set of teeth and some new clothes, your disguise was perfect. If you could fool a bartender you could certainly fool a cop.

The little old guy in the gray cap Slippery spotted the next afternoon interested him more than any prospect he had ever singled out. Once the man had opened his wallet to make a two-dollar bet and Slippery had been close enough to see what the wallet contained. He caught the flash of several C notes and his pulse quickened.

The little old man in the gray cap was leaning over the rail watching Showgirl romp home in the fourth race. Slippery with expert fingers transferred it to his own pocket. He looked around just in time to see Captain Miles of the guards pushing his way through the crowd, making straight for him.

Slippery made the fringe of the crowd in time to have a good start on the policeman. Though Captain Miles called upon the fleeing man to halt, and threatened to shoot. Slippery knew that no sane policeman would fire in that crowd. He kept right on running. When he reached his hotel he changed clothes hurriedly. He also changed back to his gold teeth.

Except for an occasional visit to the restaurant downstairs he scarcely left the hotel for a week. Then one day he put in his gold teeth, had a few shots of whiskey and set out for the track. It would be a cinch. No cop would recognize him after a whole week, especially if he kept laughing all the time and flashing those gold teeth.

As he left the saloon, he turned back and asked permission to leave his topcoat. He remembered he had worn it the day he heisted the wallet.

"Sure," the bartender said, "hang it right over there, I'll keep an eye on it." It was the same bartender who had failed to recognize him the other night when he had come back wearing his gold teeth.

At the track he nosed around looking for dope on the horses. He had money now and could lay a little bet.

Suddenly he felt a hand upon his arm, the fingers gripped it hard. He turned to face Captain Miles. Though his heart was in his mouth he managed to smile broadly exposing his gold teeth.

"Well," Miles said, "ye come back, didja? I didn't think ye would. I been waiting for yez. I have. Didn't think I'd forget that face, didja? Or maybe ye thought it was my day off huh?"

Slippery tried to tell Captain Miles that he was a stranger in town and this was his first day at the track.

"Gwan, ye lunkhead! Don't ye think I got eyes in me head? Why ye lyin' rat, I've a mind to—"

"All right, you win," Slippery said.

All the way back to town he tried to think, where he had slipped this time. He certainly had fooled that bartender. Why hadn't those teeth fooled the cops? He asked Captain Miles to let him go by the saloon for his top coat.

The bartender didn't remember about the coat.

"Don't ye remember this bird? Captain Miles asked suspiciously. "What's he tryin' to put over on yez now?"

"I do remember he was in here about a week ago," the bartender said. "Remember, we had a couple of drinks and I told you the story about the widow?"

Slippery nodded. A great night was beginning to dawn upon him.

"It must be his coat all right," the bartender went on. "If he left it here an hour ago, he must have left it with Al. I'm Gus. We changed shifts about twenty minutes ago. Pretty hard for some people to tell us apart, you know. We're twins and lots of times they get us mixed up."

GRACIE FIELDS GOES TO HOLLYWOOD

New York, Feb. 16—(CP)—Fresh from entertaining the boys at the front, Gracie Fields, noted English comedienne, arrived here today aboard the Italian liner Rex bound for a brief vacation in Hollywood, where her parents have taken up residence. She is due to be back in England in April for her next film, which will be called "Mademoiselle from Armentieres."

Woman Forced to Kill Disgruntled Farmhand, Who Had Slain Husband

Washington, Pa., Feb. 16—(AP)—A 26-year-old mother fought for her life today after horror-filled hours in a snowbound farmhouse where she was forced to kill a disgruntled farmhand who had slain her husband.

Both Mrs. Ralph Caldwell's arms were torn by shotgun slugs when she sought to protect her husband. Police 11 hours later broke through snowdrifts six feet deep and brought her out on a horse-drawn sled. Hospital attaches said her condition was serious.

Police reported Glenn Plant, 28, bought a new shotgun and went to the Caldwell farm Wednesday night to claim revenge for his dismissal 10 days ago. A charge fired through a window fatally wounded the 35-year-old Caldwell in the back and also struck Mrs. Caldwell as she threw her arms around him.

Forcing his way into the house, Plant set an alarm clock for 4 a. m., and told Mrs. Caldwell he intended to kill her then. He sat down and wrote notes to his mother, wife and Caldwell's relatives, asserting he "got even with Ralph for the trick he played on me and my family."

Apparently he changed his mind while Mrs. Caldwell begged: "Shoot now, don't wait." Lester Phillips, 16, another farmhand, who was forced to go upstairs when Plant entered, was summoned, and watched Plant get Caldwell's old shotgun from a corner and place it against his chest. Plant then ordered Mrs. Caldwell to pull the trigger and she complied explaining later she thought it was "him or me."

WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 17—(AP)—Gains of major fractions to two points appeared all over the big board today in one of the most active Saturdays of year. Transactions were about 400,000 shares.

Highest quotations in more than a year were set by Cluett Peabody, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit preferred, Loft and Cleveland Graphite bronze.

Among the session's best advancers, w re U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown, Westinghouse, International Nickel, Continental Can, Hall Printing Co., Du Pont, U.S. Rubber, Johns-Mansville and Western Union.

Canadian issues were slightly improved. Dome Mines, Hiram Walker, and Distillers Seagram rallied fractions while Lake Shore Mines lost as much. Canada 4s, in the bond market, was stationary.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, Feb. 17—(CP)— Trading was dull in the final session of today. Aggregate turnover for the week on the Toronto Exchange two-hour session was down to about 150,000 shares.

Narrow gains predominated in utility, food, steel and miscellaneous groups. The Canada Steamship Lines issues firmed, the preferred adding about a point and in the foods, the milling stocks including Maple Leaf and Lake of the Woods, adding 1-4 to 1-2. Textiles showed about as much strength as weakness. Canadian Celanese was off slightly and Cosmos Mills advanced 1-2. Ford A, Brazilian and Fleet Aircraft gained fractions.

Secondary golds moved to the up side and at the close gains of about 5 cents were showing for Lamaque, Macassa, Wright-Hargreaves and Macleod-Cockshutt.

Further recovery from Friday's early sell-off was recorded by Steep Rock, closing around 2.55. Noranda was down a fraction for broken lot trades. Sherritt firmed a few cents and the rest of the base metal group held unchanged.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Feb. 17—(CP)—Dressedweight were down 10 cents at Stratford in bacon-hog markets reporting today. Other markets were unchanged.

Liveweight: Chatham $8.60.

SOME SIDEWALKS COMPLETELY DRY

"Old Sol" has been getting in some of his good work during the past few days and shining down in Spring-like intensity. Its warmth is beginning to take effect on the icy sidewalks and streets. Sand and cinders placed on hills to relieve icy driving conditions were sluiced to lower levels yesterday afternoon and pedestrians had to be on the lookout for deep puddles when crossing intersections. Today the sidewalks in downtown sections are beginning to take on a summer-like appearance, being in some places completely dry after yesterday's thaw.

REGRETTED LACK OF WEALTH

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 17 —(AP)— Rueing his lack of wealth, Edwin Gott willed his survivors love and appreciation. His will said it was his "greatest regret" that he had nothing substantial for the loved ones I leave behind. To his two daughters-in-law, he left "love and appreciation for their goodness and kindness to me."

Four Weights Must be Considered

In order to make a complete analysis of the costs of exporting it is important to understand that there are four weights that must be taken into consideration:

1. Live hog weights.
2. Hot dressed weights.
3. Cold dressed weights.
4. Wiltshire weights.

When the average 200 pound hog is dressed at a packing plant the following breakdown takes place:

Products:	% 200 lbs.	Pounds weight
Hot dressed carcass	75.00	150.00
Heart and liver	1.75	3.50
Fats	2.13	4.25
Casings	.62	1.25
Hair	.40	.80
Blood and waste ..	20.10	40.20
	100.00	200.00

These figures may help to explain the wide variation in dressing percentages. The majority of the products do not vary much in weight except the waste which is the amount of feed that the pig has at time of weighing.

Next week the article will deal with the cutting of the carcass into Wiltshire sides.

Some good lots of hogs marketed out of the Belleville district the week of February 16 are as follows:

Farmer's name and address:	No. Hogs	Grade A	Other Grades	Premium Due
E. Bailey, Stirling	11	7	4	$7.00
Ralph Sills, Halloway	9	5	4	$2.00
R. Hough, Halloway	7	6	1	$6.00
J. Hebertson, Foxboro	5	3	2	$3.00
P. Motley, Belleville	4	4		$4.00
W. Casey, Belleville	5	3	2	$3.00
A. Linn, Stirling	8	5	3	$3.50
Earl Morrow, Stirling	5	4	1	$4.00

Butter Prices Again Lower

Factors behind the weakness on the butter market, in the face of light offerings of Ontario supplies, were the continued absence of local buying and the fair amount of Western butter being offered on the market here. Ontario No. 1 creamery solids declined to the nominal price-range of 26 1-2c to 26 3-4c per pound. Prints moved through retail channels at 28c to 29c per pound for No. 1 grades. Churning cream reflected the declining butter market by easing to 27c for No. 1 grades, on truck country points.

Falling off in production in some sections of the Province and beginning of hatchery operations was reported as responsible for the slight decrease in supplies arriving on the local egg market. Receipts yesterday, however, were enough to cover requirements, and prices held firm at unchanged levels.

Police Blotter

Robbers entered the offices of the Mott Lumber Company premises, Station Street, but were not rewarded for their efforts, unless two cents can be considered valuable loot.

Entrance to the building was gained through a side door. The marauders rifled the offices and the cash box. Only two cents had been left in the cash box, Mr. Mott informing local investigating police that he made a practice of removing the cash each night.

John McDonald, transient, was detained in the police station last night after being questioned by P. C. Ellis. McDonald, police say, had been drinking and was panhandling. He will be charged in police court Monday. Nine other transients were given shelter last night and permitted their liberty today.

MANION PROMISES BETTER SHARE OF

Discusses Problems Over Air.

After the city hall address last night, Dr. Manion spoke for half an hour over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, discussing his proposal for a national government.

Dr. Manion charged in his city hall address that a deal could have been reached with Great Britain under which $1.50 a bushel would have been paid for Canadian wheat for duration of the war. This price would have been fair to both the Canadian farmer and British buyer.

"Canada probably lacks that deal because of the unfair deal Mackenzie King gave Britain in the Empire Air Training Scheme".

Dr. Manion proposed a wheat policy involving restoration of the 1935 wheat board legislation, and parity prices for farms commodities in general. He also proposed to restore the wheat advisory committee.

Advocates Price Raise

"Subsistence is not enough," for the agricultural industry, he declared, advocating that prices of farm produce be raised generally to their 1926 levels, provided other prices remain stationary. The farmer was entitled to receive enough to pay his costs, meet his debts and have enough left to live decently on.

A World Wheat Conference which would solve the problems of both importing and exporting countries and result in some agreement between them was proposed. Wheat producers should be able to store their own grain and be paid a cent a month in it. Wheat relief and wheat marketing should be treated as entirely different problems.

"I will visit the West, which Mackenzie King has never done. If it hadn't been for the King and Queen coming out here, he wouldn't have seen Western Canada yet since the 1935 election".

Turning to the war in Europe, Dr. Manion appealed to the "new Canadians" of Western Canada, who left Europe to escape oppression, to support Canada's fight to maintain its democratic liberties. These citizens now enjoyed such liberties and opportunities which have been denied under Hitler and Stalin.

Pleads for National Govt.

In his broadcast address, Dr. Manion declared "no one party, be it Liberal or Conservative, can satisfy the Canadian people by giving them the united, enthusiastic, wholehearted effort that is needed."

A national government such as he proposed would be composed of "some of the best minds in the country" and it was "quite possible" it would include a capable woman specially qualified in some social or other problem.

He appealed "to all Canadians, regardless of party—friends of the Conservative party and its peacetime critics and opponents — to forget the things which once divided us and to unite behind an effective prosecution of the war until victory is achieved and, as well, to assist us in preparing for the serious problems of the after-war."

Parliament was the chief protection of the people against autocratic government. He criticized the Prime Minister for his "tricky and despotic act" in dissolving parliament just after it had been assembled.

"If Mr. King is permitted to close parliament today to suit his political purposes, then tomorrow, he or someone else may close parliament for another purpose such as destroying the rights of a minority—or imposing further autocratic measures — or suppressing parliament altogether," he said.

Discuss Expenditures

If the session had been allowed to continue, parliament would have discussed the $188,000,000 defence expenditures of the past four years which left the country "practically defenseless." It would have discussed wastage, favoritism, profiteering in war contracts let to friends of the government, he said.

The government had further proved its incompetence in its failure to look after soldiers' dependents promptly. Some had gone four months or more before getting their just allowance. Twice he had had to protest personally against laxness in this regard until finally the regulations were changed, apparently to stop criticism.

Dr. Manion told how the Conservative party had tried to cooperate with the government, withholding criticism and offering assistance. Despite that attempt to be helpful, the Prime Minister had not called in the leaders of any other party for consultation on war problems as Prime Minister Chamberlain did in Britain.

NEW SIGN ERECTED ON FRONT STREET

Pedestrians on Belleville streets were this morning greeted with the first visible signs that a hotly contested Dominion election campaign will soon be in full swing as workmen proceeded to erect a new sign in front of the local Conservative Committee Rooms. Bearing freshly painted letters the placard announces to all and sundry that George H. Stokes is the National Conservative candidate for South Hastings.

FINNS LOSE SOME POSITIONS

caping over the frontier," the communique declared, adding that a Russian colonel was killed.

Helsingfors, Feb. 17—(AP) —The Finnish army ordered removal of the few remaining women and children from Viborg today, it was reported, as the Soviet Russian drive on the Karelian Isthmus entered its 17th day with the Finns losing some positions less than a score of miles from the city.

Posting of notices in Helsingfors for the class of 1898 to come to the colors served at the same time to emphasize the Finnish plight. This call for men 41 and 42 years of age followed calls within the past three days for those of 42 to 44.

As more than 100 Russian bombers were sighted over Southern Finland, flying towards the important Industrial City of Tammerfors (Tampere), foreign military observers said the big battle of the Karelian Isthmus was nearing the peak of fury.

One observer said the Finnish army should be able to withstand smashes even harder than those for the past seventeen days without giving way suddenly. After that, he predicted, there should be a lull in the costly Russian offensive.

This should provide time for consolidating positions before another drive started.

One woman reaching here said she and others who had special permission to remain in Voborg (Viipuri) after the general removal of several weeks ago had to leave now as a precaution because Viborg was so close to the fighting lines it was subject to frequent air raids.

Only one shop of each sort is to remain open in Viborg, all others being closed.

Several other Russian planes flew over Helsingfors, but no bombs were dropped here, although an alarm at noon lasted 40 minutes.

Only one civilian was reported killed in yesterday's raids, and property damage was said to be small.

17th Day of Drive

On the Karelian Isthmus the Russians continued to hammer at the Mannerheim line for the 17th successive day.

The savage Red army thrust that began on Feb. 1 was exerting severest pressure at Taipale, on the shore of Lake Ladoga, and between Hatjalahdenjaervi and the Vuoksi river, a meandering water system that links Lake Ladoga with the Finnish chain of Saimaa lakes.

At a defile between this river and Lake Muolo, "the enemy succeeded in penetrating to our positions," a Finnish communique said. A similar acknowledgment came from east of the Summa sector, but the Finns said Russian losses were "heavy," and that attacks elsewhere were repelled.

The village of Summa, wrecked by more than two weeks of artillery bombardment, was admitted to be held at least partly by the Russians.

Location Military Secret

Exact location of the fighting lines is a military secret, but the gravity with which the Finns regard the Isthmus struggle is more evident than at any time since the Russian invasion began Nov. 30.

(Danish newspaper reports said Premier Risto Ryti and Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner of Finland might fly to London to seek further aid, but the British Foreign Office today had no confirmation of such a move.

(Reliable Danish sources also said the Foreign Ministers of Denmark, Norway and Sweden would discuss wartime questions in Copenhagen next week.

Report Capture of Two Towns

Moscow, Feb. 17 (AP) — Russian troops chopped away steadily at Finnish defences along the Leningrad-Viborg railroad today as the Red army reported capturing two towns and 22 more "of the enemy's defensive fortifications."

A Soviet communique said the advancing Russians on the Karelian Isthmus had taken Leipasuo and Kamara, two towns along the railway about 15 miles from Viborg (Viipuri.)

(Reuters news agency reported in London the Finns launched an air offensive and bombed the Leningrad railroad which supplies Russia's Karelian Isthmus troops. Several stations were reported set on fire.

(The Finns admitted the loss of some advance fortifications but said the Mannerheim line was intact.)

Claim Capture of 175 Forts

The reported capture of 22 more fortifications brought to 175 the number of such Finnish positions the Russians assert they have taken on the Isthmus.

"In the seven-days' offensive of the Soviet troops, the enemy's losses in fortifications occupied by the Soviet troops constituted 420 machine guns and 170 guns," the communique said.

Two of the 22 defensive positions were described as iron and concrete artillery forts.

The reported capture of Kamara and Leipasuo indicated the Russians still were trying to outflank Finnish forces in the Summa sector, where desperate fighting has been reported for two weeks. The two towns are a few miles north and west of Summa.

No Let up in Struggle

There was no let up today in the titanic assault of the Russian forces against the Mannerheim line's system of staggered fortifications. However, the Finnish military headquarters limited further information to yesterday's communique dealing with Thursday's fighting.

The Finnish Foreign Office made no comment on Sweden's decision to refuse Finland the help of her armed forces. However, the Hufvudstadsbladet, a Swedish language newspaper here, commented on the Stockholm communique.

"Public opinion in Sweden," it said, "will certainly soon assert itself in this matter judging from the manner in which the Swedish people have reacted to fateful developments on our eastern border and to air raids against our peaceful communities."

The Finnish language press has thus far made no comment.

Through yesterday, the Finnish high command claimed, the Russians had lost 1,050 tanks and 387 planes.

NORWAY PROTESTS TO GREAT BRITAIN

Channel for Unneutral Act

Answering questions concerning the Altmark an authoritative spokesman declared that if the Royal Navy had not intervened Norwegian territorial waters would have been made a channel for the unneutral act of conveying prisoners of war to Germany.

He asserted that the British government is confident. the Norwegian government would not have permitted such prisoners to be taken over Norwegian territory.

The British action thus was said to follow the failure of the Norwegian government to secure the neutrality of its own waters. The spokesman said there had been continued use of Norwegian waters by Germany in order to escape British naval pursuit and to perform acts of war against Great Britain and other states.

Three examples of alleged neutrality violation were cited by the spokesman:

1. The British steamship Thomas Walton torpedoed off Narvik with the loss of 16 lives Dec. 7.
2. The Greek steamship Garoufalia torpedoed off Folden with the loss of four lives Dec. 11.
3. The British steamship Deptford torpedoed only one mile off the Norwegian shore near Honningsvaaj Stadt Dec. 13 with 25 missing.

In each case torpedoes were fired without warning, the spokesman said.

Although the admiralty communique announced that "between 300 and 400 prisoners" had been rescued, other British sources put the number at 55 officers and 220 crewmen of whom 56 were British Indians.

The captains of the British steamships Huntsman and Tairoa, both sunk by the Admiral Graf Spee, were reported among those taken off the Altmark.

An official welcome for the rescued awaits them in port. John Colville, Secretary of State for Scotland, will extend the welcome for the government.

ADMIRALTY COMMUNIQUE

territorial waters on her passage to Germany.

Upon these assurances, the British destroyer force withdrew from territorial waters but after dark, on receipt of admiralty orders, the destroyer Cossack, with the British commander on board, re-entered the fjord.

Norwegians Refused Co-operation

The Norwegian gunboats refused co-operation in a search but remained passive. The Altmark was manoeuvred so as to try to sink the Cossack as she prepared to board.

In doing so, the Altmark ran aground stern first and the Cossack came alongside and boarded her.

Fighting followed in which, according to a wireless message from the Altmark, four Germans were killed and five seriously wounded. One British casualty was sustained.

The Altmark was overpowered, part of her crew fled to shore, and the rest submitted. Between three and four hundred British prisoners, who had been battened down below were now found, rescued and taken on board the Cossack, which with other British vessels in company is now approaching British shores.

The liberated prisoners state that during the Norwegian examination at Bergen of the Altmark, their efforts to make their presence known to the searching party were unheeded.

A full report has been called for both from Captain Vian, whose conduct has been highly commended, and from the freed prisoners upon all circumstances.

In the early part of these proceedings, the German tanker Baldur passing by outside territorial waters, was summoned to stop by the destroyer Ivanhoe, Commander P. H. Hadow, Royal Navy, and thereupon scuttled herself in German fashion.

IMPRISONED SEAMEN

learned that the Altmark was trying to sneak into a German port by using the peculiar coastal formations of the Norwegian Fjords.

British planes and destroyers were sent to apprehend her.

On the word of the Norwegian commander that the ship had been examined in Bergen the day before and that no prisoners were aboard, the British withdrew.

Last night, on new orders from the Admiralty, H. M. S. Cossack re-entered the Fjord. The Altmark manoeuvred to try to ram the Cossack, the Admiralty related, but instead ran aground stern-first.

Seamen Boarded Ships

The British seamen boarded the stranded ship a fight ensued, and all the imprisoned merchant sailors were saved.

"The Altmark was overpowered," the Admiralty statement said. "Part of her crew fled ashore and the rest submitted.

"Between three and four hundred British prisoners who had been battened down below were taken on board the Cossack, which with other British vessels in company is now approaching British shores."

The freed men will reach a Scottish port later today, it was said.

"The liberated prisoners state that during the Norwegian examination at Bergen, of the Altmark," said the Admiralty, "their efforts to make their presence known to the searching party were unheeded."

The Admiralty's statement ended with the story of the Baldur's scuttling.

"Summoned to stop by the destroyer Ivanhoe," it said, "she thereupon scuttled herself in German fashion."

German Minister Protests

Berlin, Feb. 17—(AP)—A Nazi spokesman said today the German minister in Oslo had made a vigorous protest to the Norwegian government because that neutral nation had failed to provide protection for the German prison ship Altmark, seized by British naval units.

"The most serious consequences would ensue" unless Norway met German demands for restitution of the armed prison ship and indemnity for those killed and wounded.

The Altmark, which escorted the now-scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee on its raids on merchant shipping and took merchant seamen prisoners, was pursued by a British destroyer last night. Between 300 and 400 captive merchant seamen were freed

Nazi spokesmen described as "one of the most dastardly, swinish actions in history" the capture of the prison ship.

The British action was described as a violation of international law.

Vent to Indignation

Today's German reaction was in contrast with that taken last night by DNB, Nazi News Agency, in announcing that the Altmark, by skilful manoeuvring and the interposition of two Norwegian gunboats, had eluded a British destroyer.

Spokesmen today gave vent to indignation with terms such as as "bestial piracy," and "reversion to mediaeval practices." They claimed the Altmark was embedded in ice and was virtually on Norwegian soil when the British sailors attacked.

While a Press conference was in session, the report of the Altmark's captain reached Berlin by telephone. According to the captain, he tried to ram the British destroyer, but he found he could not because of her position. He then tried to clear lifeboats and scuttle the Altmark, but the British boarded before he could do so and released the 300 captive British merchant sailors imprisoned below decks.

Stravanger, Norway, Feb. 17—(AP)—The German auxiliary vessel Altmark, from which a British warship rescued nearly 300 war captives, was reported late today stranded in the innermost reaches of Josing (Gjessing) Fjord with British warships keeping a close watch outside Norwegian territorial waters.

Indications were that the 12,000-ton vessel would not be able to leave soon regardless of what decision the Norwegian government reaches concerning her disposition.

London, Feb. 17 (CP)—"Hooray." That was Captain P. G. Dove's reaction today to the rescue of the British prisoners aboard the German ship Altmark.

The Captain of the British tanker African Shell was taken prisoner when the Germans sank his ship and for more than a month he was aboard the Admiral Graf Spee. He was released with 61 others when British cruisers drove the pocket battleship into Montevideo.

"That's a fine bit of work," Dove said. "But I wonder how the prisoners are. They had an awful time."

Captain Dove's remarks reflected the attitude of the joyful press.

Judge Chas. Cameron, Senator J. J. Duffus Occupied Same Office

The long arm of coincidence reached out this week to select for government preferment two members of the last Parliament who were joint occupants of the same office. J. J. Duffus of Peterborough and Charles A. Cameron of this city.

Mr. Duffus was appointed to the Senate and Mr. Cameron becomes judge of the county court for Hastings.

MACHINERY FOR TAKING VOTE OF SOLDIERS STARTS

Col. J. T. C. Thompson Will be in Charge of Voting in English Camps

CAN'T ELECTIONEER

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 17 (CP).—Machinery for taking the votes of the overseas forces in Canada's coming battle of ballots went into action today under direction of Colonel J. T. C. Thompson, special returning officer.

Although he arrived only three days ago, he has accepted tenders for 260 ballot boxes—two or more may be needed for the larger of the dominion's 243 ridings—and selected offices next door to Canada House.

As soon as possible after nomination day upwards of two tons of ballots and other necessary papers will cross the Atlantic by that time, the unit returning officers, in each case a commissioned officer, will have been named for each battalion, battery and other component parts of the first division of the Canadian Active Service Force.

Supervise Registration.

These officers will supervise registration of the troops and issuance of ballots. After completion of this procedure the men will be responsible individually to seeing they are mailed to Colonel Thompson or delivered when they are in London on leave.

Actual vote counting will be done by six scrutineers appointed by the political parties. This will get under way at 7 p.m. GMT (2 p.m. EST) March 23 and if it can be completed during the night a cable advising the dominion of the political preferences of her soldier sons overseas will be sent to Ottawa early on Mar. 24.

While stump speeches are banned in military areas such as Aldershot, there is nothing to hinder electioneering in the various London canteens and hostels frequented by the troops on leave. However, it is likely the troops will keep posted on the election campaign mainly through Canadian newspapers, which are crossing the Atlantic in great bulk.

TURKEYS OFFERED ON SATUR. MARKET

A-EGGS 25 CENTS

Memories of the Christmas and New Year markets were revived here today when three young turkeys weighing in the vicinity of 16 and 17 pounds each, made an unexpected appearance on the city market. Prices were quoted at 25 and 26c the pound.

Price levels, generally showed little or no change from last week's quotations, although quantities were not as abundant as usual. Typical February weather brought out a large market clientele and buying was brisk during the later hours.

Egg prices were steady with Grade "A" selects, selling at 25c the dozen. Grade "A" common were offered at 23c with some mediums quoted at 21c and 22c. Butter prices were firm with pound rolls offered at 30c each and two-pound rolls at 55c. Honey was quoted at 35c for 4-lb. pails.

Chicken Offering Light

The chicken offering was light with good quality June and July birds selling between $1.15 and $1.35 according to weight. Yearlings sold in the vicinity of $1 each, with fowl demanding prices ranging between 60c and 75c. A few ducks were offered at $1. the bird.

On the outside market vegetables maintained the high price levels that characterized them a week ago. Parsnips were offered at $1 the bushel with carrots, beets and turnips selling at 80c the bushel. Onion quotations remained steady at $1.25 for 60 lbs.

Vendors reported a plentitude of potatoes. Good quality "Cobblers" were offered at $1 for 75-lb. bag lots, while slightly inferior qualities went for 90c in some quarters.

Pork and beef quarters were fairly plentiful with the former selling at 14c and 16c a pound for the fronts and hinds respectively, and the latter going for 8c and 10c.

A few young pigs were offered at prices ranging between $5.50 and $6.50.

MANY FINE PIKE NOW BEING CAUGHT

"Pike are running" should be a familiar cry within a few weeks from now, but according to Wesley Adams, local fish purveyor, the spring pike are now very much in evidence in certain parts of the bay. Some nice six and seven pound beauties have fallen to the bait of ice fishermen within the past few days, and the run is likely to continue for some time yet.

Spring pike, as these fish are termed, according to Adams, start to move out into the stream at this time of the year, and the result is some nice catches on the part of local fishermen.

TONY

—BY ELIZABETH VERNON—

CHAPTER 1

Alan Fleming stood with his back to the window. The pale shafts of a winter sun shone down on the girl before him, touching her dark hair with copper lights, causing her to blink those long lashes as she gazed up at him, frowning Her face was troubled, but that did not mar its loveliness—the beauty of its perfect oval. The lips, that had not needed the slight touch of rouge, drooped. One could see tears brimming unshed behind the brown eyes, making them too bright. Her attitude, huddled on the low stool, was a little despairing, but in its lines was grace itself.

She was looking once more at the open letter in her hand. With his mind he listened in pity to her voice but in his heart there was another music born of that voice and of her loveliness.

"Alan, it's so dreadful—"

"No. Your young sister's crimes aren't your fault."

"But to get herself expelled—and for going out at night with a boy. Oh, its just what Tony would do Mother's so wretched about it—" Hyacinthe Querne paused. her hand to her forehead. "I suppose" she murmured, with an attempt at a smile, "it's not so important as it seems now? But what are we to do with her?"

For one moment Alan didn't answer His hands slipped to his pockets, safer there because he so longed to take Hyacinth and draw her to him and comfort and kiss her. To her this trouble was so real; too difficult for her to handle; and well it might be. The family—the whole household, he knew—rested their weight on her slim shoulders. Her invalid mother, her young sister in the schoolroom, they all leaned on her. She must put things right, smooth matters here, try to be firm there. In the years since she herself had left school, and before that, she had trodden this rough road without help or counsel. Well, if he had anything to do with it, the nature of that road would be changed. And the crowding troubles should be held from her.

Aloud he said. "I think you had better send Tony to some family abroad. They wouldn't care, as a school might, about her past record. She could learn languages there, and get "finished."

"Finished." Hyacinth laughed a little. "She hasn't started. Alan—" she gazed rather drearily round the charming room "—you don't know, Tony. You can't understand how, when she's here, the atmosphere of this house changes I dread the holidays. She makes scenes; she makes Mother unnappy. She upsets Jacky—"

"I can understand. But she's not going to spoil this holiday. It was more than kind of your mother to ask me for Christmas. I'm going to enjoy myself, and so are you."

She smiled up at him, the little line vanishing from between her eyes. "You're very soothing. But I don't know why I should burden you with our worries."

"Why not, Hyacinth?"

Because of something in his voice, she spoke quickly. "I must go and fetch Tony now. The head mistress says, 'Will you please remove Antonia at once?' The school is only twenty miles away. I'll be back by tea time."

"Why not send the chauffeur?"

"No. Tony is too familiar with the servants. She'd be boasting to Sedley—"

"I see. Well, you're not going, my dear." It was the first time that he had allowed himself those two words He went on calmly "You've only just recovered from a chill, Hyacinth, and it's a darned cold afternoon. Telephone to the school and say that I'm a friend of the family. I'll take my car and fetch the little beast'."

"Oh, Alan, would you?" She smiled, her eyes still troubled. "But Tony might refuse to go with you You don't know what she can be like—"

"She'll come with me, if I have to carry her out under my arm. I'm not going to drive forty miles for nothing."

Alan's car, large, a little battered and very serviceable, made light of that twenty miles. Alan, driving with the unconscious concentration of a good motorist, hardly thought of the end and purpose of this journey. His mind was on a farther future, as it had been for many days, and a warmth that was nearer certainty than hope filled his heart. Surely he might believe, at least, that Hyacinth was near loving him? Without arrogance, he could feel that circumstances and time worked together now to further his plans. It had been good of Hyacinth's mother to ask him to Oaken for Christmas. It had been better of fate to arrange that the other two guests should disappoint and that he should have these days alone with Hyacinth. And soon he would put that fate to the test.

In a suburb of the town of Dorminster, in a road of large red houses, the school stood back from the road. Not a very good place for a school, he thought as he brought the car to a standstill before the front door. For a second his mind was filled with memories of the grave old buildings that had looked down on his own early youth. But how difficult it must have been to find a school for Tony Querne. Hyacinth had hinted at a "withdrawal" from a former school—an incident in which the publicity of the present expulsion had been only just avoided.

He rang the bell. From a bay window on the left of the front door three pairs of eyes gazed at him. "Not much discipline here," he thought. He gave them one glance. He could not hear the giggles as the heads ducked away, but he was aware of them. English schoolgirls—in the mass, the most unattractive creatures, and tiresome enough singly.

A maid opened the door. He entered the hall. By the door stood a small trunk, "Antonia Querne" in white letters on its black lid. It looked, somehow, very solitary. For one moment he felt a little for its owner.

"Will you wait in here, sir?" the maid showed him into the sitting room. He strolled to the hearth. Above it hung a photograph—a group of large, solid girls— the hockey team of five years ago. Smiling a little, he looked at the earnest faces. He hardly heard a light slow step in the hall .The door behind him opened and then closed again. Someone had slipped into the room. He turned to confront Hyacinth's sister.

She was not large or solid. He looked down at her. She was pale. Her hat, too big, made her face very small. Her eyes were too large in her face. There was, Alan thought, nothing of beauty here. Hyacinth had taken it all for this generation.

"I don't know who you are," Tony said before he could speak.

"I am Alan Fleming. Your sister has a cold, and I offered to fetch you."

"They could have sent Sedley." In her face was a kind of defiance. She stood taut, as if in one second she might fling away from him .

"I am staying at Oaken. I hope that you don't mind coming home with me?" The words were pleasant. His voice was not particularly so. After a second's pause she looked away from him. He went to the door and opened it. They emerged on to the porch. Tony did not look round. It was as if she did not realize the presence of the girls who still stared from the window. Then suddenly she broke into a run as if, once inside Alan's car she might find shelter. But that car was a two-seater, and she must sit beside its strange driver.

There had been a market at Dorminster. The suburbs were full, now, of outgoing bullocks and ourgoing and incoming traffic. Alan drove through them, calmly unhurried. Tony sat very still, but not, he thought, very calm. She was silent. The last suburban houses fell away.

"I'd like a cigarette, please," she said.

"Do you usually smoke?" Alan asked.

She met his eyes. "I am of an age to."

He smiled. "You are not of an age to smoke in public."

She gave him a glance of acute dislike. It amused him. A second later he felt slight shock. In that thin childish face her eyes were too much aware. They held too much knowledge and too much defensiveness and too much defiance, and not one sign of penitence or shame. Poor Hyacinth, he thought, how could she deal with this young sister? No one at Oaken would be the happier for Tony's presence.

As if she had guessed his thoughts Tony said, "They will be glad to see me at home. You know I wasn't expected. I was going to spend the holidays with the head mistress's sister. Not that I cared. I don't want to come home—much."

"Well," Alan answered that touch of bravado coldly, "as you are coming home, I should try to behave decently when you get there."

"Why should I?" She flashed round on him. "No one will be decent to me!"

"If your family aren't pleased with you, that's your fault, Tony, as you know."

"Is it?"

"Are you going to spoil your mother's Christmas?" But he was thinking, he knew, not of Mrs. Querne's peace of mind, but of Hyacinth's

"Oh, Mother—" a kind of blankness came over Tony's face at that word. "She—she won't bother about me."

CHAPTER 11

The atmosphere inside the car was sharp with hostility. He glanced at that defiant profile. Tony spoke again, her voice cool and adult. "Fleming." She considered the name. "Are you the man who's come into Holme Dacey?"

"I am." Alan's voice didn't encourage conversation.

"Oh! And I suppose you're one of Hyacinth's young men?"

Little beast! An unanswerable question. He made no attempt to answer it. They drove in silence. The car took a sharp-humped bridge. The narrow road twisted. and they were in sight of the light of Oaken. How bright and calm it looked, its drive a winding ribbon across the park.

And then, quite unexpectedly, as if this past half hour had been wiped out, as if she had never shown her defiance and hostility, nor he his anger, she asked with sudden clumsy shyness. "Is—is Jacky all right?"

"I haven't seen her."

"They haven't sent her away—because I'm coming?"

"I don't suppose so."

The car drew up before the front door of Oaken. Alan didn't see Tony's hands, locked on her handbag, shaking a little. Nor would it have moved him if he had. His dislike was too cold for that.

No one moved as Tony and Alan entered the inner hall, Hyacinth sat at the gate-leg tea table before the fire. Mrs. Querne lay on the sofa. Tony advanced rather slowly. Now, when Alan had most expected her to be brazen, she seemed a little uncertain. Standing there, waiting, perhaps, for someone to speak, she looked chilled and thin.

"Where's—Jacky?" Tony asked. Again there was that little pause between the words, as if she feared the answer.

"In the schoolroom."

"Oh!"

"You had better sit down and have your tea," her mother answered. "The school-room is no longer your place at meals, Tony."

"So, I see." Tony flushed. She took off her hat and flung it on to a chair. Without it, she seemed a little changed. Her hair — glossy, the color of a Pekinese's coat, with here and there an irrepressible curl—softened that small triagular face. The freckles on her white skin were of the gold-brown color of her hair. Her long hazel eyes were fixed on her plate, but not, he thought, because she was feeling the disgrace of this premature return. It was as if she had removed herself, in her mind, a thousand miles from this room.

Mrs. Querne addressed her. "Did you thank Mr. Fleming for fetching you, Tony?"

Hyacinth laughed. "Darling, when has Tony ever thanked anyone for anything?"

Tony gave her sister a very direct glance. "Hyacinth, I knew that you would thank Mr. Fleming —in your own way."

There was a silence. Hyacinth flashed with anger. Alan was the first to speak. "There was no need of thanks," he said. "Tony and I understand each other perfectly."

Tony put down her empty cup. She rose. For a moment, as she stood there, her glance embraced the three of them—her sister's familiar loveliness, the slight angry smile on the stranger's lip: —she looked no higher than his mouth, knowing what she would meet in his eyes—her mother's well-posed languor. Then she slipped from the table and from the room.

The door closed behind her. She paused in the marble-flagged hall. "Beasts!" Not even for that second would her thoughts have lingered with the group she had left, if it had not been for something that she had heard in the stranger's voice—something that he had, she knew, meant her to hear; a warning. Almost a threat. Yes! Hyacinth had found a good ally. Cold and hard. The strong to the strong.

A second later she was running, light-footed, three steps at a time, up the long curve of the stairs. Down a broad landing, gracious with tall vases of flowers, she ran, and paused at the end before a baize door. Gently she pushed it open. Quietly she walked down a narrow passage. There was no one to see the smile, so different now, with which she glanced ahead as if she saw by the dim electric light more than the shabby walls. A door on her left stood a little ajar. No sound came from the room. Quietly, quietly, Tony put her head round the door.

At the other end of the room a small girl sat hunched in an armchair. A book lay on her knees, but she was not reading; her head averted, she was gazing towards the window, though that window was hidden now in its thick red curtains. Not a gay child. Dull, motionless.

"Jacky," Tony said softly.

Jacky flashed round. For one unbelieving, white-faced instant, she was still. A second later she was across the room. Her arms were round Tony's neck in a strangle hold.

"Tony!"

Tony felt the child's heart, beating wildly as a rabbit's, under her hand. Indeed, there was a wildness in that abandonment of joy. Jacky's head was pressed against her. She hugged the small body in her arms, feeling the tears smart behind her eyes.

She caught sight suddenly of her little sister's face. It was very white. Jacky was trembling. And so, Tony found, was she.

"Tony, I didn't know — they didn't tell me you were coming."

"But I'm here. It's all right, darling." Tony put her into the big chair. She dropped down to the hearthrug beside her, and still Jacky clutched at her. "Little goose—"

"You won't go? Not for days and days?"

"Oh, sweetheart, you know what they are. But I don't think they can send me away yet a bit. They've got to find somewhere to send me, first. You see, I've been expelled."

"Have you, Tony?" In love and admiration Jacky gazed at her, squeezing Tony's hand in hers. But, Tony felt obscurely, there was something missing in Jacky. What was it? Eagerness? Vividness? Tony could not be sure. "I'm glad," Jacky was saying.

"Yes." Tony dropped her head on Jacky's knees. She was suddenly weary with the strain of the last twenty-four hours. She stared into the fire through the high old nursery fender. "I got out at night to meet Harry and discuss plans for the holidays—" a pucker appeared between her brows. "I've done much worse things than that without being expelled."

"And was it fun?"

"Not awful fun." The memory of those early morning hours in the great barn came back Cold and dark it had been. And one hadn't, after all, enjoyed discussing plans. For Harry had none. He had changed. Harry......At thought of him she felt the ache that she had felt all day. Didn't he, then, want to be friends any more? No. Not really. She had been just a stop-gap. She had been able to see that as clearly as the grey dawn. He had no more need of her. Now that he was going to Oxford he would have a good time —meet new people, hunt, go to dances, enjoy himself. But surely one didn't fling a friendship away as if it were an old coat? Or might one, perhaps, do that? If one had a choice of new, exciting friends? If one wasn't shivering for lack of any?

"No. It wasn't great fun" She turned to smile up at Jacky. "But it was worth it, it's brought me home. And we'll be together—"

She stopped. The small, too-white face above hers had changed suddenly. And Jacky, the brave, the stoical—putting out a hand as if to ward that sight from Tony, had crumpled in dreadful tears.

"Oh, darling, darling, what have they done to you?" Tony held her A dark anger and fear that sank deeper, deeper, filled her heart with blackness. "Don't. Don't cry so hard, sweetheart."

The moments passed. There was silence except for Jacky's stifled sobs. Tony, her head bent, thought: "I can't bear it. It's more than I can bear." Her own miseries—they were nothing now, they were past. But that Jacky should cry like this, shaken out of herself by a loving word—with piercing certainty Tony knew that it was at the love in her words that Jacky's tears had come; as if that love had been an unexpected assault.

"It's nothing—nothing." Jacky gulped. She snatched after her vanished hardiness. And how grown-up was her voice now as with dignity she wiped her tears. "I don't know why I cried. It's been a bit lonely these weeks since Miss Cotter went. And when you never wrote—" her voice stumbled.

For a moment Tony couldn't speak.

"Of course it's all right now," said Jacky carelessly.

"I wrote to you every week, Jacky, twice. Always."

IN OLD QUEBEC—Behind the old-world appearance of this ancient rig and sturdy horse lies a modern idea which has become a common street scene in old French-Canada. This sleigh is loaded with 50-lb. salt blocks—normally used by farmers for cow-licks—and as it passes through the streets of Verdun in suburban Montreal, they are dropped into the city's street catch-basins. The water below is turned to brine, which has a lower freezing point than water, and ice blockages are avoided. By repeating this operation several times during winter, the drains are kept open in cold weather saving the cost and inconvenience of flooded streets. Similar treatment is used in several Canadian municipalities.

British Troops Warned Not to Under-Estimate Valor of Germans

With the British Expeditionary Force in France, Feb. 17—(CP)—Oliver Stanley, Britain's War Secretary, yesterday warned British troops not to under-estimate the German soldier's valor as a "fighting animal."

"The Germans have been preparing for war for over four years and it would be absurd to think they are going to give in easily," said Mr. Stanley, who is on a visit to the western front.

"It is not going to be an easy job," he said, "but I am far from being a pessimist. All the sacrifices for victory will be made."

Mr. Stanley inspected varied activities of the B.E.F. on the Maginot line and praised the "enormous progress" made by the troops during the last six weeks.

The War Secretary said "only one man—Adolf Hitler—can decide whether the war will take the form of a blitzkrieg."

WHO INVENTED THE MOUSETRAP?

You've often heard the old adage: "Let a man make a better mousetrap, and the world will make a beaten path to his door."

But have you ever happened upon that path, or even looked for it?

Why SHOULD you, when the people who today have things to sell beat a path to YOUR door to tell you about them?

Every newspaper that comes into your home brings you a new list of WHAT you can get, and WHERE. You can do your shopping in the advertising pages — instead of beating a path from store to store to find what you want.

Make it a habit to look over the advertisements, and you'll find many fine values you might have missed . . . many exciting and useful things you otherwise might never have known about!

SPEED in Printing

Usually when a printing job is ordered the customer says: "How soon can I get it?" There is a definite purpose which the printed matter must serve and, having made up his mind, it is necessary that it should begin to serve that purpose as soon as possible.

British Public Gives Rousing Welcome to Merchant Seamen Liberated From German Prison Ship

London, Feb. 19 (CP)—The Admiralty announced today that the destroyer Daring had been torpedoed and sunk, the sole British naval loss in a weekend of sea warfare which brought a spectacular series of victories to the Royal Navy.

Sinking of the Daring, with 157 men feared lost, was announced as Britons were cheering the exploits of their navy's weekend exploits which left the Nazi prison ship Altmark grounded on the Norwegian coast and her 300 or more seamen captives liberated, two German merchantmen captured by the blockade patrol and one German merchantman scuttled.

One officer and four seamen of the Daring were picked up, but nine other officers and 148 seamen were lost from the seven-year-old "defender" class destroyer.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Measuring the wind! The motion of the air is said to be the chief element in the general structure of the atmosphere. The direction and speed of wind may be either observed or recorded extremely well by weather vanes and their attachments. But the difficulty is in getting a good exposure. One places the vane and speed recorded on a structure and that very structure may modify the wind elements so much that the free air conditions are not obtained. Probably the best exposure is on top of a very slender steeple, but this is too far away from the surface and besides is difficult to get at to keep in repair. Our weather stations at airports have less trouble in this respect than those in cities.

BUDGET DEBATE LIKELY TO CLOSE ON THURSDAY

PROROGUE FRIDAY

Toronto, Feb. 19—(CP) — Only revenue raisng measure presented to the Ontario Legislature this session, the bill increasing taxes on corporations, was scheduled for second reading debate in the Legislature today.

Conservatives are expected to oppose the bill, but the government can hardly yield on it as the added revenue expected to acerue from it has been taken into the budgetary figures presented last week by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

It was generally agreed the budget contained no surprises. The budget debate will probably wind up Thursday night.

Should the business of the House be speeded up by night sessions this week, as seems probable, it is likely that prorogation will be reached by Friday. The members then will be free to take what part they wish in the federal election campaign.

Conant Assists Federal Candidate

The number of Ontario Liberal ministers who voted to censure the war effort of the federal government, but who have since lined up in support of federal Liberal candidates was increased Friday night when Attorney - General Conant spoke at Whitby.

If Premier Hepburn persists in his present attitude of taking no part in the federal campaign, it will be the first election battle in Elgin since the Great War in which he has had no part.

Sharing attention with the Legislature itself has been the select committee investigating administration of Ontario's timber resources. There is no possibility of the committee preparing a report for this session. It may receive permission to sit while the House is not in session. If it does these sittings will not be started until after the federal election.

London, Feb. 19 —(CP)— Forty-four lines were deleted by the censor yesterday from an article by former War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha published in a Sunday newspaper and entitled "shall we fight for Finland now?" The censor ruled the passage was "contrary to public policy."

Two opposition members of Parliament announced last night they would raise the issue in the House of Commons at the earliest opportunity.

At two points in the article, published in the "News of the World," which appealed for immediate and substantial armed support for Finland, were the insertions, "here 24 lines have been omitted," and "here 20 lines have been omitted."

GERMANY STORES OIL IN RUMANIA

Report Says Soviet Oil Will be Trans-Shipped Up Danube After Spring Thaw

Bucharest, Feb. 19 (AP).—Germany was reported today to be storing large quantities of Soviet oil in Rumanian reservoirs for transshipment up the Danube when the spring thaw comes.

Three more Soviet tankers docked last night at Constanta. The Bucharest government is said to have turned over to German use huge storage tanks there in hope of mollifying Berlin over the lag in Rumanian oil production available for Germany under an agreement of Dec. 21..

Allied trade agents last week expressed satisfaction that Rumanian oil fields, mostly controlled by British and French capital, had contributed only 26,000 tons to Germany's war machine during January. The December agreement provided for 190,000 tons during the first two months of 1940 and 130,000 each month thereafter.

VIVIEN LEIGH DIVORCED

London, Feb. 19.—(CP)—Herbert Leigh Holman, barrister, was granted a divorce decree nisi today from Vivien Leigh, actress.

The suit was undefended. Holman named as co-respondent Actor Laurence Olivier whose wife, Jill Esmond, was granted a divorce Jan. 29, naming Miss Leigh as co-respondent.

Holman was given custody of the child born to him by Miss Leigh.

He testified that in 1937, five years after they were married, his wife went to Denmark to appear with Olivier in a Shakespearian company. On her return, he said, she told him she was in love with Olivier and separated from him.

Collingwood, Ont., Feb. 19—(CP) —May Martin, 13, ran nearly a mile in zero weather in her bare feet, scantily clothed to give the alarm when fire destroyed her parents' home near here last night.

Together with his wife and five children, Robert Martin was forced out of his house when the fire started shortly before midnight.

When mounting flames threatened to destroy the barn, May ran to Alfred Smith's telephone.

"The little girl was so excited she could hardly speak, but the operator at Creemore succeeded in calling all available help to the scene," Mr. Smith said.

The roads were not open to traffic, and assistance was rushed by sleigh. Volunteer fire fighters threw snow and water on the threatened barn for several hours and saved it.

Description Aids Air Pilot To Trace German Prison Ship

30 Germans Guarding Prisoners Take to Heels Like Frightened Rabbits as British Sailors Board Altmark

London, Feb. 19—(CP)— The pilot of one of the three Royal Air Force planes which spotted the German prison ship Altmark for the Navy today told of how he had hunted out the vessel with only a "verbal description" to guide him.

He said that for this "very special job" he was given "a verbal picture" of the Altmark and told to hunt the ship off the coast of Norway.

He sighted the ship at a distance of about fifteen miles, he said. He approached and dived for a better view.

"My eyes were riveted on the stern searching for the name. I saw letters about a foot high which because of our speed seemed to dance in a jumble.

"I could not suppress a whoop of joy when I saw that they read, 'Altmark'."

From the Press Association came a tribute to the leader of the party which boarded the Altmark Friday night from the Destroyer Cossack in Gjessingfjord, Norwegian territorial waters, and delivered more than 300 British seamen enroute to Germany as prisoners of war.

"The man who in the spirit of Drake led his men in their daring exploit of boarding the Altmark, Nazi prison ship, was Lieutenant-Commander Bradwell Talbot Turner, second in command of H.M.S. Cossack," The Association said.

"Waving his revolver as he leaped eight feet from the Cossack onto the Altmark, he shouted to his men, 'Come on, follow me'.

"As they swarmed aboard after him, about thirty Graf Spee sailors who had been acting as guards of the British prisoners took to their heels like frightened rabbits."

GEMS STOLEN IN JEWELRY STORE

Timmins, Ont., Feb. 19—(CP)—Gems of an estimated value of thousands of dollars were stolen during the week-end in a daring burglary of the Sole Brothers Jewelry store here. Fred Sole, manager of the store, said more than 100 rings, ranging in value from $50 to more than $300, had been taken from the showcases.

Other store officials said actual amount of the loss could not be determined until they had taken stock. One showcase in which diamond rings were kept was almost completely cleaned out, the thieves removing all but a two-ring set of lower-priced stones.

'Norway's Case Seems Weak' Says N. Y. Times

New York, Feb. 19 —(CP)— New York's morning newspapers agreed today there was considerable justification for the British violation of Norwegian neutrality in rescuing imprisoned seamen aboard the German vessel Altmark. They also were in accord in saying Norway's part in the incident was not free of criticism.

The Herald Tribune saw a "good deal of grim humor" in the "wild cries of anger, pain and outraged moral virtue being sent up from Berlin," terming Germany a nation "whose governors have made brute force their deity." That the action was "brusque and high-handed there seems to be no doubt," the paper added but said it "was hardly on a par, for example, with spreading contact mines in the paths of neutral shipping."

GEN. McNAUGHTON VISITS SANDHURST

25 Graduates of R.M.C., Kingston, Accompany Corps Leader

Aldershot, Feb. 19 (CP Cable)—Major-General A. G. L. The party was greeted by the Commandant and a general salute was played by the college band.

General McNaughton inspected a parade of officers, talking to a number of them. The parade marched into chapel where the stained glass window given some years ago by R. M. C. was viewed. The party also toured the college buildings.

18,000 Russians In 18th Division Killed or Captured

20 Soviet Warplanes Shot Down Finnish High Command Reports

RED EQUIPMENT TAKEN

Great Victory is Reported Northeast of Lake Ladoga —Finns Cut Up Strongly Reinforced Russian Division Piece by Piece

Helsinki, Feb. 19 (AP).—"Annihilation" of the Russian 18th division with 18,000 Russians killed and taken prisoner was reported today by the Finnish high command.

Soviet attacks Sunday on new Finnish positions along the isthmus front, scene of the war's bitterest fighting, were said to have been repulsed with Russian losses equal to about one battalion.

Twenty Russian warplanes were said to have been shot down.

Twenty Tanks Captured.

'A great victory' for Finnish forces northeast of Lake Ladoga was reported with capture of a strongly defended Russian position and large quantities of war materials. Twenty tanks, 36 guns of various types, 17 tractors, 32 field kitchens, 25 automobiles, and 200 other vehicles were listed as booty.

"After tenacious fighting our troops have thus piece by piece completely annihilated the enemy's 18th division which they had surrounded after it had advanced via Uoma to Syskyjaervi," the communique said.

FRENCH RAILWAY AGAIN BOMBED

Bridge and Tunnel Severely Damaged by Japanese Airmen

Hong Kong, Feb. 19—(AP)—Japanese dispatches reported today the French operated Hanoi-Kunming Railroad had been bombed for the second successive day and a bridge and tunnel damaged severely.

Both the French and United States governments protested to Japan over previous air attacks on the railroad, which connects Chungking with French Indo-China.

The Japanese said the latest raid was made Sunday. At the same time, Chinese authorities announced passenger service on the road had been resumed after a week's holdup while previous bombing damage was repaired. The Chinese said damage from a Japanese raid Saturday was slight.

United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson was reported ready to use the railroad tomorrow or Wednesday for a trip to Kunming, en route to the Chinese provisional capital, Chungking.

German Claims Quite Fantastic

Berlin, Feb. 19 (AP)—The German high command's communique today said:

"In the west,, minor local artillery activity.

"In various sea areas, once again four enemy convoys were successfully attacked by U-boats.

"Out of three convoys, steamships and tankers, out of the fourth a destroyer which belonged to forces for safeguarding this convoy, were sunk."

London, Feb. 19 (CP)—A German statement that four Allied convoys had been successfully attacked by submarines was authoritatively said to be "as fantastic as German claims usually are."

REDS HAMMER WESTERN ANCHOR MANNERHEIM LINE

Russian Command Claims Troops Almost at Doors of Viipuri, Finland's Second Largest City

CLAIM 3 TOWNS TAKEN

Moscow, Feb. 19—(AP)— Red Army troops hammered today almost at the doors of Viipuri, Finland's second largest city, after isolating Fort Koivisto, western anchor of the Mannerheim Line, a Soviet communique said.

(A Finnish communique reported a "weakening" in Russian pressure on the Karelian Isthmus, scene of three weeks' bitter fighting. But the Finnish report was for Saturday, the Russian for Sunday.)

Viipuri (Viborg), centre of Kareli. Christianity for 7700 years and a prime objective of Russian troops since the start of the war, appeared hard pressed as the Soviet reported capture of Johannes, Maksalahti and Somme on the Finnish coastal railway.

Somme is only about six miles from Viipuri, and a Russian communique Saturday reported the Red Army had reached a point about four miles from Viipuri in another sector to the east.

Occupation of the coastal railway towns apparently snapped Koivisto's overland communication with Viipuri, for the three towns are north of the fort.

(Loss of Koivisto would be a heavy blow to the Finns because its coastal defence artillery has been turned inland at times to harass Russian lines of communication.)

Russians Claim Finnish Retreat

"The enemy keeps retreating," the Russians said.

"Our troops reached Salmenkaita between Lake Vuoksi and Jaurapaan and occupied the fortified area and village of Muola, the station of Somme on the Maritime Railway, 10 kilometers (six miles) south of Viipuri, the town of Johannes and the station of Mak-

ALTMARK'S FATE LIES WITH NORWAY

Neutral State Has Not Yet Made Any Comment on Contentions of Britain and Germany

Gjessingfjord, Norway, Feb. 19 (AP).—Whether the German prison ship Altmark may become a prisoner herself apparently depends upon Norway's answer to the question of whether the vessel came within the category of an armed auxiliary.

Great Britain has demanded internment of the ship from which a British destroyer freed some 300 British merchant seamen Friday in Norwegian waters.

Germany has protested and is expected to ask the Altmark's return.

And Norway, centre of the diplomatic tug-of-war over a maze of legal technicalities, must decide.

So far, she has not commented officially on the German contention that the Altmark was unarmed, or

OBITUARY

MRS. J. D. MacMILLAN

(Formerly of Belleville)

Mrs. Caroline (Piggott) MacMillan, widow of J. D. MacMillan, at one time superintendent of the Belleville Division of the Canadian National Railways, and a former alderman of Belleville, passed away at her late residence in Kingston on Friday, Feb. 16th., in her 84th. year. Old friends in this city will regret to learn of her death. For about three years Mrs. MacMillan had been making her home in Kingston, prior to which time she resided on Isabel Street in this city. In religion she was a member of the Church of England and associated with St. Thomas' Parish here.

The funeral took place in Toronto this Monday morning and interment was made in Park Lawn cemetery.

LATE MRS. C. LAWSON

(Orland)

Wooler (Special)—Mrs. Charlie Lawson, of Orland, who was taken ill on Wednesday afternoon, suddenly passed away the next morning Thursday, February 15th. Besides her sorrowing husband and a stepson, Mr. Wm. J. Lawson, she leaves three daughters and a son, by a former marriage.

A testimony of the esteem in which she was held throughout the district was evidenced at the funeral service which took place at the H. M. Church, Orland, on Saturday afternoon. Friends and relatives filled the church paying their last respects to one who will be sadly missed.

The service was conducted by Rev. A. Bennett (a former pastor) of Castleton, assisted by Rev. M. Cook. A brief message was delivered to comfort the sorrowing family.

Interment was made in Welcome cemetery.

Hastings Councillors Unaffected by Change in Act

Proposed in the Ontario Municipal Act, in which, it is said, remunerations to councillors will be set at a fixed sum, will not affect in any great measure members of the Hastings County Council, officials of that body said today.

"The County Council has always kept within the confines of the Municipal Act both in expenditures and other matters of business," County Clerk Erie Denyes, said.

The Finance Committee meets but four times a year, although the chairman is called in in an advisory capacity more often than that, he added. The other committees meet as the Act requires with the exception of emergencies.

"Any allegations laid to county councillors regarding over-expenditure cannot be charged to the members of the council of this county," he said.

TRIBUTE IS PAID MEMORY OF LORD TWEEDSMUIR

Tribute to the memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir was paid in a number of the city churches on Sunday. In St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church the Rev. W. J. Walker conducted a memorial service and spoke on the life and work of the late author and Governor-General. At Victoria Avenue Baptist Church the Rev. C. T. Olmstead held a similar service on the character of Lord Tweedsmuir and his lifework and at the Tabernacle United the Rev. D. T. McClintock officiated at an impressive service of tribute to the late representative of His Majesty as statesman and man.

At St. Thomas Anglican Church on Sunday morning an impressive tribute to the memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir was paid by the Rev. Rural Dean A. Beauchamp Payne.

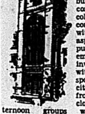
Albert College Opens Doors To Visitors on Saturday

Principal, Staff and Students Welcome Citizens Who Are Conducted in Tour of Inspection Through the Buildings—Many Activities of the Students Are Displayed Including Athletics

SPLENDIDLY ARRANGED



Albert College opened friendly doors to the Belleville public on Saturday, when the faculty and students extended a cordial invitation to their friends to take part in a tour of inspection of the buildings, which compose the college and become familiar with the many aspects of campus and academic work. The invitation met with eager response from the citizens and from two o'clock in the afternoon groups were escorted through the college where displays of work and demonstrations of athletics formed an interesting part of the program.

A sincere welcome was extended to each arrival by the Principal, Dr. Bert Howard, the Dean, Dr. T. C. McMullen and students, Tom Woolley, Bus Donnan, Ev. Munro and Edith Joynt. The College itself, the beauty of its architecture and interior enhanced by the brilliance of the afternoon sun as it streamed through the wide deep set windows, seemed to echo the greetings of its officials. Here, in the group of buildings whose design and setting have given to the college picture distinction and dignity, in the classrooms, the common rooms and the chapel and the recreation centres, which mean home and school to over one hundred students, the visitors found themselves close to that spirit which inspired the founding of Albert College in 1857, which has characterized college life throughout the decades and which has found expression not only in the beautiful buildings which now proudly bear the name of Albert but in the careers of the boys and girls numbered among her graduates.

110 Students Registered

At present one hundred and ten students are registered at the college, ninety of these being in residence. The nineteen girls enrolled this year live at Manor House, some distance from college itself. There are seven prep students and seven are taking the second year University Course. Between these two divisions of learning range the rest of the academic scholars in junior, intermediate and senior groups. The faculty includes Rev. Bert Howard, D.D., Principal and Headmaster, teacher of Religious and Cultural Knowledge; Thomas C. McMullen, M.A., Ph. D., F. C. I.C., Dean, University Economics, Senior Science and Mathematics; H. Bertram Simpson, B.A., Senior House Master, University Classics and Philosophy, Senior Classics, Ancient History; Jessie B. Tuite, L. L.C.M., Dean of Women, English, Expression and Dramatics; N. A. Beach, Residence House Master, Athletic Instructor and Coach; Taylor K. Franklin, Registrar and Assistant Bursar; Ernest Stabler, B.A., University and Matriculation History, Lower School Courses; Gordon T. Munn, B.A., University and Senior Mathemetics, Physics; Fred Read, B.A., Director of Business Administration; Reginald Al Pinney, B.A., Lower School Courses; Ruth E. Howard, M.A., University and Matriculation English; Dorothy A. B. Greer, B.A., University and Matriculation French; Colin MacDonald, Principal, Preparatory School; Ernest Suter, Junior Residence Master, Craft Shop Director; S. M. Anglin, B.A., Teacher of German, Vocal and Choral Classes; William Connor, M. A., A.T.C.M., Organ, Pianoforte and Theory; Bessie Handley, A. T. C.M., Pianoforte and Theory; Mary C. Deacon, Pianoforte and Theory; Mrs. H. B. Simpson, Nurse; Miss L. Steel, Dietitian, Mrs. T. K. Franklin, Junior-House Mother.

Tour of Inspection

As groups of guests assembled in the entrance hall of the school guides were ready to take them on a tour of the buildings. The duties of conducting parties were very capably carried out by Mr. Pinney, Mr. Read, Eric Jones, Bob Craig, Thorunn Melvaer and Elaine Hollinger.

The Howard Purchase memorial classroom was first visited. This brilliant student who had twice won the Marsh award died shortly after graduation. The room, in which is placed a plaque in tribute to him, was dedicated last year and is used for the study of English. Passing along the corridor, other classrooms were indicated and glimpses seen of the smartly furnished waiting room for the day students. Returning to Memorial Hall, the visitors paused to examine the Marsh Award and the Principal Howard Award honor rolls before entering the chapel, which was built by contributions from Alumni from all parts of the Dominion.

Attracting particular admiration was the tazza, the memento of Prince Albert sent to the college as a gift from the late King George Vth. The tazza is of onyx in semi-oval shape mounted on a silver and enamel stand, supported by two mermaids. It formerly stood on the Prince Consort's writing table at Windsor Castle.

Historical Treasures Exhibited

Links with the college's past are carefully preserved and a few articles from its historical treasures were on exhibition. These included accounts of the second and fourth annual commencement exercises. In one record book, meticulously entered by hand are the theses the University students submitted for graduation. The college is also proud to possess a copy of an American newspaper bearing the date Monday, March, 12, 1770, called the "Bofton Gazette and Country Journal" Featured in it is an account of a meeting when the grievances against the stamp tax were reviewed. The spelling is in the old English style and the paper is interesting and valuable. It may be one of the rare original copies of this paper, of which eight facsimile reproductions were later made.

Especially significant at this time when all thoughts are with Canada's sons overseas, the College's Roll of Honor on which are enscribed on a bronze tablet the names of students who participated in the war of 1914-18 was pointed out to the visitors.

The manifold activities of the term were covered, photographically in the display of groups and camera studies of school life. Those by Stan Crouse, which won the Registrar's prize last year won much favourable comment. These, with the school publications and trophies, gave a splendid picture of the preceding term, while Albert College throughout the years could be glimpsed through perusal of the Registrar's scrap book containing data and clippings from 1859.

Displays in Memorial Hall were devoted to examples of work done in the craft shop under the direction of Mr. E. J. Suter. These cleverly designed and well finished articles included lamp stands, tie racks, book ends, to mention only a few of the items shown. The Craft Shop, Camera Club, Dramatic Group, Glee Club, Science and Current Events Clubs offer opportunities for the special projects the students may care to follow and they chose one of these lines of endeavour at the beginning of the term.

Concentrate on Knitting

The co-eds are concentrating on knitting in leisure time and there was a display of beautifully done sweaters, all part of the needlecraft project in which Mrs. Simpson gives instruction for one hour a week.

The care that is given in ascertaining the abilities and adaptions of the students was clearly demonstrated in the display of vocational guidance and testing methods used at the college.

From Memorial Hall, the parties continued to the large, well appointed gym, where under the direction of Mr. N. A. Beach a program of gymnastics was carried out, including tumbling, pyramids, floor hockey, bars and horse and drill group.

Visits were then made to the Chemistry Laboratory, the Library and Arts classroom to the commerce department where a thorough business course is taught. Following this the guests made a tour of Graham Hall, the residence for boys. Here the tuck shop, reading room, ping pong room, the common room with its cheerful grate fire and homelike atmosphere showed the surroundings in which indoor leisure hours may be spent. The boys' rooms in the senior and junior department were open to inspection and returning to the main building the prep rooms were visited.

Craft Shop On Main Floor

On the ground floor are to be found the Craft shop where Mr. E. J. Suter explained the extent of the work undertaken by the boys, the spacious swimming pool which in the evening was the scene of a splash party, the kitchens in which the ladies of the party were particularly interested. Finally the parties returned to Ackerman Hall where tea was served. The beauty of this broadly proportioned room was enhanced by the charmingly arranged tea tables centred with daffodils and green tapers. Miss Jessie B. Tuite, Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. McMullen poured tea and the co-eds were gracious tea assistants.

In the evening the students had the opportunity of entertaining their friends. A Splash Party was held in which demonstrations were given in free style, back stroke, pigeon race, diving, underwater swimming, breast stroke, life saving and relay races. Games were under way in the common room, a bridge party was in progress and dancing was also included in the evening's program. At eleven o'clock the College bade farewell to the visitors, resuming normal college life after a most interesting and delightful interlude.

POLICE COURT

Having recuperated suffiecently from a mild attack of cold His Worship, Magistrate E. J. Butler, K. C., returned to the bench and presided at today's session of Belleville Police Court. S. Gordon Robertson, who was appointed to conduct investigations on the part of the prosecution in the absence of Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K. C., who is vacationing, was present. Mr. Robertson assumed his duties as Acting Crown Attorney today.

Four inebriates appeared and all pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication and were given jail sentences in default of the payment of assessed fines. John McDonald, transient, faced a second offence charge, however, and was sentenced to serve one month when he intimated he was unable to pay a fine of $50.00. "We allowed this man his liberty after he sobered up on Friday, but he was arrested on a drunk charge again Saturday," revealed Chief Kidd.

Appearing on a charge of failing to provide necessities for his child, Arnold Bray, Toronto, stated to the court he would try to provide for his daughter. "Case enlarged for two weeks and you'd better do something more than try," warned the court.

Police Blotter

While visiting friends on Burton St. Saturday night, a parked automobile, owned by J. D. Campbell, Kingston, was struck and damaged by a hit-and-run driver, the automobile owner complained to Belleville police late Saturday night. Mr. Campbell had parked his motor car on the lefthand side of Burton St., facing westerly, while he visited friends. It was during his absence that a hit-and-run driver struck the parked vehicle. Police are investigating.

Motorcycle Patrolmen Sam Ervine and J. Caldwell, who patrol district highways, reported no serious accidents over the week end. "Highway No. 2 is quite bare in the district, but we understand roads in Prince Edward County are in poor condition for motoring, especially following the heavy snow storm that visited that area Saturday", added Constable Ervine.

Seventeen transients were given shelter at the police station over the week end, only six appearing for warm sleeping quarters last night.

Ki-Y League

In a Ki-Y hockey game, Midget series, played at the Hume Arena Saturday afternoon, the St. Mike's sextette out-scrapped the "Scrappers" when they pulled out a 7-1 win. Barrett with three goals to his credit was best for the winners, with J. Wardhaugh, B. Wardhaugh, A. Meagher and B. Meagher also scoring. Cork saved the Scrappers from being shut out, when he tallied for the losers.

The teams: St. Mikes — goal—Moher; defence — Peets and Temple; centre— A. Meagher; wings—B. Meagher and Barrett; subs—Green and Forster. Scrappers—goal—Shortt, defence—Snell, and Quincey; centre—Court; wings—Doyle and Semark; subs—Brodie and Parsons.

Referee—Knott.

THE NETHERLANDS KEEP DEFENCES

country's land and sea defences.

Standing in a lookout tower "somewhere in Holland" and surveying defence lines for populous cities and industrial and commercial shipping centres in the west, General Baron Jan Joseph Godfried Van Voorst declared: "This is an example of how a nation without great stocks of military material can make its country impregnable by utilizing its natural resources and the genius of its people."

Stretched out before him was the Netherlands' famed "water line," backed up by weapons and fortifications of modern war.

The tour showed first-line defences stretching back from the German-Netherlands frontier, the main "water line" defences through central Holland, including the centuries'-old "fortress of Holland" and coastal defences along the North Sea.

The extent of preparations—largely in the construction of steel-and-concrete casemates, pill boxes and other permanent fortifications—surprises even those who have seen service with Holland's army.

Unlike other western European nations with their heavy and tremendously expensive fortified lines, the Netherlands relies on light fortifications, many concealed pill boxes and artillery positions to bolster the water defences.

No Enemy Can Penetrate

The Netherlands' theory is that no enemy can penetrate the inundation areas, even when they are frozen. The main arteries through them—highways and dykes—are defended on each flank by machine-gun nests, anti - tank and anti - aircraft positions, hidden trenches and artillery.

Barbed wire entanglements stretch grimly at intervals and pointed steel beams—"asparagus"—angle menacingly out of the ground at roadsides to stop tanks. Huge concrete blocks, with similar beams and movable barbed wire barricades, are at hand to close roads completely.

On both sides are tank traps—many water-filled—and roads and bridges are mined ready to be blown up in an emergency.

The general said all of hundreds of dykes and sluices could be repaired easily, and that both soldiers and civilians were expert at the job.

Most spectacular sight of the army's demonstration of how it copes with ice was the setting off of explosives which ripped an opening six to eight yards wide and 500 yards long in the foot-thick ice.

RALSTON REPLIES TO CRITICISMS OF GOVERNMENT

Unveils 'This Ghost of Regimentation and Control' Which Has Been Charged

OBJECTIVES DIFFER

In Wartime, Government, He Says Must Direct Private Interests for Common Cause

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP) — Finance Minister J. L. Ralston replied today to critics of Canada's war effort who, he said claim to find in the nation's wartime measures the dictation and arbitrary control of the Nazi system of government.

He unvelled in an address at a joint luncheon of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Club what he labelled "this ghost of regimentation and control." His audience included some of Canada's leading business men, here as delegates to the Chamber of Commerce convention.

Mr. Ralston remarked at the outset that there is a decided difference in the relations between government and business in wartime and in any other time, a difference due to the fact peacetime and wartime objectives are not the same.

Peacetime Objective

"In peacetime the objective we seek in our system of government and economics is primarily the well-being of each individual as an individual," he said. "What is done by the government is, or ought to be, to ensure to all individual citizens an opportunity to use their abilities and enterprise in order to win prosperity and security for themselves, and in doing so to contribute to the well-being of the whole community.

"The function of the government is, by using the power of the State, to preserve order and justice, to assist the weak and unfortunate and to provide those four essential collective services which enable individual efforts and enterprises to flourish".

Wartime Objective

"But in wartime the objective is changed", the Finance Minister continued. It is the welfare and the very existence of the nation, as a nation, which is in danger. He said it was collective and united national effort which must be made, with the welfare of the individual merged in the welfare of the State.

"The government, automatically and inexorably, with the safety and security of the state in view, must, in the interests of all, so direct individual efforts that private interests are put aside in order to see to it that each citizen in his particular sphere works and sacrifices, if necessary, for the common cause."

Mr. Ralston said that on the military front, the individual in a battalion becomes subject to the discipline of the staff, in a football game the individual on the team voluntarily surrenders his liberty of action to gain the objective of winning the game.

Responsibility Falls on Government

"In war, it is necessary that all of us work fltogether and the responsibility of direction falls on the government, imperfect though it may be, that is set up by the people themselves.

"So, there is a real difference in relations between government and business in wartime and in peacetime, and I stress this because I hear every once in a while — and perhaps oftener —of somebody who is restive and even irritated at what he calls 'unwarranted interference with private business'.

" 'Why,' he says, 'dictation and arbitrary control are the very things in the Nazi system of government which we are fighting to defeat.' He ought to remember, I think, that these controls exist, not as part of our peacetime government, but only because the dominant concern is at this time shifted from the individual to the nation and that such restrictions are for the one purpose of strengthening and integrating and uniting the whole fabric of our citizenship for the supreme task of helping to win the war".

TWO ROBINS SEEN BY EX-ALDERMAN

The first robins of the season, true harbingers of an early Spring, are reported by Ex-Alderman B. F. Jennings of 210 John Street as being seen in his yard this morning. After cleaning up the crumbs which he tossed out to the birds, they took to their wings and disappeared over into a neighbour's yard.

800 COAL DRIVERS STRIKE IN TORONTO

Toronto, Feb. 19.—(CP) —An attempt by striking coal drivers to stop four men from unloading a railroad carload of coal at suburban New Toronto today was followed by a warning from Ontario Government Labor officials that Provincial Police will take action to prevent violence.

The strike, involving an estimated 800 drivers, or 98 per cent of the total membership of the Toronto Local of the Coal Drivers, Helpers and Truckers Union in the city and suburbs, began early today and has stopped coal deliveries except to hospitals and war orders factories.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

SIGNALMAN'S TOWER DAMAGED BY FIRE

Igniting from an over-heated stove pipe, the roof covering the C.P.R. signalman's turret lookout on Pinnacle Street was partly damaged by fire early Saturday evening. The blaze was discovered by a passing delivery boy, who sounded the alarm. The fire department managed to extinguish the blaze with the use of small hose and chemicals. One side of the roof was considerably damaged by the fire that gained some headway in the wooden structure before the fire department was notified.

LITTLE GIRL RUNS IN FRONT OF CAR

Dashing out into the street near her home while at play, six-year-old June Wilson, of 136 James St., was knocked down by a passing motor car yesterday afternoon. The driver of the automobile, Albert Moorman, Point Anne, immediately stopped and returned to pick the little lass up. Later when the little girl was taken to her nearby home her parents were satisfied no serious injuries had resulted. Mr. Moorman personally reported to the police. The accident happened on James Street, near the little girl's home.

EIGHT ELDERS ARE INDUCTED

Eight elders were inducted at Holloway Street United Church on Sunday morning by the Rev. Royal E. Newman, minister. The elders were: George T. Woodley, A. Greatrix, H. Burley, who have previously been elders, and Charles Walters, Elton McMurray, W. J. Slavin, A. Dunlop and A. Green, newly-elected.

FEW MECHANICS REGISTER AT BUREAU

With only forty-four skilled artizans registered to date, registrations of district skilled labor are coming in much slower than was anticipated, Employment Superintendent W. D. Ross said today.

"The majority of the men registered thus far are connected with the building trades. Very few machinists or mechanics have been registered," he added.

He explained that the registration is voluntary and is being done to get an idea of the skilled-labor man-power in the district.

BOY INJURED WHEN KNOCKED OFF CYCLE

Jack Bongard, 16, of 61 Albion St. was knocked off his bicycle while riding on Station Street early Saturday evening. Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard investigated and said yesterday, the motor car was driven by C. L. Smith, of Station post office. The lad's bicycle was damaged somewhat and Smith agreed to make restitution in the matter of repairs, the officer said. Young Bongard escaped with slight bruises.

DIVIDE DUTIES OF CROWN ATTORNEY

Mr. E. Ormonde Butler will perform the duties of acting Crown Attorney during the absence of Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, and will conduct all proceedings in the city and county with the exception of police court sessions in Belleville and Trenton, which will be performed by Mr. Gordon Robertson. The office of acting Crown Attorney will not be divided as formerly reported.

ONLY 15 PER CENT OF NEW PLATES SOLD

According to Mr. Edgar Vermilyea, local issuer of motor vehicle licences, the general public is showing very little response to the provisions made available by the authorities enabling them to purchase their permits before the deadline and thus avoid the last minute rush around March 31st, which is the last date permissible to display old markers on their cars. "Only about fifteen per cent. of our normal output of over 5,500 plates has thus far been disposed of," stated Mr. Vermilyea this morning, as he intimated that motorists were apparently making their old permits last as long as possible.

THIEVES STEAL QUARTER OF BEEF, LEAVE THE BONES

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Munday, farmers residing near Wellington, will not dine off the fine beefsteaks this Winter as formerly anticipated, for sneak thieves entered the garage attached to the Munday house over the week-end and took the quarter of beef hung therein.

The obliging intruders, however, left the bones of the portion of the carcass they found, and unless the thieves are apprehended the Munday family will have to compromise with soup.

BLOOD POISONING IN HAND CHECKED

Admitted to the Belleville General Hospital late yesterday afternoon suffering from blood poisoning in his hand, Mr. John Lloyd, 152 Bridge Street West is reported by hospital authorities to be resting comfortably today. The trouble started as the result of a pimple on Mr. Lloyd's finger becoming infected and he was ordered to the hospital by attending physician, Dr. G. S. Cronk, where the spread of the poison was satisfactorily checked.

Interdict Bans 1,000 Persons From All Sacraments of Church

Action Taken by Church Authorities for Preventing Installation of New Pastor

Cleveland, Feb. 19 (AP) — An ecclesiastical interdict today banned approximately 1,000 members of a Cleveland Roman Catholic parish from all sacraments of the church, except when in danger of death, after the prevented for the third time installation of a new pastor.

In a demonstration of near-riot proportions, a crowd of 1,500 men, women and children yesterday barred Mgr. Floyd Begin, officials of the Cleveland diocese and Rev. Vincent Caruso, newly appointed pastor, from property of Holy Redeemer church.

Sixty policemen and an escort of uniformed Knights of Columbus and Knights of St. John were unable to clear a path through the crowd to the church entrance. Seven men were arrested and released on waivers pending court appearance.

Interdict Announced

During the disturbance Mgr. Begin announced "by authority of the Archbishop you can not receive the sacraments of the church until the parish has done penance."

Later he explained members of the parish may not be married validly in the eyes of the church, nor receive sacraments of confirmation, baptism and penance while the interdict is in force. "It will not be lifted," he asserted, "until the parish receives without qualification the priest whom the Archbishop sends as pastor. That priest is Father Caruso."

Some members of the parish have expressed a desire for appointment of the Rev. Louis Loi Zedda, assistant for seven years to the late Rev. Martin Compagno, pastor.

TOMB DISCOVERED

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 19 (AP)—The tomb of a Pharaoh of the 21st dynasty, who ruled Egypt 3,000 years ago, has been discovered at San El Hagar, near Port Said. The tomb, containing a quantity of golden utensils, is that of King Psou Sennes, second of the dynasty, who ruled from 1080 to 1067 B.C. It was found by a Frenchman, Prof. Montet.

CAT-ERWAULING

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 19.—(AP) —Howls and screeches in Andrew Ross's radio set sounded too realistic for sound effects, too piercing for static. He investigated. A grey cat was sitting on the tubes. Ross tried to move her but couldn't. Police were called, and they put the cat out.

Upset Scored in First Round of Ontario 'Spiel

Toronto Feb. 19 (CP)— Earl Wheeler skipped his Toronto High Park rink to a 13-5 victory over Alex Hayes' Sarnia four today, scoring an outstanding upset in the first round play for the Royal York trophy at the Ontario Curling Association Bonspiel here. The Sarnia rink was 1939 winner of the trophy, outstanding award of the bonspiel.

The majority of the favorites advanced as expected. Among the winning rinks were D. P. J. Kelly's Toronto Granites, 1939 grand aggregate winners and present holders of the North American Life and Seagram trophies; R. R. Evans of Hamilton Thistles, winner of the Canada Dry trophy in the consolation last year and Davie Walker's Fort William four, who have captured every award at the bonspiel at least once.

All five rinks representing the Detroit Curling Club were defeated in first round competition and a Milwaukee rink skipped by Dr. J. A. MacKenzie lost a close decision to A. S. Bates' Bracebridge entry 8-7.

The 62 winning rinks also enter competitions for the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie and Seiberling trophies while the losers play for the North American Life and Seagram awards.

SWALLOWS 80 TABLETS, DIES

Montreal, Feb. 19— (CP)—Three year old Claudette Levesque died in the hospital at neighboring Verdun today from the effects of swallowing 80 patent medicine tablets in her home yesterday.

Witnesses at the inquest, which ended with a verdict of accidental death, said the child had been playing with her four year old brother who obtained the tablets by climbing up to a cupboard.

VICTIM OF 3 HIT-AND-RUN DRIVERS

New York, Feb. 19—(AP)— John Brown, 40, a pedestrian, was the victim of three hit-and-run drivers. Crossing an ice-covered street in Brooklyn yesterday, Brown slipped and fell. While another pedestrian tried to pull him to safety, a taxicab and two other motor cars in quick succession "clipped" the fallen man. All sped on without stopping. Brown died a few minutes later in a hospital.

SEED DISPLAY TO BE SPONSORED

Hastings County Crop Improvement Association Will be in Charge

In an effort to urge farmers of the county to increase grain production for war needs, by the use of better seed, the Hastings County Crop Improvement Association will sponsor a seed display in Stirling late in March.

The display is being held for the purpose of bringing together those men with good seed for sale and those who wish to purchase such seed.

Good seed will decrease production cost because it will produce more bushels to the acre than poorer seed, H. L. Fair, county agricultural representative pointed out today. It is far better to use this method to increase production that to plant more acreage with inferior seed, he added.

All farmers are urged to have their good seed cleaned as soon as possible. One pound of the cereal grains and a four-ounce sample for clover seed should be sent to the Dominion Seed Branch at Ottawa for seed analysis, and a two-quart sample sent to the seed display when it opens.

Dr. H. L. Newman, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and E. K. Hampson, vice-president of the Ontario Provincial Fair will speak at the display.

SPEAKER PRAISES SERVICE CLUBS

W. J. Cairns, Speaker at Union Service of Service Clubs at Bridge St. United Church

"There cannot be too many service clubs in Canada. If any group of men wish to organize to do a good community work, by all means let them do it", W. J. (Bill) Cairns, outstanding Canadian Service Club and Welfare exponent told members of the Kiwanis, Rotary, Kinsmen and Y's men Clubs at the evening service in Bridge Street United church last night.

Mr. Cairns, ex-president of the Bell Telephone Company, and former president of the Toronto (downtown) Rotary Club, in a brilliant address outlined the aims of Rotary besides paying tribute to other service organizations. He spoke of the birth of Rotary in 1905 and referred to its growth and the scale of its work now being done by its far-flung international branches.

"You will often hear it said there are too many service clubs in Canada", he said. "This is not the case Each is doing its own community work in a commendable way." He advocated the encouragement of such organizations "which should have the support of all citizens".

Paraguayan President Assumes Full Power

Asuncion, Paraguay, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A decree by President General Jose Felix Estigarribia making himself virtual dictator of Paraguay because "our nation has reached the edge of horrible anarchy" was received with calm throughout the Nation today.

"I assume all political powers of the Republic", the 51-year-old President decreed yesterday. Earlier Estigarribia announced he had the full support of the army and navy.

Both the Congress and Cabinet have resigned to give the President a free hand. He appointed a new Cabinet including most of the members of the old one.

The decree promised a "complete truce of political activities of all parties and creeds" and to "call the people to elections for a national convention which will dictate a new constitution." as soon as "all anarchist factors are defeated."

Chamberlain May Refer to Altmark Incident

London, Feb. 19 — (CP) — The Press Association predicted today that Prime Minister Chamberlain would make a statement on the Altmark incident in the House of Commons tomorrow.

"Mr. Chamberlain is expected to content himself with a recapitulation of what has occurred," the associaton said. It added that because of the diplomatic exchanges over the incident the question was one for the Prime Minister to discuss rather than the First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill.

Norwegian Parliament to Meet

Oslo, Feb. 19—(AP)—The Norwegian parliament was called to meet today to hear an official statement on the Altmark incident.

Announcement that a statement would be read was made after a meeting of the foreign affairs committee of parliament with foreign minister Halvdan Koht, other members of the cabinet and experts on international law.

CAT GETS TAIL CAUGHT IN WRINGER

San Maeto, Calif., Feb. 19 (AP)— That awful noise was Mrs. J. J. Bowler's cat with its tail caught in the wringer. The animal apparently bumped a switch that turned on the wringer and then backed into it. A mechanic freed it.

Goering Confiscates All Factories, Farms, Forest Lands, in West Poland

Berlin, Feb. 19.—(AP)— Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Germany's economic dictator, today in effect decreed confiscation of all factories, farms and forest lands in former Polish territory now incorporated in the Reich.

The order exempted only property owned by German nations before Sept. 1 when the German invasion of Poland started. Such lands and forests, including those "confiscated by the Reich's Commissar for strengthening German nationality", are to be managed by the state "to guarantee National sustenance", Goering ordered.

Public operation applies to all belongings, rights, claims, interest and shares involved in such factories or lands. The decree does not apply, however, to the "governor general's" section of Poland which has not been incorporated in the Reich though under German rule since partition of the Republic by Russia and Germany.

Thousands of farmhands are being brought to various parts of Germany from German-occupied Poland to till German soil.

Letters From the Troops

Aldershot, Jan. 26, 1940.

Dear sisters, Agnes, Reta and Corinne:

I received your welcome letters and was pleased to hear from you all. I wrote to you all the first of January and I suppose you have received your letters long before now. You asked me to tell you something about the ocean, well girls, the first day, you near die, the next day you wish you had died and the next day you wonder why you did not die, but after that you really enjoy yourself. While we were on the ship Frenchy and I used to go up on deck, take our quilts, and read magazines. Boy, girls, talk about your nice country the heather is in full bloom in Scotland and the grass is so green, you would hardly think it was January. Scotland has all the other countries beat so far for scenery and beauty. We had things pretty good on the boat. Everything was reasonably cheap, but when we reached England, we sure got a surprise. Everything was sky high. Tobacco is from $4.50 to $5.00 a lb. (Canadian money). You do not enjoy smoking it even after you get the price to buy it. We are all right over here except for the tobacco. We get good sleeping accommodation and plenty to eat. There are several theatres here. The admission is about 80 cents. We are stationed in a big military town. There are about 60,000 soldiers here and only 4,000 civilians.

R.S.M. Duffy was presented with a silver medal by His Majesty the King, for efficiency. The day His Majesty visited the troops I had the honour of shaking hands with him. R.S.M. Duffy gave me some Canadian cigarettes. He got me a job building bookcases for the Colonel in the Sergeants' mess. He sure looks after me. Tell mother and Emma to keep their chins up as I will soon be back. I wrote mother and Emma a couple of days ago. I got a lot of nice Christmas cards and as I said before, I would like to live here, if my people were here. I am getting fat, I now weigh 158 lbs. I'll be as big as dad when I get back. Well, girls, I will have to close as I just received a parcel from Emma and I am at present enjoying a good old Canadian smoke.

P.S.: Give my pals my address and tell them to write.

Thieves Carry Flaming Torches Into Gasoline Warehouse

Charred Paper Found Early Today After Intruders Depart

SMALL SUM OF CASH

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 19 (CP) — Thieves who broke into the offices of the British American Oil Company at the week-end flirted with death as they kindled paper torches to aid them in an attempt to force open the safe.

To offset possible discovery from electric lights and lacking a flashlight, apparently, the thieves improvised torches made from paper, even carrying the flaming torches into the warehouse, where thousands of gallons of gasoline are stored. Charred paper was found strewn about the office and warehouse floor.

There was only a small amount of cash and some cheques in the safe.

FEWER STRIKES IN 1939

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP).—Decreasing incidence of labor troubles in Ontario was rhown in figures relating to strikes obtained from the Ontario Labor Department.

In the calendar year 1939 there were 33 strikes and lockouts as compared to 64 in 1938. The number of workers fell from 8,308 to 5,101 and the number of working days lost from 72,984 to 43,920.

CHILD SERIOUSLY INJURED

Brantford, Ont., Feb. 19—(CP)—Lear-old Delmer Morden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Morden of Hamilton, was in hospital today with five ribs torn away from the cartilage of his breast-bone. His condition was said satisfactory.

The child suffered injury Sunday when a car driven by his grandfather, William Robinson of Welland, skidded into a steel pole.

Locomotive Shops of C.N.R. on 44-Hr. Week

Montreal, Feb. 19 (CP) — Locomotive repair shops of the Canadian National Railways, now operating on a 40-hour week, will be placed on a 44-hour week immediately, it was announced here today. The order affects shops throughout Canada.

The announcement was made by N. B. Walton, vice-president in Charge of Operation, Maintenance and Construction, who said the increase in hours was due to a "distinct upturn in business that has taken place and is continuing."

The shops are located at Moncton, N.B.; Riviere Du Loup, Que.; St. Malo, Que.; Montreal, Stratford, Ont.; Transcona, Man.; Winnipeg, Edmonton and Port Mann, B.C.

BELLEVILLE MUSICIAN WINS FIRST PRIZE IN AMATEUR CONTEST

Broadcasting from a Montreal radio station yesterday, Fred Stone one of Belleville's outstanding amateur musicians and entertainers, won first prize in an amateur contest held under the auspices of Ken Soble, Toronto master-of-ceremonies.

Mr. Stone, who took first place in a group of talented entertainers, not only won the handsome prize given, but also the privilege to compete in a future contest in which finalists of recent contests will compete.

Impersonations and adept playing on his violin brought Mr. Stone the coveted honors of the contest.

King Gustaf of Sweden Defends Country's Refusal of Aid to Finns

Stockholm, Feb. 19 (AP)— King Gustaf of Sweden today issues a statement endorsing the Swedish government's refusal to give military aid to Finland. The government announced Friday it had turned down a request for such aid.

"On my own initiative I called my government togeth.: today to make the following statement: My desire is to inform the Swedish people of the difficult position and heavy responsibilities in which we find ourselves involved at the present time.

"I have deemed i' my imperative duty to keep our country as long as possible out of the awful conflict which is spreading through the world. That is why, with the full support of the government and parliament, our neutrality declaration was made.

"I have followed constantly and with the greatest admiration the heroic fight of our sister country, Finland, against superior forces. Sweden has tried from the beginning, through sending volunteers and in many other ways, to help that country.

"But at the very outset I informed Finland that, unfortunately, it should not count on Swedish military intervention.

Must Maintain Present Position

"With a heavy heart I arrived after mature study at the conclusion that we must in the present situation maintain this point of view. I firmly believe that if Sweden intervened in Finland today, we should run the greatest risk of being drawn not only into war with Russia, but also into the war between the great powers, and such a responsibility I could not take upon myself.

AT THE McCARTHY

"I WAS A SPY"

"I Was a Spy", the story of the heroic young Belgian woman, Martha McKenna, wife of a British officer, who was a hospital nurse during the war 1914-18 and engaged in secret service work for the Allies is now playing at the McCarthy theatre.

The Great War time adventures of Martha McKenna is one of the most thrilling stories of heroism that has yet been adapted to the screen. As a spy and a sister of mercy, Martha McKenna spent two years of her life looking after the German wounded in Belgium and conveyed military secrets to Germany's enemies.

Finally her activities were discovered; she was court-martialled and condemned to be shot. But on account of her service to Germany the sentence was commuted to one of imprisonment for life. That sentence she fully expected to serve, but the defeat of Germany opened the prison gates to her release.

The whole of the action of "I Was a Spy" takes place behind the German lines, and many big sets, such as the Square at Roulers, were specially constructed for the picture. Some of the exteriors were made at Flanders, where the McKennas are now living in undisturbed peace. It is reported that these sets were constructed so realistically, that they represent as nearly as is possible the actual landmarks of the war.

Madeleine Carroll has the feminine lead, and she impersonates the character of the wartime heroine, Martha McKenna. Herbert Marshall has the leading role opposite her. The other members of the cast are Conrad Veidt, Gerald Du Maurier, Edmund Gwenn, Donald Calthrop, Eva Moore and Nigel Bruce.

"Fox Movietone News"

"Fox Movietone News" which presents first-hand the latest in world-wide important events, is a new addition to the McCarthy theatre program and will be presented each week, starting now with the current presentation of "I Was a Spy." A splendid technicolor musical-comedy "Ride, Cowboy, Ride" featuring Cliff Edwards one of the best known entertainers of radio, screen and stage is also now being exhibited.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

Calgary, Feb. 19—(CP)—Alderman Patrick Lenihan was acquitted in the Alberta Supreme Court Saturday on two charges under the War Measures Act. The jury of six men found him not guilty of making statements at a meeting Dec. 3, 1939, intended or likely to cause disaffection to His Majesty or prejudice recruiting or discipline of His Majesty's forces.

WAR BRIEFS

Helsinki, Feb. 19 (AP)—Finland's capital experienced an air raid alarm today from 11 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. (4 a.m. to 5.30 a.m., E.S.T.) indicating Russia had resumed air raids on Finnish cities.

Aldershot, Feb. 19 (C.P. Cable) —French-Canadians with the Canadian troops in training at Aldershot are sending a special message to French soldiers serving in the Maginot line.

The message will be relayed by Betty Stockfeld, Australian entertainer who paid a special visit to the 22nd. Battalion. Miss Stockfeld told the men she would be broadcasting to the Maginot men and asked for a message to pass along. The message:

"All ranks of French-Canadians salute their French comrades and hope to join them soon to contribute to the victory of our common cause."

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 19 (CP)— Company officials announced today that only United States citizens will be employed on the recently-awarded United States War Department contracts in the Detroit area. The ruling will make Canadian-born non-citizens ineligible. Several hundred other employables will have to write to various points in the United States for birth certificates and citizenship papers.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP) — The armed Cunard-White Star liner Britannic, carrying 471 passengers, 375 of them refugees from Germany and Central Europe, arrived today from Liverpool.

Among the passengers was Frank Courtney, British flyer and aircraft designer, who attempted unsuccessfully to make a westbound trans-Atlantic flight in 1928. Now 45, Courtney said he was too old for army service.

London, Feb. 19—(CP)—Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden returned by air today from the near east where he gave an official welcome to the Australian and New Zealand expeditionary forces.

"An excellent effect," was produced throughout the near east and the world by arrival of the Anzacs as a "dramatic demonstration of imperial unity," Mr. Eden declared.

Helsinki, Feb. 19—(CP-Havas)— Lieut. Colonel Jean Ganaval, representing General Gamelin, allied commander - in - chief, arrived here today to visit. Field-Marshal Baron. Mannerheim,. the Finnish commander. Colonel Ganaval, formerly served as military attache to the French legation here. He will remain for several weeks.

London, Feb. 19—(CP)—It was officially announced today that Edouard Benes has received from W. J. London, Feb. 19—(CP)—Edward H. Tyldesley, 56, an employee of the war office for six months, was charged today with stealing war office notepaper and envelopes. He was remanded in custody for a week pending further investigation. Before joining the war office staff, Tyldesley was a school teacher.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Rio"

A League-of- nations cast and a two-hemisphere locale provides an international aspect for "Rio," Universal's new production now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Sweden is represented in the person of Sigrid Gurie, who was reared there, although she was born in Brooklyn, N.Y. The British Empire provided South African born Basil Rathbone and the Irish-English Victor McLaglen, as stars. Mexico, with a heritage of old Spain is prominent in Leo Carrillo, while Robert Cummings upholds the prestige of Yankee land.

The director is German-born John Brahm, who made his first acquaintance with a motion picture studio in Paris, wrote his first script in England and became a stage producer in Vienna and followed that profession in Berlin.

Geographically, "Rio" embraces two continents, Europe and South America. Early sequences of the picture are placed in Paris, with a background of boulevard cafes, then it moves to Rio de Janeiro. Several sequences were filmed in setting representing a jungle prison.

The picture launches Miss Gurie as a contender for top glamour honors. She is magnificently gowned for scenes in which she portrays an idol of Parisian cafe society. Rathbone seen as her ultra-rich husband; Carrillo as the owner of a big ranch; McLaglen as a bodyguard and Cummings as an engineer.

On the same programme the added feature stars Rochelle Hudson and Barry Mackay in "Smuggled Cargo." The latest war news reel completes the bill.

Copenhagen, Feb. 19—(CP-Havas)—A German plane was fired on by Danish anti-aircraft guns when it flew over Danish territory in South Jutland today. The plane was not hit.

ROTARY'S 35TH ANNIVERSARY

This week Rotary International is celebrating the 35the birthday of the founding of the organization. Born in Chicago of the idea that business men should be better acquainted with each other and, through that closer association, might be able to achieve worthwhile things for their community, nation and the world, Rotary has continued to expand until it has more than 5,000 clubs spread throughout the globe.

It has been said that the survival of any organization is predicated upon accomplishments. If Rotary had been content with its weekly luncheons and good fellowship it might have lingered on with a scattered membership, but from the outset the organization has been on the lookout for things that needed doing, and then going ahead and doing them. Thousands of children throughout the world today have been restored to normality as a result of Rotary's work for crippled children. There are hundreds of indigent old people who look upon Rotary as the sunshine of their declining years. These are but two instances of the manner in which Rotary functions.

Rotary was the progenator of the service club idea which has found expression under several other names but, in the main, the idea of the original organization prevails throughout.

It was a fitting thought of the Belleville Rotary Club for Rotary observance week to invite members of the other service clubs of the city to join with them in their commemorative gathering on Monday night. It is encouraging to see business men working together in one service club. It is more encouraging to see the community of spirit between the different service clubs.

WEEK OF DESTRUCTION FOR U-BOATS

Seven German submarines, it is believed, have been lost in a week, the heaviest toll on U-boats which has been inflicted during the war to date. The latest sinking is credited to a Royal Air Force bomber which pounced down out of the sun and landed two direct hits on the wolf of the sea, though the sinking of the latest U-boat is not officially announced by the Admiralty. This would mean an unofficial estimate of fifty German submarines destroyed since September 3rd. In a month the R.A.F. have claimed, it is officially stated, three German submarines. Surely a heavy toll especially in personnel for crews cannot be made to order very quickly.

Britain is taking a great toll on Germany but her record is clear as regards neutral shipping. Neutrals have a clear case against the Nazis who deliberately sink neutral craft and German mines sink neutral vessels. On Friday when the sinking of the submarine by the British bomber took place the neutrals lost four ships, thanks to the policy of the Nazi German Government.

Germany is piling up a bitter feeling among the nations who are neutral by her reckless disregard of the rules of war at sea.

H.M.S. EXETER IS HONORED

It is no wonder that the British warship Exeter was given a triumphal return to Plymouth after the heroic part this cruiser played in the battle off Montevideo, as a result of which the Germans scuttled the Graf Spee. She bears the marks of the battle in which she took part with the German pocket battleship.

It is also remembered at that time that there were lonely and proud hearts in Britain who had lost friends in that epic battle where British bravery and naval skill triumphed over the greater gun range of the pocket battleship.

The Exeter and her officers and crew lived up to the glorious traditions of Nelson on that memorable day off the coast of South America.

DRAMATIC RESCUE OF SEAMEN FROM PRISON SHIP

The Royal Navy's rescue of 326 British merchant ship officers and seamen, who had been taken by the raider Graf Spee in the days before she went to an ignominous end on the orders of Adolf Hitler that she be scuttled and who were being taken along the coast of Norway on the German prison ship, Altmark, (called in every respect a hell-ship), on the way to a German concentration camp, has several spectacular reactions. First in dramatic action was of course the British boarding of the German ship as the British destroyer Cossack went into territorial waters after the Altmark because the Admiralty was certain that prisoners were aboard and was not satisfied with the Norwegian search. It was a hand-to-hand battle in the best style of old-day battles on the decks of ships held together by grappling irons as in the times of Drake and Nelson. The defeat of the German crew, the flight of some German armed guards and the rescue of the seamen were features of the incident.

There is the international question over the neutral power. Norway protests to Britain against what she calls violation of her territorial waters and Britain has asked Norway to explain how it was possible that the prisoners aboard the boat were not discovered by the Norwegians searching the Altmark. Then there is Germany's protest to Norway and demand for indemnification. Britain in a communique has charged that the Altmark was armed. Germany's way with the neutrals will be a matter which will play no small part in the aftermath of this striking event.

Britain was jubilant and gave a royal welcome to the released captive seamen. Their story of the conditions aboard the prison ship was touching.

Much is bound up in the events of last Friday evening especially as regards the neutrals in their relations to Germany and to the Allies. Other neutrals will observe closely the situation with regard to the developments in the Norwegian incident. Germany threatens reprisals on the Allies. What her reaction to neutrals will be will be closely watched.

40 German Seamen To Sail for Home On Japanese Liner

San Pedro, Calif., Feb. 19 (AP)—Forty German seamen from vessels held in Mexican and South American ports, were scheduled to sail today aboard the Japanese liner Heiyo Maru, in an attempt to reach their homes.

Among the group were seven officers and 21 seamen from the Harry G. Seidel, a Standard Oil Company of New York tanker. Captain Rudolf Dahn said he and his crew were removed from their ship at Buenos Aires shortly after outbreak of the war and made their way to Valparaiso, Chile.

Removal of German seamen from another Japanese vessel by a British warship precipitated protests from the Japanese government last month. At that time, it was announced in Tokyo that Japanese steamship lines had been instructed to refuse passage to belligerent Nationals who are "enlisted in military services and those who may possibly be enlisted."

Bull Terrier Battles Python

"Grip," the magnificent, snow-white, thoroughbred bull-terrier, had swept everything before him, at the Kennel Club show at the Crystal Palace in London, and after that he went to British East Africa, where Count Nils Fredrik Cronstadt became his owner, and his dearest and nearest friend. Never were they separated, and the marvellous intelligence of Grip seemed almost human. Wild, nearly unbelievable, adventures they shared in this black and terrifying country filled with strange men and wild beasts of enormous size and of subtle ways, but the time "the ceiling moved," although a true story, sounds like some weird imagining of Poe. Count Nils Cronstadt relates in his book called "Grip and I" (Jonathan Cape, London), the story of that night on the Niger River, appeared in Animal Life magazine.

As I had to go through the station's accounts and inspect the stock of coal, it was too late for me to continue my journey the same day, and as it seemed much more convenient to spend the night in one of the huts than on board the canoe, I got my crew to carry up part of my baggage to the quarters.

When I had finished my inspection and gone through the books, I had my dinner, and then about eight o'clock in the evening, went over to the hut, in which my man had arranged things for me for the night. On these journeys of mine I always used a kind of collapsible canvas bed, provided with four fairly long brass rods upon which my mosquito-net was fixed up. On this occasion I did not have Grip's basket brought up, but allowed the dog to lie on a mat beside the bed and so near it that he was protected by the mosquito netting.

What happened next almost determined any one never to go to Africa without a "Grip" of their own:

I had hardly fallen asleep when I was wakened by barks from Grip This was a most unusual occurrence, for as a rule the dog never disturbed me when I slept. Whenever any living creature, man or beast, approached my sleeping-place, he was always on the alert, but quite noiselessly. Jackals and thieves he saw to "off his own bat," without there being any need for me to take part in the game. Only in cases of utmost urgency did he begin to bark.

During my long sojourn in the wilds of Equatorial Africa, where at any moment I might have to hold my own against either some beast of prey or some unfriendly native, I always slept with a revolver, a hunting-knife, and an electric torch under my pillow. On this occasion I had them all under my pillow as usual.

Somewhat startled, I raised myself up in bed, turned on my electric torch, and let Grip out from under the mosquito-netting. The dog stood beside the bed, barking wildly with his head up toward the ceiling. Turning the torch in that direction, I saw an extraordinary sight. The whole ceiling was in movement — a wavy, sinuous kind of movement! It seemed to be alive! I was just about to jump out of bed, when to my horror I saw the head of an enormous snake swing down between me and the dog. The creature's head was as big as my two hands clasped together, but when it proceeded to open wide its jaws they looked as though they could swallow a young calf. Quickly I reached out for my revolver but at that moment the whole ceiling seemed to fall! Down it came, toppling on to the mosquito-net and myself, the brass rods bending under the impact like wire. The electric torch was dashed out of my hand, the foot of the bed gave way, and I found myself entangled in the mosquito-net, and buried underneath a cold, damp mass, which I knew must be the snake.

Grip had now stopped barking: I gathered from the confused sounds that reached my ears that he was engaged in a furious battle. In the midst of my desperate attempts to get my hands and feet I could feel the great serpent wriggling about on top of me. It hit me repeatedly with its tail, striking me over the head and on my legs, and it seemed to be trying to force itself in between me and the bed. Every moment I expected to find myself completely in its grasp. That I escaped this fate was very largely due to Grip. What he was up to I could not see, for it was pitch dark, but the sounds of worrying continued.

At last I got free of the entangling mosquito-net, and rolled out of bed and up against the wall, where I hurriedly scrambled to my feet. In the darkness I dared not risk a search for my torch and the revolver, for I had no notion where the snake was, nor did I dare to make a bolt across the room toward the door. The safest thing for me to do I concluded, was to get out the window, which was only a few steps away.

Carefully I crept along the wall, and had just got hold of the window frame when something that felt like a coil of rope gripped my leg. The great snake had got me!

In a second I was rolling helplessly on the floor, struggling madly to get free. First I was dragged along the wall, then farther into the room until I came into contact with the pillar in the centre of the hut. I clung to this with both hands. The snake tried to pull me away but failed, and at last it released my leg. Apparently it needed to have its tail free in order to cope with Grip.

At last the way to the door was open! Dashing out, I hastened to the second hut, where my servants were to have spent the night. Most of them had gone to the village, but luckily I found my cook inside. I shouted to him to get a light and follow me. Then I rushed back, for every moment was precious. My truest friend was fighting for his life, and I knew he could only hold his own for a few seconds in such a struggle.

By the light of the cook's lantern I saw an enormous python writhing on the floor. Of Grip all that could be seen was his head. He had his teeth fixed in the brute's throat, but it had coiled itself several times round his body. Without stopping to think, I darted forward, trying to get past them to the bed in order to snatch my revolver. Unfortunately, however, I slipped, and fell right on top of them. In the twinkling of an eye the snake had coiled itself round me as well!

Now we were n a pickle indeed, for both I and the dog were held fast. I yelled to the startled cook to jump to the bed, get hold of the revolver, and put a bullet through the snake's head, taking care not to miss it and hit Grip. Luckily the cook had been a soldier in the Niger Company's service, and had learnt to handle such weapons. He found the revolver and, placing the muzzle near the python's head, fired and blew it to bits.

The great brute's end came none too soon, for neither I nor Grip could have endured that terrible embrace much longer.

Next morning I got my servants to drag the dead monster out on the sand outside the hut. It was a boa-constrictor, the biggest I had ever seen in Africa. It measured over thirty feet in length, and at the thickest part of its body was fourteen inches round. It had probably been caught unawares by the swift rising river, for the Mosum was now completely flooded, and it had found a refuge in the roof of the unoccupied hut. At night, when its habit was to go in search of food, it had caught sight of Grip, who looked a delectable morsel with which to fill its empty stomach.

I felt the effects of the squeezing I received for several weeks afterwards, and as for Grip, he really looked to me as though he had been lengthened several inches! But perhaps that was just my imagination.

FEB. 19th., 1920.

One of the important matters which the Chamber of Commerce will take up immediately through its Committee on Education of which Mr. Fred S. Deacon is chairman, is that of increased educational facilities along advanced lines for Belleville. The High School building is inadequate for the present requirements and is crowded to an extent which is not only unsafe, but unfair to the teaching staff.

Board of Health Notice: Notice is hereby given that owing to the prevailing epidemic of Influenza, all churches, lodges, schools theatres, dance halls, pool rooms, indoor skating rinks and every place of public gathering or amusement, are ordered to be closed from the morning of Feb. 20th. until such time as the said Board deems it advisable to again have them opened.

The ladies who remove their hats at the opera house this evening will receive grateful glances from admiring gentlemen.

The first smoker held by the members of the Athletic Club in their rooms in the Ashley Block was voted by everyone present to be a great success. W. Carnew, the President, presided. Claude Bull played on his pianola and the selections were much enjoyed. Messrs. McGinnis and Bruce gave excellent exhibitions of single stick work and wonderful skill with the foils. Walter fanning introduced his acrobatic exercises on the mat and four boxing bouts of three and four rounds by members of the club were fast enough to please the most critical followers of the roped arena. The thanks of the club are due to Azael Ruttan for his vocal selections and to Messrs. Lang, Robinson, Truaisch and Bull for their assistance. The attendance was about 200.

Frank Henry Johnston, self-styled "Raffles" who moved in the swankiest social sets and plucked his victims from the Blue Book, is being held by Vancouver police. He has assertedly confessed to a $26,000 gem theft from the wife of Major Austin Taylor, race horse owner. He is also being questioned with regard to the looting of actress Dolores Del Rio's Palm Beach home. He is reported to have offered to return 80 per cent. of the Taylor loot, which he claims is cached in China, if police of Pasadena, Calif., drop the charges.

Six-Course Lunch on the Sea Bed

Paris.—The thin French admiral with the pointed beard looked around the charming room where his wife and a sailor servant were handing people cups of China tea.

"We could not have had this security without that," he said, pointing through the window to the great flagship that lay at anchor.

"What desolates our navy is that Britain is taking the first shock of the German sea attack. Look at the map. The Channel is virtually closed to the enemy. Our Allied blockade is beginning to grip the North Sea.

"There are many French warships in the North Sea, too. But our main job is to hold other seas. Our force is a deterrent to other naval powers siding against the Allies. So far we have lost only one small ship, and that through accident. Take that as an evidence of competence and good fortune," so writes George Miller in the Hamilton Spectator.

• • •

Remember that the French have a great navy, too. Take comfort from its strength and its fitness for whatever task lies ahead.

For nearly a week I have watched the French navy at work above, on, under the Atlantic. It is a navy with stern discipline and deep tradition fostered in the huge granite naval academy on the headland over Brest harbour and kept alive by its officers. Strangely enough, the officers themselves often call this republic's navy "The Royal."

They have a deep liking for the British navy, and they enjoy working with it. In fact, the Frenchmen sometimes got mixed up and talked to me of "Monsieur Nelson" and "Monsieur Rodney," and of "H.M.S. Dunkerque." These officers come from all social classes of France. But they have the same good manners as ours, the same effortless hold on their men, the same slight superiority complex when you talk of the army or the air force.

Because of the red bobbles on their caps the French sailors are nicknamed "pom-pons rouges." The name is effeminate for such men. A large proportion of them are Bretons—and from Brittany come real sailors.

• • •

They have the officers, they have the men, and they have the ships and the guns.

Ships like the battleships Strasbourg and Dunkerque. They are two out of the five ships in the Allied navies which are both faster and more powerfully gunned than the Nazi pocket battleships. Very soon there will be new and still more powerful arrivals in this class.

The Strasbourg's 13-inch guns could rapidly make a sieve out of the Deutschland. But down below, in the officers' quarters, you would not know, except for the uniforms and the bugle calls, that you were in a battleship. Here is great luxury, for the Strasbourg was built by the same people and on the same slip as the Normandie.

There are thick carpets, panelling, murals, deep leather sofas. We might have been in a Mayfair hotel moving at thirty knots. A junior officer showed me his big cabin. On his bookshelves were an English grammar and Mutiny on the Bounty. Hanging on the wall was a cap band from H. M. S. Hermes. In the wardroom I saw an H.M.S. Rodney ashtray.

But on the walls (for another reason) were framed the silhouettes of German sea raiders and German flying boats. An English naval officer, on board for liaison, said: "It's a magnificent ship. They did a shoot with the big boys the other day and it was equal to our best."

• • •

On board one of the Terrible class, a ship that did 45 knots on trials, I felt the hull driving through seas like a manageable bullet. In the long, narrow engine room, a writhing mass of pipes and turbines, functioned the 100,000-horse power engine that drives these "contre-torpilleurs." They are the fastest and most heavily-armed destroyers in the world.

But it was still more interesting to see two of these destroyer-kings nearly completed by the shipyards and swinging in the current of a river forty miles from salt water..

There is no shortage in France of steel or guns. In one of the world's most modern building docks I saw an 8,000-ton cruiser taking shape. When the ship is ready for water the sea will be let into the dock. Time and money will not be wasted on slipways and launching gear. Another warship will join the Allied navies.

In a two-months-old 600-ton sloop, a low, fast, rakish ship with a huge range—"The only thing we may run short of is wine for the crew," said the captain—we swept a channel far out into the Atlantic to make sure that no mines lay before a British convoy coming in the next day.

The twenty-knot sloops carry multiple machine guns, firing armour-piercing and incendiary bullets, one heavy gun, and secret depth weapons. They are appearing at the rate of several a week to answer the U-boat, the mine, and the Nazi flying boat. As we towed the big mine sweeps a long three-funnelled ship rushed past almost burying her bridge in the seas. It was the Sirocco, the French destroyer that sank two U-boats in three days. The Sirocco was led to its first victim by a French flying boat.

French flying boats make endless patrols searching for submarines, convoying merchantmen. At their bases, too, the yards are busy. More workmen have been taken on. Around them at night anti-aircraft guns are manned while the purple flames of the welders flicker on the hangars and on the sea.

Most formidable of the new flying boats are the six-engined Atlantic type. They are twin-deckers fitted with a secret armament of incredible power. On a smaller type fitted with three 960-horse power engines I saw how they work their dawn submarine patrols.

As we cruised out over the sea at 1,000 feet you had to look at the men in the twin machine-gun turrets and the four rusty-yellow 180-pound bombs clipped to the wings to remember that this was war. There was a homely little kitchen with a spirit stove.

The ammunition for the five machine gun posts was held in neat little cityman's attache cases made of grey metal. Far out on either side hung the shapes of the other flying boats in our patrol. There were two officers, two pilots, two radio men and two engineers aboard. All of them had once been sailors. The commander showed me how, once he had sighted a submarine through the little window in the nose, a gyro would hold the ship direct on its target.

"We could scarcely miss," said the officer. "A few days ago that square-shaped fellow you met sighted a U-boat from a ship like this. The Germans did their best to crash-dive. The conning tower was nearly awash when the square man dropped his first bomb plumb in the middle. That was the end of a submarine. Unfortunately we don't get many of them around here. But the patrolling must be done."

Underwater, France is much stronger than Germany. The French submarine fleet of ninety modern vessels would be a fearsome weapon against any naval power that relied on surface vessels.

In French submarines, too, I found hanging on the bulkheads the silhouettes of the Nazi pocket battleships. The commander of the 600-ton submarine I went to sea in is, like every other man in his service, desperately anxious to launch his "fish" at the German surface raiders.

This submarine is the "baby" type of the French underwater fleet, but is three times the size of the German "vest-pocket" U-boats. Our ship carried eleven big torpedoes, a four-inch gun, and two twin-barrelled machine-gun mountings. She can stay thirty days at sea, doing ten knots with her Diesels on the surface and six with her electric motors underneath.

The commander, a tough young officer from Nice who spoke to all his crew with the familiar "thou," but demanded and got the most utter obedience, dived as soon as possible.

"It's so much more comfortable below," he explained.

The French sailor, by the way, gets 5s. 8½d. extra-risk pay for each month he serves in submarines. But they volunteer to serve in them because the work appeals to them.

• • •

We lunched under the sea in a hull no wider than a tramcar holding fifty-three men and two 1,000 h.p. Diesel engines—to say nothing of the other gear.

The lunch was perfectly cooked by an eighteen-year-old sailor in a three-foot-square galley. This was the menu:

Oysters
Hors d'Oeuvres
Bar (a big type of mullet cooked in white wine, skinned, and eaten cold).
Roast Chicken
Saute Potatoes
Spinach
Salad
Fruit and Cheese
Coffee

The drinks were: Riesling, Champagne Nature, Bordeaux Rouge, Brandy

"We don't eat quite as much when we are on a long job," said the commander. "I've been in this ship six years, and I'll be sorry to leave submarines. Usually they don't keep us in them longer than five years. I must say I like them. . . . They are the only ships the admiralty fit with those electric razors . . ."

While we lay on the bottom our hydrophone picked up the rhythm of a French destroyer's propellers. We rose to make a practice attack.

There were nine men beside the commander and myself in the tiny control chamber. A watertight London—To a house in North hatch was closed at our feet, shutting us off from the main hull. "Regulations," I was told. "If this compartment is holed the crew below can use emergency controls to get to the surface."

The commander shouted unintelligibly: "Top . . . Top . . . Top, top, top . . . Feu (fire)". Through the periscope I saw a thin line of foam cutting towards the destroyer. Our practice torpedo, set to run low, passed under the middle of the warship's hull.

"Impossible to miss at that range," said the commander, modestly. The range was 600 yards.

Letter to the Editor

REPLY TO CANADIAN CITIZEN

Editor Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ont.
Dear Sir:

As I do not wish to clutter up your paper further, and also because I have no desire to enter into any controversy, I will send this my last letter, on the subject of flag etiquette. I would like to draw the attention of CANADIAN CITIZEN to the fact that it would seem evident that the flags at half mast recently on our public buildings, were there in a dual capacity, the first being that of respect for our late Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, the direct representative of our beloved King, and secondly as an acknowledgement of his authority and high office. I assume that there are few people that will disagree with the foregoing. If then, this is the case, the flags that were flying, were the flags of Great Britain, flying out of courtesy and respect. Thus no one with any of the finer feelings of chivalry and cultura, would think of doing anything that would be out of harmony with those sacred traditions of Great Britain, which the late Governor-General treasured so highly, and were undoubtedly the source of great inspiration to him, when he was alive.

Yours very truly,
YACHTSMAN.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

The action of the British destroyer Cossack in sailing into Norwegian territorial waters to release British seaman carried as prisoners on the German ship Altmark is already the subject of a sharp exchange of diplomatic notes.

It raises nice questions of international law and puts Norway in an uncomfortable position. Like other neutral states Norway has been striving to hold an even balance between the warring nations.

Germany has already protested to Norway and Norway has protested to the United Kingdom over the incident. The Germans complain Norway should have afforded the Altmark protection and allege the action of the British desoroyer was a violation of Norwegian neutrality.

On the other hand the British will no doubt claim that the Altmark itself violated Norwegian neutrality by entering territorial waters while carrying prisoners of war.

The Altmark followed the path of the ill-fated German pocket battleship Graf Spee and the prisoners locked in its holds were the crews of seven British ships sunk by the Graf Spee. They were being taken to Germany for internment.

When examined at a Norwegian port the commander of the Altmark apparently concealed the fact he had prisoners on board and Norwegian authorities objected to the Cossack pursuing the Altmark within their waters.

The incident illustrates the embarrassment a neutral state is placed in when ships of the belligerents come close to its shores. Had Norway offered opposition to the Cossack's entry into Josing Fjord, the British ship, intent on freeing the prisoners might have forced its way in. Now instead of a clash of gunnery with the British navy Norway faces a clash of words with the Nazi government.

SOUND ECONOMIC PROGRAM URGED

In a review prepared for delivery at the opening convention session today, Mr. Clarke said that unquestionably Canadian business volumes generally have been affected favorably by war conditions. He added, however, that any satisfaction is vitiated by the thought that much of the commercial and industrial improvement is attributable to the barbarism of war and has not been achieved by peaceful and reasonable methods.

Transition to War Economy

"Inasmuch, therefore, as public necessity is largely responsible for the currently accelerated rate of business, it appears incumbent upon organized business throughout the Dominion to harness its energies to the conception and furtherance of a sound national economic program both now and for the post-war period," Mr. Clarke said.

He outlined the objective of the convention as the formulation of a "forward - looking wartime and peacetime policy for national business."

His review, covering the 18 months since the last convention, said Canadian affairs had been suffused by the European atmosphere. Mr. Clarke remarked that during the months immediately prior to the pre-war crisis of last August, industrial production recorded marked gains and the western provinces reaped the most bountiful crop of a decade. The outbreak of war in September found the Dominion in a recovery stage which made it easier to effect the transiton to a war economy.

Synthetic Use for Farm Products

A review of chamber activities during the year included reference to the establishment of a national chemurgic committee formed to promote expanded farm revenue through creation of new industrial synthetic uses for farm produce.

A memorandum outlining the undertaking, together with a comprehensive questionnaire, and the plan of the survey to be undertaken, have been forwarded to local units across Canada of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists. This was taken as a preliminary step in the tabulation of data available on the use of agricultural products in industry and to assemble qualified opinion and recommendations for the scientific research contemplated.

Value of Agricultural Products

The survey program was formulated to discover what agricultural products are of present or potential use to industry, what agricultural products are most readily adaptable to the application of research in the direction of industrial usage, the chemurgic work conducted in other countries, facilities for research available now in the Dominion, new channels for the disposition of surplus agricultural products, comparable research work conducted abroad, and the co-ordination and amplifying of research facilities in Canada.

Mr. Clarke dealt also with the question of wartime advertising. He said that at the request of the Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the Chamber undertook to assist in bringing about a Dominion-wide moral suasion in the curbing of wartime "scare" advertising, "calculated to promote a wrong buying psychology on the part of the consuming public."

Moral Suasion Used

"It was felt by this board that through the aid of the Chamber's membership, there could be developed a sound public opinion in the mercantile and distributing trade, to the effect that 'wartheme' advertising is deterimental to the best interests of all concerned.

"The Chamber took up this disturbing practice with its member organizations, the better business bureaux, the advertising associations. The result of this co-operative procedure has, in the opinion of the Board, reduced to a minimum the complaints which the Wartime Prices and Trade Board had lodged, and has obviated the necessity for governmental regulation in this particular field."

Mr. Clarke reported the Chamber's active membership from among the local Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce now stands at 137, while the sustaining membership from among the national business firms is 406 in all the provinces of the Dominion.

IS OVERJOYED AT RELIEF MOSBY'S TONIC GAVE HIM

Mr. W. S. Hunter was Victim of Stomach Distress — Couldn't Eat or Sleep Right —Bowels Badly Constipated—Felt Worn Out Before He Found This New, Scientific Compound.

People in all parts of Belleville, and this general vicinity are now taking—and praising! — this "New Mixture of Roots and Herbs and

MR. W. S. HUNTER

Other Splendid Medicinal Agents" known as MOSBY'S TONIC, which is now being introduced to the public daily in this city at Lattimer's Drug Store, 228 Front Street, your Tamblyn dealer. And at the same time, many men and women—some of the Best Known Residents of Ontario and Section—are coming forward daily with Grateful Statements, publicly endorsing Mosby's Tonic in the newspapers. Druggists say they have never before seen any medicine receive so many voluntary endorsements. Among the many well-known people who praise Mosby's Tonic, none is more enthusiastic about this New Medicine than Mr. W. S. Hunter, of 140 Osler St., Toronto, Ont. Mr. Hunter is an Electrician by trade. What he has to say about Mosby's Tonic is Truly Worth Reading. His statement follows:

Stomach Gas Distressing Sharp Back Pains

"For a long time I was a vcitim of Upset Stomach," said Mr. Hunter. "Gas pains followed every meal I ate, and I want to tell you that these pains were certainly distressing. I had no appetite to speak of and always felt more tired in the mornings when I got up than when I went to bed. In fact I couldn't eat or sleep right at all, and felt tired and worn out ALL THE TIME. I had sharp pains in my back and my bowels were so badly constipated that I was always taking laxatives.

"Well, that's the condition I was in and I tried medicine after medicine, but never got any real relief. I read about Mosby's Tonic in the papers and decided I would give it a trial. And I am surely glad I did, for this medicine helped me almost at once. It cleared the gas from my stomach and now I CAN EAT. My meals digest properly and I can sleep fine from the moment I go to bed until I get up next morning. The pains are gone from my back and this medicine has regulated my bowels better than IN YEARS. I can't praise Mosby's Tonic enough after what it did for me and I gladly give you my statement and urge others, who suffer like I did, to get this medicine and take it."

It Helps to Clear Away the Poisonous Wastes

MOSBY'S TONIC helps to clear away poisonous wastes from the system in several ways at once—it helps cleanse bowels, assists Nature to eliminate impurities from kidneys, brings forth gas and bloat from stomach. Many people write us they soon feel different men and women as a result of this cleansing, and invigorating action of Mosby's Tonic. Another thing—due to the immense volume in which it sells, the price of Mosby's Tonic is reasonable. So don't hesitate. Get Mosby's tonic TODAY!

Mexican Attorney General Says Armed Rebellion is Foiled

Mexico City, Feb. 19 — (AP)— Attorney-General Genaro Cazquez announced today that a plot which he said involved a leader of the Fascist "gold shirts," to overthrow the Mexican Government with an armed rebellion had been thwarted.

Five leaders were taken into custody, the Attorney General said, but were released by President Cardenas to signify his "confidence in the support of the Mexican people."

Among those named as chief conspirators was Alfonso Garmendia Villafana, described as treasurer of the gold shirts, Mexican fascist group.

Another was Abel Perez, secretary general and treasurer of the presidential campaign of General Joacquin Amara, former war minister in the cabinet of ex-president Plutarco Calles.

More than 50 minor political leaders, public officals and army officers also were named by the attorney general as being involved in the proposed rebellion.

A MOST fortuitous chain of planetary influences should make this day an eventful and memorable one. Things move at swift-moving pace into channels of progress and prosperity. This may demand a rearrangement of plans with the assistance of strange persons, new contracts and different surroundings. Travel seems imminent. New propositions and adventures are the order of the day, with old associates and systems proving a stumbling block. Social enjoyments are also a happy side issue.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a pleasant, productive and prosperous year, with many new events and experiences. A breaking away from old plans objectives and ties is quite probable, with strange places and fresh contacts desirable. Fine stimuli for progress or creative work may come from inspired sources rather than out grown ideals.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with faculties for success, perhaps in new channels, as it should be original and imaginative, possibly being inspired from hidden sources. Its disposition will be lovable, genial, generous.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL J. KILPATRICK (Ivanhoe)

West Huntingdon, Feb. 19 (Special)—After an illness of eight months' duration Samuel James Kilpatrick passed away at the family residence at Ivanhoe on Sunday, Feb. 18th.

In the death of Mr. Kilpatrick the Ivanhoe community has lost a prominent and highly esteemed resident and to many friends his passing has brought sincere feelings of regret. In the affairs of the district he took an active part and in the Loyal Orange Order he held a high place, being a member of Downey Lodge No. 426 at White Lake, the Royal Black Preceptory at White Lake and at the time of his death he was County Master of the Order for Centre Hastings. In conducting the affairs of the township of Huntingdon, Mr. Kilpatrick gave his best services and for the past ten years and up to the time of his death he held the office of Township Clerk. In religion he was a member of the United Church at Ivanhoe and in politics he was a staunch Conservative.

Mr. Kilpatrick, who was in his 53rd. year, was born at White Lake and resided in the district all his life. His Parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Kilpatrick.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Lillian A. Downey; one daughter, Miss Hilda Kilpatrick, who is a student at the Tweed High School; three brothers, Mr. Norman Kilpatrick of Deloro; Mr. Wellington Kilpatrick of Belleville, and Mr. Earl Kilpatrick of Ivanhoe.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

MRS. JANE W. FITZGERALD (Formerly of Belleville)

On Saturday, Feb. 17th., Mrs. Jane Wilson Fitzgerald, widow of Denis Fitzgerald, and a former resident of Belleville, passed away at her late residence in Madawaska, Ont., at the age of sixty-eight years. Old friends in Belleville will regret to learn of her death.

Mass was sung at Madawaska this Monday morning and the body was later conveyed by motor car to the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, Belleville.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

LATE MRS. EARL DICKEY. (Corbyville)

The funeral of Mrs. Earl Dickey took place Sunday afternoon, Feb. 18th. from her late residence in Corbyville and many friends were present. The service in the home and at the graveside in Elmwood cemetery was conducted by the Rev. A. Armstrong, pastor of the United Church at Cannifton.

The bearers were Messrs. K. Sharpe, C. Downey, William Johns, R. Laporte, R. Topping and B. Rushworth.

LATE MRS. HANNAH BROWN

Saturday afternoon, Feb. 17th. the funeral of Mrs. Hannah (Robinson) Brown, widow of George Brown, and late residence, 272 George Street, took place from the Grant Funeral Home, 68 North Front Street. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in Belleville cemetery was conducted by the Rev. G. G. Wright, rector of Christ Church.

The late Mrs. Brown's husband, George Brown, was a locomotive engineer with the old G.T.R. and the first three bearers mentioned are retired engineers and the next two mentioned are active engineers with the C.N.R.

AT THE BELLE

"Gulliver's Travels"

"Gulliver's Travels" the book that most of us read in nursery and reread with increased pleasure as adults—has reached the screen in a brilliant feature-length cartoon, and those who cherish fond memories of Jonathan Swift's immortal story should sit down immediately and write Paramount thank-you letters for its perfect translation onto celluloid!

The technicolor "Gulliver's Travels" which reached the screen over the week end at the Belle Theatre, was conceived, constructed, produced and practically everything else by Max Fleischer, whose "Popeye" and "Betty Boop" have already become outstanding cinema institutions. But Fleischer will go down in the record for "Gulliver" — an accomplishment that should be the envy of every producer in the industry.

All the charm, hearty humor and rich fantasy of Dean Swift's story of the English seaman's amazing adventures in the miniature land of "Lilliput" comes to life on the screen as if by magic. The story, a perfect piece of material for a feature cartoon, combines with lively dialogue, hit parade music and some of the grandest color-work ever to appear on the screen to make an as-faultless-as-can-be piece of entertainment.

The story of the picture, changed only slightly from the original, shows what a giant (mental as well as physical) can do to avert a war in a world where pettiness reigns supreme. Here is where Swift's famous satire comes in, and the dean's biting wit has been artfully included in Fleischer's script.

"Gulliver," of course, lands in "Lilliput", the land where everything is miniature in size, due to the vagaries of an ocean storm. At first made a prisoner by the astonished and fearful little "Lilliputians," the English seaman frees himself of his bonds and turns himself into a national hero by his seemingly-miraculous feats of strength. The story turns on his greatest accomplishment of all, the averting of a war that threatens because two kings cannot agree as to which of two national anthems should be played at the wedding of their children.

Swift's immortal characters and Fleischer's cleverness in turning them into "film stars" with his superb pen make 'Gulliver's Travels' a classic picture. As "King Little," "King Bombo," "Princess Glory," "Prince David" the countess "Lilliputians" the three spies "Sneak," "Snitch" and "Snoop" scamper across the screen, a bewitching world fight out of Arabian Nights is revealed. Fleischer's own creation, the town crier "Gabby," is a masterpiece of insolence, gayety and humor. You'll be talking about him long after you've seen the film!

The musical score of "Gulliver" is on the same lavish scale as everything else about the picture. No less than eight hit songs are heard, and in case you're one of the rare souls who haven't heard them on the radio, they are: "Faithful," "Forever," "All's Well," "We're All Together Now," "Faithful Forever," "Bluebirds in the Moonlight," "I Hear a Dream" and "It's a Hap-Hap-Happy Day."

An interesting British newsreel, a funny comedy "Slightly at Sea" and a novel sportlight film "Juto Experts," precede the feature attraction, an ingenious and inspired entertainment that "must" be seen.

NEW YORK BLIZZARD CLAIMS FOUR LIVES

A street cleaner, one of the many working into the wee hours of the morning, makes a neat snow pile in New York city during the worst blizzard to hit the area since Thanksgiving Day, 1938. Every bit of available manpower was at work trying to dig the city out of the crippling storm. At least four persons had died and more than 100 injured.

OFF TO BOMB REICH — WITH LEAFLETS

Members of the British Royal Air Force are shown loading up a giant bombing plane with propaganda leaflets just before the start of a reconnaissance flight over Germany. On this occasion the bombers went as far as Vienna, Austria, and Prague, Czecho-Slovakia. The leaflets were broadcast over these capitals of formerly independent nations. All the British planes returned safely to their base.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Mrs. Thomas Brown announces the engagement of her granddaughter, Mary Georgina Ray, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George H. Ray, to Mr. William Thomas MacDonald of Sudbury, son of Mrs. Maria MacDonald of Tweed, the wedding to take place in March.

Albert A. Branscombe of the R.C.A.F., has returned to Toronto after spending the week end with his family.

Dr. Claire Countryman, Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, spent the week-end with his mother, John Street.

Misses Anna and Mary Gerow of Toronto, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Geddes Street.

Miss Berna Jane Foley of Peterborough, spent the week-end in the city with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Foley.

Among those from Belleville who attended the Science Formal at Queen's on Friday night were Misses Mary Forster, Jean and Phyllis Archibald and Jean Stobie.

On Sunday evening, Lieut. and Mrs. D. L. Bennett, Trent Road, entertained friends from Belleville, Trenton and Picton, at a farewell party before Lieut. Bennett leaves to join his regiment, the Hastings and Prince Edward.

Miss M. Richardson, Prescott, spent the week-end in town the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Deacon, William Street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith and daughter, late of Capreol, Ontario, have arrived in Belleville and have taken up residence in the Marshall Apts., at 112 Bridge Street East. Mr. Smith succeeds Mr. E. R. Logie as divisional engineer of the Canadian National Railways here.

Flight-Lieutenant Gordon Parker Dunlop and his bride, the former Miss Isabel Jean Lay, whose marriage took place in Barrie, Ont., recently, are expected in Ottawa shortly to visit Mrs. Dunlop's uncle, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King at Laurier House. Later Flight-Lieutenant Dunlop and Mrs. Dunlop will take up residence in Belleville.

At the Holloway Street United Church Sunday morning service, in memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir, the choir sang "No Shadows Yonder" from "The Holy City" by Gaul, following which the congregation stood to observe two minutes' silence in memory of a beloved Governor-General. Miss Clarke of Stratford, sang as a solo "He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye", (Lee).

Honouring Mr. James Grills, who yesterday celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday, his children and grandchildren held an oyster supper last evening at his home, Church Street. Although Mr. Grills has been ill for the past six weeks, he is now restored to health and was able to enjoy the celebration, thoroughly. Mrs. Grills, who has also been ill, is making splendid progress toward recovery.

Mr. D. L. Bennett, a popular and valued member of the choir of Tabernacle Church, is leaving Belleville having been called by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in which he is a lieutenant. Yesterday morning his colleagues in the choir honored him when he was presented with a watch by the choir leader, Mrs. M. P. Duff. Reference was made to the splendid and faithful service he has given the choir and good wishes were expressed for his future undertakings.

W.C.T.U. Notes

The W.C.T.U. met at the "Y" on Friday p.m. In the absence of the President, Mrs. T. Bell took charge with Mrs. A. Sharpe at the piano. The service was opened with the Hymn "A Volunteer for Jesus". Mrs. Bell took the devotional exercises reading Romans 12. Mrs. N. Farley and Miss M. Reeves gave the business reports, after which the Hymn "A Stainless Flag" was sung. Mrs. Bell gave a splendid reading "How the Ninety-and-Nine" received its tune in a revival service when the Evangelist D. L. Moody asked Sankey to sing the little piece of poetry he had picked up. It came as an inspiration from God and has ever since been a great blessing. This was Frances Willard day and the following notes were gathered from the clip sheet.

Frances Willard was the first woman president of Evanston College for ladies. She originated the idea of Temperance Instruction in day schools. She travelled 30,000 miles speaking almost every day in crowded churches with Lady Henry Somerset and a helper sent by General Booth. She helped to feed 500 rescued Armenian refugees. The Armenians called the room "The Kitchen of Jesus Christ".

The Service was closed with the hymn "A Better Day is Coming".

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Guardian Objects to Him

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I have just about come to the parting of the ways, because her guardian thinks I am just leading her on. She informed the young lady New Year's Eve that if she continued to go out with me she wouldn't send her through Junior College.

I like this girl very much and want to do what I can to help her get ahead, so it looks as if my only alternative is to step out of the picture, but I don't want to. My girl and I both have tried to talk to the guardian, but she won't listen to our side of the story. What would you advise?

F. A., Jr.

In a case of this kind there's nothing for the young man to do but prove to the girl's guardian that he's in earnest, and that his attentions to her mean more than just a flirtation. Sometimes these guardians are more difficult to deal with than parents, because they feel a great deal of responsibility. However, as the dropping of water will wear away a rock, so with the persistence of a lover overcome objections.

How Do You Get a "Steady"?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 21 years old, and don't go out with boys very often. About a year ago I met a young man at one of our church parties, and he escorted me home. After that whenever he happened to see me on the street he would stop and pick me up and drive me to the house. It seemed as if he always knew just where I would be, whether out walking or at work, and would stop and take me home. He talked to me on the telephone, and asked me several times to go out with him, but I always refused. I never was with him alone, as my girl friend always came too. He would take us for a ride and stop for a drink or an ice-cream. My main reason for refusing him dates was that my mother thought a girl should not go out with boys, unless it happened to be a "steady" boy friend, and that he should come to the house.

Finally he stopped coming, but sent me greeting cards, etc. Now I want to try and get him interested again. If he would ask me now. I'd gladly accept. Other boys don't appeal to me. Please give me your advice.

B.H.

Many a satisfactory romance has been nipped in the bud by just such tactics as you relate in your letter. You tell me your mother thinks a girl should not go out with boys unless he happens to be a "steady". How does he get to be a "steady?" Aren't there stages of acquaintance, interest, congeniality to be gone through with, before the "steady" period is reached? Good luck to you in trying to re-establish your friendship with the boy friend.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Thanking Hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct, after being entertained at a dinner or other kind of party, to write the hostess a note of thanks for her hospitality?

You see, Mrs. Beeckman, I like to do this, and I've always made a practice of writing to my hostess a day or two after the party to tell her what a charming party she had, what a delightful hostess she was, and to thank her for inviting me. I know how much I like to receive appreciative notes about the parties I give.

F.

I agree with you most emphatically and enthusiastically.

Kindness, graciousness, expressions of appreciation are never out of fashion with people of breeding. Such gracious qualities are enduring, and there will always be pleasant people who will give forth these qualities and take pleasure in observing these amenities.

There will always be hostesses who will delightedly welcome our telling them that we enjoy their hospitality and their kindness to us, and there will always be guests who will be so pleasant and thoughtful and kind in their reactions that they will want to express their appreciation to people who are generous and kind to them. People who are opposed to this gracious attitude are not being either "old-fashioned" or "modern"; they are just being thoughtless, or at least not considerate of other people.

Form of Address

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When addressing mail to a married woman is it proper to address the envelope to Mrs. Edith Hamill, or to use her husband's name and write Mrs. Howard Hamill?

2. Also what form of name should you use when a woman is a widow?

M.

1. The envelope to be sent to a married woman should be addressed with her formal name: Mrs. Howard Hamill.

2. A widow should use the same form of name that she used when her husband was living: Mrs. Henry Brownson.

The rule about this that will help you most of all, I think, is that best taste does not permit a woman to use the Mrs. with her first name. That is, if she is a married woman, her name is Mrs. Howard Hamill. If she is a widow, she uses exactly the same form. If she is a divorced woman, she should, with best form, use her maiden surname prefixed to the surname of her married name: Mrs. Allen Hamill.

Supervisor Praises Work in City of Victorian Order

Tribute to the work of the Victorian Order nurses in Belleville was paid by Miss Mary C. Ferguson, Ottawa, Ontario supervisor, who has just completed a week's semi-annual inspection of the branch. The work is being maintained at a very high standard she told the press, and the two nurses, with frequent relief assistance, are actually doing the work of a three-nurse district, having made 6,623 visits last year.

Not only is the bedside nursing work excellent but Miss Bessie Soutar, nurse in charge, has followed the public health angle to such an extent that Belleville ranks almost at the top in attention paid to health from a preventive standpoint. Attention is given to the health teaching in the home and at the Well Baby Conference which brings together the mothers of the city who are enthusiastic about keeping well babies well. At any indication, of course, that a child is ill, the mother is advised to consult her family doctor. The V.O.N. is a strong advocate of preventive measures and the Central Board insists that all nurses take a regular medical and X-ray examination.

In Belleville the supervisor finds a strong and enthusiastic board, ready to devote time and energy to further public health interests in the community. The various service clubs especially the Kiwanis and the Y's Men have been wonderful in their support of the Victorian Order and Miss Ferguson also referred to the kind and sympathetic co-operation of the Belleville press.

The work of the V.O.N. has grown throughout Canada in the past three years. Fourteen new districts have been opened, two of them in rural areas. In spite of the demands made for war work, the citizens seem keenly aware that the "home front" must not be neglected and the annual drives for funds in the past few months have met with even greater response. Canadians are fully aware of the great place the V.O.N. has, in health betterment of the nation.

Complexions for the Asking

By HELEN FOLLETT

LET US be thankful that we live in an age when complexion blemishes don't have to be endured. Also, that the physician who attends to our physical griefs and puts us all together again listens sypmathetically to our walls. Time was when a woman accepted blemishes like moles or warts or superfluous hair; the dear Lord had made her that way and it wasn't her place to seek improvement in appearance.

Of all complexion troubles, the worst is a growth of fuzzers on chin or lip. It can come in the early twenties, in middle age or later in life. The cause is obscure, though it is generally believed by those who should know that it is a by-product of some glandular irregularity.

The electric needle, used by a skilful, conscientious operator, will prove a permanent and effective treatment. The needle is inserted in the pore beside the hair shaft, a light current of electricity is used, and the papilla which creates a new hair is destroyed. Unless too strong a current is used to burn tissue, there will be no scar. The operation is only slightly uncomfortable, sometimes not at all. The operator must have a fine sense of touch as hairs do not always grow out straight but often emerge obliquely. If the shaft does not come away without pulling, the needle is used a second time. One can have a 15-minute sitting, observe results before continuing treatments.

There's a conflict going on about make-up. There is the no-rouge contingent and the opposing party that says it cannot get along without counterfeit blushes.

Well and good! No reason why we should have standardized faces. A touch of rouge on the cheeks may make one woman look younger and the next one older. Good taste, sound judgment and a magnifying mirror will settle the question.

If the present war over make-up methods helps toward development of personality, it will help the cause of pulchritude. And that's a fact.

Belleville Chapter O. E. S. Celebrates 21st Anniversary

Twenty-one years ago, there was formed in this city, a Chapter of the Order of The Eastern Star, with some eighty members enrolled. After due consideration it was named the "Belleville" Chapter and given number 55 on the Grand Register. The passing years have been marked by a very steady and satisfactory growth in membership, until it is now one of the largest chapters in Ontario; but the passing years have also taken their toll of these Charter members, until there are only twenty-two left.

To celebrate the Chapter's twenty-first birthday anniversary a Birthday Party was held in the Chapter room, on Friday, February 16th last; but to pay particular honour to the Charter members and to the distinguished members of Grand Chapter, who were present to grace the occasion, a sumptuous banquet was held at 6.30 p.m., in the Queen's Hotel, and at which some seventy-five members sat down. Those who were present from Grand Chapter were Mrs. Edythe Downer of Toronto, the Worthy Grand Matron; Mr. John Barlow of Ottawa, the Worthy Grand Patron; Mrs. Annie Melrose of Peterboro, Grand Ruth; Mrs. Gwendolyn Rothwell of Kingston, Grand Warder; and Mrs. Coral Adams of Hilton, Dist. Deputy Grand Matron. This banquet was presided over by Worthy Matron Mrs. Maude Elliott, and Mr. Clifford Baragar, Worthy Patron. Congratulations were extended to the Charter Members and to the Chapter by both the Grand Matron and the Grand Patron, with each one giving a very interesting and inspiring address.

After the banquet at the Hotel, the members present all repaired to the Chapter rooms in the Oddfellows' Temple, where they were joined by some two hunreds more members and visitors and where the regular work of the Order was carried out. Visitors from practically every Chapter in the District were present, with a fraternal friendliness being shown which was a pleasure to behold and enjoy. Special congratulations were voiced by the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, and by a specially arranged solo by Miss Anne Brown, for the Charter members. A very suitable reply was given by Mr. Frank H. Chesher, thanking the Chapter for the expressions of goodwill and also giving a little history of the forming of the Chapter.

At the conclusion of the regular work of the Chapter, a special floral and candle-light birthday anniversary ceremony was given in the Chapter room by the Officers and this was marvellously beautiful and impressive. Miss Anne Brown again acted as soloist and her appropriate songs were greatly enjoyed.

The members and visitors were then invited to the banquet room where refreshments were served, including a large, beautifully decorated three storey birthday cake, the cutting of which was done by the Worthy Grand Matron, assisted by the Worthy Matron, the Presiding Matrons of the District and the Past Matrons of the Chapter.

Dancing was then the order of the evening and every one seemed to give way to the spirit of fun and enjoyment, with the music being furnished by Miss Leeman and Mr. Lloyd.

The Mail Bag

Every day I get a bunch of letters asking me to diagnose illnesses and prescribe for them. Of course, when a letter asks for advice I try to be as helpful as I can. But I always avoid diagnosing symptoms. That is hard enough when you have the patient right before you. Feeling a pulse by remote control, so to speak is dangerous.

Over a period of years I have come to diagnose patients as much by looks as by anything else. The sense of smell is useful, too, for there are diseases that have a distinct odor which may not be recognizable to those about the sick child, but is a distinct clue to the physician. A patient's whole appearance helps the doctor to decide what is wrong.

Mothers often write me in great detail about a child's illness but even in these cases it is obvious that they probably have overlooked the most important details.

When a doctor is called in to see a sick child, he sits by the bed and takes the temperature and the pulse. The parent sees that. The parent may not realize, however, that while he is doing this he is busy in other ways too. He notices the eyes, the shade and color of the skin, the color of the lips, the fingernails, the hands — whether they are hot or cold, or dry, or clammy. Each little detail helps him to fit together the pieces of the puzzle until he can get a complete picture of the child's condition. You can see now what a chance I'd be taking if I attempted a diagnosis by mail.

I also have had mothers call me up on the telephone and give me a faithful description of a case of measles, or mumps. This would be all very well if diseases came singly, but they don't. A child is only too likely to have a couple of things at once. The mother may be smart enough to detect the symptoms of one, but a second malady, and perhaps a more serious one eludes her. So, as I say, I have often gone to see a child knowing from the mothers description on the phone that he had measles, and I have often found some other disease also working on his system.

I remember being called to attend a child who the mother said had measles. Well, when I got there I found the child had measles alright, a dandy case of them, but as I examined the child I was struck by something else in her general appearance. A closer examination indicated to me that she was also suffering from active tuberculosis. Laboratory tests showed that I was right. The child went through a very long period of convalescence but we were finally able to clear up the T.B. If the parents hadn't called me to treat the measles, if they had decided to treat it themselves and so avoid quarantine (as I've known them to do) that young girl would in all probability have died of consumption.

Sometimes I am simply amazed at the serious diseases some people take as a matter of course. Last Spring I had an unusual example of this. A woman residing on Long Island wrote me on expensive stationery to tell me that her nine-year-old daughter had scarlet fever. She knew it was that, she said, because her older daughter had had it — she wanted me to write and tell her how to treat the disease.

TONY

— BY ELIZABETH VERNON —

Tony's voice was low. Indeed, she was afraid lest the dark hatred that she felt for everything that surrounded them — all that this house contained — should creep into her tone. It was not for Jacky to hear.

"I didn't know. I never had a letter." The words were a sigh as if, suddenly, the burden of facts was too much for Jack, or she too young to bear their implications.

Many words came to Tony's mind. She dismissed them all. When at last she spoke, her face was older than its seventeen years. "Jacky, I almost never stop thinking of you. Whatever I'm doing — anywhere. Promise me that you'll remember that — that you'll never believe again —" Tony stopped. "Oh, my darling, was it very lonely?"

"Well, you see Miss Cotter didn't come any more. There wasn't even lessons . . . " the voice was as dead as the look in Jacky's face. "There wasn't anyone to talk to. The maids weren't allowed to have me in the kitchen . . . You know." For one second Jacky put her hand to her head. She looked round. "I — I feel quite different from myself. Sometimes. Now."

Knowledge and vague fear came to Tony. They weighed on her heart. If her coming had been delayed, or if, as had been arranged, she had not come — "Did you think I had stopped loving you?"

"I didn't, for a long time. And afterwards I thought — now you're so old". Jacky spoke timidly, "and you've got friends at school—"

There was a long silence. A coal fell noisily to the hearth. Jacky turned in Tony's arms. She said: "But, Tony, you mustn't cry! There's nothing to cry about now.

• • •

Alan opened the door of the Round Sitting room. It was not Hyacinth's own room, but Mrs. Querne seldom came there, and he had always thought of it as Hyacinth's. A small, lovely room. She sat there now by the fire, stitching at a tapestry chair covering. The work was lovely, lying across her knees. Her head, bent over it, was more lovely. Loveliest of all was her face as she raised it to smile at him. Alan felt gratitude to fate. He had hoped that it would be here, in the intimate peace of this little room, that he would take the greatest step of his life.

"I've looked at your mare's leg, Hyacinth. She'll do, now." He didn't speak of what filled his heart, choosing to hold himself in hand for a minute or two, as he would have steadied his horse before a jump. And was not this moment one of the greatest, in the greatest chase?

"Alan, you have helped. You've done everything for me, this evening—"

He crossed the room. He did not sit down but stood near her. Now he could not see her face, only the dark gloom of her hair and the long whiteness of her hands moving over her work. She was quiet, in the calm that so often wrapped her — a calm that if she had glanced up now she might, perhaps, have lost. He had hardly heard her words, feeling in himself a sudden rush of power, a mingling of desire, and of love that was more than desire.

"Was Tony rather nasty, driving home?" she asked.

"About up to sample, I suppose." For one moment his thoughts flicked aside to remember the defiant, withdrawn face of Hyacinth's young sister. "Little devil, she must have been a nice child to bring up."

Hyacinth laughed. "She was frightful. But when old Jim was alive he kept her in order."

"Old Jim" — Hyacinth's elder brother who, dying five years ago, had left to her the bearing of so many burdens. But it was not pity that was uppermost in Alan as he gazed down at her. There was at this instant no room for pity in his heart. And something very different sounded clearly in his voice as he said, "Hyacinth—"

She looked up. She met his eyes, and a lovely color rose to her face. "Yes, Alan.

"Darling — put down that sewing." He took the stiff folds of stuff from her hands. He dropped them on a chair. Then he bent down and drew her up to him as he had dreamt of doing. He had meant to speak first, but now, holding her in his arms, his head stooped to hers, he kissed her long and hard.

When at last he spoke, the words were not those that he had meant to say. Passion had struck those from him. "Hyacinth, you will marry me? I love you — I love you—"

Her dark eyes were almost closed. He looked down on those white lids. For one moment he knew fear before she opened her eyes again and gazed up at him.

"Yes, yes, Alan. And, oh, I do love you."

• • •

Five-and-twenty minutes ago the gong had sounded. In five minutes dinner would be ready. Hyacinth sat at her dressing table. She had clasped round her throat one thick plain band of gold. Surely its strange beauty would please Alan? She tilted her head. She glanced at her reflection where the hair rippled from her ears to a long, sweet curve.

Outside in the passage Tony stood, not dressed for dinner. For two minutes she had stood there, as if listening at the door. But she was not listening; she saw and heard nothing. At last she put out her hand and knocked.

"Come in."

Tony entered. The well known, exquisite scents of her sister's room assailed her, and the sight of Hyacinth seated on the stool before her mirror. She thought of the long, carefully written letters addressed to Jacky, opened by Hyacinth and destroyed. She thought of the bitter disappointment, carefully hidden, with which Jacky would have received the daily reply. "No. No letter for you," and she felt, in her mind and heart, the familiar dark confusion; hatred, fury and yes—deep-buried, not looked-at-fear. She closed the door behind her.

Hyacinth turned. "You will be late for dinner, Tony."

"I'm not coming to dinner."

"I gave orders that you were to dine downstairs."

"It would look better, wouldn't it? But your orders are nothing to me."

"Yes," she said. "It's a pity Jim died. He might have beaten me. You can't do anything." A moment later she wished those words unsaid. Hyacinth could do nothing to her. No. But could she do something to Jacky? She crossed the room and stood confronting her sister.

"Where are my letters to Jacky?"

"Burnt."

"I don't understand." Tony's voice was strange. "I wrote nothing wrong."

Hyacinth smiled. "I thought it best. You're not good for her, Tony."

"Hyacinth, I'm sorry I came like this. I'm sorry I was rude. But you don't know—Jacky's changed. She's been alone all these weeks—"

"Jacky is perfectly well, and well looked after."

"I'll do anything you want all these holidays." The words came incoherently enough. "Only you mustn't leave Jacky alone again like that. I'm frightened. Look—I don't want to fight any more. I'll show you. I'll come down to dinner tonight. I'll apologize—" The words died away. Hyacinth was putting, carefully, the top on to her ivory powder box.

"Very well done, my dear. Only, you see, it doesn't take me in."

The quiet in the room was beyond silence. Tony looked up as if she saw more than Hyacinth standing there. She had not thought that she would speak again, but she heard herself whispering. "Jacky's only eleven...... I don't mind what happens to me."

Hyacinth looked at the little watch on her wrist. She turned back to her dressing table and sat down. Tony went to the door. She opened it. For one second she paused. She was trembling a little.

"You shan't win," she said. And then she used one word.

Alan walking along the landing, was on his way downstairs. He heard that word perfectly. Indeed, Tony's voice had been very clear. His face changed as he heard it. He turned and retraced his steps.

Tony came swiftly along the passage. There was anger and surprise in her eyes, an angry flush on each cheek bone.

"I heard the word you used just now to Hyacinth," he said.

"Good."

"Are you in the habit of speaking like that to your sister?"

"What has that to do with you?"

Alan's own anger showed very clearly in his face.

"I'll tell you what it has to do with me, Tony. I am going to be your brother-in-law."

Tony looked him up and down. Her misery and her determination, apprehension, anger, lent an admirable insolence to her eyes, to the up-flying brows above them and to her words.

"I wish you nothing worse," she said.

SINGLE NAVAL LOSS OCCURS

The normal complement of the 1,375-ton warship was 145.

The Admiralty declined to give any information disclosing where or when the Daring was sunk.

No Details Given

Commander S. A. Cooper was among the missing.

The Admiralty communique said: "The Secretary of the Admiralty regrets to announce that his Majesty's destroyer Daring, Commander S. A. Cooper, has been torpedoed and sunk.

"One officer and four ratings have been picked up. Nine officers and 148 ratings are missing, and it is feared they have been lost. The next of kin have been notified."

The Daring was the sixth destroyer lost by Britain since the start of the war and the first known to have been torpedoed. Two were victims of mines, one of a collision and two others of undisclosed causes. They were the Blanche, Gipsy, Duchess, Exmouth and Grenville.

The Daring was built under the 1930 naval construction program and was of the same type as the destroyer Duchess, which went down at sea on Dec. 13 last as a result of a collision.

The destroyer was armed with four 4.7 inch guns and eight 21 inch torpedo tubes. It was 317 feet long and 33 feet in the beam.

German Cargo Ships Seized

Two of six German ships reported to have gambled against the British naval cordon in a dash from Vigo, Spain, were brought into a British west coast port—the 3,000-ton Morea, loaded with manganese ore, and the 2,542-ton Rostock.

The Morea's crew of 23 men and seven officers were British prisoners. There was no word on the Rostock's crew or cargo and no explanation of the capture of either ship.

Meanwhile, two British merchant ships and four neutral commercial vessels were reported sunk—weekend casualties of the war or regular maritime hazards.

Norway in Difficult Position

Britain's pressure on Norway for internment of the Altmark and Germany's demands for Norwegian action against the British placed the neutral state in a difficult position.

Germany has protested over ineffective protection afforded by Norwegian Navy for the Altmark in Norwegian territorial waters, where British tars boarded the Altmark Friday night and released more than 300 captive British seamen from the prison ship.

Britain Demand Interment of of Attack

On the other side was the British demand that the 12,000-ton Altmark be interned for the duration of the war on the grounds that she served as a German navy auxiliary by taking aboard, for transport to Germany, crewmen of seven British merchant ships sunk by the now-scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

Germany had demanded that the Oslo Government take "all possible measures" against "the perpetrators" of the attack on the Altmark, and Norway Saturday formally called upon the British to return the prisoners of war, although they already had been landed in Scotland by the rescuing destroyer Cossack.

Britain Questions Norway

Britain, however, demanded an explanation why Norwegian inspectors failed to discover that the British prisoners were aboard the Altmark while the German ship was being accorded the privileges of a belligerent's merchant ship—that is, right-of-way through Norwegian territorial waters.

The British answer and counter-demand were made Saturday, but disclosed only yesterday.

Viscount Halifax, the foreign secretary, called in Erk Colban, Norwegian minister to Britain, and handed him a series of questions.

Four Questions for Norway

An authoritative version of these questions follows:

.I "In view of the known character of the Altmark," was she searched and, if so, what was found?

2. If Norwegian authorities had found prisoners aboard, what action would they have taken?

3. Why did Norway apparently consider the Altmark an innocent merchantman when she had been used as a prison ship for some time?

4. If she were considered a merchantman, why were Norwegian warships with her?

It was only after the British case was presented that the Norwegian minister delivered his government's note saying that Norway expected Britain to "hand over the prisoners, pay damage and give satisfaction."

Altmark Armed, British Claim

Commenting on the failure of Norwegian authorities to discover the prisoners when they had inspected the Altmark at Bergen early Friday, a British source said, "all the world had been talking for weeks about the large number of prisoners who were held on the German ship."

Moreover, the British contention is that the Altmark was armed, carrying two pom-pom guns (multi-barreled anti-aircraft weapons) and four machine-guns. The British thus regard the Altmark as an "armed auxiliary of the German fleet."

The song of the British praise for the crew of the Cossack when the delivery of the prisoners first became known increased in volume in today's newspaper.

Berlin's Anger

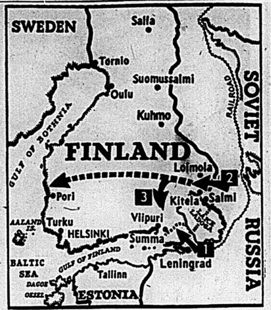
Along with this, the newspapers gave prominent display to Berlin's wrath—"murderers, pirates, gangsters, swine, cheats, gunmen, brutes," were words used by Nazi journalists to describe the British attackers. At least seven Germans were killed in the engagement and there was one British casualty.

Some of the rescued British seamen, reaching London yesterday, were showered with cigarettes and money. At Liverpool, hometown of others, cheering throngs escorted the men to their bunting-draped homes.

Crowd Sings Sea Chanties

At the Liverpool station, a crowd had gathered to sing sea chanties, and then the train arrived the welcoming delegation sang out, "there'll always be an England."

Three hundred and 14 of the rescued seamen were admitted to two Edinburgh hospitals after Saturday's landing at Leith, Scotland, but about half have since been released. They were said to be "in pretty fair shape," despite the rigors of life in the Altmark's hold.



RUSSIA HAMMERS AT MANNERHEIM LINE

Rumbling the entire breadth of the Mannerheim Line (1), Russia's great offensive was reported thrown back as Finland called more men to the colors and determined to fight on. Northeast of Lake Ladoga (2) all Soviet thrusts were reported repulsed. Immediate objective of Russia's drives from both sides of Lake Ladoga is Viipuri (3) Finland's second city. A Russian break-through might lead to an attempt to drive west (dotted line) and sever the country.

MANION FAVORS FARM AID IN

The Conservative chief was introduced to his auditorium listeners by M. A. MacPherson whom Dr. Manion defeated in July, 1938, for the leadership of the National Conservative party.

The present government had used the British North America Act as a pretext for its failure to institute unemployment insurance and other social services, Dr. Manion charged.

Could Get Co-operation

He believed a vigorous, aggressive government, prepared to give national leadership, could obtain the co-operation of the provinces to introduce needed social legislation. This could be done without waiting to iron out all the constitutional obstacles in the B.N.A. Act.

Dr. Manion accused Prime Minister Mackenzie King of fleeing from consideration of the report of the Dominion-Provincial Relations Commission.

"Their report should have been presented to parliament so that people might have had an opportunity to pass upon its recommendations," he said. "Why was it not released?"

"It is either because the report contains recommendations for the encroachment upon fundamental provincial or minority rights, encroachments which Mr. King knows would not meet with the approval of the Canadian people, or it is simply because, as in other matters, Mr. King finds it completely impossible to take a decisive stand.

"National understanding must, if we are to continue as a nation, replace the disharmony which has existed since the King government came into power in 1935.

"The national government can and will obtain that co-operation with the provinces which is so urgently required, through annual Dominion-Provincial conferences."

No Figure Named

One of the first steps in the practical marketing policy of his proposed National government would be an effort to arrange a wheat deal with Great Britain at a price fair to both parties.

"During the last war the price of wheat went to $3 a bushel," Dr. Manion said. "For less than half of that price, an agreement for the duration of the war might have been made, satisfactory to the farmer and very profitable in the long run to Great Britain."

(In Brandon, Man., Friday night, Dr. Manion also suggested such a deal at "less than half" the $3 price of the last war. He did not name a specific figure).

Dr. Manion told his Moose Jaw audience the first session of a National parliament would "appoint a committee of the House of Commons to investigate thoroughly practical means by which the farmer may be protected from crop failure, and particularly the feasibility of establishing a system of crop insurance."

Dr. Manion said the first issue before Canada at the moment was the conduct of the war. In five years the government had spent $188,000,000 on defence but had not enough equipment for one division when war broke out, although that equipment cost only $1,000,000.

Wool Lacking Is Charge

Typical was the Government's handling of the wool situation. Four times during the September war session Karl Homuth, Conservative member for Waterloo South, who is in the wool business, warned a Cabinet Minister that an embargo should be placed on Canada's wool supply, which was only 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 pounds then.

Instead of having the gumption to act, the government allowed American buyers to take 2,260,000 or 2,500,000 pounds of this country and when wool was needed for socks and uniforms it was lacking.

In December David Dick, a wool administrator, stated Canada was 8,000,000 pounds short of its requirements. He said the government had made no effort to control wool until September 18, although control plans had been made a year before in Britain.

"K'm sure he would have been fired for such an admission, if he had not been a dollar-a-year man", Dr. Manion said.

Asked if he believed in "conscription of wealth", he said, "if we ever get to the stage where we conscript men, thought I am opposed to it as I have made clear, we should conscript everybody".

UNSUNG HEROES ARE MEMBERS OF BRITAIN'S GREAT FISHING FLEET

A spectacular view of part of Great Britain's huge fishing fleet, sometimes called Britain's food line of defence, coming into port after a trip to the fishing banks. This fleet has thus far borne the brunt of German aerial attacks in the North Sea. The trawlers have been bombed and machine gunned while they did their work. Now the British government has called 10,000 men from the fleet for duty as mine-sweepers. Many trawlers already are doing this dangerous work and many fishermen have lost their lives. But they are a hardy breed, unafraid of anything connected with the sea, and if mines must be swept, they will be there to do the job.

(The Finns have admitted only the loss of some advance posts of the Mannerheim defences.)

The Russians asserted they had captured "475 defensive fortifications, including 92 iron and concrete forts" during the past week (Feb. 11 to 18). Intensity of the Russian drive was seen in the Soviet claim 313 of these Finnish fortifications fell in two days, Feb. 17 and 18.

The Big Kick's in Not Being Rich!

YES, it's nice to have a lot of money to spend. But don't forget there's also plenty of fun to be had "on the way up" to affluence.

There's the satisfaction of achieving something better than you're used to—stepping up, for instance, to this smart, swift, solid McLaughlin-Buick after you've been driving run-of-the-mill cars.

Just you feel the silk-smooth surge of its great 107 horsepower miscropoise-balanced straight-eight engine—and you know that all that went before was only preliminary to this big thrill.

You flip the firm, easy gearshift—and the click of its action under your hands says here's the real thing in precision-made mechanisms, not just a stopgap to tide you over.

You roll your steady, even-going, firm-riding way, and the taut, staunch, everywhere-substantial feel of this fine car brings a sense of "getting somewhere" as thoroughly satisfying as owning your first gilt-edged bond.

You've got action in this honey. You've got style. You've got value, and everybody knows it. You've got life—you'll romp up hills and tame the wide-open spaces and doff your cap to no one on the way.

And there's nothing light, or loose, or tinny, or labored about it anywhere. Here's the sure, steady, take-it-in-stride demeanor of a car that's competent-plus.

Suppose you have to stretch a bit to buy this McLaughlin-Buick—well, you'll find that will only make you prize this great eight all the more!

So go look at the car that can mark a milestone in your life. It doesn't cost a thing to find out how little a really good car will stand you delivered.

22 Penalties Including Five Majors Called in Sunday Night's Clash Which Leafs Win 2-1

DETROIT WINS

League - Leading Rangers Shutout by Wings While Amerks Tie Chicago

By JACK CALDER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's something about a collision of Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens that keeps the customers turning out and raving no matter where the two Canadian clubs ride in hte National Hockey League standings.

The Maple Leafs whipped the Canadiens twice during the week-end, 3-1 at Toronto Saturday and 2-1 at Montreal last night, and though the Habitants are in last place and the Leafs badly crippled the fans attended in delirious droves. They saw two of the winter's lustiest battles.

Captain Reginald Red) Horner of the Leafs went back to his old game of knock-'em-down and drag-'em-out, while Regis (Pep) Kelly scored two goals within eight seconds to decided the conflict. The belligerence was carried on by nearly every player on both teams last night when 22 penalties, including five majors, were called.

Metz Fires Winning Goal

Before 10,320 adherents Nick Metz fired the winning goal eight minutes from the finnish last night, while each team was two men short. A minute before, Ray Getliffe had tied the score. Bingo Kampman sent Toronto ahead after 14 minutes of the first period. In the turbulent third, Gus Marker of Toronto and Red Goupille of the home club drew majors for fighting and Horner and Montreal's Toe Blake did the same. Kampman used his stick as a barrier to keep a group of white-hot fans from getting into the Horner-Blake tussle.

Amerks Gain Some Points

The teams struggled through two scoreless periods and 12 minutes of the third period before the break came on a penalty to Captain Art Coulter of the Rangers. Then Alex Motter whipped a shot past goalie Dave Kerr and, after Coulter's return, Modere Bruneteau rang up the second goal on Syd Howe's rebound.

The Americans pulled three points ahead of the Canadiens in their last-place debate by holding Chicago Black Hawks to a 1-1 overtime tie at New York. Murray Armstrong got the Americans' goal in the second period and Bill Thoms scored for Chicago in the third, the Hawks pressing almost continually after that.

WESLEY FERRELL TOPS IN GOLF

Wins Baseball Golf Tourney for Second Time Beating Jeff Russell 2 and 1

Tampa, Fla, Feb. 19. —(AP)— Baseball and golf are becoming so closely allied it is difficult to realize that only a few years ago some managers were threatening to slap a fine on the first player they caught wielding a niblic.

The baseballer who doesn't play golf now in his spare time is becoming almost a museum piece. Their annual tournament, which ended here yesterday, is destined within a very few years to become one of the winter's top sports events in the United States.

When Wes Ferrell, now with Brooklyn, won the title for the second straight time by licking Jack Russell in the 36-hole final, 2 to 1, he had an enthusiastic gallery or nearly 1,000 following his shots.

This year's event drew several dozen top ball players, coaches and umpires, including some of the stars of the game. For instance, Bucky Walters, voted the outstanding player of last season, won the long-driving contest, and slugger Joe Medwick of St. Louis Cardinals was the medalist.

With the season's schedule of the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association completed and the standing announced as above, Secretary "Red" Townsend announced over the week-end that the league semi-final play-off for the championship would commence at the Hume Arena with sudden death games being played between the four contesting clubs this evening. The two winners of tonight's double header will meet later in the week for the City Juvenile hockey championship, following which the announcement of the Belleville Juvenile "all-stars" will be made.

Meeting in the semi-final series tonight the first and third and second and fourth-placed clubs as seen above will compete with the league leading Maple Leafs meeting the third-placed Americans and the second - placed Black Hawks clashing with the Canadiens. Over 75 Belleville boys have participated in the City Juvenile Hockey League this winter.

BILL FRITZ BEATEN

Queen's Star Runs Fourth in 500-Yard Race, an Event He Won Last Year

(By Bill Boni, Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Feb. 19—(AP)—Competitors in next Saturday night's national indoor championships at Madison Square Garden should create considerable havoc in the track and field record book. There is a fine chance of new meet marks in a dozen of the 17 events.

Not that the 1940 performers are supermen, though Chuck Fenske, John Woodruff, Greg Rice and Al Blozis rank with the best. It's chiefly that the meet goes back on a yardage basis for the first time in eight years, and in the interim a lot of standards have become outdated.

A new indoor record for the 50 yards hurdles was set in Saturday's New York A.C. meet when Allan Tpmlich of Detroit was clocked in 7.1 seconds as he nosed out Larry O'Connor of University of Toronto.

The other Canadian entry in the meet was Bill Fritz of Queens University who failed in an attempt to retire the Buer-Meyer cup for the 500 yards event. He ran fourth behind Jim Herbert of New York University who ran it in 58 seconds flat, Johnny Quigley of Manhattan and Charley Belcher of Atlanta, Ga.

In the sprint medley, mile and a half mile relays, records are a cinch next Saturday because these races will be on the program for the first time. But it's almost as much a sure thing that the "big four" of Fenske, Lou Zamperini, Glen Cunningham and Gene Venzke will run a new mile mark onto the books.

Each of the six banked-track miles so far has been run under 4 minutes 15 seconds, the record Venzke set in 1932. Ranging from Fenske's twin 4:07.4 performances, first in the Millrose and then in last Saturday's New York A.C. meet, to the Wisconsin lad's 4:13.5 on a 12-lap Philadelphia track, they have seen Fenske, with his 4:07.4; Zamperini, with a second-place 4:07.9 in the New York A.C. and Venzke, with a third-place 4:08.2 in the Millrose, run the fastest miles of their careers.

Syracuse Holds Chance for Playoff Spot by Beating Hershey 7-5

(By The Canadian Press)

Providence Reds took a long time to catch New Haven Eagles Hockey League race but now that in the International-American they have overhauled them they have shown no indication of giving up first place.

Despite a New Haven victory over the week-end, the Reds increased their first place margin in Eastern Division to six points as they scored a pair of victories, beating Indianapolis Capitols 3-0 last night and Philadelphia Ramblers 7-2 the night before.

The Eagles, meantime, blanked Cleveland Barons 2-0 last night in their only weekend game. Syracuse Stars kept alive their playoff hopes by lacing Hershey Bears 7-5 Sunday and edging out Springfield Indians 3-2 Saturday.

In other Saturday Games Pittsburgh and Indianapolis tied 2-2 and Cleveland beat Hershey 5-2.

The Providence goals were spread among three players last night, Wilf Starr, Hub Wilson and Art Giroux getting one apiece, but on Saturday Joffre Desilets tallied three times to lead the attack. The victory over Philadelphia ended Ramblers chances of gaining a playoff spot. Last season Ramblers were in the League final.

Bert Gardiner's good goal-tending and goals by Earl Roche and Tony Hemmerling gave the Eagles their victory. Gardiner was replacing Claude Bourque in the New Haven nets.

QUINTES READY FOR RED INDIANS

ıd Game of Junior "B" Playdowns With Kingston Will be Played Here Tuesday

On their respective season's averages there is little to choose from between the Kingston "Red Indians" and the Belleville "Quintes" as they skate out to battle at the Hume Arena Tuesday night in the final game of the first round junior O.H.A. playdowns. The clubs battled to a five-all draw in the first game played at Kingston.

In their respective groups the Belleville juniors played and won seven games without sustaining a loss. The "Red Indians" played five games and were not defeated in a single instance. During their group the Kingston kids scored 36 goals and had but 14 scored against them.. In comparison the Belleville kids scored 66 goals in seven games and had but 18 pucks fired into the local juniors' net. Defensively the two clubs' averages are about on a par, while offensively the season's play would indicate the Quintes have a slightly better scoring average.

Coach Wally Elmer of the Limestone City juniors, has a good goalie in Udall, but his front line composed of Carleton, Smith and Jarrell carries Indians' sting and scoring punch. The Kingston kids skate fast assuring the patrons at the Hume Arena Tuesday night of the season's hockey tit-bit. The Cook-Clare-Goyer outfit will have to be on their toes and play consistent hockey if they entertain hopes of victory.

The Belleville Boys' Public School Band will be in attendance to entertain the fans between periods.

Sherbrooke Kept From Cinching First Place in Provincial Loop by Losing to Verdun

Montreal, Feb. 19—(CP)— Five games remain between now and the close of the Quebec Senior Hockey League schedule and the results of these contests may bring about quite a shuffle in the standings.

At present, thanks to Quebec Aces, the only team definitely out of the playoff race, Montreal Royals are in front with a one-point margin over Montreal Concordias. Verdun Maple Leafs are another five points behind the Civic and a point behind them come Cornwall Flyers.

Ottawa Senators, who take part in two of the remaining games, are three points back of the Flyers.

Senators, rated one of the league's best teams before the season started and contenders for a high position in the standing until the beginning of this month, dropped their sixth straight game Saturday night and now are in a position where their playoff chances are mathematical.

Flyers beat them 5-4 in a tough overtime game in Ottawa that was featured by Stan Robertson's three goals. Leading scorer in the league, Robertson practicaly clinched the scoring title with his points in addition to helping his team toward a playoff berth with his marker just one second before the overtime session ended.

Score Five in Third

Quebec scored five goals in the third period to Concordia's one as they kept the Civic from taking over the leadership. Two of the goals came in the final 30 seconds after the Montreal team had yanked its goaler in an attempt to get the equalizer.

Sherbrooke Red Raiders, needing only one victory to clinch first place in Quebec's other senior circuit, the Provincial League, were humbled 6-2 by Verdun Bulldogs in a game yesterday in the Montreal district city.

The victory gave the Bulldogs sole possession of fifth place and put them within a point of the fourth place St. Hyacinthe Gaulois who lost 6-3 to the tail-end Quebec Beavers. Ed Mentzel and Theo Hamel paced the Beavers' attack, sharing seven scoring points between them. Mentzel had three goals and Hamel two goals and two assists.

William Fry of Belleville on Committee to Probe Problem Facing Minor Groups

Toronto, Feb. 19—(CP)— The Ontario Rugby Football Union has decided to do something about improving conditions in its intermediate and lower groups. Eight men have been chosen to deal with the problems facing these groups in various sections of the province and to renew interest that has been lacking in the past several years.

At the 58th annual meeting here Saturday the following were appointed for the assignment: Len Taylor of Woodstock, Joseph Goodman of Toronto, Gordon Mellon of Sarnia, E. McLean of Dundas D. C. O'Brien of Windsor, William Fry of Belleville, William Walshe, of Kingston and F. F. Dufton of Cobourg. Appointment of additional men will be taken when necessary.

Floyd Muirhead, president of the Toronto Balmy Beach Club, told delegates he believed two clubs would operate in Montreal next season and if only one should be formed the chances were good it would be an O.R.F.U. entry. It has been rumored Montreal Westmounts would withdraw from the Union's Senior Series.

Rev. M. S. Lynch of St. Michael's College, Toronto, was elected president for two years, succeeding John DeGruchy who died last month after serving as president for 25 years. M. J. Chilton of Sarnia, was named first vice-president and will succeed Father Lynch at the end of two years. Mr. Muirhead was elected second vice-president and Frank E. Lenard of Dundas, third vice-president.

New York, Feb. 19—(AP)— The Louis-Godoy fight films were sharply edited for the South American trade—to make Arturo look his best...... railroads operating ski trains out of New York say last year's biz will be more than doubled........if Boston Red Sox wanted to reveal the figures you'd probably find they paid nearer $50,000 than the reported $75,000 for Dominic DiMaggio.......

Sonja Honey got so mad the other day when a Boston paper gave her age as 30 she had her press agent send around photostatic copies of her passport, showing she is nearer 26.

Never heard of Olinder Trotter, did you......sure you didn't...... he's Joe Louis' brother-in-law and he's making the local heavies behave around Minneapolis......Olindo doesn't pack a kayo wallop, but he's got a pretty good left and he knows how to stick it right in your kisser........ Michigan State University coaches are seeing double and talking to themselves what with three sets of identical twins out for one sport or another.

Not long ago the Westerly (R.I.) High cage team team walloped its arch rival, Stonington, (Conn.) 158-12......we hate to throw this up, but back in 1918 Westerly put the skids under Sonington at football, 122-0.

Between the Lines

Down in Kingston the puck moguls are satisfied in their own minds that Wally Elmer's Kingston juniors will beat the local Quintes right in Belleville Tuesday night. So confident are the Limestone City supporters, they are laying the coin of the realm right on the line to back up their convictions. A local supporter got in on some of the wagering, while several other wagers are in the offing. The local junior forwards cannot afford to leave Smith and Jarrell, Wally Elmer's two good wing players, unchecked for a single moment, as this pair is fast and an aggressive team of front-liners. Bill Walshe, sports editor of the Kingston paper, says the Kingston team "possesses more battle and determination, while he thought Belleville lads had the better players and played the more practical hockey" but Bill gives Kingston the edge to win right here in Belleville, to which we take stern opposition.

If Coach Holway sends his forwards out to "mark their checks and cover-up in front of the home net," the rest will look after itself. The juniors held a stiff practice over the week end versus Bill Dennis' Belleville juveniles at which time the Quintes were brushing up on several plays. It might be advisable to remind the fans to watch one or two of Wally Elmer's pet plays on Tuesday night when the Kingston and Belleville kids start on even terms. One play that must be watched finds two of the Kingston forwards parking repeatedly at their opponents' blue line, with the puck carrier passing the entire length of the centre ice zone strip. However, if Ethier, Kiniski, Gerow, Armstrong and Butler tie a string to their checks, the Elmer-worked plays should not prove too dangerous, as the Belleville ice surface is considerably shorter than the Kingston surface, where the Red Indians practice. The Belleville kids have a tough proposition on their hands, but some good form and practical hockey should see them victorious.

Although the Kingston scribe was not too greatly impressed with the first game of the series, as he failed to make much detailed remarks regarding the pastime in his sports column of "Comment on Sports," in the general story he did say "Both teams seemed to lack the experience of tough games. Both coasted through their groups and when they bumped into each other they seemed in strange surroundings but as the game progressed they settled down to a close, see-saw struggle. Neither team displayed much to recommend them for the Junior B. battle but both should improve with play and the experience of a few more tough games may make one of them a good team. All will be at stake Tuesday night."

Do you remember when Canada's Kimberley Dynamiters advanced into the second round of the world amateur hockey championship at London three years ago tonight when they defeated Sweden 9-0? They exploded England's chances of the title by a 3-0 victory a week later and went on to win with a 2-1 overtime victory over Switzerland.

The Peterboro Scribe says the Petes' defence is too strong for the Flyers to penetrate. It's hard to figure that one out as the Liftlock City forwards have been back-checking so strenuously all season that the Petes' defence hasn't been called on for any too much torso tossing simply because the front lines have been taking care of both ends of the game. However, here's the Peterboro scribe's comment on Friday night's tussle: "While it was a fast game nearly all the way, and rough in spots, there were no fights or outstanding features — and the Petes always seemed a few goals better. Though the Fliers, after being pushed around for two frames like a baby carriage Saturday night on George St., finally decided to gang up. Then the lid was off and the fans really jerked loose with a large piece of pandemonium. But Harding managed to get a piece of the streaking puck each time. No doubt, the Fliers will gang up Monday here continuously as it's do or die for 'em this time. All our gang sparkled, and we wouldn't like to pick an outstanding puckist. Nor was there one who didn't tote his weight. Art Heal, who bounces off the boards like a billiard ball and doesn't even chip, might rate a mention for consistently fine work. He and Starr were in on two each."

Don't forget the City Juvenile semi-finals at the Hume Arena tonight. The Maple Leafs meet the Americans and the Black Hawks clash with the Canadiens in sudden death games. The score of tonight's Flyer at Peterboro game will be announced but not over the telephone, so drop around and support Belleville's future puck stars in the making.

Besides being a pitcher of note, Wesley Ferrell, Brooklyn Dodger moundsman, successfully defended his baseball-golf title. Ferrell beat Jack Russell, former Cub hurler and has won the Powell Crosley trophy three times in the five years of competition at Tampa, Fla. Ferrell gained permanent possession of the trophy after winning it a third time.

SPORT SPICE — Rev. Father Lynch, of St. Michael's College, Toronto, was named the new president of the O.R.F.U....His tenure of office will be two years. Billie Taylor scored for the Pittsburg Pirates as they played Indianapolis a 2-2 tie. ...Challedon (the horse of 1939) will not enter the $50,000 handicap at Hialeah this year, the big 4-year-old colt not being ready.... Seabiscuit and Kayak 2nd ran far behind Specify at the San Carlos handicap over the week-end....D. A. Houston, who refereed here Friday night, will officiate at Peterboro tonight.

Britain's that she mounted two pom-poms (multi-barrelled anti-aircraft guns) and four machine-guns.

Altmark Is Aground.

The Altmark, meanwhile, lay aground here so close to shore today that sightseers could see blood staining the ice of the Fjord, memento of the brief battle when the British destroyer Cossack manoeuvred the Altmark into the shallow water and sent a raiding party aboard to rescue the prisoners.

The Nazi swastika flew at half-mast for the seven or more members of the German crew who died in the fight. Five who were killed and two who died later of injuries were to be buried today in a churchyard here with services conducted by a German pastor from Oslo.

Some Believed Drowned.

How many died was not known definitely, however, as searching parties still dragged the Fjord for some believed to have drowned.

While the legal battle raged over the Altmark's fate, she remained in possession of her German crew. Some members who fled ashore over the ice wedging in their ship and reached a farm house eight miles inland exhausted after their all-night wanderings have been sent back.

Warships Near.

The Altmark apparently is being watched closely by four British warships which cruised throughout yesterday just beyond territorial waters while three small Norwegian naval vessels guarded the neck of the five-mile-long fjord.

Besides the issue of armaments on which Norway is expected to intern or free the Altmark, the question also arose of her status when she entered Norwegian waters. She was rumored to have flown the German service flag when she called last week at Bergen, thus being exempt from customs examination and, possibly, keeping her prisoners hidden from Norwegian inspectors boarding her only briefly.

One official indication of Norway's attitude was the speech Saturday night of Foreign Undersecretary Jens Bull, who said foreign commercial vessels, and even warships, have the right "to innocent passage in neutral waters when they submit to certain rules", and "there are no reports that the Altmark acted against these rules."

Representatives of the Hastings County Council Roads and Bridges Committee, the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, and in all probably His Worship Mayor G. E. Thompson, will, in conjunction with other interested bodies, wait on the Minister of Highways on Wednesday morning, to discuss the furtherance of the Belleville-Whitney highway.

The proposed new highway will open a new trail to the vacation spots of the Muskoka district, it was brought out at a discussion held last year. With the opening of the new Ivy Lea International Bridge and the expected influx of tourists who will enter Canada from the eastern states this way, the Belleville-Whitney highway will provide a short cut to the delightful holiday lands of Canada's northern beauty spots, via Hastings County.

Public Responding Generously to Appeal of Legion

With over seven hundred dollars of the two-thousand uota for this city in the treasurer's fund, the local campaign sponsored by the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Belleville Branch 201, for the Canadian Legion War Auxiliary, Inc., is showing splendid results thus far, officials of the campaign said today.

The amount in the fund to date does not include collections made Saturday.

Many amounts of generous proportions have been donated. Besides the two hundred dollars given by the Army and Navy Veterans Branch here to inaugurate the campaign, a number of one hundred dollar subscriptions have been given. Others range from fifty dollars to twenty-five cents.

Officials today were optimistic regarding the ultimate outcome of the campaign. "It looks as though we shall have no difficulty in going over the top for our quota" one said. "The people of Belleville as usual, are responding generously, and collections to date have been good."

ONTARIO 'SPIEL HAS 124 RINKS

Play Opens Today in Toronto and Will Continue All Week

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP)—The Ontario Curling Association's 13th annual bonspiel got under way here today with first round play for the Royal York trophy. The draw included 124 rinks from 52 Ontario and United States curling clubs.

All trophy-winning rinks in the 1939 bonspiel are competing again this year, including D. P. J. Kelly's Toronto Granite Club four, who captured the grand aggregate and the North American Life and Seagram trophies last year, and Alex Hayes' Sarnia rink, 1939 winners of the Royal York trophy.

The 62 winning rinks in the first round of the Royal York draw also play for the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie and Seiberling awards, while the losers compete for the North American Life and Seagram trophies. Losing rinks in the first round of the latter draws enter consolation play for the Canada Dry trophy.

Nine rinks, five from Detroit, two from Schenectady and two from Milwaukee, comprise the largest group of United States curlers ever to compete in the bonspiel. More than 30 Western Ontario rinks, 10 from Northern Ontario, a large Eastern Ontario contingent and Toronto entries round out the draw.

Play will continue until Saturday on the ice of High Park, Granite, Toronto and Royal Canadian curling clubs here.

JIMMY ORLANDO
Detroit Red Wings
By Central Press Canadian

This year Jack Adams, Detroit Red Wing manager, decided that youth was the thing needed to take his team back to the heights it had known. A few seasons back, and the result has been an ever-changing line-up as players juggled between major and minor leagues. One player who has not been involved in the juggling is Jimmy Orlando,

Jimmy Orlando only Italian-born player in the N.H.L., who has been holding down a defence post alongside Jack Stewart, one of last year's finds. It's Jimmy's third National league season, but only his first complete one. He saw action in a few games in the 1936-37 and 1937-38 seasons, but went back to minors each time for more seasoning. This time he appears to be here to stay, and his crashing jolts have sent more than a few forwards bouncing to the ice, although at times he is inclined to get too obstreperous with fists and stick. Jimmy was brought up in Montreal, after his parents left Italy, and it was there that he played his amateur hockey, his senior connections being with Victorias and the Amateur Canadiens. Minor pro teams he has played with have been Syracuse (his first), Pittsburgh and Springfield. He'll be 25 years old in another three days.

TOMORROW: Buzz Boll, Americans.

YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN IF YOU CAN REPAY $7.78 A MONTH

No endorsers needed—Quick, private service

If you need a loan, you are invited to mail the coupon below. Household Finance (formerly Central Finance) is now making loans to the residents of this community on a new "fit-your-budget" plan. You can apply for the money you need without leaving your home. No endorsers, no stocks or bonds are required. Repayment of your loan may be made on a schedule which fits your monthly income.

Payments to fit your budget

Suppose you need $100 and can readily repay $9.46 a month. Twelve instalments of $9.46 will repay your loan in full. Or, if you wish smaller payments, 15 monthly instalments of $7.78 will also repay a $100 loan.

Find the loan you need in the table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which fits your budget. Note that you may make small payments if you wish. Or you may pay larger instalments and pay up sooner. Note, also, how little your loan costs if repaid in a short time. Charges on a $100 loan, for instance, repaid in four monthly instalments, are only $5.04. (In all cases, payments shown in the table include all charges. There is nothing more to pay.)

What you do to borrow

All you do is fill in and return the coupon below. We then send a representative to your home. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives, and you don't have to ask friends, employers, or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly, without red tape or embarrassment.

If you send the coupon for more information about this new service, you will be under no obligation to borrow.

You can borrow $20 to $500 if you can make these convenient monthly payments

18,000 RUSSIANS IN 18TH DIVISION

"Army:

"On the isthmus (of Karelia) the enemy launched local attacks on Feb. 18 against our new positions between the Gulf of Finland and the Vuoski (river). The attacks were repelled with losses to the enemy corresponding to about the strength of a battalion, in addition to which six tanks were destroyed.

"Southeast of Salfalmenkai our troops dispersed an enemy column taking three guns, machine guns and ammunition as booty. At Taipale an enemy attack began at midday. The battle continues.

Victory of Ladoga.

"Northeast of (Lake) Ladoga our troops chieved a great victory by capturing an important strong point held by the enemy in great force in which connection 20 tanks, 36 guns of various type, 17 tractors, 32 field kitchens, 25 automobile, 200 vehicles, et cetera, fell into their hands.

"After tenacious fighting our troops have thus, piece by piece, completely annihilated the enemy's 18th division, which they had surrounded after it had advanced by way of Uoma to Syskyjaervi.

"The division, which received large reinforcements of auxiliary forces and base drafts before being surrounded, lost about 18,000 killed and taken prisoner in this fighting, and the whole of its war materials.

"Elsewhere on the land front there was nothing to report.

Numerous Air Battles.

'Air Force:

"On Feb. 18 our aircraft carried out several reconnaissaice and bombing flights over fighting lands and in the enemy's rear.

"Numerous air battles attended with success for us took plce. In the war zone enemy air activity was especially lively both in the day and during the night.

"The towns of Kakisalmi (Kexholm), Lappeenranta (Villmanstrand) and Viipuri (Viborg) were bombed; in the bombing of the last-mentioned town several successive air formations took part. In the home area the enemy bombed the Kotka, Gouvola, Iisalmi and Pori (Bjorneborg) districts.

Civilians Wounded.

"According to information available so far a number of civilians were wounded in these raids and several dwelling houses were destroyed by fire.

"The number of enemy aircraft over Finland during the day was believed to be bigger than on any previous day. According to confirmed reports, 2 0enemy planes were shot down, in addition to which the fate of four others lacks confirmation. Of the cases reported on Feb. 17 as uncertain, one now has been confirmed."

SWEDISH STAND MAY BE REVISED,

Replying to criticism which met the premier's announcement that a Finnish request for aid had been rejected, the Social Demokraten reminded critics that all the arrangements made by the Swedish government for limited aid to the Finns still stood.

To Aid Though Neutral.

The movement for recruiting volunteers will be intensified, the paper said, and the government is still every bit as desirous of lending all aid possible to the Finns consonant with Swedish neutrality.

Opposition papers continued to attack this policy as shortsighted, arguing that Sweden would be imperilled by Finland's defeat.

Prediction By Genevieve Tabouis.

Paris, Feb. 19 (CP-Havas).—Genevieve Tabouis, writing in the newspaper l'Oeuvre, predicted today that the Swedish and Norwegian governments will shortly be forced by public opinion in those countries not only to extend direct military aid to Finland in collaboration with the allies, but to cut Germany and Russia off from Scandinavian iron supplies.

British Paper's Prediction.

London, Feb. 19 (CP).—Possible revision of Sweden's announced decision to refuse direct aid to Finland was predicted today by the Manchester Guardian.

"According to latest reports from Sweden, it is felt here that the Swedish attitude may not be final," the newspaper said. "There has even been some inclination to assume that Sweden might be willing to show great friendliness on the question of volunteers an dnot make any further difficulties or at least not to forestall, as was indicated in the Swedish declaration of last Friday, possible decisions which may be taken by the western powers in regard to Finland in the near future."

INCIDENT THAT STRAINED ANGLO - JAPANESE RELATIONS

This picture, just arrived in Canada, was made from the deck of the Japanese liner Asama Maru on the occasion when the ship was halted by a British cruiser and compelled to surrender 21 German passengers. The cruiser may be seen in background, her airplane amidships clearly visible. The Japanese government made a vigorous protest to Britain over the incident, which took place not far outside Japanese waters.

National Secretary Addresses Marmora Kinsmen Club

Marmora — The newly organized Marmora Kinsmen Club met for their first regular dinner meeting in the Royal Hotel dining room on Monday evening of this week with about thirty local young men and a number of visiting Kinsmen in attendance. Mr. "Banty" Bantick of Toronto, National Secretary of the Kinsmen Organization and Mr. Austin Peters of Kingston, Governor of District No. 6, were present to greet the new club members.

The Kinsmen gathered in the dining room at 6.30 and were called to order by the president, R. H. Vandervoort, and two minutes silence was observed in respect to the death of the Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir. The Club then sat down to a delicious dinner which was much enjoyed by all.

Following the dinner the National Anthem was sung and then a couple of club songs, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Harry Wright.

The chairman then read some correspondence he had had with the National Secretary in regard to the formation of the Club and the procuring of a charter. At the organization meeting last month there was some misunderstanding in regard to initiation and membership fees and it was decided to wait until September before applying for a charter. However the matter was explained by the National Secretary and the Club have applied for the charter now instead of waiting till Fall.

Mr. Bantick was then called on to address the meeting but he asked the District Governor. Mr. Peters to speak first. "Ossie" Peters expressed his pleasure in being at the meeting and congratulated the club on the splendid progress they had made in organizing. He thought they should apply for the charter now as it would be much less expensive than at the beginning of a new term. He said the first knowledge he had of the Marmora Club was when the president of the Belleville Club had suggested that the Marmora Kinsmen be invited to join them in March at the joint meeting of the Belleville and Kingston Clubs. He had made inquiries and was delighted with the results that had been achieved here in the way of organization.

"Banty" Bantick then gave a fine address on Kinsmen Clubs across Canada, their history and progress and stated that on Tuesday next the Kinsmen Clubs of Canada would celebrate their twentieth anniversary with a specially arranged program for each club. He congratulated the president, Ray Underwood on the work he had done in organizing the club and said that he had come down expecting to have a job getting the club started but that there was nothing to be done.

Messrs. Vincent Lynch and V. Knowles spoke briefly thanking the National Secretary and the District Governor for their interest and assistance.

A vote was taken and it was decided to apply at once for a charter for the club.

The president and five members of the Peterborough Club were present and they were called on for a few words as was Kinsmen D. Slater of Kingston.

A couple of songs and some good-natured heckling among the visitors followed and brought the evening to a close.

Miss Flora Sanderson is spending a few days in Toronto this week.

Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher attended the Belleville Presbytery meeting in Belleville on Tuesday.

Mr. Charles Hollingsworth spent the week end with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Hollingsworth at Odessa.

Mrs. Morrow of Peterborough visited Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Marett on Sunday.

Two baptismal services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Fletcher last Sunday. At the morning service two children of Mr. and Mrs. Kernahan were baptized and in the evening the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ellis received the same rite.

Last Friday afternoon the girls of the C. G. I. T. group and members of St. Andrew's W. M. S. met in a joint service at the Parsonage. The first Friday in Lent has been set aside as the World Day of Prayer and an interesting program was followed with the girls taking part under the direction of Mrs. W. P. Fletcher. Miss Audrey Burwash presided at the piano and a number of appropriate hymns were sung and the service was divided under three headings: 1st. God exalted in me; 2nd. God exalted in the Nations, and 3rd. God exalted among the Nations.

The girls are showing a keen interest in the work of the C. G. I. T. and it is excellent training for them.

Little Benny's Note Book

My cousin Artie stayed at my house all night, and after supper we had to do our homework against our will, me saying, G wizzickers homework homework, and Artie saying, Sure good night, isn't schoo; long enough without trying to stretch it all through the rest of the time?

Come come you 2, pop said. If a thing's worth doing it's worth doing well, and even if you have some lingering doubt about it's being worth doing you might as well do it in the least paneful way as long as you know it's got to be done, he said, and I said, Only holey smokes, pop, there is no least paneful way.

There's where you're wrong, because there's a least paneful way of doing every job independent of its size, in other words you've got to fix up some way of making a game of it so that it becomes pleasure instead of so call work, pop said. And the world's a playground and every philosophical man is a playboy, he said. For instants you and Artie might have a good natured contest to see who gets through first without any skipping or skimping, he said.

Me having an idea that sounded even less paneful than that, and I whispered it to Artie and we started to try it, pretending to hear each other our lessens, Artie saying, Name the boundaries of the Pacific Ocean, and me saying, That's a cinch, the Pacific Ocean is bounded on the west by the roarer borealis, on the east by the south pole, on the north by the big dipper and on the south by the small intestines.

Correct, but how about on the northwest? Artie said, and I said, O yes, it's bounded on the northwest by the Issmuss of Chrissmas, and pop said, Yee gods I wish to make a slight correction. As the poet wrote, Life is real, life is earnest, so knuckle down and do your durnest. Now get to it, he said.

Wich we did still feeling against it.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Pain at Inner Side of Knee Joint

Physicians whose practice includes treatment of injuries in athletes find that in knee injuries it is the inner side of the knee, the ligament on the inner side, that is strained or torn in the great majority of cases. This is explained by the fact that as the upper end of the thigh bone is at the hips, and lower end at knee, some distance toward the middle line of the body, the whole weight of the body is thus put on the inner side of the knee. Because of this fact, most physicians when a patient complains of a pain at inner side of knee, put it down as a strain of the inner ligament. However, this strain is not always due to an athletic or other injury but simply to the improper distribution of weight which puts most of it on the inner side of knee.

Drs. W. H. Irish and J. P. Stump in Archives of Physical Therapy, Chicago, call attention to the fact that improper distribution of weight causes pain on inner side of knee but unfortunately many physicians overlook it, as they are looking for outside injury or infection as a cause of the symptoms. These physicians point out that machanical strain—due to weight of body—causes an increase in the little finger-like processes on the lining membrane of the knee which holds the oil used for lubricating the joint.

"In patients with weak and distorted feet, the weight bearing line is thrown from its centre, bringing about abnormal stress on the capsule or covering of the joint, the muscles and ligaments, the cross ligaments of the joint and particularly the internal (lateral ligament. The close relation of these ligaments to the membrane lining the joint (synovial membrane) causes the membrane to be constantly irritated by the repeated dropping of the body weight on the inner side of knee as th individual walks or stands on his feet. This constant irritation due to the body weight sets up an inflammatory process resulting in a thickening of the membrane itself and an increase in the number of the little villous or finger-like processes which stand upon the membrane like the pile in velvet or a carpet. Xray examination may show bones of joint to be normal but frequently there is thickening and haziness in the space between the bones of the joint."

Symptoms in this condition are pain, disability, thickening of knee joint, and sometimes a feeing of "giving way" of the joint.

Treatment is by use of plates and shoes to throw weight on outer side of knee. If overweight, the weight must be reduced.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

It may be the cause of your troubles. Buck it up the right way, with Fruit-a-tives. Feel grand.

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, stores energy, allows the proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headachy, backachy, dizzy, dragged out all the time.

Rid yourself of these miseries, as thousands have—with Fruit-a-tives, for 35 years Canada's largest selling liver remedy. Fruit-a-tives stimulate your liver, bring prompt relief—make you feel like a new person. Get Fruit-a-tives at your druggist's today, 25c, 50c.

WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 19 — (AP)—Shares eased downward a bit today in slow market dealings. Although a few issues moved against the drift, averages were slightly off approaching the fourth hour.

Moving upward were Loft, Cluett Peabody, Brooklyn-Queens Transit Pfd. and Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit Pfd., all of which touched new highs for the year. Also buoyant were American Airlines, United Air Lines, Du Pont, Phillip Morris and Paramount.

Among Canadian issues Hiram Walker, Distillers Seagram and Lake Shore Mines lost fractions. Other issues were inactive. Canada 4s, in the bond market, was stationary.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 19 —(CP)— The smallest turnover in three years marked trade on Toronto Exchange today. Prices showed a few more minor losses than gains. Only 71,000 shares changed hands.

In the Industrial department Utilities, Foods and Steels boarded a preponderance of losses. Banks held strong and the Liquors were unchanged.

Lake shore weakened ½ and Wright-Hargreaves, East Malartic and Uchi lost ground. In the Base Metal group prices were about steady in the average.

Home Oil, Calgary and Edmonton and Foothills were mildly soft spots in the Western Oils.

LIVESTOCK

Montreal, Feb. 19—(CP)—Lamb prices were higher in early trading on Montreal Livestock Markets today, while cattle, calves and hogs held steady, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Good steers made from $7.25 to $7.75 and medium from $6.25 to $7.25. A few oxen sold as low as $3.75. Heifers ranged from $3.50 to $6.75 and good cows $5.25 to $5.50 with an odd one up to $5.75. Medium cows made $4.50 to $5. Good bulls were $5.50 to $6.

A few good veals made $11 to $11.50. Good veals brought $11. Fair and medium kinds in mixed lots around $10. Drinkers ranged from $6 to $8.

Lambs sold in mixed lots, mostly bucks, at $8.50 to $10 according to quality. Sheep made $3.50 to $6 with the bulk between $5.50 and $6.

Hogs were unchanged at $9.25 to $9.40 for bacons fed and watered and 9.40 off trucks. Selects drew $1 premium with regular cuts on off grades. Sows made $6.25 to $7 with an odd one at $7.25. Hogs sold on rail grade brought $12.30 hot weight.

Toronto, Feb. 19—(CP)—Cattle trade was slow up to mid-session on the Toronto livestock market today and early buying was confined principally to small killers. Sales up to noon were at prices about steady to last week's close. Good to choice veal calves were steady to a shade higher. Sheep were steady. No price was established for hogs. Lambs sold at steady prices. The cattle holdover was 150 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock branch were: cattle 2,000, calves 550, hogs 1,800, sheep and lambs 750.

A few weighty steers sold at $7.50 for common. Butcher steers and heifers ranged from $6 for common with good bringing $7-$7.25 with one load at $7.35. Butcher cows ranged from $3.75-$5.25 with canners and cutters selling at $3.25-$3.75. Fed calves sold at $8-$9 for good to choice with medium selling downward to $7.

Good to choice veal calves sold at $10.50-$11.50 with common selling downward to $7.

A few local lambs sold at $8-$10 and sheep sold at $3.50 to $4 for common and up to $6 for good light ewes.

Hogs closed previously $9 off-truck for bacon and $12 dressed-weight.

Butter Declines In Dull Market

Toronto, Feb. 19—Butter experienced another day of easy prices and dull dealings during Saturday's short session of the Toronto open produce market. Eggs closed out the week on a firm tone.

While Ontario offerings were still light with no selling pressure, prices continued to chart a downward course on the butter market as buyers remained on the sidelines. Ontario creamery solids eased to the nominal price of 26 1-2 for No. 1 grade. Prints declined in sympathy with solids to range at 27 1-2c to 28 1-2c for top grades.

Trading tapered off on the egg market, but a good clean-up in receipts was effected at the week-end, and prices closed firm at previous levels. Last week's shipments to Northern Ontario were reported light, with buyers at these points apparently drawing their supplies from Western shippers.

Infant Child Found Dead in its Crib

Three-weeks' old Richard Wellman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wellman, Trenton, was found dead in his crib at home over the week-end. It is believed the infant managed to pull the bed clothing of his sleeping crib over his tiny face, resulting in suffocation. Dr. E. A. McQuaid, Trenton coroner, was summoned to the home and after learning the circumstances announced no inquest was necessary. The sympathy of the entire neighborhood was extended to the grief-stricken parents. The child was found smothered in its crib by the infant's parents as they arose yesterday morning.

POPPING OF JARS OF FRUIT GIVE ALARM OF FIRE

Arnprior, Ont., Feb. 19 (CP).—The faint popping of bursting jars of fruit stored in the cellar gave the alarm today to Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Caruso and the latter's mother, Mrs. E. Decola, enabling them to escape a fire that swept their fruit store.

Damage was estimated at $12,000. Fire broke out at 4.30 a.m. in the basement. Cause of the blaze was unknown but the Carusos and Mrs. Decola, sleeping over the store, were awakened by the popping of fruit jars and made their way to safety.

WESTERN ONTARIO HIT BY STORM

Highways Blocked by Heavy, Wet Snow — Weather Officials Say Storm Moving Eastward

Toronto, Feb. 19—(CP)—Blocking roads and making for the heaviest fall of the winter in some districts, a snowstorm struck western Ontario, Georgian Bay and Niagara Peninsula today. Strong northeast winds accompanied the fall and weather officials estimated the storm would reach the Ottawa Valley and upper St. Lawrence River by late afternoon or night.

The forecast generally was for continued snow or part-rain tonight with slightly lower temperatures tomorrow. A light drizzle or rain fell in the Windsor district today following more than three inches of snow yesterday.

In the Ancaster mountain district of Hamilton, where the Brantford-London highway climbs a long grade, a complete traffic tie-up occurred this morning. Scores of cars and trucks became stuck in deep, wet snow and highway crews began the long task of dragging the vehicles from the drifts and slippery ruts.

The Hamilton area snow piled up to a depth of a foot, city streets were piled high and street car service was interrupted.

Snow, which fell throughout the night, blocked many Brantford district roads and the city's bus service was hit so badly that few people reached their work on time. More than a foot of snow had fallen at noon and continued to fall. Indications were that township roads would be blocked for some time.

The snow turned early to rain in the St. Catharine's sector but failed to impede traffic and little difficulty was expected unless the mild weather turned to freezing temperatures.

In contrast, temperatures hovered at the freezing point in London with a clear and cold forecast for tomorrow. A two-inch snowfall packed the roads but none was blocked.

The heavy snowfall also was felt in Toronto and surrounding area. City traffic proceeded slowly but no tie-ups were reported as the fall continued throughout the day in the 34-above-zero temperature.

Eastern Ontario, in early reports, had mild weather although overcast skies and a northeast wind presaged a storm.

C.N.R. Employee Killed

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 19—(CP)—Walking in the path of a switch engine as it was backing up, John G. Ford, 56, employed by the Canadian National Railways, was killed in the roundhouse yards today. Ford had been hired only a few days ago. In the blizzard this morning he apparently did not see the approaching engine and was crushed beneath it. The crew had to jack up the locomotive to extricate the body.

OBITUARY

MRS. A. J. HUTCHINS

Madoc (Special)—On Saturday morning the relatives of Mrs. A. J. Hutchins received word of her sudden passing at her home in Toronto. Mrs. Hutchins, formerly Maud Smith was the daughter of the late Henry and Mrs Smith, of Madoc. Besides her husband she is survived by her aged mother Eliza Smith, Madoc, and five brothers, Frank, Wilfrid, Ambrose and Murney of Madoc, and Ezra, of Arnprior. The funeral will take place from her late home on Tuesday afternoon, with interment at Toronto.

LATE MISS I. M. Breakall (Madoc)

Madoc (Special)—The funeral of the late Miss Breakall took place from her residence Madoc on Saturday afternoon. Her pastor, Rev. W. A. Hunter conducted the service which was attended by her relatives and many friends. Many beautiful flowers were in evidence as a token of the respect with which she was held, being a keen lover of flowers herself. Interment took place at Lakeview cemetery.

Relatievs from a distance were, Mr. Robert Breakall, Mrs. F. Ferguson and Mrs. Nicol, Medicien Hat, Alta.; Mrs. Crombie and Miss Crombie of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Breakall, Oshawa.

Car Slides in Front Of Freight Engine; Occupants Uninjured

Only the fact that a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train was proceeding at a very slow rate of speed through the Belleville C.P.R. yards Sunday night saved occupants of a motor car from serious injury. George Smith, 66 Church Street, was driving his automobile south on Church St. shortly after 8 p.m. when the vehicle was struck by a C.P.R. engine which was hauling a freight train. Smith informed P. C. Thomson, who investigated, that he heard no engine bell and when he saw the train and applied the brakes of his car, the vehicle skidded on the icy pavement in front of the engine which collided with the front of the vehicle. The locomotive was travelling very slowly as it was passing the C.P.R. station and the engineer was able to stop his train before any injuries resulted. The motor car was only slightly damaged during the impact. The fact the train was travelling slowly saved Mr. Smith and his companion from, perhaps, more serious results, Constable Thomson reported.

CHARLES SHOULD KEEP OFF ICE

STAR MILER

Many of the experts believe that this young man, Louis Zamperini, Pacific coast runner, is on his way to the top as the world's greatest miler. Zamperini, who holds the intercollegiate mile championship, is now training at South Field, Columbia University, for the indoor season. He got away to a good start by running second to Chuck Fenske in Boston, and this was only his third appearance on a board track. They say that when he hits his stride on the boards he will make trouble for the rest of the milers.

FRENCH PATROL FALLS INTO

It was the first fairly heavy loss suffered since the war by the patrols which, daily in the hours before dawn, establish contact between the French outposts along the length of the western front.

The German ambush, staged at 3 a.m., continued the strategy of minor incursions apparently put into action by the Nazi command three days ago. Detailed information of the latest skirmish was still awaited here, but reports estimated French losses at around twenty men.

A German attempt to storm a French outpost in the Moselle sector was made almost at the same hour Sunday morning. Although launched after artillery preparation, the attack was turned back, as was another foray in the same zone the night before.

The German air command yesterday sent out four reconanissance flights over eastern and northern France. No air fighting was reported.

Today's communique said:

"East of the Nied, one of our detachments fell into an ambush in the course of the night and suffered some losses. There was firing from the casements on either side of the Rhine."

PRIVATE GILES DIES IN ENGLAND

Death Occurs From Natural Causes and Third Since Canadians Arrive

Aldershot, England, Feb. 19 (CP).—Private H. T. Giles of the West Nova Scotia Regiment died today. He enlisted at West Dalhousie, N.S. It was the third death from natural causes since the first Canadian division arrived at this camp.

The number parading sick continues to decline daily with the relaxation of winter's grip and today's report showed an appreciable drop in measles cases. The illness is of a mild type.

Few had time to worry about such troubles today as the troops were too busy opening a heavy budget of mail from home. More than 200 bags of parcels and letters have been distributed to the unit in the past 24 hours.

900 Aircraft Given By Great Britain To Australian Gov't

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 19.— (CP Cable) —Newspaper commentators Sunday welcomed announcement of a gift by Great Britain of 900 aircraft to the Australian Government, a gift which is triple the strength of the present Air Force in Australia.

It was pointed out that though the planes, Fairey battle bombing planes and Avro Anson reconnaissance machines, do not belong to the first rank of modern aircraft, they have a good record in the present war, are well suited to Australia's requirements and should give fresh impetus and permit acceleration of Australia's share in the Empire air scheme.

It was learned that the first men to receive their final training in Canada under the Empire-wide plan will sail for the Sister Dominion within four months and will number about 300.

Next month Australia will open its recruiting for 50,000 men to staff its "Air Armada". But it will be largely a question of selection as more than 60,000 have applied in advance. Pilots, observers, machine-gunners and ground crews will be enlisted.

Bishop John Lyons Confirms Class of 34 Candidates

At Christ Church on Sunday evening the Lord Bishop of Ontario, the Right Rev. Dr. John Lyons, confirmed a class of 34 candidates in the presence of a large congregation. Rev. G. G. Wright, rector of the church, presented the candidates for confirmation.

Right Rev. Dr. Lyons delivered a message to the congregation, as well as speaking directly to the confirmed class regarding the meaning of confirmation within the church. To the congregation in general the Lord Bishop of Ontario urged that there be more reading of the Holy Bible in the home. "The absence of Bible reading in the home is attributed to the lack of interest in Christianity today," stated Dr. Lyons as he also asked for the prayers of all toward world peace.

Of the 34 candidates prepared and presented by Rev. G. G. Wright nine were boys and 25 ladies.

STIRLING H. S. TEAM ELIMINATED

Tweed School Team Held to 2-2 Score but Win Round 4 to 3

Tweed, Special — Tweed High School eliminated Stirling High School boys on Saturday night at the local Arena in the closest kind of game in the O.H.H.S. hockey playdowns. Stirling held the local boys to a 2-2 tie, but a 2-1 victory for Tweed in Stirling on Thursday night gave the local lads the round by a score of 4-3. The final result was in doubt until the last second of play and Wagar in the Tweed net was called on to play his best hockey during the last three minutes of the game.

In the first minute of play Langevin broke into the scoring column to give Tweed a 3-1 margin on the round. They were held scoreless from that point until the greater part of the final frame was over when Porritt scored what proved to be the deciding goal.

Half way through the second period Pyear scored Stirling's first goal and cut the homester's margin almost to the vanishing point. This was the only goal of the period which saw J. Walker on the visiting defence stop half a dozen hard shots on goal to relieve the pressure on his goalie.

Vandervoort tied the score late in the third period threatening to put the game into overtime, but Don Porritt, who was easily the best man on the ice clinched the argument in the dying moments of the game.

The line-ups:

Stirling—goal—Tanner; defence —J. Walker, Pyear; centre— J. Walker; wings—Vandervoort, McGee; subs—Patterson, McIntosh, Bastedo, Lummis, Francis.

Referees—C. A. Wells, Stirling, F. Geraldi, Tweed.

Tweed High School will now meet Norwood High School in the next series, home and home games with goals to count. Norwood recently eliminated Campbellford 11-6 on the round.

British Newspapers Exultant About Work of Destroyer Cossack

London, Feb. 19—(CP Cable) —All British newspapers were crammed today with stories covering every angle of the rescue of from 300 to 400 Britih seamen from the German prison ship Altmark. Pictures of the rescued men were sprinkled liberally through the papers.

The headlines were exultant about the work of the destroyer Cossack, expressed indignation about Norway's "oversight" in allowing the Altmark to sail through territorial waters with captives aboard, and were angry about the treatment accorded the captured seamen. The headlines were supported by leading articles agreeing unanimously on the moral issue.

The Daily Herald bannerline made up this quote from the official British note to Norway: "Norwegian Government has failed in its duty as a neutral." Another headline in the same paper said "black hole terror on Altmark."

The London Times said: "Just such a sequel was required to complete the national pride and satisfaction in the victory of the River Plata (when three British cruisers defeated the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee for which the Altmark acted as auxiliary). 'For something would clearly have been lacking if, after the lion had been destroyed, the jackal escaped with the prey."

The Herald's front page article from its Oslo correspondent quoted unnamed Norwegian eyewitnesses as declaring the German sailors, while fleeing over the ice from the Altmark, were fired on by their own officers.

The Herald said editorially: "Three-hundred men in a ship bulk larger than a needle in a haystack. Whoever overlooked those men at Bergen either were wilfully blind or were fantastically negligent."

The Mirror asked, in an exultant tone, of Germany's well-known English - language broadcaster, "Lord Haw Haw"; "German people: what was the big, invincible German Navy doing when the armed cruiser Altmark was overpowered? 'The navy is here' shouted our boarding party as they released the British prisoners on board. The British Navy.

"The German Navy was—where?"

The News Chronicle: "We believe the great majority of Norwegians will applaud our action and be glad in their hearts that the bullying methods and illegal activities of the Nazis have in this case been dealt with in a vigorous and effective manner."

The Manchester Guardian: "If a vessel can act along with a battleship while it is destroying commerce, can receive its prisoners from sunken ships, can keep them in confinement for many weeks and can convoy them to enemy country and still be regarded as peaceful, innocent merchantmen to be assisted through a neutral's territorial waters with a kindly escort of the neutral's warships, there is an end of international law and also of common sense."

The Morning Advertiser, paying tribute to Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, said today it recognized "the Winston touch" in the Altmark incident.

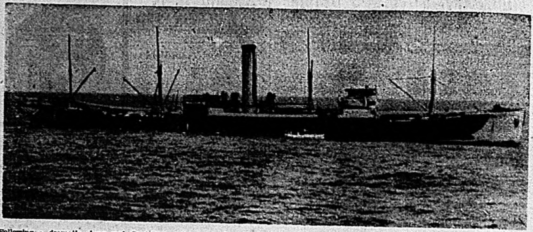
"While we are grateful to our navy for the workmanlike way in which they performed a very ticklish job," the newspaper said, "we hope we may be forgiven if we say we recognize behind the whole incident several bits of evidence pointing to 'the Winston touch.'"

The Daily Mail said: "Two great Britain qualities combined to produce the rescue of the Altmark prisoners; the courageous efficency with which the Royal Navy carried out its difficult operation and the boldness shown by Mr. Winston Churchill in ordering it."

NEWFOUNDLANDERS TO HUNT NAZI MINES

The Countess of Sefton is shown distributing parcels among many of the Newfoundland fishermen who have arrived "somewhere in England" to serve with British mine-sweepers. They'll work with men who have been called from Great Britain's huge fishing fleet to serve as mine-sweepers.

BRITISH SAILORS LIBERATE CAPTIVE BRITISH SEAMEN AFTER THRILLING CHASE

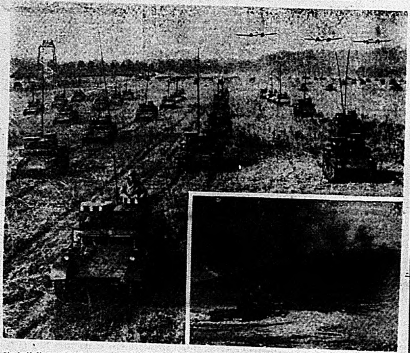


Following a dramatic chase and battle in Norwegian coastal waters British destroyers drove the German auxiliary ship Altmark, ABOVE, ashore and rescued between 300 and 400 British seamen whom they found battened down under its decks. The Altmark had acted as a tender for the scuttled Graf Spee and was carrying a large number of British seamen as captives under what has been described as terrible conditions. British destroyers and a cruiser of the Aurora class took part in the thrilling epilogue of the Graf Spee. The British naval boats acted under admiralty orders when they entered the Norwegian territorial waters. These orders were only given after a Norwegian gunboat commander informed British warships that the Altmark had been searched at Bergen and that no British seamen were aboard it. With this assurance the British destroyer force withdrew, but after dark admiralty orders were flashed to the destroyer Cossack to re-enter Norwegian waters and "complete the mission." As part of the engagement the British destroyer Ivanhoe ordered the German tanker Baldur to halt outside Norwegian waters and the Baldur's crew immediately scuttled the tanker.

INDIA JOINS OTHER EMPIRE UNITS IN RALLYING TO ENGLAND'S SIDE

Giving the direct lie to Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his cohorts who claim that the British Empire is disunited, this picture shows detachments of Indian troops in their camp in France. Several detachments of these troops are at present in France as a result of England's call to arms. In addition to these soldiers of the Empire many thousands more from Canada, Australia and New Zealand have answered the call and are now on active duty in England and the Near East.

UNCLE SAM PUTS HIS TANKS THROUGH THEIR PACES



Six battalions of tanks are shown in formation at Fort Benning, Ga., opening a program of field training ordered by the U.S. war department. Over the land monsters hover great fighting planes. The tanks manoeuvred under combat conditions, crashing through woods and houses, fighting off attacking planes and crossing rivers (inset), through smoke screens.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Peanut butter thinned with honey makes an interesting filling for Graham bread sandwiches for school luncheons. The combination is a health fact worth remembering.

An effort has been made to distinguish between white and dark poultry meats; the white meat is of looser texture, contains less fat and may be easily digested but there is no difference in the nutritive qualities of the two.

ANTHONY EDEN WELCOMES ANZACS AT SUEZ

Anthony Eden, Secretary for the Dominions, is shown aboard one of the fleet transport ships that brought a vast army of Australians and New Zealanders to the Near East, as he made a speech of welcome to the Anzac troops who have rallied to the side of the motherland. They will swell the Allied army now stationed in the Near East to frustrate any attempt by Germany and Russia to seize control of the Balkans and Turkey. Production of Field Gun Ammunition Increases Sixfold Since War Opened — Government - Owned Factories Now Producing 75,000,000 Rounds a Year

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP)—Practically all the aircraft necessary for Canada's air defence has been acquired and "the objective insofar as it relates to the number of squadrons to be placed in service for the defence of Canada has been reached," Postmaster General Power said here at a political meeting.

In 1935 there was not a single modern aircraft suitable for Active Service, he said last night, but when war broke out the Defence Department was able to send several squadrons of modern planes to the Atlantic coast for defensive purposes.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

February snow! On the first of this month snow covered the entire United States and Canada except the Southern States and along the Pacific coast. In the United States it was deepest in the Great Lakes region, particularly in Upper Michigan. For the United States as a whole January is the snowiest month; but as a rule more snow falls in February in the eastern half, while in the western half January has the most. For a yearly average Colorado is the snowiest state; California has large amounts also but its average is undeterminable. Florida has the least; in that state it is, indeed, very rare.

SOLDIERS WRECK GROUND FLOOR OF TORONTO HOTEL

120 Uniformed Men March Into Rivera Hotel and Make Shambles of Place

INQUIRY ORDERED

Toronto, Feb. 20 (CP)— Military authorities announced that an inquiry would be held today into the wrecking of the ground floor of a hotel here last night by a squad of soldiers. About 120 uniformed men marched into the Rivera hotel on King Street east, smashed entrance doors, tavern tables, the lobby desk and other ground floor furnishings.

The trouble lasted only five minutes and by the time city police riot squads arrived the men had left the hotel and the matter was turned over to military police.

MILITARY LEADERS MAY FORCE ISSUE ON AID FOR FINNS

Swedish Political Crisis Would Evolve Possibly Leading to King Gustaf's Abdication

NOTHING DEFINITE

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 20 (AP)—The chief editor of the Norwegian newspaper Tidens Tegn today reported from Stockholm that military leaders in Sweden may force an issue on the demand for direct aid to Finland, causing a political crisis which may even lead to the abdication of King Gustaf.

Although admitting the matter rests in conjecture, the newspaper's dispatch said, "it may happen that Swedish military circles, the majority of which want intervention in Finland, will press for a decision, a sort of coup d'etat, and that this will lead to the present King's abdication."

The newspaper said that in event of King Gustaf's abdication, the Swedish Crown Prince undoubtedly would assume the throne with a new cabinet.

PICKLES FOR THE GIRLFRIEND

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—A bottle of pickles may be better than a box of candy for some young men to take their girl friends. In a report today to Journal of Heredity, Dr. S. Pickles, black bread, sour potatoes, cranberries, and persimmons are delicacies to such people, he said.

Financial Critics of Opposition State $15,000,000 Could be Cut Off

CLAIM DEBT INCREASE

Premier Argues Hospital at St. Thomas Only Cost $6,000,000 Instead of $2,000,000 as Claimed

Toronto, Feb. 20.—(CP)—Major revenue raising measure of the session, the act to increase the provincial taxes on corporations, was scheduled for second reading debate in the Ontario Legislature today.

As the house rose yesterday, Leopold Macaulay (Con. York South), who earlier had led off the Conservative attack on the Budget asked Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon what was the meaning of Attorney-General Conant's second reading amendments to the corporation taxbill. Mr. Nixon said he would let the Attorney-General do his own explaining.

Mr. Macaulay and Leslie Frost (Con. Victoria) attacked the Budget because it didn't reduce expenditures sufficiently and because there was no effort to reduce taxation. Mr. Macaulay contended it should be possible to cut $15,000,000 off the estimates without crippling any essential service.

Altmark's Captain Admits Ship Served As Naval Auxiliary

Gjessingfjord, Norway, Feb. 20—(AP) — While Norway, Germany and Great Britain argued over the status of the German prison ship Altmark, the ship's captain admitted that his vessel served as a German naval auxiliary.

In eulogizing the seven German sailors killed when British sailors boarded the Altmark Friday night to remove British prisoners, Captain Heinrich Dau declared:

"You were not of the German navy, but you served your country bravely and venturesomely by giving that navy auxiliary service, by supplying its needs far from home."

After speaking at funeral services yesterday, Captain Dau told newsmen his ship was just outside Port Arthur, Tex., with a cargo of oil when the war started. The Altmark, he said, remained at sea transferring fuel to Nazi raiders and taking aboard seamen taken from British ships sunk by the now-scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

THERE WAS A FIRE ALL RIGHT

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 20 (AP) — Fireman Otis Jackson fought his way into a burning church just as the phone rang. Jackson answered it.

"I understand there is a fire at the church," a woman's voice said. "Is there anything to it?"

Jackson said yes indeed there was something to it.

"How awful!" the woman replied. She hung up and Jackson went back to work. The church was damaged $10,000 worth.

Canadian Soldier Overseas Asks CBC to Act as Cupid in Marriage

(By Sam Robertson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 20—(CP-Cable)—Wanted: An ocean-spanning cupid to arrange the marriage of a Canadian soldier in training here and his betrothed in Canada.

The prospective bridegroom is Sergeant C. Chevalier of Montreal, a member of the Royal Canadian Engineers. Formal consent to his engagement has just been cabled by the prospective father-in-law and Sergeant Chevalier airmailed a diamond ring. But Chevalier is a man of action—he volunteered for the advance party and became the first French-Canadian soldier to reach England in this war—and he wants the wedding solemnized as soon as possible.

He wrote Bob Bowman, head of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation unit with the Canadian Active Service Force, asking if the marriage could be arranged by trans-Atlantic radiocast and Bob, rather large for a cupid but willing to pinch-hit, is investigating all possibilities.

Sergeant Chevalier appealed as man who had left "a very lonely little girl back home." He said they would be "the happiest couple in all the world if we could get married, just so long as we could be Mr. and Mrs."

One possibility is that Chevalier and his bonnie over the ocean could be wed by proxy. Arrangements might be made for the soldier to listen in by radio while the bride and the groom by proxy were exchanging the vows.

Bombing Planes Reported Blasting At Vessels 30 Miles Out at Sea

London, Feb. 20 (CP). — Widespread German airplane attacks on shipping off Britain's east coast were reported today.

Wireless operators said they heard the SOS of at least one vessel.

A lifeboat was put out on receipt of word that bombing planes were blasting at ships about 30 miles out to sea.

Attacks on ships were reported off the coasts of Northumberland, Lincoln and Suffolk.

Machine-gun fire was heard in Essex and residents of that section scurried to shelter as an air raid warning sounded. The all clear signal was given 50 minutes later.

FRENCH SOLDIERS LOST THEIR WAY

Were Not Ambushed but Lost Direction in Maze of Entanglements

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP).—Two truckloads of French soldiers who lost their way in the maze of frontier entanglements and crossed the German lines suffered at least twenty deaths from German grenade throwers, military sources reported today in detailing the action disclosed by yesterday's French communique.

The losses, heaviest since mid-October, at first were attributed to a German ambush, but later an error was blamed.

The French were en route to relieve men in advanced positions when by some misdirection they approached a German outpost and were showered with grenades. There was no engagement except when the French tried to defend themselves and fell back.

Military sources said today latest activity on the western front was the repulse by machine-gunners of two German raids on French outposts west of the Saar and in the Nied River sector.

Naval sources said several German submarines had been attacked by allied warships, but results were not yet determined.

British Fliers Ready for Action At Moment's Notice

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

With the Royal Air Force in France, Feb. 20 (AP)—With the approach of Spring, British fliers are ready to take full wing at a moment's notice—perhaps in a new theatre of action.

For six months, the fighter, bomber and scouting squadrons have been doing regular patrol work over the western front. They report they have lost only one or two fighters and a few reconnaissance ships in that time while bringing down 24 German craft of all types.

The severe Winter with temperatures down to nine below zero, and snows up to two feet in depth, restricted activity on the continent, particularly after January and February snowfalls.

During the lull, Air Marshal A. S. Barratt took over the post of commander of all British flying forces in France. Now the fliers are looking for action, and say it would find them better prepared than at any time since the war began in September.

The non-flying time has been put to use in re-equipping squadrons, consolidating bases and improving airports. New planes have been brought in and old ones assigned to other missions.

KING ZOG TURNS TO FARMING

Versailles France, Feb. 20 (AP)—King Zog, exiled Albanian monarch, may move from the luxurious Chateau de la Maye to a castle at Mery-Sur Oise, where he can resume his hobby of farming. The King and Queen Geraldine were reported to have signed a several months' lease for the castle of the Countess de Segur.

THIEVES STOLE CARBURETOR

Richmond, Ind., Feb. 20 (AP). — Madonna Lamb couldn't start her car, so she called a garageman. He looked under the hood and said: "You don't need me. You need the police. Your carburetor has been stolen."

RUSSIAN PRESS DENIES DESIGNS

Pravda Takes Sharp Issue With Nazi Paper on Norwegian Situation

Moscow, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Soviet press denied indignantly today a German press charge that Russia has territorial designs on Norway.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda took sharp issue with the German paper Nachtausgabe which Pravda said alleged the Soviet Union was planning to establish herself on the north Atlantic at Norway's expense.

Pravda expressed doubt that the Nazi editors believed "these ravings, knowing from experience in Soviet-German relations that the U.S.S.R. is a stranger to the policies of usurpation.

Tass Attacks Altmark Incident.

"The editors obviously were not guided by a desire to promote a further strengthening of friendly relations between Germany and the U. S. S. R. which have been developing so successfully," said Pravda professing inability to explain appearance of the Nachtausgabe article.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, interpreted the Altmark incident as "the grossest violation of Norwegian neutrality by England, seeking to create alarm in Norway and to demonstrate British strength in order to force Oslo to yield to allied demands that Norway immediately enter the war on the side of the White Finns."

Norway Reminded Nazis Continually Violate Her Neutral Waters

London, Feb. 20 —(CP)— The Daily Herald, discussing the action of the Royal Navy in rescuing British seamen from the Nazi prison ship, Altmark, reminded Norway today that "Germany has been continually and flagrantly violating your territorial waters."

In an editorial in the form of a letter, the newspaper asked Norway how she could fail to remember that Germany "has killed your seamen and sunk your ships and the ships of other neutrals."

"German submarines hug your coastline on their way in and out to attack British ships," said the paper. "Though we know this well, British ships have been scrupulously observing International law.

"Do you realize that German merchant ships are loading iron ore at your northern port of Narvig and conveying it down your coast line to Germany? Without this iron ore, which in winter she can get in no other way, Germany almost certainly could not carry on the war. Yet Great Britain, with her overwhelmingly powerful naval forces, out of respect for International law, is allowing this traffic to go on.

"The argument therefore, that Great Britain is careless of International law and the rights of small countries does not ring true."

TO HEAR CHARGES AGAINST POLICE CHIEF

Port Hope, Ont., Feb. 20 — Town Council sheived a resolution last night to dismiss Police Chief Murphy and adopted a resolution calling for a special meeting to hear charges of alleged laxity in performance of duties against the officer.

The resolution was put to council when Deputy Reeve W. J Crowburst reported he had been unable to obtain the chief's co-operation in enforcing the snow-shovelling bylaw.

WEEK'S SESSION OF TURKEY'S WAR COUNCIL OPENS

Task Will be to Co-ordinate Turkish Forces With Those of Britain and France

READY FOR WAR

Ankara, Turkey, Feb. 20 (AP) — Turkey's Supreme War Council convened today for a week's session expected to be devoted largely to plans for co-ordinating Turkey's armed forces with the armies which Great Britain and France are concentrating in the Near East.

The two western Allies, joined with Turkey in a mutual aid accord, are authoritatively reported to have assembled a strong force in Syria, Palestine, Egypt and other near eastern areas.

For the past month, competent sources disclosed, the Turkish army has been in a state of gradual mobilization. Three hundred thousand men were said to be arrayed along the Russian frontier, three times the normal border garrison.

Under Defence Powers

The Turkish government has been operating under special National defence powers voted it by the National Assembly Jan. 17. On Jan. 27 the cabinet issued the first of a series of decrees invoking powers of this National Defence Act and since then further decrees have put the nation virtually on a war footing.

The Supreme War Council meeting finds Turkey ready for war should it come. The national economy has been gradually mobilized and martial law has been applied in the frontier districts.

Informed quarters disclosed that President Ismet Inonu and the General Staff soon will inspect the Greek and Bulgarian frontiers. The Russian border already has been inspected.

The French and British military missions charged with co-ordination of the British-French-Turkish forces will take part in the Supreme War Council meetings, it was reported.

The council's emergency meeting came as the Turkish press declared the whole world must aid Finland, who was said to be "battling for civilization against the red barbarians."

Ankara military sources reported that hundreds of thousands of troops, including the Czecho-Slovak legion now training in France, would be added to the French and British Near East garrisons.

The Allies, they added, were massing a proportionately strong air force in Egypt, Palestine and Syria. The aerial arm, it was indicated, would be coordinated under Air Marshal Sir William Gore Mitchell, Commander in Chief of the Royal Air Force in the Near East.

"HAIR'S BREADTH" SAYS MAGISTRATE

Leamington, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP).—Antonio Cervine, 46, escaped conviction by a "hair's breadth", Magistrate W. A. Smith told him in court today when the farmer appeared on a charge of carrying a gun while being an alien.

But Cervine was able to show that his naturalization papers had arrived a couple of hours before his arrest and as a Canadian he was entitled to carry a gun under provision of his hunting licence.

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN DUKE'S BEDROOM

Bagshot, Surrey, England, Feb. 20 (CP Cable)—A small fire broke out in the Duke of Connaught's bedroom in his home here last night. There was little damage and the Duke, who was resting downstairs at the time, suffered no ill effects.

Norway's Officials Failed to Act, Premier Declares

'Norwegian Authorities Displayed Complete Indifference as to Use Which Might be Made of Territorial Waters by German Fleet,' Mr. Chamberlain Asserts in Parliament

M. P.'S CHEER NAVY

Norwegian Authorities Failed Three or Four Times to Carry Out Proper Investigation of German Altmark, House is Told

London, Feb. 20—(CP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain congratulated the Royal Navy in the House of Commons today on its rescue of 299 British prisoners from the German ship Altmark and declared "the Norwegian authorities have displayed complete indifference as to the use which might be made of their territorial waters by the German Fleet."

He termed the statement of Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht that the Norwegian authorities did not know British prisoners were aboard the Altmark "most surprising", since reports to that effect were published weeks ago.

Says Norway Failed

Not once but three or four times Mr. Chamberlain said, Norway failed to carry out a proper investigation of the Altmark.

It was not until after Norway failed to investigate, he went on "that His Majesty's ships took action."

"It is claimed that if they had not done so, the ship would have been allowed to complete her voyage without let or hindrance and without inquiry into the circumstances."

The Norwegian view appeared to be that the Altmark was a warship and that no request to search her could be made, Mr. Chamberlain continued.

According to Koht, he said, Norway saw no objection to a German warship using her territorial waters to convey British prisoners to a German prison camp.

This, Mr. Chamberlain added, in the British Government's view would legalize the abuse by German warships of neutral waters and "create a position His Majesty's Government could in no circumstances accept"

House Cheers Chamberlain

The House cheered as Mr. Chamberlain said that even if Norway's "indifference was due to German pressure it is nevertheless in the view of His Majesty's Government inconsistent with the active and impartial exercise of the duty of a neutral toward ourselves as belligerents."

"This admirably-conducted operation resulted in the rescue of 299 officers and men belonging to a number of British merchant vessels sunk by the German armored ship Graf Spee," the Prime Minister told a cheering House.

"His Majesty's Government are at present awaiting full reports from the naval officers concerned in this very gallant affair, but I am sure the House will join with the government in the satisfaction they feel at the release and that members will want to congratulate the Royal Navy most heartily on this notable addition to its annals."

Mr. Chamberlain said "It now appears the Norwegian authorities made no examination of the Altmark at all."

"Apart from the original protest handed to the Foreign Secretary on Saturday we have received no

Five Relatives of Mrs. F. Shortts Reported Killed in Action Recently

Full force of the terrific cost of war has struck home in one Belleville family at least.

Yesterday Mrs. Florence Shortts, 13 Starling Street, received a transatlantic telephone call from her mother, Mrs. Lottie McWatson, 36 Lavendar Street, Sunbry Common, Middlesex, England, informing her that two uncles and three cousins had been killed in action within the last few days, while serving with the Royal Air Force and the Royal Navy.

The uncles who have paid the supreme sacrifice are Jack and Leo McWatson, and the cousins, Phillips, Samuel and Eugene McWatson. Mrs. Shortts did not know what particular units her relatives belong to, but her mother told her two were with the R.A.F. and three with the navy.

SHIPPING LOSSES LAST WEEK REACH HIGHEST LEVEL

6 SUBS ATTACKED

London Feb. 20. —(CP)—British authorities said today that last week's British and Neutral shipping losses were the heaviest of the war, but said that four German submarines "were definitely sunk" and two others were believed destroyed by the Royal Navy or Air Force.

The successful attacks on the six U-boats were said to have occurred within a space of six days last week which naval sources said was marked by the return of the torpedo to first place as a weapon of destruction.

The Admiralty listed five British and 15 neutral ships as lost during the week ending Sunday with a total of 86,077 tons, surpassing the previous high mark of 78,193 tons set in the second week of the war.

Mines had taken the greatest toll for some time, it was said.

Ornamental Railing Falls and Kills Girl

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP)—When an ornamental iron railing slipped 50 feet from the roof of her home which she was entering, Mary Elizabeth (Betty) Duke, aged 16, received injuries which resulted in her death in Guelph General Hospital early today.

A piece of the cast iron railing struck the girl's skull and penetrated to the roof of her mouth. She died about two hours later.

Miss Duke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duke, had been skating and was returning to her home shortly after 11 o'clock. She left a group of friends to enter her home and as she approached the doorway a section of about 10 feet of the railing became loosened and dropped, striking her on the head and throwing her to the pavement. One small piece of cast iron, about four inches in length penetrated the girl's skull.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM ARCHER
(Formerly of Marmora)

Marmora, (Special)—The funeral of the late Mrs. William Archer was held on Sunday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Brady, McGill Street, to St. Paul's Anglican Church and was largley attended. Services were conducted by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell.

The deceased who was in her 58th year was born in England and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Capell, Toronto. She passed away suddenly at her home, 394 Clendennan Avenue, Toronto, on Thursday morning. After her marriage the late Mrs. Archer resided in Marmora, where she made many friends. Thirteen years ago she removed to Toronto where she since resided.

Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by four daughters and four sons, namely, Mrs. F. Franklin, St. George, Ont.; Mrs. Eugene Brady, Marmora; Mrs. J. O. Benor, Campbellford; Mrs. Hugh Brady, Marmora; Percy, William Jr., and Douglas, Toronto; and Ernest, Campbellford. She is also survived by three sisters and two brothers, Mrs. J. Dawson, Niagara on the Lake; Mrs. D. McKeever, Toronto; Mrs. R. Smith, Thistletown; Mr. George Capell and Mr. Joseph Capell, Toronto.

The pallbearers were her four sons, Percy, Ernest, William and Douglas and two brothers, George and Joseph Capell.

Interment was made in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Over $900 Collected By Legion Canvassers

With only six days of actual campaigning behind them, members of the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada in Belleville, local sponsors of the Canadian Legion War Auxiliary drive for war-service funds, and the committees of prominent business and professional men who are supporting the movement, reported today that over nine hundred dollars or nearly one-half of the two-thousand dollar quota is in the hands of the campaign treasurer. This figure does not include amounts that have been collected and not as yet turned into the fund coffers.

A considerable part of the city is yet to be canvassed as well as sections of the business and industrial centres. The response of the citizens generally is maintaining the same levels that characterized the earlier days of the drive, officials say, and each succeeding day sees hope that the campaign will go over the top, growing in proportion.

A meeting of the canvassers will be held in the Army and Navy Clubrooms tonight where further plans for the successful culmination of the campaign, and other important matters pertaining to the drive will be discussed.

GIRL PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE OF MASQUERADING

Says She Acted as a Man so She Could a Job More Easily

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP). — Frances Stevenson appeared before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge in court Monday and told exactly the same story that she had related to police when she was detained on Saturday while masquerading as a man. The dark-eyed girl entered a plea of not guilty to a charge reading that she did without lawful excuse, disguise herself by night. Magistrate Burbidge dismissed this charge with the comment that though the girl disguised herself, there was no evidence that she had any criminal intent in so doing. Frances pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge and was told that she would be remanded until Tuesday morning for sentence.

Still dressed in her neat masculine attire, Frances explained to Magistrate that she acted as a man so she "could get a job more easily. The pay is better too," she added. "and when travelling on the road it is so much safer."

"Her features and her deep voice certainly make her look the part," observed the magistrate.

Man Caused Her Arrest.

The man who was the unwitting cause of the girl's arrest, William Ballingall, 21, was convicted on an assault charge and a charge of wilful damage. He was fined $10 in all.

The accused told the coure that he was sitting with some friends when Frances came into the restaurant and sat down at a nearby table.

"I noticed that she was dressed as a boy, but I felt that she was in reality a girl. She went into the men's restroom and I followed and accosted her.

"Another man came in and an argument arose and the police were called. In the trouble, a glass was broken and a window and screen in the restroom. I left with the young girl and we were picked up by the police. I did not know for sure if she was a girl or not at that time. I did not do any damage with intent."

Ballingall and the girl were caught on the street by Sergeants George Sharpe and Gordon McNair, whose suspicions were aroused when they saw a tall man, leading what they thought was a young boy.

MAYOR THOMPSON ANSWERS LETTER IN THE COUNCIL

Fire Department Discussed With Many of the Members Taking Part

OTHER BUSINESS

By-Law Passed to Register and Licence All Bicycles at 25 Cents Each

A letter to the Editor of The Ontario Intelligencer signed by ex-Ald. Laurie Lewis, Chairman of Fire in the Council of last year, respecting the Fire Department caused a mild discussion at the regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber on Monday night and was terminated after Ald. Eddie Logan announced, that he was satisfied with the explanation and the discussion on the question brought before the council. The meeting otherwise was quite quiet and the business transacted in short order. A by-law dealing with the licencing of bicycles in the city was mildly opposed by Aldermen Rollins, Pringle and Armstrong but was passed through the various stages and will become law as soon as the licence plates have been received. Every bicycle will be subject to registration at a nominal fee of 25 cents.

Opened With Question

Ald. Logan opened the discussion on the fire question, when he placed the letter on his desk and read certain extracts from it and asked the question "was the Chief's opinion asked about the return of Fireman Carter to the department?" At this point Mayor Thompson, who is a member of the Fire Committee, stated "there was a letter printed in The Ontario Intelligencer on Thursday last over the signature of Ex-Ald. Laurie Lewis concerning which I desire to comment briefly," said Mayor Thompson. "I do not intend to permit discussion in regard to the Fire Department to assume the proportions that it did last year, when feeling was created among members of the council which seriously interfered with the harmonious functioning of council. At this time I only want to correct one or two false impressions created by Mr. Lewis' letter."

"Mr. Carter was re-appointed by the Fire Committee with the consent and the approval of the Fire Chief. The Chief's opinion concerning the reappointment was asked by the Fire Committee and when his opinion was of a favourable nature, the Fire Committee made the reappointment. The Fire Committee then at the first following council meeting, reported the reappointment to council, after being assured of the Chief's approval, confirmed the reappointment."

Building Inspected

"With reference to Mr. Lewis' comments concerning the consolidation of the Fire Department at Number 2 hall, I would like to say that the building has been inspected by the City Engineer and his assurance has been received that the building is in a safe condition. The approval of the Canadian Underwriters Association has been obtained in the consolidation. The benefits will include a substantial saving in up-keep as only one hall will hereafter have to be maintained. The unification of the firemen under one roof will enable the Chief to maintain a more efficient control over the discipline and will permit training and drill, which have not been possible, when the men were divided between the two halls. I have no hesitation in recommending this move to the citizens as one calculated to improve the efficiency of the department and reduce the cost of maintenance."

Ald. Logan: "I think we should have enough confidence in the Chief."

Mayor Thompson: "The people on the street are not taking the statements of ex-Ald. Lewis any too seriously because 90 per cent of them are far from the facts."

Ald. Armstrong: "What does the Fire Committee propose to do with Number one hall?"

Ald. Kennedy: "Put it in the hands of the Special Property Committee to do with as they see fit with the consent of the council."

Ald. Rollins: "Before they sell or rent it I think the council should have some say in the matter."

Some Delay in Change

Mayor Thompson: "There has been a little delay in making the amalgamation but the two departments will be merged in a day or two just as soon as the bells are changed over."

Ald. Butler: "I have heard on the street that the Number two hall is not safe for the increased habitation proposed."

Mayor Thompson: "We have had the City Engineer and a member of the Fire Marshal's department look over the building and they have found it safe."

Ald. Kennedy: "The Fire Marshal did speak about the place where we intend to house the hook and ladder wagon because he thought it unsafe but the City Engineer assured him that a steel beam would be put across the floor and he was satisfied."

Mayor Thompson: "These little digs come up all the time and I think that Mr. Lewis appears to be a good friend to the Fire Chief but I believe he is doing him more harm than good."

Ald. Pringle: "Is it true, Ald. Kennedy, that on a recent run of the Fire Department one of the machines stopped and that it was due to faulty spark plugs."

Ald. Kennedy: "That is right as the spark plugs have never been changed since the machine was purchased six years ago."

Ald. Pringle: "How far has the machine travelled in that time?"

Ald. Kennedy: "About 8,000 miles."

Ald. Pringle: "Is there any periodical inspection made of these machines so that when they are needed they will be in A1 mechanical condition?"

Ald. Kennedy: "Just the other day the hose wagon was going to a fire on Grier Street and it stopped due to a broken wire on the distributor and when another wire leading to the same place, was touched, it broke."

Suggested Probe

Ald. Pringle: "Would you be in favor of the council in committee or someone from outside making a thorough investigation of the Fire Department to find out if the personnel is qualified?"

Ald. Kennedy: "Yes I think that should be done and I would like to see Fire Chief Armstrong of Kingston come up here and inspect this department. He would put it in shape."

Ald. Armstrong: "According to the Fire Marshal's report they credit Belleville with having a pretty good department and the Chief somewhat better than the average. I think we are criticizing something, that we don't know anything about."

Ald. Graham: "I think Ald. Kennedy made a statement about having an outsider come in that was not fair and I think the statement should be withdrawn."

Mayor Thompson: "We had a very inefficient Chairman of Fire last year."

Statement Withdrawn

Ald. Kennedy: "I will withdraw the statement."

Ald. Logan: "I think I have heard all I want to hear on the question and I think we should move to other business."

Under the head of enquiries Ald. Allin inquired of the Chairman of Public Words if there was to be cutting of channels in the Moira River this year to assist in preventing a flood?"

Ald. Rollins: "The river was prepared today and the ice cutters are going to start immediately in cutting the channels."

Ald. Harvey asked if the band had been notified to vacate the building in number two Fire Hall and Mayor Thompson told the Alderman, that the notice had not been given but that he had informed the Band Leader, the band could use the number one hall for the time being."

Ald. Harvey: "I understand the band does not want to go down there temporarily."

Mayor Thompson: "I don't know what more to do."

Spoke For By-Law

In the reading of the by-law to licence all bicycles in the city, Alderman Butler, who spoke for the by-law told the council that the revenue would not be large but that it would assist juveniles and others in ascertaining the rights of others on the Highway and it would assist the police in recovering stolen bikes and keep a better check on them."

Ald. Rollins: "I think it is going to be a hardship on some youngster to dig up the 25 cents for the licence and some time when the children have not their registration card with them and the police asks them to produce it, it will mean a court action and they may be fined and started on a life of crime."

Ald. Butler: "I think Ald. Rollins is taking too serious a view of the matter. That is not the object of the by-law at all. It is to protect the juvenile with a bicycle from being stolen and give the police more information regarding bicycles in the city. Belleville is the only city between Windsor and Montreal, that does not licence bicycles and the by-law is drafted off the by-law now in force in Trenton." The by-law was eventually passed.

Recommendations Passed

A recommendation was passed that the Property Committee supervise 1, the renting of all city property in control of the Corporation by Tax Sale making only the necessary repairs so the properties can be rented, 2, Collection of current rents, 3, Collection of rents in arrears and also any properties covered by item 1 which in their opinion should be demolished as being unfit for habitation."

Ald. Butler reported to the council for the committee appointed for the purpose of investigating the vacant portion of the Market Weigh House stating "that the Committee with exception of Ald. Rollins met with Mr. Arnott and discussed the matter of his willingness to look after Market Weigh Scales house in the event, that it be utilized as a rest room for market by the city and the committee recommended that the property be dealt with by the Comptroller under supervision of the Chairman of Market and City Property during prevailing severe weather."

Ald. Allin moved a motion, that was accepted that a committee of Aldermen Rollins, Allin and the City Engineer to confer with the C.N.R. with a view of having the overhead bridge on North Front Street widened so that it would not be so dangerous to traffic.

A report from the Unemployment Relief Branch was read and referred back to persons having power to deal with the matter. The report was as follows:

Under this arrangement the Federal authorities and this Province agreed to a contribution of 40 per cent of certain monthly relief disbursements, subject to the terms of our memorandum to you of February 7th, 1939.

This Province is abiding by the same regulations until March 31st next, and accordingly your municipal share of admittable items will be 20 per cent for the months of January, February and March, 1940.

For the period commencing April 1st next a new agreement must necessarily be made by the Province with the Federal authorities. However, the Federal Government has indicated its intention of continuing the present basis of contribution during the period April to December 1940, subject to the necessary authorization of Parliament.

The Federal authorities have indicated further that it may be necessary to fix a maximum grant for Ontario in which event the Province will in turn be obliged to fix maximum allowances or quotas for its municipalities.

Moreover, this Province reserves the right to establish monthly quotas for relief expenditures for any municipality in accord with local employment conditions or administrative practice during the entire year 1940.

It is essential that the Province receive an estimate of your gross expenditures, by months, for the current year 1940, at the earliest possible date.

Please address all enquiries with reference to the above and forward all estimates to E. A. Horton, Director of Unemployment Relief, by February 15th next.

Police Blotter

Considerable property damage resulted from a motor accident, which happened on Dundas St. yesterday afternoon, when an automobile driven by Douglas Striker, Milford, was in collision with another motor car, being driven in the opposite direction by A. C. Dunlop, Toronto. Striker told Sergeant Arthur Harman, who investigated, that he was attempting to pass a parked truck while proceeding easterly when the left front fender of his car was in collision with Mr. Dunlop's west bound vehicle. Fender and headlight damage resulted to both vehicles.

No arrests were necessary in the city yesterday leaving the cell block at the police station available for the accommodation of nine transients, who slumbered in comfort and without interruption in the cells.

Canadian Troops May March Through London Streets

London, Feb. 20 (CP).—A march through the city of London by a contingent of the Canadian Active Service Force is being discussed, the Daily Telegraph said yesterday in a front page story.

"The United Wars Club is arranging to entertain Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander-in-chief, and hundreds of Canadian officers and men next month," the paper said, and the suggestion that the troops should march through the City arose from this plan.

Service Clubs Unite to Observe 35th Anniversary of Rotary

J. O. Herity Speaks on Life of Lincoln and His Works as they Affect the Present Generation

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Abraham Lincoln as one of the greatest figures in all history was presented by J. Owen Herity, District Governor of Rotary, to members of the service clubs of Belleville at a dinner meeting in the Quinte Hotel last evening. The occasion was the 35th anniversary of the founding of Rotary, and members of Kiwanis, Kinsmen and Y's Men joined with Rotarians in a memorable function.

Stressing the manner in which Lincoln had striven for education, with less than twelve months of academic instruction, and his emergence as a master of phrase and diction, Mr. Herity said that our own educational system appeared to have been more successful in developing a uniform mediocrity than in fostering talent and genius.

"Our educational system, with its assembly lines, has been turning out model T's," declared Mr. Herity "Children have not been encouraged to think their own thoughts, but I am glad to say that changes are now being effected in the present school system in which individuality is recognized. Through this means I am hopeful that many Abraham Lincolns will be discovered."

Striking Example

In opening his discourse Mr. Herity pointed to the growing feeling of warmth between the country of Abraham Lincoln and the Dominion of Canada. This friendliness was a striking example of international understanding and tolerance for the civilized nations of the world.

He told of a recent visit to the United States by way of the Ivy Lea Bridge over the Thousand Islands and finding there a newly-erected archway standing over the imaginary boundary line and bearing on both sides the inscription: "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men." He expressed the hope that while that boundary line was imaginary, it would always be there, with each country developing its own national ideals.

Down through history, said Mr. Herity, great movements had developed and inspired great leadership. Frequently these leaders were noble-minded patriots and liberty-loving deliverers. Citing several instances, Mr. Herity pointed to Finland.

"Today in that little country is being fought a contest that equals in heroism and sustained patriotism anything recorded in history," he declared.

Came Out of Obscurity

Abraham Lincoln had come up out of obscurity to preserve the United States from the scourge of slavery. From his passion for human freedom had come one of the three most profound utterances recorded in the progress of man, said the speaker. These were the 23rd Psalm; St. Paul's exhortation delivered from Mars Hills in Athens and Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Mr. Herity traced the course of human slavery in the history of the ancient and modern world. Slavery throughout the British Empire was not abolished until 1834.

"Even the records of the County of Hastings show that slaves were bought and sold in what then was the village of Myers Creek," the speaker pointed out.

Eighteen hundred years after St. Paul, Lincoln had delivered at Gettysburg in 1863, the message indicating the end of human slavery on this earth. In the penultimate sentence in ten words Lincoln had embodied the whole theory of democracy: "Government of the people, by the people, for the people."

Traced Lincoln's Life

Mr. Herity traced the humble origin of Lincoln and his rise to the position of ruler of a mighty nation in the most troubled period in its history. His life continues to exert a mighty influence throughout the civilized world.

P. C. MacLaurin, principal of the Collegiate Institute, most suitably voiced the appreciation of the service clubs for Mr. Herity's address.

An outline of the history of Rotary was given by O. A. Pinkston, Secretary of the Belleville Club.

One of the features of the joint service clubs' gathering was the efforts of impromptu quartets from each club. The four Charlies — Spalding, Cameron, McGuire and Dolan—led off on behalf of Rotary. The Y's men were represented by Norm Edwards, Jake Goodman, Don Ridley and Joe Shortt. The Kinsmen warblers were Gardner Duff, Don Thomas, "Boiler" Lloyd and "Jerry" Hurley. The Kiwanian harmonizers were Jack McIntosh, Harold Carruthers, Bruce Lattimer and George Griffin. Leo Riggs compensated for sour and off-key notes by his fine work at the piano.

Jack Deacon varied his work as master of musical ceremonies with much-appreciated solos, while Alec Gordon (temporarily deprived of one arm by attempting to ski on it) gave a one-hand piano solo.

Seated at the head table with President Howard Clark of Rotary, were Presidents Bill Anderson of Kiwanis, Jeff Marvel of the Kinsmen and Harold Vaughan of the Y's men.

EFFORT MADE TO END COAL STRIKE

Representatives of Two Parties Meet to Discuss All Phases

Toronto, Feb. 20—(CP)— Representatives of parties involved met today with officials of the Ontario Labor Department in an effort to end a two-day strike that has tied up delivery of coal in Toronto.

Announcement that four public schools and at least one large downtown office building were nearing the end of fuel supplies was made shortly before Labor Department officials met with representatives of the strike Coal Handlers and Truckers Union and the Toronto Fuel Dealers' Association.

Spokesmen for the fuel dealers conceded the situation was "quite serious" and said that practically all deliveries had been tied up by the strike, called yesterday in an effort to obtain a "closed shop" in all coal yards.

Union officials said instructions had been given against violence and said only one delivery truck had been upset. Deliveries, they said, were being made to military camps and to homes where illness was reported.

Later it was announced that by special request from the Board of Education, shipments of fuel would be permitted to be sent to public schools.

MILITARY COURT IS CONVENED

President and Three Officers Will Investigate Incident and Mete Out Punishment

Toronto, Feb. 20.—(CP)—A military Court of Inquiry has been convened to investigate damage done by soldiers to the Riviera Hotel, King Street East, last night.

The court, consisting of a President and three officers, will investigate the incident and mete out punishment, a statement issued by Brig. R. O. Alexander said.

No disciplinary action has been imposed on Exhibition Camp as a whole, and identity of the men concerned has not been established yet.

The court will comprise senior staff officers and possibly officers who will estimate damage done.

When responsibility for the damage is determined, those responsible probably will be assessed for the the amount out of their pay.

No announcement of the court's finding will be made until the investigation is completed and punishment delivered, the statement said.

Roads Being Cleared In Niagara Peninsula

Failure of an expected cold wave to set in relieved pressure somewhat but there was no let-up for the roads crews since the storm of wet, heavy snow settled down on the area late Sunday and early yesterday.

At Hamilton, where the city was in half-darkness through the 20-hour fall, three dead were counted among the stormhavoc. John C. Ford, 56-year-old Canadian National Railways employee, was hit and killed by a switching engine at the height of the blizzard. Two other men, Edward Weaver, 43, and P. Gorry, 65, dropped dead from over-exertion believed attributable to the storm.

Batteries of snowploughs worked ceaselessly around Hamilton and the Niagara Peninsula all day yesterday and late at night highway officials reported that all main arteries in the areas had been opened. Some county roads, however, were too heavy for travel but it was believed that continued mild weather would put these in fair shape.

In London area all provincial roads were reported open but snow crews were kept on a 24-hour basis.

Brantford police reported that all main arteries from the area were open but said that another snowfall might cause a serious tie-up.

Caledonia area was gradually digging itself out last night and no traffic trouble was reported on main highways but county roads were also in poor shape in this region.

The storm was limited to southwestern Ontario. Toronto and Guelph areas experienced high temperatures but only a minimum of snow and some rain while northern Ontario basked in clear, fine weather.

TWO STOVES NEEDED FOR NEEDY FAMILIES

The local relief department would greatly appreciate the gift of two stoves to fill an urgent need. If anyone could donate such articles, for needy families in the city, call 69 and they will be called for.

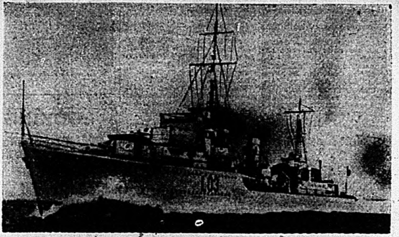
SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL

Port Hope, Ont., Feb. 20—(CP)—B. Miller, Trenton, was admitted to hospital here early today suffering from a fractured skull and other head injuries in an accident at the Canadian National Railways station. Miller had placed an express truck on the loading platform and it is believed a train hit the truck which in turn struck Miller.

GAUNT SURVIVORS OF "HELL SHIP" CHEER AS THEY ARE LANDEDIN SCOTLAND

This is a view of the entrance to Gjessing Fjord on the Norwegian coast where the British destroyer Cossack invaded Norwegian waters and forced the Nazi slave ship, Altmark, aground to rescue 326 captive British seamen. The British seamen were placed aboard the Altmark when the scuttled German raider Graf Spee sank their vessels.

Drawn of face and describing their captivity aboard the Altmark as "hell," 326 British seamen who were rescued by the British destroyer Cossack are shown here, CENTRE and RIGHT, cheering as they were landed at Leith, Scotland. Many of the rescued seamen had to be transported from the dock in ambulances and said that they had nothing to eat for several weeks except black bread and watery soup.



H. M. S. COSSACK

H. M. S. INTREPID

Invading Norwegian coastal waters, under orders from the British Admiralty, the destroyers Cossack and Intrepid took part in the naval action which resulted in the freeing of British seamen prisoners from the German "Hell Ship" Altmark. Orders were given the British warships to enter Norwegian waters and capture the Altmark only after it was determined that the Altmark had sailed from Bergen with false clearance papers. Norwegian authorities are reported to have claimed that the Altmark had been searched at Bergen and that she was unarmed and carried no British prisoners.

Text of Mr. Chamberlain's Speech

London, Feb. 20 (CP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the House of Commons today on the Altmark incident follows:

This admiralty-conducted operation resulted, as the honorable members are by now well aware, in the rescue of 299 officers and men belonging to a number of British merchant vessels sunk by the German armored ship Graf Spee. These prisoners had been closely confined on the German naval supply ship Altmark for periods up to more than three months.

His Majesty's government are at present awaiting full reports from the naval officers concerned in this very gallant affair, but am sure the House will join His Majesty's Government in the satisfaction they feel at the release of the officers and crew of the vessels sunk by the German raider after their long ordeal, and the honorable members will desire also to congratulate the Royal Navy most heartily upon this notable addition to its annals.

Only Original Protests Received.

Apart from the original protests, we have received no official communication from the Norwegian government, but in view of the full statement made by the Norwegian foreign minister in the Storting last night, I have a desire to make certain comments upon it at once.

I feel bound to say that this account makes the action, or rather the inaction of the Norwegian government, even more difficult to understand than I had previously supposed. He had imagined that the Norwegian authorities had conducted some examination of the Altmark and our complaint was that this examination had been so perfunctory that it did not reveal the presence of British prisoners aboard.

Ship Not Examined.

It now appears, however, that the Norwegian authorities conducted no examination of the ship at all. According to Professor Koht's statement, the Altmark was stopped a little south of Trondhjem Fjord by the Norwegian torpedo boat Wode. The commander made a request to inspect the ship.

It appears that, according to the Norwegian view, as the Altmark was regarded as a warship and carried the German state flag, the Norwegian officer could not make a request to search the ship.

He examined the papers, which were found in order, and apparently on this allowed her to proceed.

Use of Wireless By Altmark.

It appears, however, that the chief naval commander in Bergen was not "satisfied", and on Feb. 15 the Altmark, when about 100 miles from Bergen, was stopped by a Norwegian guard ship demanding to inspect the ship. The Altmark captain refused to submit to inspection and the request was dropped.

Even the fact that Norwegian authorities discovered that the Altmark had used her wireless in Norwegian territorial waters in violation of Norwegian regulations did not lead the Norwegian authorities to take any action beyond making a complaint and accepting an apology based on the statement that the captain of the Altmark was not acquainted with the Norwegian prohibition.

I have taken all the above from Professor Koht's statement. However, before his Majesty's ships took any action against the Altmark, the commanding officer, acting on the instructions of his Majesty's government, proposed to the Norwegian naval officer on the spot that the Altmark sohuld be taken to Bergen under joint British and Norwegian guard in order that the matter might be properly investigated there by the Norwegian authorities.

This offer was refused. The British commanding officer invited the Norwegian officer to accompany the British boarding party on board the Altmark but he declined to do so. It will be seen, therefore, that on not one occasion, but on three or four, the Norwegian authorities failed to carry out a proper investigation of the case.

Surprising Statement

It was not until after these refusals that His Majesty's ships took action again the Altmark and it is plain that if they had not done so the ship would have been allowed to complete her voyage to Germany without let or hindrance and without any inquiry into the circumstances.

I observe also that Professor Koht stated that the Norwegian authorities did not know that British prisoners were on board the Altmark. Considering that this fact was prominently reported weeks ago in the Press of the world, I cannot but regard this as a most surprising statement.

I find it difficult in these circumstances to resist the conclusion that the Norwegian authorities displayed complete indifference as to the use which might be made of their territorial waters by the German fleet.

"Inconsistent" Says Premier

Even if such indifference was due to German pressure, it is nevertheless, in view of His Majesty's government, inconsistent with the active and impartial exercise of the duty of a neutral towards ourselves as a belligerent.

According to the views expressed by Professor Koht the Norwegian government see no objection to the use of Norwegian territorial waters for hundreds of miles by a German warship for the purpose of escaping capture on the high seas and conveying British prisoners to a German prison camp.

Such a doctrine is at variance with international law as His Majesty's government understand it. It would, in their view, legalize the abuse of German warships of neutral waters and create a position which His Majesty's government could in no circumstances allow.

Starvation Thought Cause of Birds' Deaths

Casualties in a losing fight waged against the wintry elements, and starvation, the frozen bodies of six small birds were discovered today lying in the roadway leading into Victoria Park.

The small bodies were emaciated indicating that the little birds were victims of hunger. Their bodies were rigid in unnatural positions, and were found on the frozen snow beneath a tree close to the harbor.

Heavy snows and the sub-zero temperatures of a few weeks ago, depleted natural food supplies for the little feathered fellows, and it is believed they succumbed to starva-deaths.

One of nature's inevitable tragedies, repetition can be prevented to a certain extent, a bird-lover pointed out this morning, if citizens would throw the daily accumulation of table crumbs to the birds who are noted daily outside houses in nearly all parts of the city. A handful of crumbs might prevent the death of these birds which through no fault of their own, are victims of a severe winter.

London Paper Wants More Stories of Navy, Air Force Exploits

London, Feb. 20 —(CP)— The Daily Express today again protested against the Government's censorship and appealed for more news about the exploits of British sailors and fliers.

"Day after day our navy and air force are performing feats of fortitude and sacrifice," the newspaper said. "If these stories could be told all the nations of the world would warm to the valor of our young men. The stories are not published and the heroes are not mentioned.

"The hands of the service Departments in London even grasp out and gag the Dominion newspapers.

"What is the result of censorship? When the supply of news fails, people invent their own. They look for substitutes. Ration butter and the people spread margarine on their bread. Ration news and people spread rumors.

"What is the solution? Give back to newspaper editors the right to decide what they print and what they leave out."

BOMBERS CAPABLE OF 465 M.P.H. BEING BUILT BY FRANCE

London, Feb. 20 (AP).—The Daily Express aviation correspondent wrote today that bombers capable of long-range flights at 465 miles an hour and fighter planes capable of 406 miles an hour are being turned out in quantity by the French government airplane plant at Villacoublay, near Paris.

The output, he said, is immensely greater than it was on the outbreak of the war.

"American warplanes," he continued, "account for only a small proportion of France's front line air strength, according to the official figures I have seen."

MAYORS PROTEST WITHDRAWAL OF PART OF SUBSIDY

Chief Protest Led by Mayor Brunette of Timmins at Toronto Meeting

Toronto, Feb. 20 (CP)—All northern Ontario is up in arms against Premier Hepburn's withdrawal of the half a mill of the previous 1 1-2 mill municipal subsidy, Mayor G. A. Brunette of Timmins told the Ontario Mayors' Association here today. From cities all over Ontario Mayors have gathered to protest Premier Hepburn's treatment of the municipalities in his budget last week.

"To Timmins it means the loss of three-quarters of a mill," said Mayor Brunette. "This is because we are a mining town. Mining towns are going to suffer more than southern cities.

"The tax levy at Timmins was $645,000 in 1939, and is to be $670,000 in 1940, on account of debentures falling due. For this reason the loss of one-half mill is doubly important," he said.

Mayor John P. McCrimmon, of Paris, Ont., said the taxpayers are angrily protesting a "breach of faith."

It was indicated that the result of the meeting today may be a protest delegation to Queen's Park.

Have to go Carefully

The meeting was called by Mayor Stanley Lewis, Ottawa, Secretary of the association. "We have to go carefully," he said, "for you catch flies better with honey than with vinegar."

Controller Nora Frances Henderson of Hamilton, representing Mayor William Morrison, said Hamilton felt Mr. Hepburn's action was "most unfair."

She recalled Premier Hepburn had promised the municipalities more than 1½ mills as soon as the actual gasoline tax income was determined.

"But now," she commented, "instead of boosting it, he takes a lot of it away. Six Hamilton cartage companies and the street railway's buses alone pay $32,000 taxes annually, yet apparently we're going to get nothing.

"One mill of the 1½ mills was to compensate us when the province took over the income tax, and we know we're not getting nearly as much as we're entitled to. The income tax income has increased, too, though the government won't tell us how much they're collecting.

Among others present were Ald. J. A. Allen, representing the mayor of North Bay.

After the two-hour private session, 40 members of the Ontario Mayors' Association drew up the resolution of protest against the cutting off of the half mill subsidy. Contents of the resolution were not disclosed but it will be presented to Premier Hepburn at Queen's Park today. The Association will join with the Toronto Board of Control in the conference with the Prime Minister.

Snow Dwindling Under Warm Sun

Basking in the pleasant rays of a strong February sun that is radiating the promise of warmer weather soon to come local street-corner weather prognosticators are pointing with unerring accuracy to all signs which make for an early Spring. Robins were seen in the city yesterday, they say, and water is running in all directions today, so Old Man Winter is licked — maybe!

The Moira River, however, took on an entirely different appearance today from the snow-covered aspect which has presented itself for the past three months, as melted snow from the slopes in the city appeared in puddles on the surface of the ice. In places, especially below the lower bridges, water to a depth of two or three inches was noticed on the ice, but there is no indication of any sudden rise of the water level.

Foresters Hold Annual Pie Night

Last evening Court Moira No. 33 of the Independent Order of Foresters held their annual pie night in the lodge room on Front Street.

Mr. Charles L. Walters, High Secretary of the Eastern Ontario jurisdiction, took the chair of Chief Ranger for the occasion. The usual business proceedings were carried out, consideration given to sickness and mortuary cases and discussion conducted as to the good and welfare of the organization.

As customary the officers provided the pie features in social entertainment. An abundant variety of such kinds as raspberry, lemon pumpkin and apple was supplied Cheese, tea, ice cream and after dinner treats also arranged for by the committee in charge, presided over by Companion Mrs. F. Miller added to the full enjoyment of the members present. A harmonious spirit prevailed despite accusations by some that certain ones of the fraternity were "pie-faced", in grateful appreciation of the affairs and acknowledged by a profused vote of thanks.

J. G. GALLOWAY HEADS HARDWARE ASSOCIATION

Fourth Belleville Hardware Man to be Honored as President of Association

The unanimous choice of eight hundred delegates to the Ontario Retail Hardware Association annual convention held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, last week, Mr. J. G. Galloway, president of the Walker Hardware Limited, was elected to the presidency of the organization for 1940. No other names were submitted for nonimation after Mr. Galloway had been presented for the office.

A member of the association for a number of years, Mr. Galloway did not take any active part in the administration of its affairs until three years ago, when he consented to act on the directorate. Tribute to his ability as an executive was paid him after acting in this capacity for two years, when his associates unanimously voted him vice-president at the 1939 convention.

Culmination of three years of valuable and efficient administration in the affairs of the association came last week, when Mr. Galloway was the recipient of the highest office the association can bestow.

Not only was tribute paid to Mr. Galloway personally in his election to the presidency of the association, but indirect tribute was paid to Belleville hardware men as a whole. For Mr. Galloway is the fourth representative of this city to hold the presidency of the Ontario Retail Hardware Association since its inception in 1906. Other residents to hold the office were Russell Chown, 1911; the late Fred Smith, 1923, and the late Charles Hanna, ex-M.P., 1929.

The convention recently concluded, Mr. Galloway said today was one of the most successful in the history of the association. As before mentioned, eight hundred delegates out of a total membership of 1,200 were in attendance, while the daily evening attendance to the fine display held in the hotel averaged 1,500 for the three days of the convention.

Speakers included R. T. Kelley, Hamilton, Ralph W. Carney, Wichita, Kansas, who, incidentally flew from that city in order to attend, F. B. Dalgleish Toronto, R. G. Riddell, Toronto and many others.

The 1941 convention will be held in the Royal York Hotel next February.

WAR BRIEFS

Berlin Feb. 20—(AP) — The German high command communique today reported:

"Southeast of Busendorf, a German scouting detachment on French soil annihilated an enemy truck carrying about 20 soldiers. The air force carried out reconnaissance flights over the northern part of the North Sea."

London, Feb. 20 — (CP-Cable)— Capture of one of Germany's leading aces while attempting a reconnaissance flight over Scapa Flow in Scotland was reported by the Daily Herald today

The flier described as one of Field-Marshal Hermann Goering's closest collaborators but not named had been commissioned by the German air force chief to obtain a special panorama of the British naval base, according to The Herald.

The plane was brought down by British fighter planes and the aviator captured.

Paris, Feb. 20 — (CP-Havas) The newspaper L'Ordre said today that Premier Daladier may surrender the defence and foreign ministries in an early cabinet reorganization designed to coordinate wartime authority and that he would serve as "supreme arbiter of his ministers and the great animator of national defence."

Lille, France, Feb. 20.—(AP) A military court has sentenced to death Karl Szebereny, 27-old native of Germany, tried secretly for espionage, it was announced today.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Feb. 20 (CP-Havas)—A German pocket-battleship is in the South Atlantic ready to prey on Allied shipping the newspaper El Pubelo said today.

The newspaper suggested the ship must be either the Admiral Scheer or the Deutschland.

"We can tell no more than what we have revealed," El Pueblo declared "A German pocket-battleship is in our latitudes."

New York, Feb. 20—(AP)—The report of an anonymous Tipster that the British liner Britannic was to be bombed resulted today in 18 police being sent to the 47th Street pier where the ship docked yesterday. No bomb was found but police planned to guard her until she departs.

Lisbon, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports of gunfire, off the Southern Portuguese coast, giving rise to a belief that a German raider had attacked an Allied convoy, were received here today. The explosions were heard last night.

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—The French government has decided against a mass removal of the civilian population from Paris even in case of bombings. The Minister of Refugees, Camille Chautemps, announcel today that removal only of children and mothers of young children is planned.

Factory workers must remain in the city, he added, adding that the capital's defences now can provide adequate protection.

London, Feb. 20 (CP)—The treasury announced today a decision to conceal war budget estimates because it is "not in public interest to disclose through estimates the nature and extent of the war effort."

"It is neither practicable nor desirable to present to parliament detailed estimates purporting to cover the whole cost" of army, navy, air, supply and other departments, the treasury statement said.

"Token" appropriations will be made for the general services.

London, Feb. 20 (CP)—The Rumanian legation today ordered all Rumanians of the military class of 1941—those who become 21 in that year—now in Great Britain, to register immediately with the military attache.

Tientsin, Feb. 20 (CP)—Fears grew today that food riots would break out in Tientsin because of a clash between military authorities and merchants over the price of flour.

The Japanese demanded that flour be pegged at 12.50 Tientsin dollars a bag; merchants have insisted that they be paid 19.50 dollars. Supplies, even at the higher price, are meagre.

London, Feb. 20 —(CP) Forty-two survivors from a British tanker cut in two by a torpedo were landed in a Scottish port Sunday.

The men navigated the stern half of the ship, the 8,022-ton Imperial Transport, for three days before being picked up by a tug. Two of the crew drowned.

Tokyo, Feb. 20 —(AP)— The French Ambassador, Charles Arsene Henry, protested today for the third time to Japan over repeated bombings of the French-operated Hanoi-Junming railway running from Indo-China into the Chinese southwest.

In a 40-minute interview with Vice Foreign Minister Masayuki Tani, the Ambassador was believed to have demanded that the Japanese pay for damage to the railroad.

Commercial Travellers Exempted in Bill

Toronto, Feb. 20 (CP)—Municipal Law Committee of the Ontario Legislature today decided to report to the legislature in favor of adoption of a bill to enable municipalities to make it an offense for a motorist to leave his car unlocked in a public place.

The bill, sponsored by Dr. A. S. Duncan (Lib. London), was amended to exempt commercial vehicles from its provisions.

Judge J. P. McKinley, Chairman of the Ontario Parole Board, spoke in favor of the bill. Of 841 inmates in the Guelph Reformatory, 22.3 per cent were there for car thefts.

E. J. Anderson, (Lib., Welland) asked if the insurance companies were promoting the bill. He was assured they were not.

The committee killed a clause in a bill to amend the Municipal Act, sponsored by Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, that would have given the Municipal Affairs Department the right to pass on fees and salaries voted municipal councillors and utilities commissioners by councils.

Mr. Cross said the bill was intended to prevent abuse of the system that provides fees for each meeting. Many unnecessary committee meetings were held. In view of the opposition, however, Mr. Cross consented to withdraw of the Cross consented to withdrawal of the clause.

Lease Operating Rights of Aqua Vitae Company of Belleville

International Health Products Ltd., Will Build Laboratory and Bottling Works South of Foxboro

With the International Health Products Limited having recently leased the operating rights of the Belleville Aqua-Vitae Company, a substantial building program is now under way on the property one half mile south of the village of Foxboro where the company's mineral wells are situated. Included in the building program are provisions for the construction of a combined chemistry laboratory and bottling works with dimensions of 20 x 90 feet as well as a modern office and reception room which is now under construction.

The new company, who are operating under a royalty basis with the Belleville Aqua-Vitae Company will undertake the manufacture of a full line of stock-food and will also put up mineral water both in liquid and tablet form.

FINNS 'ANNIHILATE' ANOTHER RED DIVISION

Marvel of Finnish leadership has conquered again. This time it is another Russian division, the 18th., which has been cut to pieces by the brilliant generalship of the Finnish forces. Yesterday's official report announced that eighteen thousand men of that Red division were either killed or taken prisoners.

General Mannerheim with his men and his people form the brilliant combination which is performing amazing feats of valor and endurance. Mannerheim knows his enemy and his own soldiers, he knows the terrain over which he has had to fight with small forces against the lumbering forces of the enemy. He is one of the most brilliant generals in the world and in him the Finnish people have implicit confidence.

There are many factors at work in such a defence as his people are putting up, the self-sacrifice of the Finns, perfect organization, use of the peculiarities of territory, and the knowledge that their cause is just while on the other hand Russia is fighting far away from her base, her soldiers likely do not know why they are fighting, Russian organization seems at fault and transportation weak.

But out of the successful fighting General Mannerheim has shown himself the perfect master of the situation, even though his army is small as contrasted with the weight of the Russians.

Mannerheim was already famous. It was he who led the Finns to break the Russian bondage. He was famous even before that, when he was a member of the Russian army, Finland then being a portion of Russia. Now he is adding to his laurels. Today he is holding back a far more powerful Russia than the Russia he helped to tear away from in 1918 when the Finns struck a successful blow for liberty. Russia was weak during the revolutionary days.

NAZI SEAMEN NO MATCH FOR JACK TARS

German Nazis at sea are like no other navigators and no other seamen. The first attempt of the Germans to be a naval power went to pieces in the First Great War in a couple of battles. In the present war the Nazis have been living down to their record — they have scuttled ships, they have ignored the rules of the sea, drawn up by the concert of nations for the sake of humanity. Then they tried the "slave" or "prison" ship, an auxiliary ship picking up the crews of British merchant men taken by the Graf Spee. On the high seas the Graf Spee met a typical German naval fate, sent to the bottom by Adolf Hitler's order which was so insulting to the captain that he performed the duty and then ended his life. But she left afloat the Altmark, carrying the British crews as prisoners. Those who have read the newspapers have learned of the awful conditions under which these men who were but prisoners lived for months. And then this ship tried to return to Germany to be honored by the Fuehrer.

But British honor was at stake. This ship was, it is claimed, armed. There were seamen of the merchant service locked up in her hold. The men were rescued from the prison ship.

British tars are of the same indomitable spirit as the men of old who manned the British navy back in the seventeenth century. Though living in a mechanical age they can fight in the way that their ancestors fought in the times when ships grappled and war was waged over the decks. Germany never had a record for naval service. So the German crew of the Altmark when they saw the revival of an old method of struggle were surprised. But the Britishers did not fight until it is claimed shots rang out from the Germans, and then the fight began. Meanwhile the armed guards over the prisoners, placed on the ship by the Graf Spee, fled from their posts, jumped overboard, ran across the ice and took up position on shore. Even then the British pulled a sinking German out of the water into which he had fallen between the cakes of broken ice.

The leader of the boarding party was a typical British sailor as he forced or shoved the German on the bridge from his post and gave the necessary signal for the movement of the German boat.

Graphic beyond measure were the scenes. Not in this war has there been such a group of dramatic pictures as the pursuit and search for the German ship by British pilots, the scene as the British destroyer Cossack ran in towards the Altmark, manoeuvred skilfully, grappled the ship with irons, the British crew climbing over the decks in true Drake and Nelson period fashion, the race to the bridge by the boarding party leader, the battle on the deck, the driving of the German crew into the forecastle, the flight of the armed Nazi guards across the ice, the joyous scene as the words were shouted into the hold, "Are there any British here?" with the answer "yes," the crowding out upon the decks of the poor fellows so long imprisoned, the scenes as the men were transferred to other ships and taken home and triumphantly welcomed.

Then there was the scene in Berlin and other centres where Hitler and his mimic Nazis fumed and raged and threatened dire retribution on the British. The Nazis behaved foolishly. They had lost a race which would have been seized upon by them for their great glory.

And out beyond the blockade the British fleet rode, the planes flew, the auxiliary sea services maintained their control, keeping Naziland shut in.

The detection and tracing of that prison ship and the rescue made is triumph of the perfection of the British services which work upon the sea.

The British achievement is the admiration of the Empire and the world.

The exposure of the prison ship is another nail in the coffin of the Nazi Government. Such stories reveal the Hun as he is. He would have taken glory out of a "hellship" but his plans have tumbled on his head.

Now the Nazis have revived the hymn of hate and this old curse over a quarter of a century old is howled at the British with all the vehemence and madness of a frustrated foe.

While the Germans are howling "Gott Strafe England," (God Punish England), the British people are calm and happy in the enjoyment of their victory.

Youngest V. C. -1918 Dies In France - 1940

LONDON—To a house in North Quay, Maryport, Cumberland, recently, a War Office letter was delivered.

It told the parents of Edward Benn Smith that he had died while serving with the B.E.F. in France.

Lieutenant and Quartermaster Edward Benn Smith, V.C., D.C.M.

But he won the decorations in the other war—the war of 1914-18, when he was a boy.

It was on May 4, 1917, when he was eighteen, that Edward Benn Smith left the pit, left that house in Maryport, to fight for his country.

They had been brave in his family for generations; his father was in the Navy; his mother's forebears had been lifeboatmen.

He became Private Edward Benn Smith, Lancashire Fusiliers, serving in the 42nd Division in France. He got one stripe and then another, and—

It was on August 10, 1918, southeast of Hebuterne, that he led a daylight patrol, and, by setting a fine example in his initiative and determination to inflict casualties on the enemy won the Distinguished Conduct Medal.

He Was Nineteen

It was on October 22, 1918, that the London Gazette announced that No. 51396, Edward Benn Smith, D.C.M., Corpl. (L.-Sergt.), Lancashire Fusiliers, had been awarded the Victoria Cross.

"For most conspicuous bravery, leadership and personal example during an attack and in subsequent operations," said the announcement.

He had charged a German machine-gun post by himself, killed six of the crew, and led his men to the help of another platoon.

He was 19—the youngest soldier V.C., of the war of 1914-18.

Came the peace and Edward Benn Smith decided to make the Army his career. For 21 years it was.

Last year, as regimental sergeant-major, he retired.

Came the war of 1939, and Edward Benn Smith, nearly 41, decided to fight again for his country.

He was sent to France with the first contingent of the B.E.F.

Mother Reeves Dips Into The Future

SHEPPERTON.—Mother Reaves stirred the water in the crystal bowl and bent her steady, dark gaze on the ripples. "Ah," she whispered, "the picture clears."

I glanced at this kindly, hawk-nosed old Romany, her green bonnet perched at a rakish angle on her mop of tousled hair, and wondered what strange visions were hers.

"I look on an impressive scene", she muttered, "field-grey uniforms are gathered round a white coffin, draped in a flag and covered with flowers.

"And the dead leader they are mourning, the man who is lying in state, is none other than Adolf Hitler — shot by the hand of an assassin."

Mother Reaves puffed at her thick black cigar.

"I see conflict and dissension in the Reich . . . I see Goering, Himmler, Hess fight for power . . . I watch their recline and fall . . .

"Doves fly across the picture. . . . It is the coming of peace in July, and with that Armistice the birth of a new Germany in harmony with the rest of the world. . . ."

Mother Reaves is a woman of mystery. Where she comes from nobody knows — or where she goes to!

But tomorrow or the next day she will pull out in her caravan, bound for some lake or river where she will anchor for a little while.

"Always I must stay beside water," she told me. "I love it and I fear it. I see all my visions of the future by gazing at it."

Among her other prophecies, Mother Reaves claims to have foretold the deaths of two famous flyers — Kingsford-Smith and Amelia Earhart.

And so well is she known to the river dwellers round London that they call her the Old Lady of the Thames.

Artist, writer, clairvoyant, water diviner—she is all of these, making enough from her brush and pencil to supply her simple needs.

Wherever her caravan rests Mother Reaves sits down and paints. But she was not painting yesterday. Instead she was typing a story, "The Mystery of the Altar Cloth", when I called on her and tried to pierce the veil of reserve in which she has wrapped herself.

Clergyman's Girl

It was a hard job. But I gathered she was born near Thelford, in Norfolk, her mother a clergyman's daughter, her father a gifted Romany who could make his violin weep and sing.

Together father and daughter roamed Europe, and the gypsy violinist's strange talents made him welcome at the courts of kings.

In Vienna she fell in love with an Austrian count. He was already wed and they could not marry.

But even after his death he willed a pension to the girl he loved.

"My money came regularly", she told me, "until Hitler entered Austria. Then it stopped suddenly."

Mother Reaves makes a point of not mentioning the names of the rich and famous people she has known.

"But when my father was playing in Homburg, Hanover", she confessed. "I was introduced to King Edward."

"As soon as I met him a picture flashed across my brain. I saw him that very night winning 10,000 marks at the roulette table in the company of someone he knew. I told him of my vision.

"'Why, that's impossible,' he exclaimed. 'The person you name is in England, and I have no intention of going to the Casino tonight.'

"At dinner, however, that evening the King was dining with the friend I had mentioned.

"Later he went to the Casino and won exactly 10,000 marks.

"When he saw me again he laughingly called me a dangerous woman, and presented me with a gold cigarette case."—S. C. in a London Exchange.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

If the Russians capture Viipuri (Viborg) in their present offensive through the Karelian Isthmus they will strike a serious blow at Finland's defence organization. Apart from the fact that it is the second largest city in Finland, Viipuri is an important railway centre. Its loss would hamper Finnish communications with their forces fighting on the eastern border.

Situated near the southeast corner of the northern republic, Viipuri is the junction point for a railway line running east and west parallel with the northern shore of the Gulf of Finland and one running north and south along the shore of Lake Ladoga and Finland's eastern border.

The capture of Viipuri would not deprive any Finnish army now served by rail transport from railway connection with the interior but it would rupture direct communications between the armies and make communication with the interior slower, especially in the case of the armies fighting on the eastern border.

Thus the Russians appear on the verge of their first major strategical coup of the war. Their early efforts to cut Finland in two by a march across the narrowest part to the head of the Gulf of Bothnia and to cut Finland off from contact with Sweden by a southward march from the Arctic coast ended in failure.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce at a meeting yesterday decided to request the City Council and the Township of Ameliasburg to each appoint two representatives to act in conjunction with the Chamber in taking steps to make the bridge across the bay free of tolls.

Anyone forced to walk or drive in the residential sections of Belleville this week will realize the great need of civic snowplows. The sidewalks and roads are in a terrible condition as a result of the recent snow storm. The city authorities should purchase two plows, one for the sidewalks and one for the roadways.

Mr. R. Greatrix, a veteran citizen of Belleville and a former business man, is celebrating to day the 85th. anniversary of his birth, and he is enjoying good health. We extend along with many friends, our congratulations.

At the arena last evening a skating contest took place between Frank Gander, champion long distance skater of Central Ontario, and two local skaters, Maurice Callaghan and L. Vickers. The distance skated was six miles, the two local men skating in relays for three miles each and Gander doing the full six miles. Gander won a lap on Callaghan and repeated the same with Vickers, and won the contest easily. The officials of the event were; Starter, C. J. Nash, who is Gander's manager; R. Ford acted as judge and A. P. Stuart was timer.

There is a movement on foot to increase the market tolls; many of the merchants are opposed to such action.

We All Make Mistakes

The editor of the Northwood Anchor throws up his hands in mock horror at the suggestion of one of his subscribers that newspapers make too many mistakes. "Think of it—just imagine" he says, newspapers making errors. Sure they do" he continues and plenty of them too, "and so do the people who are the first to criticize if they see a single error in the columns of their local or cit ydaily, or weekly."

The same theory applies to every community where newspapers are read. The only difference between newspaper and critic is that the paper's errors are aired to everyone's view, while the holler-than-thou picker-outer of errors typographical and otherwise, usually has himself or herself as the sole witness. Newspapers admit their errors, the critics won't. They hide themselves behind a veil of personal perfection, let loose a blast of abuse if their name is spelled incorrectly in a news item upon which they have covertly worked for hours and sometimes days to get into print, but keep quiet, oh, so quiet, when they realize that the name was spelled wrongly by them when submitted to the paper in the first place.

And who doesn't make mistakes. Have you ever sat down to tea then realized you forgot to put the teabag in the pot? Have you ever gone to the theatre (this one is overworked) and discovered you left the tickets on the bureau in your bedroom? We know of a fellow who, leaving on a trip for Toronto, forgot to pick up friend wife before he started out. Did he tell his friends?

We know of a young city blade who went to a dance in his soup-and-fish, and terpsichored all evening with his spats on. And as the Northwood Anchor editor points out, we would be pleased to run across the grocery clerk who has yet to forget to omit an item of an order; a doctor who has yet to make a mistake in diagnosis, a lawyer who has yet to lose a case through a slight error, a carpenter who has yet to saw a board at the wrong measurement, or a druggist ....well, why go on.

Goliath made the mistake of not ducking when David slung a stone at him; only yesterday a patron in a well-known city barber shop put on another fellow's overcoat; a Front Street clerk whose coughing in the bathroom led to investigation, was discovered to have washed his teeth with shaving cream; a gallant young husband got his Valentines mixed not so long ago (he heard plenty about that one); a certain sweet young thing ordered some perfume and charged it to the wrong account; why there are literally dozens of mistakes made daily of which the general public hears absolutely nothing. But let the poor newspaper make a petty mistake, the accidental changing of a single letter, and the critics shout to high heaven of the incompetency of its staff.

As the Northwood Anchor editor remarks, "it would be enlightening if some of the critics who make the most of petty insignificant mistakes in newspapers had the opportunity to know about the hundreds of mistakes newspaper people correct for other persons every year."

Half Billion to be Spent by Canada in Next Fiscal Year

Toronto, Feb. 20 — (CP)—Canada's war efforts will call for expenditure of at least $500,000,000 during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1941, Hon. J. L. Ralston, Dominion Minister of Finance, said. He was addressing the Canadian Club here.

Col. Ralston said commitments for the first year of war ending Sept. 1 totalled roughly $375,000,000. Of this $197,000,000 was for the army, $40,000,000 for the navy, about $88,000,000 for the Royal Canadian Air Force and about $50,000,000 for the air training plan. "And," he added, "the requirements for what we are now committed to will, I think, be at least $500 millions for the fiscal year ending March 31."

How Winston Churchill Lives And Works in Wartime

As you listen to Mr. Winston Churchill's invigorating war talks you must wonder, as so many others do, how this dynamic man lives and works under a daily strain as great as any man in the world is bearing today.

Has it affected him at all?

Does he eat more or less? Does he lose weight or gain it? Does responsibility make him morose and querulous, or does it sit on him easily? How does he cram the work that must be done into the all too few hours of each day?

Let me try to give you some answers to these very human questions by letting you see Mr. Churchill through the eyes of those who are close to him every day.

First let us forget that Mr. Churchill and think of him simply as "Winston". Because he is "Winston" to every one of the Admiralty, including the men on the door.

Every morning, about 9.45, Winston walks into his private room on the first floor of the Admiralty, overlooking the Horse Guards Parade, ready to begin a working day that will not last less than 14 hours.

Very often you will find that he is humming "Run, Rabbit, Run". That is his favorite tune at the moment. It used to be "Miss Otis Regrets".

His sense of note and tune is, I fear, more original than orthodox, which is, perhaps, a reflection of the singer's character.

He likes to sing to himself when excited, but the longer he sings a tune the more it ceases to bear any resemblance to the original tune. In the end you can only tell it by the words.

The room into which he walks singing is a big room with two wide windows looking out over the Horse Guards Parade car park to the corner of St. James' Park.

It is a room that would inspire any man who can be moved by great historical associations, and Winston is certainly such a man.

A cheerful coal fire burns in the grate. In front are two red leather armchairs, drawn up not on either side of the fire but side by side. When Winston reads his papers he sits in one of them.

All the chairs in the room are upholstered in red leather except the one at Winston's desk. It is very plain, with no upholstery whatever and a wooden curved back like half a barrel. It looks extraordinarily small for such a big man.

By the side of the fire is the First Lord's desk, not set square and straight in the room as so many men like theirs to be, but arranged sideways in such a way as to make it impossible for any one sitting at it to see over the park.

Tidy Desk

On the desk stands three telephones, one green, one white and one black. At the side of the desk is a table on which are set glasses on a tray, a syphon of soda-water, and a metal box which looks like a gas-mask container, but actually holds biscuits.

Usually there are very few papers lying on the desk. Everything is in order and extremely tidy.

Most men when they move from office to office bring intimate personal things with them, very often photographs.

Not so Winston. There are no private photographs at all in the room except a reproduction of the Sea Lords of the last war—Jellicoe, Beatty, etc., with all their signatures.

And I imagine that photograph belongs to the room and not to Winston.

But he did bring one very interesting personal treasure with him. You will find it framed and hung up on a wall in the shadow of a huge unnamed oil painting —which looks like the Defeat of the Spanish Armada—and a view of Westminster painted by Samuel Scott in 1772.

This treasure is a chart, of which Winston is very proud. It was presented to him when he was Minister of Munitions in the last war. It is a graph of gun production.

Along the top of the chart is a row of black lions in silhouette. The first lion is lying down. The next, as the graph goes up, sits on its haunches. As the graph rises to the final heights the lion stands up on its legs.

On the mantelpiece stands a twenty-four hour weather clock and leaning against the wall beside it is a plain little mirror with a wooden frame—the sort of mirror a schoolboy keeps in his dormitory. It looks strangely out of place in this dignified room.

Every morning Winston spends half an hour in his room before crossing to the Cabinet meeting in Downing street. He returns after lunch, which he nearly always takes at home, works until dinner time and returns after dinner.

In front of the windows of the room is a small desk with a typewriter on it. It is to a typist sitting at that typewriter that Winston dictates most of his vast outpouring of memoranda, letters, articles and books.

As he dictates, the typist takes it straight down on her machine. Winston never writes anything down in longhand first, and will not waste time on a shorthand note.

Dictates Easily

He walks up and down the room as he dictates. The machine is a specially silent model, so it does not interrupt his thoughts.

He dictates easily. The sentences that flow from him are complete and correct. Rarely does he have to re-dictate. He knows almost exactly what he wants to say and the best words with which to say it.

Very often he has conferences in his room with Admiralty chiefs. For these conferences he uses a five-sided table covered with blue baize which he has had put into the room since the war.

Sometimes these conferences concern not only naval affairs, but the military position as well, and that is why on one of the walls to the side of the fireplace are two maps of the Maginot Line and the Western Front.

Hanging from the ceiling are a number of other maps which can be pulled down by string. On the floor stands a very large globe on a swivel.

All the great figures of the war will pass in and out of this famous room before peace comes and many of them will treasure the memory of it all their lives.

It is here that Winston receives the various men of the Fleet who are awarded honors. He not only receives them, but takes them to lunch at Admiralty House.

What stories some of these recent submarine heroes must have told at the luncheon table!

Luncheon and dinner are almost the only relation in the busy days of the Admiralty's First Lord.

Battle Room.

From the early morning, when he begins sometimes by dictating in his bath, till the late hours of night, when he walks last thing, cigar in his mouth, into the Operations Room to take the final survey of the seas, his mind can hardly leave the great problems of the war for a moment.

It was in this Operations Room that he sat tensely through the hours as the Exeter, Achilles and Ajax battered the Graf Spee into ignominous flight.

It was in the same room 25 years ago that he sat as Von Spee himself was gunned to his death in the Battle of the Falkland Islands.

What proud memories that room must hold for him.

He goes home to the country for short week-ends with his family, and at these times is fairly quiet, if events permit it, but actually he needs little rest in spite of his burdens. He shoulders responsibility better than most men of our day.

Everything he does is done with an energy that is almost persuasive in its demands on those who work with him.

When he discusses a momentous problem he stands with hands curved, open inwards and slightly upwards as though weighing a world in miniature.

Not Faddy

He looks a little fatter than he did before the war, but actually he has lost 8 lbs. in weight.

That does not mean that his health is giving. By no means. There is no sturdier, or happier warrior in the nation's councils at the moment.

When he went to France recently he crossed by destroyer, and had a terrible passage. Gastric 'flu developed, and when he reached Paris he was a sick man.

But he refused to lie up. He attended a dinner of big-wigs as arranged, and next morning rose early to carry out his program to visit Lord Gort and the British troops in the line.

Actually he went up the line with a high temperature, but nothing would stop him carrying out his schedule.

One effect of great responsibility on him is that his head grows steadily larger. The last war had that effect on Lloyd George also.

Winston takes no special precautions to keep himself fit for his task. He is not faddy about his food, eating most things, and quickly.

He likes naval officers to dine with him, and occassionally a clever woman, but actually he is not very partial to feminine society.

He is a family man, really, fond of his beautiful and charming wife, whose life is bound up in his and to whom he owes more than he knows.

She acts as a gentle brake on him, and has saved him very often from going too far politically.

The First Lord has now little time for his favorite relaxation—reading. He must even at times dictate in bed while the world sleeps round him.

Fortunately for him he sleeps easily between spells of work, and he himself would say: What more does a man need than that?

Once he wrote:

"Rational, industrious, useful beings are divided into two classes —those whose work is work and whose pleasure is pleasure, and those whose work and pleasure are one. Fortune's favored children belong to the second class."

Fortune must surely favor Winston these days, for he certainly gets the utmost pleasure out of his working day.

His personality pervades the whole of the vast Admiralty. You can sense it almost as you enter the building.

He seems to fit perfectly into his setting. When he goes the Navy will miss him. And he will miss the Navy.—By Hall White in the London Sunday Express. .. .. ..

City Engineer's Report on Activities of Public Works Department During 1939

Sewers

All main sanitary sewers were dragged and cleaned during the month of August. A total of 468 sewer lateral blockades were cleared and the pipes repaired when found necessary. All storm sewers and catch basins were cleaned in April and October. Eight new catch basins were built and over 35 catch basins and manholes were repaired.

Roads

All roads were cleaned in April and all leaves gathered up in October.

Roadways were patched and repaired on East College Street, Elm Street, St. Paul Street, Victoria Avenue and along the railroad tracks on Pinnacle Street.

New roadways were constructed on part of Ponton Street, part of West College Street, part of Ridley Street, on Victoria Street and on the corner of Coleman and W. Moira Streets.

Boulevards were regraded on the north side of E. Bridge Street between Pinnacle and John Sts.

New bins and general repairs were made to Crusher Plant.

Crusher was operated for 48 days during the months of May and June and for 8 days during the month of October, crushing a total number of 2815 cubic yards of stone.

Traffic lines were painted on paved roadways in the business section of the city and centre lines on all hills and curves.

Assistance was given the Kinsmen Club in connection with Derby Day.

Parking lots were graded, signs repainted and new signs erected. Old raceway was filled in to the extent of 65 per cent.

Assistance was given to the Police Department during the visit of the King and Queen.

All paved streets were swept and flushed daily throughout the business section and twice a week in the residential section between April 15th and December 27th.

Assistance was given to the Central Ontario Cheese Association in preparation for their convention which was held in December.

Street Oiling was carried out on 29 streets for a total length of 4 miles with the use of our own equipment.

Sidewalks

Concrete sidewalks were repaired in various parts of the city and a concrete retaining wall was constructed along part of the South John Street frontage of the Home for the Aged.

Two new sets of wooden steps were constructed on Great St. James Street to replace the wooden steps that had become unsafe.

Weeds

Weeds were cut down on roadsides and on city properties throughout the summer months of June, July, August. A considerable amount of brush and shrubbery was also cleared from the roadsides, along the water front and from vacant city lots. During the month of May and the early part of June, attention was given to the destruction of caterpillars by burning them out of trees and shrubs on city streets and city properties.

Snow

Sidewalks at city intersections and in front of city properties were kept cleared of snow. All sidewalks in the business section and hills were sanded whenever they became slippery. Sand and cinders were spread on roadways throughout the business section, on all hills, at curves and at many intersections on various occasions during the winter months. All streets within the city limits were kept open for traffic by our snow plow and all snow from the streets in the business section was hauled away by trucks after each storm.

Frozen catch basins were opened by using either steam or calcium chloride. Gutters and drains were also kept cleared wherever possible.

Channels were cut through the the ice by means of power saws in the deep water channel between the lower railway bridge and the lighthouse during the month of February to provide a clear outlet for the ice jams which form in the lower part of the Moira River during the spring breakup of the river ice.

Yard and Warehouse

Machinery and equipment were kept in repair at the city yard on South Church Street, including the servicing and operation of three trucks, namely a Ford delivery truck, a Dodge dump truck and a Reo platform truck. The 12-ton road roller and scarifier was reconditioned by the Fruit Machinery Company and a re-conditioned 5-ton Tandem roller was purchased from Mussens Limited.

Engineering and Office Work

Estimates were made when required for proposed work to be carried out by other civic departments and various duties were performed by the Engineer's Department when any of these works were undertaken, including survey work for Special Property Committee in connection with the sale of city lots; supervision of repairs and painting the exterior of the City Hall building; supervision of garbage collection; enforcement of weed cutting by-law and snow cleaning by-law and the handling of all relief workers for work on roadways, the Belleville Beaches and for the Regional Planning and Improvement Committee.

Plans, profiles, blue prints, estimates and reports on various projects for all civic departments were made during the year. Work was commenced this year on the preparation of large scale plans of the entire city in sections, which will be bound in the form of an Atlas. Details of all sewers, water mains, gas mains, sidewalks, pavements, etc., will be recorded on these plans as well as corrected surveys of all properties. This atlas will not be fully completed and brought up to date until the year 1942.

Building permits for construction work to the value of $251,396.00 were issued at the Engineer's Office, this being the best year since 1931 when the value amounted to $221,900.00

The total expenditures of the Public Works Department, including labour and material, are set forth on the statement attached hereto, together with a list of the permanent employees and part time employees of the Department.

Yours Respectfully,
Charles A. Mott
City Engineer.

PUBLIC WORKS EMPLOYEES

1. C. B. Matthews—Public Works Foreman and Assistant to City Engineer.
2. Wm. Peoples—Truck driver on Reo Truck.
3. Rodney Newton—Truck driver on Reo Truck.

General construction and maintenance work on roadways, sidewalks, street cleaning, snow removal and operation of street oiling equipment

4. James Cook—Truck driver on Dodge Truck.
5. Wm. Dix—Truck driver on Dodge Truck.

General construction and maintenance on roadways, sidewalks, street cleaning, snow removal and maintenance of main sewers, storm sewers and sanitary sewer laterals

6. Fred Bly—Motor mechanic and repair man. In charge of city yard and makes repairs to all machinery and tools. Operates concrete mixer, small tandem roller and formerly operated Elgin street sweeper.
7. Clem Gardiner—Pipe layer and powder man.
8. Fred Cole—Pipe layer's helper, etc.

Laying of all sewer pipes, building of all catch basins and manholes, drilling, blasting and general construction work.

9. Geo Gleason—Steam engineer.

Operates large road roller and also steam traction engine in quarry or whenever same is used.

10. Geo. Grey—Road builder.

Road grading and building of new roadways and general maintenance work.

11. Joe Cormier—Foreman at Stone Quarry.
12. Fred Arnott — Foreman on Sidewalk Construction.
13. Herb. Thompson—Finisher on concrete work.
14. Anson Mallory — Carpenter Work.
15. Henry Free—Carpenter Work.

"A"

Herb Collins, J. Cormier, Geo. Grey, Ed. Ethier, Clem Gardiner, part time foremen.

These men act as foremen on any construction or maintenance work such as road work and snow removal where a gang of men are required.

"B"

Geo. Grey, Wm. Arnott, Fred Bly, Fred Cole, Fred Arnott, Clem Gardiner, snow route men.

These men are each in charge of from four to six relief workers and they clear the snow and ice from the sidewalks at street intersections, at the market and at all city owned property. Each man has a separate section of the City to look after during the winter months.

Trucks

In the hiring of trucks we have tried to divide the work up among the various truck owners in the city by giving each truck about three days work at a time during the summer months. In the winter when snow removal is heavy, we use every truck that is available, providing they all carry the necessary liability insurance.

The following men were employed during 1939 on street pavement cleaning:—

Maurice Callaghan's team on City Water Wagon.

The sweepers work in two weeks' shifts.

OBITUARY

LATE SHIRLEY E. HOWES

Monday afternoon the funeral of Shirley Ellis Howes, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Howes, took place from the family residence, 186 James Street. The service in the home and at the graveside in Belleville cemetery was conducted by Rev. G. G. Wright, Rector of Christ Church.

The bearers were Harry Ashton, Stuart Blake, Joe Burke and Frank Ashmore, all of whom are pupils at Queen Mary School.

MRS. MARY E. AYRES
Toronto

The death occurred at the family residence, 174 Sumach Street, Toronto, on Sunday, February 18th. of Mrs. Mary Ellen Ayres, wife of Mr. Charles Ayers, and mother of Mr. Jack Ayers, Mr. Charles Ayers and Mr. William Ayers.

Friends in Belleville will regret to learn of her death.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning, Feb. 21st. to St. Paul's Church for Mass at nine o'clock, and interment will be made in Mount Hope cemetery.

LATE THOMAS A. PERRY
Madoc

The funeral of Thomas A. Perry took place Monday afternoon from his late residence in the village of Madoc to St. John's Church, where the burial office of the Church of England was conducted by the rector, the Rev. A. E. Pepper. During the service a vocal solo in keeping with the occasion was rendered by Mr. Harry McGuire.

Interment was made in White Lake Cemetery; the committal service was said by the Rev. A. E. Pepper.

The bearers were Messrs Arthur H. Connor, John R. Bristol, Leslie Blakely, Felix O'Riordan, William Armstrong and Allan McCoy.

HASTINGS AND P. E. DEANERIES MEET

A joint meeting of the Rural Deaneries of Hastings and Prince Edward was held in St. Thomas' Parish House today and was well attended by the clergy from both deaneries. The Rev. A. B. Caldwell, rector of Marmora, is the Rural Dean of Hastings and the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, vicar of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, is the Rural Dean of Prince Edward. The session was opened with the celebration of the Holy Communion in the chapel of the Parish House at 10 o'clock.

At noon luncheon was served by the members of the Women's Guild.

MUTINY, DEFEAT DISRUPTS ARMY

Japanese - Sponsored Chinese Army Comes to Grief in First Week

Hong Kong, Feb. 20 (AP) — Mutiny and defeat have disrupted a Japanese-sponsored army of Chinese within a week of its first move against the Chinese government forces, the Chinese central news agency reported today.

Japanese military authorities announced February 13 that a new army of Chinese supporting Wang Ching-Wei had been landed on the coast of Fukien province and was fighting the troops of General Chiang Kai-Shek. They indicated the army was 50,000 strong. Wang is a former Chinese premier who broke with Chiang and was chosen by Japan to head a Japanese-controlled regime in China.

Central News, an agency of Chiang's government, said 1800 men of this army had surrendered in Fukien, taking with them to the Chinese government side 1500 rifles and 20 machine guns.

A mixed force of Japanese and dissident Chinese was said to be engaged on three sides 15 miles west of Amoy, in the Haiting district.

Five hundred other members of this army were said by Central News to have mutinied at Lanfeng, in Honan province, killing their Japanese officers and advisers and burning barracks and supply depots. The rebel leader was killed, the agency said.

NO DAMAGE AT CHIMNEY FIRE

Local firemen were occasioned a short run to 50 Yeoman Street, yesterday afternoon as the result of a chimney fire at that number. No damage resulted, however, and the trouble was quickly overcome reported officials of the fire department this morning.

Garage Blown Down by Wind Storm

Allans Mills — During the high wind storm on Wednesday afternoon the garage of Mr. Dave Wellman blew down. Mrs. Wellman and Mr. Ronald Brown had just got the two cars out before it went down.

Mr. W. S. Stiles is attending the Convention of the Cheese Association held in Ottawa this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Les. McKeown spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown.

Mrs. A. H. Reid spent a couple of days with Mrs. A. Burkitt.

Mr. Lorne Johnson, teacher of S. S. No. 14, held a Valentine party at the school on Wednesday afternoon.

Owing to the condition of the roads the ladies in this vicinity were unable to attend the pot luck dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Eastwood and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. H. Jones.

"Stand to!"
FINDS HIM READY

...Will "Cease-Fire" find him Trained to Carry On?

Only yesterday he looked forward to a successful future in Canada. Then an empire emergency arose. He dropped his education, the training for his life work, and sprang to the defense of the Empire.

These war years must not be lost from his life! His education, his training for success in civil life must be continued while he serves his country. To provide the necessary educational services, and to supply such other facilities as will keep alive among our boys on service the feeling that they are still an intimate part of things back home, the Legion is asking Canadians to contribute $500,000.

Men on Service—to be Trained for Peace

The Legion has undertaken to organize and finance this work. The Canadian Association for Adult Education with its long and distinguished record is collaborating in carrying out the plan. Men on service will be able to continue their education and take university classes. Courses in agriculture, technical subjects, various trades, bookkeeping, stenography, etc., will be available. Universities and departments of education throughout Canada are co-operating. The assistance of British and French educationists is assured overseas.

Personal and Recreational Services

The Legion also undertakes to help the men in the solution of personal, family problems. Leave centres will be provided overseas. Concert parties, sports activities will be organized. Every effort will be made to bring the boys a touch of home when they are far from their families and friends.

HELP WIN THE WAR

Will you lend a hand in this work? Will you help a lad on active service to make good when the war is over? Here is an opportunity to invest in Canadian manhood. Send or take a generous donation to your nearest Legion Branch. Give to this great new cause—today!

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. G. MacDonald and son, Bruce, of Kingston, spent the week end in the city the guests of Mrs. MacDonald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barnum.

Miss Eva Holley underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis last evening, in Belleville General Hospital and is progressing favorably.

A number of members of the Quinte Skating Club will take part in an Ice Carnival at Trenton this evening.

Mrs. R. E. Colling is convalescing at her home, Alexander Street, after being a patient at Belleville General Hospital, following an operation.

Mrs. W. N. Ponton has returned to the city after spending two months visiting her mother in New York City. While in New York, Mrs. Ponton had the interesting experience of enjoying television radio reception, the program being a play in which Miss Dorothy Blackburn took part. On her return home Mrs. Ponton visited her niece Miss Lois Dale, who is a student at Middlebury College, Vermont. Miss Dale has the distinction of being the first woman college student in New England to fly as a graduate of the Civilian Aviation course now underway in the United States' colleges. Mrs. Ponton also spent some time in Montreal the guest of Miss Julia Ponton before returning to Belleville last evening.

BRIDGE ST. Y.P.U.

Bridge Street Y.P.S. held their regular weekly meeting last evening in the Ladies' Parlours with a good attendance.

The meeting opened with a short worship service conducted by Albert Watson. Hymn 16 was sung "Jesus Shall Reign" after which prayer was offered. Gertrude Lazier read the Scripture which was found in St. Matthew, Chapter 10: 5-20.

The remainder of the evening was in charge of the Christian Missions group. The topic which was very ably delivered by Albert Watson was "Why Missions".

Plans for the cabaret which is to be held in April were discussed also plans for the transportation of as many as possible to attend the Young People's Rally which is to be held in Foxboro.

After singing hymn 4, "Lead on O King Eternal", the meeting closed with the Mispah Benediction.

Raisin Cornmeal Muffins
Spaghetti
Cauliflower with Melted Butter
Lettuce or Cabbage Salad
Marshmallow Fudge Cookies
Coffee or Tea

RAISIN Cornmeal Muffins—Ingredients: Three-fourths cup raisins, one and one-half cup sifted flour, two cups yellow cornmeal, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, four tablespoons brown sugar, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, two eggs, one-fourth cup melted shortening. Rinse raisins in hot water and drain. If seeded raisins are used, cut in two. Sift together flour, cornmeal, baking powder and salt, add brown sugar and stir to blend. Add milk in which soda has been dissolved, and beat; next add beaten eggs and stir; then add shortening and raisins and mix. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 18 to 20 minutes. This makes 16 to 18 medium-sized muffins.

Marshmallow Fudge Cookies —Ingredients: Two squares chocolate, shaved; one cup evaporated milk or cream, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one tablespoon butter, two cups sugar, 24 marshmallows, cut in small pieces; one teaspoon vanilla extract, three cups graham cracker crumbs, one cup walnut meats, finely chopped. Combine chocolate and milk and heat over low heat until chocolate is melted. Add sugar and salt, then stir until dissolved. Cook until mixture reaches the soft ball stage (228 degrees F.). Remove from fire and add butter. Cook slightly, then add marshmallows, vanilla extract, graham cracker crumbs and chopped walnut meats. Mix well. Press into well-greased shallow pans. Chill eight to twelve hours or overnight, then cut in squares. Makes four dozen squares.

Fashion Flashes

ALWAYS FESTIVE is the white evening frock. A beauty is in white taffeta, the full skirt decorated with large roses. The flowers, which are hand-painted are outlined with metallic embroideries.

Pretty small and small and pretty are the new hats. A charming little turban is black chenille crochet held on by a red cord, and trimmed with long red and black tassels threaded through gold rings. For town or resort wear.

Schoolroom fashions such as suspender top skirts appear in some of the new evening fashions. A dinner dress has a suspender skirt of white taffeta with narrow stripes of black satin. The blouse is of white marquisette with a round pleated ruffle at the neck and cuffs and narrow black satin ribbons.

Dancing 'round these nights are pretty tulle frocks. A new model is or amber brown tulle with all-over glitter of copper colored sequins. Snug bodice, long waist and full skirt.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mothers-in-Law Stuff

A letter in the morning's mail pulls me up with a good sharp turn. My correspondent writes that I am too partial to old people, and that in the world-wide battle of in-laws I stand up for the aged, rather than the youthful belligerents.

We have been reminded that "the quality of mercy is not strained" and I cannot help feeling deep sympathy for old people who are quitting the scene and who hold desperately to their memories of the past. Unless they're very exceptional old people, what else have they to hold to, except these memories of days when they were all in all to their boys and girls, heads of families, their little worlds rotating around them?

In the cycle of human lives it is self-evident to remind you that there is the upgrade to maturity, and then the circle slows down to another childhood. A pitiful childhood, with none of those beguiling graces of the early years that insured the doting affection of the family. This second childhood may be as perverse, even as mischievous as the first, and it certainly lacks the physicial beauty of that first unfolding. It requires patience and yet more patience, which alas, is seldom meted out to it. That's my excuse for being so sorry for older people.

It has been said that no stairs are so steep and narrow in another's household. Stop, look, listen, visualize yourself climbing those steep, narrow stairs in your son's or daughter's home, and I think you will be more merciful to this second childhood. Age is an inescapable lot. Shall we be dealt with as we now deal with those who are our charges?

In this domestic problem of having an aged parent or relative in the household, there is a question which should be cleared up, even if one of the social agencies or the law itself should be invoked. Scores of letters concerning this subject come to my column. It is that the less prosperous son or daughter is so often charged with the entire responsibility of maintaining the aged parent.

Quoting from a letter received today, a wife writes "My young daughter was obliged to give up her room to her grandmother and sleep on a couch in the living-room. She was supposed to keep two drawers in the dresser for her own use, and her grandmother objects to this and says: 'I can't have her rushing in and out of my room at all times.'

"My husband's two older brothers are very well-to-do; one has an income of $10,000 a year and could amply care for his mother in comfort. But both of these men confine their responsibility to sending grandma a card at Christmas. Not even do they send a five-dollar bill which would give her a little extra change. Their wives both wear mink coats. Are not these sons legally bound to help support their mother? We'd like to keep this out of the courts, and we don't want to hurt grandma's feelings, but do you think it is just?

Daughter-in-Law".

Of course, there is no justice or even decency in the state of affairs you relate. The older sons should be made to contribute to their mother's support, even at the expense of their wives' mink coats. But whether they can be made to do so by law raises a nice legal technicality. The better plan would be for you to consult legal authority. It's likely that the prosperous sons would not care to have this matter brought into court, yet at the same time it's unbelievable that well-to-do men could evade such a responsibility.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

For Parents of the Bridegroom-Elect

It's all very well for etiquette to "demand" that the parents of the bridegroom-to-be must, within twenty-four hours after their son has told them that he has been accepted by The Girl and her family call on the bride-to-be and her parents. This is, of course, just what they should do, to show that they enthusiastically welcome the young woman into their family. If they live too far away to make this call, they should make this welcoming visit by letter, and at once. If illness or any other circumstances makes it impossible for both the mother and father to make this conventional call, the others must go alone.

This is the rule. But while most girls know that this is the rule, or sense that there must be some such rule, many parents of young men seem to have no idea that such a required formality exists.

The girl's happiness is naturally not complete until the parents of her fiance give her this reassuring indication that they welcome her as their future daughter-in-law. She is humiliated at the omission of this call. As the days and weeks go by without any recognition of the engagement by the fiance's family, the girl and her parents become more and more puzzled about what they can properly do to break the social deadlock.

Clouded wonderings arise in their minds as to how they should perhaps interpret this omission. Is the lack of recognition of the engagement due to the parents' lack of knowing what they should do? Or does it mean that they disapprove of their son's choice? Or does it mean that these people are unfriendly people, not given to hospitality?

When it becomes completely obvious that this social bow is not be mother, reading somewhat like this I suggest that the girl's parents make a social move to start things moving in the right direction.

The girl's mother, as the hostess of the household, may properly write a note to the young man's made by the parents of the fiance,

Dear Mrs. Field,

Won't you and your husband and Bob come in to have a cup of tea with us next Sunday at four o'clock? If this day isn't convenient, will you name the day when you will be free? We are looking forward with great pleasure to welcoming you to our home.

Very sincerely yours,
Mary Bronson Wells

The mother's reply to this gracious invitation will be an index of her attitude toward the engagement. An enthusiastic acceptance will mean that all is well, despite any reason, probably not intentionally unfriendly, that may have caused the omission of the welcoming visit. If, unhappily, she is an anti-social person, or even more unhappily, disapproves of the engagement, she will "regret" the invitation for "next Sunday" and maybe make no mention of a future free day.

But people being as generally pleasant and friendly as they are, the chances are that she will accept delightedly, and before the family tea-party is over, hospitality give a return invitation.

S. Wilbur Praised For Work In Regina Theatrical

Commenting on "Penny Wise" the reecnt presentation by the Regina Little Theatre in which Mr. Stanley Wilbur, formerly of Belleville, had a leading role, the Regina Press says in review, "Regina Little theatre again has produced a show that its public wants to see—well-chosen, well-cast and well-directed . . . "Penny Wise" was presented on Drake Hall stage, Thursday night before an audience of almost capacity proportions."

"Hardly a note of criticism was heard in the crowd. The audience displayed marked approval of the production, of which James M. Sinclair was director; took to their hearts Penny, character distinguished by the clever acting of Theo Rosson; thrilled to the art of Stanley Wilbur as Gordon, the romantic husband and playwright who was equally fascinating in his moods of tenderness, indignation, bewilderment and forthright anger."

Don't "Dose" A Nasty CHEST COLD

Relieve Misery This Quick-Acting EXTERNAL Way

Don't burden a child's delicate stomach with strong internal medicines. Do what thousands of modern mothers do . . . relieve the misery of a cold quick—without internal dosing—the Vicks VapoRub way. It brings comforting relief right where the cold causes misery. And it's such a simple and easy treatment:

At bedtime, massage Vicks VapoRub over throat, chest and back. Right away, VapoRub goes to work to relieve the misery of the cold two ways at once—two DIRECT WAYS.

First, VapoRub acts on the skin, stimulating like a warming poultice. Second, it gives off the soothing, medicinal vapours of seven different relief-giving medications—vapours that are carried with every breath direct to the irritated air passages. And here's what this poultice-and-vapour action does.

It clears the air passages, loosens phlegm, checks the tendency to cough, relieves irritation, and eases soreness of the chest muscles. This comforting action continues hour after hour and invites healing, restful sleep. Often by morning, most of the misery of the cold is gone.

PROVED IN CLINICS—VapoRub has been proved in one of the largest series of clinical tests ever made on colds—and proved in daily use in millions of homes. So PROFIT BY THIS PROOF—KNOW WHAT YOU'RE USING TO RELIEVE COLDS MISERY. You'll be glad you discovered the relief VapoRub brings.

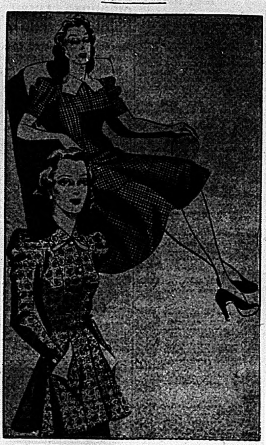
Slip Into Cottons



By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE NEW house frocks tempt us to wear them all day long. Typical is the black and white checked number, top, with ric-rac on the collar and around the skirt. It zips on in a jiffy, ties from each side in back, and comes in sizes up to 20. Why bother to run the sewing machine when such styles are availabel at low prices?

The fitted smock, bottom, is smart enough for the office and might even answer as an evening wrap this summer. It's in a paisley cotton of linen texture, with linen trim and salad bowl buttons.

Lake Consecon in Winter

Where the waters sang a merry tune
'Neath the tranquil skies of the days of June,
Where all along the shadowed shore
Trees waved green flags the waters o'er,
Where the rowers loitered 'neath sunny sky
Watching the swallows dip and fly,
Where on the breast of the waters blue
Diamonds sparkled the long day through—
Now nought but an icy plain is seen
Fringed here and there by cedars green,
Or circled by the gaunt trees gray
That stand on guard in grim array,
And a dark network of shadows throw
O'er the level plain of ice and snow.

'Neath icy robes the waters sleep,
Unmoved by the winds that above them sweep;
Content to rest till the voice of Spring
Awakes them again to laugh and sing;
Resistless, too, to their winter fate,
Serving the while they stand and wait—
Far above is heard the skaters' steel
As over the glare they whirl and wheel,
And the clink of hoofs as on they go
While bells ring out across the snow.

And so when comes life's winter time
With Spring and Summer and Autumn's chime
Naught but a memory, and hearts are fain
To long for active life again,
May we too, rest like the lake's calm flow
Beneath its fetters of ice and snow,
And know as we near life's sunset gate
"They also serve, who stand and wait."

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Measles

Another disease that usually makes its appearance among children towards the end of winter is measles a disease that too many parents seem inclined to regard lightly. It is so common that parents have long looked upon it as inevitable in every childhood. In fact, many mothers and fathers appear to take the attitude that the earlier in life a child gets all the childhood infections and has them over with the better.

Measles may seem a pretty mild illness in most cases. Yet it can be a plague. It was one among North American Indians once. They had never had measles until the white men came and so had built up no immunity. The result was that when they became exposed to the disease, whole tribes were wiped out.

Amongst white people there are many children who similarly are without inherited or acquired immunity and when these get it, they are seriously ill and sometimes they die.

There is always danger in measles for any child. Even when their illness from it is comparatively mild. There can be complications that endanger life. Knowledge of these is what makes the doctor disinclined to share the attitude of some parents—that measles are a harmless disease.

Measles attacks are accompanied by infection in the nose and throat. There is a high fever during the first day or so and a blotchy red rash starts arounds the hair line and spreads down the face, neck and torso. The child suffering from measles usually has had a cold in his head for some days, and he may have complained of sore eyes for a day or so before the rash appeared. If a doctor has a chance to see the child in this pre-rash period, he will find small white spots in his throat and on his tongue and the insides of the cheeks that will enable him to diagnose the trouble and begin treatment immediately.

Once the rash has developed diagnosis is easy. At this stage the child should be in quarantine, for measles is very contagious. Time and again I have seen it sweep through a whole family and entire schools. After the rash disappears in probably ten days, the patient is no longer a breeder or carrier of the disease and the quarantine can be lifted.

The complications in measles are due to a spread of the infection from the nose and throat. The lungs may become involved and the child may develop pneumonia. Or the infection may spread through the middle ear to the brain and cause an acute inflammation that can induce death.

We have no specific means of preventing measles as we have smallpox or diphtheria. However, there is a serum made from the blood of convalescent cases which if injected in another patient in early stages may make his illness less severe. I have had good results with the serum when I have injected it in the arms of children who have been exposed to the contagion. Any mother that knows that her child has been exposed would be well advised to let the family doctor give him the serum.

Letting Newspapers Teach our Children

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

OUR NEWSPAPERS of today carry the history lessons of tomorrow. News items concerning international relations, our federal, state and local government, and the personalities identified with them; articles about educational progress, about advances in scientific knowledge, about amazing developments of applied science, and the concerted community efforts at social betterment, together with information about the leaders in these fields, appearing in our daily papers, the vital items in the history of mankind.

The wonder is that so few parents and teachers attempt at home and school to lead children to realize the richness of live information to be obtained from the daily newspaper. Our children will, as a rule, respond to the happenings they personally witness, or read about in the paper, in accordance with their home and school education.

Help in Geography

The geography lesson at school may be dull. Let the teacher or parent enliven it with the aid of the day's paper, setting the pupils to find on the map the places from which come the more important news dispatches. To read the newspaper intelligently we need to know a great deal of place geography. The boy or girl who complains that geography is worth nothing can be convinced in a minute of its usefulness by a skilful parent, or teacher, with the aid of a newspaper.

Your boy may hate spelling and can see no sense in learning to spell. Ask him if he can find a misspelled word in the morning or evening newspaper. Then he will see that the hundreds of people engaged in making this paper must be able to spell. If he hates to write compositions, let him know of the experience of the people who write the news columns. Most any pupil can find good samples of English on the editorial page of a newspaper and they likely will be more interesting than any in their text books, written years ago.

Arithmetic Problems

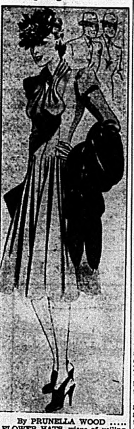
And that arithmetic! Pick up today's paper, Dad, and write out a number of fascinating problems for your boy or girl based on the news of the day. Fractions, usually dry, can be moistened by turning to the market page in a newspaper. In the industrial news are abundant interesting figures to train children at home and school in reading and writing large numbers. If I were teaching again in the upper elementary grades or high school, I should work out with my students many lessons from the newspaper.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Recently I administered the first bodily pain to my little girl, just beginning to walk. I am training her to keep away from the gas stove. Right after I punish her she weeps with great feeling and wants me to caress her. I do. Is this right?

A. No. Properly you gave this tot pain on purpose to connect the pain with the object she shall always avoid. Follow it with pleasure and you lessen the effect of the punishment. Besides, you suggest to her that it was a matter of feeling, that now you are making up to her for having hurt her.

Spring Ahead



By PRUNELLA WOOD .....

FLOWER HATS, wisps of veiling, boutonnieres and silly little slippers are harbingers of spring already in the shops. They need soft costumes to show them off, and that is why this American-designed coat is a find for the woman with the vernal season about to overtake her wardrobe.

It is made of a steel gray wool — a color to watch this year — and its skirt is gracefully fulled by cartridge pleated headings which conceal pockets, while a jabot collar of self fabric gives softness to the elegantly fitted top. There is almost no accessory tone which won't "go" with this particular shade of gray, and only the unhealthiest kind of sallow skin will quarrel with it.

A Three Minute Journey...

Touring the Deep South

By TEMPLE MANNING

TOURIST interest in the deep south is increasing rapidly. Not only Georgia, the Carolinas and Tennessee, but such states as Alabama and Mississippi are branching of the territory that make up the ing host to an increasing number of visitors each winter.

We know many travellers who have visited Nice and San Remo, but who have never even heard of such resorts as Pass Christian, Biloxi and Gulfport. Yet, for generations these lovely Mississippi gulf resorts have been known to a discriminating few for their quiet charm, their beauty, their facilities for recreation and their easy, gracious style of living. Sportsmen also know them for their fishing, water sports and marvelous wild game shooting.

Retain Their Charm

Modern buildings and new hotels haven't robbed Pass Christian or Biloxi of their charm. The climate is grand, the lavender wisteria puts on its loveliest dress, the camellia japonica adds its soft beauty, and while winter still lingers, the azalea opens into bloom.

We have driven from New Orleans along a beautiful highway for numerous visits to Biloxi and Pass Christian, and each time we have lingered to enjoy and to admire. We are glad that this lovely winter holiday region is fast gaining favor and coming into the success and prosperity it so richly deserves.

But Mississippi has other grand tourist attractions, one of which is Natchez, with its pre-war mansions, rich plantations and incredibly beautiful gardens. It's a city with a story-book charm. During the traditional garden celebration daily tours are conducted to the gardens of its citizens, and visitors are received as guests in many of the famous homes of the region. This is an experience not likely to be ignored or forgotten. Time and romance have woven a sweet spell about these mansions and their grounds, and there is an overpowering beauty everywhere.

Azalea Time in Mobile

State's Capital

About three hours away is Jackson, capital city of the state and a grand headquarters for excursions to the great cotton lands of the Delta, and the rugged battle-scarred heights of Vicksburg. The city has had a romantic history from the time of the Spanish settlement in the eighteenth century, and traces of its past are everywhere. In Vicksburg is the famous National Military Park, encompassing the battlefields. The Memorial Gateway to the area is an impressive introduction to the region.

We haven't left much room to chat about Alabama and its enchanting beauty. Mobile is a great tourist spot and it would be worth a visit if it had nothing else to offer than the Azalea Trail, 17 miles of glowing color through and about the city. In spring, when the azaleas do their stuff, Mobile is one of the world's flower centres. Montgomery, capital of Alabama, is just filled with all sorts of interesting sights. It is a living album of the varied past of the state, a reminder that six flags have flown over parts of the territory that makes up the state. Travelling is surely a grand way to study history!

Caroline Chatfield Says Today

Why Men Leave Home

Yesterday a fond mother was raking over the coals her bachelor son for having checked out on her, leaving her to entertain some callers the evening before.

"Now you didn't have a business engagement, did you"? she asked testily.

"No, I didn't," he replied, "but I had listened to all the hair talk I could take at one sitting. Why is it you women think we men are interested in hair; when and where you got your permanents, how much they cost and how long they last? Why is it that whenever a bunch of women get together they talk about hair?"

"It isn't true", said his mother.

"Oh, yes, it is. You ask any married man and he will tell you the same thing: let a bunch of women get together and in three minutes they will be on the subject of hair. I've always heard that when women swarmed they discussed men, boy-friends and husbands, but, believe me, when the men are around it's hair, hair, hair. The poor husbands have to take it but we bachelors don't."

Hearing that stiff little tiff between mother and son, I made up my mind to enquire into the subject. So I called up a model husband and said to him, "I want you to clear up a little matter for me. What do your wife's friends talk about when they foregather in your living room?"

"They talk about hair principally. It's the most disgusting thing in the world. If you'd break it up you'd be doing us men a great service".

"That's funny", I said, as if I had never heard the subject mentioned. "Why is it?"

"Frankly", he replied. "I think it's because they have nothing else to talk about. You know a woman can't stand a pause in the conversation and she will talk whether or not she has anything to say."

aiertdctsu ..,?yi- mwLarf

Now I ask, you, gentle reader, if that's not ironical? The poor gals spend a goodly proportion of their time and their pocketbook contents in beauty shops, trying to be beautiful for the men, and, like all the rest of the human race, they talk about what they are doing either to call attention to good results, or to alibi for poor results, and the men are irritated with them to the point of infuriation.

"Where your treasure is there will your heart be also", and that applies to personal vanity as well as to financial investments, religious convictions and general conversation.

Dressing Up Your Salads

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

SALADS COME into their own with Lent and housewives like to try out various recipes to determine just which will be first favorites through the spring and summer. Since so much of a salad depends upon its dressing, we offer here some swell variations on the mayonnaise theme, mayonnaise being perhaps the favorite salad dressing.

First is a mayonnaise that becomes rosy when teamed up with pimientos. Ingredients include one cup mayonnaise, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-half cup chopped pimiento, one cup fresh tomatoes, skinned and chilled. To mayonnaise add Worcestershire sauce, pimiento and tomatoes, which have been cut into small shreds. Chill. Makes about one and one-half cups dressing.

Cucumber Variety

Cucumber Mayonnaise is made with one-half cup each mayonnaise and sour cream, and one-fourth cup cucumber, chilled and finely diced. Fold mayonnaise into slightly-whipped cream. Add cucumber and blend. Chill in automatic refrigerator. Makes one cup mayonnaise.

Another interesting dressing is made with one-half cup each of mayonnaise and sour cream, the latter slightly whipped. Fold mayonnaise into cream. Chill. This is delicious when served with tart fruit or vegetable salads.

Russian Dressing has many variations, the Florida variety being quite different from that served in, say, Chicago. Here is our favorite version. We make it with a cup of mayonnaise, two tablespoons chili sauce, one-half teaspoon each paprika and vinegar and two tablespoons finely chopped pimiento. Add other ingredients to mayonnaise, blend and chill.

Cheese Mayonnaise is swell when you want to turn every course into a gastronomic event. Make it with one three-ounce package cream cheese, tablespoon lemon juice, one fourth teaspoon salt, one-half cup Roquefort cheese, one-half cup each mayonnaise and cream. Blend cream cheese, lemon juice and salt. Force Roquefort cheese through coarse sieve and add alternately with mayonnaise, beating well. Add cream gradually, beating constantly. Chill. Serve with endive, hearts of lettuce or tomato salad. Makes one and three-fourths cups mayonnaise.

QUATERNION Y.P.U.

The Quarternion Y.P.U. met Monday evening for their weekly meeting in Tabernacle United Church with fifty present. The meeting opened with the President, Miss Helen Thompson presiding.

Miss Helen Brown was in charge of the Worship Service. She was assisted by Mr. Don Alexander who read the Scripture lesson, Miss Jean Mathews giving a poem and Miss Mildred Greatrix leading in prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. A short business period followed.

Arrangments were made for a number to attend a Y.P.U. rally in Foxboro this week.

Miss Marion Daniels, Christian Culture convener, had charge of the program. She chose as her topic "Your actions speak louder than words". This subject was ably dealt with by Mr. Bill Brennan and Miss Helen Jeffrey. Miss Marion Daniel closed the meeting with prayer.

Games under the direction of Miss Jean Mathews were greatly enjoyed. As usual the Friendship Circle concluded the meeting.

HAWES' Canada's Favorite FLOOR WAX

Tweed

Tweed — Mr. Carman C. Atton has joined Tweed Steel Works as assistant to the Manager. He attended Toronto University and Technical School.

Stoco Lake was the centre of attraction on Saturday and Sunday, especially for the younger generation who were attracted there by a red monoplane which was flown in by a Kingston pilot. A record number of youngsters and adults took advantage of the modest charge to experience the thrill of their first aeroplane ride and view their home town from the air.

Miss Enid Connor of Toronto spent the week end at her home in Tweed.

Mr. Hillier Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Thompson of Northbrook has just been granted his commercial pilot's licence from Kingston Flying Club. This permits him to fly all types of commercial planes.

Recently it was announced that Mr. Robert "Bob" Watson of Tweed Bank of Montreal branch staff had been transferred to Mitchell. A short time after the announcement was made, the transfer was cancelled, and Mr. Watson will remain as teller of the local branch. His friends are very glad that a change has been made in the arrangements.

Miss Margaret Moffatt of Belleville spent the week end in Tweed.

Mr. C. Atton of Tweed Steel Works staff met with a painful injury last week when he crushed the end of his left index finger while operating a machine at the plant.

The following officers of Tweed Liberal Association were elected on Wednesday evening: President, Stanley Tufts; Vice President, Charles Dion; Secretary Treasurer Charles James.

Mr. Robert Palmateer of Hungerford Township was operated on at Belleville General Hospital for removal of appendix. He is progressing favorably.

Mrs. Maria MacDonald received word that her brother-in-law, Mr. B. H. McLean had passed away suddenly in Winnipeg following a heart attack. The deceased was well known in Tweed. A number of years ago he married a Tweed girl, Mary Rath, to whom the sympathy of many Tweed friends is extended. Mrs. MacDonald attended the funeral which was held in Winnipeg.

Messrs. Harold Pringle and Russell Brocha of Flinton who joined the H. & P. E. Regiment at Picton some time ago have been transferred to an Eastern Canada training centre.

The annual Congregational meeting of Sulphide United Church was held on Tuesday night, with Rev. H. L. Morrison as chairman. Reports of the activities of the Church and its various departments were given: Sunday School, Mr. O. B. Edgley, superintendent; Y. P. Union, Miss Earla Credicott, president: W. A., Mrs. A. Corbet; Financial report of the church, Mr. Jas. Corbet, treasurer.

The following were elected as elders and inducted on Sunday: Mesrs. H. Varty, A. W. Moirs, G. H. Cotton and A. Corbet.

Mr. Joseph Torch, a former resident of Sulphide, now residing in Montreal, recently rescued a nine-year-old boy, Leslie Crompton from drowning in the St. Lawrence River, while playing along the bank of the river, the youngster slipped down the twenty-foot bank into the river. His chum, hurrying to summon help, hailed Mr. Torch, who had just stopped at a nearby garage. With the aid of a tow rope, Mr. Torch was able to hold the lad at the edge of the ice until additional help was secured to haul him to safety. Two days later a 12-year-old boy was drowned in practically the same spot.

The Women's War Work Committee of Actinolite and Queensboro branches of Elzevir Township had made and shipped the following supplies to Red Cross Headquarters:—

8 pneumonia jackets, 36 abdominal binders, 36 triangular bandages, 36 T binders, 31 pairs of socks, 8 pairs of wristlets, 6 bed-pan covers, 10 surgical towels, 29 pillow cases. Since the organization of the branch in November, $275.02 has been collected. Expenditures have been $177.54, leaving a balance of $97.48.

British People Do Not Lack Tenacity States German Officer

Zurich, Switzerland, Feb. 20. — (CP-Havas) — The British people "have many weak points", but they "certainly do not have the one known as lack of tenacity", writes General Horst Von Metzch, German military expert, in the Nazi newspaper Deutsche Adelsblatt, copies of which were received here today.

"We are only at the beginning of the war", the German officer wrote. "At the most we are in its second phase— if you want to call the Polish prelude the first phase. This second phase is marked by many victories of German airplanes and submarines. But many ships still reach Great Britain daily.

"Moreover new construction and buying are beginning to compensate for losses inflicted on Allied shipping by our planes and submarines."

—Warning that Great Britain may duplicate its feat of the first Great War by putting 1,000,000 men on the Western Front, Von Metzch said:—

"Once the decision is taken the English will not have the least hesitation. Full realization of this project will take several years. The fact that they have already begun means to us that they have made up their mind to fight a long war.

"There is no need to believe Churchill's statistics, but we must not, on the other hand, underestimate the stubbornness of which the English are capable. Our adversary may have many weak points, but he certainly does not have the one known as lack of tenacity.

"The best thing to do, certainly, is to strength our own fighting power. That is the only constant in the war equation, and this is constant only in so far as the data on which it is based include no unknowns. The same is true of enemy No. 2 France."

GT. WAR VETERAN EXPERT KNITTER

Chas. H. Whittard, Lingham St., Learned Art While Confined to Hospital for 13 Years

STILL CONVALESCENT

Despite a war disability that has kept him in hospital for thirteen years of the last twenty, and to the confinement of his home for the remaining period, Charles H. Whittard, 46-year-old veteran of 140 Lingham Street, does not intend to let these things prevent him from doing his part in helping to win the war.

An experienced knitter, who learned his art during long tedious years of hospitalization and convalescence, Mr. Whittard is now applying the knowledge gained in hospital wards to the assistance of the Red Shield Auxiliary of Salvation Army in their war efforts of supplying knitted garments for the troops in Canada and overseas.

This knitting business is no recent "pick-up" job, Mr. Whittard smiles. Thirteen years in hospital leaves one with plenty of time on one's hands, and in the hospital days during the last war and the convalescent period which followed, there was plenty of time in which one could learn the art of knitting and other hobbies usually associated with the feminine gender.

However, Mr. and Mrs. Whittard are losing no time. To date they have knitted forty-eight pairs of socks, 24 pullover sweaters, scarfs and woollen wristlets. And Mrs. Whittard will modestly admit that her husband has done the greater part of it.

Socks and sweaters and other immediate war necessities are things that are taken in Mr. Whittard's stride.

His skill with the needles long ago took him into other fields of production. Recently he knitted a woollen suit for a baby of a friend of his. "But the child never wore it alive," he said. She died just before it was completed, and she wore it in her tiny coffin."

A miner in the British Columbian coal-fields in 1915, he enlisted with a tunnelling company attached to the Canadian Engineers. After rapid training he found himself in France at the latter part of that year, remaining there until 1919.

Wounded in the head in the Yyres Salient in 1916, he remained in France until well, his injuries not being severe enough to warrant hospitalization in "Blighty."

Later however, complications set in which sent him to a hospital for thirteen years after his discharge from the army. He has been in poor health ever since and has been unable to carry on his vocation. However, he has adapted himself to existing circumstances, and through the medium of his clever fingers, is once again doing his bit for King and Empire.

"We are going to do what we can to help win the war," he smiles, "and so far as I am concerned, all I can do is knit. We are going to continue this work in an effort to help the boys over there."

Mr. and Mrs. Whittard receive their supplies from the Red Shield Auxiliary and periodically officers of the organization call and receive the finished garments which they say, are some of the finest produced in the city.

Cap Begins Second Episode as War Clothing Donation

Among the articles which have been sent to the local branch of the Red Cross is a knitted cap which was made for a soldier in the last war and never arrived at its proper destination. The cap went overseas in a parcel for a prisoner of war, but the soldier for whom it was intended had been moved from camp and the parcel was returned. Arriving back in Canada the article was placed in cedar chest, and now over twenty years later it again starts on its war journey.

The local branch forwarded to headquarters on Monday the following articles: 192 pairs of sox, 42 scarves, 48 wristlets, 48 pairs pyjamas, 11 pneumonia jackets, 8 hospital gowns, 24 ice-bag covers, 4 pairs of hospital sox and 4 triangular bandages.

Donations of money have been sent the Red Cross through the Women's War Work Committee as follows: Avondale Neighbors' Aid; Foxboro United Church Red Cross Unit; Chatterton Women's Institute; Belleville W.C.T.U. Contributions of finished garments and refugee clothes weer made by Cannifton Red Cross Committee; Foxboro United Church Red Cross unit; the Eastern Star, and the Baptist Church.

Madoc

Madoc — On Wednesday evening, Feb. 14, members of Madoc Women's Institute and their friends enjoyed a Valentine party at the home of Mrs. Jas. Caskey. Bridge and euchre were enjoyed for the early part of the evening, the prizes for bridge being won by Mrs. Hulin and Mr. C. Johnson and euchre by Mrs. Golan and Mr. Bert Bailey. A bountiful lunch was served after which the guests enjoyed dancing for sometime. Music was furnished by Mrs. A. Kincaid and R. Caskey. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess. Owing to weather conditions the crowd was not as large as usual, but a real good time was enjoyed by those present.

The Ladies' Guild of St. John's Anglican Church Guild met in their rooms on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Pepper opened the meeting with prayer and gave a reading on Evangelism. A large number were in attendance, it being the birthdays of Mrs. Charles Hart and Mrs. E. C. Tufts, both being active members of the Guild. Lunch was served by the members and gifts of cake plates were given the two ladies by Mrs. Pepper and Mrs. Ed. Phillips.

Hockey — Madoc-Bata

Friday night was hockey night in Madoc when the visiting team was Bata. A good game was played throughout, with Bata holding down the home team 3-0 in the first two periods, but ending up with Madoc coming out on top in the last period 4-3.

Line-ups:

Madoc: Goal, Martin; Def., Embury, Larone; Centre, Keller; Wings Akey, Hayworth; Subs., Gilman, Vance, Stewart, Hawthorne.

Bata: Goal, Lawrence; Def., Guay, Stojan; Centre, Reid; Wings Mayette, Foster; Subs., Rose, Pollard, McDonald and Dore.

The February meeting of the Women's Club of St. Peter's Presbyterian Club was held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Watson on Thursday evening. Miss Jean Mackintosh, president, took charge of the meeting with Mrs. Ora Reid and Mrs. Robert Miller taking part in the devotional exercises. Considerable business was discussed and plans made for a rummage sale to be held in March. Two readings, "Why We are at War" and "The Native's Return" were given by Mrs. G. L. Thain and very much enjoyed. Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Watson assisted by Mrs. Kenneth West.

Maple Leafs, Black Hawks Enter Finals of Juvenile Loop

Both Teams Win Over Amerks and Canadiens Respectively by 3 to 2 Count

HEAVY, STICKY ICE

The Maple Leafs and the Black Hawks will battle it out for the Belleville Juvenile Hockey League championship, as the result of being the winners in the league semi-finals last night at the Hume Arena. In the opening game Cliff Howie's Black Hawks came from behind to win over the Canadiens 3 to 2, while in the nightcap affair the league-leading Maple Leafs duplicated the former trick to win 2 to 1. Both games were played on heavy, sticky ice, which tended to mitigate efforts at good hockey throughout.

Following the games President Frank Cunningham announced that Bill Dennis and Fred Reid, co-managers of the eliminated Americans had been named to head the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Club in the Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association. The Belleville teen-aged puck squad will be selected Thursday the names taken from some 20 names proposed in the recent league "all-star" selections and to be announced later, President Cunningham revealed.

Ross Howe's long shot, that dribbled past Mills late in the third period, gave the Black Hawks a 3-2 win over the Canadiens in the opening game, that saw the Hawks come from behind and score two goals in the last stanza.

Tempers flared in the final stages of this game as Maracle and Hunter tangled for a penalty and McBride punched Hall for a second dual rest period, as the players found good hockey and stickhandling impossible on the heavy ice.

Each squad scored in the initial stanza, while the Canadiens scored the only tally in the second period. Trailing in the last stanza Rosebush knotted the count and Rowe's long driftef dribbled in. Cook, McCabe and Maracle looked the best for the winners as Reid, Barrett, and Theobald carried the mail for the losers.

The Opener

The line-ups — Canadiens, goal, Mills, defence, Hunter, O'Connor, centre, Reid; wings, Theobald, Barrett. Subs—Bennett, Rogers, Hutchinson, Symons and McBride.

Black Hawks, goal, Cook, defence, Rowe, Fitzgibbon, centre, McCabe, wings, Rosebush, Maracle, Subs — Hall, Davis, Holway.

Summary

1st Period—
1 Black Hawks, Maracle (McCabe) 3.15
2 Canadiens, O'Connor (Reid) 5.51
Penalties—Rogers, Davis.
2nd Period—
3 Canadiens, Barrett, (Reid, Theobald) 6.35
Penalties—Reid.
3rd Period—
4 Black Hawks, Bush (Maracle) 4.45
5 Black Hawks, Rowe 18.09
Penalties—Hunter, Maracle, Hall, McBride.
Referee—Don Lee.

Sloppy Ice

After Cook had scored for the Americans on a solo effort, early in the second game, May back-handed Goyer's pass into the 'Amerks' goal for the equalizer. May also got the winning goal in the middle stanza, whipping in Barnum's corner pass-out. The Americans missed several chances to knot the count in the last period, but good hockey was impossible and the teams reverted to golf-like plays. Clarke, Goyer, May and Barnum looked the best for the winners, as Sharpe broke up many plays at the defence for the losers, as the Maple Leafs showed more speed and willingness to pass the puck. Rosebush and Cook played steady hockey for the losers also.

The Nightcap

The line-ups—Maple Leafs—goal, Clarke, defence, Ingram, Langabeer, centre, Goyer, wings, May, Robertson, subs, Powers Barnum, Bradley and Keegan.

Americans—goal, Mills, defence, Sharpe, McGuire, centre, Kellar, wings, Rosebush, Cronk, subs, Carson, Reid, Cook and Rose.
Referee—Cliff Howie.

Summary

1st Period
1 Americans, Cook 6.30
2 Maple Leafs, May (Goyer). 17.55
Penalties—none.
2nd Period
3 Maple Leafs, May (Barnum) 7.50
Penalties—Kellar.
3rd Period
No score.
Penalties—Kellar 2.

JIMMY SHECKARD COLLECTS MILK

Once Famous Member of Chicago Outfield Says He is Coming Back

Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 20—(AP) — Jimmy Sheckard—once the toast of 1,000,000 baseball fans—now heaves 10-gallon milk cans around for a living, but he hopes to return to the game that made him a prominent figure three decades ago. He collects milk from farmers and hauls it to the city.

Sheckard, now gray-haired and 61, was a member of the Chicago Cubs famous "S" outfield back in 1906-'07-'08-'09 and '10 when the Cubs dominated the National League. Jimmy Slagle and Frank Schulte were the other outfielders.

The stock market crash of 1929 wiped out what money Sheckard had saved from a baseball era when salaries were well below five figures, but, he says:

"I don't figure baseball owes me a living. I may be down but I'm far from striking out. I hope to return to the game one of these days."

Two years ago, he declared, Connie Mack of Philadelphia Athletics, offered him the managership of the Federalsburg Md., team in the Eastern Shore League, but he was unable to accept.

Buzz Boll

But for a couple of aggravating injuries that spoiled two seasons and possibly his career as a great hockey player, Buzz Boll might now be winning acclaim as one of the National league's best left wings. He broke in with Toronto Maple Leafs six years ago, after a year at Syracuse, and soon won a place as one of the fastest skating and most effective wings in the league He got 12 goals that season, 14 the next and 15 the next. Came 1936-37 and he was forced to spend most of the season on the sidelines with a broken arm. The following season he bounced back with another 14 goals, and then last winter he suffered a leg injury that kept him out altogether, although he got in a few games at Syracuse in an effort to get back into his best form. Before the present season got under way he was shipped to the Amerks, along with Harvey Jackson and Doc Romnes, in exchange for Sweeney Schriner. Full name is Frank Thorman Boll. Born at Pilmore, Sask., and played his first amateur hockey on the prairies, junior with Regina Pats and senior with Weyburn. Came east for a season with Toronto Marlboros, his last amateur club. March 6 will be his 29th birthday. Mathematical totals until start of present season: 61 goals, 39 assists and 69 minutes in penalties.

TOMORROW: Bill Hollett, Bruins.

Toronto Leafs Play the Bruins When Team is Hot

Boston, Feb. 20.—(CP)—As if it wasn't bad enough that they have just come through two tough games with Montreal Canadiens, it is now the lot of Toronto Maple Leafs to meet Boston Bruins at a time when the Stanley Cup champions are fighting for every possible point.

The Bruins, winners of their last five starts, are engaged in a hectic race with New York Rangers for the top spot in the National Hockey League standing. At present, the Rangers hold the upper hand with a two- point lead but the Blueshirts have played three games more.

Boston's power in recent days is best demonstrated by the fact that the Bruins have amassed 32 goals in their five-game winning streak while only eight shots have eluded Goalie Frankie Brimsek.

The game will give Milt Schmidt of the Bruins a chance to improve his position as top man among N.H.L. scorers. Schmidt, with 17 goals and 22 assists, is four points ahead of Bryan Hextall of the Rangers.

McPhail Predicts Dodgers Will be Quite a Team

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 20—(AP)—Larry MacPhail, pleased with his Brooklyn ball club strengthening deals, predicted today that "The Dodgers will be better this year than last".

The prediction was almost the same as saying the National League pennant fight this season will be between his Dodgers and some other club.

Brooklyn finished in third place last year, 12 1-2 games behind the Champion Cincinnati Reds.

To bolster a weak hitting outfield MacPhail bought veteran Joe Vosmik from the Boston Red Sox; signed Roy Cullenbine, made a Detroit Free agent by Commissioner K. M. Landis recently; and brought up Calvin Chapman from Nashville of the Southern Association.

"Everybody is yelling about Benny McCoy," said MacPhail, "but when he and Cullenbine played on the same club in the American Association and looked at the same pitching, Cullenbine had the biggest batting average. The boy's big, fast and can throw. I'm satisfied he'll make good for us."

SNEAD STROKE UP ON FIELD

Scores Three Under Par to Take Lead in Western Open Golf Tourney

Houston, Tex. Feb. 20.—(AP) Back in the groove, Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. clouter, was a stroke to the good today as he entered the final rounds of the western open golf tournament.

In the first round of the western over the Long River Oaks par 71 course he picked up a 75. Then yesterday he seared the layout with a three under par 68, which gave him a total of 143 and a slim margin as the field teed off for the 36-hole finals of the $5,000 competition.

Snead said the recent extraction of some teeth had not helped his game. "I'm just back in the groove," he said. "Now, if I could only relax a little more . . . "

One shot off the pace was Clayton Heafner of Linville, N.C. He put together two 72's for his 144. At 145 were Ralph Guldahl of Dallas, Jack Grout, handsome young Mamaroneck, N.Y., pro, and Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass.

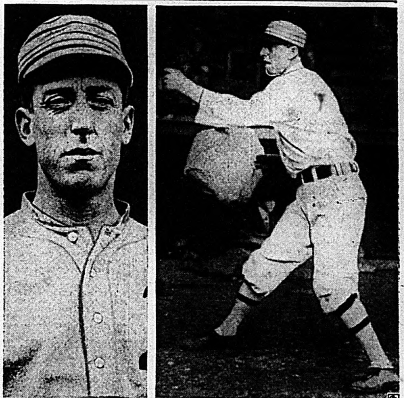
DIAMOND METEORS

Plank, A'S Lefthander of Yore Had Reason for Every Pitch



Eddie Plank — a close-up and at height of career.

By CENTRAL PRESS CANADIAN

One of the greatest lefthanders of his day, Edward W. (Eddie) Plank, pitching star of Philadelphia's million-dollar team at the turn of the century, is said to have had a reason for every ball delivered whether the score was close or one-sided.

Ungainly in action, looking like a farmer boy with hay seed in his hair and extremely fidgety, Plank nevertheless carved a niche in baseball's hall of fame by 17 years of stellar pitching for two clubs, the Philadelphia Athletics in the American league and the St. Louis team in the Federal and American leagues.

Plank was one of the most serious baseball players of his day. Smart and with faultless control, the left-hander of the early Athletics won 20 or more games in eight of his 17 years and ended his career with 310 wins against 183 losses.

Gettysburg Hero

The great lefthander was born in Gettysburg, Pa., Civil war battle site, in 1875. Until his death in 1926 he was considered a Gettysburg hero to one and all who came in contact with him.

No minor league career was Plank's, He was yanked right off the campus at Gettysburg college by Connie Mack in 1901. He made good right at the start, winning 16 games his first season with the Athletics.

Plank's best weapon was his knowledge of opposing batsmen's weaknesses. Donie Bush, a great Detroit shortstop in those days and later a major league manager, frequently told his cohorts that: "I'd rather hit against Walter Johnson any day than against Plank."

Didn't Pitch in Series

They still tell the story about Plank's absence in the 1910 world series when Connie Mack refused to pitch him, although Plank had won 16 games during the season. Jack Coombs and Chief Bender did all the work in the series.

According to George Moriarty, the umpire, the reason Plank didn't pitch was because the Macks were holding him for the rubber game if necessary because the Cubs had been hitting good all season against south-paw pitching.

Plank's best year was in 1912 when he won 26 games while losing but six.

If you happen to hear the strains of music emanating from the vicinity of the Market Square tonight, promptly become inquisitive and investigate this sudden outbreak of band music as it may result in something to your advantage. Actually we can tell you now it will be the music of the Belleville Public School Boys' Band under the baton of Alf Cooper, who will entertain the patrons at tonight's Kingston at Belleville junior O.H.A. play-off tussle. As most hockey fans know the Belleville kids held Wally Elmer's good Kingston sextette to a five - all draw in their first meeting, but according to what information we can gather the series is by no means over and tonight's game will see plenty of hockey before the winner is declared. The local kids should enjoy a slight advantage of the smaller home ice, but aside from this feature the clubs are "all-even."

In order that the fans may acquaint themselves with the personnel of both teams tonight, we obtained the line-ups with numbers of the two clubs, which should assist the fans in keeping up with the play. The line-ups and numbers are:

Belleville	Positon	Kingston
Cook, (1)	Goal	Udall (1)
Goyer (2)	Def.	Nickolson (10)
Clare (3)	Def.	Sheats (2)
Storms (8)	Centre	Carleton (4)

Do you remember when once the bad boy of baseball, Percy L. (Pat) Malone decided to quit hurling curves and start pitching highballs across a bar one year ago today? Refusing to accept relegation to the minors, 38-year-old Yankees pitcher rounded out a 10-year career in big leagues in 1937, then spent a season in the minors before buying a bar and cafe in his hometown, Altoona, Pa.

If Manager Bill Terry of the Giants doesn't like Steve Tramback as an outfielder he might try him on the mound. Last year at Fort Smith, Steve played the garden in 87 games and hit .332. The rest of the time Pete was pitching winning 21 games and losing five,

It will be the Maple Leafs versus the Black Hawks in the City Juvenile Hockey League finals; last night's league sudden death finals seeing the Leafs win 3-2 over the Americans and the Black Hawks triumph 3-2 over the Canadiens. The ice was heavy and a true test was not made, although on the season's play the Maple Leafs and the Black Hawks finished one-two, which no doubt proves the league finalists are as good "mudders" and they were dominate in the league schedule. The heavy ice made good hockey impossible and resulted in tempers flaring up in the Canadien-Hawk game when a couple of minor fisticuffs were seen with no great damage resulting. The names of the 20 players selected from the league for the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Club, entered in the Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association, will be tabulated and released about Thursday, according to President Frank Cunningham. The kids in the City Juvenile loop have been battling with energy to gain a berth on the "all-star" squad and those not selected should remember — "there's another year coming."

Johnny "Peanut" Gathercol, that mightly little atom of energy who wore No. 13 jersey for the Air Force pucksters this winter, button-holed us over the week end. "Why couldn't I have played for the Belleville juniors? I was only 19 years old last month and I would have much preferred playing junior than senior," revealed Gathercol, who doesn't stand an inch over five foot three and tips the scale beam at 110 pounds. Gathercol would have been a tower of offensive strength playing on the Quintes' front lines and alas, we are as disappointed as the courageous "Peanut" over his inability to have donned a Quinte sweater. Gathercol was far from being the weak sister with the Flyers, as a matter of fact he played consistent hockey with the "airmen" and possessed more of that "will to win" than many as the kid took his bumps with the largest of 'em and asked no quarter.

Once again the Flyers fell before the flying Petes but it wasn't before the Liftlock City pucksters suffered from a bad case of the "puck jitters" regarding military imports. After viewing the season's play there was not much doubt as to the ultimate outcome, although last night's 11 to 1 reverse suffered by the Flyers must have been humiliating. Actually neither the Flyers nor the Redmen could cope with the speedy Pete forwards, who lost one league game all season, that coming when the "Airmen" downed 'em 2-1 in their initial meeting at the Hume Arena. The Petes' front trio of Kingdon, Tompkins and Heale skated much too fast for the rest of the loop, and therein lies the answer to the entire situation, as we differ with the Peterboro' scribe, who gives all the credit to his pet defencemen. Take those flying forwards away from the Petes last year and the Redmen would have made it interesting in 1939. In the meantime the Belleville puck fans will be paramountly interested in the future welfare of the Petes and we will wish 'em "the very best there is to be had in 1940 hockey play-offs."

Looks as though Wally Elmer's Kingston hockey wedge got the thin edge in since last Friday. Billie Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A. appointed Alex Weir of Brighton for both of the Kingston-Belleville games. However, today it was announced that "Army" Armstrong, of Oshawa, will toot the whistle here tonight. "Nice going, Wally."

SPORT SPICE — "Simon" Legris scored the Flyers' only goal last night as the Petes rubbed the "airmen" out of the O.H.A. picture in three straight. President Frank Shaughnesy, of the International Baseball League, has proposed an all-star game among the minor leagues in Florida to be played for the Finnish Relief Fund. ... The majors already have advertised such a game with Bill McKechnie and Joe McCarthy as respective managers. .... R.M.C. closed off its sports calender with a win over Queens last night and the Royal Military College will close for the duration of the war. In their first inter-school game, the Albert College co-ed basketball team beat the Belleville Collegiate lassies in an exhibition game yesterday.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reason-

GASOLINE WAR ON IN LONDON AREA

24 Stations Now Price Cutting and More Joining Each Day

London, Ont., Feb. 20—(CP)—The gasoline price war spread to at least 24 stations in London today as four companies, including two national firms, were drawn into the fuel market conflict opened last week by an independent distributor.

Prevailing cut-rate prices remained at 21, 23 and 25 cents per gallon, taxes paid, which is four cents below standard figures.

Large banners and newspaper advertising were brought into play by competitors in an effort to gain an edge by booming volume of sales.

PETES ELIMINATE TRENTON FLYERS FROM PLAYOFFS

Lift Lock Crew Score Third Straight Win and Proceed Into Next Round

TOO MUCH SPEED

Eddie Starr Knocks Home Three Goals in Record Time

For the third consecutive year the Peterboro' intermediates eliminated the R.C.A. "Flyers" in the O.H.A. group play-offs when the Petes made a clean sweep of the group series this year, winning at home by a rather one-sided 11 to 1 count played on rather soft ice. The Petes took the series in three straight games, having won the initial two by 6-3 and 4-1 scores.

The Petes carried too much speed and general hockey ability for the Flyers throughout the entire season and are worthy intermediate "A" representatives to the O.H.A. playdowns. As in former games, the Petes were never in danger of losing at home last night when the final curtain was rung down in the Liftlock City. Although the Flyers held the Petes to a 1-1 count in the initial session as the result of goals by Tompkins and Legris, the homesters rammed in seven goals in the middle session and added three more in the last period. Harding, the Petes' goalie, blanked the Holway-led sexttete for the last 50 minutes of the game.

The Petes goals came in bunches once they started to score with Eddie Starr getting three of them, while Drake Jopling, defense player, had four assists. It was just a case of playing out the string in the third period.

Fliers—Goal, Gibson; defense, Cameron, Higgins; centre, Lightfoot; wings., Lemieux, McNabb; subs, Legris,, Baldwin, Gathercol, Irwin, Floyd.

Petes—Goal, Harding; defense, Burton, Gardner; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins, Heal; subs, Starr, Coughlin, Blewitt, Crowe, F. Jopling, J. Jopling.

Referee—D. A. Houston, Toronto.

TRENTON DEFEATS PICTON 6-2 TO WIN THE ROUND

Will Now Play Brockville Riversides in Next Round of Junior "C" Playdowns

INGLIS, McCOLL STARS

Goal Tending of Martin for Picton Saves Team From Worse Beating.

Trenton, Feb. 20 —(Special) — Extra power all along the line gave Trenton Rotarians the added punch, that enabled them to walk over Picton All-Stars 6 to 2 here last night before the largest crowd of the season. The loss put the invaders out of the running and at the same time put the locals into the next stage of the Junior "C" O.H.A. play-offs with Brockville Riversides.

With last Wednesday's shellacking still fresh in their minds Trenton was out to avenge their stubborn rivals and proved once and for all that they are the better team, despite the terrific effort that Picton put forth to maintain their superiority. Trenton held the visitors tight in their own end of the rink for the better part of the game seldom letting the enemy forwards away for a clean shot at the home goal. On the other hand the localites swamped the Picton net on many different occasions, only the standout net minding of Martin prevented the All-Stars from entombment beneath a scoring avalanche. Picton held the lead at the beginning however when Mason beat Frost at 6.03.

Inglis, McColl Star

Inglis and McColl figured for Trenton's total, the former counting thrice and the latter twice.... "Bug" White planted the other Trenton goal......The end-to-end rushes of defenceman Orser was another reason why Trenton overthrew the invader, the burly rearguardsman was a threat every time he had the puck, time and again breaking clean through to be thwarted only by Martin between the pipes. Picton revived weakly in the final round when Mason sank his second goal at 10.12. A score by Watson as the game ended was not counted. Penalties were scattered and fewer than expected but an injury to Reid in the middle session marred the contest somewhat for up until that time the play had been exceptionally clean for such an important fixture. Young Reid suffered a nasty gash in the back of his head which required several stitches to close, and he did not return to the ice the remainder of play. The team: Picton—goal — Martin; defence—Platford and Hicks; centre—Pike; wings—VanDusen and Helferty; alternates — J. O'Neil, Frederick, Roblin, P. O'Neil and Biddle. Trenton: goal—Frost; defence—Orser and Burtt; centre—Inglis; wings—Watson and Reid; alternates—McColl, Weller, Dunn, Campbell, White. Referee — "Bounce" Holway of Belleville.

SUMMARY

First Period

Picton, Mason 6.03
Trenton, McColl 12.00
Trenton, McColl (Watson) . 17.42

NORWOOD DOWNS TWEED 4 TO 3 IN THRILLING GAME

Tweed's Efforts to Rally in Last Stanza Are Warded Off

Tweed, Feb. 20 (Special) —In the hardest fought game played on local ice this season Norwood defeated Tweed by a score of 4 to 3 last night. The locals put up a great battle but the visitors outplayed them in the final minutes of the game to hold their slim margin. Orr Long and Arber played well for Tweed with Reeves in goal again doing a good job of net minding. Puffer, the two Rogers and McMaster were the pick of the visitors.

The game was fast from the opening face-off with Tweed having a decided edge. McMaster, in the visitors' net, was called on to make several hard stops in the first few minutes as Tweed carried the play to them. One of these ganging attacks was productive as Marsh backhanded Prevost's pass-out for the opening counter at the halfway mark. Puffer scored the equalizer on a well-executed play as he split Tweed defence wide open and feinted Reeves out of position. Rothwell drew a penalty for trippin, the only one of the period.

Play was resumed at a very fast clip in the middle session with play about evenly divided, any advantage being with the locals, whose backchecking prevented the visitors from getting close. McMaster in the visiting net had some close calls. The locals really turned on the heat and Wagar broke the deadlock on the prettiest goal of the game on a pass from Marsh. Davis and N. Rogers drew penalties for tripping. Wagar also drew a trip to the penalty box but was back before the visitors could take advantage of it. The period ended with the score Tweed 2, Norwood 1.

Rogers again put the visitors back in the running after eight minutes of strenuous playing. The deadlock was short-lived as Wagar again gave Tweed the lead on a ganging play. Leal was knocked out on a ganging play. The referees permitted the play to continue, however, and Puffer again tied the count. N Rogers, who played smart hockey at right wing put the visitors in the lead with a hard shot. The homesters put everything they had into the last few minutes but were unable to get the equalizer.

HARMONY BOYS ON THE WESTERN FRONT

This trio of members of Britain's Royal Air Force is trying out the power of music on the savage breasts across the way. The boys call themselves the "Grosvenor House Orchestra," Grosvenor House being the name of their dugout. It is also the name of a ritzy London hotel.

Off on Voyage of "Dip lomatic Exploration"

Sumner Welles, U.S. under-secretary of state, is shown with Mrs. Welles as they went aboard the S.S. Rex to sail for Europe. Mr. Welles is assigned on a diplomatic mission to sound out sentiment in European countries as regards the chances for peace. He will confer with heads of governments, belligerent and neutral, and make his report directly to the President. Myron C. Taylor, who is President Roosevelt's special peace envoy to the Vatican, also sailed on the Rex.

ALBERT LASSIES BEAT COLLEGIATE GIRLS 16 TO 10

Albert College Co-eds Win First Inter-School Game Ever Played

Paced by their high-scoring centre-forward, Helen Powell, the Albert College girls defeated the Belleville Collegiate Institute girls 16 to 10 in an exhibition cage game played at the Albert gymnasium yesterday. The game was the first inter-school co-ed basketball match ever participated in by the Albert College.

With Miss Powell scoring 12 of the winners' 16 points, the Albert lassies were leading 13 to 8 at the half-way mark. The defence of both squads proved too strong to see the score mount to any degree, however. Betty Gilbert, Jean Sherry and R. McClelland scored all of the B.C.I. points, while Shirley Harris notched the remaining four Albert scores.

The Netherlands Gov't. Protests Ship's Sinking

Amsterdam, Fef. 20—(AP)—The Netherlands Government yesterday ordered its minister in Berlin to protest "against the unjustified torpedoing" of the Netherlands motorship Arendskerk by a German submarine in the Bay of Biscay, Jan. 15.

An official announcement said the minister, Jonkheer H. M. Van Haersma De With, was instructed to file his protest "reserving all rights for indemnity and requesting measures to avoid a repetition."

The Arendskerk, a 7,906-ton vessel, sank almost immediately after being torpedoed 100 miles off the French island of Ushant near the northern end of the Bay of Biscay. Captain C. J. H. Wyker said the German commander called an Italian vessel to pick up the Arendskerk's crew, which took to four boats.

At the time of the sinking Germany charged the vessel carried contraband and Netherlands withheld action then pending an investigation.

Big Time Guy

By Edgar Daniel Kramer

The Tamale Kid had been in wrong with the Tumble R outfit ever since he had wobbled feebly from the ranch house, where motherly Mrs. Walters had nursed him through three weeks of feverish illness, to smash the lock on the bunkhouse cupboard and drink himself sodden on the liquor he had found there.

"Tamale ain't altogether to blame" Cookie Humming Byrd argued. "He didn't ask to be brought out here. He crawled under the blankets in the boss' buckboard in Three Stars to sleep off a souse, an' the next think he knew Freeney had him by the leg draggin' him to the hoss pond. With a yen for whiskey tearin' at his vitals givin' him a shot of redeye would have been an act of charity. In spite of doc's orders to the contrary. That stuff was for medicine." He grinned like a gargoyle. "Tamale wrote his own prescription."

Nevertheless, the punchers continued to snub the Tamale Kid with painful politeness. It got under his skin but he didn't let on as he boasted and blustered and sneered. Then he did what none of the waddies had been able to do. He rode the blaze-faced dun ragged.

"Why shouldn't I make that cayuse say uncle?" he demanded insolently, as he dropped from the heaving sweat-lathered animal. "Ain't I kicked thuh bangtails under thuh wire from Sheepshead to Tia Juana? Huh? Among other things, I can handle my dukes too. Now I'm in thuh pink again. I can lick this whole kaboodle of cow chaperones one at a time or all together. No foolin'." He squinted up at the foreman who was perched on the top rail of the corral fence. "Hop down, Freeney, an' get what's comin' to yuh."

While the others looked on with wide eyes and sagging jaws, the wiry runt gave his taller heavier opponent a boxing lesson. Finally his freckled, hatchet face as grim as granite, he doubled the foreman up with a vicious left in the solar plexus and laid him out dead to the world, with a pile-driving right uppercut to the button.

The next night the outfit was smoking and making chin music in the cook-shack after supper, when the Tamale Kid got something off his chest that had been troubling him a long time.

"What's eatin' Walters n' the missus?" Byrd echoed the Tamale Kid's query. "It's that crook Hi Keller from Three Star." He spat noisily. "He's up at the house this minute."

"That Keller's team out by thuh corral?" the Tamale Kid asked.

"Huh-huh!" Byrd grunted. "Thuh old skinflint's puttin' thuh screws on—"

"I rode my pinto hard today." The Tamale Kid yawned, stretched and got to his feet. "I'll be seein' how he's comin'."

As he hurried toward the stable through the blustery darkness the ranch house door banged open and angry voices came to him. The Tamale Kid stopped in his tracks and stared. Gangling Hi Keller backed out on the veranda, gesticulating wildly Walters' stocky frame was silhouetted in the rectangle of mellow glow.

"You're meetin' this note, Walters," Keller whined, "or I'm havin' your Tumble R. lock, stock an' barrel."

"I can't meet it!" Walters flung back savagely. "You know, I can't! What's more, I've already paid what I borrowed. I never knowin'ly signed the note you're wavin' around your miserly head."

"It's bearin' your signature, ain't it?" Keller rasped stridently. The Tamale Kid inched closer, all ears.

"It sure is!" Walters retorted fiercely. "That's some more of your cheatin' hocus pocus."

"Take this note up next week," Keller shrilly laid down his ultimatum, "or else—"

Walters slammed the door in Keller's face. Tucking the note into an inside pocket Keller swung on his heel and head down plunged into the starless night. The next instant he collided violently with the Tamale Kid who clawed energetically at the bigger man to keep from falling.

"Why don't yuh look where you're goin'?" Keller snarled.

"Why don't yuh go where you're lookin'?" the Tamale Kid laughed.

Snorting Keller went striding to the corral. Chuckling the Tamale Kid watched him climb into his buckboard, gather up the lines and head back for Three Stars. He was still chuckling when he returned to the cookshack.

"Keller's breezed," he announced as he tiptilted his chair against the wall and began deftly rolling a brown paper cigarette. "Just left."

"The schemin' old devil!" Byrd growled while the others nodded 'Makin' trouble for the whitest—"

"I've a hunch," the Tamale Kid interrupted, as he fumbled a soiled strip of paper from the broad pocket of his shirt, fashioned it into a taper and lighted it at the crackling fire "that keller's through botherin' thuh boss an' his misus for thuh time bein' anyway."

CAN A FATHER BE A MOTHER?

Hear "The Family Man", the intensely human story of a doctor who is father and mother to his own three children, as well as a dearly loved and skilful physician. Will his son John's violent disapproval stop the Family Man from marrying Lucy Howard even though Mary and Phil are both in favour of it. Hear how the Family Man solves this serious problem. Listen in tonight and every Tuesday night.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a walk with pop for his health, and I told him about Miss Kitty telling us in school about some of the greatest men not being appriciated till they kept on working till they just had to be appriciated, like Thomas Edison the great inventor.

That's right, poets and inventers often have to wait a long while for reckinition, pop said. Shakesbeer was the greatest of the poets, and his greatest play Hamlet when it was first produced got fewer newspaper notices than Able's Irish Rose although Able's Irish Rose according to some of the oldest and most near sighted critics wasn't even in the same class with Hamlet, or even with Mack Beth, and as for inventers, I understand that the originator of the oyster opener, whose invention reduced cracked fingers and profanity among the oyster trade by 80 per cent, didn't receive the Noble Prize for industrial peace till he needed it for his own funerel expenses, pop said, and I said, I've got a idea for an invention, pop.

That's intristing, what's the nature of it, if the question is not indiscreet? pop said, and I said, It's a little bell on a string between 2 holes in your belt, and when you've eaten enough to make your belt tighter the string stretches and makes the bell ring to warn you not to go ahead and eat so much you'll actually have to unloosen your belt the way people do now when it's too late and they've ruined their digestion, I said.

That invention may send you down in history as one of the saviors of humanity, but meanwhile fame and fortune may elude you as you strive to reach your goal, pop said. I admit that even I have serious doubts as to its feasibility, wich will show you what you're up against, he said.

Making me feel like Thomas Edison.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Diet or Exercise to Reduce Weight?

There is often the argument as to which is the better way to reduce weight, exercise or a reducing diet.

The reducing diet is the simpler because, if enough food is not eaten to supply the body's needs, then some of the fat on the body must be used and so that much weight is lost.

Exercise is really the better way for the average healthy overweight because exercise not only burns up fat, but replaces the fat with muscle, and with this extra muscle, he is more willing to exercise or work, and so more and more of the fat is lost. Unfortunately, there are many cases where the exercise so increases the appetite that more food is eaten and no weight is lost. Another difficulty is that exercise makes the individual thirsty and he drinks more water, thus increasing his weight. I have spoken before of an amateur oarsman who took off three pounds of weight daily boxing in a gymnasium yet at the end of the month he was the same weight as when he started. He had not lost a pound.

Why? Because he drank a great quantity of water. Similarly with the Turkish bath. Two to four pounds may be lost during the bath but the drinking of water as you rest a short time before dressing, puts all the weight back on your body.

If the overweight is willing to exercise more, yet not increase his food intake nor drink more than his usual amount of water, the results will be much better than by dieting alone.

It is just as hard for some fat individuals to cut down on their appetite, especially for starch foods, as is is for another to take vigorous exercise. Cutting down on food or taking vigorous exercise both mean "sacrifice". It is by sacrifice, however, that one loses fat and gains figure.

Careful eating, not exercise, is the best way to reduce, according to Dr. C. C. Sturgis of the University of Michigan. Although a football player may get rid of 14 pounds in a strenuous game, only 4 3-4 pounds comes from fatty tissue; the remainder is water loss that will soon be replenished. "A climb up Washington monument will work off the weight of one pat of butter", the overweight expert reported. "I think it's simpler not to eat the butter."

There's sense in this year's winter resort fashions. A pretty dress is white in sheer wool with a red cord and leather belt, and navy and red flags on the breast pockets. The skirt is pleated. Worn with a navy flannel jacket with gilt buttons.

The street scene this Spring will show many neat navy suits of soft lines. A typical model has a jacket with a narrow, ruffled, double peplum. The snug top is trimmed with navy blue braid frogs and bands. High collarless neckline.

MASSASSAGA LADIES' AID

Several ladies of the Massassaga neighborhood attended a pot luck dinner on Thursday at the home of Mrs. H. F. Osborne in Belleville. Mrs. Roy Lazier and Mrs. Osborne invited the Ladies Aid to their apartments on Albert Street where a delicious pot luck dinner was served to over twenty ladies and a nice sum of money realized for Red Cross work. Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Lent, Mrs. Charley Ackerman, Mrs. George Ackerman, Mrs. McMaster and Mrs. Baker all living in the city came in at the noon hour and everyone was pleased to spend a social hour with these old neighbors. Some were knitting and Chinese checkers took up part of the time. Mrs. Lazier had planned a contest, with the drawing of each ladies name written on a slip of paper to determine the winner. Little Lois Rose drew the names from a basket. Mrs. McMaster and Mrs. Davidson were the lucky winners. A box of candy and a beautiful plant were the prizes given by Mrs. Lazier.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Lazier for opening their home and providing a pleasant afternoon. The sum of eight dollars was realized and will be used for soldiers' supplies.

WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 20 — (AP)—A wide section of stocks slipped today in a sloppy market. Declines ranging from small fractions to around a point were posted generally toward the fourth hour.

Leaders on the downturn included Bethlehem, Youngstown, Harvester Caterpillar, Pan American Airways, American Can, Loft, Westinghouse Santa Fe and Standard Oil of N.J.

On the other hand, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, Colgate and Canada Dry moved up to new highs for the year.

Bonds were uneven in a narrow range. Commodities in general were lower although wheat and corn showed some buoyancy.

Canadian issues were easy. Dome Mines, Distillers Seagram and Lake Shore Mines receded trifles. Canadian Pacific was slightly improved while Canada 4s, in the bond market, dipped 1-2 point.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 20—(CP)— Mining stocks were heavy from the opening of Toronto Exhange today and at noon the golds were showing a loss of .64 in the index and the base metal issues .21. Western oils were unchanged and the industrials were narrowly higher, mainly on the strength of the ultilities and the textiles. Trading was a little more active than on Monday and 102,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours.

Imperial Oil was sold in volume at a loss of 1-4 and International Petroleum posted a minor loss. Selected issues, including the Canada Steamship Lines stocks, Cosmos Imperial Mills, Canadian Celanese and Canada Malting, added fractions.

Aunor, Lake Shore, McIntyre, MacLeod-Cockshutt and Macassa and Smelters weakened minor fractions.

SOVIET SHELLS FALL IN VIIPURI

Helsinki, Feb. 20 (AP).—As Soviet artillery sent shells screaming amid ruined buildings of Viipuri (Viborg) today, the Finns classed that embattled ghost city as a definite section of the fighting front.

The city, which once vied with Tampere (Tammersfors) for title as Finland's second largest, is not necessarily in immediate danger of capture, an informant said, but the Red army penetration of Mannerheim defences has subjected it to regular shell fire, and aerial bombings have been redoubled.

Most of the 74,000 population was removed before the Russian invasion began Nov. 30. Last week, the remaining handful of civilians departed.

Russian Reports.

(The Russians, reporting they were within six miles of Viipuri, said in a communique today they had taken islands south of the city on the Gulf of Finland, and held two stations on the maritime railway which links it with the coastal fortress at Koivisto.

(The Russians said they were continuing to clear the Bjorke (Kkorko) fortified area of Finns, the area occupied by the important Koivisto battery that is the western anchor of the Mannerheim Line.)

A Finnish spokesman said new Karelian Isthmus defence positions to which the Finns were forced to withdraw were "sound", and that Russian attacks on them had been repulsed. The line was described as running from somewhere west of Summa toward Muolaa.

100 Red Tanks Captured.

The Finns gave supporting details on the destruction of the 18th Russian division, which they reported yesterday ten miles north of Lake Ladoga and some 55 miles from the Mannerheim Line struggle.

In reporting the wiping out of this infantry force of 18,000 men—the third such victory they have claimed—the Finns said captured war implements included 100 tanks, 75 motor vehicles, 23 tractors, 58 guns of various types, 12 anti-tank guns, more than 60 machine guns and 44 field kitchens.

'Parachute Army' Detachment Killed And Captured

Helsinki, Feb. 20 (CP-Havas).—A detachment of the Red army's parachute army was dropped near Helsinki today and almost immediately was wiped out by Finnish troops, it was announced.

Most of the parachutists were killed. Three were captured.

The parachutists were dropped several miles to the west of the capital during the second of a series of air raid alarms sounded here.

Brisker Trading Improves Eggs

Toronto, Feb. 20.— Eggs showed the only action on the week's opening session of the Toronto open produce market yesterday. Butter remained at the previous nominal price.

Decreased receipts and good inquiry enabled the egg market to start the week on a firm footing. Brokers reported offerings were sufficient to meet demand, and previous prices prevailed. Grade A-large in the graded section moved at 23c to 23 1-2c per dozen, medium at 21c to 21 1-2c, and pullets moved at 20c to 20 1-2c. The higher figures represent the premiums that were obtained on government inspected lots.

Buyers remained out of the butter market, apparently ignoring both Ontario and Western offerings. Prices held to former levels on the nominal market, with supplies not heavy.

Montreal Produce

Eggs— Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 24 1-2c; A-medium, 22 1-2c; A-pullets, 21 1-2c; B, 21c to 21 1-2c; C, 19 1-2c; B-large, unquoted. Receipts: 413 cases.

Hog Quotations

Liveweight: Brantford, $8.50, Chatham $8.60.

Dressedweight: Brantford $11.50 Chatham $11.50, Hull $11.60, Stratford $11.40 plus transportation.

LIVESTOCK

Montreal, Feb. 20—(CP)—Cattle prices were firm in early trading on Montreal Livestock markets today, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported. Other classes remained steady.

Receipts: Cattle 80; sheep 11; hogs 1,719; calves 607.

Medium steers made $6.50 to $7. Good cows sold up to $5.50 with medium kinds $4.50 to $5.

Veal calves ranged from $8 to $11 for medium good veals. Good veals made $11 to $11.50. The bulk of calves were of common to just fair quality and sold between $9.25 and $9.50 with better quality around $10. Drinkers brought $5 to $8 and grassers made $4.25.

Lambs were mostly bucks and sold in mixed lots at $9.50 to $10. Sheep sold at $4 to $6.

Hogs held steady at $9.35 to 9.40 for bacons fed and watered and $9.40 off trucks. Selects drew $1 premium with regular cuts on off grades. Sows were easier at $6 to $6.50. Hogs sold on rail grade brought mostly $12.30 hot weight.

27 YEARS IN HOSPITAL

Elgin, Ill., Feb. 20 (AP)—Nurses at Sherman Hospital call Joseph Pask the "patient patient," and with good cause too for he has just rounded out 27 years of hospital life. Pask, 79 years old, is paralyzed from the waist down as the result of a fall in 1913.

official communication from the Norwegian Government, Mr. Chamberlain said, adding he would comment immediately on yesterday's statement by the Norwegian Foreign Minister which he had seen in the Press.

"According to Professor Koht's statement the Altmark was stopped a little south of Trondjhem Fjord by a Norwegian torpedo boat whose commander made a request to inspect the ship," Mr. Chamberlain said.

Laborite Praises Navy

A. V. Alexander, Labor, said the opposition was pleased with Mr. Chamberlain's statement and that it wished to be associated in praise of the action of the navy in freeing the seamen.

"Before His Majesty's ships took any action against the Altmark," said Mr. Chamberlain, "the commanding officer, acting on instructions from His Majesty's government, proposed to the Norwegian naval officer on the spot that the Altmark should be taken to Bergen under a joint British and Norwegian guard in order that the matter might be properly investigated there by the Norwegian authorities.

"This offer was refused. The British commanding officer then invited the Norwegian officer to accompany the British boarding party on board the Altmark, but he declined to do so." Then, said the Prime Minister, the navy took action.

Allies Navies to Take Measures

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—The French and British navies will take "all measures" to make sure that Norwegian waters are not used for belligerent purposes, a French government spokesman stated tonight.

The spokesman said that a stop would have to be put to "acts of war" being carried on by the German navy in Norwegian waters.

He maintained that the German navy was "abusing" Norwegian neutrality and has been using Norwegian waters as a base for operations in the North Sea.

This statement was made shortly after Prime Minister Chamberlain endorsed the British navy's action in freeing British prisoners from the German ship Altmark in Norwegian waters last Friday. Mr. Chamberlain charged that Norway was negligent in not preventing German belligerent activity in her waters.

French Charges

The French spokesman charged that German merchant ships are using Norwegian waters to make their way to Germany, thus avoiding the French and British blockade. (Notably the $20,000,000 German liner Bremen was believed to have steamed down the Norwegian coast to safety in Germany after having lain for some time in Murmansk, Russian Arctic port).

"The French and British navies will take all measures to ensure the maintenance of peace in Norwegian waters," he said. Declining to give details as to the measures planned.

Says 16 Italian Vessels Liable To Search

British Minister Acknowledges Period of Grace Given Italians to Obtain Coal Supplies

London, Feb. 20 (CP). — Ronald Cross, Minister of Economic Warfare, told the House of Commons today that sixteen Italian vessels which loaded German coal at Rotterdam were "liable to search for enemy exports".

He acknowledged that Italian ships have not been hindered from taking German coal to Italy since the blockade was imposed but said a period of grace allowed for "the Italians to obtain their coal supplies elsewhere is drawing to a conclusion".

Mr. Cross declined to answer a question as to whether the recent British-French-Belgian trade agreement authorized Belgium to maintain re-exports to Germany at the pre-war level.

Emmanuel Shinwell, Labor, asked whether Mr. Cross was "not aware that for some time Italian vessels have been loading German coal for Italy and have not been subject to contraband examination?

"Why is there this consideration for Italian vessels?"

Mr. Cross replied that "when the reprisals of the order-in-council (the blockade) were introduced it was the declared intention of his Majesty's government to introduce them with a minimum of inconvenience to neutrals."

Traffic Lights Being Placed At the Airport

All troop movements across No. 2 Highway at the Trenton Airport will be protected by traffic lights in the future, according to Mr. O. H. Scott, local Hydro manager, whose maintenance department is at present engaged in installing the system. The new traffic lights will be of the conventional design, controlled from the guard-house at the gateway to the airport, and will be used only when troop movements across the highway require that highway traffic be held up.

Cutting of Ice Channel South Of C. P. R. Bridge Started by City

Workmen to Open Channel 1,000 Feet Long to Provide Outlet for Ice Floes

ICE 18 INCHES THICK

City workmen, teams of horses, heavy scrapers and power-saws combined today in the first anti-flood operations on the large ice field directly south of the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge.

To give the Moira River plenty of room to disgorge the heavy icefields that annually rush down its bed to pile up in its mouth near the bridge, a channel one thousand feet long and thirty feet wide will be cut directly south of the centre abutment of the bridge. At the southerly end of the channel a basin sixty feet by thirty feet will be cut to allow clearance of large pieces of ice and prevent choking of the channel.

Workmen of the city public works department under Engineer Charles Mott, armed with shovels cleaned the large ice area behind horse-drawn scrapers yesterday afternoon and this morning.

At noon today, heavy power-driven saws owned by the Smith Ice Company, Maurice Callaghan, and Ray Cornell, local ice men, started cutting operations at the basin where a thickness of about 18 inches was apparent.

Ice cut from the basin and channel will be hauled to the edge of Allan's Marsh to facilitate extraction of floe ice which is expected to crowd the channel proper, when and if the usual heavy Spring break-up occurs.

Following the completion of the channel and basin, workmen will be engaged keeping open water flowing therein, and to prevent freezing should a cold wave descend upon the city.

Former Resident Of Stirling Heard On Overseas Broadcast

Stirling Special—In a special feature presentation of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation heard last night over a chain of Canadian stations, Pilot James Mitchell of the British Royal Air Force, and former Stirling resident greeted his friends in Canada and also his father, who now resides in Toronto.

In the broadcast, one of a series covering troop movements in England Announcer Bowman took Canadian listeners "on a listening" tour through one of the larger Air Training Bases of the Royal Air Force "Somewhere in England." The announcer described a squadron of Canadian Airmen now in the service, who having nearly completed their training have made a complete squadron in themselves and the men come from all parts of the Dominion. This group will be among the first groups to see action and their service already includes "Convoy Flights." Giving several of the Flying Officers and Pilots a chance to greet friends and relatives at home. The Squadron Commander then introduced "the tallest pilot" in the squadron, Pilot James Mitchell. In answering questions of the announcer Pilot Mitchell asserted that the "fighters" were all set and would be in there pretty soon now.

Jim as he was popularly known in Stirling was a member of the staff of the Bank of Montreal in Stirling until a couple of years ago, when he resigned to take training in the Royal Air Force in England. The broadcast was heard by his friends in Stirling, who were keenly interested.

CONTEMPTIBLE THIEF

Ebensburg, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP) — Glenn Hildebrand, 26, of Johnstown was sentenced to six months to one year in Cambria county jail for stealing pocketbooks from autos in a cemetery — while theid owners were placing flowers on the graves of loved ones.

"This is the most contemptible thing I ever heard," Judge Ivan McKenrick said in passing sentence.

STIRLING SHAKES LOSING STREAK

Bombers Defeat Marmora 4-3 in Fastest Game of Season

Stirling (Special)—Losing most of their season's games by close margins and still having a faint hope of making the play-offs Stirling "Bombers" shook the jinx that has dogged their trail all year as they downed the fast skating Marmora squad 4-3 in a fast thrilling game at Stirling last night. The game was rough in spots with four players taking five minute penalties, two minor skirmishes involving four players resulted in both teams playing shorthanded for ten minutes.

After three minutes Reynolds scored the first goal and with only one minute of the first period left Ingram scored from centre ice to tie it up. Gus Leonard put the Northerners in the lead scoring on a pass from Reynolds, Morton and O'Neill were chased for roughing and spent five minutes in the cooler. With three minutes of the "middle" left Friday Fraser tied it up and Reynolds and Armstrong went to the cooler for a five minute rest for fighting. In the final period Stirling had a distinct edge on the play. E. Leonard scored the next goal for Marmora and Ingram again tied it up taking a pass from May. With only four minutes left, Armstrong scored the winning goal in a game, that was packed with thrills.

Summary:

First period.
Marmora: Reynolds 3.10
Stirling: Ingram 19.22
Second period.
Marmora: G. Leonard (Reynolds) 7.50
Stirling: Fraser 17.00
Marmora: E. Leonard (Leonard) 19.40

Penalties: O'Neill, May and Armstrong.
Referees: Shannon and Hulin.

Marmora: goal Callery; defence O'Neill brothers; centre G. Leonard; wings E. Leonard, Reynolds, subs, Smith, Shannon, Kerr, Buskard and Johnston. Stirling goal Fox; defence Walker, Jones; centre Armstrong; wings Fraser, Barnum; subs Ingram, R. Walker, Richardson, Morton and May.

Prebendary Aged 80, Was Athlete in Youth

London, Feb. 20—(CP) — Rev. Prebendary, P.S.G., Property, 80, formerly vicar of St. Augustine's, Fulham, and Prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral is dead.

As a youth he was a noted athlete. He crossed Canada, cycled through Syria and swam across Ramsey Sound, Pembrokeshire. He rowed at Henley in seven regattas and won the Thames challenge cup, the Wyfold cup and the Metropolitan challenge cup.

He began religious and social work in Fulham 55 years ago and raised 30,000 pounds (about $150,000) to build St. Augustine's church as a memorial to Queen Victoria. He was president of the West London Co-operative Society for 30 years and chairman of the Fulham Board of Guardians for a quarter century.

STARVATION TAMES SAVAGE CAT

Fairmont, Minn., Feb. 20 (AP)—Julius Behrens had a cat that was pretty wild but he found out unwittingly the other day how to tame it. He heard a mewing from under a water tank he had banked with earth 26 days ago to prevent freezing and when he dug into it, there was tabby. Now she is so chummy Behrens can hardly get her out of the house.

Giant "Jacks" at Peterborough Treat Hunters With Contempt

Nimrods Return From Hunt With Amazing Stories of Jackrabbits' Indifference to Man

END IN STEWPOT

That Bird's Eye Centre "Jack" is just a piker compared to the long ears that have made their appearance of late in the vicinity of Peterborough, according to stories emanating from that city.

Giant rabbits, weighing in the vicinity of from fourteen to eighteen pounds, descendants, it is believed, of the flop-eared Gullivers, that inhabit certain parts of the west, have made their appearance in those parts, and thus far, have showed as much respect for mere man as a cantankerous mother-in-law.

It wasn't a bad story that Ivan Fletcher, truck driver, brought in the other day when he claimed (he had the carcass to prove it), that a giant jack had been overtaken by him while driving along a quiet sideroad near Peterborough.

The big fellow refused to give the right of way, and when Fletcher descended from his cab, to dispute him, armed with a heavy screw-driver, the "Bun" showed no signs of fear. He merely brought his listening appendages to the "present" and loped toward Fletcher with all the nonchalance of a next-door neighbor. But the truck driver wasn't taking any chances on a hand-to-ear combat with a jack that had sufficient stew-meat on its ribs to feed a large-size family. He let go with the heavy tool, conked the jack between the ears, and dragged the eighteen-pound Bunny home as evidence.

Engages a Boxer

But Bill Joiner, local boxer, Claude Millard, and Jack MacManus, three doughty musketeers of the rabbit-trails, went Fletcher one better.

Their jack, which weighed fourteen pounds, apparently didn't know one of the lads was a boxer—or maybe it didn't care.

However, as the trio neared a wooded lot on South Park Street in their native city, they heard a rustling in the bushes. Turning, they gaped in surprise at the large jack which lumbered toward them. He charged straight for his intended victims, and the boys had nothing to do, but give battle.

Barehanded they met the assault, and finally vanquished the "Joe Louis" of the pasture-lands. They dragged the kill home, weighed him in, skinned him and later consigned him to the stewpot.

School Fairs Suspended As War-Time Economy

Suspension of rural school fairs because of decreased government appropriation as a matter of wartime economy was announced today by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, according to a communication received by H. L. Fair, Hastings County Agricultural representative.

The suspension includes the year 1940 only, the communication states.

In 1939 Hastings County conducted eight school fairs with 114 schools taking part. One thousand pupils took part showing an entry list of 3408 items.

Ki-Y League

In a Ki-Y, Midget series, double-header played yesterday afternoon at the Hume Arena, the Goalgetters and the Thunderbolts finished off in a three-all tie, while in the other half of the twin bill the Supermen proved superior to the O.S.D. lads and trimmed them by a 6-3 count.

The Goalgetters scored once in each period in the first game while the Thunderbolts had to come back fast in the final canto to tie it up.

B. McIntyre of the Supermen was the big noise for the winners of the second game, scoring three, with Hannah and Coleman accounting for the others. Styles for the O.S.D. lads also performed the hat trick when he likewise banged in three.

The teams: Goalgetters — goal, Rollins; defence, Andrews and Taylor; centre, Rankin; wings, Lyall and Eaves; subs., Hewson and Reeves. Thunderbolts — goal, Trusdale; defence, Lummiss and Wiggins; centre, Greatrix; wings, Bishop and Green, subs., Pomeroy, McCormick, Woodley, Doolittle and Mason.

Referee: Lum Carson.

O.S.D. — goal, Martin; defence, Luzon and Wilson; centre, Moore; wings, Calder and Styles; subs., Wedge and Steenburg. Supermen—goal, Swardoff; defence, Campbell and McIntyre; centre, Coleman; wings, Olstrom and Hannah; subs., Turner and Belnap.

Pound Notes of 1835 Owned by F. Isard

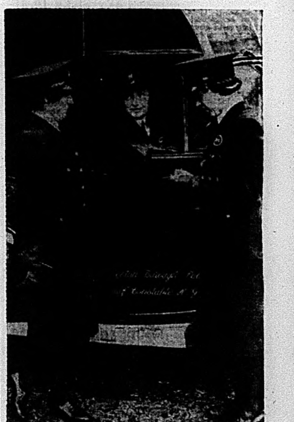
Two faded pound notes, connecting links with the Merrie England of 1835, are now in the possession of Plain Clothesman Fred Isard, of the Belleville Police Force.

Discovered in the effects of his step-father who died a few days ago, the notes, are in a good state of preservation are slightly larger than the Canadian one-dollar bills, and have the serial numbers and part of the date of issue written in ink in a clear legible hand.

They were issued in 1835, one hundred and five years ago, by the "Kingsbridge Bank" of London and "promise to pay to the bearer, One Pound, for John Square, Walter Prideaux, J. and Were Prideaux". The names are, in all probability, those of the directors of the bank.

The notes are signed in the lower right hand corner by John Square, in a bold flowing hand. The date "183-" is printed on the bill, but the letter five is filled in with ink. Serial numbers also hand-written are Nos. 5415 and 5324.

ENGLISH GIRLS TAKE OVER POLICE DUTIES



Two members of the Police Auxiliary Corps recently formed in Preston, Lancashire, are shown reporting to the chief, who makes the rounds in her cute little coupe. In addition to patrol duty, the lady cops drive patrol wagons, black marias and other vehicles used in police work. They look smart in their blue gabardine uniforms.

MACAULAY, FROST ATTACK BUDGET

Slash of 15 Millions Suggested

"I say that the Treasurer could take $15,000,000 off his ordinary taxation and expenditures without crippling this province in any essential service", said Mr. Macaulay. "That would be only a starter. The following year, he could take another slice off, and ultimately get the war-time Budget of this province down to manageable proportions."

"You suggest where you'd take the $15,000,000 off", said Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

"You send it back to your Budget Committee and tell them if they dont do it, you'll get a new committee," said Mr. Macaulay. "You give me the authority, I think I can do it."

Net debt of the province, that portion of the debt repayable from taxation, had increased $144,200,000 in 5 1-2 years of the Hepburn Government, said Mr. Macaulay. Current expenditure was mounting also. The government's vast spending machine could not maintain the present pace.

"What this province requires is a government courageous enough to economize, to cut out $100,000,000 budgets, to quit keeping up with the Joneses and to cut our coat to suit our cloth," he said.

Alleges Building Cost $12,000,000

Mr. Macaulay ran into an argument with Premier Hepburn when he referred to the "$12,000,000 marble palace for the feeble-minded at St. Thomas."

Mr. Hepburn said the cost was $6,200,000 and offered to bet a hat that it wasn't $12,000,000. If the hat he got was not better than the one premier presented him with on a previous bet, he wouldn't be getting much, observed Mr. Macaulay.

Mr. Macaulay read from the evidence of Hon. Colin Campbell, former Minister of Public Works, in Public Accounts Committee, that the estimated cost of the hospital project was $11,000,000. Mr. Campbell was wrong if he said that, retorted the premier.

Later Mr. Hepburn read from the evidence of the Deputy Minister of Public Works to the same committee, estimating the hospital cost at $6,369,000. The $11,000,000 proposal was abandoned when a policy of decentralization was decided on, said the premier.

The province was disbursing $10,000,000 more to the municipalities, said Mr. Macaulay, but was collecting $17,000,000 in taxation to do it.

New Tax in Disguise

A new tax in disguise was the decision to have motor licenses expire with the calendar year instead of with the province's fiscal year. Licenses issued this year would be good for only nine months and into one year's revenues the premier would get receipts for two years.

Policing of the motor transport industry by the Ontario Municipal Board, was urged by Mr. Macaulay.

"What the government should do immediately as a minimum is to require transport companies to file their rates, then police the industry and see that there is no discrimination among competing shippers," he said.

"That would not require any new machinery. These rates could be filed with the present municipal board and such board would have appropriate authority to enforce such schedules of rates. A more vigorous enforcement of the present law as to hours of labor, the setting up of a decent minimum wage for transport workers is also urgently needed, and would automatically put rates at their proper economic level."

Nothing Done is Charge

The royal commission on the transport industry had seen only one of its recommendations heeded by the government, said Mr. Macaulay. That was the one for the increase in the gasoline tax. Nothing had been done to end the chaos in the business.

The commission found a chaotic rate situation, not only uneconomic competiton but rank discrimination. Shippers paid different rates to the same carrier for the same service. The government had never used its power to compel carriers to file rates with the municipal board.

Mr. Macaulay regretted that the report of the Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations had not been made public for discussion in the present Federal election campaign. Failure to publish the report would mean that "whatever government is in office after March 26 can claim no mandate to make far-reaching changes in our constitution even though based on such commission's report".

"If there is any log-rolling, making of deals or secret committments by the present Dominion government on the strength of the still secret report of the Commission, the people of Canada are entitled to know about it", concluded Mr. Macaulay.

Net Debt Increased Claims Frost

Ontario's net debt had been increased by the present government to more than $500,000,000, said Mr. Frost. Low interest rates on provincial borrowings wouldn't last long unless something was done to halt the increase in debt.

Despite the highest taxes in Provincial history, the Premier had to report a deficit on the present fiscal year. Public indifference to the State of Provincial Finances was deplorable and would have unhappy results. If it continued, nothing was ahead but disaster.

The increase in taxes on Corporation incomes meant that corporations would pay 25 cents in every dollar profit in Dominion and Provincial income taxes. A lot of little companies would be driven out of business.

Increasing debt would be reflected in Ontario's credit position shortly, predicted Mr. Frost. General costs of government were increasing by leaps and bounds and the Hepburn administration had shown complete inability to keep them within bounds.

He condemned the increase in higher costs to consumers and ultimately in a reduction in the number of small corporations.

C. M. MacFie (Lib. Middlesex South) asked Dr. Frost what expenditures he would cut. He was told to ask his leader who had promised to reduce administration expenses 50 per cent.

The province was tearing up highways on which not more than 25 per cent had been paid and replacing them with new roads, said Mr. Frost.

Condemned Bookkeeping System

The Victoria member condemned a bookkeeping system that could report a surplus and an increase in the net debt at the same time.

John P. McKay (Lib. Hamilton East), defended the increased tax on corporations. It was the proper place to collect more taxes and "avoid once and for all the unequitable placing of taxes on the consumer and on real estate.

When times were prosperous and industrial employment at a high level, the government should make only unadvoidable capital expenditures, said Mr. McKay, Others should be reserved to less prosperous times. Consideration might be given now to the post-war period. He urged the government study a plan of financing construction of cold storage warehouses so that marketing of perishable farm products might be spread over longer periods, thus avoiding glutted markets and depressed prices.

SOLDIERS WRECK GROUND FLOOR OF

The M.P.S. said all the men involved had returned to barracks but declined to say if any arrests had been made. There was still no inkling of the cause of the trouble.

One city constable patrolling his beat saw the soldiers congregating near the small hotel on the outskirts of downtown Toronto and, suspicious of their actions, sought to question them. He was warned to "walk the other way."

While the constable rushed to telephone city police, the soldiers marching in good order, entered the hotel and made a shambles of the ground floor.

Plate glass windows and the glass of the main entrance were smashed. The lobby desk was kicked to matchwood and tavern tables in the men's and women's beverage rooms were smashed. No customers or hotel employees were harmed, however.

George Flett, the hotel proprietor said he had no idea what prompted the riot. He said that he had had no trouble with soldiers.

Among the few furnishings on the ground floors left untouched were a Union Jack and a picture of the King.

SHIPPING LOSSES LAST WEEK REACH

The list included two neutral losses previously unannounced: the 3,396-ton Finnish ship Wilja, sunk by an explosion Feb. 16, with the crew rescued; and the 4,297-ton Norwegian steamship Sangstad, torpedoed Feb. 18, with the crew of 28 and one passenger saved. It was not known whether others were aboard the Sangstad.

The British naval source said that probably 13 of the 15 neutral vessels were sunk by submarines without warning.

The admiralty also disclosed capture of the German trawler Herrlichkeit, 268 tons, by a British warship which brought her into a British port.

In April, 1917, when Germany's unrestricted submarine campaign of the last war was at its height weekly sinkings averaged 105 ships of all nations with a tonnage of 203,000.

This source added that 160 neutral ships were given British convoy protection during last week and that only 19 ships had been lost out of 8,969 convoyed since the war started.

OBJECTIVE REACHED

"Speaking only of Canada's air defences and leaving aside the scheme of Empire air training, it was estimated that the number of aircraft required for this purpose would be 526. When war broke out we had approximately 300 aircraft and 100 more under construction. I think I can say without divulging any military secret that the complement is now almost complete."

Mr. Power said the Defence Department has been successful in its effort to create an aircraft industry in Canada and since the war started the Royal Canadian Air Force has been augmenting its strength with planes from Canadian plants. The industry was preparing now for the "enormous demands" to be made upon it by the Empire training plan.

Replies to Criticism

Replying to criticism that the government did not prepare adequately for the war, the Minister said that from 1936-39, public opinion in Canada and Great Britain "was not entirely convinced that such enormous sums as were required for the complete reorganization of the military, naval and air forces, should be expended."

Mr. Power states that one of the forms this criticism has taken was that the Defence Department spent $100,000,000 in four years and has hardly anything to show for it.

The actual amount spent was $94,235,000 and $10,000,000 of this was on relief camps, civil aviation and other items not directly attributable to National Defence. Of the remainder $44,700,000 went to the militia, $15,200,000 to the navy and $24,700,000 to the air force. Some of this had to be devoted to maintenance and administration.

By last September the Pacific Coast Defences were about completed and manned and the Atlantic Coast defences were in a fair way to final completion, he continued. Naval strength was increased and the whole militia reorganized on modern mechanized lines.

Production of field gun ammunition was increased six-fold, almost entirely in government-owned factories and government-owned small arms ammunition plants were geared up until now they have a capacity of 75,000,000 rounds a year. By the end of this year this will be 150,000,000 rounds.

TRADE MINISTER ASKS MANION TO NAME CABINET

Hon. Mr. Euler Challenges Opposition Leader to Call "a Spade a Spade"

ALWAYS CALL TENDERS

Mitchell, Ont., Feb. 20—(CP) — Conservative Leader Manion today stood challenged by Trade Minister Euler to define more clearly his National Government proposal or to conduct his campaign along straight party lines.

In an address before a nominating convention here last night Mr. Euler asked that Dr. Manion "call a spade a spade" and name the cabinet he would form if elected, so the people "can be the judge".

The nominating convention chose as Liberal candidate for Perth Riding, Fred G. Sanderson, deputy speaker in the last parliament and four times member for the constituency. He was unopposed.

If Dr. Manion was sincere in his desire to have national government, "it is fair to assume that at least a proportion of his members should be Liberals," said Mr. Euler. Not one person in more than 100 nominated on the National Ticket is other than a Conservative.

Defends War Effort

In defence of Canada's war effort, the Trade Minister, said Prime Minister Mackenzie King was doing "yeoman duty" and "things have gone so smoothly the public evidently fails to realize the immensity of his talks.

In reply to a suggestion made by Dr. Manion in a Brandon address that if he were elected he would make a wheat deal with Great Britain, Mr. Euler said that Great Britain never at any time has offered as much as the present market price for wheat.

He said that although Conservatives had attempted to make an issue of the government's procedure in awarding war contracts, there was no suggestion of irregularity and the government need not be ashamed of a single contract.

The War Purchasing Board had placed in Canada orders amounting to more than $100,000,000 and "tenders were called for all of them". All other things being equal the contract was awarded to the lowest tender in each case. Every order of more than $5,000 was first submitted to the Cabinet for approval.

PROFITEERING OUT DURING WAR SAYS McLARTY

Charges Manion Has Failed to Advance One Point to Make Country's Action More Efficient

PRAISES KING

Essex, Ont., Feb. 20 —(CP) — There will be no undue profiteering or scandal during the war such as was charged during the last war, Hon. Norman McLarty, Federal Labor Minister, told the Essex South Liberal Nominating Convention here last night. Murray Clark, Harrow farmer, Liberal Member of the last Parliament, was chosen to seek re-election in the March 26 election.

Citing the brief sugar panic, he said hoarding also was being guarded to prevent unnecessary price increases. The Cabinet Minister said sugar had risen only 1-2 cent a pound since the war and added the rise was directly accountable to the increase in freight and insurance rates.

Challenging Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative Leader, to further improve Canada's war effort, Mr. McLarty said Prime Minister Mackenzie King has guided the Dominion wisely since war started. He charged that Dr. Manion had failed to advance one point to make the country's actions more efficient.

Drew Under Fire

Colonel George Drew, Ontario Conservative chieftain, also came under Mr. McLarty's fire. Charging Col. Drew had attacked the government as cowardly in calling the election instead of facing Parliament, Mr McLarty added that if Col. Drew had any ammunition to fire now was the time to present it to the people.

An announcement concerning wool shortages in the Dominion will be issued shortly, Mr. McLarty said. It will show that not one complaint has been received by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regarding wool from manufacturing companies, he added.

Mr. McLarty later addressed a Liberal Nominating Convention at Petrolia.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, February 21

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THIS DAY may bring the culmination of high ideals or exalted ambitions, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. While the accent seems on social, artistic or romantic aspirations, there also may be creative efforts in intellectual or inventive lines. Tendencies to recklessness, quarrels or excesses should be supressed. There are very strong indications for romance and marriage.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of fulfilled hopes and wishes. The higher forms of mental and creative expression are under inspirational stimulus, possibly leadi ngto some novel accomplishment. Impetuous conduct should be avoided. Strong prospects point to courtship, romance, matrimony.

TONY

— BY ELIZABETH VERNON —

CHAPTER IV

Mr. Pargeter, senior partner in the firm of Pargeter, Hodgeson and Hodgeson, glanced for a moment in silence at Hyacinth and her mother. To him it seemed Hyacinth's faintly smiling loveliness meant nothing. It was impossible to tell whether he was impressed by Mrs. Querne's exquisite languor—her air of a beauty and of a woman forced too early into the background by ill health.

"I am not certain that I understand you, Mrs. Querne," he said.

"Oh, surely, Mr. Pargeter, it's quite simple. My daughter has felt for some time that the will made by my late husband was really ridiculous — only ten thousand pounds settled on Hyacinth, to be hers now that she is twenty-five. The same to by youngest daughter. And then thirty thousand pounds and the place to go to Tony when she is twenty-one. It really is most unfair. When people get to hear of it, it will seem a deliberate slight to Hyacinth."

"I cannot advise you to try to upset the will, Mrs. Querne."

"No. We're not trying to do that, Mr. Pargeter." Hyacinth smiled. "We have a simple proposition to make. You see, my mother is extremely fond of Oaken. My sister Tony cares nothing for the place, and my mother would be willing to offer her a large sum to relinquish her title to it."

"The proposition is quite impossible, Mrs. Querne. Miss Antonia is only seventeen. She is an infant in the eyes of the law. In no circumstances would the law allow her to sign away her rights to the property."

There was silence in the quiet room. Mrs. Querne, glancing at her daughter, gave a little shrug. "If only dear Jim had lived," she said.

"By the terms of the will, he would not have inherited the property either, Mrs. Querne."

"No. But a man can do such a lot," Mrs. Querne murmured "Jim was always so capable. I must say my husband's will seemed to me, when I first heard it, quite mad."

"A curious will, certainly,' Mr. Pargeter said. "But Colonel Querne was quite sane at the time he made it. And now may I ask, has Miss Antonia any knowledge of her future inheritance?"

For one moment it seemed as if Hyacinth might make no reply. Then her eyes met those of the old solicitor. She said: "No. We haven't told Tony anything. She would be insufferable if we did. You can't imagine what she's like."

"Most of us in Dorminster have heard of her, I think," Mr. Pargeter replied. His glance rested on Hyacinth. "The stories about her seem to get round very freely. Well, well, she was polite to me the only time I met her. Two years ago, it was. It was snowing. I gave her a lift in my car. Very grateful, she was." He smiled. "I have an old bachelor's weakness for children, Mrs. Querne."

Three minutes later Mrs. Querne and Hyacinth sat in the back of the big car. There was a glass partition between them and Sedley, the chauffeur.

"Give me a cigarette, Hyacinth, dear," Mrs. Querne said.

Hyacinth held out her case. She said, "Must we leave our affairs in the hands of that old fool?" They were her first words since leaving Mr. Pargeter's office.

"He does the business side very well." Mrs. Querne glanced at her daughter's profile. There was a touch of nervousness in her tone.

"I didn't suppose he'd embezzle the money. But he's nothing but a maundering partisan of Tony's. Didn't you feel it? I bet he encouraged Father to make that darned will. Poor old Jim."

"That will—I've always felt that your father must have made rather a fuss about nothing. In fact, being on the Riviera at the time I never quite understood what the quarrel was about."

"Oh, it was maudlin nonsense on Father's part. Apparently he'd got it into his head that Jim used to knock Tony about. Well, Jim didn't or not more than was good for her. She needed keeping in order—look at her, now that there's no one to bring her to heel. Anyway, on the day in question Jim had told her to carry his trout rod. She did something careless and the top joint was broken. You can imagine that didn't go down well with old Jim. He fetched her along to the old billiard room and at the end he gave her arm a bit of a twist and I suppose he overdid it. Anyway, she was shrieking. And suddenly the door opened and Father was among us. Well, all I can say is, I wonder the roof didn't come off. There couldn't have been more fuss if Jim had murdered the little beast. 'A man of twenty-four, bullying a helpless child! And all the rest of it. As to Tony, she was pretending to be beyond speech—clinging to Father—'strangled by her sobs' and all that sort of rot."

"I don't suppose Jim had meant to be tough," Mrs. Querne said.

"Perhaps not. Anyhow, she'd darned well deserved it. Father picked her up and carried her out of the room and upstairs. I've always believed—considering that the doctor had forbidden him to lift any weight—that his last illness dated from that day. He stopped halfway up the stairs and looked down at Jim and me and he said: 'You will live to regret this.' I remember Jim laughed. Of course we never knew what Father had meant till after he'd died and the will had been read. From the date on the will, he must have made it that same evening and gone into Dorminster and had it witnessed at old Pargeter's office next morning."

"After all, Hyacinth,' Mrs. Querne said, "it won't really matter so much about the property now that you'll be at Holme Dacey. That's such a beautiful place."

"I don't know,' Hyacinth said slowly. "I think I mind it more now. Alan will expect me to have Oaken. I havent said anything to him about Father's will. The two places together would have made one lovely place. As it is, there'll be that whey-faced little cat queening it there—"

"Perhaps later we can arrange something," her mother murmured.

"No," Hyacinth said. She stubbed out a half smoked cigarette. "Only fate can do that."

The day was still and damp. There was a smell of mist in the air and here, under the beeches of the back drive, a scent of dead leaves. Tony, hunched in her coat, kicked at an old stump, trying to warm feet that were numb inside her shoes. Cold work, waiting about, but worth it. At any moment now Harry would appear and at the thought her heart rose. From her bedroom window she had watched his unexpected arrival. She had dashed down to the hall, but there she had found only Potter, the butler. "Young Mr. Beckett", she learned, was in the little sitting room Caught by the grown-ups. Well, there she wouldn't follow him. Instead, she had come out here to wait on the back drive. Why, she wondered, hadn't Harry entered the house by the side door and come straight up to the schoolroom? Perhaps, she thought, he was too old to do that any longer.

There was the sound of footsteps. She turned and saw him coming towards her. "Hullo, Harry—" she ran to meet him, her happiness written on her face.

At the sight of her he stopped, suddenly. "Hullo, kid—"

"I'm awfully sorry I missed you, Harry". She stood before him, earnest in her pleasure. "I rushed downstairs, but they'd got you. I thought I wouldn't come in."

"George, no! You were better out of that. I was having a heart-to-heart talk with that Fleming chap. What's he like in private life?

"Beastly."

"Seems to me a good enough chap. But—well, Tony, I'm afraid you won't like this——"

"Go on." She tried a little laugh.

"Well, you see, he more or less put it to me that as there'd been a spot of trouble—you being expelled and all the rest of it—I'd better not be seen about Oaken for a bit. Till the fuss has died down."

In a second Tony was white with anger. "What business is it of his?"

"Your mother asked him to see me."

Somewhere in Tony's mind the sunshine withdrew from the landscape.

"But we needn't take any notice of what they say, Harry. We can have fun—"

"Well, they don't seem to think so", he said.

Tony glanced at Harry. Strange to know that he was the same boy with whom she had played and run wild in the woods of Oaken, holiday after holiday. She could see now his desire to get away— to cut free from a childhood's friendship. She tried to find words.

"After all," Harry complained, "they needn't have bothered, as I told Fleming. I mean, I'm not a schoolboy now. I don't want to hurt you, Tony, but I've got other things to do."

"I shouldn't let it worry you." Tony's words came at last. "Well—I must go." she whipped around. In a flash, she was speeding up the drive. He stared after her. She was lost to sight in the gloom of the trees.

Russian Command Reports Fall of the Finnish Coastal Fortress of Koivisto, Western Anchor of Mannerheim Line on Isthmus

(By Thomas Hawkins)

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Helsinki, Feb. 21 (AP).—Simultaneous Russian attacks on both ends of the Mannerheim Line, throwing two Red army divisions against one sector alone, were repulsed in fighting that lasted far into the night, Finland reported today.

The Red army smashed at the western end of the isthmus defence line and at Taipale, the eastern sector where the two divisions launched their attack.

Trying To Crack Isthmus. .. .. ..

The twin offensives meant the Russians were trying to break through across nearly the entire width of the isthmus and that the battle still was most critical for Finland.

Official Russian claims that the coastal fortress of Koivisto, western anchor of the Mannerheim Line had been captured, were denied by the Finnish News Agency.

The Finnish command's communique reported seventeen Russian planes shot down in yesterday's widespread aerial fighting.

Soviet land attacks, centred on Finland's Mannerheim line of defences across the Isthmus, continued as Russian warplanes returning for the second successive day caused two air raid alarms in Helsinki. No bombings were reported.

An attack by two Russian divisions, "strongly supported by artillery and aircraft," was said to have been repelled at Taipale on the eastern sector of the Isthmus front as was continued hammering at the front's western end.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Ice harvest! The harvesting of ice still continues to be an industry of some importance in spite of new refrigeration methods. The United States imports a few thousand tons from both Canada and Mexico. This year the Weather Bureau reports that natural ice is being rapidly harvested and stored. Thicknesses from 8 to 24 inches have have been reported in the northern states. There is no lack of ice in the world if it could only be harvested and transported economically. Many of the small rivers in the northern part of Canada freeze clear to their bottoms. Ice caps and glaciers hold enormous quantities. The Greenland ice cap is over 700,000 square miles in area and several thousand feet thick.

Pinned to Floor By Two Tons Of Iron Stock

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 21.—(CP)—Thomas Pews, 41, was in the hospital today with critical injuries received when he was pinned to the floor in a farm implement factory yesterday by 4,000 pounds of cast-iron and steel repair stock.

Two other workers, Albert Campbell and Ray Adams, held the full burden of the material off Pews and saved him from being crushed to death. The heavy stock fell when a shelf collapsed.

Pews suffered a broken pelvis, broken bones on the vertebrae, a torn left foot and severe body bruises but was reported today as being in fair condition.

CAMPAIGN TEMPO QUICKENED IN PAST FEW DAYS

Manion Joined by Other Speakers and Liberals Accelerate Drive for Votes

KING TO SPEAK

Hon. J. G. Gardiner States National Governments Contrary to Democratic Principles

(By The Canadian Press)

Tempo of the general election campaign quickens as additional Conservative stalwarts back up their leader, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, with speeches and Liberal cabinet Ministers accelerate the government's drive for votes.

Dr. Manion continued to carry the major burden of the Conservative campaign yesterday with speeches in Victoria and Vancouver in which he provided more details of his proposed National government policy. Hon. C. H. Cahan of Montreal and M. A. MacPherson of Regina, considered two of the party's most capable speakers, also entered the fray.

The government concentrated on Western Ontario with Labor Minister McLarty and Agriculture Minister Gardiner speaking in that province. Prime Minister Mackenzie King plans to reply tonight to Dr. Manion's charges that the war effort has been inadequate. Entitled "Canada and the War," the address is expected to outline the measures taken by the government to prosecute the war.

Suffering From Cold

The Conservative leader, who is suffering from a cold, gave more details of the National government policy than in any previous address. Concerning the war, he promised that as far as possible a pay-as-you-go policy would be followed. Closer co-operation with Great Britain would be followed and an overseas Minister appointed. Activities of the War Boards would be coordinated and an energetic bureau of information would be established.

Dr. Manion also said that censorship and other regulations dealing with freedom of Press and speech would be submitted to a parliamentary committee for review. Fullest possible use would be made of voluntary offers of service by war veterans.

The national government program to cope with post-war problems was public works, adoption of most of the recommendations of the national employment commission, expansion of foreign trade and the tourist business and measures to attract foreign capital.

Mr. Gardiner spoke at Lambeth, and St. Thomas. In the latter city, which is in the provincial riding of Premier Hepburn of Ontario, he said national governments were contrary to Canadian democratic principles.

Speaks for W. R. Mills

Canadian Businessmen Urged to do Their Part Same as Men at Front

Toronto, Feb. 21—(CP)—A call to Canadian businessmen to do their part in the war "in the same spirit which is shown by our youths at the front," was sounded last night by C. W. Colby of Montreal before the annual convention banquet of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here. The three-day convention ends today with election of officers and luncheon.

Chairman of Remington Rand, Limited, Mr. Colby said that the contribution of the businessman to a war of this type being indispensable, his opportunity and responsibility are enhanced by the very nature of the conflict.

"Without his daily contribution of himself and his fellows Canada is not enabled to do what the momentous occasion calls for. To put it negatively, but very directly," he added, "what would be the reaction in France, Great Britain and the other dominions if Canada were to lag, and she will lag unless her businessmen do their part in the same spirit which is shown by our youths at the front."

Mr. Colby said Canada, thrilling to a new realization of greatness, accepted the responsibilities which are imposed by the threat to freedom throughout the world and added that he hoped this war would weld the Dominion as nothing else has ever done.

Earlier D. R. Turnbull, of Halifax, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, warned that excess profit taxes and other levies can "become a crushing weight which will slow down production." He said it is a short-sighted policy to continue to "pile taxation on industry and business at this critical time."

Mr. Turnbull said that war-time duties of Canadian manufacturers included diverting to war production all the manufacturing capacity that is required, of continuing to manufacture goods needed by Canadians to provide employment and taxes, seeking for opportunities to maintain and to extend export trade and to prepare so far as possible for the post-war adjustment period.

Hundreds Employed In Turkey for Years Leave at Once for Home

Russia is Gradually Liquidating Commercial Relations in Turkey — Experts May Return to Russia by Seaport of Odessa

Istanbul, Feb. 21—(AP)—Hundreds of Russian technical experts employed in Turkish industry for many years under a Turkish-Russian agreement were ordered by the Moscow government today to return to Russia immediately.

The Russians are expected to embark on Russian ships with their families for Odessa, Russian Black Sea port.

The action follows the gradual liquidation by Russia of its commercial organizations in Turkey.

The Turkish Press recently has discussed the possibility of war this Spring in the near east with Russia's caucasian oil fields a possible centre of activity.

German technical experts employed here in national defence industries recently were sent home by Turkey and the German-owned Krupp shipyards here were occupied by marines.

Turkey, non-belligerent ally of Great Britain and France, has been co-operating with the British and French near eastern armies in planning a defence of this vital region, the "back door" to Europe.

500 AIRCRAFT AT COST OF 10 MILLION BOUGHT BY GOV'T

Craft to be Used in British Commonwealth Air Training Plan

OTHER CONTRACTS

Ottawa, Feb. 21 (CP)—Purchase of some 500 aircraft and supplies at a cost of $7,273,672 for use in connection with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan comprised the major portion of contracts valued at $10,586,516, which Transport Minister Howe today announced had been approved by the War Supply Board during the week ended Feb. 17.

The planes, all of which will be constructed in Canada, are for the most part Harvard advance flying trainers and De Havilland Tiger Moths.

Sharing in the airplane orders were: Noorduyn Aviation Ltd., of Montreal, $3,001,971; the De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., of Toronto, $2,057,845; the Irvin Air Chute Limited of Ottawa, $1,108,005; the Fleet Aircraft Ltd., of Fort Erie, Ont., $1,038,675; Ottawa Car and Aircraft Ltd., of Ottawa, $9574.

Supplies for aircraft, ordered from the British Air Ministry, amounted in value to $34,209.

Orders for Clothing

Orders for clothing and eccessories had a value of $1,337,610 and include the manufacture of almost 3,000,000 yards of cloth.

Total number of contracts awarded by the board during the week was 357. Those other than the air orders, with a value in excess of $5,000 each, included:

Clothing and Accessories

Dominion Textile Co., Ltd., Montreal, $505,687; Canadian Cottons Ltd., Montreal, $235,687; Montreal Cottons Ltd., $88,350; McFarlane LeFairvre Ltd., Montreal, $148,500; Eagle Shoe Co. Ltd., Montreal, $148,500; The Rosamond Woollen

BLIZZARD BALKS RED BOMBERS, INSPIRES FINNS

New Confidence Stirred Among Defenders of Finland's Fighting Lines

VIIPURI SHELLED

Helsinki, Feb. 21 (AP)—February's first blizzard handicapped the Russian bombing operations in southern Finland today and inspired new courage among the Finns for a successful defence of their fighting lines.

No foreign correspondent has been permitted to visit the isthmus front for the past ten days. Available information from military and private sources in Helsinki indicated the war picture was something like this:

Heavy Russian artillery is close enough to drop shells continually into Viipuri—(here the dispatch was censored).

Planes by the hundreds continually are bombing that city, using flares there and on the front for night attacks. From a base somewhere nearby bombers come even on cloudy days.

The Finns are holding positions to which they withdrew under Russian pressure.

Although Russian losses are said to be extremely heavy and Finnish casualties light, there still are hundreds of thousands of Russians along this front to keep up attacks under almost constant shellfire.

BEER STOLEN FROM HELPLESS MOTORIST

San Rafael, Calif., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Charles Goessell, 50, was hauling his pet dog and two cases of beed to his country cottage. The car turned over in a ditch. The frightened dog tore across the fields and never came back. And while Goessell with two broken ribs, was laying helpless in the wreckage another motorist stopped and stole the beer.

RECONNAISSANCE FLIGHT BY R. A. F. AT HELIGOLAND

Several Royal Air Force Planes Pay Visit to German Northwest Coast

COMMUNIQUE ISSUED

Only Meagre Details Are Available of German Air Raids on East Coast of England

London, Feb. 21—(CP)—The Air Ministry announced today that the Royal Air Force carried out a successful reconnaissance flight over Heligoland Bight, off Germany's coast, last night.

"Last night a reconnaissance of Heligoland Bight was carried out successfully by several R. A. F. aircraft," said the Air Ministry's announcement.

Only meagre details of yesterday's German air raids on Britain's eastern coastal waters were available here today.

In one attack three men aboard a trawler were reported wounded by a machine-gun attack by two German planes.

Radio listeners in Northumberland, Norfolk and Lincolnshire heard SOS signals, but lifeboats searched the sea for more than 10 hours without finding any victims.

An air raid warning in the London area proved to be a false alarm.

BRITISH CABINET WILL ATTEND ABBEY SERVICE

His Majesty the King Will be Represented at Memorial for Lord Tweedsmuir

SERVICE AT ALDERSHOT

London, Feb. 21 (CP).—The King will be represented by the Earl of Clarendon, Lord Chamberlain, at the memorial service for Lord Tweedsmuir in Westminster Abbey at noon tomorrow.

Prime Minister Chamberlain and the entire cabinet are expected to attend. The Duke of Connaught, former Governor-General of Canada and Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, and Mrs. Massey will be there. The new Lord Tweedsmuir and other members of the family will attend in a group.

Service will be conducted by the Dean of Westminster, Rt. Rev. Paul De Labilliere, and the lesson will be read by Dr. Archibald Fleming, noted Scottish scholar and Divine and a great friend of Lord Tweedsmuir. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, will give the blessing.

Two of the late Governor-General's favorite hymns will be sung — "I Vow to Thee, My Country," and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

In addition to the services at the Abbey and at St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburgh, other memorial services will be held at Aldershot for the late commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces.

Fire Destroys Winter Quarters Of Cole Bros. Circus, Rochester, Ind.

Remember "Kelley" the poker-faced clown? and Otto, the one-man band, and his gang of hilarious funmakers. And Ken Maynard, dashing western star of the movies who delighted thousands here two or three years ago? And Clyde Beattie, famous lion-tamer, whose daring stunts with his cage of lions had his audience gasping?

All those things are but memories and according to news dispatches today they may remain as such. For the Cole Brothers Circus, famous Big Top show, favorites of Belleville circus lovers for a long period of years, suffered a $200,000 loss last night when fire destroyed the main building of their winter quarters at Rochester, Indiana.

Valuable Animals, Birds, Die in Flames

Scores of valuable animals and birds were killed as flames rapidly enveloped their quarters.

A herd of more than twenty elephants saved from the blaze, escaped and with shrill trumpets of fear, dashed through the city. They were found wandering in the suburbs hours after the blaze had been extinguished. Frightened residents flooded police headquarters with calls, but the heavy beasts apparently quieted down after escaping from the scene of the fire and no damage was reported.

None of the more dangerous animals escaped. Flames cut off the [illegible] cages of lions, togers, leopards, seals and a large number of beautiful tropical birds of plumage.

A hippopotamus, its tank too heavy to be moved, died in the fire. Attendants saved the elephants, a herd of camels, and about 300 horses and ponies before the roof of the main building caved in. One pony was saved from the flames, only to be killed by an automobile at an intersection. None of the circus employees was injured.

Terrified Citizens Flee into Fields As Town Set Afire

Between 30 and 40 Bombs Dropped on Pajala, Swedish Frontier Village but No Casualties Reported

NO WARNING GIVEN

Attack on Pajala Second Violation of Neutral Sweden by Russian Bombers—Town Reported Still Burning This Afternoon

Stockholm, Feb. 21—(AP)—Seven Russian bombing planes today showered between 30 and 40 bombs on the Swedish frontier village Pajala, setting many buildings afire but causing no casualties, dispatches from the border region reported.

Four buildings in Pajala, a town of 3,000 inhabitants five miles from the Finnish frontier, were destroyed and others set afire by the raiders, who descended to 3,300 feet before unloading their bomb cargo.

Although the bombing was generally regarded in Stockholm as accidental it added new complications to Sweden's difficulties over the matter of aid to Finland.

It was expected to bring a sharp protest to Moscow and further stimulate the Swedish "activist" campaign for direct military help to the embattled Finns.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said half the town was turning.

Only Brief Warning

The terrified inhabitants had brief warning of the approaching planes from the village of Kengis, which is closer to the frontier. Thus most residents were able to find refuge. Many fled to the fields others crouched in their homes.

Several bombs fell within 100 feet of the Pajala Church where some townsmen were huddled.

When the attack ended the Soviet planes followed the frontier about 20 miles before dispearing over Finland.

First reports said no one had been killed. Seven Russian planes were reported to have formed the squadron that dropped 20 incendiary bombs setting fire to half of the town of 3,00 persons.

Fled in Terror

Pajala's residents had no formal air raid precautions. When they found themselves the target of the surprise attack, Aftonbladet said, some fled terror - striken to the fields, while others remained in the scant security of their homes.

The town was reported still burning in the afternoon. The Swedish Government was said to have ordered an investigation.

Some Fall Near Church

Accounts attributed to eye-witnesses said 29 explosive bombs fell near Pajala church, which was not damaged, while an undetermined number of incendiary bombs fell in the centre of the village.

Among the buildings hit was an old hospital from which patients had been moved recently. One bomb struck the gymnasium of a school building and penetrated to the basement without exploding.

Pajala's telephone operator, Miss Astrid Perttu, related that at 12.15 p.m. she received a call from a border station stating that foreign planes were observed. Half an hour later a call came from Kengis

RUMANIA NOT TO DISCRIMINATE IN GERMANY'S FAVOR

Oil Question Finally Settled With Germany Being Allotted 1,560,000 Tons a Year

NOTE NOT PUBLISHED

Rumania Will Export Only Crude Oil and No Aviation Gasoline

Bucharest, Feb. 21 (AP)—Pressure by Great Britain and France was reported authoritatively today to have led to a Rumanian government decree banning the shipment of aviation oil to Germany.

The reported decree would be in contradiction to an arrangement made with Germany's trade envoy, Dr. Karl Clodius, a few weeks ago by which Rumania agreed to increase her shipments of aviation oil provided increased export taxes were paid.

Try to Keep Balance

The decree was said to be the latest of Rumania's desperate attempts to keep the balance between Germany's demands for fuel and lubricants for her war machine and the Allies' counter demands. It was believed to be the result of Britain's recent note asking an explanation of Rumania's petroleum policy toward Germany.

Both Britain and France consistently have pointed out in Bucharest that they might be compelled to reconsider their guarantees of Rumania's independence if King Carol's government favored the Nazis in oil policy.

It also was reported today that Rumania promises not to favor Germany have resulted in resumption of British shipments of arms and ore to this country. Nearly all exports from the Allies to Rumania dwindled to a trickle when Bucharest promised last month to ship 30 per cent of her annual oil production to the Reich.

Police Blotter

A transient, who police say gave his name as Colan Duncan Forbes, was taken into custody at the Belleville General Hospital yesterday, where it is alleged he was causing a disturbance. Today Forbes appeared before H. B. Wilson, local Justice of the Peace, and was remanded in custody on a charge of vagrancy. Hospital officials stated the man was seeking morphine and generally annoying the employees.

Highways Clear

No arrests were necessary in Belleville yesterday leaving the cell block available for six transients, who sought shelter in the city last night. Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Envine reported adjacent Provincial Highways quite free from heavy snow and ice and dry in the centre.

His Worship, Magistrate E. J. Butler held police court at Picton today, where a large docket was listed for trial.

Canadian Journalist Taken for a God by South Sea Islanders

It is not very often that a newspaperman is taken for a god but this was recently the somewhat embarrassing experience of Cecil G. Jones, Canadian journalist and traveller, who visits Belleville, Wednesday, February 21. In aid of the Red Cross, Mr. Jones will this evening present the all-in-color motion picture travelogue, "Vagabonding in Bali and Neighboring South Sea Isles," at Bridge Street United Church tonight under the auspices of the Red Cross Society.

"I was in a remote little village on the eastern shores of the island of Lombok, one of the Dutch East Indies islands," Mr. Jones stated. "I had arrived just at dusk. Few white men ever visit this spot and, somehow, some of the Sasak natives got the idea I was a god. In a matter of seconds the one street was filled with a curious and respectful crowd and it took all the knowledge of the Malay language I possessed to assure them I was just a white man—an 'orang Inggris'.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "had it not been for my travelling companion of the moment, a Bombay Indian named Fida Huessin, the thing would have ended there. Fida, who spoke the Sasak tongue, assured the gathering I was not a god but a prince from a far country.

"Two hours later, when I was about to make my way out over a slimy mud flat to a waiting native sailing prahu, I was suddenly seized by a group of cheering brown men. Wading up to their knees in the slimy mud, they carried me shoulder high across the flat and deposited me on the tiny deck of the boat—quite as befitted a prince."

The all-in-color motion pictures which comprise the travelogue, "Vagabonding in Bali and Neighboring South Sea Isles," were secured by Mr. Jones during eight months of footloose wandering far off the beaten path in the little known tropical lands that comprise the Malayan archipelago. Scenes from Bali, Borneo and the Philippines, from Malaya, Java and Sumatra, from Lombok and Soembawa are included in the travelogue which will be presented at Bridge Street United Church on Wednesday evening in aid of the Red Cross.

His wife died last October.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

FIRE ON NEW SUPER LINER

London, Feb. 21 —(CP)— Fire, believed due to an electrical short circuit, broke out today on the new super liner Queen Elizabeth, but was confined to the library and air plant machinery. The 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth, which before the war had been scheduled for her maiden voyage to New York April 24, 1940, is being outfitted at a British port.

ELECTRIC ORGAN PICKS UP BROADCASTS

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21 —(AP)— Through some freak of wiring, the new $2,200 electric organ at the Freeport Methodist church picks up amateur short-wave broadcasts and sends them through the amplifier, like a radio. "Next time it comes on," organist Emma Chapman said today, "we're not going to turn it off. The congregation is curious about the voice and we'll let them hear it."

Kinsmen Club Celebrates 20th Anniversary of Founding

B. C. Sisler, One of the Original Members, Delivers Principal Address at Luncheon

PRAISES SERVICE WORK

Twenty years ago four young energetic business men met in a home in Hamilton. They discussed the possibilities of the formation of a young men's organization. The seed took root and a few days later they met again accompanied by four friends. As time went by the young club flourished and grew. Little did those four young men, Hal Rogers, Hal Phillips, Trevor Thompson and B. C. Sisler, realize that they were laying the foundation of what is now one of Canada's most energetic service clubs, and which boasts branches that stretch from the Pacific coast to the rockbound shores of Newfoundland, with a membership of 2,700.

That was the basis of an address given to the Belleville Kinsmen Club by Mr. B. C. Sisler, one of the original founders of the association and now manager of the Belleville branch of the Dominion Bank, at their banquet commemorating the twentieth birthday of their national association, held in the Queens Hotel last night.

"Service club work has taken a strong hold upon the lives and minds of business and professional men," Mr. Sisler declared. Starting some 35 years ago, it has grown by leaps and bounds the world over. Men seem to have grasped the thing as something they had been looking and longing for in their lives."

Service Club Work Appeals

The reason, the speaker pointed out, is that service club work appeals to a side of a man's nature that he desires to express.

"Down deep in the heart of every man," he said, "is the desire to feel, that he can be of some service to his community."

Service clubmen do not necessarily have to be orators or a leader of men, but where they live they can render a service, that will have an uplifting effect on their fellow men and the community in which they live.

"Service is the rent we pay for the space we occupy in the world," the speaker quoted, "and service with fellowmen reveals that beneath the dignity considered to be the proper thing for a successful business man, there was a boy and a boy's heart. I would not urge, that men pay no attention to their dignity, but let it be of the right kind."

Service clubs have brought men together under conditions that tend to make them forget personal matters and to think of the other fellow. Through co-operative effort, service clubs have been able to accomplish a great amount of good work in the communities in which they are located, the speaker declared.

He paid tribute to the work being done among children by various service clubs and especially the service work of the local Kinsmen in their eye-clinic efforts.

Accomplishment of service clubs are mainly two important things, he pointed out. These are kinship, or fellowship, and co-ordinated community service. He regretted the fact, that some men join these clubs solely with a view to increasing their business.

To Continue Fellowship

Prior to his description of the origin of the Kinsmen Clubs, Mr. Sisler, told the clubmen, that actual formation or the germ of formation sprang from a desire to continue the fellowship created in the army after the last war, and which he said "cannot be duplicated anywhere."

This fellowship was missed after the soldiers had been returned to civilian life. The established service clubs of that period were composed of older men, whose ages ranged from 40 years upward, and consequently the young soldiers felt out of place. It was then, that Hal Rogers conceived the idea of an organization of younger men.

Referring back to the original club, Mr. Sisler stated that it boasted of two honorary members, "Dad" Rogers, father of Hal and Eugene Illsey, then manager of the Standard Bank in Hamilton, and later a well-known banking official of Belleville.

He read letters pertaining to the days, when the club was still in the process of formation and closed with an excerpt from one of them, "Do the duty nearest you, and do it well."

The speaker was introduced by Kinsmen George Aselstine while thanks of the club was extended by Kinsmen Jerry Hurley.

Prior to his address, Mr. Sisler was presented on behalf of the Belleville Club, a life charter membership in the organization. The presentation was made by President Marvell amid acclaim of the members.

A feature of the meeting was the presence of a large number of the younger business and professional men of the city, guests of the members of the club. Cordial welcome was extended to them by President Jeff Marvell, while each received applause as he was introduced by the host member.

Messages Received

Messages from Hal Rogers, founder of the club, and District Governor Austen Peters were read by Kinsmen Lebarr and William Hurst. Musical features of the evening included vocal solos by Harold Barrett which featured "Two Loves Have I" and the old war song "Tipperary" in which the clubmen joined lustily, and Belleville's ace trumpeter, Jimmy Elliott, whose "Stardust" and "Sugar Blues" in "sweet and swing" brought down the figurative house.

Dr. Ralph Bird gave a brief resume of the work of the eye-clinic in which he paid tribute to the work of the school nurse. He stressed the point, that the work was extending to areas outside of the city, and urged that funds be raised to look after this important phase of the club's activities.

Kinsmen Cleo Colling, acted as Sergt-at-Arms with warbling Don Roe leading the singing. The versatile Phil Huddleston presided at the piano in his usual capable manner.

SIX KILLED AT TIENTSIN

Tientsin, Feb. 21—(CP)—Six persons were reported killed today when Chinese police clashed with rioters protesting skyrocketing food prices. At the same time French concession authorities and merchants in the British concession sought to avert a threat of hunger riots resulting from a flour shortage in the foreign section by reducing prices.

MANION OUTLINES HIS WAR POLICY AT VANCOUVER

Conservative Leader Says King Trying to Satisfy Both Groups but Effort Costly

SUFFERS FROM COLD

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Feb. 21—(CP)—The trouble with the "half, though costly" war effort of Prime Minister Mackenzie King is that he is trying to satisfy both those who want determined prosecution of the war and those opposed, according to Conservative leader R. J. Manion.

"Mr. King has been trying, on the one hand, to deceive those of us who want a whole-hearted war effort into thinking that that is what he is making—and, on the other hand, he wants to convince those who think our effort should be both weak and hesitant that he is fulfilling their desires, Dr. Manion said here last night.

Before a crowd of 3,000 which jammed the auditorium, and several hundred more outside unable to get in who listened through an amplifying system, the Conservative leader outlined the war policy of his proposed national government and plans for meeting the problems of the post-war period.

Hoarse from the lingering cold, Dr. Manion today headed east again for scheduled speeches at Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg on the last three nights this week. He spoke yesterday at Victoria in the afternoon, addressed a rally here at night and wound up the day with an address broadcast over a chain of provincial stations. He started the day with a steam bath in hospital to counteract his cold.

Contract Condemned

The Bren gun contract was condemned by Dr. Manion in his address at Victoria as a "most disgraceful thing" for which he held responsible Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health and former Minister of National Defence.

That contract, Dr. Manion said, was given to a man with no experience in that type of manufacturing, a man whom Mr. Mackenzie later admitted, the minister had not met.

Then when this man was not progressing with that contract rapidly enough, he was made a government representative in Britain.

In an outline of the objectives of the national government he proposes to form, Dr. Manion said there was "no reason why there shouldn't be a woman in it," although he was not saying definitely that there would be one. If a woman of marked ability was available, she might be appointed to the cabinet, just as President Roosevelt had appointed a woman to his cabinet.

Overseas Minister Planned

An overseas minister in London to link Canada's war effort directly to that of Britain was proposed by Dr. Manion in an outline of national government aims.

In his address at Vancouver Dr. Manion said there were four chief issues in this election: The government's peace records; its war record; its attempt to "gag" parliament and his proposal to establish a national government.

He told the crowd there were about 1,000,000 on relief and about 500,000 unemployed when the King government came to power. He asked what it had done to reduce these figures.

Government Charged

He reviewed again the events preceding the organization of the commonwealth air training scheme, charging the government with turning down British proposals for a training plan two years ago under which British pilots would have been trained in Canada at British expense.

The present scheme, mostly Canadian, would cost Canada from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000, he said.

"No words of Mr. King can make his so-called British commonwealth air training scheme into anything but a terribly costly Canadian effort which will leave on our hands when the war is over, a huge and very expensive plant, largely useless, because through Mr. King's refusal, a duplicate plant has been forced into construction in Britain and immense development of airplane manufacturing has taken place in the United States."

Criticized Radio Regulations

Dr. Manion criticized current radio regulations preventing broadcasting of campaign meetings — "debarring 1,000,000 radio owners from participating in this election campaign."

Criticizing censorship regulations, he said he was "being told by the heads of some little radio stations whether I can go on." In Regina last Saturday he had had to give the station three copies of his address and then an hour before his broadcast had been told he could go ahead.

"This is too funny for words," he said. The "King outfit" tried to "gag" parliament and now it was trying the same thing with the radio.

Makes Position Clear

Dr. Manion said he wanted to make his position clear on two points, first on the Oriental question. At the National Convention a year and a half ago the party had declared itself as favoring exclusion of Orientals and rescinding of the Lemieux Act, which meant in plain language, Dr. Manion said, that he would "abrogate the gentleman's agreement."

As to Old Age Pensions, he believed the age should be lowered and the allowance increased as the country could afford it. He felt it was largely a provincial question but would appoint a parliamentary committee to review that situation.

Dr. Manion also made clear that he had not proposed a $1.50 price for wheat in a wartime deal with Britain. He had contended that Canada should make a wheat deal with Britain for the duration of the war at "something less than half" the $3 price which was reached in the last war.

The billboards would probably soon blossom forth with advice against "changing horses crossing a stream," he said, but if a horse broke a leg—or four legs—it had to be changed.

Avoid Errors of Last War Claim

Dr. Manion placed the war effort first in government duties at present but said the National Government would prepare now to avoid the grave errors made after the last war.

A program of public works, youth welfare, attraction of foreign capital, expansion of foreign trade and the tourist industry and the carrying out of "most" of the recommendations of the Purvis Commission report, were cited by Dr. Manion as some of the measures a National Government would adopt to cope with the "after-war."

To meet the problem of unemployment, the National Government would implement most, if not all, the recommendations of the National Employment Commission, which was headed by Arthur B. Purvis.

"This commission, appointed by Mr. King himself and headed by Mr. Purvis, an outstanding Montreal industrialist, and Tom Moore, Canada's best known labor leader, gave exhaustive study to the unemployment problem and many constructive proposals for dealing with it, practically none of which have been carried out by the government," he said.

Public works not immediately essential will be postponed until after the war when a works program can be carried out to stimulate private industry to expand employment. The national government will not carry out works in the constituencies merely to foster party politics.

He saw also great possibilities for encouraging Canada's already-large tourist industry. He had set up the present Canadian travel bureau on a pattern since adopted by the United States government, he said, but the present Dominion administration had made no improvements in the bureau since its creation six years ago. Aggressiveness in pushing tourist possibilities would be one of the first concerns of the national government.

These, he said, were some of the ways the national government would prepare for the after-war period. It would seek the help of voluntary citizens' committees across the country in making suggestions and plans for dealing with the "afterwar."

Instead of discouraging recruiting, as Dr. Manion said the present government had done, the national government would "encourage voluntary recruiting and provide conditions in the army, navy and air forces which will make them attractive to our young men.

"Thus we shall always have trained men, ready if necessary to go overseas, either in new divisions or as replacements. We pledge ourselves not to enforce conscription.

PORKER HAS TWO HEADS

Sedalia, Mo., Feb. 21 —(AP)—Das McClure counted heads on a litter of new pigs. He was astonished to find one more head than there were bodies. He checked further and found one of the pigs had two heads. The animal seemed to have the use of both heads, McClure said, and acted normally.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Haig and Cory Nominated at Liberal Convention Held in City Today

Representatives of 125 Polling Sub-divisions Gather at City Hall Auditorium to Select Liberal Candidate—President Ed. Roach Welcomes Large Crowd Then Turns Convention Over to Bart Sullivan, Provincial Organizer, Who Pleads for Broad Tolerant Spirit

RECORD ATTENDANCE

Alderman McLean Haig, Belleville, and ex-Mayor Harry Cory of Trenton, will contest the right to carry the Liberal banner for the riding of Hastings South, delegates to the South Hastings Liberal Convention decided today.

The names of Alderman Haig and Mr. Cory were the only names presented to the convention for nomination, Provincial Organizer Bart Sullivan declaring nominations closed after the required interval had elapsed.

Alderman Haig's nomination was moved by Colonel Roscoe Vandewater and seconded by Mackenzie Robertson, while Mac McGaughey, Trenton, and Walter Post, Deseronto, presented the name of Mr. Cory.

With upwards of two hundred and fifty delegates from the one hundred and twenty-five polling sub-divisions of the riding in attendance, Liberals of the riding of Hastings South converged on the City Hall this afternoon to select a candidate to contest the seat held in the last government by Judge C. A. Cameron, who resigned from the political arena on account of ill-health.

The selected candidate will oppose George H. Stokes, Conservative choice for the riding, chosen some months ago at the convention of the South Hastings Conservative Association.

Seats Filled by 2.10 P.M.

Indications of a bumper attendance came early, as the seats set aside at the rear of the hall rapidly filled.

By 2.10 p.m. these were filled and spectators crowded standing space at the sides and rear of the hall.

The front two-thirds of the auditorium were reserved for delegates. Large signs placed at the end of rows of seats guided delegates to their polling sub-division places. A large block of seats at the left front of the hall were reserved for the Trenton delegation, with Belleville immediately behind.

In the right front were official delegations from Deseronto, Frankford, Tyendinaga, Hungerford, Sidney, Thurlow, Tweed and Stirling.

By 2.20, the seating and standing capacity of the auditorium was filled. People milled in the hallways outside, unable to obtain admission. In the city council chamber anteroom, delegates crowded in small groups and larger ones.

The low hum of conversation apparent in all sections of the auditorium, denoted an air of expectancy rather than excitement.

At 2.25 an announcer at the door asked people inside to make more room.

It was evident at this point that a large number of people would be unable to secure admission. "One of the largest crowds I have ever seen at a Liberal convention," a party stalwart said to a colleague.

Opening is Delayed

By 2.45 p.m. o'clock delegates were in their seats. The hall was filled to capacity.

Scheduled to start at 2.30 p.m. late arrivals of delegates and convention organization forced a lengthy delay.

A ripple of laughter, the first sign of emotion, swept over the auditorium as Tommy Mason, announcer, asked if "Dr. Manion was in the hall?"

President Ed. Roach of the South Hastings Liberal Association, members of the riding executive, Secretary A. H. Ketcheson and other party stalwarts and Bart Sullivan, Provincial organizer were on the platform at 3 o'clock. "Down front," the large audience sat in a hushed expectancy.

President Roach Speaks

President Ed. Roach welcomed the large crowd to "a strictly business meeting to select a candidate for South Hastings."

He warned the gathering that any undue activities or disorder would result in the police being called and the offenders ejected.

He then turned over the convention to Bart Sullivan, Provincial organizer. The convention was on.

Foremost Liberal Victory

Mr. Sullivan said "If this meeting is any criterion of Liberal conventions of Ontario, I predict an overwhelming victory for the government of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King."

"Selection of a candidate is as serious a business as never before in our country," he said.

He reminded the convention they were free citizens of a free country to select a candidate for the government of the country.

"It is a privilege we should well be proud of, one that is denied those of other countries."

He asked the convention to approach the matter at hand with a broad tolerant spirit.

This is particularly desirable at this time as the time is all too short when we meet the opposition, and anything of a nature of intolerance would surely reflect on the results of the great battle of March 26th, Mr. Sullivan said.

At 3.10 Mr. Sullivan officially declared the convention open for nomination.

Col. Roscoe Vandewater in moving the nomination of McLean Haig, pointed out the importance of elections in wartime. The convention, he was sure, was behind the present Premier's platform of "united efforts of a united empire for the successful prosecution of the war."

"The candidate is a successful young business man in his thirties. He has risen steadily in fraternal and business circles of this city. A graduate of Queen's, Osgoode Hall and associate editor of a Liberal paper in Regina, He has a brother in the King's uniform at present in England. He has offered his own services."

Mackenzie Robertson, in seconding the nomination of Mr. Haig, eulogised the nominee's work in civic work, hospital and fraternal affairs.

"This is a wartime election and we have a very serious duty to do, in selecting a candidate."

"We must use unbiased opinion in selecting a candidate," Mr. Mac McGaughey, Trenton, declared, in proposing the name of Ex-Mayor Harry Cory. Weakness may have crept into our ranks and criticism of prospective candidates noised about. We must forget these things."

The seat for this good old riding of Hastings South requires a man of executive ability, one who can handle the affairs of the riding in an unbiased manner without catering to class or creed; a man of courage to enter the political field; who will give everything he has, a go-getter, serious thinker, and a sympathiser with the many calls which will be made upon him.

Mayor Cory, he said was in his early 50's and had spent 26 years in the riding. He served seven years in municipal life, six of them as Mayor of Trenton, where he conducted the town's business affairs in an upright manner. He has friends throughout the riding and is well-known in the district. "I do not need to til you who he is," Mr. McGaughey said. "Cheers rang out in the hall. "Send Cory up," yelled a voice.

"I submit the name of Mr. H. Cory Mr. McGaughey said. Again prolonged cheering rang out as Mr. Walter Post, Deseronto in a brief speech seconded Mr. Cory's nomination.

First Monday in November to Open Hunting Season Nixon Tells Game Committee

Change From November 5th Will be Made by Order-in-Council

LAKE TROUT HATCHERY

Toronto, Feb. 21—(CP)—Opening of the hunting season on the first Monday in November rather than November 5 each year will be done by order-in-council, Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon told the Legislature Fish and Game Committee today. For the first time no amendments will be presented to the Game and Fisheries Act, Mr. Nixon said.

No decision had been made on opening the moose season in two sections now closed, he said.

Policy of the department to have department of public works build hatcheries would be abandoned and in future the department of game and fisheries would undertake such construction itself, he said. It was hoped a hatchery for lake trout would be undertaken in the Parry Sound district this year and efforts would be made to raise all lake trout to fingerling stage rather than to plant the fry. However, the wartime policy of the government would decide this question, he said.

800 Million Planted in 1939

More than 800,000,000 fish were planted last year by the department, he said with 3,000,000 adult or fingerling speckled trout included.

The question of commercial spearing on Lake Simcoe was discussed at length by D. J. Taylor, deputy minster, who said efforts to close the lake—last place in Ontario where spearing is permitted, had met with bitter opposition.

However, licenses were granted now only to persons in dire need and it was hoped the practice would be stamped out shortly.

Criticism of the Quebec department of game and fisheries came from Aurelian Belanger, Lib. Prescott, who charged persons on the Quebec side of the Ottawa river were not compelled to live up to the regulations and were marketing fish in Ottawa in competition with persons from the Ontario side who did observe the law.

Military Tribunal Hears of Fellowship of Objectors

London, Feb. 21 (CP)— Evidence concerning a movement among conscientious objectors to provide instruction for answering questions when they appeal to the tribunal for exemption from military service was brought out at a hearing today.

Douglas MacPherson testified he consulted a member of the "Fellowship of Conscientious Objectors" after preparing a written statement for the tribunal. He gave an affirmative answer when the judge asked if this was done with a view to being prepared to answer questions.

Asked about a "mock tribunal," MacPherson said it was organized by the secretary of the fellowship.

ALTMARK INCIDENT MAY STOP LEAK IN BLOCKADE

Definite Ruling Likely on Use of Norwegian Territorial Waters by Belligerents

GERMANY BLAMED

London, Feb. 21 (CP)—The Altmark case, it was said in authoritative quarters today, is expected to lead to a definite ruling on none of the principal leaks in the Allied blockade of Germany—the use of Norwegian territorial waters by belligerents.

The present discussions between Great Britain and Norway over the incident are expected to form the basis for such a ruling, it was said.

Britain has requested interment of the Altmark, it was understood, although Norwegian dispatches indicated the German ship would be left free to depart as she wished.

The British contention that Norway is obligated to do more than pursue a policy of passive neutrality—made by Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday—was echoed in discussions in authoritative circles today of the provisions of the Hague convention of 1907 covering the rights and duties of neutrals.

POLICE TO GUARD COAL DELIVERIES

Hundreds of Toronto Citizens Find Stocks of Fuel Exhausted

Toronto, Feb. 21 —(CP)— Mayor Ralph Day announced today that police will protect coal firms and individuals who wish to deliver coal in face of the strike of coal handers that has paralyzed deliveries in Toronto since Monday morning.

Hundreds of citizens reported their stocks of fuel exhausted and offices of coal companies and strike headquarters were flooded with urgent requests for delivery to homes where invalids and children face a cold snap.

W.A. Gunn, counsel for the Toronto Retail Fuel Dealers Association which includes the majority of Toronto coal distributors, announced that his association and union officials had reached tentative agreement on a new contract at a meeting that ended early today and expressed the belief that the "modified agreement" would be ratified by the strikers later today.

Closed Shop Pact Sought

The men went on strike in demand for a closed shop agreement. Dock companies however have declared they will not be a party to any closed shop agreement. The dock companies are not members of the Fuel Dealers' Association.

Mayor Day declared that the police would guard everybody engaged in emergency delivery of coal.

A committee of the strikers, whose ranks have swelled to 1,200 men, met the Ontario Labor Minister, N. O. Hipel, at noon today and informed a deputation of the coal dealers that the men had decided unanimously to remain on strike until the closed shop demand was granted. Union leaders claimed that 95 per cent of the coal handlers were solidly with them.

Vast Quantities Military Supplies Released by Britain for Finns' Aid

144 Planes, Both Fighters and Bombers, Included in Supplies — Small Arms Munitions and Military Equipment

ANTI-TANK RIFLES

10,000 Anti-Tank Mines, 50,000 Hand Grenades, 25 Howitzers, 100 Machine Guns, 30 Field Guns With 6-Inch Guns and Mortars Are Being Sent

By J. F. Sanderson

London, Feb. 21.—(CP Cable)—The British government has released vast quantities of military supplies to Finland, including 144 planes, both fighters and bombers, it became known tonight.

In addition to the supplies being sent by France to Finland, Britain is sending 150 anti-tank rifles and ammunition, 10,000 anti-tank mines, 50,000 hand grenades, 25 howitzers and ammunition, 100 machine guns and ammunition, 24 anti-aircraft guns and ammunition, 30 field guns and ammunition, four six-ton tanks, 12 six-inch guns, and 10 three-inch mortars.

Britain is also sending the Finns a vast quantity of small arm ammunition and military equipment such as field telephones and anti-gas supplies.

Large Proportion in Finland

Not all these supplies have actually arrived in Finland but a large proportion is there and the rest is going forward quickly because of Russia's prolonged attack on the Karelian Isthmus. Among the planes already in Finland are some gladiators, one of Britain's best types of fighters.

In addition to this material assistance to Finland, thousands of men and women have registered at the Finnish Legation here as volunteers for the Finnish army. It is understood the first group will leave Britain shortly. Recruiting by Finland in this country has the consent of the British Government.

Consent of Norway and Sweden

One of the difficulties of sending volunteers to Finland is the necessity of obtaining the consent of Norway and Sweden, whose territory must be crossed. So far they have agreed to this traffic, which has been on a relatively small basis.

Field-Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, the Finnish commander-in-chief, it is stated in official quarters here, has made no approach to Britain and France for the dispatch of large quantities of volunteers following his rebuff when he appealed to Sweden.

Paris, Feb. 21—(AP)—One thousand Hungarian volunteers passed through Paris today on their way to fight for Finland and declared 10,000 more volunteers are making ready to leave Hungary.

Most of those here today have had previous military service. They were equipped with clothing resembling ski outfits. They will travel by way of London.

PHYSICAL CHECK-UP URGED BY DR. DAFOE

Rochester, Minn., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe had the same urge that any other visitor here would have—to get a physical check-up at the Mayo Clinic—when he arrived today for a speaking engagement.

The Dionne Quintuplet's doctor arrived by air from Chicago. He said it was his longest airplane ride.

Dr. Dafoe is to have a check-up at the clinic Thursday. He is to deliver an address tonight and plans to return to Chicago Friday afternoon.

POLITICAL DYNASTY BROKEN

New Orleans, Feb. 21 — (AP)—The Huey P. Long political dynasty, born of 12 years of dictatorial violence, died peacefully by ballot yesterday after one of the bitterest election campaigns in Louisiana's history.

Voters in the Democratic runoff primary election for the governorship nomination swept to defeat Governor Earl K. Long, brother of the "Kingfish" and titular leader of the political machine, and nominated Sam Jones, lawyer and reform candidate, to the office. In Louisiana the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

Churchill's Estimate of 2 to 4 Subs Sunk Weekly 'Not Exaggerated'

London, Feb. 21—(CP)—Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, declared today that the Royal Navy was maintaining a high rate in the destruction of German submarines.

"Successes of recent weeks," he told the House of Commons, show that the weekly sinkings are continuing at such a rate that his assertion of Dec. 6 that the navy was sinking two to four U-boats a week "was in no way exaggerated."

He also asserted that the response of Britain's fishermen to the admiralty's call for volunteers to sweep mines and protect the coasts was "more than satisfactory."

BRITISH TRAWLER BEATS OFF PLANE WITH GUNFIRE

Nazi Plane Attacking Four Trawlers Hit by Cross-Fire of Vessels

NEUTRAL SHIPS LOST

London, Feb. 21 — The Grimsby trawler Tartan reached port today to report that she had driven off one Nazi plane with gunfire yesterday when German warplanes were raiding shipping along the English and Scottish coast.

Apparently referring to another incident of the raids, one fisherman reported that a German plane which attempted to attack four British trawlers "was hit by the cross fire of the trawlers."

Reports of the raids still were meagre.

Today brought further reports of shipping losses. The casualties included:

The 4,760-ton Netherlands freighter Tara, reported sinking off Cape Finisterre, France, after being shelled without warning.

The 2,476-ton Norwegian steam-Cape Finisterre, France after being tic Thursday by a submarine, with 13 of her crew missing. The 933-ton Norwegian steamship Ala, sunk after striking a wreck near Glenans Island, off the coast of Brittany.

WAR BRIEFS

London, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Reuters News Agency reported today that Finnish military authorities in Helsinki officially denied the Russian assertion that the coastal fort of Koivisto had been captured.

Amsterdam, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Anti-aircraft batteries fired on foreign planes of unknown nationality last night near Denhelded, a Netherlands naval base, a communique announced today.

London, Feb. 21.—(CP)—"Token" estimates totalling 1,100 pounds, to finance expansion of eleven branches of the Royal Air force were issued by the government today. As authorized under the system introduced by the Treasury Tuesday, undivulged amounts may be spent for the various defence services following parliamentary approval of 100 pound "token" credits.

London, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Captain George W. Tailby of Skeffington, Leicestershire, was fined 100 pounds ($445) and 20 pounds costs in Bow Street Police Court today for failing to offer $20,000 in United States currency in his possession for sale to the treasury, in accordance with wartime regulations. It was the first case of its kind since the foreign currency regulations went into effect.

Paris, Feb. 21—(AP)—The army high command's morning communique today reported:

"Infantry and Artillery fire at various points of the front, notably in the Vosges mountains and along the Rhine."

Concarneau, France, Feb. 21—(AP) — The 933-ton Norwegian steamer Ala sank today after striking a wreck near Clenans Islands, off the coast of Brittany. The crew of the ship, enroute from Spain to the Netherlands, was rescued.

London, Feb. 21—(CP) — The 268 - ton German trawled Herr Lichkeit, captured by the Royal navy, was brought into a Scottish port today and the crew interned.

CARGO SHIP SEIZED FLYING NEUTRAL FLAG IS BELIEVED GERMAN

Alexandria, Egypt, Feb. 21—(CP)—British naval authorities today seized a cargo ship flying a neutral flag but declared by British authorities to be German. Name of the vessel and other details of the seizure were withheld.

Feed Merchants Satisfied Prices Will be Higher

Local feed merchants are quite well satisfied that the price of feed and grain will continue going higher than even its present sharply increased figure. Oats were selling for twenty-five cents per bushel last August, stated one feed merchant this morning but since the outbreak of the war, the price has jumped exactly one hundred percent and they are now selling for fifty cents per bushel. "There are a great deal many more hogs in the country this year than for many years past," continued the local merchant "and until these hogs are shipped the price of grain and feed is bound to increase."

The price of raw hides has taken a drop from last week, howdver, added the merchant, who carries on a considerable trade in this line with the farmers. "Last week we were able to pay ten cents per pound for number one hides, but the market value of hides taken after this date will be lessened through destructive action of the warble fly larvae and we received word this week of a one cent drop in price.

B. O. Lott Elected Director of Honey Co-operative Assoc.

Mr. B. O. Lott of Holloway was elected by a large vote to the position of a director of the Honey Co-operative Association of Ontario, at a meeting of the association which was held recently at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto. Mr. Lott is a pioneer in the honey industry and his experience will be of much value to the association by his closer connection with it as a director.

Lydford Lodge Instals Officers

Last week members of Lydford Lodge, No. 184, Sons of England, held their annual installation. Several visitors were present from Oxford Lodge No. 17. After a very snappy business program an emergency election was held for the offices of Secretary and Treasurer due to the resignation of one of the brothers from office.. After the election the installation was held in regular form.

District Deputy Supreme President Brother Batchelor, Sr., assisted by Supreme Guide Bro. Reeder, Past President and Supreme Guard Bro. Parrish handled the installation in a very capable manner.. After the ceremony the District Deputy Supreme President addressed the Brothers on ways and means of augmenting lodge membership and the building up of attractive programs for the year. The newly installed officers also spoke a few words, thanking the brothers for their election to office and making suggestions for the betterment of the lodge. A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered the District Deputy and his assistants for the able manner in which they did their work. Business for the evening being completed, lodge was closed in the regular manner after which a tasty repast of fish and chips and coffee were served by Bros. Gilroy, Henn and Noyes.

The officers elected were as follows—

Worthy Past President—Bro. D. J. Batchelor, Jr.

Worthy President—Bro. F.. Codling.

Worthy Vice President—Bro. G. Cowey.

Worthy Chaplain—Bro. J. Henn.

Worthy Secretary — Bro. A.. Evans.

Worthy Treasurer—Bro. D. J. Batchelor Jr.

1st Guide—Bro.. Gilroy.

2nd Guide—Bro. Howey.

3rd Guide—Bro. Harden.

4th Guide—Bro. Bell

Inside Guard—Bro. Gatcomb.

Outside Guard—Bro.. Noyes.

Trustees—Bro. D. J. Batchelor Sr., and Bro. Chas.. Gatcomb.

Auditors—Bros. Cowey, Henn and Howey.

Over 1,000 Bags of Parcels Arrive for Canadians During Week

(By Edwin Johnson Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Aldershot, Feb. 21 (CP Cable) — For eight days without interruption 14 men of the first division postal unit under Lieut. R. A. Hadden of Ottawa have been distributing a flood of cheer that troops of the Canadian Active Service Force are not finding hard to take.

The cheer is sail from home in the heaviest and most constant stream since the first batch of Canadians arrived on this side. Every incoming boat brought its quota and postal men have been working as much as 20 hours a day to avoid being swamped.

During the week more than 1,000 bags of parcels alone have been sorted and delivered in addition to hundreds of bags of letters and newspapers. Even the heavy accumulation of Christmas and New Year mail did not approach this volume.

Youngest Soldier

Among the parcels was one addressed: "To the youngest soldier with the Canuck forces." It came from the Meaford, Ont., branch of the Canadian Girls in Training.

The lad who received their gift was Private Earl A. Deforge of Beachburg, Ont., now serving in the divisional headquarters employment platoon. His attestation paper lists Deforge as 2, the minimum age for enlistment, but as he looks much younger he earned the nod.

The parcel contained a flashlight which tickled the youngster as he did not have one. He is going to write to thank the girls.

All Mail Not From Home

But all mail addressed to the Canadian camp does not come from home. More than 900 letters have been received from United Kingdom residents anxious to get in touch with relatives and friends they have reason to believe now are serving with the C.A.S.F.

Most are anxious to offer the hospitality of their homes to the boys while several seek word about members of their families who migrated years ago and forgot to write home.

One optimist pointed out that the man he is tracing borrowed 52 shillings sixpence during the last war and "I have not heard from him since but probably if I locate him he won't mind repaying me with small interest."

Sergeant-Maor A. H. Hagar, Ottawa, chief clerk of divisional headquarters, has taken over the task of trying to untangle these problems. He admits it is tough to find someone's cousin "who has been farming for years in western Canada."

In practically every instance the writer can offer no further clue to the party sought than the name.

GOOD-WILL PICNIC SET FOR JULY 10TH

The Commercial Travellers' Good Will Picnic, that annual function where a large number of Belleville business men depart from "shop" procedure and mingle with the "knights of the satchel" in a day's glorious outing, will be held in Cobourg again this year, according to a communication received today from officials of the Travellers' Picnic Association.

Tentative plans for the 1940 function were laid at a meeting in Toronto on Saturday where the following officers were elected: President, H. G. Thurston; vice-president, W. G. Mills, and Joseph C. Samuels, secretary-treasurer.

While full details have not been ararnged as yet, the picnic will be held on July 10th, the meeting decided.

REV. CLIFF NOMINATED PRESIDENT BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE

At a special meeting of the Kingston Presbytery of the United Church held in Convocation Hall, Queen's University yesterday, Rev. H. W. Cliff, minister of Cooke's Church, Kingston, was nominated as president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, which holds its annual session in Port Hope the last week in May.

MINISTERS REQUEST CHANGE OF PASTORATE

Rev. H. P. Sanders, Consecon, and Rev. George Adamson, Cressy, Prince Edward County United Church minister, have requested the Belleville Presbytery of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church for pastoral changes. The matter will in all likelihood be referred to the Conference Annual meeting in May.

HOSPITAL BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

Mr. Mackenzie Robertson was reelected chairman of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital at their annual meeting last evening. Other officers elected were: vice-chairman and Chairman of Property Committee, Ed. P. Bernstein; chairman of Supervision Committee, G. A. Morton; chairman of Finance Committee, Lt.-Col. T. Y. Wills; chairman of Public Relations Committee, Alderman H. J. Clarke.

TWO FIRES RESULT IN NO DAMAGE

Local firemen were called to 41 Purdy Street at about nine o'clock last evening as the result of a chimney fire at the above address. There was no damage, however, stated fire department officials this morning, as the fire was quickly put under control with the arrival of the reels.

A second alarm was received by the fire department but as the fire was outside the city limits, the reels did not respond. Some men engaged in wrecking operations at the site of the old Albert College just north of the city, had had a rubbish fire burning during the afternoon and this had apparently broken out again among the debris, but no damage resulted.

WATER SHORTAGE IN COUNTRY CONTINUES DESPITE RECENT THAW

In spite of heavy snowfall and slight thaws of the past few days there is still a serious shortage of water in many parts of the district, farmers said today. Sufficient water is trickling in wells in some parts, for domestic use, but water for cattle and other agricultural purposes, in parts where farms are not adjacent to bodies of water, have to be hauled from holes cut in the ice of bay or creek.

GROUND IS FROZEN NEARLY TWO FEET

Severity of the grip that Jack Frost has secured upon mother earth is noted in the fact that in the majority of places there is frost in the ground to a depth ranging between twenty and twenty-four inches

According to Mr. A. W. Thomas, caretaker of the Belleville cemetery frost has penetrated the ground at that point to approximately two feet. Burials, however, have been conducted regularly, with entombments, mostly of deceased people awaiting burial in other cemeteries of the district amounting to four.

PUSSYWILLOWS FOUND IN BLEECKER'S WOODS

Pussywillows, the buds of willow trees, one of the first harbingers of spring, were reported to have been found in Bleecker's Woods on the Foxboro Road today by Mr. David Murray, Donald St., reported to the Ontario Intelligencer at noon today he had picked a large-sized bunch of pussywillows while walking through the woods north of the city today. The recent warm sunshine is attributed to the early budding of the willow trees. Other reports of maple sap having commenced were also heard by the Ontario Intelligencer today.

ALL-DAY QUILTING HELD BY MISSION

The ladies of the St. Johns' Mission held an all-day quilting at the Mission Hall on Herchimer Avenue yesterday afternoon with a good attendance. A pot-luck dinner was served at the noon-day intermission which was enjoyed by all.

During the afternoon service at the Mission Hall on Sunday last, Rev. C. Heaven gave a very interesting and appreciated talk on "The Life of the Late Lord Tweedsmuir."

4,760-TON NETHERLANDS FREIGHTER TARA REPORTED SINKING

Amsterdam, Feb. 21—(AP)—The 4,760-ton Netherlands freighter Tara was reported today to be sinking 60 miles southwest of Cape Finistere, France, as the result of being shelled without warning.

A message to the Amsterdam owners from a French wireless station did not identify the nationality or type of the attacking vessel.

Longer Training for War Pilots Needed Today Than in 1914-18

Question of What 'Total War' Would Mean in Aviation Branch is Problematical

RECORDS OF 1914-18

By DEVON FRANCIS

Associated Press Aviation Editor

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—If German threats crystallize in "total war" in the air this Spring, military students will have a chance to see whether nations can train men to fly as rapidly as armed conflict can kill them.

France lost 61 per cent. of its effectiveness during the war of 1914-18 in bearing the brunt of the air fighting on the western front.

Up to Feb. 15 in the second great war, the Royal Air Force had listed 663 men dead or missing in 5½ months of extremely restricted fighting.

Neither Germany nor France announces its air force deaths, but it is a fair assumption that in the bitter, if sporadic, fighting against Britain, Germany's losses have approximated its enemy's.

Those are casualties in only touch-and-go fighting. What they would amount to in a "total war" is, of course, problematical. But they unquestionably would be high and pilots are not replaced so easily as they were when 140 miles an hour was super-fast.

Training Differs

In the last war, men were sent aloft often after only two or three hours of instruction. Today months of training is necessary to instruct a novice properly in the art of flying 300-mile-an-hour bombers and pursuits capable of 400 miles an hour.

There is little question that Germany had the jump on France and Britain in flying personnel before the war started. As far back as 1937, news correspondents in Berlin reported the Reich had an air force of more than 100,000 men, about a tenth of whom were pilots. Last year, more than 100,000 members of the "Hitler Youth" organization were earmarked for aviation careers.

Last summer, France had laid plans for an air army of 86,000 men. The program was slow in coming to fruition.. Britain's goal was 100,000 In each instance, about a tenth of the number was designated was pilots. Programs of both countries were accelerated at the start of the war.

Between them, Britain and Germany lost 32,500 men from their air forces in the war of 1914-18, all of whom were fliers—commissioned or non-commissioned pilots and enlisted men.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN REFERS TO ALTMARK INCIDENT

Prime Minister Chamberlain in his speech to the British House of Commons yesterday made clear the failure of the Norwegian authorities to conduct investigation of the German ship, the Altmark, carrying British prisoners who had been captured in raids on British shipping by the now scuttled Graf Spee. It gave him the opportunity to lay before the world the international law.

The British Premier spoke for the nation as he referred to the joy of the people at the freeing of the prisoners and their return to their country. His praise of the Royal Navy brought cheers from the House members.

The question was raised of the possibility of German pressure though only in discussing the question for he said that even "if Norway's indifference was due to German pressure, it is nevertheless in the view of His Majesty's Government inconsistent with the active and impartial exercise of the duty of a neutral toward ourselves as belligerents."

A despatch from Paris later said that French and British navies will take "all measures" to make sure that Norwegian waters are not used for belligerent purposes, and a spokesman remarked that acts of war being carried on by the German navy in Norwegian waters would be put a stop to. It was charged that German merchant ships are using these waters to make their escape to Germany.

The neutral question has been brought to the fore by recent events.

British papers have told of British acts in rescue of Norwegians whose ships have been blasted by German mines and have referred to the neutral losses at the hands of the Nazi Germans.

THE AIRMAN

The Salvation Army War Cry in its Red Shield edition of this week devotes its columns to the work among the soldiers. In it appears a poem of John Oxenham's, "God Bless You, Bird-man."

"I never hear
The growling diapason of a plane
Up there,
The deep reverberant humming of a plane
Up there,
But to God I wing a little prayer,
For him who braves the dangers of the air.
God keep you, Bird-man, in your plane up there!
Your wings upbear, your heart sustain!
Give you good flight and oversight,
And bring you safe to earth again."

THE MOTHER OF INVENTION

Unusually heavy snow storms which have fallen in the southeast of the United States have shown man's resources in meeting the difficulties created by the snow. One was the case of an airport. A runway was cleared of snow at the municipal airport at New York but planes were faced with the fact that despite the clearing the runway could not be distinguished from adjacent areas on which snow was drifted several feet deep. The airport crew hit upon the plan of racing a motorcar over the runway at sixty miles an hour with a few seconds' start of the plane. They led the plane along the runway the plane taking off and skimming over the top of the car. Incoming planes were directed in the same manner.

No parts of Ontario have suffered so many handicaps as did the people in some of the states. In one place 300 persons who had attended a dinner found that snow had blocked the roads and they had to stay in the school and there they spent the night singing. Many remained in subways of New York. In a theatre at Providence R.I. most of the audience spent the night when they found they could not get home through the snow.

Happy parties were reported as a result of the storm. In one place a snowdrift held up a school bus and some cars and the thirty-three men, women and children crowded into a house at Selinsgrove, Pa. As they were unable to find sleeping accommodation they spent the night in singing and in eating up the family's winter provisions.

Most people suffered little inconvenience as compared with the sufferings in the cold wave a week or so ago in the southern states. There were numbers of cases of relatives held up by storm on the way to visit sick friends.

Most people are able to forage well for themselves and get some comfort even out of the storm. To most of them the adage still holds "It's an ill wind that blows nobody some good."

MAGNETIC POLES SHIFTING

The south magnetic pole has shifted since 1909 Admiral Byrd radioed to the United States Navy Department. The poles "of this great magnet of an earth" (as the New York Times refers to the earth) are distant 1200 miles from the geographic poles and are subject to slow displacement, a fact which has been known for many years.

According to the Times the magnetic North Pole is somewhere in Boothia Peninsula, northern Canada, the South Pole in Queen Victoria Land where Admiral Byrd is. The magnetic poles are not diametrically opposite each other for the line that joins them passes some 750 miles from the centre of the earth. As one magnetic pole shifts, so does the other, but because few measures are available for the south magnetic pole no geophysicist would undertake to define more than the approximate position of one pole from that of the other.

The Times goes on to say:

"Though it has been known for over three hundred years that the earth behaves like a great magnet the source and nature of its magnetism are still major mysteries. It would be a mistake to draw too close a comparison between a boy's horseshoe magnet and the earth. There are strange variations in terrestrial magnetism to which no piece of iron is subject. In France in 1580 the compass pointed north by east; in 1665 true north; during the War of 1812 north-north-east; fifty years later, true north. Is there some connection with these rapid fluctuations and the slower shifting of the magnetic poles? We have only to ask some questions and to wait for answers, in order to discover that there is more to be learned about the earth than our geographies show. The geophysicists who are spending their lives studying the mysterious earth are also Columbuses."

HELPING THE BIRDS

Finding of the frozen bodies of a number of winter birds yesterday brought forcibly to mind the need that these creatures be fed scraps of bread and fats and so on.

These birds stay the entire year and at times they are the only signs of movement on the wintry landscape and deserve the few crumbs and scraps that are often thrown away in the garbage.

What the bird and the animal kingdoms endure through a winter when for months the snow covers the ground is something for one to ponder over. Birds have for example to face the bitter cold, hunt for such foods as seeds and take care that they are not caught by cats, themselves on the hunt for food.

The life of sparrows, while seemingly a happy one with their chatter and chirping, is none too fortunate in winter with most seeds buried under snow and only a few seeds to be found on the end of a branch of weed or bush.

So much discarded food goes into garbage cans, surely some might be kept out for the little creatures which enliven the winter scene.

Operation in Acute Gall Bladder Inflammation

When a patient has an attack of acute gall bladder trouble with severe pain in upper right abdomen going over into right shoulder it has been the custom to wait until all symptoms have disappeared before operating. This would appear to be wise when we think of how "low" these patients are in spirits aside from the exhausting results of the attack. It comes then as a surprise when we learn that physicians and surgeons today are advising early operation in acute inflammation of the gall bladder as they believe that less damage to the patient's general health results from operation than allowing a severe or repeated attack to affect the general health.

Dr. F. Glenn, New York, in Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics, Chicago, records the histories of the 219 patients with acute cholecystitis (inflammation of the gall bladder) who have been treated at the New York Hospital in the last six years. Early operation is not difficult, there was not a greater number of complications, nor was the death rate higher than that reported for ordinary or chronic gall bladder diseases.

Dr. Glenn states that as the outcome of an acute inflammation of the gall bladder cannot be predicted (even as in acute appendicitis), delay in operating may lead to dangerous complications which greatly increase the difficulty of operation and increase the death rate also. The younger the patient undergoing operation, the better the chance of an uneventful recovery and good result from operation.

For the comfort of older patients, however, experience shows that age is not as important as the length of time the gall bladder symptoms have existed, thus the sooner any necessary operation is performed, the better.

From his observation of these 219 cases, Dr. Glenn recommends that patients with disease of the gall bladder and bile tubes or ducts undergo operation as soon as it is known that this disease is present unless the general condition of the patient is such that further medical treatment should first be given. He believes that by immediate operation the death rate will be lowered and there will be great relief from symptoms due to heart disease and high blood pressure.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

With the return of milder weather operations on the western front where the Allied and German armies face each other in their powerful fortifications are becoming more lively.

The risky business of night patrolling and scouting provides thrills and excitement for picked bodies of men. These duties are essential to the security of the opposing armies as only by means of them can commanders be informed of activities and intentions of the other side.

So long as the opposing forces continue in the present state of seige warfare and uncertainty prevails about the possibility of large scale offensives, night patrols must be sent out to reconnoitre the ground between the Allied and German lines.

The misfortune which befell a French detachment the other night when 20 men were killed and several wounded is typical of the hazards in this type of warfare. While the detachment was not on patrol duty its danger was the same as that which awaits every patrol which goes out in the darkness.

The detachment lost its way while advancing to relieve the troops occupying an advance post. It wandered far forward and ran into a concealed German outpost and a shower of hand grenades.

The way the French troops were lost emphasizes the importance of a thorough knowledge of the dangerous No Man's Land which separates the main German and Allied positions. It is one of the duties of scouting patrols to learn the location of enemy posts so that such mishaps may be avoided.

Their main duty, however, is to learn what new activity the enemy may be engaged upon. If he is bringing up unusually large numbers of men or heavier weapons to his forward positions a situation calling for an artillery barrage may be indicated.

Bearing Down on Car Owners

As regards the Department of Highways, Premier Hepburn's budget speech shows revenue during the current year of $33,097,000. Ordinary expenditure was $10,193,366, leaving more than enough to have met the capital expenditure of the year—as Mr. Hepburn once promised to do—or more than twice as much as is necessary to cover debt charges on the total highway indebtedness of the province. Both, of course, cannot be charged against highway revenue, and it is to be assumed that the interest is paid from this account.

Certainly the revenue was not devoted to capital expenditure, for the premier once more announces a big increase in the debt. He has added during 1939-40 the sum of $24,500,000, including capital expenditure on highways, the money for which was borrowed as it always has been, and about $2,000,000 more will be needed in the coming year to meet debt charges.

For the year commencing in April, capital expenditure on highways is to be less. But the government budgets for about the same revenue, at $32,800,000, and for ordinary expenditure of $11,371,300, which after taking care of debt charges will leave a very substantial balance to be devoted to general purposes.

The six-cents gasoline tax was never necessary, much less the higher levy, for highway purposes. Highway taxation now constitutes one-third of total ordinary revenue of the province. Motorists have been amazingly patient, presumably believing that they were paying their "share" of highway costs, as government spokesmen sometimes express it. In the coming year, with capital expenditure down to $7,000,000, the estimated taxation amounts to several millions more than ordinary expenditures, capital expenditure and debt charges combined. That seems to be a fairly generous "share."

Not One-Sided

Last week a local merchant uttered a few words of condemnation to the Editor, claiming laxness on the part of The Record-News, because it did not (using his own words) "Go after these out-of-town, house-to-house peddlers and canvassers, and the citizens for buying from them. We merchants pay heavy taxes and should be given a preference over such peddlers." Perhaps so! However, our ire was a bit roused over the ignorance displayed on the part of the merchant, who was informed in no uncertain manner, that if he read the editorial columns in The Record-News regularly, he would realize his remarks were out-of-order. However, be that as it may, we wonder if this said merchant gets his printing done out-of-town? He doesn't get it at The Record-News, and one piece of stationery of his that we saw was not printed in Smiths Falls. That only saying "people in glass houses shouldn't throw stones" is quite applicable in this case. Citizens in general are just as much justified in purchasing goods from house-to-house peddlers, as some—and thank goodness there are only a few—local merchants and business places are in purchasing some of their printing needs from out-of-town salesmen. However, we will still fight against the peddler nuisance regardless. Ideal community loyalty is not one-sided.—Smiths Falls Record-News.

Far-Flung Line

At about the same time the Anzacs land in Egypt after a 10,000-mile trip from Australia and the cruisers Ajax and Exeter arrive in England after a trip of 5,000 miles from La Plata. They are two footnotes to Rudyard Kipling's far-flung battleline. They are a reminder also of how extremely central is the central position of an ambattled Germany.

Germany's great effort in the World War was made possible in large measure by the fact that she fought along interior lines. She could shuttle her armies back and forth and she had no great distances to travel in any direction. Her resources were right on the spot. So they are today. For purposes of mobilization and attack Germany has to think only in hundreds of miles.

The Allies, in controlling the sea, have all the Seven Seas to watch and traverse. Germany is not merely on interior lines with respect to Europe. She is central with respect to a battlefront that extends 10,000 miles in one direction to Australia and 5,000 miles to the South Atlantic. Great Britain's moves, along such an enormous periphery, are bound to lack the impressive Blitzkrieg touch. — N.Y. Times.

One More Suggestion

Horace Greely, renowned editor, received a letter from a woman who stated that her church's financial condition was most distressing. She recounted how they had tried every known device to raise money—fairs, strawberry festivals, a donkey party, oyster suppers, ice cream socials, turkey banquets, poverty sociables, mock marriages, grab-bags, and all the others. She closed her letter asking, "Will you be so kind as to suggest some new device to keep our struggling church from disbanding?"

The answer was grief, but comprehensive. "Try religion,' wrote Greeley.—Carleton Place Canadian.

When Crews of Submarines Rest in Their Depot Ships

Whenever a British submarine comes in from patrol, she makes straight for the depot ship. As soon as she is safely tied up alongside, the crew come aboard the ship for a rest. Submarines usually spend anything up to three weeks on patrol. The crew may never see daylight during that time because the craft will probably be submerged during the day and on the surface only at night. Space is very limited, proper food is difficult to supply, exercise is almost impossible, and fresh air is practically non-existent. You cannot have the whole crew coming up at night, in case you have to dive quickly.

So the period on patrol, taken by and large, is something of an ordeal and when the men get back they are usually dirty and tired. And the spell in the depot ship is very welcome. Every submarine crew has its own mess, its own long tables and forms to sit on, each man has his own locker in the depot ship. And if you looked round the mess decks you would see here and there a few tables cleared and with the forms upturned on top of them out of use—denoting that that crew are out on patrol in their submarine.

Then there is a complete spare crew—their forms are never up on their tables unless they have to replace the personnel of a submarine.

The men have every comfort when they are resting in the depot ship. All the work on their submarine, such as refuelling, revictualling, battery charging, repairs, is done for them by the depot ship crew while they themselves rest. They have recreation space where they play games and get much-needed exercise, and they also get as much shore leave as possible.

So much for the men. The submarine itself is equally well looked after. The ship's equipment includes a foundry, a coppersmith's shop, a plumber's shop, a carpenter's shop, light and heavy machine shops, and electrical and torpedo repair shops, and also a department for repairs to periscopes. Walking through the workshops I felt all the time that I was being shown over a big factory, and moreover a factory which combined the up-to-date methods of modern mass production with the independence and originality of the individual craftsman. —From the London Listener.

U-Boat War Found a Flop

Germany has failed in her U-boat attack and the only move she can make with any kind of confidence to met British forces is through her air force. Fear of failure in this last resort is now keeping Germany from putting men and planes across enemy territory.

Commander Edward Elsberg, one of the world's finest authorities on naval and submarine warfare, with knowledge of other kinds of defense, gave the above as his opinion regarding the position Germany and Great Britain at the present time and reported in the Windsor Star.

"The only thing Germany can do now", the commander declared "is to send her planes over—carry on the war by air. And it looks as if she wasn't any too eager to do even that!

"I would say the submarine warfare carried on by Germany in this war has been a failure. She had twice as many U-boats as in the last war, yet only 20 per cent. of the tonnage destroyed in the last war has been sent to the bottom in this. That means one-fifth of the tonnage in the World War, and the best months for submarine warfare are past.

Best Months Past.

"September and October are the best months of the whole year for subs, and November last year was good, too. In the weather she had, Germany should have done much better.

"The U-boats won't do any more damage than they have done and I doubt they will do a great deal more. Germany has realized this and her next move will be in the air."

Convoyed ships are the answer to why German U-boats have failed in their mission of sinking the British navy and merchant marines, according to Commander Elsberg.

"A submarine can't touch them", he said. "The risk is too great. A commander can get at the ship and release a torpedo. But he knows he will be caught. He will lose his ship and his men. No commander would take the chance. In the case of the sinking of the Courageous the commander was justified because he knew the ship he was sinking was of great value in war.

Admit U-Boat Loss

"And the truth is that the U-boat in that sinking was destroyed. The Germans tried to say it wasn't, but they afterward admitted it was lost. A sub simply cannot get away from convoys."

"Compared to losses in the World War, the losses so far in this war are trifling," the commander reminded reporters. "In the World War between 600,000 and 800,000 tons of shipping were sunk every week. That means six ships a day went down, and they weren't just tin cans. They were good ships. Two the size of the Athenia went down. Besides that, there were any number of tin cans which get front page notice in this war.

"Now there are an average of a couple of ships a week that are worth anything. The reason people think there is much damage being done by German subs is because the reporting is a great deal better than in the World War. Then the facts were held back. They got out eventually, but not for a long while. People didn't know what actually was happening", he concluded.

Shipping Goes On

"Germany has not interfered with the shipping on the Atlantic so far," he continued to debunk the enemy's power, "nor will she in the future. The bulk of English shipping has gone on as before the war without any trouble at all."

"The only thing that Germany did which might have been effective was plant those mines on the East coast of England", the Commander stated. "And she did that because she realized that she was failing in her submarine attack. The rate at which tonnage was being sunk in December through those mines might have been effective if it had gone on much longer. But it didn't."

It would not have gone on as long as it did if British naval authorities had not been so slow, Commander Elsberg said, by way of rapping British caution.

"I'm sorry to say it, but the British are too slow. They should have been prepared for those mines. They weren't new at all. They hadn't been used, that's all. Germany committed a gross violation of rules regarding neutrals, of course but then British has stopped thinking Germany will follow any rules. She should have been ready."

Trump Card Played

As it is, the last and trump card of Germany's naval battle has been played, in the opinion of the man who went down to the sea in ships years ago and has gone down in the latest models right up to this year.

"I don't think there will be anything new in the way of weapons in this war," he declared frankly. "Adolf Hitler said he had some terrible weapon but he hasn't shown any yet and I have an idea that terrible weapon was the mines. And if Adolf Hitler thought those mines would win the war, he merely shows what a poor sailor he is. For no man who knows anything about naval matters would depend on them; he would know that something could soon be done to make them ineffective.

"The only thing new that may be used is bacterial disease and Hitler may use that in the Spring. But I can't say anything about that. It hasn't been tried and until it is no one knows how effective it will be".

"Germany would rather destroy a Scandinavian ship than a British", concluded the commander, "and the Scandinavian countries cannot retaliate in any way that is effective. The whole battle in the North Sea has shown that Germany is after Scandinavian, not British shipping.

"The only things those countries can do is refuse to send supplies into Germany .But they have to do that diplomatically because they really have no adequate defense against Germany. Denmark could be walked over; she is completely pregnable. Norway and Sweden couldn't put up much opposition.

"It's pretty hard for those Scandinavian commanders to see their ships go down and their men murdered. But what can they do?"

That is the picture given by Commander Elsberg, who accomplished the mightiest task in modern submarine history, that of raising the battered hulk of submarine S-51, through directing the rescue and inventing an under-water torch for cutting steel. Last May he went as an observer to Portsmouth, New Hampshire, where the Squalus was salvaged.

He gives thanks to a training system for rescuers instituted by the United States navy for that feat and declared that England has been remiss in passing up the system for years, although she has lost submarines by the dozen.

Commander Elsberg was called upon for advice by the British Navy at the time of the Thetis disaster and slammed British policy that has been too slow to train men for the work of salvaging subs and saving men.

"Every man was lost on the Thetis", he said. "It was the most awful thing I ever saw."

Destroyers Dreaded

"Germans know now that destroyers used by Britain are effective. You'll notice the Deutschland and her sister ship have not come out. Nor will they! And the U-boats are getting wary. Their commanders are like a thief who knows he can come into this hotel and rob it easily enough. It is open, all ready for him. But he knows he'll be caught in five hours or a year. So he won't take the risk.

"A thief won't rob if he knows he's going to be caught for certain. And a sub commander won't bother convoyed ships when he knows he'll be caught and lose his boat and his men in a few hours."

Strangers and Loafers

There are several places in town where men have a habit of congregating during the winter afternoons and having a game of solo or euchre, such as Charlie Rudolph's harness shop and Norman Knapp's Service Station. Here's hoping that it doesn't happen to these places as it did in Orillia, where men had a habit of congregating in the fire hall during the winter afternoons and having a game of cards. It was entirely informal, as is the case here, and anybody could join the club. Now Hitler has put a stop to the Orillia affair. Since he went on the rampage in Europe, the government decided that all vital services in Canada should be protected against sabotage, and ruling has come through from Toronto that strangers and loafers are not to be allowed to frequent fire halls, so the Orillians are looking for a new place to play.—Hanover Post.

TONY

—BY ELIZABETH VERNON—

CHAPTER V

The schoolroom curtains, red and thick and cozy, were drawn against the cold evening darkness. The table, laid for tea, was pulled up to the fire. The old-fashioned pictures—"Cherry-ripe" "The Anxious Mother," "True Friends"—looked down from the walls. Tony and Jacky had decorated the chipped gilt frames with holly. Tony, curled up on the heathrug, was making toast. A dry, good scent arose. Jacky, seated at the table pulled the jam pot towards her. Lavishly, she helped herself to jam.

"This is such fun, Tony," she said slowly. " wouldn't have minded anything if I'd known we were going to have the holidays— like this—" she glanced across the table at Tony. "Only I wish you were quite happy; as I am now."

"But, Jacky, I am."

Jacky shook her head. "No. You know, Tony, I don't mind so much about Harry. He's been a pig, and I don't want him as a friend. I'll make myself not miss him."

"It wasn't his fault—quite. It was that Fleming man."

"Well, you wouldn't give up seeing someone, just because you were told to. Would you?"

"I don't know."

'Oh, you wouldn't. Tony, if it's that Fleming mans fault, I hate him. I'd like to do something to him."

"So would I!" Tony spoke through clenched teeth.

"Well, let's. Can't we? Let's put a dead rat in his bed I know where there is one, behind the stables—"

"Oh—" Tony, holding the brown teapot, laughed as she poured out. "Not a dead rat. But, Jacky, we could fill his bed with thorns and holly."

"Yes! Yes!" Jacky jumped up and down on her chair. "I can help, can't I?"

Tony nodded. "We'll do it when his room's been shut up for the night. But not if you don't wipe the jam off your face, sweet."

Jacky produced a crumped handkerchief. Obediently she rubbed her chin.

"Oh, I do wish this was nettle time too", she said .

x x x

Jacky, in faded blue flannel pajamas and an old short dressing gown, followed Tony down the long passage. In her arms was a bundle of holly.

The maids had been their round of the bedrooms. The landings and passages were silent. Only the ticking of a clock sounded, and an occasional crackle from a well made up fire. The hour was safe—nearly ten o'clock. No one, surely, would come upstairs so early.

The door of Alan Fleming's bedroom was a little ajar. They entered. In the leaping firelight the room had an air of comfortable gloom. The great four-poster bed loomed in the dimness. A cold draught swayed the curtains a little. There was a faint scent of tobacco and of leather.

Jacky had dropped her holly on the floor. A small figure in the wavering shadows, she was wandering slowly round the room, touching the unfamiliar objects. She paused to look at a large photograph that stood on the writing table. Hyacinth's eyes and smile met her gaze in the firelight. She drew back.

"I hope they won't be happy." Jacky spoke with the pitilessness of childhood.

"They probably will be. They're both pigs," Tony replied briefly.

"Here's a box of his cigarettes. I would like to break them up—"

"No—Jacky—"

From far down the passage came the sound of an unhurried tread For an instant, Tony stood very still. Then in feverish haste she swept her thorny heap and Jacky's under the bed. Jacky turned a frightened face. Tony seized her by the hand and dragged her across the room to the dark corner by the wardrobe.

"Thank goodness I'm thin," she thought, and Jacky, crammed against the wall behind her, even thinner. Would this corner be dark when the light was turned on? Would they be seen? The footsteps, unmistakable, neither fast nor slow, advanced down the passage. Her heart beat heavily. A kind of paralysis of fear held her. This was how she had felt in the old days when, at Jacky's age and earlier, she had found herself cornered by Jim and Hyacinth or by Jim alone. Silly to feel so frightened—Alan Fleming couldn't hurt them. But that was the worst of the kind of childhood that she had known; you couldn't get rid of fear. Thank God Jim had died, and Jacky had never known that sort of terror. "But I'd kill anyone who hurt her. I'd kill them—"

The door opened. The electric light clicked on. Tony shut her eyes. She heard Alan Fleming cross the room. When she opened them again, he was standing by the dressing table. He picked up his watch which, it seemed, he had come upstairs to fetch, and now as a clock outside struck the hour he paused to set it. At something in that still figure—something in that tranquil face or in the set of the mouth a phrase came unbidden to her thoughts, "Better as a friend than an enemy." A moment later he had turned and left the room, plunging it once more into firelight and shadows.

"O—oh!" Jacky gave a sigh of relief. They gazed at each other. Tony was rather white. "He won't come back, will he" Jacky said.

"No. He's downstairs by now, talking, or playing bridge. Being a social success."

"Let's hurry."

"Yes. Bring me his slippers, Jacky."

Tony dived under the bed for what she had hidden there. Together she and Jacky knelt on the carpet. Tony slipped a piece of blackthorn and some holly into each slipper.

"I bet that'll hurt," she murmured. And indeed she meant that it should. She thought of Alan Fleming's interview with Harry. Perhaps, she thought, she and Harry might have continued their friendship if it hadn't been for that. She might sometimes have seen him—she wouldn't have expected to see him often, now that he had so many other interests. But—poor Harry. She could imagine him, set on by her family and by his mother. He might have stood out against that as he had done in the past when, Tony knew, Hyacinth had spread many tales about her to Mrs. Beckett; some true and some untrue. But the man-to-man talk had flattered him. All Tony's anger turned against Alan Fleming. She had none against Harry. Only a heavy feeling, because her friendship with him had been a bright thing in her life and in Jacky's. She thought of the picnics they had had in summer days, all three together. The rides. And this time last year, they had spent long hours tobogganing—well, all that fun was gone. Nothing of their friendship would be continued into their grown-up years. And she knew to whom partly at least, she owed that loss—to Hyacinth's future husband, whose interference she had felt in greater or less measure three times in twenty-four hours.

"Jacky, look here; we'll make him an apple pie bed and put the holly and stuff in that. Then he's bound to push against it pretty hard.

Jacky slipped round the bed. They flung back the clothes. Neatly, Tony pulled up the end of the under sheet. Jacky watched her with an ecstatic smile as she stuffed the thorns and holly between the sheets.

"What do you think he'll do?" she asked.

"Well, I should think he'd shout and swear a bit," Tony replied.

"Do you think he'll tell anyone tomorrow?"

Tony wrinkled her nose. "No. Shouldn't think so. He'd look such a fool. He's certain to guess who did it though, and perhaps he'll say something to me. That would be rather fun."

"We shan't hear him swear," Jacky pointed out regretfully.

"Well you won't darling." The mischievousness left Tony's face as she glanced across the bed at Jacky. Was it just because of the darkness of the room that Jacky seemed too pale? No, there were dark rings under her eyes. "I'm going to put you to bed now. But I'll tell you what. I'll listen outside the door after he comes upstairs, and in the morning I'll tell you all about it."

"Oh, Tony, couldn't I come with you?"

"No, my darling, you couldn't." Tony, glancing down at Jacky, smiled that smile which few people had seen.

"Oh, all right." Jacky slipped her hand into her sister's, rubbing her head against Tony's arm in a wordless happiness at her presence.

At the door they turned, scanning the room once more for signs which might betray them. "What smart pajamas he wears." Jacky eyed those silk garments with their black stripe.

"Very dressy and genteel. Perhaps they'll be a comfort to him when he's scratched himself on the thorns." Their laughter accompanied them as they fled down the passage.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Mutiny in the Big House."

Spencer Tracy played Father Flanagan in Metro's "Boys' Town," Pat O'Brien was Father Connelly in "Angels with Dirty Faces" and now Charles Bickford is coming to the screen as Father Joe in Monogram's "Mutiny in the Big House," the next hit at the Capitol Theatre. All movie town is awaiting the performance of one of the screen's outstanding "hard guys." For the first time in a long and colorful career Bickford plays a priest.

As the prison chaplain, Bickford portrays the character suggested by the heroic Father Patrick O'Neil, who, in 1929, averted a prison break in Canon City, Colorado, when the convicts started a riot. In "Mutiny in the Big House" Barton MacLane is the cynical, hard-boiled "con" who attempts to make Dennis Moore a hardened criminal. Bickford, on the other hand, works to recondition Moore for his life after the "big house."

Besides Bickford and MacLane, the outstanding all-male cast includes Dennis Moore, George Cleveland, Pat Moriarity, Nigel De Brulier, Charlie Foy and others.

William Nigh directed from the screenplay by Robert D. Andrews. The original story was written by Martin Mooney, noted newspaperman who was imprisoned for refusing to divulge the source of information he secured as a reporter.

The added attraction features the three mesquiteers who score again in the new action thriller, "Cowboys from Texas."

AT THE BELLE

"Barricade"

With Alice Faye and Warner Baxter together for the first time as a romantic team, "Barricade" stars these two top-notch 20th Century - Fox personalities, in a thrilling modern story of startling realism. It opens next at the Belle Theatre and advance reports give every indication that his is an exciting adventure-romance not to be missed.

The veteran character actor, Charles Winninger, is featured in the film with Arthur Treacher, Keye Luke and Willie Fung. Winninger portrays the heroic American consul to whose compound came a little group of American and British refugees fleeing the bandit terror.

How they escape danger, win exoneration and finally seek seclusion for their love makes a thrilling film.

"Stop, Look and Love"

Girl meets boy — but mama frightens him away every time with her wedding bell complex in "Stop, Look and Love," the gay new 20th Century - Fox picture which is announced as the laugh hit feature on the same program, with Jean Rogers, William Frawley, Robert Kellard, Eddie Collins, Minna Gombell and Cora Sue Collins sharing top billing.

And Kid Brother meets the only boy in the world and Minna starts scaring him away, Dad steps in and puts his foot down.

How Dad saves the day and the romance, is excitedly and entertainingly told in this human and hilarious romance, which Otto Brower directed.

"Birthplace of Icebergs," one of the most remarkable screen oddities ever at the Belle Theatre, will be exhibited on the same program.

Ken Sobles' "True or False" game will be presented on the stage this week for splendid cash prizes.

"Gulliver's Travels"

Acclaimed the most ingenious and inspired entertainment ever presented in a theatre "Gulliver's Travels," a full-length cartoon in technicolor with its parade of eight song hits, its extraordinary fantasy, broad humor and thrilling romance is now concluding a highly successful four days' engagement at the Belle Theatre.

First pictures of Canada's tribute to the late Lord Tweedsmuir and six other News of the Hour World Events will be presented on the same program, with a very funny Edgar Kennedy comedy "Slightly at Sea" and a unique and entertaining sportlight film "Judo Experts."

AT THE McCARTHY

"I Was a Spy"

"I Was a Spy," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, for the last time and with Madeleine Carroll and Herbert Marshall co-starred, receives here our unqualified approval. It is truly a spectacular film, intensely dramatic, profoundly human. It offers an evening of complete entertainment. It belongs to the outstanding pictures of all time.

The fact that it is based upon a true story may account for its effectiveness. The screen story was adapted from the memoirs of Martha McKenna, famed woman secret agent during the World War and it is a curious fact that the film heroine retains the name of Martha Cnockhaert as the real character was known before her marriage to an English officer.

'SALADA' presents "Mexican Gold" Tonight 8 o'clock CFRB

Martha Cnockhaert was a Belgian woman impressed by the Germans into service as a nurse during the early days of the war. For her tender care of the German soldiers she received the Iron Cross but her love of her native country prompted her to serve the Allies at the same time as a spy.

Eventually, she was trapped by German agents and threatened with execution. Her trial, and escape from the firing squad is unfolded on the screen with fine skill and with a high sense of drama. The whole production is vividly alive, an expert transference of life itself.

Madeleine Carroll plays the role of the heroine with great emotional intensity—her high spirits, great beauty and intelligent sensitiveness making her the perfect one for the part. Herbert Marshall, as the hospital orderly who is her fellow spy, performs with his usual keen understanding. Conrad Veidt is excellent as the German officer who falls in love with the woman spy, and yet must sacrifice her to his country.

In general the cast is distinguished, including many tried and tested players of the stage and screen, Gerald Du Maurier, Edmund Gwenn, Donald Calthrop, Nigel Bruce, Martita Hunt and others equally skilled. It is no exaggeration to say that they live their roles rather than portray them.

Preceding the presentation of "I Was a Spy," Fox Movietone News of the latest in world-wide important events, an all technicolor musical comedy "Ride, Cowboy, Ride," featuring Cliff Edwards and a "Stranger Than Fiction" interesting subject, are now showing at the McCarthy Theatre.

"Five Little Peppers at Home"

One of the most entertaining double bills ever offered, "Five Little Peppers at Home," the sequel to "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew' with the same grand cast and Bellevilles favorite outdoor star, Charles Starrett in "The Stranger from Texas" will be on the McCarthy Theatre screen for the remainder of this week, following "I Was a Spy."

MAJOR JOURNEYED AS "PARCEL"

London, Feb. 21 —(CP)— Major L. Palmer, after waiting unsuccessfully for six days for a passenger vessel to take him from Guernsey to Alderney, today "mailed" himself for the 20-mile English Channel journe. He bore a label with the word "parcell," and was accompanied in the mail steamer by a postman charged with the task of "delivering" him to the addressed destination.

PERSONALS

A meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held yesterday afternoon with a splendid attendance. Plans for the annual Fashion Show were discussed and it is hoped that the event which takes place in March will be as successful as that of last Spring.

Mrs. E. W .Matthews of Stirling, was a guest yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Rogers, 74 Cedar Street. Major Matthews, who is in England with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment had the privilege of shaking hands with the King and chatting with him when he visited the troops.

Pilot Officer Henry A. Sprague spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sprague, Port Nelson.

Mr. William Scott of Cleveland, and Miss Frances Scott were in Lindsay, on Saturday attending the funeral of the late Elizabeth Ann Scott.

Mr. Gerad Curry of Avondale, underwent a major operation yesterday in the Belleville General Hospital. His condition is favourable.

Mrs. John Robertson and daughter, Nikki of Sydney, N.S., are visiting Mrs. Robertson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stewart, West Bridge Street.

Activities of Women Of Moose Praised By Grand Recorder

The general meeting of the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, was held in the Moose Auditorium on Tuesday evening, with Senior Regent, Mrs. J. Chapman, officiating. A communication was read from the Grand Recorder Miss Katharine Smith, Washington, D.C. complimenting on the chapter's progress also an acknowledgement from Moosehaven for a donation sent.

The Co-Workers stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada.

"Ritual Chapter Night" program was in charge of Chairman Mrs. G. Ritch. Sunshine prize was drawn for by Mrs. M. Ashmore.

At the close of the meeting cards were played. The euchre prize winners were Mrs. B. Mossman and Miss Mary Doran, the rummy prize was won by Mrs. J. Chapman and the consolation prize went to Mrs. A. Burk.

Mrs. Jeffrey, chairman of Homemaking and her committee were complimented on the supper. The table was very pretty with red candles in silver holders and Valentine motifs, also novelty place cards all of which was very much in keeping with St. Valentine's. The pleasant evening was brought to a close at a late hour.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was standing around the letter box with Skinny Martin and Reddy Merfy and Shorty Judge talking and arguing about different subjects such as the war and how it would feel to bale out an airoplane and suddenly realize you had forgotten to take your parashoot, and I said, Well anyways we're living in the luckiest country right here, with no bombs dropping on your head every time you open your front door.

Yes, and all the butter you want to put on your bread without having to show a card first to prove when you buttered the last slice, Skinny Martin said, and Reddy Merfy said, Yes, and how about the freedom of the press? The newspapers in this country can say anything they feel like, whether it's true or not, and if the government dont like it, who cares?

Yes and how about freedom of speech for everybody? I said. Holey smokes if we were standing around a German or a Russian letter box right now talking the way we're talking there might be a dictagraff right in the letter box listening to every word we say, and the next thing we knew we'd all be in a concentration camp surrounded by bob wire, but over here everybody can say anything because talk is free, I said.

Do you mean to say I can say any thing I fell like just because I live in this country? Shorty Judge said, and I said, Sure, and Skinny said, Absilutely, and Reddy said, I'd like to see anybody try to stop you.

Then in that case I'll say you 3 guys are 3 panes in the neck, Shorty said, and me and Skinny and Reddy said, Hay, who do you think you are, hay.

And I grabbed him by the hair and Skinny and Reddy each grabbed him by a wrist and wouldn't leave him go till he took it back.

Proving free speech is limited even in the best countries.

When Trichomonas Rebels

What is trichomonas infection?

The trichonomas is a small unicellular parasite. It is found quite frequently in the human intestine—with great regularity indeed, when the gastric juice is diminished. Sometimes it changes from its harmless role and becomes troublesome. It may then cause diarrhoea or other digestive upsets. In infants this occurrence is much more serious than in adults. In girl babies the trichomonas may enter the genitals and cause itching and discharge. In rare instances this occurs in adult women. A great deal of attention has lately been directed towards the condition in infants and children.

In the intestinal infestations the trichomonas is quite readily killed by the use of enemas, and the employment of a drug. The treatment of the vaginitis in girl babies is by warm water douches and local drug applications. The skin should be protected by a thick soothing ointment. Adults respond favorably to similar treatment.

Pellagra Under Control

Is this new treatment for pellagra proving successful?

One of the great American endemic diseases, pellagra is under control. Constantly afflicting the under-privileged population of the southern states, it has been observed for 50 years. It consists in a state of bad nutrition with sore tongue, diarrhoea and scruffiness and eruption of the skin. Long believed to be a nutritional disorder, it is now virtually proved that it yields to the us of nicotinic acid. Nicotinic acid is a part of the vitamin B complex. It is therefore, proved that pellagra is a vitamin-deficiency disease.

Under the use of nicotinic acid practically all cases of pellagra are restored to normal with almost magical rapidity. They must, of course, be kept upon an adequate diet in order to hold their gain.

Questions and Answers

A.G. "Please give me a remedy for chilblains."

Answer: The best remedy is prevention. Chilblains are caused by combination of cold and wet continued without relief. Prevention of exposure by woolen socks and heavy shoes in going outdoors. If the feet have been chilled and wet, the shoes and stockings should be removed and the feet cleaned with warm water and massaged. The important thing is to improve the circulation by massage and exercise. Warm oil rubbed into the skin of the feet on going to bed and then wearing woollen stockings in bed tend to prevent recurrence.

H. B. C.: "Will the absence of a proper amount of vitamin B in the system cause sciatic nerve trouble? Will thiamin chloride help sciatica?"

Answer: In my experience it is not this form of nerve trouble which is caused by lack of vitamin B, nor do I think that thiamin chloride, which is a concentrated form of vitamin B, is likely to help sciatica.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, February 22

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

PECULIAR, irregular and conflicting testimonies are found in this day's astral auguries. There may be strange adventures in business, as well as intellectual and personal contacts. And while erratic and singular urges seem to invite these, there is much stability and sound incentive to counteract real danger. A stern application to work would prove an escape.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of stability and substantial progress if they will hew to the old traditional lines, as there are certain curious, eccentric or unorthodox propensities to combat with good sense and the wise counsel of elders. The social and romantic aspects are under this peculiar influence, which, properly governed, may prove constructive and end thrillingly.

A child born on this day, while having a studious, profound and responsible nature, may be assailed by side issues of quixotic, revolutionary or even destructive tendencies. Early and sound training would switch such creative propensities into progressive lines.

A well-known firm has created a sun-warmed pink nail polish this season to bring the South to your fingertips. "Hot Pink" describes it to perfection—a rich, warm-toned pink you'll use again and again as a costume stimulant. Its glowing, tropicl colour will light your grays and legion blues, give the first hint of desert warmth to a snow bound costume. "Hot Pink" will go south with you to the beach, west to the desert, for the right pick-up with those first amber tones that tinge your skin. You'll see it everywhere this year. It's spring's forerunner—the fashion world's "first swallow" that means theres going to be a summer. You'll see its flash in bags, in gloves, in accents; in turbans, in brief jackets worn over dead black, lining hoods and skating skirts, in a slim belt to sharpen upo the cold white of beach dress.

Rest Cure-In a Beauty Shop

By HELEN FOLLETT

IN THE good old days when women were perfect ladies, they were dragged away to a rest cure when they played out. Now they have a better method of getting back to normal. They go on a beauty shop binge. The emporium of pulchritude is a grand old institution. Long may it live and flourish.

Movie stars know the value of professional treatments. They have scalp frictions, facials, body massage. Believe me, those pretty backs, arms and legs get plenty of attention — lubricating with fragrant creams bleaching with whitening lotions, invigorating massage to tone muscles and keep tissues firm and youthful.

The beauty shop offers relaxation which is pretty hard to get these crazy days. Going through the beauty hopper restores the conviction that there's life in the old gal yet. The complexion is freshened as well as the spirits and a new order of make-up is vitalising. What a brand new hair-do will accomplish is known to every woman, though too many of them haven't the courage to break away from the old mode.

Even a new shade of nail polish has its uplifting effect.

After the beautifying spree get a gay new hat; nothing like a dizzy-looking lid to make life sweeter. It can cure almost any trouble—except a busted bank account.

A simple and harmless bleach for face, neck, arms and hands is made by combining four ounces of alcohol, two ounces of strong rose-water and 16 drops of simple tincture of benzoin. Be sure to ask the druggist not to use the compound benzoin which is thick and horrid, not suitable for this purpose.

Apply with a pledget of cotton at bedtime, let it dry on. Don't use it directly after the face has been washed with soap. This preparation is not a flaying bleach; strong bleaches should never be used. In the morning apply cold cream, remove with cleansing tissues, put on your war paint and sally forth.

Frowns Leave Their Mark

By HELEN FOLLETT

FLESH ON the forehead is a snug fit. Not much padding between the skin and the bones. There's no reason why it should not stay smooth and unwrinkled until one is 100 years old. If, my dear lady, you have discovered railroad tracks extending from one side to another you can blame yourself. They got there because of the habit of lifting the eyebrows.

The constant pleating of the tissues causes lines that affect not only the outer surface but dig deep into the fibres. That's why many a woman is disappointed when she plies the massage cream, hopes to iron her complexion to a state of smoothness. One can cream and massage until the cows come home but the horrid crevices will remain to make one wretched if facial gestures continue.

Frowns are disfiguring because they look glowering. The woman who is easily irritated has them; also the one who suffers from impaired eyesight which usually can be corrected by wearing glasses that are properly fitted.

A nice forward hair line helps to enhance the loveliness of the forehead; so if any stray hairs have wandered from the fold, as sometimes happens, out with them. Apply hot, moist compresses before using the tweezers and you won't shed as many tears.

See if the hair has picked up powder during the fluffing-on process of making your complexion velvety. You can use the eyebrow brush for the purpose of removing it, and it is a swell idea to dip the bristles in brilliantine. That makes hair glitter, and glitter is what you are after these days when the coiffure standard is high, has to be exactly so-so, if not somewhat so-so-er.

JANICE LOGAN. . .avoids facial gymnastics to keep brow smooth.

Fashion Flashes

A RESTFUL EVENING IS aided by a becoming housecoat. A new model is printed satin, white with an iris design in purples, pale red and blue with green stems and leaves.

Definite trends are already apparent in spring merchandise. There will be plenty of light-weight wool in navy blue. It is used for a smart afternoon dress with a scarf which continues to form a cash, made of white satin with a vivid red and blue flower and stripe print.

Most beautiful dress in the world is the wedding dress. A lovely model is white silk jersey, made with high. draped neckline, long sleeves, shirred bodice and skirt with front fullness.

Something different from ermine is the long fitted evening coat of white broadtail. The snug bodice has a curved yoke with a slit pocket and the collarless neckline has a massive gold link necklace.

There's a wish for dinner hats both at home and at smart southern resorts. Equally at home any place, is a dinner hat of draped silk jersey in deep blue trimmed in front with a round cluster of pale pink ostrich plumes.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Study Your Type of Girl Before You Marry Her

If you find yourself slipping, falling more and more in love with every breath you take—stop, look, listen, the next time you are overtaken by a "safe and sane" interval.

For love has been diagnosed as ecstatic madness, and the deeper and harder you fall the fewer and farther apart will become your lucid intervals.

If you're a steady, plodding sort of fellow, with an underlying streak of seriousness, and who enjoys watching his savings grow, beware the flashing charmer who carries all before her like a racing yacht, full sail, on a winning breeze. She'll be hard to resist.

You'll find her so divinely different perhaps from the women you've previously known, especially your sisters and your cousins and your aunts. You'll have a time to keep up with her, and your savings will melt like a cake of ice left on the back doorstep in the dog days.

Write a poem about her perhaps, or a short story which, of course, will never be published, but it will help clear your mind. Next, go in quest of a different type.

Try to find a girl who likes the same things you do, one who will enjoy pampering the little bank book and seeing it grow tall and put on weight. A girl with an under-current of seriousness who reads the news in the daily papers before she turns to the society column. A girl to whom you can talk and discuss your hobbies, one who will be satisfied to stay home evenings instead of wanting to go places. The girl whose tastes are domestic and who will not be above sewing on your buttons and darning your socks.

If you are an intelligent man, don't fall for a stupid girl—even if she knows how to cook. Good meals are a prime requisite of happy married life, but spiritual refreshment is as necessary as the well-balanced ration. To marry a girl who wouldn't know what you are talking about, when you're talking well and know it ,is fatal to happiness.

"Is China a part of Russia?" lisped a sweet young thing at their dinner table, the other evening. And the husband, who had been indulging in a peroration on the destruction of ancient art in China, nearly went through the floor. The lady is famous for her boners.

She once inquired if Shakespeare had ever been to America, because she understood he had written a play about Bermuda. She, of course, had some hazy idea about "The Tempest".

The cards seemed stacked against the man or the woman, as the case may be, in an unhappy marriage. A girl is swell dancer, or pretty, or has fascinating little ways about her, or contrariwise, a man seems to have a heart of gold because he turns off a few stock sentiments, or seems to be one of those strong, silent men, when he's just plain dumb. And before you know it, they've both been bitten by the "ecstatic madness".

The only way to insure contentment in the marriage is to study the type of girl or man you find attractive in one of your most lucid intervals.

Keep Your Diet Talk to Yourself

If you're reducing your diet will be a most fascinating topic of conversation—to you! And quite naturally. All day long you will think about it, resist food temptations, do calorie arithmetic, resist second servings, and generally be the martyr you have no real inclination to be. In your own estimation, your self-denial makes you a heroine or hero, and you long to talk about your exacting role.

But please have the grace not to make table talk of your diet. Either eat what is before you and say nothing about it; or don't eat whatever it is you are not going to eat, and saying nothing about it.

Your family probably won't pay much attention to your being on a diet. But your constant table talk about it will bore them to death. It's an infallible way for you to become a household pest.

And you won't exactly endear yourself to your hostess, if, when seated at her table, you inform her you are on a diet. You may think you'll salve her culinary pride with your, "My diet doesn't allow this, but I'm going to eat it anyway." But, as a guest, you still won't rate high with her.

When you are dining out, no one need suspect that you are on a diet. You can talk engagingly about other subjects. You can politely serve yourself to foods that are offered you. And, of course, you don't have to take second helpings of anything. But keep that diet of yours to yourself.

Courtesy Tip

When a person is telling a story it's uncomfortable and disconcerting if he sees by the expression of your face that you can hardly wait for him to finish his story so that you can tell your story.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Mumps

Mumps, another of the infectious diseases that nearly all children contract at some time or another, is an inflammation of the glands of the neck which causes a swelling at the back of the jaw bone. It may occur on one side or on both sides. If both sides are affected, then the child will have considerable difficulty swallowing anything except liquids.

Mumps are quiet contagious and I have known of rural schools where nearly every student came down with them.

Our grandmothers had a fairly efficient test for mumps. When Johnny came home complaining of having a pain at the base of his jaw, Granny would take a sour pickle, give it to the boy, and tell him to eat it. If the pickle caused such sharp pains that he had to spit it out, then Granny was pretty sure that it was mumps. Usually she was right.

I suppose it is because mumps gives the victim rather ridiculous swollen jowls, but anyway the disease is usually a subject for mirth. Most parents probably regard mumps as something that doesn't matter very much. They too often are amused when Johnny's face swells up.

Doctors probably would regard mumps as lightly as parents do if it weren't for at least one serious complication that may follow in the wake of the disease if not checkmated. The poison may spread and cause inflammation of the sex glands. In many cases this results in sterility and it is, undoubtedly the cause of many childless marriages

The complication of the sex glands may affect either male or female although the former are most often involved. Such a development obviously should be guarded against at all costs. One of the things it is necessary to do is to keep the child in bed and quiet until the swelling in the jaw has disappeared.

I know this is easier said than done, particularly if the child is of the active type, for very often there is no feeling of sickness and the only unpleasantness that is felt is a difficulty in eating. After the novelty of no school and being waited on as a patient wears off, he will want to get up and be about. Then the parent will have to use the utmost diplomacy and patience to keep the child in bed and quiet. But it is a very necessary precaution.

We have no sure way at present of preventing mumps for no serum or vaccine for it has been developed. The only advice we can give parents about prevention is to tell them to prevent contacts with children who have the disease. Late winter and early spring are the times to watch for mumps.

Occasionally adults get the mumps. Usually they are persons who did not have mumps in childhood, but I have known cases of mumps in men and women who did have the disease as children.

I recall one young man who broke out with mumps on his wedding day without realising what was happening to him. He went through the ceremony at the church complaining about a sore jaw. After the ceremony his jaw got more tender and painful. Well, his wife began asserting herself right there by having me examine the jaw.

When I told them he had the mumps, they both thought I was joking. However, I managed to convince them that it was the mumps and to warn them both of the danger in taking the disease lightly. Sterility was a horrible word to them right then, so he went into solitary quarantine.

BABY'S UPSET STOMACH
QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote quiet sleep. Walking floors at night is unknown in our home."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and that upset her almost to the point of convulsions. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—went to sleep and when she awakened was her own good self again."

Equally effective for diarrhoea, colic, teething troubles, simple croup, constipation and simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easy to take, prompt in their action yet harmless. Analyst's certificate in every box. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if not satisfied.

150 Lives Saved by Boy Scouts During The Past five Years

Ottawa, Feb. 20—(CP) — Canadian boy scouts saved the lives of at least 150 persons in the last five years, the medal board of the Boy Scouts Association revealed Monday after a survey of its records. The heroes in practically all these cases were recognized and honored.

The honors distributed for acts of bravery included five bronze crosses, the highest award; 20 silver crosses for acts of outstanding bravery under dangerous circumstances; 58 gilt crosses for courageous acts and 45 certificates of merit for meritorious acts.

The acts for which the awards were presented included the saving of 112 persons from drowning, nine cases where scouts saved lives by giving first aid, four rescues from fire, two rescues from injury by trains and two cases of resuscitation from the effects of gas poisoning. In all these the training received by the scouts was applied successfully to the saving of human life.

'It Was All Grand Fun' Says Commander Who Led Boarding Party onto Altmark

Little Hampton, Sussex, England, Feb. 20.—(CP)—"It was all grand fun!" Lieut.-Commander Bradwell Turner, who led the Cossack's boarding party to the deck of the German prisonship Altmark, told his family when he arrived here on leave today.

It was Turner, Second in Command of the destroyer, who leaped aboard the Altmark brandishing a pistol and shouting to his men: "Come on, follow me". One of those who followed failed to make the the leap and fell into the water.

The officer's brother-in-law, Dr. W. C. W. Nixon, told reporters: "Listening to Commander Turner's story of the Cossack adventure we have been too thrilled to think of sleep. Commander Turner was the first to leap onto the German ship. The destroyer was still moving at time, and he had to gauge the distance quickly. Luckily he got across all right. It was wonderful!"

Commander Turner's only brother, Lieut. Alec Turner of the Royal Marines, was posthumously awarded the Albert Medal early this month for an act of heroism at sea which cost him his life last year.

Belleville Quintes Defeated By Kingston Red Indians 3-2; Eliminated From Playdowns

Kingston Scores 3 Goals in Last Period to Win Round 8-7

TOO MUCH SPEED

Lucky Goal From Kingston's Blue Line Takes Fight Out of Locals

Showing the will to win the Kingston juniors came from behind to not only beat the Belleville "Quintes" 3 to 2, but eliminate the local kids from the junior O.H.A. race, winning the first-round junior O.H.A. playdowns 8 to 7. The clubs had played a five-all tie in Kingston last Friday.

An easy goal to open the third period and a cheap penalty, during which the Limestone City kids scored the winning goal attributed to the winners' success and led to the downfall of the Holway-led Belleville kids. After playing a scoreless first period, Jack Bundy poked in Kiniski's pass-out to give Belleville the only counter of the middle session, but Kingston fought back valiantly and twice knotted the score in the last stanza before they scored the winning counter with less than three minutes of play remaining. The local kids tried in vain to pull up even in the dying moments, but Udall, the Kingston goalie, proved equal to the occasion with several sensational stops.

Good hockey was impossible in the initial frame as the ice was rough and wet in spots, the game bordering upon the golf-type and combination was next to impossible. Wally Elmer's Kingston kids were satisfied to shoot from a distance and endeavoured to bore in, while the Quintes tried strenuously to carry the rubber, but without reward. Both Cook and Udall made several nice saves on bounding pucks in this period however.

Play Fast in Middle Session

Play was much faster in the middle session as the ice tightened up to a noticeable degree and early in the session Bundy poked in Kiniski's nice pass-out, as the former was perched at the Kingston goal mouth. Three penalties were meted out this period, but the subsequent power plays proved non-productive. Jarrell and Ethier squared off as the game opened up but Referee Armstrong merely stepped between the players before punches were swung.

Before the fans had settled in their seats in the last frame Jesse rifled a shot from the Kingston defence zone line, that dribbled past Cook to knot the score. However, the Quintes battled back courageously and were rewarded when Armstrong rapped home Goyer's pass out to put Belleville one in the lead. The Kingston forwards were skating faster this period and minutes later Lay took a three-man combination play from Jarrell and went in to tie matters once again.

Sheats went off for tripping and when he returned Nicholson also took a rest for the same offence, but in both cases the Belleville power plays were sadly wanting and no evidence of scoring was even seen. However, when Clare was banished on a cheap penalty, the Kingston kids' efforts at power plays proved more productive, as Carleton scored the winning goal as the result of some fine stickhandling, coupled with some poor covering up on the part of the locals around their own citadel. The loss saw the curtain rung down on O.H.A. hockey efforts in Belleville for the current season, all other local clubs having previously been eliminated.

Had Too Much Speed

The Kingston forwards carried slightly too much speed for the locals and showed better coaching while on the offensive, with Carleton, Smith, Bearance and Jackson carrying the attack, while Nickolson and Sheats gave Udall plenty of support on the defence. The Belleville team battled gamely, especially in the latter stages and were paced by Clare, Goyer, Storms and Kiniski. The Belleville Boys' Public School Band was in attendance.

The line ups:

Kingston—Goal, Udall; defence, Nicholson and Sheats; centre, Carleton; wings, Smith and Jarrell; subs, Gray, Bearance, Jesse, Wiseman, Lay and Jackson.

Belleville—Goal, Cook; defence, Clare and Goyer; centre, Storms; wings, Ethier and Armstrong; subs. Bundy, Kiniski, Gerow, Everett, Butler and Gynn.

Referee, A. W. Armstrong, Oshawa.

Summary:

First Period

No score and penalties, none.

Second Period

Belleville, Bundy (Kiniski) 4.20

Penalties, Nicholson, Ethier, Everett.

Third Period

Kingston, Jesse 1.54

Belleville, Armstrong (Goyer) 2.47

Kingston, Lay (Jarrell, Carleton) 4.55

Kingston, Carleton 17.03

Penalties—Sheats, Clare, Nicholson.

Bill Hollett

When hockey historians are reviewing the deeds of Boston Bruins' 1938 - 39 Stanley Cup champions, the names of Frankie Brimsek, Eddie Shore, the "Kraut line" and others will probably be very much to the fore, but one name that shouldn't be omitted is that of William Hollett, sometimes called Bill, sometimes Flash Last year, or for that matter since he joined the club, Bill was the handy man of the team, playing defence when the needs demanded or moving up to a spot on the forward line. He and Cooney Weiland, now coaching the Bruins, were about the best pair at killing off penalties in the league. In short, he's one of the National league's best double duty and fill-in players. And when Art Ross bought him from Toronto during the 1935-36 season for a reported price of $15,000, most critics figured that, considering the price, he had bought a lemon! Bill was playing in a Toronto commercial league when he turned pro during the 1932-33 season, which he finished out at Syracuse. The next winter he was up with the Leafs, being loaned to Ottawa for the latter part of the season, and then spent the rest of his time with Toronto until sold. Got his start in pro hockey by playing pro lacrosse and asking for a hockey trial. Born at North Sydney, Cape Breton, 28 years ago. Statistical dope until start of present season: 36 goals, 60 assists for 96 points, plus 176 minutes in penalties.

Derringer Throws Inkwell at Boss And Collects $500

(By Gayle Talbot Associated Press Sports Writer).

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—This is the story of how a man collected $500 for throwing an inkwell at his boss.

Paul Derringer, the Cincinnati pitcher, was the man who pegged the heavy glassware, and the object of one of the best throwing arms in baseball was Larry MacPhail, whose fertile imagination and ready cash are revoultionizing baseball in Brooklyn.

If the inkstand, instead of the ink, had splattered MacPhail's countenance, there probably still would have been no night ball in the big leagues.

It happens in 1935, Paul recalls, when Charles Dressen was managing the Reds and MacPhail was master-minding from the business office. Derringer constituted about 90 per cent of the club's pitching staff.

Failed to Slide

The strange and nearly fatal thread of events began when Paul, toward the close of a tight game, failed to slide into home plate. The Duke swears he was thrown out by a good 20 feet and that he saw no reason for hitting the dirt. MacPhail evidently had a different idea, for he soaked a $250 fine on his star and suspended him for three days.

Derringer made himself a couple of golf dates and started in generally to enjoy his forced vacation. He was doing fine with it, too, when MacPhail reached him by phone the next day and demanded to know why he wasn't at the ball yard.

Well, there was a pretty hot argument, Paul recalls, as the two faced each other across MacPhail's desk.

Finally Larry said something that Derringer, a product of Old Kentucky, dissented. He grabbed the inkwell, which chanced to be the handiest object, and let fly point-blank. It creased one of MacPhail's ears, knocked plaster off the wall back of his head and erupted ink all over the premises.

MacPhail Shaken

Derringer recalls that MacPhail looked somewhat shaken.

"Why, slim, you might have killed me with that thing," he said.

"That's what I was a-trying to do," Derringer said, cooling off slightly.

MacPhail steadied and punched a button on his desk. He asked his secretary to bring him a cheque. He filled it in carefully and passed it over to the big pitcher. Paul looked at it incredulously.

"But, Larry," he said. "You didn't fine me but $250 and this cheque says $750."

"That's all right," said MacPhail, who was breathing almost normally again. "That extra $500 is for missing me!"

BRYANT IS KEY TO SUCCESS OF CHICAGO CUBS

HARTNETT OPTIMISTIC

Manager Starting 19th Season in Big Time Says He Will Catch Most of the Games

(By Tom Siler Associated Press Sports Writer).

Chicago, Feb. 21 (AP)—Charles Leo Hartnett is showing a fine disregard these day for the critics who are rating Cincinnati, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn as the year's first division clubs in the National Baseball League.

Gabby, beginning his second term as manager of the Chicago Cubs, hasn't said his club will be in the world series. But he thinks he has the makings of a winner if some of his cripples throw away their crutches and play ball.

The most important "if" on the club is Claiborne Henry Bryant, lanky, 20-year-old righthander, who spent most of the 1939 season "running for the portly Hartnett. He was laid up almost all season with a sore arm after turning in 19 victories in 1938.

Training Opens Friday

Hartnett will begin conditioning Bryant and all the other pitchers and catchers except Dizzy Dean, who still is unsigned, Friday at Catalina Island. Gabby is counting on Bryant, Bill Lee, Claude Passeau, Larry French and Charlie Root to hoist the club into the contending class.

The Cubs haven't finished in second division since 1927 and have won the pennant every third year starting in 1929. They have finished lower than fifth only 10 times since 1900.

"We'll win the pennant this year," Gabby said before taking off for Catalina, "if we can manage to steer clear of injuries. And another thing I'd like to make clear — I intend to catch a lot of games this season. I'm not going to be just a bench manager.

Hartnett is 39 years old and is beginning his 19th year as a big leaguer and as a Cub.

SEVEN RINKS IN ONTARIO 'SPIEL YET UNDEFEATED

D.P.J. Kelly's Toronto Granites Keep Clean Sheet by Winning Two Extra-End Matches

HOLD BANQUET

Col. George Drew and Dr. J.L. Simpson Principal Speakers at Royal York. .

Toronto, Feb. 21—(CP) —Seven rinks in the Ontario Bonspiel were out to extend their unbeaten streak to five games as the 13th annual 'Spiel entered the halfway mark today. The tournament ends Saturday.

Heading the victorious rinks was D. P. J. Kelly's Toronto Granites which marched through the 1939 tournament with only one defeat—the opening game. It marked his 12th victory of the meet.

The Granite entry yesterday won two extra-end matches, defeating George Barber's Royal Canadian Rink 13-12 after edging out an 11-10 decision over C. R. Redfern's Torontos in first round Seiberling play.

Other rinks without a loss were skipped by W. H. Keller of Midland, W .H. Forbes of Forest, H. A. Dickson of Toronto, A. McTurk of Toronto, G. Campbell of Hamilton and P. T. Graham of Toronto.

The curlers took time out last night as more than 500 players were feted at a banquet. Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader and Dr. J. L. Simpson were among the guests.

Eighteen rinks survived first-round play in the Royal York, Seiberling and Birks-Ellis-Ryrie competitions. Of these Toronto clubs had eight rinks winning three-straight games, Hamilton two, Sarnia, Forest, McIntyre, Orangeville, Oshawa, Midland, Lindsay and Schenectady one each.

Among winning skips in first-round matches of the Seagram event were Alex Hayes of Sarnia; Dr. J. A. Wright and Gar Redden of London; A. E. Dunker of Kitchener; Dr. E. C. Watson, Ward Peck and Dr. F. H. Newberry of Detroit.

BOSTON BRUINS WALLOP LEAFS BY 5-0 SHUTOUT

Famed Kraut Line Collects All the Goals but One in Contest

TIE WITH RANGERS

Leafs Lacked Punch and Goalie Brimsek Had Soft Evening

Boston, Feb. 21 (CP)—Although the point has been reached where hockey fans take it pretty much for granted, the famed Boston kraut kids—Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer—keep offering proof of their greatness with their National Hockey League activities.

The Bruins walloped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-0 last night before more than 13,000 fans to go into a first place tie with the idle New York Rangers. Four of the goals went to the krauts, with Dumart getting two and Schmidt and Bauer one apiece, while Herbie Cain netted the other. In addition to the four tallies, the krauts also picked up five assists, three of which went to Schmidt.

Thus, the Boston youngsters raised their goal total as a line to 48—far ahead of any other combination in the N.H.L.—and their assist total to 61. Schmidt leads the league in scoring with 18 goals and 25 assists, Dumart comes third with 18 goals and 16 assists while Bauer is in a fourth place tie with Neil Colville of the Rangers with 12 goals and 20 assists.

The Leafs lacked the punch to cope with the Boston drive and goalie Frank Brimsek had little trouble in marking up his fourth shutout of the season.

With 11 games to play—they have two games in hand over Rangers—the Bruins seem like a cinch to place at least three men in the list of 20-goal scorers this season.

JUVENILE HOCKEY TEAM IS NAMED FOR BELLEVILLE

Fifteen Players Selected From the Rosters of the Four City Teams

ENTER O.J.H.A.

With the Maple Leafs and the Black Hawks in the final championship series for the top honors of the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association, selections for the "all-star" team, to represent Belleville in the Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association provincial playdowns were released today by Secretary 'Red' Townsend.

Fifteen players were named, of which twelve will be in uniform each game played, in accordance with the O.J.H.A. regulations. Bill Dennis and Fred Reid, co-managers of the Americans in the city juvenile loop, were named to head the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Club.

The 1940 local juveniles will be composed of the following players—goal, Ted Clarke and Cook; defencemen, Ross Rowe, McGuire, Fitzgibbon and Bill McBride, centre-ice. Robertson and Kellar; wings, Maracle, May, Bennett, Barrett, Rosebush, Stan Reid and Cronk.

The breaks of the game rubbed the Belleville Quintes out of the Junior O.H.A. picture last night. We are not attempting to take any of the glory away from Wally Elmer's well-coached Kingston juniors, but a lucky goal, scored early in the third stanza, coupled with a cheap penalty and some poor clearing on the part of the locals, were the elements which saw the Belleville juniors pushed into oblivion. After the curtain was rung down and the series reviewed—the teams battled 120 minutes with only one goal difference, which proves the clubs were evenly matched.

Down in Kingston the Belleville kids possessed the will to win and battled with that "never die spirit," but last night it was the Kingston kids who showed the "will to win,' as they never gave up at any stage of the game, which was proven in the fact they came from behind on two occasions to tie the count and then proved the better opportunists to score the winning counter when the picture was all set for them.

As has been the case for years, when local clubs hit the skids, they all follow in quick succession. Monday night Toots Holway saw the Air Force "Flyers" pass out of the picture and last night his juniors bowed out to hand the local puck coach two stinging reverses in successive nights. Last night's dunking must have hurt much the worse, however.

There is little use blaming the ice conditions at the Hume Arena last night, as the ice was in good condition when the Kingston kids scored three goals in the third period, although it was rough and wet in the earlier stages, which was fair for both clubs under the circumstances. However, the Kingston juniors seemed to show better coaching at the blue lines. Their zone-length passes left the local forwards far behind in the centre and attacking zones, and offensive hockey is the game that wins today.

Incidentally the Kingston scribe, Bill Walshe, made his initial trip to Belleville and the Hume Arena last night, Friend Bill was quite impressed with the local ice igloo and after viewing the structure remarked: "This rink gives comforts to all; you're lucky to be working under these surroundings," but after the game Bill merely turned to us and added: "Our kids possessed the fight your kids showed in Kingston, that's why we won." And that ain't all — before the game Coach Wally Elmer was quite indignant over the crack we made in the column yesterday regarding him being responsible for the change in referees. "I haven't talked to Bill Hewitt nor did I object to Alex Weir. Kingston can take it and with Armstrong here I think both teams will get an even shake." We assured Wally there was no offence meant, but now everybody wonders when and why the change did occur, which does not mean much today.

It was like old times to hear a band playing at a hockey game and the Belleville Boys' Public School Band, under Alf Cooper's direction was appreciated.

From now on the fans might just as well reserve themselves to the fact there is only juvenile hockey left in Belleville. All of which reminds us that exactly three years ago the same situation arose and a Belleville juvenile hockey club was organized to compete in the O.J.H.A. as is now the case. The juvenile team of three years ago was practically the same team to be eliminated last night, so the fans can now help the future by supporting the present 17-year-old kids, who play their City League finals Thursday night at a dime admission.

The Belleville "Y" hoopsters downed the Queen's cagers 44 to 34 here last night and are now crowding the Kingston "Y" closely for the E.O.B.A. leadership. That loss to the Air Force last week whittled the locals down considerably, but they played better basketball last night and now are faced with the task of beating the Limestone City intermediates in Kingston to create a group tie.

Today's announcement of the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Club selected from the City League, reveals two goalkeepers, four defencemen, two centre-forwards and seven wing players were named to the covetted team. Their names appear elsewhere in today's issue. However, the players with the Maple Leafs and Black Hawks should bear in mind the City League finals still are in the offing.

Did you know that George Goodwin, Jr., world's professional badminton champion, won his title by beating Bill Markham of New York City, 17-16; 12-15 and 15-11, after Markham had beaten Jack Purcell in the semi-finals? Incidentally Goodwin, now the newly crowned champ, will give an exhibition of badminton at the "Y" on Friday night. When Purcell was champion he thrilled several hundred in an exhibition at the Armouries two years ago.

Do you remember when stopping Lee Ramage in the second round of a 10-round bout, Joe Louis advanced a long step towards his heavyweight boxing title at Los Angeles five years ago tonight? The brown-skinned fighter had only been in professional ranks seven months and his share of the gate was $2,500.

SPORT SPICE: Al McCoy, the Boston heavyweight who was born in Quebec, punched out another win at New York City last night, beating Buddy Scott of Texas . . . McCoy has been winning with consistancy of late . . . While Belleville puck-chasing teams have been losing with the same degree of consistancy . . . Boston blanked the Leafs 5-0 last night to keep on the heels of the Rangers, making that N.H.L. leadership some race . . . Oh well, Bill Cook and Jack Yanover can return to Juvenile hockey and commence that climb back up the O.H.A. ladder once again . . . "and it wasn't bad fun either, fellas" . . . It is rumored around that the Brockville Riversides may be elevated to a junior "B" rating . . . Toledo may enter the Michigan-Ontario hockey loop next winter.

New York, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Fred Apostoli and his manager, Larry White, have parted company and if Fred returns to the ring (against the advice of his friends) Pete Reilly may be his pilot. . . . Young Pete Reiser, sensation of the Dodger Camp last Spring, will be converted into an outfielder. Pete hurt his throwing arm playing the infield at Elmira. . . . . . Red Ruffing and the Yanks really are having salary trouble with the big fellow demanding $25,000—five grand more than he got in 1939.

NO ACCUMULATED SLUSH IS FOUND UNDER RIVER ICE

Work of Opening Ice Channel Progressing Rapidly— Water in Bay Three Feet Lower Than Last Year

MAY FINISH THURS.

With practically one-third of anti-flood operations in the ice-field directly south of the C.P.R. bridge completed at noon today, City Public Works officials expressed the opinion that over five hundred feet of the one-thousand-foot channel extending directly south from the bridge would be cut by nightfall.

Three power-saws, two large hoists, two trucks, two teams and twenty-two men worked under ideal weather conditions today to rush completion of the channel being cut to facilitate expedition of the broken ice-field expected when the annual spring break-up occurs.

Water levels in the bay are three feet lower than last year, City Engineer Charles Mott stated today. Lack of autumn rains and snow at the earlier part of the winter was responsible for the decline, he added.

A noticeable feature of the ice-cutting operations to date has been the absolute absence of frazil or accumulative slush ice beneath the main body of the ice-field, Engineer Mott said, "Last year we encountered this ally of the flood as soon as we started cutting operations, but no trace thus far has been seen during present operations. However," he added, "in all probability, it will be seen when cutting operations near the bridge."

Completion of the cutting of the one-thousand-foot channel and its connecting basin is expected late tomorrow evening. Ice cut in the operations thus far has been of from eighteen to twenty inches in thickness.

GLEN ROSS TIES ZION HILL BY WINNING 4-0

Series for Hastings League Title Now Tied at One Game Each

ICE QUITE HEAVY

Stirling, Feb 21 (Special)—Playing up to the form, that has given them the leadership in league standing all season Glen Ross "Riversides" tied up the final play-off series for the championship of the Hastings County Rural Hockey league by scoring a clean cut win over the "Fighting Irish" from Zion Hill in the second game of a three game series at the Stirling arena last night

This game played before the largest crowd of the season places the close checking rivals on even terms with one victory each and the final game slated for Friday night will decide the issue. Glen Ross a veteran club in the loop has won the League Championship several times and at present hold the Tip-Top Trophy, symbolic of its being. On the other hand— the "Fighting Irish" from Zion Hill have been in there trying for as many years without success. Their rooters feel sure this is their year and next Friday night the mug will travel south. But Glen Ross are still there as an obstacle and must first be defeated.

In the first game of the series, Zion scored a win by the score of 1-0 and last night, Glen Ross reversed the situation with an added three goals to the good. The ice was heavy and the going tough, but the game still packed plenty of thrills. Next Friday night should pack a record crowd of fans into the Stirling Arena as these two popular teams battle it out to a finish.

The Game

The game was fast and clean with referees Hulin and Wallace handing out only one penalty throughout sixty minutes of good fast hockey. Within the first five minutes Armstrong was chased for a trip, the only penalty of the game and while playing a man short Glen Ross forced the play and Gerry Fraser scored the first counter. Russell Pyear was responsible for the second at the close of the first period. The "Irish" were the aggressors throughout the second period, but were unable to beat Hagerman in the Glen Ross nets. The period featured close and heavy checking with tempers flaring in spots but quarrels were halted quick enough to save penalties.

G. Pyear put the "Riversides" three up in the opening of the third period banging in a pass from Doug Martin, and H. Hagerman scored the final tally of the game with only six minutes left. The "Irish" turned on all the reserve strength they could muster to haul down the lead and several rushes by Simms and Ray Dickey ended as they buried the rubber deep in Hagerman's pads but none got by him and the game ended tying up a great series.

Martin Hagerman, the two Pyears and Fraser were stalwarts for the Riversides and for the "Irish" Dickey, Brough, Simms and Tummon seemed most effective. Gifford slipped slightly in his goal-tending, but the shots that beat him were tough ones. Either of the teams would make worthy champions and will be in there fighting all the way. Odds favored Glen Ross before the first game then switched to Zion Hill and at present there are no odds either way and few willing to bet even money.

SUMMARY

1st Period

Glen Ross, Fraser 5.10
Glen Ross, G. Pyear 9.50

2nd Period

No score.
No penalties.

3rd Period

Glen Ross, R. Pyear (Martin) 2.10
Glen Ross, H. Hagerman .. 15.30
Penalties—None.

Glen Ross—goal—B. Hagerman, defence — Brooks and Fraser, centre—Martin, wings—G. Pyear, R. Pyear. Subs—H. Hagerman, Armstrong, MacDonald and Brown.

Zion Hill —goal— Gifford, defence—Bedford and Dickey, centre —Brough, wings— Ketcheson and Faulkner. Subs — Simms, Tummon, Ray and Sills.

Referees—Wallace and Hulin.

The final game of the series will take place on Friday night climaxing a very successful year for the league. As a closing event the league will sponsor a skating party for players and fans next Tuesday night followed by luncheon at St. Andrew's Church, when the presentation of the cup will be made and reports given by treasurer, Roy Juby. Two hundred enthusiastic fans and players are expected to attend this function as a closing social event for the league.

"Y" HOOPSTERS BEAT QUEENS BY 44 TO 35 SCORE

Belleville O. B. A. Quintette Move Closer to District Lead

Displaying their best form of the current basketball season, the Belleville "Y" cagers moved into a commanding position in their O. B.A. group with a 44 to 35 win over the Queens intermediate hoopsters in the "Y" gymnasium last evening. By virtue of last night's victory, the Belleville quintette moved into a position whereby they can tie the group honors with a win over the Kingston "Y" in the Limestone City next week when the group championship will be decided.

The locals took an early-game lead over the "students" and were leading 25 to 10 at the half-way mark. Herb Burley paced the Belleville team with 15 points, and was followed by Cole, Edwards and Wickerson. Graham, Rosents and Lake looked the best for the Presbyterians offensively. The Belleville team played the best game of the season, their passing and defensive game proving most effective throughout. The box score:

Belleville "Y"	G.	F.	Pts.
Cole, c.	5	1	11
Edwards, lf.	4	0	8

Tony Hemmerling Ousts Hudson as Scoring Leader

New Haven, Conn. Feb. 21—(AP)—The International-American Hockey League's see-saw scoring race between Ronny Hudson of Indianapolis Capitals and Tony Hemmerling of New Haven Eagles turned in favor of the Birds' ace wingman during the last week.

Hemmerling, one point out of first place last week, gained three points during that period to take the lead with an aggregate 45.

Displaced as head man, Hudson found himself deadlocked at 44 points with Norm Locking of Syracuse Stars, whose five-point surge made him the week's best performer.

Fred Thurrier of Springfield Indians followed with 42, while trailing him at 41 points were Norm Schultz of Springfield and Jack Toupin of Syracuse. Max Bennett of Syracuse was next in line with 40 points.

Pete Bessone of Pittsburg Hornets continued to lead the penalty list with a total of 84 minutes spent off the ice.

Rabbit's Feet

By E. P. O'BRYAN

It was the day of the Handicap and Babbit Brown, colored stable-boy, was on his toes. It was only the day of the Handicap, but it was Rabbit's birthday, and he had fortified himself well for the occasion. He saw Colonel Spottswoodie, his boss, headed for the stables and he began brushing his coat and making himself more presentable.

"I've brought you a new cap," the colonel said. "Today everybody connected with my stables wears my new colors. It's Mrs. Spottswoodie's idea. The other was too pale— not enough lavender. There, how do you like that?"

Rabbit breathed a muttered approval and reached eagerly for the new head-gear. "Lawdy, suh; you sho' got a swell color. 'At's mo' lak it, boss. Yas, suh! Whoosie! Look at me!" he headed for the mirror in the stable to gaze upon himself under the new cap. "Now ain't 'at somethin'! Boy, is 'at keen!"

"How about your rabbit's foot?" the colonel inquired. "You don't want to forget that charm of yours today. From the way things look, we might need it."

"Oh, yas suh. Ah got it sho' enough, boss. Got me a whole rabbit frum de butcher man dis mawnin'. Dey's fo' feets. Can't go wrong wif fo' feets, Colonel. No, suh."

The colonel laughed and passed on.

When Rabbit had adjusted the new cap at the proper angle, he laid the old one on top of a bale of hay and started polishing up the freshly amputated foot that was to be the good luck charm. He had selected one at random and tossed the others into his discarded cap.

"We've got to win today," Colonel Spottswoodie said, when he came for a final inspection of Gray Dawn. "You get that rabbit's foot working."

"Yas, suh, Ah sho will. Gray Dawn got to win. Ah got ten dolla's bet, Colonel."

There was much excitement when Gray Dawn was led out that Rabbit almost forgot his charm. It was not until Jockey Burke was up and ready to leave the paddock that he remembered, and then it was almost too late. Jockey Burke's new cap did not fit him properly, and there was a scurrying around for another. None of the new ones was small enough.

Someone finally brought a cap that fitted and Gray Dawn started for the track.

"Hey!" Rabbit shouted. "Ah forgot somethin', Mister Burke. Here's take dis." He ran up and thrust the rabbit's foot into Burke's outstretched hand. "Put it in yo' pocket, an' good luck!"

Burke grinned and accepted the offering. "Thanks, Rabbit. Pray for us, too, will 'ya?"

Rabbit watched the horses pass in review and head for the barrier, then went out to climb the fence. He had a pair of binoculars in his hand. Suddenly he stopped, frozen in his tracks. What he saw horrified him. There was the rabbit's foot in the path where Burke had carelessly dropped it.

"Lawsy me!" Rabbit moaned. "Dat race done lost right naw."

He snatched up the foot and started running toward the barrier, but he saw too late. They would be off before he got there, and, if a boy were to go running toward those horses and scare them, the starter would raise plenty of fuss. He didn't dare take the chance. "Lawsy me!" he groaned helplessly.

Almost before he recovered his breath the horses were off.

At the half mile post Gray Dawn was fifth. Then the horse moved up. At the three-quarters he was third.

Rabbit began waving his arms and yelling at the top of his lungs. Unconsciously he was waving the rabbit's foot, which, by now, he had quite forgotten. He went completely berserk.

It was that last sixteenth that made track history. Gray Dawn slipped onto the lead and won by a nose. Rabbit was so excited he fell off the fence. He gathered himself up and started running. He wanted to be in at the kill when Gray Dawn took his bow before the stands.

Colonel Spottswoodie never became so excited over a victory that he forgot the formality of a pat on the shoulder.

"Good work, Rabbit," he said as the stable boy pushed himself through the crowd. "No, suh, Ah's afraid it wasn't de rabbit's foot—"

But just then Jockey Burke took off his cap to wave it at the admiring crowd and Rabbit's eyes grew as round as saucers, for out of the cap tumbled three rabbit's feet. He hadn't noticed until now that the cap they had given the jockey at the last moment was his discarded one—with the three extra rabbit's feet in it.

"It wasn't just a rabbit's foot dat won de race, Colonel," Rabbit amended. "It was rabbit's feets."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP).—Industrial stocks dipped to show a loss on Toronto Exchange today. Mines and western oils were barely firm. Volume was 133,000 shares.

The gold group had some strong issues despite the minor drop in the average. Powell Rouyn ran up to 1.48 and slipped back to 1.38 under profit-taking, still holding a gain of 3 cents. Beattie and Preston were up on dividend news. Pamour added 6 cents.

Noranda weakened a fraction and other base metal issues showed little change. Home Oil and Calgary-Edmonton were slightly firmer and the cheaper western oils posted a few losses of a cent or more.

Steels, foods and utilities boarded declines and the senior oils and papers were unchanged to narrowly higher. Textiles also leaned towards the up side.

Churning Cream Slightly Easier

Toronto, Feb. 21—Further price reductions encouraged some buying in butter on the Toronto open produce market yesterday. Churning cream reflected declining butter prices by easing slightly, while graded eggs were advanced 1-2c per dozen on top grades.

Buyers took on small quantities of Ontario solids as prices continued to drift downward on the butter market. Trading was spotty, however, and the undertone of the market was unsettled although offerings were not heavy. Ontario No. 1 creamery solids declined to 28c per pound. Print prices to the retail trade were adjusted accordingly, top grades moving at 27 1-2c to 28c. No. 1 grade churning cream was quoted at the lower range of 26c to 27c on truck, country points.

Receipts remained on the light side on the egg market. These supplies were absorbed under the demand that appeared. Grade A-pullets particularly moved well. The three top grades in the graded section were given a small price increase, but retail division showed no change.

Butter: First - grade creamery prints, jobbing price, 27 1-2c to 28c and first grade solids, jobbing price 27 to 27 1-2c.

Eggs—Graded shipments in used free cases, selling price, A-large, 24 1-2 to 25c; A-medium, 22 1-2 to 23c; A-pullets 21 1-2 to 22c; B, 20 1-2 to 21c; C, 19 to 19 1-2c; B-large unquoted. Receipts 1,215 cases.

WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 21. — (AP) — Stocks labored futily today to emerge from a slough of uneven price trends.

With action pretty muce bogged down toward the fourth hour, fractional losses seemed to outweigh similar gains among the leaders.

On the downside were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Johns-Manville, Loft and Chrysler. Among the more resistant were Allied Chemical, United Drug, Harvester, American Telephone and Westinghouse.

Bond trends paralleled those of stocks. Wheat at Chicago made another good gain and most other commodities worked higher.

Canadian issues were sluggish. International Nickle inched back and Lake Shore Mines gained 1-4 of a point. Canada 4s in the Bond Market, was neglected.

English Lawyers Say Proposed Proxy Wedding Impossible

Dusty Legal Reference Books Consulted, English Law Believed to be Obstacle

London, Feb. 21 (CP Cable) — The proposed proxy wedding of Sergeant Charles Chevalier of the Canadian Active Service Force and Miss Vicky Quesnel of Montreal was threatened today when authorities in England consulted dusty legal reference books and offered the opinion that such an exciting union would not only be irregular but impossible.

One London lawyer said that while Sergeant Chevalier is living in England he is subject to the English civil code which does not permit marriages by proxy.

A London registrar said: "The Roman Catholic Church allows proxy marriages but the contracting parties would be subject to English law. A Roman Catholic priest cannot perform a marriage ceremony unless a registrar—as a representative of civil law—is present. He would have no power to give consent to a marriage by proxy. In my view the marriage is impossible."

Toronto, Feb. 21—(CP)—Dressedweight and liveweight were each up 15 cents at Chatham and dressedweight at yesterday's high to ten cents higher in an unsettled market at Stratford, bacon-hog markets reporting today showed. Other markets were unchanged.

Liveweight: Brantford $8.50, Chatham $8.75.

Dressedweight: Brantford $11.50 Chatham $11.95, Hull $11.60, London $11.40 plus transportation, Peterborough $11.50 plus transportation, Stratford $11.40-$11.50 plus transportation.

LIVESTOCK

Montreal, Feb. 21—(CP)—Cattle held steady to strong in early trade on Montreal Livestock markets today, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported. Hogs were slow and calves slipped 25 to 50 cents lower.

Receipts: Cattle 67; sheep and lambs 5; hogs 789; calves 283.

Today's offerings were made up of common to good quality cows. Good cows $5.50 with one straight load at $5.60. Medium kinds from $4.50 to $5.25.

Calves were easier. Veals ranged from $8 to $11. Good veals made $11 with medium to medium good kinds around $10. Drinkers brought $5 to $7 and grassers $4.

Several carloads of hogs were delivered on former contracts. Fresh sales made 9.25 for bacons fed and watered. Selects drew $1 premium with regular cuts on off grades. Sows brought $6 to $6.50. Hogs sold on rail grade brought $12.30 hot weight.

nearest military commander and then went to work to inform people and answer calls," said Miss Perttu.

Although a building 100 yards away was struck by a bomb and burned to the ground Miss Perttu stuck to her post throughout the raid.

The attack on Pajala apparently was the second violation of neutral Sweden by Russian bombers. On Jan. 14, 10 Red army planes appeared over Kallaks Island, in the Gulf of Bothnia, and dropped as many bombs. However, no serious damage resulted. Island residents reported eight of the missles hit offshore ice.

Russia, after receiving a strong Swedish protest, apologized four days later.

Norway also accused Soviet fliers of straying over her territory the same day that Kallaks was bombed. At that time there was intensive fighting in the Arctic Petsamo region, and reports from Kirkenes, Norway, just across the border from far North Finland, said 30 Russian planes had crossed the border. Anti-aircraft guns drove them off and no bombs were dropped.

CAMPAIGN TEMPO QUICKENED IN

and attended by scandals. He did not know who Conservative leader Manion proposes to unite with "but the only factions I can think of at this time, certainly wouldn't lead to the proper prosecution of this war."

In reply to accusations of lack of preparedness at the time of war, Mr. Gardiner reviewed steps taken in the agriculture department, the co-ordination of departments and the setting up of new deparments, the chief of which was the marketing division which assisted materially in regulating Canada's surpluses during the last few years.

Says King is Capable

Actually, he said, the cause of Canada's low prices of the last few years could be traced to the self-sufficiency programs being carried on in European nations in preparation for the present war. The same low range in prices existed during the five-year period prior to the first Great War.

At Lambeth, Mr. Gardiner said that Prime Minister Mackenzie King is the most experienced and capable man available to head Canada's war government.

The agriculture minister also supported the defence of the Mackenzie King war administration to date.

Mr. Gardiner, in answering criticism that the Prime Minister is too friendly to the United States, asked "Could anyone do service to Canada if he were not friendly with the United States?" He asked if there was any reason why Canada should not be friendly with a country to which we must go to purchase machines of war, a country to which we go for loans and a country which we hope will be lined up with us in "our effort?"

Charges Gov't. Despotic

In a Montreal speech, Mr. Cahan, member for St. Lawrence-St. George in the last parliament and secretary of state in the Bennett government, criticised the government from a legal point of view, charging that it has been despotic and arbitrary in many of its wartime laws.

Mr. Cahan charged that the Dominion government had "apparently assumed the despotism, which all democratic peoples so persistently condemn in times of peace, is really the only efficient form of government in times of war."

And the government, he said, "having imposed, by its arbitrary decrees, heavy penalties against free speech, has abruptly terminated a session of parliament obviously for fear that members of parliament would exercise their parliamentary privileges by entering upon a fair discussion of the government's conduct of the war."

Mr. Cahan sugegsted that the war should have "extirpated all domestic partisan politican dissessions and controversies."

Should Have Sought Co-operation

"The government of the day, instead of attempting to carry on necessary national war services, under the auspices of their own partisan organizations, should, in my opinion, have admitted to their counsels and have earnestly sought the cordial co-operation of men of ability wthout regard to their domestic political affiliations."

Mr. Cahan charged that a state of war "had not been declared before the government proceeded to make its own arbitrary decrees under the War Measures Act of 1914."

Mr. MacPherson, Regina lawyer who was runner up to Dr. Manion for the leadership of the party at the 1938 National convention in Ottawa, spoke at New Glasgow, N.S., and said the Canadian government's refusal to allow Britain to establish her own air training schools here in 1937 had prevented Britain being as well prepared in the air as she should have been when war started.

McLarty Renominated

In Windsor, Ont., where he was renominated to contest Essex West riding, Mr. McLarty said the government was seeking approval of its war effort. Precautions had been taken to insure that there would be no scandal in the war program and Canadians would receive full value for every dollar spent.

The present government was making every effort to bring a naturally peaceful nation to a wartime footing, said Mr. McLarty. Conservative leader Manion has not advanced one suggestion to improve the Dominion's contribution to the conflict.

The government, being sniped at by the opposition who at the same time urged no election be called, decided not to ask for an extension of its five-year term. It was decided to place the question before the people to let them choose the party they wished to conduct Canada through the trying times to come.

Steps Reviewed

Mr. McLarty reviewed steps taken by the government to cope with the war situation. Machinery already was well underway for the expansion of shipbuilding in Canada and for the establishment of the Empire air-training scheme.

The government also was working on plans for rehabilitation at the conclusion of hostilities.

Hon. W. D. Herridge, leader of the new democracy movement opening a campaign in Saskatchewan which will last all this week, stated at North Battleford that Canada "is beaten" unless primary producers can achieve a decent standard of living for themselves and their families.

RUMANIA NOT TO DISCRIMINATE IN

London, Feb. 21. — (CP)—The diplomatic tug-of-war between the Allies and Germany over Rumanian oil for the machines of war has been resolved to the satisfaction of Great Britain and France, an informed source indicated today.

Allied satisfaction was said to spring from assurance that Rumania would not discriminate in favor of Germany in supplying this vital war commodity.

It was reported that Rumania told Great Britain she would allot Germany 1,560,000 tons of oil this year, but that transportation difficulties probably would hamper delivery, just as they prevented delivery of some of the 1,300,000 tons assigned to Germany in 1939.

Viorel Virgil Tilea, Rumanian Minister to London, handed to Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax yesterday the Rumanian reply to Britain's expression of concern over the new Rumanian Oil Control Board, which controls production, including that of British and French-owned properties.

Note Not Published

The note was not made public, but authoritative sources said a mutually satisfactory discussion was held and gave the impression the reply removed fears that Germany might be favored.

Establishment of the Control Board had raised such doubts in London that officials reconsidered the whole question of British and Rumanian trade.

A recent report from Bucharest that Rumania would export only crude oil and no finished aviation gasoline was received with satisfaction here. Authorities explained this would put a further strain on German transport.

Since the war started, Rumania has been seen as a likely theatre of action in any extension of the war into the Balkans. Germany, which invaded the country in the First Great War, wants Rumanian oil and agricultural products. Russia claims the Rumanian province of Bessarabia.

Allied Troops Concentrated

To guard against any Russo-German state in that direction Allied troops have been concentrated in the Near East, and Turkey has pushed her military preparations.

"Turkey will enter the war the day a foreign power marches into the Balkans," the newspaper Yeni Sabah of Istanbul warned yesterday.

"If Germany attacks the Balkans, she will find us facing her on the side of the Allies, because such aggression would directly menace us.

"To reach Istanbul, it is necessary to cross the Balkans. Our country will not await her turn with folded arms while the Balkans are crushed. That is one mistake we shall not make."

Anti-Aircraft Gunfire

In another attack on British shipping, German bombers ranged along the east coast yesterday.

Attacks were reported yesterday off the coasts of Northumberland, Norfolk, Lincolnshire and Suffolk. Anti-aircraft gunfire was heard even on the outskirts of London; machine-gun fire was heard in Essex, and there were widespread air alarms.

Only reported damage inflicted by the German airmen on ships was the sinking of the 172-ton trawler Lowestoft by a bomb. The crew was saved.

OBITUARY

MRS. JANE W. FITZGERALD

The funeral of the late Mrs. Jane W. Fitzgerald who passed away at her residence in Madawaska on Saturday was held yesterday afternoon from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home St. Michael's Church where the Libera was sung; Rev. C. E. Baker officiated at the church and at the graveside. Interment took place in St. James cemetery.

The pall bearers were Messrs. H. Flagler, S. Garvin, T. V. Scanlan, P. Cote, J. Boyle and F. Barrett.

POPE'S GODSON

Count Lino Lipinsky, godson of Pope Pius XII is pictured here as he appeared shortly after arrival in New York from Rome. The Count said that the Pope is working long hours on a new peace proposal but that no one thus far "has the least idea concerning His Holiness' plans."

George S. Henry Invited to Sit in Speaker's Chair

Toronto, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Former Premier George S. Henry, who has a habit of roaming around the House conversing with friend and foe alike, last night sat in the Speaker's chair in the Ontario Legislature.

Speaker James Clark, recuperating from illness, found the day and night sessions a strain and wished to retire. So he sent Mr. Henry a note:

"Dear George:

"You have occupied just about every seat in the House. How would you like to fill mine for a while."

Mr. Henry took the only seat he had never sat in.

Holly Acres Favors Cutting University Grants in Two

Toronto, Feb. 21.—(CP)—A University education is in the nature of a capital investment and the state shouldn't be expected to provide it for those whose parents can afford the cost, A. H. Acres (Con. Carleton) said yesterday in the Ontario Legislature.

"I think the Universities are doing more harm than good and I'd cut their grants in two", said Mr. Acres. That state owed every boy and girl a primary education, but that was all.

The money spent on a University education was just as truly a capital investment as money put into a business or a farm, contented Mr. Acres. For bright students whose parents could not afford University costs, he advocated the establishment of a loan fund, with the graduate being given 20 years to pay back the fund.

"I've got a boy at University," said Mr. Acres. "I'd gladly pay another $100 fees to establish this principle. Why should the general public pay for the capital investment of a professional man."

LARGEST MASS BOMBING RAID

Many Foe Tanks Destroyed

"Very many enemy tanks were destroyed," the Finns said, in the western sector near the Gulf of Finland, scene of some of the war's heaviest fighting which has brought the Russians within a few miles of Viipuri (Viborg).

Enemy losses were described as heavy at Taipale where Finns said "the fighting raged fiercely until late at night."

Northeast of Lake Ladoga, 80 miles from the Isthmus front, there was relative quiet on the sector where Finland two days ago reported wiping out a Russian division, but "a few enemy strong points were captured."

A Russian attempt to send reinforcements to surrounded detachments near Kuhmo, about midday on the Russian-Finnish frontier, was repulsed.

Finnish Planes Behind Red Lines

Finnish planes scouted behind the Soviet lines and bombed Russian encampments during a day which saw extensive aerial activity extending into the night.

"Several fierce air battles" were reported both in the war zone and far behind the lines but "in many cases attacks by enemy formations were foiled and formations dispersed."

The Finns charged a passenger train was machine-gunned and in one locality an infants' nursery damaged by bombs. However, only "a couple of civilians" were reported killed in the raids.

Two air raid alarms sounded in Helsinki as Russian warplanes returned to follow up their far-ranging raids of yesterday in which 10 persons were killed and 20 hurt in attacks on at least 30 communities.

Eight hundred Russian planes were authoritatively estimated to have participated in yesterday's raids, which continued into the early morning.

Seven Air Raids in Helsinki village, near the border, stating that seven Russian planes were proceeding into Swedish territory at high speed.

"I immediately informed the

Seven air raids sounded in Helsinki alone. No bombs were dropped on the capital.

First reports told of eleven alarms at Lahti, where several homes were destroyed. Numerous fires were started at Hyvinkaeae, thirty miles from Helsinki Two trains were bombed and machine-gunned, Finnish sources reported.

More than 100 planes were counted in the air over Masala, Helsinki suburb. Heinola and Hanko (Hangoe) were attacked. The bombs were said to have missed their marks falling outside city limits.

Fighting in Karelian Isthmus

The Red Army continued hammering at Finnish defences on the Karelian Isthmus, but the Finns said all attacks were repulsed. At least 200 Russians were reported killed when they attacked in Bug-like, airplane-motored sleds on frozen lake Ladoga.

(The Russians reported capturing both the town and fort of Koivisto and "large trophies". The Koivisto coastal guns were the key to the entire western end of the Mannerheim Line. Their loss, Foreign observers said, would be a severe blow to the Finns.)

The advance of the Russian forces on the western side of the Karelian Isthmus was indicated as Russian shells whistled into the city of Viipuri (Viborg), virtually deserted of its population of 74,000 and now classed as part of the front.

Picton—An unusual theft for this time of year is being investigated by local police, though the loot, five electric fans, has been recovered. Tuesday morning while coming to work at the hydro office, E. Lusk noticed several fans lying alongside a building in an alley way and recognized them as belonging to F. L. Ward, K.C. He inquired at the office if the fans were missing and a visit to the store room revealed that they were. A mirror was also missing from the wash room. Entrance to the hydro building was easily gained by the intruders since the front door leading to offices upstairs was not locked. An empty whiskey bottle was left behind and police are inclined to think that the fans were taken after a drinking party and then discarded.

Have One-Goal Lead

Picton Juvenile hockey team have a one-goal lead to take into the play-offs with Wellington. On Monday night they defeated Wellington here, 4-3. Goals count on the round and the second game will be at Wellington. Bloomfield was also in the league but was eliminated.

Short Course

A two weeks' short course in agriculture is being held at Cherry Valley Hall, beginning on Monday last. There has been a good attendance despite the fact that some of the roads have been blocked and are now just being shovelled out. John Dalrymple, B.S.A., of the Ontario Department of Agriculture at Picton, is in charge of the course and there are several interesting speakers billed for lectures during the course.

Opens Committee Rooms

George J. Tustin, the National Conservative candidate for Prince Edward-Lennox, has opened committee rooms here and it is the first sign of political activity here. The Liberals have not yet secured rooms. No meetings have yet been announced, but both Mr. Tustin and Mr. H. Weese are busy laying the ground work for an active campaign.

Carson Hubbs Chairman of Bd

Carson Hubbs will head the Picton Collegiate and Vocational Institute board for the coming year, with Dr. C. S. Slack as vice chairman. Mrs. Colliver was chosen as secretary-treasurer while Lieut. C. L. Colliver is on active service. Committees were elected as follows: Supply—Dr. C. S. Slack, B. R. Leavens, Peter Collier; Property—Walter Pope, James Bond, W. H. Benson; Finance — Peter Collier, Dr. Slack, T. W. Kinney; Vocational—T. W. Kinney, J. Bond, E. P. Cox, W. H. Benson, George Welsh, W. E. Vick, Harold Vincent.

Enlists

Morley Dulmage, who has been a member of the Colliver and Huff staff for several years has enlisted with Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Prior to his departure, he was presented with a wrist watch on behalf of the firm and fellow employees. Lunch was served.

Mr. G. M. Hicks is receiving treatment at Prince Edward County hospital here.

Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Gerald Allison were in town from Kingston this week. Dr. Allison is Medical Officer of Health for Military District No. 3.

Mr. Nathan Mason and Miss Margaret Mason of Belleville were guests for a week of his son, Jesse Mason and Mrs. Mason.

Mrs. N. Trotter of Little Current, Ont., who has been a guest of her mother, Mrs. W. G. Grothier for several weeks returned home Tuesday.

George N. Snider celebrated his 90th birthday this week at the home of his son, Herman Snider. He is very active in spite of his advanced years, reads without the use of glasses and walks up town alone each day. He formerly resided in Picton, but is now making his home here. Many messages of congratulation were received to mark the anniversary.

Gerard Kavanagh left on Tuesday for Toronto where he will attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association. Mr. Kavanagh is secretary of the Prince Edward branch of the Association.

Reeves Ed Purtelle, Roy Ketcheson and B. Pearsall are in Toronto attending the convention of the Ontario Good Roads Association. They were accompanied by John Dunkley, the county road superintendent.

Gangs of men are employed in many sections of the country shovelling snow in cross roads. The plows made high banks along the road sides and the snow drifted them full again very quickly. In some places there are banks twelve feet high. The main road to Belleville is practically bare.

SWEDEN LOSES 32 FREIGHTERS DURING STRUGGLE

Foreign Minister Christian Guenther Reviews Progress of the War

MAKES DISTINCTION

Stockholm, Feb. 21 (CP-Havas)—"Both belligerent groups are using methods and defend them with arguments which neither Sweden nor other neutral countries can accept" Foreign Minister Christian Guenther declared today in parliament in a review of the war at sea.

He said that since the beginning of the war Sweden has lost 32 freighters of a total tonnage of 64,-000 tons. He said 228 Swedish seamen had lost their lives and 15 were missing. In the cases of seven vessels, 26.6 per cent. of the total, the sinkings were due to submarines.

"If the principal aim of the naval warfare is to prevent deliveries to belligerents, we can say that this object was only attained in the cases of one-sixth of the vessels sunk," the foreign minister continued. "They were en route to Sweden or moving between Sweden and neutral points."

The Germans, he said, state that neutral freighters exposing themselves to the dangers of the North Sea war zones and around Great Britain run unavoidable risk.

Would be Forced to Cease Operations

"If Sweden," he went on, "avoided dangerous waters, the result would be that it would be forced to cease all navigation to Britain and France and in large measure cut off its maritime commercial relations with the neutral countries. This would have unfortunate consequences for a country which, like Sweden, depends on its maritime trade.

"The measures possible for neutral countries in defence of the principles of international law are mainly protests against damages. The Swedish government has not failed to make use of this possibility.

He went on to make a distinction between the reaction of neutral countries to violations of territory and their reaction to violations at sea. In the first case, he said, neutral countries have every reason to resist by all possible means. In the latter case, direct measures are hardly possible, he said, because it would have the possible result of dragging the neutral country into the war.

Depends on Circumstances

"It depends on circumstances as to whether measures of indirect pressure are possible against such violations. Sweden has taken into consideration these possibilities in commercial negotiations with the belligerents.

"In collaboration with other neutral countries, especially the northern countries, the Swedish government has made every effort to defend humanitarian needs, the elementary principles of law and economic interests. The problem will be dealt with at the meeting of Scandinavian foreign ministers this week-end."

LORD BADEN-POWELL, 83 YEARS OLD, FINDS AGE 'RIPPING'

London, Feb. 22 (CP). — Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts, is eighty-three years old today ,and he finds old age "ripping".

In a message to the Scout movement, he added that he feels much the same as the late Duke of Cambridge when the latter, well over 80, observed:

"Because I'm a bit gone in the knees they think my brain is correspondingly weak. I'l show 'em."

Frozen markets! These were held in pre-war St. Petersburg, where beasts, birds and fish were placed on sale in completely frozen condition. The frozen meats were brought to the market from far and near—even from distant Siberia. These markets were something like fairs, they presented a gala appearance and attracted both rich and poor, who laid in their winter supplies of meat. Meat, fish, prepared soups, and other kinds of food are kept in a frozen condition in Alaska today. Thus a whole winter's supply may be stored outside one's kitchen door. The housewife, arming herself with an ax or saw, cuts off enough for a meal and does not need to worry about the remainder spoiling.

WAR RECORD OF GOV'T PRINCIPAL CAMPAIGN ISSUE

All Other Issues Raised Appear Subordinate as Campaign Strengthens Reported

GARDINER HEARD

Asks Farmers to Produce More Hogs to Satisfy English Market

(By the Canadian Press)

A variety of election issues arises as the campaign warms up but the fundamental question shapes up as the war record of the government. Compared to this, all other issues appear subordinate.

Liberal campaign strategy is essentially a defence of the administration's war effort while Conservatives argue it is inadequate and has been handled incompetently. As a remedy, the Conservatives propose a national government.

But the actual prosecution of the war stands out in the election spotlight and conscription, railways, unemployment, post-war rehabilitation empire relations and wartime regulations are all lesser considerations.

CANADA PREPARED ERE WAR BEGAN SAYS MR. KING

Peace Time Military Expenditures to Meet Possibility of Attacks in Event of War

Ottawa, Feb. 22 —(CP)— The Dominion Government "took every care to see that war, if it came, should find Canadaas well prepared as any peace-loving country could be," Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared in the second of his campaign broadcasts.

Because of the government's foresight, Canada's war effort started immediately on the outbreak of hostilities by assisting in the naval and air defence of Newfoundland, Labrador, the French Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the British and French West Indies.

Answering charges of unpreparedness voiced by Conservative Leader Manion, the Prime Minister said last night that neither the government nor Dr. Manion ever had advocated preparedness for Canada's participation in a war in Europe.

CRUSHING DEFEAT FOR GOOSTE PARTY IS INDICATED

Cape Town, Feb. 22 (CP)—Nearly complete assembly election returns from southwest Africa indicated today a crushing defeat for the Gooste Nationalist Party, which has supported former Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog in his campaign to have the Union of South Africa make peace with Germany.

The party includes most of the German residents in the territory, which formerly was a German possession but which became a mandate of the Union after the last war.

With one district still to be heard from, the United Party had obtained 10 seats and the Gooste one.

On Jan. 27 the Union's House of Assembly voted down by 81-59 a resolution introduced by General Hertzog proposing peace with Germany.

MANNERHEIM LINE DESTRUCTION ONE OF PRE-WAR DEMANDS SAYS FINN MINISTER

London, Feb. 22 —(CP)— G. A. Gripenberg, Finnish Minister to Great Britain, said in an address here today that destruction of the Mannerheim line was included among the Russian demands refusal of which brought on the present Finnish-Russian war.

Finland, Mr. Gripenberg told a luncheon audience, agreed to far-reaching Russian demands in an effort to preserve peace, but refused to make concessions equivalent to a surrender of her freedom.

3 German Raids Driven Off By French Machine-Gunners

Paris, Feb. 22 (AP). — French machine-gunners drove off three German raids with enemy losses, military sources reported today, during renewed patrol activity on the western front.

In the sector east of the Moselle River, they said, German troops attempting to capture a French outpost were repulsed by French crossfire and retired in disorder.

The fighting resulted in the destruction by fire of one house in a frontier village.

Another German patrol was reported to have skirmished with French gunners west of the Saar River and to have retired leaving behind an unspecified number of dead.

Two German non-commissioned officers were said to have been captured in a third engagement in the same region.

German forces along the Rhine continued to blast away at French loudspeakers broadcasting news propaganda across the flood-swollen river. The French returned the fire.

French aerial squadrons, both observation and scouting, took advantage of clear skies to fly over the enemy lines.

One group engaged German fliers, French military advices said, but the fight ended without planes of either side being shot down. German reconnaissance flights were reported over eastern and northeastern France.

Meanwhile, it was announced that the corporal of an anti-aircraft battery who brought down a German bombing plane after it had machine-gunned him has been awarded the French Military Medal.

Emile Garnetel, a butcher in civilian life, fell to the ground near one of his guns with a bullet through his shoulder and another through the sciatic nerve in his left leg, according to the citation, after the bomber's first diving attack.

When the corporal saw the plane wheel and return to attack, it was said, Garnetel struggled to his feet, took careful aim and cut the bomber in two with one shot. He was decorated yesterday.

Empire, His Native Scotland, C.A.S.F. Camp at Aldershot Pay Tweedsmuir Last Farewell

Westminster Abbey Service of Tribute Attended by King George's Representative, Prime Minister Chamberlain and Members of Cabinet, Former Governors - General of Canada, Canadians, Including Former Prime Minister Bennett, 200 Canadian Officers, Many Canadians of the Ranks— Impressive Tribute is Paid at St. Giles' Cathedral at Edinburgh by Scotland — Canadian Units at Aldershot Observe Memorial Services

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Feb. 22—(CP Cable) — The Empire today honored the memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir at a service in Westminster Abbey that was richly impressive for its simplicity.

Upwards of 1,000 people, ranging from a representative of the King and the Prime Minister himself to a few humble alms seekers, filled the pews and the age-worn transept seats for the service the origin of which is rooted in antiquity.

Choir Chants

It opened with the choir in white and scarlet surplices chanting from St. John:—

"I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord;

"He that believeth in Me though he were dead yet shall he live;

"And whoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die."

The thread of the prayers was "for John Buchan, Lord Tweedsmuir, and all Thy servants who have finished their course and kept the faith."

In their velvet gold braided holy vestments ,the Dean of Westminster, Rt, Rev. Paul de Labilliere, conducted the service, while the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, gave the blessing.

Scottish Divine Reads Lesson

Although the service was Anglican, a Divine of the Scottish church was invited into the most famed of all worshipping places of the Anglican faith to read the lesson. He was Dr. Archibald Fleming of St. Columba's (Church of Scotland) in London, an intimate friend of the Scottish-born Lord Tweedsmuir, who read from Revelations: "And I saw a new Heaven and a new earth; for the first Heaven and the first earth were passed away."

Legislature Drives for Early Prorogation by Holding Early Afternoon Sitting

HYDRO DISCUSSED

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP).—The Ontario legislature drove toward early prorogation by meeting early this afternoon and holding another night sitting. Conservative Leader George Drew is expected to wind up the budget debate, but estimates remain before the House clears its agenda.

The afternoon sitting will start at two o'clock instead of the usual three to hear the final opposition attacks on Premier Hepburn's wartime budget. Last night's meeting was featured by criticism of the former Conservative premier, George S. Henry, who charged government extravagance in all departments.

FRANCE MASTERS MODERN WAR FINANCE PROBLEM

War Ministry Halves Next Contingent of Youths Called to Colors in March

FINANCIAL STRENGTH

Paris, Feb. 22 (AP). — Finance Minister Paul Reynaud has quoted figures to prove that financial ruin need not accompany a modern war and declared "we are mastering the situation".

In an address yesterday to veterans of the first Great War he stressed the necessity of co-operation between the government and the people expressing confidence in France's ability to continue her "financial mastery" of the war if the nation continues accepting sacrifices.

On the ground that French defences already are fully manned and barracks crowded. the war ministry has decided to halve the next contingent of youths to be called to the colors in March.

Only Quarter of Class To Be Called.

A war ministry notice said that only men born in July, August and September, 1919, would be included in the next call for a section of that year's class. The first half of the class, men born in the first six months of 1919, were called up last November and all those born in the last six months were to have been summoned next month.

Describing how France has financed the first six months of the war, the finance minister pointed to four evidences of strength:

1. Steadily growing subscriptions for national armament bonds;
2. An increase in savings bank deposits over withdrawals;
3. The low bank rate;
4. Maintenance of the gold reserve at almost the level at the start of the war despite heavy buying abroad.

Inflow of Calital.

The reserves of gold and foreign exchange have been maintained largely by the "inflow of capital which began in November, 1938, and has continued since September, 1939," Reynaud said.

Reynaud said an average of 8,000,000,000 franks ($179,600,000) worth of armament bonds were sold during December and January compared to 2,200,000,000 francs (about $49,390,000) in September and 5,300,000,000 francs (about $118,985,000) in October.

Stockholm, Feb. 22—(AP)—Swedish military authorities, it was announced today, have issued new instructions to all anti-aircraft units to fire on any military planes flying over Swedish territory.

The orders followed the bombing of Pajala by Russian planes yesterday which brought indignant demands in the Swedish Press that a protest to Moscow be followed by insistence on compensation and assurances against a repetition.

Military experts continued investigations of the bombing. Under government orders to protest yesterday's aerial bombardment of the town five miles from the Finnish border, Vilhelm Assarsson, minister to Moscow, was received at the Kremlin late yesterday by the Russian premier, Vyacheslaff Molotoff.

QUAKE LEVELS 4 TURK VILLAGES TAKES 70 LIVES

More Than 50 Persons Injured and Tens of Thousands of Cattle Perish

PEASANTS TERRIFIED

Many Villagers in Kaisari Region Pinned by Debris While Asleep in Beds

Istanbul, Feb. 22—(AP)—Four villages in the Kaisari region of Turkey were reported today to have been levelled by a series of continuing earth shocks with a loss of 70 lives and more than fifty persons injured.

Shocks also were felt at Ankara and Andana. The casualty toll was disclosed in an official announcement.

Eighteen quakes were felt in quick succession late yesterday in and around the town of Kaisari in central Anatolia, Asiatic Turkey and tremblors were reported continuing at noon today. Tens of thousands of cattle were said to have perished in the devastation of the villages and in stampedes caused by the shocks.

Peasants became panic-stricken, fearing a repetition of the December disaster in which about 50,000 persons were killed by quakes, exposure and subsequent floods.

Many villagers in the Kaisari region were asleep when the quake wrecked their homes, pinning them in the debris.

Exceptional cold added to the plight of peasants who took refuge in open fields.

Padlocks Self by Neck to Tree Near Home of Spurning 'Stenog'

St. Louis, Feb. 22 —(AP)— A spurned suitor, transferred from self-padlocked shackles to jail, told officers permanent imprisonment—even death—was preferable to life without the woman he has loved 12 years.

Police found Melvin Miller last night living in a tent near the woman's home in protest of her coolness. His neck was chained to a tree and secured by padlocks whose keyholes he had filled with cement.

The 30-year-old scissors grinder said it took six years to get enough courage to ask the pretty stenographer for a date. The next six he spent in a futile effort to obtain another.

Booked for investigation, Miller said, "without her—imprisonment for life, or death, is preferable."

Said the object of his affections: "the whole situation is too ridiculous."

Rural Residents Assist Villagers To Fight Blaze

Calls for Assistance Dispatched to All Centres Within Radius of 50 Miles While Local Brigade Fights Heroically

STARTS IN STORE

Origin Unknown and First Sighted When Dense Columns of Smoke and Flames Issue From Rear of G. Mitchell's Store

Fire, sweeping from its point of origin in the rear of a store in the main business section of the village threatened the entire village of Warkworth, eight miles south of Campbellford, this afternoon. At 1:45 reports from the village stated that one store had been demolished while two others were burning fiercely in spite of the efforts of villagers to stem the spread of the flames.

Calls for assistance to fire departments within a radius of fifty miles were rushed by village officials but up to 1:30 no outside help had arrived, although it was reported that fire apparatus from sister villages and towns were racing to the scene.

Aid From Rural Sections.

The entire population of 300 people augmented by residents of the surrounding rural districts rushed to the scene of the blaze which gradually spread from one store to another. The places of business in the burning section are not in a block but are separated only by a narrow driveway. Flames leaped from one building to another until three stores were burning.

The village fire apparatus, consisting of small chemical apparatus. manned by the village volunteer crew fought valiantly in an effort to stem the flames.

Fire Discovered.

First intimation of the fire came when a man named Allan discovered dense clouds of smoke lighted with the glow of flames issuing from the rear of the George Mitchell store on the north side of the main street of the village. He turned in an alarm but so rapidly did the flames envelop the building that all efforts to save it were futile.

Sweeps Across Alleyway

The blaze swept across the narrow alleyway separating the blazing building from the general store of W. C. Allen, transforming it into a mass of flames. It jumped another narrow driveway on the opposite side and sent flames sweeping through a butcher shop. An auto equipment store and a second hand furniture shop are in direct line of the fire and it was reported a few minutes before two o'clock that these were blazing.

Over the buildings are apartments owned by Mr. Mitchell.

Weather conditions were in favor of the fire-fighters as only a light breeze was blowing at the time. Burning embers however floated high in the smoke-laden air threatening shops and residences in the immediate vicinity.

Flames Sweeping East

A report from Warkworth at two o'clock stated, that the Mitchell and Allen stores and the residence of Miss M. Morrison were completely destroyed by the flames, which were sweeping n ian easterly direction.

The general store of J. C. Dixon near the blazing block, suddenly burst into flames at this time, threatening the entire north side of the street.

The Campbellford Fire Department arrived a few minutes before two p.m. and immediately went into action t oassist the hard-fighting volunteer crew of the village. Literally hundreds of people were in the village at this time assisting firefighters in an effort to. get the blaze under control.

TWO NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN OFF BRITISH COAST

Both Craft Brought Down, One on Land, by British Pursuit Planes

ONE A BOMBER

London, Feb. 22 —(CP)— Two German warplanes were shot down by Royal Air Force fighter planes today, the Air Ministry announced, as German airmen raided Britain's east coast for the second time in three days, drawing machine-gun fire from several trawlers which they attempted to attack.

The fire from the trawlers gave concrete form to the warning last week by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, that all British vessels plying the war-tossed North Sea henceforth would be armed for protection against German bombing and machine-gunning from the air.

The downing of the two planes today brought the total German aircraft loss in such raids to an even 50, according to the British sources. They listed 41 German bombers as definitely accounted for and said nine others probably never reached home. The British estimated the total value of the lost German planes at more than £1,000,000 (about $4,450,000).

60 Non-Combatants Killed

Recapitulating German flights over the United Kingdom and its waters, the Evening Standard said 72 expeditions had been carried out by a total of 180 planes. It estimated about 60 non-combatants had been killed in the raids, most of them at sea.

The Air Ministry said the planes downed today were losers in battles with R.A.F. fighter planes, one off the northeast coast and the other near St. Abb's Head, Scotland.

Four Germans who were in the second plane, a Heinkel which fell near the village of Coldingham, 40 miles east of Edinburgh, were taken prisoner and placed in a local police station, one was wounded.

The ministry issued two communiques, the first stating: "An enemy aircraft was engaged and shot down by Royal Air Force fighter aircraft off the northeast coast shortly after mid-day today."

Shortly afterward came the second: "A second Heinkel (German bomber), attacked by Spitfires of the fighter command, crashed today on land near St. Abb's Head."

St. Abb's head is on the southern shore of the Firth of Forth about 40 air miles east of Edinburgh.

It was the second time in three days German planes had flown over Britain's coasts. There were widespread raids Tuesday, ranging as far north as the Shetland Islands.

A trawler off the coast of Norfolk beat off German planes which dropped bombs but withdrew when the trawler which escaped damage, replied with machine-gun fire.

The first German plane, it was learned later, was shot down at sea off the Northumberland coast.

Four British trawlers, the Cardew, Emulator, Crystal and Aucuba, all armed, exchanged machine-gun fire with German raiders and reported they drove the attackers off.

Eyewitnesses ashore reported that the trawler, named the Outfall, was attacked by two planes flying so low that their markings could not be seen from land until they banked for turns.

British fighter planes flew out to sea after the attack on the trawler and a little later an explosion was heard.

NOT GIVEN TIME TO RAISE FINE

George Howard, Tyendinaga, Convicted of Taking Car Without Owner's Consent

Convicted of taking an automobile without the owner's consent, George Howard, Tyendinaga, was fined $25 and costs or two months in jail in default when he appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in today's county police court here.

Howard asked the court for an extension of one month in which to raise the assessed fine. "Absolutely no time will be given you whatsoever. As a matter of fact you are fortunate there wasn't a charge of stealing this car and then you would have been sent to penitentiary," replied His Worship.

Howard was charged with taking an automobile, the property of Edward Topping, Tyendinaga, on July 5 last. Acting Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson introduced Howard's list of previous convictions, which included charges of car stealing. His Worship cancelled the accused man's driving permit permanently, as he stated: "You are also prohibited from ever driving a motor car again, that is by this court."

Toronto Woman Given Suspended Sentence

Mrs. Olive E. McAlister, Toronto appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in police court here today charged with giving false information regarding her marital status. The accused woman pleaded guilty as charged and was given a one year's suspended sentence, upon the payment of the costs of the court.

Arraigned by Provincial Constable D. Adair, the accused woman faced a charge of "unlawfully making a solemn declaration in support for a marriage licence, and that she did thereupon make a statement which would amount to perjury, if made in a judicial proceeding, to wit, that she was a spinster, knowing the statement to be false." Acting Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson read the charge but made no comment, as His Worship called the young woman before him.

"You have made a very serious mistake here and this court could send you to penitentiary for seven years. I hope you realize your error," warned Magistrate Butler as he meted out the suspended sentence term.

'Life Savers' Club Holds Meeting

The 'Life Savers' a class of boys, of the New University Sunday School, which was recently organized held their first meeting at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Elmy, Grove Street on Wednesday evening of this week.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Milton Fraser, and opened with the Theme Song, "Brighten the Corner Where, You Are". This was followed with prayer by Mrs. Elmy.

The Roll Call was conducted by the Secretary. Scripture reading, John 14: 1-12 was read by John Patterson. The singing of "Jesus Bids us Shine", was followed by the business discussion. The teacher then read a Bible story, "The Ruler's Little Daughter", taken from Amy Steedman's Stories About Jesus.

The rest of the evening was spent in games such as Chinese checkers. All the members and three visitors were present.

POLICE COURT

"Can't the county of Hastings afford a calendar?" asked Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., at the opening of today's session of Police Court as he gazed around the County Court House court room in a fruitless effort to locate a calendar. There was no response from the body of the court room, but later Provincial Constable W. E. Smith appeared and produced a new 1940 calendar, which carried large type advertising. "That's better," remarked His Lordship as court proceeded without further interruption.

Told to Get Out of City

Colan Duncan Forbes, a transient who was arrested by city police yesterday after causing a disturbance at the Belleville hospital, appeared in court today on a vagrancy charge. I'll give you just 30 minutes to get out of the city," stated His Worship after Forbes pleaded guilty and told the court he was suffering from kidney ailments.

A Thurlow resident appeared charged with the failure to pay his township dog licence. Following conviction the conventional dollar and $1.75 costs was imposed.

S. Gordon Robertson, acting Crown Attorney, introduced several minor H.T.A. charges as well as conducting the morning's prosecution.

Man's Chest Crushed When Tree Falls

Little Hope Held for Recovery of Alex Wadsworth, 26, After Accident Occurs 15 Miles North of Bancroft

Bancroft, Feb. 22 (Special)—His chest terribly crushed by a falling tree, Alex. Wadsworth, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wadsworth, farmer, residing fifteen miles north of this village, is lying in a critical condition in the home of Ernest Reeves, a neighbor.

Wadsworth and Reeves were cutting timber in the woods on the former's farm, when a heavy tree they were felling suddenly crashed pinning Wadsworth beneath its trunk.

Dr. S. S. Lumb of Bancroft was summoned to the scene of the accident and ordered the injured man taken to the home of Reeves. His condition is such that he cannot be moved to hospital and this morning attending physicians held out little hope for his recovery.

Several ribs are crushed and severe internal injuries were sustained.

2 Lower Floors Of House Stolen, Upper Storey Left

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—Imagine Building Commissioner James Finn's astonishment when police reported two lower floors of a frame dwelling had been stolen!

"Incredible!" he exclaimed, rushing to the scene.

But thre it was, the upper storey of an untenanted house suspended between two adjoining buildings. Thieves, Finn said, had systematically picked the structure clean as a bone, apparently removing parts for kindling wood.

He ordered the suspended portion demolished.

EMPIRE, HIS NATIVE SCOTLAND

While the Empire was paying homage in Westminster Abbey, Lord Tweedsmuir's "ain land" honored him at a service in St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburgh.

Other services were held at Aldershot where the Canadian Active Service Force is in training Allunits of the First Canadian Division participated.

The memorial service at Westminster drew a gathering of British statesmen and other notables, past and present, seldom congregated under one roof.

Seated in individual stalls were the Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Clarendon, representing the King, Prime Minister Chamberlain and most members of his cabinet, Earl Baldwin and Rt. Hon. R B Bennett, Prime Ministers of another day.

Former Governor-General Attends

There, too, sat the Earl of Bessborough, former Governor General of Canada, and a representative of the aged Duke of Connaught, who served at Ottawa during part of the last war. Hon. Vincent Massey, the Canadian High Commissioner, was there for the Dominion Government and the high commissioners of Australia and South Africa were nearby.

At the head of members of the immediate family was the new Lord Tweedsmuir in the uniform of a staff lieutenant of the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force.

200 Canadian Officers Attend

Canada's khaki was also visible elsewhere in the great edifice. In transept seats were upwards of 200 officers of the First Division and Canadian military headquarters, headed by Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the C.A.S.F., and Major-General H. D. G. Crerar, senior officer of Canadian military headquarters. Each wore a black mourning band on his left arm in token of respect for the late commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces.

Men of Ranks Present

Off in the nave of the church, where they could see little of those conducting the service but could hear it all, were more than 100 men of the ranks. They were mostly troops on leave, drawn to the abbey of their own free will. There was much else in and around the great "house of peace" to remind one that the world is at war.

High above the Abbey tower on which the flag of St. Peter flew at half mast floated a grey anti-aircraft balloon. The outer edge of the Abbey's high altar was buttressed by sand bags.

By each seat was a printed card advising the congregation that the "Abbey is not a safe place during an air raid." It urged that in the event of warning all take cover in shelters outside the Abbey.

But thoughts of the world outside and its strife were forgotten in the solemnity of the service, the beauty of the choir's chanting, the muted notes of the great organ, and the quiet peacefulness of the prayers for the dead.

Assurance of Passing Phase

Even the Psalm which followed the choir's opening chant carried an assurance to the war-torn world that it was only passing through a phase that is comparatively short. The significant words were: "As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end."

The hymns were two of the late Governor General's favorites: "I Vow To Thee My Country," and "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross."

With the new Lord Tweedsmuir in the immediate family group were his brother, Hon. William Buchan, and his wife; his sister, Hon. Mrs. Brian Fairfax-Lucy, and her husband; Hon. Mrs. Norman Grosvenor, the late Governor General's mother-in-law; her daughter, Mrs. Peyton Jones, and the latter's two daughters and a son.

Services in Edinburgh and Aldershot

Scotland's Memorial Service

Edinburgh, Feb. 22 (CP Cable)—Men who knew Lord Tweedsmuir since boyhood and enjoyed his friendship ever after were in the congregation which filled St. Giles cathedral today for Scotland's memorial service.

Professor Archibald Main, moderator of the Church of Scotland, who knew John Buchan as a quiet student of Glasgow University, conducted the service, reviewing the brilliant career of the minister's son who rose to be Governor-General of Canada.

"John Buchan" to Most Scots

"To most Scots, he will always be John Buchan," said Dr. Main, and throughout the service in the capital city of his native country it was as John Buchan that he was most frequently referred to.

Present in deep mourning were a brother and sister of the late Governor-General, J. Walter Buchan, who is town clerk of the nearby little town of Peebles, and Anna Buchan (O. Douglas), the Authoress.

Nobles Sit Beside Humble Folk

In the crowded pews Dukes and Earls sat side by side with humble working people and university studetns of whom many still were carrying their books.

Every aspect of Scottish life was represented in the cathedral, proudest building of the Church of Scotland, where Lord Tweedsmuir in the past had been received as an honor figure representing the King.

(By Edwin Johnson Canadian Press Staff Writer).

At Aldershot

Aldershot, Feb. 22 (CP Cable) — On every parade ground within the boundaries of the Canadian training camp here solemn tribute was paid today to the memory of Lord Tweedsmuir.

The united gesture of remembrance, marked by a full turnout of personnel with the officers wearing mourning bands, was timed to synchronize with the national memorial service in Westminster Abbey.

Everywhere in the camp the order of the service was the same in its simplicity and impressiveness. After the opening sentences, the padres' invocation was pronounced followed by a reading of scripture. Prayers of thanksgiving then were offered for the life service of the Governor-General and intercession was asked for the bereaved. The services closed with the Lord's prayer and the benediction.

Typical Service

Typical of the services was one conducted by Rev. Captain Norman Coll, formerly of Parkdale Church, Ottawa. Speaking to the massed ranks of the Toronto Scottish and the Saskatoon Light Infantry from a flag-draped stand, he described the late Governor-General as a man who had carved a niche in the literary and diplomatic life of the Empire.

The Dominion, he continued, had been well served by a long line of distinguished and efficient Governors-General but none had been better than Lord Tweedsmuir.

As the last words of the Lord's prayer faded, the echoing strains of the Last Post pierced the silence of the square. Then the pipe band of the famous Toronto regiment broke out with the funeral lament, "Flowers of the Forest," followed by the Reveille sounded by buglers.

13 DEGREES BELOW ZERO AT BANCROFT

Bancroft, Feb. 22 (Special)—Old Man Winter returned to the wars here last night when villagers awakened today to find thermometers depleted through the medium of warm weather of the last few days is again solidified, while the sudden drop in temperature is providing additional hardships to municipal road-crews which are endeavoring to clear township roads that have been blocked for some time.

RUMANIA ORDERS PREPARATIONS

Dr. Karl Clodius, German economic expert, is expected here Monday to insist on full delivery of Germany's 1940 quota of oil and oil products.

The government ordered many of 200,000 reservists originally called for March 1 to start reporting immediately to concentration centres, it was learned.

Effective March 1, Rumania will have 1,600,000 men under arms—virtually general mobilization without being so labelled.

Railways now are jammed with reservists moving toward frontiers and with long trainloads of tanks, armored cars and artillery.

Will Challenge Ban

The arrival of Dr. Clodius will coincide with the start of Rumanian trade conversations here with Italy, understood also to be seeking a share of this country's oil exports.

Germany, it was said, will challenge a Rumanian ban on shipments of high test aviation gasoline to the Reich — a measure which Rumania was reported to have taken on insistence of Great Britain and France.

The German attitude toward Rumania and all southeastern Europe will depend on the outcome of Clodius' talks, these informed quarters predicted.

It was understood that a government decree banning the fuel which Germany needs for her machines of war had been issued—this in apparent contradiction to a recent oil export agreement with Germany.

The Rumanian ban was regarded in London as giving the Allies the edge in the competition for Rumanian oil.

Both Britain and France have pointedly informed Bucharest that they might be compelled to reconsider their guarantees of Rumania against attack if King Carol's regime favored Germany on oil.

Allies Own 80 Per Cent

Allied concern had been heightened by the fact British and French interests along with Netherlands and other foreign companies own 80 per cent of the Rumanian oil industry and the Allies were confronted with the possibility that Rumania's new Petroleum Control Board would levy against British and French production to fill Germany's needs.

The importance of Rumanian oil to the German war machine is reported to have been stressed by German trade envoys in a declaration that increased shipments are "a matter of life and death" to the Reich and that Germany would be compelled "to seek other methods" if Rumania failed to fulfil her commitments.

Rumania is under agreement to ship about 30 per cent of her 1940 production to Germany. Under the reported reorientation of the country's oil export policy, however, it was said that the necessity of building up Rumania's own reserves of oil against a possible wartime emergency impelled the ban on aviation gasoline.

Another factor which pleased the Allies was said to be the likelihood that Rumania, because of transport difficulties, would be unable to fulfil her 1940 commitments to Germany as was the case in 1939.

FINNS REPULSE RUSSIAN ATTACK ON RAIL STATION

Kamara, Communication Centre South of Viipuri Heavily Shelled by Reds

REDS LOSE 2,000

Fighting on Both Sides of Mannerheim System Raged Far Into Night

Helsinki, Feb. 22 (AP). — A Red army attack near the Kamara railway station, a communication centre twelve miles southeast of Viipuri (Viborg) on the Karelian Isthmus, was repulsed, the Finnish high command reported today.

The Russians lost 2,000 dead in continued fighting at Taipale, at the eastern end of the isthmus defence line, the communique declared.

Today's was the first admission by the Finns that fighting had reached the neighborhood of Kamara, although the Russians previously had reported their forces driving through that station on the main isthmus railway to Viipuri.

The Finnish command declared that fighting on both sides of the Mannerheim system across the isthmus had raged far into last night.

A large number of tanks were reported destroyed, and thirteen Red army planes shot down.

200 Prisoners Taken.

The communique said more Russian strong points and two hundred prisoners were captured on the battlefield northeast of Lake Ladoga, where earlier this week the Red army's 18th division was reported destroyed.

The Finnish high command reported new scouting flights behind the Soviet lines and bombing raids on Red army troops by night.

Finnish problems of defence were complicated by the Soviet strategy of smashing at both extremities of the Mannerheim Line while maintaining pressure along its whole lengtth.

After concentrating near the western end of the line on the Karelian Isthmus and forcing Finnish withdrawal to new positions, the Red army was reported to have thrown two divisions (apparently 30,000 to 35,000 men) against the Taipale sector, eastern terminus of the fortified zone.

The Finns said that despite strong artillery and aircraft support, the attackers were hurled back, and denied at the same time that the Russians had captured Koivisto, the line's big "anchor" battery of the Gulf of Finland.

(A Russian communique declared "nothing of importance" occurred at the front, but that 176 Finnish defensive fortifications had been taken in the past three days, "including the Koivisto fortress area".

(The communique said sixteen Finnish planes were shot down in combat.)

Blizzard Defensive Asset

A blizzard, the first this month, was counted as a defensive asset by the Finns, who repeated their story of heavy Russian casualties and light losses for themselves.

February normally is a bitter, snowy month in this region, and the worsening of the weather is described as lending new heart to the hard-pressed Finns.

Despite the weather, Soviet bombers continued to raid Finnish cities and towns yesterday.

Wade Werner, chief of The Associated Press staff in Finland, was caught in one of these raids at a railroad station 50 miles west of Sortavala.

The town, unnamed for military reasons, already was a jumble of wrecked and burning buildings from five night raids when he arrived yesterday, Werner said.

Nevertheless, he had hardly stepped from the platform to a cafe when the bombers returned.

Took Shelter in Woods

"It seemed incredible, after all the damage they had done the night before," he said, "but I took shelter in the woods with some townspeople."

Half an hour later, the clear signal was given, but a new alarm sounded almost immediately as 35 bombers appeared.

After a second dash to the woods, Werner said he resolved to run no more. So for the successive returns of the bombers he alternately ducked under freight cars and crawled into culverts with other train passengers.

There were four such raids on this one small town in three hours, he said, but finally the slight-damaged train managed to pull out.

This anonymous village apparently is north and slightly west of Lake Ladoga, in what has been described as a comparatively quiet zone.

Far to the north, renewed raids on the Arctic Petsamo region were reported from Kirkenes, Norway. Norwegian observers on the border said they counted 52 planes and great numbers of bombs were reported dropped. That sparsely-settled vicinity had been quiet for several weeks.

INFANT SMOTHERS IN BED OVERNIGHT

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP)—Seven-weeks-old Wayne Langley smothered in bed overnight and failed to revive despite respiration efforts of police and firemen after his mother found him in his crib. The mother, Mrs. Stewart Langley, said that on awakening she rushed the child a block to the office of a physician. The baby had been ill with a stomach ailment.

Life in South Seas Shown by Pictures At Bridge St. Church

"Vagabonding in Bali and Neighboring South Sea Islands"—a descriptive full color motion picture travelogue depicting the lives of natives in the Malayan peninsula, their customs and environments, was shown to a large crowd at the Bridge Street United Church last night. The entertainment, staged under the auspices of the Red Cross workers of the United Church, brought to Belleville residents many colorful scenes from palm-girted tropical isles and unusual glimpses of unique native religious dances as well as scenes from the commerce of everyday life.

Photographed and prepared by Cecil G. Jones, Canadian newspaper man who personally supervised the local showing, the travelogue was the result of eight months journeyings in the little known Malayan archipelago. Over forty thousand miles were covered during the trip, stated Mr. Jones as he gave a short account of his experiences in the Far East, and to secure the pictures he travelled by freighter, by launch, by native prahu or outrigger sailing canoe, by train and car and even walked a considerable distance. All through the showing of the pictures, Mr. Jones kept up a running comment of explanatory comment, synchronizing his words to the speed of the reel and explaining in detail all the interesting points of the film.

Starts From San Francisco

Starting the journey from San Francisco in a freighter, numerous shots were given of the city's skyline as the boat proceeded out to sea, pictures of Beautiful Treasure Island, the home of San Francisco's Fair, distant views of the world famous Alcatraz Prison as well as shots of the gently rolling Pacific.

The far-off Philippines, shores lined with majestic palms, the ancient churches and temples with their beautiful Oriental architecture, the quaint beauty of native outrigger sailing prahus flying before the wind were all shown in full natural color. From the Philippines the pictures took one to ancient Bali, the Utopia of the Far East, where the native girls were seen in their unique religious dances, attended a cremation ceremony with all its grotesque effigies and hundreds of celebrants.

Visiting the volcanic islands of Lambok and Soembawa, views were shown of unposed action shots of natives in their everyday life, parties of beautiful costumed girls walking smartly down the narrow streets with the traditional head basket balanced precariously atop their heads, journeys up jungle streams in native dugout canoes and travelled jungle trails on the back of a faithful pony.

Sumatra, Java and Borneo, were all visited in turn, showing in each of these tropical countries, interesting, informative and sometimes exciting pictures from the land of sudden showers and brilliant sunshine.

On behalf of the Red Cross workers of the United Church, Rev. Dr. Semple moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Jones for the entertaining evening.

FINLAND CALLS MEN 44 TO 46

Ordered to Report to Military Mobilization Centres at Once

Helsinki, Feb. 22—(AP) — The Finnish News Agency reported today that the classes of 1894 and 1895—men 44 to 46 years old—had been called up and ordered to report to military mobilization centres.

The two immediately preceding classes were called last week, the class of 1897 on Wednesday and that of 1896 on Thursday. The class of 1898 was called up on Saturday.

Another step to draw on the nation's manpower was taken Monday when posters appeared in the streets of the capital ordering all men belonging to the second class of the years 1897 to 1919—heretofore exempt—to report immediately for examinations to determine their fitness for military duty.

U. S. Likely to Renew Trade Agreements

Washington, Feb. 22—(AP)—An administration poll was said authoritatively today to have indicated that the United States senate would approve continuation of the government's reciprocal trade program by a close margin.

The poll, conducted quietly by Senators Alben Barkley of Kentucky, and Pat Harrison of Mississippi and J. F. Byrne of South Carolina, was described in administration quarters as disclosing that if all 96 senators answered the roll call, 49 would oppose an amendment to require senate ratification of the trade agreements, 41 would favor it and the votes of six would be in doubt. Agreements with Canada and 21 other nations have been negotiated under the pact.

The House of Representatives will vote tomorrow on legislation, sidetracking business today for observance of George Washington's birthday anniversary.

House Democratic leaders predicted that not more than 25 Democrats would vote against the Extension Bill.

RUSSIA DECLARES BLACK SEA FLEET IS GROWING DAILY

Baku, Greatest Oil Centre of Soviets on Caspian Sea, Has Test Blackouts

LONDON PAPER'S VIEW

Daily Herald Says Allies Are Keeping Close Watch on Situation in Near and Middle East

Moscow, Feb. 22.— (AP)— The fitness of Russia's expanding Black Sea fleet to guard the Soviet Union's southern borders was proclaimed today following winter manoeuvres and at the same time Moscow learned of test blackouts in Baku, Russia's greatest oil centre.

The Black Sea fleet completed manoeuvres several days ago and the warships—of which Russians said two-thirds were new and Soviet-made—returned to their Sebastopol base.

Admiral Oktyabrsky, commander of the Fleet, said the results of the manoeuvres were excellent and added:

"The strength of the Black Sea fleet is growing daily. The fleet was, is and shall be a reliable guard of the southern borders of the U.S.S.R."

A Baku paper just received disclosed that a nightly training blackout had been decreed in Baku, beginning Tuesday and continuing until further notice. Baku, port on the Caspian sea, is the clearing centre for rich oil supplies which are carried by pipeline to the Black Sea port of Batum.

Russian Concentrations Reported

London, Feb. 22.— (CP)— The Daily Herald said today that reports of heavy Soviet troop concentrations in the Caucasus and along the border of Iran (Persia) are compelling the Allies to keep "close watch" on the situation in the near and middle east.

This "disquieting information", the Herald said, "reveals that more heavy concentrations of Russian troops are taking place in the Caucasus on Turkey's eastern border and the north frontier of Iran".

"Coinciding with the arrival of these reinforcements—they are reported to be crack units of the Red Army—comes news of wholesale arrests in Georgia and Armenia.

The Moscow Press and radio have launched a violent campaign against both Turkey and Iran. A torrent of abuse accusing these two countries of being tools of capitalism and of having bowed down before 'imperialistic' Britain and France is being poured out.

Iran's Rich Oil Wells

"Iran with its rich oil wells is especially singled out for attack and the abuse that is being levelled against her is so similar to that heaped on Finland before the Soviet invasion that real fears are entertained that Russia may be contemplating new aggression. This and renewed Nazi pressure on Rumania are believed to be the reasons for Turkey's sudden application of her emergency national defence law two days ago.

"Turkey, for her part, is determined to leave nothing to chance".

The Times quoted reports, neither confirmed nor denied at Ankara, that Moscow had asked for resumption of the parleys broken off when Foreign Minister Sukru Saraciglu left Moscow. If true, the Times said this would mean that Moscow has accepted Turkey's view that she can enter into no undertaking with respect to the Black Sea area which would clash with Turkish commitments to Great Britain and France or the Straits convention.

Eight Americans Held as Prisoners in Spain Released

Madrid, Feb. 22—(AP) — The United States embassy announced today that the last eight American citizens held as Spanish civil war prisoners, including Harold Dahl, a flier, has been released and would start soon for home.

Release of these last prisoners who had fought for the defeated Republican government brought to an end a long diplomatic tussle in which the United States department had sought their freedom.

Dahl, who had been in custody since he parachuted to earth behind General Franco's lines July 12, 1937, became the most widely known American prisoner of the Spanish war as a result of his wife's efforts to have him freed.

Dahl originally was marked for execution, but he was spared from this penalty after Mrs. Dahl, a singer, sent a letter to General Franco asking clemency.

Wife Still Doubtful

Philadelphia, Feb. 22 — (AP) — Edith Rogers Dahl, comely blonde wife of Harold E. Dahl, received with skepticism today the news that her flier husband had won release from Spain as a civil war prisoner.

Pausing in a rehearsal of a Spanish dance routine at a local theatre, Dahl's 35-year-old wife told newsmen: "I would be very, very happy if it were true, but I have heard it so many times before that I'll not believe it until I receive confirmation from Washington."

LATE BULLETINS

$20,000 LOSS AT WARKWORTH

Fire Brought Under Control Late This Afternoon — Streets Littered

Fire that destroyed three buildings and threatened the entire village of Warkworth early this afternoon, was under control at 2.45 p.m. a report from the Northumberland Village stated. The fire, said to be the worst in the history of the village, completely gutted the stores of G. Mitchell, William Allen and the residence of Miss B. Morrison and partially damaged the general store of J. Dixon.

The blazing Dixon store was saved from being completely gutted as Campbellford fire squads assisted by villagers battled in a successful attempt to reduce the blaze that had broken out in various parts of the store.

Fire apparatus and crews of the Peterborough Fire Department arrived later but the danger of the flames spreading had been averted by this time.

Streets of the village were littered with household effects as frightened villagers hastily removed furniture and private belongings in case of a general conflagration. Roofs of several buildings were ignited by flying embers but residents extinguished the minor blazes without damage.

Loss was estimated at $20,000.

ONLY $600 SHORT OF OBJECTIVE

Army and Navy Veterans Jubilant Over Success of Drive

"Only a little over six hundred dollars short of the quota" officials of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Belleville Branch, jubilantly exclaimed today as they announced the total sum collected to date for the Canadian Legion Auxiliary War Services as amounting to $1,322.92.

Responses have been exceedingly generous to date, one of the campaign officials stated, and there isn't much doubt now that we will exceed our quota of $2,000.00.

Canvassers have still a generous part of the city from which to collect money and these will be called on within the next few days. The campaign ends on Feb. 28th.

A generous gesture toward the veterans' efforts to collect funds for the campaign was seen today in the offer of the management of the McCarthy Theatre to donate fifteen percent of the box-office receipts of afternoon and evening performances held next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The offer was unsolicited and officials of the campaign urge the public to attend these performances and help the veterans to help the "boys over there."

R.A.F. PLANES ATTACK U-BOATS

Continue Reconnaissance Flights Over Germany's Sea Bases

London, Feb. 22—(CP) — Royal Air Force planes were reported today to have attacked German torpedo boats in continuing reconnaissance flights over Germany's sea bases of Borkum and Heligoland. Details were not immediately available.

NEWSPAPER URGES SEIZURE OF ORE

Daily Express Says Swedish Iron Ore is Sent Down Norway's Coast Inside 3-Mile Limit

London, Feb. 22 — (CP) — The Daily Express today urged that the Swedish iron ore sent down the Norwegian coast to Germany should be seized by the Royal Navy even though the route goes through Norwegian territorial waters.

The Swedish ore is shipped by rail from Narvik, the paper said, "then it slides down to Germany in ships that cling to the Norwegian coast within the three-mile limit."

"That ore would be very useful to us," it continued. "The Germans have abustd Norwegian ships in Norwegian waters. They have even attacked Norwegian ships in Norwegian waters. And the Norwegians have permitted such violations of their neutrality.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED IN STATION WASHROOM

Toronto, Feb. 22—(CP)—Stanley Marshall, night attendant at a lakeshore district service station, told police early today that four men, one armed, took $65 from his pockets after ordering him into a washroom at the station. The men escaped in a waiting automobile, Marshall said.

A "smart-looking fellow" carried the gun and insisted that he wanted only the "company's" money, the attendant told police. He said the men had used the washroom a few hours earlier and "acted suspiciously."

Marshall said that he was beaten over the head with a revolver while in the employ of the same company at Brantford in 1934. At that time he put up a struggle when a lone gunman robbed him of $3.

Four hours after the holdup four men were arrested in a Yonge St. hamburger store on armed robbery charges. Charged with robbery were Calver Doyle, 21; John Lee, 20; Charles Avery, 20, and William Poole, 18.

Constable Bernard Loveridge made the arrest when he saw a car answering the description of the one used in the holdup, parked outside the hamburger. A fully-loaded revolver was found in the washroom of the hamburg store, police said.

Australia One With Britain in Opposing German Doctrine, Declares Premier Menzies

Melbourne, Australia, Feb. 22.—(CP)—Australia's determination to fight by the side of Great Britain and France in every phase of the war was set forth today in a declaration by Prime Minister Menzies, supported by a detailed statement of the Commonwealth's war effort program.

"We are one with Great Britain in rejecting the German doctrine that small states must succumb to the strong and that there can be no justice for the weak", said the Prime Minister.

"On the sea, on the land and in the air we will stand with Britain in contributing to a great cause the vigor and determination of a young, free nation."

The statement outlining the Dominion's war effort recalled in detail the important part played in the first great war by the people, industry and resources. And the "National effort in the present struggle is vaster, costlier and more intricate".

The world knows, the statement added, that "the New Australian army has landed in Palestine, a force which for the present will comprise a division of 20,000 men, all volunteers."

But what is not so widely known is that Australia has under arms inside her own borders a militia force of 80,000 men trained for a home defence force which includes besides volunteers, men who have been drafted into camps under the compulsory military training introduced since the outbreak of war.

Lack of Moisture in Ground, Swamps Minimize Flood Threat

Possibility that the annual heavy Spring freshets that rush down the Moira River carrying with them a strong threat of flood, will be greatly minimized this year, was voiced by residents of the areas north of the city yesterday.

Tributaries of the river in that district at least, that usually overflow their banks when the annual breakup starts, are "bone-dry" according to a Foxboro resident.

Low lying lands and swampy places are devoid of heavy ice deposits as are usually the case, while the land generally is extremely dry beneath the frost area.

Lack of heavy fall rains and dearth of snow at the beginning of the winter season is given as the reason for the aridity of the earth at present. It is believed that heavy [illegible] absorption of moisture by the ground will alleviate to a large extent the surplus flow of water from the northern areas that are diverted into the Moira River through its tributary streams.

This opinion is shared by City Engineer Charles Mott. "Although I have made no inspection of the ice conditions in the upper stretches of the river, I am given to understand that while deposits are heavy, conditions of the northern land areas are such that much of the spring water will be absorbed by them.

"If such is the case then chances of a flood will be greatly minimized, unless heavy warm rains set in before the ice in the river has an opportunity to break up and flow [illegible] through channels [illegible] being cut in lower icefields."

Believe Me—

I'm even more hard-boiled than the next fellow about movies because I see so many of them, but I witnessed one the other day that made a tremendous impression on me. "Mutiny in the Big House" is the title of this Monogram picture which stars Charles Bickford and Barton MacLane. Call it dynamic, call it thrilling, call it touching drama . . . but anyway you look at it, this is one of the great pictures of the year. I'm proud to present it on our screen . . . and I'm proud to recommend "Mutiny in the Big House" to you. Believe me . . . you'll enjoy it.

WAR BRIEFS

Paris, Feb. 22—(AP)—The army high command's morning communique today said:

"East of the Moselle River an enemy raid was repulsed. Two German non - commissioned officers were taken prisoners by one of our patrols."

Luxembourg, Feb. 22—(CP-Havas)—To meet any possible attempt at invasion, Luxembourg authorities have equipped all frontier bridges with armored steel gates which can be locked instantly to provide long delay for any attacker.

Berlin, Feb. 22—(AP)—The German high command's communique today said:

"In the west, the Air Force scouted in increasing measure over eastern France. Despite enemy defence with pursuit planes, the German scouts suffered no losses.

"An attempt by enemy planes to fly into Germany over the western front failed."

London, Feb. 22—(CP)—Police halted traffic and mobilized ambulances as a precaution today while naval experts were called to deal with a mine which washed up on the beach of a southeast coast town 50 yards from stores and homes.

Madrid, Feb. 22 (AP)—The fishing boat Milin arrived at Madrugada, on Spain's northwest coast, today with 23 survivors of the 4,760-ton Netherlands freighter Tara, which sank off Cape Finisterre, Spain, yesterday after being shelled.

Dispatches from La Coruna quoted the survivors as saying a lifeboat with 12 other crew members was missing.

(Amsterdam dispatches last night reported that the Tara's crew, numbered at 34 men, had been rescued.)

London, Feb. 22 (CP)—The army estimates for 1940 were issued today. Following the procedure for the war outlined Tuesday in a treasury memorandum, they consist of 15 "token" items of 100 pounds each which parliament will be asked to approve.

The number of officers and men of the army establishment, exclusive of those serving in India and Burma, is such "as His Majesty may deem necessary."

Athens, Greece, Feb. 22 (AP)—Compulsory air raid drills were ordered by police today for all inhabitants of the Athens district. They will start Saturday and continue daily for two weeks with two hours devoted to drilling each day.

Thousands of reservists are expected to be called for training this spring. King George has started inspecting army, navy and air corps units.

London, Feb. 22 (CP)—Informed quarters said today there was "reason to believe" that units of the Royal navy had recently been in the vicinity of Petsamo, Finnish Arctic coastal region held by Russian forces.

Diplomatic sources said they had no information, however, to bear out a dispatch to a Stockholm newspaper representing Soviet leaders as warning that interference by the Allies with Russian shipping would result in armed conflict.

Proposes Metal Stamp for Rusty Milk Cans Unfit for Use

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP)—C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying, Ontario Department of Agriculture, today told a deputation from the Western Ontario Cheesemakers' Associaton that there was merit in their request to have an official metal stamp placed on old and rusty milk cans, unfit for further use. The department would consider the question.

The deputation said officials and companies retaining old cans could co-operate in the request.

The deputation was promised the government would continue the issuance of slips on which cheese factory patrons are notified of [illegible] their milk is turned down.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

TRANSPORT WEDGED INTO AN ALLEYWAY

Agitation for the immediate construction of the long proposed esplanade which a number of years ago was proposed to run up the east bank of the river Moira between Bridge Street and the upper bridge was heard this morning as transport drivers were experiencing difficulties in getting their heavily laden truck through a narrow alleyway leading to the rear of a Front Street store. Parked cars on Front Street made it impossible for the driver to get squared around for a straight entrance into the alleyway with the result that the heavy truck became wedged against the side of a building. After manipulating the truck backwards and forwards a few times it was finally squared away and proceeded on to the rear of the store to be unloaded.

RECORD CLAIMED IN WOOD-CUTTING

Woodcutters of Hastings County better look to their laurels with reference to woodcutting says the Canadian Lumberman.

A story coming from the Keene district in Peterborough County is to the effect that Walter McFarlyne and Frank Turner of that district cut two cords of wood in two hours, thus claiming to have broken all records for woodcutting in Eastern Ontario. Many old timers, who know what it is to cut a cord of wood, are shaking their heads and wondering if those two chaps are willing to prove their ability.

OVERNIGHT FORMATION OF ICE DELAYS WORK

Sudden drop in the temperature last night when thermometers registered five above zero, causing one inch of ice to appear in open water, provided an unexpected handicap to Public Works Department workers, employed at cutting the anti-food ice channels in the bay icefield south of the C.P.R. bridge.

Breaking up of the overnight icesurface that formed on open water delayed workmen for some time but by nine o'clock they resumed their cutting of the ice-fied proper.

Thus far no slush ice has been encountered, City Engineer Mott said today providing unforeseen incidents did not occur.

ONE TREE CONTAINS 7,787 FT. OF TIMBER

One of the biggest white pine trees ever cut in the Algonquin Park was felled recently on J. S. L. McRae's limit on the north branch of the Petawawa River. The tree stood 116 fee tin height and contained 7,787 feet of timber, according to the Canadian Lumberman.

The huge pine produced six 16 foot logs. The first had a diameter of 50 inches and contained 3,116 feet; the second measured 45 inches across and had 1,681 feet. Diameters of the other four logs were 41, 38, 36 and 25 inches and the number of feet in each varied from 1,369 to 441. Twenty feet was cut off the top of hte tree before it was cut up into logs.

AT THE McCARTHY

"FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS AT HOME"

The delighted enthusiasm which greeted "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew", Columbia's tenderly human screen version of Margaret Sidney's beloved juvenile classics, made a sequel almost inevitable. And the sequel "Five Little Peppers At Home", now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, has been hailed as even finer and more charming than its predecessor.

The new film, with Edith Fellows again playing the role of Polly, 'little mother' of the Pepper family, brings the same cast to the screen, with Dorothy Peterson playing Mrs. Pepper, who has to work in order to keep her home going; with Clarence Kolb as the chochety, lovable millionaire, and Ronald Sinclair as his grandson who finds with the little Peppers the warmth and companionship he had never known before. Dorothy Ann Seese, the winsome little four-year-old Phronsie is again an important member of the cast, and other little Peppers are played by Charles Peck, Tommy Bond and Bobby Larson.

"Five Little Peppers at Home" takes up where the first of the series left off. The Pepper family is living with Mr. King, the millionaire, in his big house on the hill. Rescued at last from the buffetings of fate, the carefree, courageous crew are suddenly tossed back again into domestic difficulty when Mr. King's financial activities fail, and his health goes bad as well.

Back to their humble cottage go the Peppers, this time with Mr. King, Jasper and the King butler to both help and complicate matters. Mr. King, now an invalid, is taken in charge by Polly, while Mrs. Pepper resumes work in the factory. The Peppers and their friends are daily faced with one problem after another, but meet each new difficulty with brave hearts. It is not until they one day picnic at the abandoned copper mine in which Polly and Mr. King are partners that affairs reach an extreme stage. The little Peppers, wandering into the mine, become imprisoned by a cave-in. Their danger is great, but they are safely rescued . . . not alone from this unaccustomed peril but from the poverty which had been their constant companion, for the cave-in uncovers a long-lost lode of rich copper!

Too much cannot be said for the direction of Charles Barton, who wielded the megaphone on the first of the series as well. Barton and his splendid cast bring to glowing life the lovable, delightful little Peppers whose bright spirits have captured the hearts of generations.

"The Stranger From Texas."

In addition to "Five Little Peppers At Home", the McCarthy Theatre proudly presents one of the best liked western stars, Charles Starrett, in an action-crammed musical western "The Stranger From Texas" and for swel lentertainment you'll enjoy every minute that both these hits are flashed on the screen. Episode 12 of "Kit Carson" serial completes the above show and is the most exciting chapter so far.

SYMPATHY STRIKE MAY BE CALLED

Milk, Bread and General Truck Drivers Asked to Join Coal Strike

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)—The Toronto and district coal strike entered its fourth day today with the 1,200 strikers passing a resolution asking the joint teamsters council to call out milk, bread and general truck drivers in a sympathy strike. The council immediately called a meeting to consider the request.

Further, the strikers asked the haisting engineers' union for a sympathy walkout by its 300 members who operate cranes in the Cherry Street coal dockyards. They also decided to contact railway unions to ask that no more coal be brought in Toronto yards until the strike is settled.

Hope for a Wednesday settlement of the strike ended last night when the largest coal dealers, banded together in the fuel protection and fuel dock associations, turned down a conciliation board proposal for a modified closed shop after it had been accepted by the men and the smaller dealers in the Toronto retail fuel dealers association.

BRITAIN RELEASES VAST STORES OF AID FOR FINNS

Late news on Wednesday informed the British public of the release of vast quantities of military supplies to Finland, including 144 war planes. The list is a substantial one and covers a wide range of forms of aid which the Finns evidently sorely need.

One point of interest to the British - speaking world and the other nations was the report that a large proportion of these military supplies has already arrived in the republic and that the rest of the help is going forward quickly.

Thousands of men and women have registered in England volunteering their service for Finland.

Britain has allowed recruiting and the export of the war aid for the Finnish people.

Aid received at this time will play no small part in the struggle in the Karelian Isthmus, in the opinion of observers.

Ten thousand Hungarians are ready to leave to join the Finnish army, according to word from Paris.

In the weeks of the struggle reports have been heard of volunteers from various countries fighting by the side of the Finns.

Finland has attracted the admiration of the world in her struggle.

BRITISH PEOPLE GRIM IN RESOLVE FOR VICTORY

General Draper brings back from Great Britain a firsthand knowledge of conditions. Arriving in New York he spoke of the grim determination of the people of Britain in the face of repeated threats of a totalitarian war. "Their determination to win is manifest in their very bearing. I felt that determination and fortitude wherever I travelled," he said.

General Draper found everywhere this determination to win. There is no thought of peace without victory. All groups are satisfied with the way the war is being conducted by the Allies and are making their separate contributions cheerfully and confidently, enduring inconveniences and discomforts with the knowledge that they are necessary.

Britain impressed the General with a greater respect than ever for the staunch British qualities which enable the nation to rise united to meet an emergency.

This opinion substantiates what has been said by British public men and French leaders that the war must come by victory over these, Hitler, Hitlerism and Nazism.

General Draper saw in action what the British people are enduring in the way of discomforts and sacrifices to end this disaster which has fallen on man through the destructive spirit manifested in the rise of Hitlerism. What these discomforts mean may be realized but not in their fulness by Canadians who are so far from the scene and theatre of war. Opinions from the British Isles are very valuable to Canadians.

A CAP WITH A STORY

A knitted cap that failed to reach its destination in the First Great War is now on its way from Belleville to the Second Great War. This cap is one of the many romances in so great an institution as the Red Cross. As the cap which was offered for service in the period ending in 1918 was sent to a prisoner of war who had been returned, it might be expected that it would have suffered afterwards from age. But moth and decay did not reach it thanks to a cedar chest used by the original donor to whom it had been returned.

The old saying has proven true—save a thing for seven years and you will find some use for it. Only in this case the article was saved for three times seven years and still the adage proves true.

There have been many changes of dress from the war days in 1918 but a knitted cap comes in handy for it has the privilege in war-time of being superior to fashion. It brings comfort and strangely enough has not passed out of style. In the years since 1918 styles have been gaining in common-sense in some respects and today we see very sane headgear worn by the children in winter.

It was a very thoughtful act on the part of the knitter of this cap almost a quarter of a century ago to think of its perennial value and make the contribution for a second time. This time it will reach its destination, that is clear, and some soldier will be grateful.

FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY IN CANADA

A look at the highways in any season shows the immense development of the motor industry. Everyone knows this but few have the concrete figures at hand.

The story of the motorcar is told in some preliminary facts and figures on the automobile industry for 1939 which have been collected by the Canadian Automotive Chamber of Commerce. What these show is the proof of the gigantic proportion of this industry. So great an industry affects every inhabitant of Canada for it is a great economic factor in the development of the nation.

The salaries and wages paid in Canada by the three largest automobile manufacturers totalled last year $22,115,961. Then there is the approximate estimate of $20,000,000 in wages and salaries paid by 240 suppliers of parts and materials. The industry paid duty and import taxes of $3,437,626 and federal income taxes of $1,203,905.

Transportation companies were paid nearly four and three quarter million dollars by automobile manufacturers.

The biggest item was the amount of purchases of materials and parts by the manufacturers, nearly $55,000,000 being expended in Canada for this purpose.

There were employed by manufacturers monthly an average of 13,968 persons and by parts manufacturing plants 15,243.

In Canada last year there were produced 155,316 passenger cars and trucks, a decrease of 6.5 per cent from the year 1938. Of the production in Canada, 99,195 were produced for sale in Canada and 56,121 for export. Imports of American-made motor vehicles imported into Canada was 18,269; which was an increase of 21 per cent.

The fact that in Canada there were 1.188,493 passenger cars registered in 1939 of which nearly 600,000 were in Ontario, and that there were 242,211 commercial vehicles in the Dominion shows how far this country has gone towards motorization.

When one considers the numbers of men employed in service stations, gayages and in some many branches of the industry not associated with manufacturing, one comes to realize how fast the nation has become motorized and how this industry is moulding civilization. So many motor vehicles mean many new services and savings which the earlier age did not know.

A Government engineer from Ottawa has arrived here in response to a request from the City Council and was in consultation with engineers representing the C.P.R. and C.N.R. also the city officials with reference to the condition of the river. These engineers will endeavour to suggest some scheme whereby flood may be averted. Examination revealed the fact that there is scarcely any water in the river between the railway bridges, south Front Street, and the upper bridge. This is owing to the fact that the river is nearly frozen solid from bank to bank.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

Recent announcements from Berlin, coupled with the performance of German submarines confirms the expectation that the Nazis will use submarine warfare to the utmost possible against Allied Ships and the ships of neutral countries frequenting Allied ports.

It still is difficult to forecast the course of German campaigns on land but on the sea the course becomes clear.

This is in accord with one of the lessons drawn from the First Great War, when many authorities agreed, Germany might have succeeded with unrestricted submarine warfare had it been started earlier and carried on without interruption.

The submarine activity also fits in with the German plan of applying pressure to the small neutral states in order to make them economic satellites of the Reich. Every neutral ship sunk makes trade relations with Great Britain look more precarious to the neutrals and makes trade with Germany appear a little more desirable.

The United States Neutrality Law is rather a convenience for the Germans in one respect, however much it may injure them in others. American ships are prohibited from entering the war zone and thus one big neutral wartime power is not likely to be directly affected by the submarines.

During the last war it was the sinking of American ships which did most to bring the United States into the war. In the present conflict Germany would probably treat neutral ships with more respect if the United States were likely to be offended. As it is, however, the neutrals which are hurt by submarine sinkings are small and unable to retaliate.

Nobody Wants War Business

Neither industry nor investors are eager for war business. Despite the great profits aviation companies will have, their problem will be to get an adequate amount of capital to take care of the business. In a recent address, the head of the National Association of Manufacturers said: "American industry hates war". And the head of the Du Pont company, the concern which many people look upon as the leading munitions company, makes the following statement in a report to his stockholders for 1939: "It is the firm conviction of your management that war is an unmitigated evil, and that the present state of world affairs, in the long run, will be harmful to your company and to the whole of industrial life. For your company, as for all humanity, nothing could be more desired than a prompt, constructive settlement of the current wars on a basis giving reasonable assurance of permanent peace.—Chicago Tribune.

Letters to the Editor

THE UNION JACK

Belleville, Ont. Feb. 19, 1940

The Editor, Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville.

Dear Sir:

With your kind permission I should like to say something regarding "Canadian Citizen's" reply to "Yachtsman" regarding flag etiquette.

If, as this citizen says, the Union Jack is not the flag of Canada, then we are in the unfortunate position of being a country without a flag.

However, to come right down to brass tacks, please note, Mr. "Canadian Citizen" that there is but one national flag of Canada and that is the Union Jack, the flag of unity with its cross of St. George, its cross of St. Andrew and its cross of St. Patrick.

The flag of Canada stands for a great host of memories. It makes us think of this country of ours when its vast forests and waterways were inhabited solely by Indians and wild animals. It makes us think of the whole story of Great Britain, of Wolfe, of the men who made the Dominion, of our brave soldiers who have gone across the seas. We see in imagination the hardy explorers penetrating the northern wastes, bringing in their tribute of rich furs and precious minerals. The settler follows in due course, and scattered homesteads dot the banks of rivers. Then the railway-builder spins his magic web across the country, and the fruit - grower spreads his carpet of blossom through the fields, the manufacturer starts his busy fires, and lo! a nation is born. And this nation is woven with the fibres of those early settlers from the British Isles.

Unfortunately, far too many Canadians are ignorant of or indifferent to the proper use of flags. For instance, many people believe that there is a Canadian national flag distinct from the Union Jack. The one to which I refer is the Red Ensign, with the Union Jack quartered in the upper left-hand corner and the Canadian Coat of Arms in the fly. It is absolutely incorrect to say that this is the national flag of Canada. As a matter of fact the Red Ensign is a naval flag, applying to the merchant marine and should not be flown on land at all. In 1890, at the request of the Canadian Government the Admiralty issued a warrant authorizing "the Red Ensign of Her Majesty's Fleet with the Canadian Coat of Arms in the flag, to be used on board vessels registered in the Dominion."

The Union Jack is the proper flag to be used in Canada by private as well as by official persons on all general occasions. It is incongruous to see the Red Ensign of the merchant marine flying on public buildings and flagstaffs, just as it would be if the White Ensign of the Royal Navy, the Blue Ensign of the R.N.R., the King's own Royal Standard or the Governor-General's personal flag were flown in improper places.

I'm afraid this is going to quite some length, Mr. Editor, but if you think it would be in the public interest here are some rules for honoring the flag:

1. The flag should not be hoisted before sunrise, nor allowed to remain up after sunset.
2. In hoisting the flag, the broad white stripe in the cross of St. Andrew should be next the masthead; if reversed, it is an indication of distress.
3. It should never be used as a cover for table, box or desk, and nothing should be placed upon it.
4. When the Union Flag and other flags are displayed together, as in street decorations, the Union Flag should fly to the north on streets running east and west and to the east on streets running north and south.
5. It should always be carried upright and never allowed to touch the ground.
6. When being placed at halfmast, the flag should first be raised to the masthead and then lowered.
7. For indoor decoration, the flag may be caught up in many artistic fashions and used with bunting, garlands and so forth, but it should never be below a person sitting.
8. When the flag is used at the unveiling of a statue or tablet, it should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be raised and allowed to wave, forming a feature of the ceremony.
9. When troops with uncased colors are passing, spectators should stand at attention, and all boys and men should raise their hats.
10. On the sea the striking of a flag signifies surrender.
11. If the flag of one country is placed over that of another, it denotes the victory of the former. Formerly, the victor would trail his enemy's flag in the water.
12. In peace time the flag of a friendly nation should never be placed over that of another. If it were done by mistake, an apology would have to be made.
13. Each national flag must be flown from its own flagstaff.
14. A flag is "dipped" to show respect. Ships at sea salute each other by running the flag quickly down from the masthead and as quickly running it up again. Ashore, troops parading before a Sovereign lower the regimental flags as they salute.

To make doubly sure of our ground we checked it all up in the encyclopedia (a Canadian one) so further argument by "Canadian Citizen" or anyone else will be quite useless.

We've got to take our hats off to our neighbors to the south—they certainly have a passionate love for their "Old Glory" and they know how to respect it.

Thank you for your valued space, Mr. Editor, and in closing let me say with the poet:

"Haul down the flag—the evening shadows fall—
And reverently we'll hoist it in the morn.
The flag of flags we honor most of all
Is that beneath which we were born."

Yours truly,

LOYALTY.

In reply to Canadian Citizen:
February 20, 1940.

Editor Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville.

Dear Sir:

On reading Yachtsman's letter it is clear he knows how the flag of the British Empire should be flown. Therefore, as we are a part of the British Empire, why should we not use this flag etiquette as you call it?

If our Boy Scouts and our Girl Guides are taught how to fly our flag; if our sailors soldiers and air force are fighting for our King, our Empire and our flag, then why, Oh why as Canadian citizens should we not fly it and be proud to fly it as it should be flown.

As regards getting permission from the English House of Parliament, is it not the privilege of every country in our vast Empire to fly our flag, the Union Jack? Thus comes the quotation: "The sun never sets on the Union Jack."

Your sincerely,
Canadian Girl Guide.

GOD'S DUMB CREATURES

Yes Mr. Editor

It is very distressing to know the dear little sparrows are dying from cold and hunger and especially when we know they are the only birds that stay with us. They thereby prove to be the gamest of all birds, although so small. Mr. Bishop sends me seeds by the bagfull and I throw them out by the quart twice daily for them.

Again a word for the dog and cat. Since the advent of the motor car and truck the numerous horse and cow stables are gone. These supplied lots of mice and rats for the cats. Again, since the garbage collection all the leftovers from the table which the house lady or the maid used to throw out the back door, now go into the garbage can. Formerly the dog got them and the consequence was the dog got lots of fresh air and exercise and a great variety of food and a sick dog and cat were almost unknown in those days. Today they are numerous. Today, they get nothing to eat save what is handed to them directly and that is entirely insufficient, also lacking in the right kind of food, meat and small bones. They being carnivorous animals, their natural food is meat and bones. The butcher shops give me bagfulls of these scraps which I cook up three times a week and throw out for them, remembering always what the Good Book says: "He that loveth God's dumb creatures is not far from the Kingdom."

Yours truly,
D. H. Ackerill, V.S.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

The Emotions Can Cause Organic Disease

No one now questions the fact that the emotions can cause various symptoms in the body—rapid heart beat, breathlessness, rise in the blood pressure, pain in stomach, flow of urine. We speak of these symptoms as a functional disturbance, a disturbance in the use or function of an organ.

A functional ailment is one in which there is no change in the structure of an organ but a change in the way or the rate at which the organ works. An organic ailment is where there is a change in the structure of the organ.

That the emotions can not only cause these "functional" ailments but also true, real, or "organic" disease was pointed out some years ago by Prof. W. B. Cannon, Harvard. Recently, Dr. Walter Langdon-Brown, St. Bartholomew Hospital, London, in The Practitioner, states:

"The centres for emotional expression in the brain may be so acted on as to cause them to disturb the normal behaviour of that part of the nervous system not under the control of the will, such as digestion. This disturbance may be local due to allergy, but also caused by the habits and temperamental outlook of the patient. These disturbances may be so prolonged by an anxiety state that the function ((use) and finally the structure of the affected organs may be permanently altered."

Thus emotional states may be important factors in causing organic disease.

"Tightening or partial closing of the vessels supplying blood to the heart is a good example of a condition which may be brought on by the emotions leading to functional disturbances which end in a change in the structure of the heart, a train of events more common than is always recognized."

A "broken" heart causing death may truly be due to prolonged anxiety and grief.

Other examples of the effect of the emotions on the various organs are loss of tone in the muscles of the intenstine which make it look like an inner tube of a tire—bulging in some places and of normal size in others. Peptic ulcer and colitis are also outstanding examples of change of structure due to emotional disturbances.

'Many Americans Will Smile Sardonically' at This Shout From Berlin Over Violation

There is, undeniably, a good deal of grim humour in the wild cries of anger, pain and outraged moral virtue being sent up from Berlin over the Altmark case. The nation whose governors have made brute force their deity, which has torn up one treaty obligation after another with no weak regard for law or decency, which butchered the Polish civil population without compunction, which has torpedoed crowded liners without warning, which has strewn the murderous and illegal contact mine in the shipping lines without thought of the rights either of humanity or of neutrality and which has never admitted that any feeble considerations of "pluto-democratic" ethics could stand in the way of its sacred ambitions, has had the tables turned upon it, in a relatively mild way. And it suddenly shrieks to high heaven over this "criminal" inversion of the natural order. The British have used a little brute force on their own account. The admiralty has written its own high-handed interpretation of international law and backed it up with artillery. That will never do. It is only the Germans who are supposed to be clever enough to rise superior to the limitations of international morality.

That the interpretation was brusque and high-handed there seems to be no doubt. When H.M.S. Cossack steamed into Josingfjord, boarded the Altmark and rescued her prisoners by force, she was committing an act of war and therefore a flat violation of Norwegian neutrality. It was a violation, however, by no means without the justification of reprisal. The Altmark no less clearly violated Norway's neutrality to begin with by bringing prisoners of war into territorial waters and concealing them from the Norwegian authorities. That there is no misunderstanding about this principle seems clear from the earlier case of the City of Flint. When the German prize crew first brought that vessel, also carrying British prisoners of war, into Norwegian waters the prisoners were duly presented and released.

If the facts are as stated, it would also seems that the Norwegian authorities failed in their duty of defending their neutrality when they overlooked the presence of the Altmark's prisoners. Perhaps it would have been better if Great Britain had left the German violation and the Norwegian negligence to diplomatic protest and litigation. But if she abruptly acted instead; if she sent in her ships and took off her men, it would seem under the circumstances—especially considering the ill-treatment which the prisoners are alleged to have been suffering—scarcely a heinous crime. It was hardly on a par, for example, with spreading contact mines in the paths of neutral shipping.

Norway, of course, is protesting with all her power—with one eye on Germany, she has to. The Germans, of course, are protesting with all their power, hurling threats at the Norwegians and imprecations at the "law-breaking" British. But one really doubts that any one outside of Germany is going to be profoundly shocked, or that Norway is going to be forced into the war as a result. Perhaps the Cossack's exploit was not exactly a help toward the ultimate rule of international law; but having granted that, many Americans, listening to the German outcries and remembering how little help that nation has given toward the reign of law, may not repress a sardonic smile.—N.Y. Herald Tribune.

Roast Goose Pinch-Hits On Paris Meatless Days

Paris.—Monday and Friday are meatless days in France, and Tuesday is beefless, but even with these provisions in effect there are some surprises.

An illustration of "food rationing" after five months of war was offered on a visit to the Brasserie Lipp on the Boulevard St. Germain. It was Monday and an American war correspondent was in Lipp's with some friends and they decided because of meatless day to order the house's famous choucroute garnie, or sauerkraut with trimmings, the trimmings being usually a slice of ham, a frankfurter and a pork chop. The waiter noted down the choucroute, but leaning over confidently explained that the diners would have to accept a slice of goose instead of the meat garniture, since it was a meatless day.

Not So Bad

"So, we have to submit to goose, because we can't have meat," exclaimed the American. "Well, isn't that just too bad? France is certainly in a bad way. In Germany a bit of roast goose would cause a riot."

The choucroute came and along with the potatoes was an ample second joint of goose, which was consumed with mugs of finest Alsatian beer. That day Lipps had other delicacies in a menu as long as one's arm. The coffee was accompanied by a bowl of sugar. Bread was piled up in golden sections in a basket on the table, and butter, the unsalted kind like they have in France, was there in big pats.

So far there is no evidence of any food shortage in Paris. Tuesday is beefless, although pork, ham and lamb, together with all kinds of fowl, are available. Friday, like Monday is meatless, but France's hardy fishermen apparently have not been stopped by submarines or magnetic mines, for the markets are piled high with fresh fish on Fridays.

Coffee Sometimes Scarce

Coffee is about the only product which has been rationed out of groceries so far, and the recent capture of a cargo of 4,000 tons of coffee intended for Germany has started the dark aromatic bean back into the stores. There are large supplies of coffee in the cafes and restaurants. And there is sugar, and either hot milk or real cream for coffee if desired. The Cafe de la Paix still serves its big cups of hot cholocate. Chocolate in bars or sweets jam the shelves in the candy and pastry shops.

A look at the historic Halles, or central markets, which now operate in daytime instead of at night, is evidence of an ordered and abundant fresh food supply.

Under $1

As a sample menu, there is the daily list offered by an average medium sized restaurant, medium priced, popular, frequented by artists, professional people and soldiers on leave. It is the Restaurant des Beaux Arts, on the rue Bonaparte, just opposite the gates to the Academy of Fine Arts. Rene the chief cuisinier, does not do badly for a wartime menu. This menu is illustrative of thousands throughout France. The meal ranges from 20 to 40 francs (45 to 90 cents) depending on the wine and the extent of the appetite.

Rene's wartime menu begins with oysters and a big bowl of soup. It then offers hors d'oeuvres, including sardines a l'huile, salad of beets, potatoes or green olives, anchovies, sausages, fresh tomatoes, a boiled egg mayonnaise and a few fish dishes, ont the least of which is a mackerel with white wine sauce.

From fish, there is the choice of a cheese omelette, shirred eggs with cream, foie gras truffe de Perigord, tuna a l'huile and a galantine de veau truffee.

Since this is a meatless day menu, there are in the way of entrees, choucroute garnie a l'Alsacienne, Langue de Boeuf sauce piquante, foe de veau a l'anglaise, poulet froid mayonnaise, cote de porc aux epinards, andouillette aux pommes mousseline, jambons cornichons, and cervelle meuniere.

Wide Variety

Which means, translated, that the main plates are sauerkraut with trimmings, no goose but with real frankfurters and ham; beef tongues, calves' liver, cold chicken, pork chop, a sort of cambridge sausage with mashed potatoes, ham and pickles, and a special calves' brain dish.

In the vegetable line the menu offers creamed white beans, mashed potatoes or buttered whole boiled potatoes, green peas, spinach with butter, lettuce and endive salad and beets. The cheeses are from all over Europe. There is a gay Normandy tart, for dessert, followed by a dozen fruits and delicacies, ending in crepe dentelle.

Such is food rationing in war-time France.

Fishing Trawlers Give Nazis Grand Surprise by Using Maching Guns

London, Feb. 22 (CP). — First stories of how Britain's hitherto helpless fishermen are fighting back the Nazi air threat over their trawlers were told last night when it was revealed that fishing craft are being equipped with anti-aircraft weapons.

Four trawlers beat off an enemy plane Monday, and on Tuesday — when Germany claimed mass raids on British North Sea vessels—three more trawlers, all from Grimsby, forced Heinkel bombers to withdraw.

Ted Draper, an ex-army man, last night told of foiling a Nazi attack on the 202-ton trawler Tartan Tuesday.

"A Heinkel bomber approached our stern and gave us a bit of machine-gun fire," Draper said. "I took refuge in the galley, but when the plane had gone I went to our gun and got it ready for action. When the plane returned I let her have a full magazine of ammunition. I could see tracer bullets going straight for the machine but I cannot state whether it was hit.

"When the aeroplane dived over the Tartan a second time she dropped a bomb which exploded in the sea some distance away. After sending out an S.O.S. Skipper C. Basten came up on deck with a rifle and joined in the attack on the raider.

"The machine came down to within fifty feet of the ship, and attacked two other trawlers, the Salacon, 211 tons, and the Silicia, 250 tons. The bomber first attacked the Salacon without doing any damage. It then flew toward the Silicia and was greeted with a burst of gunfire. Foiled by his intended victim, the German returned to the Salacon but the crew had taken cover and although she was subjected to more machine-gun fire nobody was hurt."

Another trawler Tuesday did not come out so well. She returned to an east coast port Wednesday with three of her crew wounded by machine-gun bullets. The captain was hit while on the bridge, and the mate and another man were struck while in the wheelhouse.

The Nazis raked their ship with bullets, dropped an incendiary bomb on deck and put their radio out of action.

Monday's attacks were on four trawlers off the northeast coast of Scotland. One seaman on reaching port Wednesday said the attacking plane was hit by crossfire from the fishing boats.

"I saw bullets strike its starboard wing and tail," the seaman said, "We gave him a souvenir to take home all right."

OBITUARY

SAMUEL JAMES KILPATRICK
(West Huntingdon)

West Huntingdon (Special)—The funeral of the late Samuel J. Kilpatrick which took place on Tuesday, Feb. 20 from his late residence, Ivanhoe, to White Lake United Church was the largest funeral ever witnessed in Huntingdon Township. Relatives and friends, neighbors and members of the Orange Order from near and far gathered in extra large numbers to pay their tribute to the memory of a friend and brother who was held in high esteem by all who knew him. Rev. Samuel Delve, his minister, expressed the thought of each and every one who knew the deceased when he said that "loyalty was his watchword."

The late Mr. Kilpatrick had been entrusted and honored with many public and lodge offices and to all of these he gave of his best. Assisting Mr. Delve with the service were a number of former ministers Rev. J. Lovelace, Rev. H. Lackey, R. E. M. Cooke and Rev. W. Swayne.

Mrs. Ernest Tummon of Tweed gave as a solo George Matheson's hymn "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." The choir under leadership of Mrs. Reg. Haggerty gave an anthem "When the Roll is Called up Yonder," following the usual burial service in White Lake cemetery.

The impressive burial service of the Orange Order was conducted by Mr. Arthur A. Jones of Downey lodge. He was assisted by County Chaplain, Rev. Jas. E. Beckel.

Members of Huntingdon council, Board of Health of Huntingdon officers of L.O.L. Co. Centre Hastings acted as honorary pallbearers. Active pallbearer were Messrs. Henry Wallace, Herb. Tummon, E. Ash, Samuel Twiddie, Goldie McInroy, Joe Wickens.

Flowers were given by sorrowing friends and neighbors and all of the various organizations of which Mr. Kilpatrick was a member.

WAXED PAPER USE

The waxed paper from bread and cereal packets is very useful for putting the polish on the floor. It doesn't absorb—and consequently waste—so much polish as a cloth, and the floor shines far better. After use, the dirty paper can be used for lighting a fire with most excellent and quick-burning results.

Is This the Reason You Are Constipated?

If you're wondering why your bowels don't work right . . . stop and think about what you eat. Bread, meat, eggs and potatoes. All good nourishing foods . . . but lacking in "bulk" after the digestive process. And you need "bulk!" Food that gives the bowels something to work on . . . to help them move.

If it's this lack of "bulk" that's causing your constipation, Kellogg's All-Bran is just what you need. After digestion a soft mass remains which helps your bowels move. In addition, All-Bran gives you Nature's intestinal tonic, vitamin B₁. Eat this tasteful ready-to-eat cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and enjoy happier days. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Can. Sold by every grocer.

Gloster 'Gladiator' Planes for Finland

London, Feb. 22—(CP)— British bombers and fighting planes, among them some Gloster "Gladiator" fighters, one of the latest and best type, already are in Finland to help the Finns against Russian air raiders which have been bombing the country in swarms.

It was disclosed authoritatively tonight that between forty and fifty of the British planes had reached the hard-pressed Finns, and more are on the way, a total of 144 having been released to Finland.

(The Gloster "Gladiator," as described in Jane's authoritative work on world aircraft, is a single-seat, equal-span biplane powered with one Bristol "Mercury IX" nine-cylinder radial air-cooled and supercharged engine. It has two machine-guns mounted in troughs in the sides of the fuselage and two mounted below the lower wing, firing outside the propeller radius. The plane is rated a maximum speed of 250 miles an hour at 15,500 feet, can climb 20,000 feet in nine minutes and has a service ceiling of 32,800 feet. It has full day and night-flying equipment, oxygen equipment and transmitting and receiving radio. Similar planes have been supplied to Scandinavian countries, Belgium, Portugal and other foreign purchasers).

Other British military equipment which has gone to the Finns includes tanks, field guns, machine guns, anti-tank guns, with ammunition, telephones, anti-gas supplies and clothing.

WAR RECORD OF GOV'T PRINCIPAL

Complete Defence

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in his second national broadcast last night offered the government's most complete defence of its record so far and covered practically every aspect of the war administration.

There was little in the speech which has not been made public previously but it probably will serve as a basis for later Liberal efforts to vindicate the Government's war activity.

The Prime Minister said the need of the Allied powers was the basis of Canada's war effort and the situation was much different from 1914.

Details of the government's work since last September were provided as Mr. Mackenzie King recounted how the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan was undertaken, an army division sent overseas, another put in training in Canada and two army co-operation air squadrons organized to work with the divisions.

Work on Home Front Reviewed

Work on the home front was reviewed and he said the interests of the farmer and consumer were being guarded. The Prime Minister again emphasized the necessity of national unity which he said made possible the war effort. The two were inseparable.

Five other Liberal cabinet ministers spoke last night and the Social Credit party made an appeal through Premier Aberhart of Alberta and John Blackmore, leader of the Federal Social Credit group. There were no outstanding Conservative or Co-operative Commonwealth Federation speeches.

Continuing his campaign in western Ontario, Agriculture Minister Gardiner addressed audiences at Kincardine and Chesley and said he did not think Canada could produce enough hogs to fill the contract with Great Britain, calling for 5,600,000 pounds of Wiltshire sides (hams and bacon) weekly.

He urged his audience at Kincardine, mostly comprised of farmers, to produce more hogs.

Answers Criticism

Mr. Gardiner answered criticism over importation of hogs from the United States. He said Canadian farmers can not meet Canada's allotment for Britain. The war comes first and Canadians may have to consume American pork, so long as Canadian bacon is needed overseas.

Admitting it costs two cents a pound more to produce hogs and takes a month longer to finish them in summer time, when they will be most needed as supplies for fighting forces, the Agriculture Minister, said the department will bonus Canadian farmers to that extent.

One reason for sending Canadian bacon to Britain in such quantities is a desire to hold the British market when the war is over. No fixed price has been set by the department for the farmer, because at present the fixed price would have to be less than the packers are now paying.

Not "Time Servers'6"

Had the Liberals been "time servers" and "office seekers" they would have found an excuse to stay in power, Hon. Norman McLarty, Minister of Labor, said at the Simcoe North party nominating convention at Stayner.

The convention chose Duncan Fletcher McCuaig, Barrie solicitor, and Member of the last Parliament to seek re-election.

Mr. McLarty said that if the Liberal Government had been looking for an excuse to remain in office, "we would have done what the Conservative party did in the last war, overstayed our trusteeship."

The Labor Minister noted the unanimity with which Canada entered the war, because, he said, for a quarter of a century the Prime Minister or Justice Minister Lapointe had been cultivating Canadian unity.

"If anything more was needed to indicate unity it was the Quebec election of Oct. 25," said Mr. McLarty.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines, described as "base calumny" Conservative charges that the Liberal Government was not wholehearted in Canada's war effort.

Sign of Weakness

Addressing a meeting of the Peel County Liberal Association at Brampton, Mr. Crerar said that such charges "regardless whether they are made by responsible individuals, are interpreted by neutrals and by the enemy as a sign of weakness."

"I have heard charges that Mr. Mackenzie King is not wholehearted in this war," he said., "I have only this to say. I have never heard any baser calumny uttered in respect to any man in public life in Canada."

The Minister said Canada was fighting for her existence and urged Canadians to co-operate "as never before" to ensure the defeat of Hitlerism.

Newest in Feminine Fashions Presented in Modern Setting

Williams Ladies Wear Opens New Ready-to-Wear Store on Friday—Comfortable Surroundings Permit Customers to Select Purchases in Restful Atmosphere

EXCLUSIVE LINES

Presenting feminine fashions in a distinctive setting; the Williams Ladies' Wear, 267 Front Street, the newest addition to Belleville's business life, will be opened Friday. The store has been remodelled and a feature of its attractiveness is the brilliantly lighted interior where, against a background of deep beige and white, the interesting furnishings and colorful array of coats, suits, frocks, blouses and millinery command admiration.

Open cases of lovely merchandise, alternating with full length and triplicate mirrors, and a conveniently placed office are found in the front of the store. The contrast in the interesting color scheme is provided by the handsome chrome and figured leather chairs throughout. The store is completed with a thoroughly modern millinery department. Here modernistic mirrors, before set-in dressing tables and chrome chairs, give Miladi the opportunity of making a leisurely and comfortable selection of that all-important detail of her costume. Beautiful electrical fixtures are in keeping with the general scheme of things and a delightful touch is the group of wall displays where tiny dolls wearing tinier hats are spotlighted in silhouette effect high over the back arrangements.

Hats Featured

Clever hats blossom like flowers from the wall holders, pert, youthful creations vieing for honors with smart headwear for smart matrons. Four dressing rooms, complete with full length mirror, stand and convenient chair, are placed along the north wall and are the last word in thoughtfulness.

Every effort has been made to carry out the aim of the store, to provide in charming feminine surroundings, a comfortable and restful place for choosing costumes. Believing that it is every woman's privilege to look her best, the management has spared no trouble, and will continue to make every provision, to assist the discriminating customer in her choice of what is most becoming to her requirements and individuality. To carry out their aim, the firm brings the training and experience of ten years proprietorship of a Yonge and Bloor Street shop, Toronto.

Originality is stressed in the store's selection of merchandise and in both millinery and ready to wear most lines will be exclusive with the firm. This will be particularly true of the evening frocks, which in their glassed-in cases, present an alluring picture to the visitor.

Inspection of the styles for the coming season showed prints in gay array, dainty sheers in lovely tones, with coats in sports or dressier type to please every taste. Suits, while still showing a tendency toward man-tailored lines, this year include the softer dressmakers fashions, and with them the daintiest of blouses are also on display.

Williams' Ladies' Wear of which Mr. William Ernst, Toronto, is in charge will tomorrow welcome the attendance of the ladies of Belleville and vicinity to its official opening.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Hope McGinnis, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine Hope, to Robert W. Munro, R.C.A.M.C., son of Mrs. Munro and the late W. F. Munro, of Pembroke, the marriage to take place quietly in March.

Mrs. Raymond Carr of London, Ontario, is visiting her daughters, Misses Florence and Dorothy Carr, and other relatives in the city.

Mr. J. H. Bradden has returned to Toronto, after a month's illness at his home here.

Mr. Nelson Schryver, Alexander Street, has been called to St. Thomas, Ont., owing to the death of his mother, Mrs. J. Schryver. The body will be brought to Belleville on Saturday for burial.

Mrs. Helen Turner, formerly of Belleville, celebrated her one hundredth birthday today at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. E. Leslie Burwell, 1 Pierce Street. New Rochelle, New York.

Mr. Peter Murray on Sunday observed his 83rd birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Ceigler, where an enjoyable celebration had been arranged in his honor. Mr. Murray received gifts and good wishes from many relatives and friends. Enjoying splendid health, he took part in the day's festivities with keen enthusiasm. A delicious dinner was served, the table being centred with a huge birthday cake, attractively decorated. Among those present were Mrs. Kathleen Short, Mr. Alfred Murray, daughter and son of Mr. Murray, Mrs. M. Murray, his daughter-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. S. Turner, Mrs. Colclough, Mrs. Tressie Murray and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Murray, Dale and Kathleen Short. Mr. Raymond Murray of Buffalo, and Messrs. Peter and Harvey Murray of this city, sons of Mr. Murray were unable to be present at the party.

Miss Sarah Knox, Of Stirling, Marks Her 88th Birthday

Stirling, (Special)—Recognized as one of the district's oldest citizens and still enjoying comparative good health, Miss Sarah Knox marked the passing of her 88th birthday on Sunday, February 18th. Messages of good wishes and congratulations reached her quiet home throughout Sunday and the previous day and personal greetings were extended by many friends who called. Miss Knox was born in Rawdon township, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Knox, pioneers of the district in which she has spent her entire life. Observing the progress of the County for within a few years of a complete century, she recalls the days of church services in school buildings and a neighborliness that prompted people to gather up their friends as they passed by on their way to church each Sunday. The quality of people has not changed, she declares but times are different and life changes accordingly.

On Saturday a group of ladies from St. Paul's United Church visited her home to extend their wishes and also presented her with a lovely basket of fruit. Other visitors during the week end included her nephew, Mr. Wilbur Reid of Campbellford.

Enjoying good health Miss Knox continued to do all her regular household duties until two weeks ago and on fine days she is seen taking her regular walk through the village with a step rivalling in activity that of many younger people.

Record-holder as charity organizer, Mrs. Frank Braham of England, who has raised $3,500,000 in the past ten years.

WEDDINGS

EDGAR—DAVIDSON

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the presence of the immediate families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Davidson, Roslin, on Saturday evening, February 17, at eight o'clock, when their daughter, Edna Alberta, became the bride of Charles Lester Edgar, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edgar, Belleville. Rev. H. B. Herrington, Thomasburg, officiated.

The bride looked lovely in a street length dress of dawn blue crepe with navy hat and shoes, and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Miss Mary Davidson was her sister's attendant, wearing a dress of dusk pink crepe, while Mr. Carman Davidson, brother of the bride, supported the groom. Immediately after the ceremony luncheon was served after which the bride and groom left amid showers of confetti and good wishes, for a short honeymoon trip to Kingston, Brockville, and points east. The bride travelled in a smart suit of Bordeaux wine, with black seal jacket. On their return they will reside in Belleville.

TABERNACLE MISSION CIRCLE

Tabernacle Mission Circle met last evening at the home of Mrs. G. F. Lent, Bleecker Ave. Mrs. Sillsbury gave the devotional topic on Democracy and Miss Hazel Denike sang "Land of our Birth". Ruby Moore gave an interesting description of the "Indian Church" from the Study Book. Ethel Horton and Edith Stanton and Clara Mathews gave Watch Tower readings.

Mrs. Lent gave a reading on contrasts in India. Several Indian proverbs and their Canadian equivalents were discussed.

The completed scarves and quilt blocks for the Red Cross were returned.

A contest enjoyed after which lunch was served, and a vote of thanks tendered the hostess for her hospitality.

THE WINTER WIND

From out the trackless waste of sky,
Where dwell the ghosts of former years,
The winter wind comes shrieking by,
At earthly hopes it laughs and jeers;
It seems to boast of death and blight,
Of ice-locked lake and silent stream,
Of shivering trees and snow-crowned height,
Of woods where only frost-flowers gleam.

But hark! I hear a sweeter strain—
The wild wind's voice is softer now—
A song of daisy-sprinkled plain,
Of first, faint flush on maple bough;
The wild-wood flowers awake from dreams,
The grass grows green, the robins sing,
I hear the voice of silver streams
Proclaim the Springtime's blossoming.

TONY

— BY ELIZABETH VERNON —

CHAPTER VI

The long vista of the landing stretched ahead. In the electric light the great vase of hothouse flowers glowed, it seemed with a new brilliance.

Abruptly Alan paused. Smiling, he looked at Hyacinth, holding the sidelong glance of her eyes. "This isn't the way to your room darling," he said.

She rested her hand on his sleeve. How white her hand was, the nails a rosy pink against the black cloth of his dinner jacket. As white as her arm where her sleeve opened at the shoulder.

"No, sweetness," she said, "but I want to be a good hostess and see that you have everything you need."

He made no reply. With a little laugh she broke away from him. She ran towards the door of his room and vanished through it. When he entered, she was standing in the middle of the big room, her finger to her cheek. She had not turned on the light, and neither did he. The firelight shone on the gold of her dress, and gleamed in her hair. Her face was a flower in the dimness. For one moment Alan stood in the doorway. Then he crossed to where she stood.

"Have you got everything you want?" she asked. Dreamily, she gazed round her.

"You know very well that I have not." Roughly, he took her in his arms. He kissed her then as he had not kissed her yet. At last he raised his head.

"Go now, my darling." His voice was low.

"All right. Good night. Sleep well." She kissed him on the lips, laughing a little.

He did not look at her again. He heard the faint sound of her dress as she passed him. Then the light sound of her footsteps retreating. After a moment, he walked to the door. She had turned off the light in the passage. He could hardly see her.

He closed the door. There was a faint scent on the air. It was as if Hyacinth's presence lingered there. "We must be married soon," he thought. "No long engagement."

He lit a cigarette. Absently, he slipped off his shoes. His slippers, he saw, were by his bed. He thrust one foot into a slipper—

He bit back the words that rose to his lips. Stooping quickly, he picked up the slippers. He shook them, and drawing-pins, thorn and holly fell to the carpet. They had he reflected, been very effective. Whoever had put them there—and there wasn't much doubt as to that "who"—could congratulate herself on that. He stood up. He was surprised to find himself so angry. His anger did what his will had been unable quite to do. It drove for the moment the too-lovely image of Hyacinth from his mind. To his thoughts there came instead another picture, very clear—a gold-red head, a small cat-shaped face, long hazel eyes bright with defiance, or strangely aloof. He looked round the room. It appeared to be untouched. His glance fell on the bed. Perfectly neat, that seemed, too—his pajamas laid out correctly, the pillows as smooth as a hillock of snow.

"I wonder—"

He walked over to the bed. A second later he had ripped off the clothes and Tony's trap lay under his eyes.

From the passage outside came a single faint creak—a natural little noise in an old house. But he turned his head at the sound. His lips tightened. In three strides he had crossed the room.

He flung the door open. There, clad in her dressing gown, knelt Tony Querne.

"Yes, I thought so," he said.

She gazed up at him. Her eyes were dark and frightened. His hand closed on her arm as she scrambled to her feet.

"Well, Tony?" Alan, looking down at Tony, smiled a little; not a kind smile. Desperately and in silence she tried to free herself from his grip The sudden swift movement was useless. As he led her into his room he realized her helplessness.

He pushed to the door behind him. In the middle of the room he turned her to face him. She glanced away and her eyes wandered to the big four-poster bed. The mass of thorns, so carefully arranged by her and Jacky, lay exposed now, dark and spiky against the white linen. Alan Fleming had released her arm. He stood between her and the door.

"Well, Tony," he said, "not content with giving trouble to your mother and Hyacinth, you have turned your attention to me." There was an edge in his voice. His eyes, she could feel, were on her, and they wouldn't miss much.

"I'm glad you hurt yourself anyway," she told him.

"Yes, you were quite thorough," he said. "And now you will collect all that mess and put it in that corner. Then you will apologize to me for having put it in my bed."

"I won't!"

"Very well, Tony." He spoke coolly. "Then I shall give you a sound spanking. I will give you till I count ten,' he told her, "in which to make up your mind."

She backed away.

"I won't do it! I won't!"

"—Three—four—five—six — seven—" his count was unhurried. Trembling, she pressed herself back against the wall, as if she might hope to pass through it. Her gaze, dark with fear, was fixed on his.

"—Eight—nine—" he crossed the room to where she stood. He took her by the shoulder.

She twisted round, her hands clasped on his wrist. "I will do it! I promise!" The words came in a terrified little gasp.

He released her. "Very well," he said. "Be quick."

She turned to the bed and seized a spiky mass in her arms. She was not careful, and the thorns scratched her, but she hardly noticed that. Journeying across the room, slight and small in her dressing gown and pajamas, she might have been thought rather a pathetic sight. But Alan did not choose to see her such. Two journeys she made, and flung the stuff down into a corner.

"And now," said Alan Fleming, "you will strip that bed and make it properly."

She pulled back the bedclothes. He stood by the hearth, regarding her while she tucked and smoothed. There was no chance to do the job badly, no chance to do anything except to obey.

Now her task was finished. She turned towards the door. Perhaps, she thought tremulously, he would let her off the final humiliation of an apology.

"Come here, Tony," said that quiet voice. "You have not apologized."

There was a little silence. She did not raise her eyes. A confusion of rage and fear filled her heart, but fear was uppermost.

"I—I—I'm sorry for what I did," she murmured at last.

"Very well."

He crossed to the door and opened it for her. "You have learned a very useful lesson, young woman," he said, "though you may not think."

She stopped to stare up at him. "I hate you! I hate you!" In a second, she had streaked past him. Like a flash she was down the short length of passage. The door closed behind her.

She sat down on the edge of her bed, trembling, and not with the cold of that fireless room. The tears of helpless anger ran down on to the old woolly dressing gown.

"Oh—oh—" no redress. No hope of revenge. She could do nothing to touch Alan Fleming. If she were to do anything, and a dozen schemes of venegance flitted through her thoughts, he would know who had done it, and then—she made a little quick movement. Clasping her knees, she rocked herself to and fro. Oh, the time that must pass before she could become really, unassailably mature. She saw herself a few years hence, a woman of the world, meeting her brother-in-law at a dinner party—being rude to him in the clever, delicate, witty manner which by then she would have learned. No, it was useless. She saw the little smile with which he would regard her—that same smile with which he had said, "Tony and I understand each other, perfectly." No, nothing she could ever do would give her revenge. But vividly she conjured scenes to her mind—a scene in which, mysteriously reduced to abject penury, he was forced to beg his living from her. While she made him apologize humbly for troubling her before she gave him the job of cutting wood for her fires.

Outside, the snow laid soft fingers on the uncurtained windows. Tony's thoughts changed a little. Now she saw herself, helpless from some accident, lying in the snow outside the gates of Holme Dacey and refusing in one last dying gesture to be carried to the warmth and comfort within. That would show him that she wasn't a coward. It would make up for having just now let him see her fear. He had believed that she had no courage; and neither, she reflected, had she. Alan Fleming couldn't know how in the old days one had been so often beaten that terror had gone with one, night and day, and courage had been knocked out of one for ever.

Posing for High Spirits

By HELEN FOLLETT

DO YOU know that posture and spirits have a relationship? Take on the pose and attitude of dejection—caved-in chest, shoulders forward back bent—and before you know it you are as sad looking as a weeping willow and ready for a good cry.

Expand the chest, balance your head, pull yourself up, take springy steps and life is marching. How you look you feel. Every thinking woman should know that.

Look scrubby, feel scrubby. If you are in the dumps, put on your best frock and go places. New scenes, social activity, pleasant companions, make one's beauty banners fly.

One mistake made by many a heavyweight is to lash herself into corsets as small as she can wear them, and have her frocks made skin-tight. She looks then as if she were encased in armour plate; there is no softness or ease of figure. Snugly-fitted garments reveal every curve. Long draperies give an appearance of less tonnage. Full sleeves are a mistake. The girdle should be dispensed with; any cross-line makes the figure appear wider and shorter.

Fabrics should be dark and plain. There's something all wrong about a too-abundant figure in pastel tones. Black is the most slenderizing of all colors. If figured fabrics are worn, the patterns should be small. Stripes, plaids and checks are equally unflattering.

The hat must have dignity. A tiny pill box atop a full, mature face carries an element of the comic, while the same pert lid on a young, oval face is piquant and sassy. Wide coat collars are a mistake because they shorten the neck; the best selection is a narrow band or a V cut. The extremely short skirt ruins what good proportions the large lady may have.

Fuss and decorations are a mistake. If the large woman will think out her dress plans, execute them cleverly, she has just as good a chance of gaining a reputation for good dressing as the slender one. It is a problem, but one that can be solved.

DEANNA DURBIN . . . knows how posture and spirits are associated.

Letters From the Troops

Thomasburg—The following is a letter received by Mrs. Wesley Fox, Thomasburg, Ont., from her son, Pte. Morley Fox, Headquarters Co., H. and P. E. Regiment, in England.

January 26 1940.

Dear Mother:

Just got your letter today and was sure glad to hear from you. How are all the folk back that way? I wrote Jim Arbuckle but have got no answer from him as yet.

Well Mother, it has been quite cold over here but the weather has changed and it is raining out now. I suppose it is quite cold over there and quite a bit of snow.

Mother you tell Harry Cronk that I will write as soon as I can get a chance but for him to go ahead and write as I sure like to get letters.

I wish you would have The Tweed News sent over as it would give me a lot of news.

We got a radio in our room today and it is sure good for we get programs from Canada and it is nice to hear Canadian voices come over it. It cost 11 sh. a month.

Well Mother I wish you would send some pipe tobacco over as it is very dear over here and it costs 25 cents an oz, so you can see what it takes.

Hope you get my letter and picture alright.

How are Mr. and Mrs. M. Cronk and Harry, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Preston and Fred, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr, Mr and Mrs. Jack Ervine and all the rest of the neighbors? Give my love to all.

Well Mother it gets a little lonesome when I get lying around at nights for I get thinking about good old Canada and the people in it for you know it is quite different around here for you can't run into a house here like you can over there but I'm going to take what comes for we know what we are fighting for and one can only do his bit. Well Mother, will close for now, hoping to hear from you soon. Love to all,

Pte. Morley Fox, C. 4095

A RATHER conflicting state of affairs is the presage based on the predominant planetary figures. While there will be much activity, with high-tension initiative and aggressive energies under fine impetus for constructive work, there are minor oppositions or small obstacles with which to cope. The prospects are good for success in major projects if keen mentality is exercised, and backed up by strategy and tack, rather than force.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of satisfactory progress in creative and new channels, with major projects moving under fine energies and a versatile mental impetus. There may be some delays, obstacles and oppositions, but in the long run there should be much accomplishment resulting from sagacious moves, rather than force.

A child born on this day may be excellently endowed with qualities, forces and faculties for success and a productive life. Its mental equipment is of a high order, ingenious and inventive, resourceful and "canny."

Trenton Lodge Exemplifies Rebekah Degree at Belleville

A most enjoyable and profitable evening was spent at Quintena Rebekah Lodge at its regular meeting on Tuesday evening at which Quinte Queen Lodge No. 135 of Trenton, exemplified the Rebekah degree in a most pleasing and impressive manner.

Before closing Lodge a vote of thanks to Quinte Queen was moved by Sister Annie Rose, P.D.D.P. and seconded by Sister Janet Twiddy, P.N.G. Short speeches were given by Sister Nellie Coombes, N.G., of Trenton lodge, and Sister Johnston, their staff captain also by Sister Carlisle, N.G., of Stirling Lodge and by other members of both Belleville and Trenton lodges. There were a number of visitors present from Trenton, Stirling, Napanee, Perth and Alberta. At the close of the lodge, lunch was served after which dancing was enjoyed for a short time.

Another pleasing feature of the evening was the presenting of a gift to Sister Muriel Yorke (Shorey) on the event of her recent marriage. An address was read by Sister Ethel Sandercock, P.N.G., and presentation was made by Sister Marion Kingston.

Donned oilskins and sou'wester, Dr. Nora Acheson, of Alderburgh, Suffolk, has gone out in local lifeboat through stormy seas to a mine-wrecked ship in place of doctor-husband engaged on a case. After five hours' buffeting in gale and driving rain she said: "No, I wasn't sick. It's all in the day's work. I loved it!"

YOUNG CHINESE ENTHRONED

New Delhi, Feb. 22—(CP Reuters)—Behind the great gold and jewel-studded gates of the Potala—most famed of all Tibetan palaces—the six-year-old Ling-Ergh La-Mu-Tan-Chu was enthroned today as the 14th Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of the country at the top of the world.

The child, selected by the portents of Heaven and taken from the humble dwelling of a Chinese peasant in Kokonor was born, it is said, at the exact moment on Dec. 17, 1933, when the 13th Dalai Lama drew his last breath.

Young Man Wants Wife Who Can Bake Well!

"GOOD LOOKS ARE NOT ESSENTIAL" HE SAID

APPARENTLY, the way to a man's heart is still through his stomach. Mrs. E. E. Riesberry, Rapid City, Manitoba, whose photograph is shown at the right, overheard a young man, who was a guest in her home, say, "If I knew a girl who could bake as good pie as Mrs. Riesberry, she would suit me even if she wasn't pretty."

I thought that there must be hundreds of young men thinking along the same lines, and hundreds of Canadian girls who might like a tip or two on how to bake appetizing bread, cakes and pastry. So I asked Mrs. Riesberry to give me her advice.

"Never Skimp on Quality"

Mrs. Riesberry said, "When baking bread, cakes or pastry, the quality of the flour should be your first consideration. I never skimp on quality and that's why I have long been using Robin Hood Flour. This flour is all I could desire for bread and fancy baking. It even makes wonderful Angel Cake. I've won prizes with mine."

Mrs. Riesberry also said that she had proved positively that Robin Hood Flour was more economical: "And, when you can get both quality and economy in the one flour, that's the flour every woman wants!" she added.

Better Baking

Whether you are a young girl learning to bake or an experienced woman like Mrs. Riesberry, Robin Hood should be your flour if you want better-than-usual baking. Ask for Robin Hood next time you order and you'll always be glad you switched to the flour that is milled from washed wheat.

Sincerely, Evangeline

FIVE BEST HUSBANDS

PORCH GUARDS

KITCHEN SHELVES

In deciding the arrangement of kitchen cabinets, home planners should consider the inconvenience to the housewife resulting from pot shelves and cupboards that are too low. High closetlike shelves, with space in which large pans can be hung from the ceiling, will eliminate the necessity of the housewife getting on her knees each time she needs to select a certain pan.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Reid recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Spencer and son.

Mrs. Arthur Phillips entertained Mount Pleasant Woman's Missionary Society at her home for their February meeting. Despite bad roads and cold weather twelve members braved the weather and they were well rewarded as the whole programme was exceptionally good with several new innovations. The service opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver. Mrs. Percy MacMullen read "The Aim and Object of the W.M.S." as a fresh reminder to the membership. Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of the late Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir and Mrs. Frank Smith offered prayer.

The programme was centred on the "temperance theme" with the devotional paper prepared by Miss Annie Richards and read by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. J. E. Beckel led in prayer for the safety of youth. Leaflets entitled "Why Abstain?" with suitable extracts for each month of the year were read by the twelve ladies present. The treasurer reported over nine dollars for January. Three letters of thanks were read. Mrs. Morris Rose and Mrs. Frank Smith were appointed to attend Belleville Presbyterial which convenes in Belleville in March. The Easter thankoffering of W.M.S. and Mission Band will be gathered at the Easter service. Mrs. Roy Thrasher read a leaflet re "Drunken Drivers" and Mrs. Phillips read "The Modern Miracle." Mrs. Kenneth Weaver outlined the Christian Church in India and by use of charts gave the religious, percent of literary, recent growth, etc. Three interesting stories taken from thechapter were read by Miss Eileen MacMullen, Mrs. Cyrus Summers and Mrs. Don Campbell.

"Truly the church in India beckons to us in America and cries 'Come over and help us to present the gospel to the three hundred and fifty-two millions of our countrymen. Help us by your prayers that India may become Christ's and may bring glory and riches into the city of God."

At this point the stewardship secretary read a letter re the allocation and the membership stood and using the special leaflet "The Master's Call to Service," outlining the call, the vision, the command, the response and lastly the dedication of the stewardship of time, self and talents that the Kingdom of Love may come upon earth. Mrs. Morris Rose gave a very inspirational and educative paper on "Temperance and All That it Implies." The offering, amounting to three dollars and forty-nine cents was dedicated and at the close the hostess served delicious refreshments.

A large number of Rawdon folk attended the two political conventions held in Marmora last week.

Mrs. Cyrus Summers opened Young Peoples union on Friday evening and conducted the opening devotional. Mr. Bert Jeffs then took charge and Miss Lois Weaver read the Bible lesson. Mrs. Elwood Johnson outlined the missionary topic and Miss Gladys Summers sang a solo and recitations were given by Misses Lois McAdam and Ruth Rose. Mrs. Kenneth Weaver gave an interesting talk on St. Valentine. Rev. J. E. Beckel conducted his usual discussion period and at the close the convener staged a Bible contest.

The Frankford Mission Circle met in Rose-Lowery Hall for a membership supper on Friday evening. After a very delicious supper Miss Zufelt led in community singing. A hymn was sung followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call was given showing 18 members present. Mrs. Lane gave a few words of welcome to the guests. The treasurer gave her report and a talk on stewardship was given by Mrs. Roy Osterhout. The devotional period was led by Mrs. Chas. Bennett Another hymn was sung and the collection taken. Miss Cooper rendered two very delightful piano solos and Mrs. Coutts gave a chapter of the study book. A short play "Losers Finders," was much enjoyed. A card was read from Mrs. Geo. Montgomery thanking the Circle for the card of sympathy sent her at the time of her sister's death. Mrs. Lane also thanked them for the card sent to the parsonage at the time of Mr. Lane's father's death. Mrs. Dafoe thanked the Circle for the lovely evening and wished them every success in the coming year. A hymn closed the meeting and the rest of the evening was spent in games.

Picton

Picton — The funeral of Mr. Charles Denike, a well known farmer of Cressy, was largely attended at the home on Monday. Mr. Denike was in his 84th year and passed away on Friday very suddenly. For a number of years he had lived alone at his farm home, where his entire life had been spent.

Mr. Norman Whattam of the office staff of the Lake-on-the-Mountain Creameries, is quite ill at his home at South Bay.

Following closing of the Fair grocery on Saturday evening Mr. Tom Perry, a member of the staff, whose marriage to Miss Blanche Lockwood was a recent event, was presented with an occasional chair. The presentation was made by Mr. Azel Guest and Mr. Perry replied thanking the staff for the lovely gift.

Cressy, Point Petre and Greenbush are just emerging from the drifts, piled up by last week's storm. Mailmen were unable to reach these localities all last week, and several cars that attempted to visit these districts had to be abandoned and the difficult trip continued by sleigh. Even then the paths led through fields and the trips were made exciting by deep pitch-holes.

Mrs. George Jones and Mrs. Douglas Wark claimed the lovely favors on Friday evening when Mrs. H. E. LeHeup entertained at a fine table bridge at her home on Mary Street.

Mr. Roscoe McConnell of the Guild restaurant is spending some time in the south.

Two hundred members of the local regiment stationed in the Armouries are leaving Picton on Thursday for further training elsewhere.

Much sewing was accomplished at the regular meeting of the Evening Branch of the Anglican Church, on Monday evening, at the home of Miss Hilda Haddon, Bridge Street. At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments assisted by Mrs. J. Maher, Mrs. D. Wark and Mrs. D. Fournia, Mrs. A. E. Grindrod is opening her home for the next meeting on March 4th.

Mrs. Ralph H. Warren is confined to her home suffering from streptococcus.

Miss Clara Croft is a patient in P.E.C. Hospital following an accident on Sunday, when she broke a bone in her foot while skiing on a local trail.

Mrs. Frank McConnel of Salmon Point, is leaving soon for England to join her husband who is a member of the Hastings and Prince Edward County Regiment.

Mr. Geo. Strawbridge has closed his barber shop on Main Street East and has accepted a position with Mr. Percy Bailey.

Mr. G. M. Hicks is a patient in P.E.C. Hospital following a heart attack last week.

Mountain View

Mountain View — Mr. Elmer Tuft of Zions Hill spent the week-end with his aunt, Mrs. P. B. Hamilton, and also attended the Sunday School and church at Mountain View.

Mrs. T. Byrne, Larry and Sandra of Belleville were week-end guests with Mr. and Mrs. William Burkitt and family. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lauder and Clella of Belleville were Sunday guests at the same home.

On Monday night the Mountain View hockey team played with Rednersville in the Wellington arena. Mountain View were the winners with a 4 to 2 score. It was a stormy night and the attendance was not as large as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. John Black, Murray and Doris, Mr. Charles Sprague, Leland Sprague and Miss Lillian Sprague were supper guests on Tuesday night at the home of Mr. J. G. Sprague.

Miss Madeline McKittrick spent the supper hour on Tuesday night with Miss Muriel Burkitt.

The Mountain View Young People held their meeting on Thursday night in the Sunday School rooms. The meeting was opened by the use of hymn 31 followed by prayer. Mr. William Nightingale read the Scripture lesson. Miss Bernice Minaker read the secretary's report. Business was discussed for a few minutes. It was decided not to have a meeting next week on account of having to play three hockey games. For the next meeting it was decided to invite the M.B.B. Comrades to visit here. The collection was taken up. Mr. Murray Black read the Young People's Paper.

Miss Hazel Minaker, citizenship leader, then took charge and opened this part of the meeting with a song service. Miss Gladys Hickerson read a poem by Edgar A. Guest, "First Name Friends." Miss Madeline McKittrick read from the 10th chapter of "The Transforming Friendship," by Leslie D. Weatherhead, "The friend who draws near is those we befriend." Miss Evelyn Young gave an interesting paper, "Things Money Cannot Buy." This part of the meeting was brought to a close with the singing of "God Save the King," and the Benediction.

Misses Hazel Minaker and Madeline McKittrick were in charge of the games. A heart contest and also a bicycle contest were enjoyed the winners being Mr. Murray Black and Miss Doris Black. Other games played were a needle and thread relay race and musical arms.

Mrs. John Black was a dinner guest on Thursday with Miss Elizabeth Jordon.

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. Harris and pupils also the younger children of the neighborhood enjoyed a Valentine party at the school.

Some from this neighborhood attended the Peterborough and Flyers hockey game in the Belleville arena on Friday night.

Miss Doris Minaker was a supper guest on Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. H. Robinson of Belleville.

Mr. Stirling Stewart has been busy with men and trucks putting in the ice for Mountain View Cheese Factory.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burkitt were supper guests on Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kent.

Miss Hazel Minaker also Miss Doris Minaker of Belleville were week-end guests with Miss Bernice Minaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood were supper guests on Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bovay and boys of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson have their daughter from Guelph visiting them for a time.

Miss Joyce Keeble of Belleville spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Keeble and family.

Mr. Douglas Minaker of Huffs Island spent Sunday at the home of his brother, Mr. Everett Minaker. Mr. Bill Knox of Victoria was a supper guest at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Morley Wood of Centre.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hubbs of Belleville were Sunday afternoon callers with Mr. H. J. Parliament and Mrs. McCutcheon.

Misses Doris and Bernice Minaker were Sunday afternoon callers with Mrs. Douglas Hubbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartford Parliament spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson and family.

The Women's Institute held its regular meeting on Feb. 7th., at the home of Mrs. Thos. Nightingale, Huff's Island, with 21 ladies present. This meeting took the form of a pot luck dinner and quilting. One quilt was quilted and work done on a bolt of cotton for Red Cross purposes, in the form of bandages, several members taking some home to finish. Two bills were voted paid. Miss Frances Wallbridge gave the current events for the month in a very entertaining manner. Everyone enjoyed a delicious dinner, after serving themselves at small tables, and a visit over the serving. Collection was taken up amounting to $1.45.

Senior B. C. I. Cagers Defeat Albert But Albert Juniors Take B. C. I. in Strong Rally

Juniors Will Have to Play Another Game to Decide Group Honors

WON BY ODD POINT

B. C. I. Juniors Fail to Score Single Point in Last Half of Contest

Although Albert College and the Belleville Collegiate Interscholastic basketball team divided a dual bill in the Bay of Quinte group, played at the Albert College yesterday, George Laughlin's senior B.C.I. quintette won the senior group honors with a 24 to 21 win over the Albert seniors. In the junior game, however, Coach Pete Beach's teen-aged kids staged a sensational rally to win over the Church St. "Collegians" and force a fifth and final game for the group honors.

Both games provided some of the season's outstanding basketball thrills, as the winners of each game came from behind to rally and snatch a last minute victory. In the senior game Albert was leading 10-7 at the halfway mark but Argue and Thorne rattled in rapid baskets, as the Collegians scored 17 points in the last period to win 24-21 and be declared Bay of Quinte C.O.S.S.A. senior basketball champions for 1940. In the group series B.C.I. won three games to one.

The nightcap affair, between the two schools' junior squads, provided one of the most startling and unbelievable feats ever registered in the annals of basketball in the CO.S.S.A., when Albert College kids actually kept the B.C.I. kids from scoring a single point in the second half of the game. Trailing 16 to 8 at the middle whistle, Coach Beach's juniors rallied in the second half, scored nine points and checked the Collegiate youngsters so successfully that the Laughlin-coached kids failed to score a single point and the Albert kids won by the odd point of 17 to 16. No records of such a sterling defence has ever been registered in the history of Belleville basketball. Dobbin, Mulvear and Francis led the winners, while Gerow, Parliament and Mott paced the losers, who only scored in the first half.

Flyers Eliminated, Defeated by Queens

Dropping a 23-20 decision to the Queens University intermediates, the R.C.A.F. cagers were eliminated from a potential play-off berth in the district group of the Ontario Basketball Association here last night. The Kingston "Y" now lead the league with the Belleville "Y" quintette in second place.

With the score standing all even at 14-14 when the halfway mark was reached, the Queens "students" forged to the fore, paced by Vivian, Finlay and Monteith to out-score the "airmen" by three points in the last session. Carson, Bailey and Warren carried the Flyers' scoring punch.

The line-ups: Queens—Sheppard 1, Vivian 6, Finlay 6, Potts 2, Montieth 8, Bews, Casselman, total 23 R.C.A.F. "Flyers"—McCann, Warren 4, Hull, Snow 2, Williams 2, Bailey 4, Powers, Verherl, Fallis 2, and Carson 6, total 20.

REG HAMILTON

Toronto Maple Leafs

By Central Press Canadian

A roar from the crowd goes up at the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, any time one of the home players scores—the same as in any other rink in the country—but there's a little extra something in the cheering when the goal comes from the stick of Reg Hamilton on such few occassions as he beats the opposing goalie, something he's done just over half a dozen times in his four-year career. Reg is a rarity in that almost his entire career has been spent in one place, Toronto. He played through the usual midget, bantam, etc., ranks until he reached Marlboro Juniors, whom he helped to a provincial title eight years ago. Two years later he was with St. Michael's college and this time his efforts were further rewarded as the team went through to the Dominion championship. Spent his first pro season acquiring experience at Syracuse. And for the past season he's been a regular Leaf defenceman—as he is this season, although he has seen less action than usual because of the team's system of rotating six players at the two defence posts. Born at Toronto, he'll be 28 this April. Weighs around 190 and can use his weight—and elbows — effectively. He is of the defending defencemen school rather than that which favors rushing, and his scoring output, prior to this season totalled four goals, 18 assists for 22 points. He's spent 129 minutes on penalty benches.

PICTON WINS ROUND OVER WELLINGTON 10-5

Picton Juveniles Now Meet Belleville Kids in O.J.H.A.

Picton, Feb. 22—(Special)— Picton Juveniles are ready for the second round of the O.H.A. Juvenile playdowns, having won the Prince Edward County group championship Thy will meet Belleville in the second round, t is understood here.

Home and home games were played, Picton winning the first, 4-3 and the second at Wellington, 6-2, to win the round, 10-5.

In the final game, Ken and Bob Frederick were outstanding for Picton. Together they were responsible for four goals in the first period and K. Frederick also received credit for an assist when Sargent scored in the same period. Wellington rallied in the second and while holding Picton scoreless, scored two for themselves, Slaven from J. McDonald and one by Vernon McDonald. The only score in the final period was by Sargent. Carmen Wellbanks refereed the game and handed out eight penalties, seven being to Wellington.

FOUR TORONTO RINKS UNBEATEN IN BIG 'SPIEL

Many of the Curlers Have Reached Third Round in Royal York Draw

GRAND AGGREGATE

D. P. J. Kelly Posts Seventh Straight for High Honors in 'Spiel

Toronto, Feb. 22—(CP)— Only four rinks remained unbeaten today among 12 quartets which entered the Ontario Bonspiel Monday. All were members of Toronto curling clubs.

Skips in the charmed circle were D. P. J. Kelly of the Granite Club, H. A. Dickson of High Park and H. H. Chisholm and T S. Graham of the Toronto Curling Club. Kelly, who won the North American Life and Seagram Trophies as well as the grand aggregate last year, posted seven straight victories, while Dickson, Chisholm and Graham have six each. They have yet to play second round games in the Seiberling event.

Kelly's foursome scored three on the last end to overhaul Ken Miles' Toronto High Park four and win 10-9 in the Royal York third round lsat night. Earlier he nosed out I. A. Solomon's strong McIntyre rik 11-10 in the second round of the Seiberling.

Seven other Toronto rinks were among the 16 surviving the Royal York round along with fours skipped by R P. Best of Peterborough, Peter Gilbert of Chatham, H. W. Walker of Chatsworth, A. R. Tarlton of Hamilton and W. H. Keller of Midland.

Gar Redden of London and Alex Hayes of Sarnia were double winners yesterday. Both piloted their rinks to second round victories in the North American Life and Seagram events.

Other Western Ontario skips to win second round games were A. E. Dunker of Kitchener in the North American Life, W. A. Watson of Sarnia in the Royal York and W. J. Wright of London. Winning skips in the Canada Dry first round were E. McIntyre of Guelph, R. J. Green of Agincourt and Charles Barber of Seaforth.

Only Northern Ontario rinks to survive the second rounds yesterday were I. A. Solomon's McIntyre four in the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie, W. J. Card of Chapleau in the North American Life and A. E. Stephenson of New Liskeard in the Seagram, R. L. McIntosh of North Bay, Davie Walker of Fort William and A. W. Lang of Timmins won first round games in the Canada Dry.

W. J. Drysdale of Kingston also won a first round Canada Dry match, defeating Dr. A. W. Irwin of Wingham 9-8.

THREE ROOKIES HELPING HORNETS

Metz, Taylor and Goldup, Property of Leafs, Getting Great Experience

By the Canadian Press

Three rookies, property of Toronto Maple Leafs, can take a good share of the credit if Pittsburgh Hornets reach the International-American Hockey League playoffs. And the Hornets look as though they'll make the grade.

The rookies are Billy Taylor, Don Metz and Hank Goldup, the former a member of Oshawa Generals' Memorial Cup champions last season and the latter two members of Toronto Goodyears, finalists in the Eastern Canada amateur playdowns.

Taylor, Metz and Goldup each scored a goal last night as Hornets tied Syracuse Stars 3-3 to keep their three point lead over the Stars in the western division lead. Meantime, the western leaders, Indianapolis Capitals, bowed 4-2 to Philadelphia Ramblers in the only other game of the night.

Taylor and Goldup helped Metz on Pittsburgh's first goal, Goldup got the second on a penalty shot and Taylor nabbed the third to even the score after Syracuse had taken a 3-2 lead on a pair of goals by Klein and one by Bennett.

Lude Wareing scored two goals for the Ramblers to lead them to their first victory of the season over the Capitals. Hugh Gustafson and Herb Foster netted the others with the Indianapolis goals going to Ronnie Hudson, the league's leading scorer, and Bill Thomson.

Cronin to Rely On Pitching Staff

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 22.—(AP)— Just how far Boston Red Sox get in the 1940 American League Pennant chase, Manager Joe Cronin beleves, depends entirely on the pitching staff.

As for the rest of the lineup, which will include young Dominic DiMaggio, the Red Sox boss and shortstop says it's "all set".

"With fellows like Jimmy Foxx, Bobby Doerr, Ted Williams, Jim Tabor, and Roger Cramer, we have plenty of powers", Cronin explained.

"Everybody said Bill Butland and Herbie Hash of Minneapolis were the best looking pitchers in the minors last year," the Boston Pilot recalled, "and we've got them both. Lefty Grove appears able to go on forever, and we're counting on him again".

The physical qualifications for a challenger for the world's heavyweight boxing championship can be much less than those for service in the Royal Air Force, according to proven statistics. Recently a Labor member in the British House of Parliament enquired as to why Tommy Farr, the 26-year-old Welsh prize fighter, had been released from the Air Service. Sir Kingsley Wood, Air Secretary, soon made the required reply as follows: "This man was found, on medical examination, to be below the required standard." The Labor member was still not convinced that Farr was undernourished and suffering from insomnia, as he insisted Farr must be fit since he "has already arranged for a $90,000 purse to fight for the heavyweight title against Joe Louis, world champion."

"However considerable the qualifications to which the Labor member refers, Farr is still not up to the required standards of the Royal Air Force," came back Sir Kingsley and that seems to settle the argument and prove the physical qualification of the R.A.F. must be exceedingly strenuous.

When the Albert College and Belleville Collegiate cagers divided yesterday's Interscholastic C.O.S.S.A. basketball games, two outstanding features resulted. First the B.C.I. senior squad rallied to beat the Albert seniors 24-21 as they played some fine ball in the last session, headed by Pigden, Vetcher and Thorne. The B.C.I. seniors are now Bay of Quinte titlists and will compete in the C.O.S.S.A. playdowns at Toronto. In the second half the Albert juniors not only scored nine points, but accomplished the incredible feat of keeping the Collegiate kids from scoring a single point. The Albert kids won 17 to 16 and tied up their group schedule. We never remember of a case where any basketball team around these parts was ever completely blanked for a whole period and then to have Pete Beach's kids rally and win, made the accomplishment all the more on the lines of "one for Ripley."

Do you remember when Norway's Sonja Henie won her 10th and last, world figure - skating championship four years ago today? Fresh from her Olympic triumph in Germany, she performed at Paris and outclassed a field of 16 rivals representing nine nations. Present holder of the title is England's Megan Taylor, who defended the crown successfully last February at Prague.

The sponsors of junior hockey in Belleville are right back where they started three years ago and the sooner it is realized the better it will be for all. The foundation for a permanent City Juvenile League was laid this year with four clubs following which one team will compete in the O.J.H.A. The Hume Arena owners, sponsors of hockey in general and the public at large should now realize that the success of the entire puck set-up lies in the fostering of the minors. The reason Oshawa produces so many stars is the fact they operate a strong juvenile league, while down in Kingston three minor leagues are functioning and producing material for the future. All concerned will have to put their shoulder to the current juvenile team and in 1941 elevate minor hockey to greater heights.

Early this season a four-teamed juvenile league was organized in Belleville and after a full schedule of play the loop has arrived at the point where the final game for the league championship is coming up at the Hume Arena tonight, when the Maple Leafs and the Black Hawks clash in a sudden death game commencing at eight. The personnel of these clubs are composed of Belleville boys, all who are anxious to gain recognition and play hockey for Belleville in future years. The support of the fans to encourage these boys will go far towards elevating their spirits and morale.

Did you know that Charley Keller, newest hero of the Yankees, belongs to a select club. He is one of a dozen in world's series history to make a home run, triple, double and single. Charley, against the Reds, had two singles, one double, one triple and three nice home runs.

Well, Promoter Mike Jacobs is a gambler of the first school. Yesterday he announced he would stage a boxing show, between the worn out Max Baer and Tony Galento, at Jersey City late in May. Also Mike is matching Joe Louis and Johnny Paychek in the Gardens on March 29th—but for why. Mebbe Paychek will gamble to be satisfied to stay 15 rounds with the champ, too.

The Air Force cagers passed out of the O.B.A. picture when Queen's edged the "Flyers" out 23 to 20 here last night.....Now the Cole-Wickerson Belleville "Y" squad must beat the Kingston "Y" to finish in the money..... Over eleven thousand fans saw Goodyears beat Varsity 4-0 in a Finnish relief match in Toronto last night....The Comiskey family, whose name has been linked with the Chicago White Sox for over a half century are fighting the bankers to keep their name in the sport for the future.... The big bankers say "baseball is an unsound investment".... We wonder where Charles (Old Roman) Comiskey got his financial start—we believe it was in baseball—as a matter of fact it was in baseball.

ST. CATHARINES DEFEATS SAILORS FINISHING SECOND

Hamilton and St. Kitts Will Meet and Sailors and Goodyears in Semi-Finals

START FRIDAY

Goodyears. Defeat University of Toronto for City Title 4 to 0

(By The Canadian Press)

Position of the four teams in the Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" series was decided last night by St. Catharines' 2-1 victory over Pt. Colborne Sailors. The Saints clinched second place behind the defending champions, Toronto Goodyears. Sailors wound up third with Hamilton fourth, Niagara Falls fifth and Galt last.

In the opening round of the playoffs Friday Toronto will entertain Port Colborne while Hamilton travels to St. Catharines.

The Port-Saints final tussle last night proved a close-checking affair. Reynolds shot the Saints ahead in 10 seconds but five minutes later McKelvie equalized. The count remained level until halfway through the third period when Buell lashed home the winning goal.

Galt threatened to enter the winning column for the first time in 26 games in the game at Hamilton. The luckless tailenders led 3-2 at the end of the first period but finished on the short-end of a 13-7 count. Barlow with five markers was leading marksman of the Hamilton puckmen. McLeod and Conick with two apiece, Walker, Tonn, Dinning, Robertson and Miocinovich were other scorers for the winners. Riley and Elmes got two each for Galt and Fox, Liscombe and Sarkesian one apiece.

In a stiff prep for the first round playoffs Toronto met University of Toronto Intercollegiate seniors for the "city championship."

The O.H.A. champs blanked the Intercollegiate pucksters 4-0. Turney and O'Flaherty each netted a pair of tallies to hand Varsity its first defeat in 18 games this season. More than 11,000 fans saw the game staged primarily to aid the Finnish relief funs.

TWENTY NAMED FOR THE DERBY

Downpour Predicted Before Hopefuls Parade to the Post

Los Angeles, Feb. 22 —(AP)—The sixth edition of the $50,000 added Santa Anita derby drew a brilliant field of three-year-olds and the prospect of rain and a muddy track today.

Turf experts reshuffled their cards as gloomy weather reports predicted a downpour before the colt and filly hopefuls parade to the post around 7.20 p.m. EST.

Eighteen colts and two fillies were named, but it appeared that several short of this field would try for the rich prize in the mile-and-one-eighth feature.

The two fillies, the Foxcatcher Farm's Fairy Chant and Neil S. McCarthy's Augury, carried great favoritism off their past races in off-going.

Prospect of leaden, dripping skies was a hard blow to hopes that the crowd would exceed the 50,000 record for the event.

Coupled in the betting booths were the entries of the Milky Way Farms and McCarthy, Los Angeles attorney. Milky Way had its Galla-hadion, expected to run regardless of track conditions, and either Tough Hombre or Chatted, the later rated better in the mud than Tough Hombre. The Milky Way entry was expected to go postward the betting favorite. Jockey Basil James drew the mount on Gallahadion, and is the leading rider at Santa Anita this season.

Mr. Henry Clark received word from his son, Merrit (Pete) Clarke, Drumheller, that the hotel where he was rooming was destroyed by fire. Fortunately few were in the hotel at the time, although one boarder was burned to death. Pete was absent from the biulding at the time but suffered the loss of his clothes and other personal belongings.

Dennis Elwood, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Elwood of Tweed, was taken to Belleville Hospital on Sunday for observation. It was feared that an operation might be necessary, but latest reports indicate that it will not be required. Unless complications arise he will return to his home in a day or so.

Rev. H. L. Morrison, pastor of Tweed United church, gave an excellent address on Sunday evening in which he paid tribute to Lord Tweedsmuir "a great and good man." The life of Lord Tweedsmuir was traced briefly from his graduation from Oxford University to the time he assumed the heavy responsibility of the King's representative in Canada. All his life has been guided by the ideal of service to which he brought not only his marvellous gift of imagination but his fine executive ability. His last years of service were given to the Empire and to the cause of Democracy during which he showed men they should not be content to serve themselves only.

There are those who believe that Canada is belittled not to have a Canadian as Governor-General; but the speaker expressed the belief that we would have lost the fine ideals which the King's representatives bring to Canada and interpret to us and also miss the opportunity of having Canadian ideals interpreted to the British people by these men as they return to England.

Lord Tweedsmuir continued to urge upon Canadian youth the need to keep their minds bright and keen or other nations would pass us by. Canada has a great future; it is a land of vast resources; but it might easily fail by underrating the necessity of mental toil and application. It is only by men whose intelligence is balanced by character that our problems will be solved.

Allan Mills

Allan's Mills — On Saturday evening friends and neighbors of Mrs. Lillie Anderson gathered at her home in honor of Raymond, who is in R.C.C.S. at Barriefield, Kingston. Rev. FRONT ROAD W.I.

The meeting of Front Road W.I. was opened by the President, Mrs. Connors with a two minutes silence in memory of Lord Tweedsmuir and Mrs. Brown, an old member of our institute. The Ode was then sung very heartily by the members and roll call, "reminiscences of our grandmother days" was well responded to by the members.

It was decided to send knitting to local boys overseas. Mrs. Brown thanked members for flowers and fruit sent to Mr. Brown while in the hospital.

Mrs. Anderson, convener for Historical research, then took charge of the meeting. The Maple Leaf was sung.

Mrs. MacGuire gave a very interesting paper on "Scissors and Buttons. Miss Lenora Haight gave a piano solo in her usual pleasing manner. Mrs. Manore gave a Valentine reading and told of a very interesting display of Valentines in Toronto, some dating as far back as 1806. She also gave a very humorous reading on a man's version of the Women's Institute and a bride's answer ending with "God Bless the woman who gave us the Women's Institute".

Mrs. Archie Greatrix read a paper on ancient farming prepared by Mrs. Arnold Mitchell. Cotton was raised in India 1500 B.C. Bearded wheat was raised in Egypt. The Dutch gave us dairy farming. Vegetable farming was not developed in England until the 17th century. As late as the 19th century farming was mostly done by hand but today it is almost entirely done by machinery. Farming is the back bone of democracy. Mrs. Mitchell desires great credit for her splendid paper.

A solo by Mrs. Parrott was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Anderson gave a very educative and interesting paper on the first plough in Canada.

This was followed by Community singing of "O Canada". Mrs. Anderson thanked all who helped her make the program a success and handed the meeting over to the President, Mrs. Connors.

Mrs. Grills, convener for Red Cross on Second Line, thanked all who helped her in the past month. The meeting was brought to a close by singing "God Save the King".

Mrs. Clazie and her conveners served a very dainty lunch.

A Better Picobac
—AND HERE'S WHY!

That richer, rarer fragrance, that extra satisfying goodness you now find in Picobac is definite proof of the great advances made in the cultivation and curing of good Canadian Burley.

Hats off to the growers of southern Ontario who have produced this finer, milder, richer leaf! And a salute to the Government experts who have ably assisted them in the selection of improved seeds year after year, in the use of better plant foods, in the newer, better cultural methods that have made possible this mellower, tastier Picobac. Try it. Picobac really is better!

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"

"It always was a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke", says Mr. Picobac. "It is that and more than that today."

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

LITTLE DEMAND FOR FARM HELP

Windsor Reports Improvement in Activities of Automobile Industry

Toronto, Feb. 22 —(CP)— Little change in industrial conditions or in the demand for farm help was noted yesterday in the weekly reports to the Labor Department from its employment offices. Windsor reported quite an improvement in activities in the automobile industries. At the end of January there were 20,416 persons on Windsor payrolls, a decrease of 56 from a year ago.

Brantford reported the improved production and staff level in industrial plants, noticeable in recent weeks, was being maintained with higher marks indicated for the near future. Building was "practically at a standstill here."

Hamilton said the situation in the manufacturing industries was "rather discouraging." Two or three firms with war orders are still waiting on materials.

London was a bright spot in the industrial picture with many industries, particularly those in the metal lines, going full blast. Textile and shoe factories here were also busy.

Increasing use of mechanized equipment in northern logging was noted in the North Bay report.

A demand for machinists, difficult to meet, obtains at St. Catharines. The general situation here was encouraging with relief rolls decreased by nearly 1,000 over the same period a year ago.

Stratford manufacturers said "business is not up to expectation. In some cases staffs are being reduced."

At Ingersoll a furnace company reported it had plenty of orders but couldn't get steel for casings.

SWEDEN PROTESTS AERIAL BOMBING

"Sweden never was the object of such serious violation of her neutrality either during the last war or the present one," declared the Conservative newspaper, Svenska Dagbladet.

Steps Taken to Avoid Repetition

"If the bombing was unintentional, steps must be taken to avoid repetition of such mistakes."

No injuries to any of the 3,000 residents of Pajala were reported, but a number of buildings were demolished.

The bombs were believed to have been intended for nearby Finnish territory, but the incident brought predictions that the Swedish "activist" movement for vigorous aid to Finland would gain new impetus.

The newspaper Aftonbladet reported that Admiral Nikolai Kusnetsoff, Soviet naval commissar, flew from Moscow to Murmansk today following reports that British naval vessels were cruising off Finland's arctic shore.

Russian Navy Inspected

The Stockholm paper's dispatch from Moscow said the commissar intended to inspect the Russian Arctic navy, which has been placed in complete war preparedness.

The Kremlin was described as concerned over reports that the British navy might cut off Russo-German trade via Murmansk. Interference or any attempt to sink a Russian merchant ship would bring immediate armed conflict, Soviet leaders were reported as saying.

CANADA PREPARED ERE WAR BEGAN

Speaks Over Radio

Speaking over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Mackenzie King said Dr. Manion had named the issue in this election when he said the government was "responsible for our unpreparedness and our weak war effort.

"He has stated the issue as he sees it," the Prime Minister said. "It is the government's war record. I am quite prepared to accept his challenge.

"Today, Dr. Manion quite fails to distinguish between preparedness, in peace time, for national defence, and preparedness, in peace time, to send forces overseas. He knew the difference, however, when Parliament was in regular session in March, 1939. He knew the difference from March, 1939, to September, 1939, when Parliament met in war session. He knew the difference until an expeditionary force was already on its way overseas.

"He kept silent in peace time because he knew, as everyone listening to me knows, that neither parliament nor the people would have supported expenditures, in peace time, to prepare for active participation by Canada in a European war.

"It is perfectly true that we did not, in times of peace, budget for times of war. If we had, our measures would not have received the support of parliament. By preparedness in peace time, the present government always meant, and always said it meant, preparedness to meet the possibility of attacks upon Canada in the event of war.

"The government repeatedly told parliament that our peace time military expenditures were exclusively for the defence of Canada."

The Prime Minister outlined in detail the government's war effort and what had been accomplished in less than six months of hostilities. This included sending one division overseas, with another division in training; completion of plans for a huge British Commonwealth Air Training Plan in Canada; arming of more than 85,000 men for the three services and maintenance of a full share of the defence and convoy work on the Atlantic.

May Send Second Division

Concerning the second division, the Prime Minister said: "Meanwhile the training of the second division is proceeding rapidly and the decision has been reached to despatch it overseas at an appropriate time."

An army co-operation squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force has completed its training in Canada and "it will very soon be joining the first division overseas;" a second air squadron to co-operate with the second division is in training.

Unlike the situation in 1914, Canada entered the present conflict with small but definite establishments of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force. The part played by the navy so far "has received the highest praise of the Allied powers," the Prime Minister said.

Today there are 70,000 men under arms in the Canadian Active Service force, 9,000 in the air force and 6,000 in the navy.

"These numbers will be increased by tens of thousands of young Canadians as the air training plan develops and men continue to be recruited for other services," the Prime Minister said.

Work of Supply Board

On the economic front the Prime Minister discussed work of the War Supply Board which had let contracts amounting to $110,000,000 on a basis of no patronage or profiteering; the War Time Prices and Trade Board which is devoted to preventing undue rise in the cost of essentials, and organization of the agriculture department to adapt farming to war needs.

In this connection the Prime Minister said of the farmer—"We do not propose, if we can avoid it, that he should lose the fruit of his labors or find himself, in peace time, once again the victim of a depression which he did nothing to create."

The government had maintained national unity prior to and at the moment of the declaration of war, Mr. Mackenzie King said. "The war effort was made possible by the unity thus achieved. Never forget the two are inseparable," he added.

War Effort Praised

"This is the record which the leader of the opposition says constitutes the issue in the present election. He appeals to you to defeat the government because of the inefficiency of its war effort.

"I maintain that, if ever a government was entitled to the continued confidence of the people because of the manner in which, at a time of war, it had administered a great national trust, the present government merits that confidence.

"At all events, it is for you to judge. It is your interests and your future that today are being weighed in the political balance.

"My colleagues and I are quite prepared to be judged on our record by the people of this country. Happily, it is to your judgment that we make our appeal. This election will determine the representation in the parliament of Canada for the next five years. It affords you a full and free opportunity to decide what is best for yourselves."

HENRY CHARGES EXTRAVAGANCE

Mr. Henry charged debt service charges were at their highest point; that aggressive doctors in the Health Department and ambitious engineers in the Highways Department are responsible for Ontario's "uncurbed expenditures."

Prelude To Spending Spree.

He said he sympathized with Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten and Health Minister Harold Kirby in that they both had officials "who love to promote the spending of money." Noting a curtailment in highway operations for the next fiscal year, he commented:

"That's probably a prelude to a spending spree ahead of the election that will likely come in 1941."

Mr. Henry said he felt sorry for Premier Hepburn delivering the budget address because in an atmosphere of gloom over finances, the premier was obviously unhappy. The budget with its $5,000,000 tax boost and its prophecy of a surplus, however, was supposed by the premier to tell the House things wouldn't be as bad next year.

Challenging Opposition

But said Mr. Henry, every government speaker was challenging the opposition to say how expenditures could be cut. It was an admission of the government's loss of control over the spending machine it had begotten.

There was cross fire between Mr. Henry, Premier Hepburn and Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon over the number of men customarily employed by Ontario highways in election years. The exchange went back to 1923 before Mr. Henry resumed his main theme.

Mr. Henry said that Mr. Hepburn was gradually getting back to the accounting principles followed by his predecessors in office. He now objected to federal grants disbursed through the province being included in the gross total of provincial expenditures.

Every Year an Increase Claim

Every year of the Hepburn administration had seen an increase in expenditure. Government members felt there was no room for retrenchment. New taxes were imposed annually in an effort to balance the budget.

It was a wonder that motor licence fees were not increased this year in order that they might be reduced next year when an election may be anticipated. It was a wonder the Premier didn't reimpose an amusement tax and wipe it out next year.

Mr. Henry urged some government member to go into various government departments and find the totals paid in car allowances. The figures couldn't be obtained by an opposition member. This might answer Liberal criticism about motor car allowances to ministers in the former Conservative government.

Debenture Maturity Responsible

There was commendation due the Department of Municipal Affairs for aiding a municipal debt reduction, said Mr. Henry, but it hardly becomes the government to take credit for all municipal debt cuts when 81 percent of total reduction was caused the normal maturities of debentures.

Premier Hepburn asked if Mr. Henry would concede that many municipalities had been saved from bankruptcy by reason of the provincial government assuming burdens formerly borne by the municipalities. Mr. Henry refused the concession.

Expenditures on highways were being reduced, said Mr. Henry, and why couldn't the other departments follow suit. Probably the truth was highways expenditures were being saved for election year.

There was reason for four lane highways in some places, said the former Premier, but there was no justification for a four lane highway east of Woodstock, nor near the site of an international bridge in eastern Ontario. Highways Minister McQuesten was in the hands of a bunch of ambitious engineers.

"You appointed most of them," said Mr. McQuesten. "And I watched them, too," said Mr. Henry.

Health Minister Harold Kirby was "in the hands of a bunch of aggressive doctors who spend their nights as well as their days devising ways to spend more money," charged Mr. Henry.

Wants to Know Treaty

More information should be given the public immediately concerning the projected treaty with the United States for the St. Lawrence seaway, Mr. Henry urged.

"As far as we know the Premier confesses ignorance," he said.

Premier Hepburn said that Dr. T. H. Hogg, Hydro chairman, was negotiating for Ontario and that as far as he (Premier Hepburn) knew there was not even a tentative agreement. If there were, it would be before the cabinet for ratification. When Hydro engineers had completed their negotiations the cabinet would consider it.

Farmers have as much right to have their profits protected in war production as has industry, said Farsuhar Oliver, (U.F.O. Grey South).

"I'm not prepared in the name of patriotism to see farmers go down lower and lower in the economic scale while industry sits behind double doors protected by the government," he said.

Mr. Oliver deplored the "disparity" between the prices of farm and manufactured goods, the margin was growing wider. Agriculture was compelled to meet the challenge of war time production needs with no national organization to speak for it. On the Federal Bacon Board was a representative of the packers, but no representative of Ontario's hog producers. The chairman came from the Saskatchewan wheat fields.

Accepts Budget

The Hepburn administration had done much for the farmers and he would vote for the budget, said Mr. Oliver. Not until the present government reduce service charges and granted rural services for two customers a while, had Hydro power become generally available in rural Ontario.

Mr. Oliver complained of what he saw as a discrimination against farmers. The recently-applied eight per cent sales tax on domestically-consumed Hydro was a burden to farmers because on the farm much power was used for other than domestic purposes. In the cities the tax did not apply to industrial power, but the power the farmer used in his barn, for grain chopping and for other commercial purposes was taxed.

Hydro Commissioner W. L. Houck said the commission had done everything humanly possible to have Ottawa lift the tax on power used on farms for other than domestic purposes but "we received no consideration at all." The average domestic light bill in the cities was less than $2 a month but of for more than 53,000 average more 110,000 rural users the power bill than $2 a month.

Urged to Exempt Tax

Mr. Houck said the commission had urged Ottawa to exempt from taxation any power in excess of $2 worth that might be used by a rural consumer.

Conscious of what the government had done for them, rural people would not cry "bandit" because the provincial subsidy to municipalities was being reduced half a mill, said Mr. Oliver. They thought that over a period of years the government had done well by them and now that difficult times were here, they were prepared to share the burden.

"The budget is a real effort at honest financing in difficult times," concluded Mr. Oliver.

William J. Stewart (Con. Toronto-Parkdale) censured Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, for uncomplimentary references to Toronto. Toronto, said Mr. Stewart, desired to live as a good neighbor to the rest of Ontario and wanted nothing that wasn't rightfully its due.

The Ontario Liquor Control Board should be renamed the Liquor Sales Promotion Department, said Mr. Stewart. He urged an appeal be provided against the chief commissioner's rulings in respect to the issuance of beverage room authorities. Some judicial body should hear such appeals.

Many Bills Cleared

Speeding toward prorogation, the House cleared away many bills through second readings and saw two of the most contentious measures of the session dropped by the government and referred to a select committee that is to investigate Ontario judicial procedures.

Through committee stage without debate, the measure to increase provincial taxes on corporation incomes had smooth sailing with the only changes being technical ones sponsored by the government. Third reading will be given the measure today.

Bills for abolishing grand juries and reducing the number of jurors from 12 to six were dropped by Attorney-General Conant. Determined opposition had met both bills from Conservative Leader George Drew when they were originally called for second reading.

Mr. Conant, while maintaining that the purpose behind the bills was good, assented to Col. Drew's proposal for committee scrutiny of them.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Mutiny in the Big House"

In 1929, there was a prison riot at the Colorado State Penitentiary which resulted in 12 dead and 11 injured. A priest, Father Patrick O'Neil, was instrumental in breaking up the riot and saving the lives of innocent men. For this deed he received the Carnegie Medal for heroism, and is the only priest to have been awarded the honor.

Monogram's "Mutiny in the Big House", the story of a prison chaplain, is suggested by this incident, and is playing now at the Capitol theatre.

Charles Bickford has the role of Father Joe, the priest, and Barton MacLane is seen as the leader of the prison mob, who instigates the riot.

Screen play for "Mutiny in the Big House" was written by Robert D. Andrews, from the original story by Martin Mooney.

William Nigh was the director.

On the same program another good Western featuring the Three Mesquiteers in "The Cow Boys From Texas".

AT THE BELLE

"Barricade"

Alice Faye and Warner Baxter are co-starred in "Barricade," thrilling 20th Century-Fox drama now on the Belle screen. Miss Faye plays a frightened American girl in China, running away from murder straight into fury and danger in a remote United States consulate beseiged by fierce bandits. Baxter is seen as a ne'er-do-well adventurer, making trouble when he can't find it and finding it this time with Alice! These two live a startling drama with death seemingly but an hour away. Featured in the cast are Charles Winninger as the heroic American consul; Arthur Treacher, Keye Luke and Willie Fung.

"Stop, Look and Love"

If you've ever been in love and tried to dodge the folks, you'll appreciate the problems of the heroine of "Stop, Look and Love," the new 20th Century-Fox picture, announced as the companion feature attraction with Jean Rogers, William Frawley, Robert Kellard, Eddie Collins, Minna Gombell and Cora Sue Collins sharing top billing.

It's the human and hilarious romance which casts Jean as a pretty young thing who has no beaus, all because Mama frightens them all away into matrimony.

And Mama isn't all the poor girl has to contend with. There's kid-brother and sister trouble aplenty too.

But dear old Dad understands and when Jean finally meets her dream man and Ma throws a monkey wrench into the romance with her wedding bell spiel, Dad jumps in and saves the day and true love triumphs.

Minna Gombell is Jean's exasperating Ma; William Frawley, her sympathetic Dad; Robert Kellard, the sweetheart who almost, but not quite, gets away, Eddie Collins is the proprietor of the eatery where the sweeties meet to sigh over a hamburger, Cora Sue Collins is the kid sister with a movie star complex and Jay Ward is the pesky kid brother, who'd rather sleep than eat.

"Birthplace of Icebergs," one of the most remarkable screen oddities ever at the Belle Theatre will be exhibited on the same program.

True-False Game

Ken Soble's True-False Game will be presented at the Belle Theatre. Easy to play for splendid cash prizes, you'll enjoy it. Come and see last week's winner receive the cash award.

THANKS MOSBY'S TONIC—RELIEVED OF BACK PAINS

Mr. Kelly Felt Tired and Sluggish — Complexion Sallow and Pale — Bowels Constipated — Now He Says: "Mosby's Tonic Has Relieved Me. I Feel Fine!"

"Oh! How my sluggish kidneys hurt me! The backache. The sharp pains. The stiffness and soreness. And all night long my sleep was disturbed, due to this kidney sluggishness. I couldn't rest. But since I got MOSBY'S TONIC my sluggish-acting kidneys are relieved. Now I can sleep. Backache relieved. Here is a Splendid Medicine!"

MR. BERNARD KELLY

That is what thousands of people here in Belleville and vicinity are saying about MOSBY'S TONIC, a "New Mixture of Roots and Herbs and Other Splendid Medicinal Agents" now being introduced to the public daily in this city at Lattimer's Drug Store, 228 Front Street, your Tamblyn dealer.

And remember—MOSBY'S TONIC not only help Nature relieve weak sluggish kidney but also clears gas and bloat from stomach, cleanses bowels, invigorates the liver action, acts to relieve pains of rheumatic and neuritic trouble, caused by contaminated system. It accomplishes several things in the body at the SAME TIME.

For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. Bernard Kelly, of 103 Roseheath Ave., Toronto, Ont., made the following statement. This grateful man's testimonial, praising Mosby's Tonic, follows:

Was Low in Energy; Felt Weak and Sluggish

"About a year ago I began losing weight," said Mr. Kelly. "And as time went on I seemed to lose all my energy. I had no appetite and what little food I did eat wouldn't nourish my body properly and as a result, my complexion took on a sallow, "muddy" colour and I simply felt worn out ALL THE TIME. My back was full of aches and pains, which was due to sluggish kidneys, and I was also a victim of bowel constipation.

"One day a friend of mine told me what Mosby's Tonic had done for him, and he almost insisted that I get this medicine and start taking it, which I did, and now I want to tell you that the first bottle has given me a great surprise. Why, do you know, within ONE WEEK I could see the colour coming back into my cheeks. At the same time, this medicine helped me to gain back my weight, and, say, what an appetite-builder this Mosby's Tonic is! Now I eat like a schoolboy, and I have gained in energy and never feel tired and worn out like I did before. It also relieved those pains in my back and regulated my bowels. I simply feel fine in general. It is SPLENDID."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 22— (CP)— The Toronto market today suffered further losses in the early action, the industrials sagging .57 in the index, the base metals .37 and the western oils .15. The golds held about even with Wednesday's close. Volume was comparatively light at 118,000 shares for the first three hours. The New York market holiday (Washington's birthday) exercised a slowing up influence on Toronto trade.

Food, steel and miscellaneous industrials drifted downward. The Steel of Canada stocks were down 1 to 3 points in light turnover.

Elsewhere Home Oil was the feature. In the first hour the price dropped 23 cents to 2.45 in quite heavy selling. At early afternoon it had recovered to 2.55 for a net loss of 13 cents. Okalta also was off slightly.

Gold shares showed only minor changes and the base metals had moderate losses for Smelters, Steep Rock and Pend Oreille.

Hog Quotations

Toronto, Feb. 22—(CP)—Dressedweights were down 15 cents at Barrie from the last quotation received Feb. 13 and other markets were unchanged in baconhog markets reporting today.

Liveweight: Brantford $8.50, Chatham $8.75.

Dressedweight: Barrie $11.85, Brantford $11.50, Chatham $11.35 Hull $11.60, London $11.40 plus transportation, Peterboro $11.50 plus transportation, Stratford $11.40 to $11.50 plus transportation.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP)—Cattle trade was dull throughout the early session of the Toronto Livestock Market today. The calf market held steady. The lamb section was weak. No price was established on hogs. No sheep sales were reported. The holdover from Wednesday was cattle.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 25, calves 20, hogs 25, sheep and lambs 225.

A few butcher steers sold at $6 to $6.85 and 1-2 dozen butcher cows brought $4 to $5. Canners and cutters ranged from $3.25 to $3.40. Good to choice veal calves sold at $11 to $12. Good local lambs sold at $9.90 cwt. Hogs closed yesterday at $9 off truck for bacon and $12 dressedweight.

OBITUARY

LATE GERTRUDE L. MUDD
(Holloway)

The funeral of Gertrude Louise Mudd, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Mudd, Holloway, who died in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday, February 20th., took place from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street, on Wednesday afternoon, the service being conducted by Mr. Stewart of Albert College.

Interment was made in Clarke's Cemetery, Sidney Township.

SURE,
YOU CAN BUY
Used Cars
AT ANY PRICE, —
BUT BE CAREFUL;

When you are offered a used car at a very low price, by all means go slow. There are at least two things to find out before you buy.

Is the car itself in first-class mechanical condition? And how responsible is the seller. Does his guarantee mean anything? Has he the shop facilities to put the car in proper condition, in the first place and to keep it in good order after you have bought it? Has he an established reputation for fair dealing?

Otherwise the car cheaply bought may be dearly paid for.

Many buyers have returned to us to buy a second or third time. The cars they have bought have been late models that we put through our own shops to give them every needed item of repair or service. Do not miss looking over our used car stock before buying elsewhere.

Many of these cars have special equipment. For instance, we have a equipped with expensive radio, heater of the largest type, brand new tires, etc., etc.

Also many other fine automobiles including

1938 DODGE SEDAN.
1937 DESOTO SEDAN
1935 DODGE SEDAN
1934 PLYMOUTH COUPE
AND OTHERS

Come in; look them over, drive them, tell us the price you want to pay and the terms you can meet and we will work out a deal.

Butter Prices Continue Softer

Toronto, Feb. 22—With buyers still cautiously taking on only the odd small lot, prices continued to sag on the butter market at Toronto yesterday, as the light current supplies were more than sufficient to meet demand. Graded eggs made further fractional gains.

Yesterday the butter market maintained a slow trading pace and easy prices. No. 1 grade Ontario creamery solids ranged at 25 3-4 cents to 26 cents per pound.

Good demand again effected a ready clearance in arrivals of fresh receipts on the egg market. Prices worked higher for the three top grades in the graded sections as the retail division held to former levels. A few sales of Government inspected lots were recorded at 1-2 cent per dozen premium.

Dancer Says Germans Believe U. K. is Starving

Exchanged Briton Surprised to Find Mother Does Not Require Food She Saved by Self Denial on Way Home From Germany

London, Feb. 22.— (CP Cable) —Germans believe that eight British ships are being sunk daily and that the people of the United Kingdom are starving. This was revealed today by Joy Rogers, young English dancer who was one of the eight Britons exchanged for Germans held in England.

When she arrived home she was surprised to find her mother did not need the food she had saved by self-denial during her trip from Germany—two tins of sardines, meat extract cubes, cocoa and sugar. These were given her by the Red Cross.

CROMWELL IS FRIEND [illegible] PROPOSED HIGHWAY

Ottawa, Feb. 22 —(CP)— The proposed Alaska International Highway has a firm friend in the new United States Minister to Canada, J. R. Cromwell.

"I frankly confess prejudice in [illegible] highway because in my younger days I completely succumbed to the charms of British Columbia and the great Canadian West," said Mr. Cromwell in his first address since taking over his post here last month.

Germany May Use Aircraft Carriers to Raid Commerce

Britain Ready for 32-knot Vessels Although They Would be Difficult to Destroy Because of Speed and Armament

EASIER TO TRACE

By GUY E. RHOADES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 22 (CP).—Britain's ever-watchful navy and the coastal command of the Royal Air Force are ready and waiting for a possible move by Germany to employ one or more of her 32-knot aircraft carriers in attacks on allied and neutral shipping in the north and south Atlantic.

Germany launched the 19,250-ton aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin in 1938 and started building another, known only as "B". It is believed "B" may have been launched and two more carriers are known to be under construction.

The Graf Zeppelin carries 40 fleet-spotting and dive-bombing aircraft of comparatively short cruising range, is armed with sixteen guns of 5.9-inch calibre, ten anti-aircraft guns of 4.1-inch calibre and twenty-two smaller anti-aircraft guns.

With her speed she could outdistance most battleships and with her armaments she would prove a formidable foe for any destroyer which overhauled her, although she could probably be crushed by a combination of vessels such as chased the Admiral Graf Spee into Montevideo.

Authorities are not overlooking the possibility that the aircraft carrier might be accompanied by escorts of submarines. Such an effort would provide considerable protection with their torpedoes but this might be offset by the fact their presence in convoy would force the carriers to reduce their speed to a comparative snail's pace.

It is believed the aircraft carriers could be provisioned for long voyages on which they would behave much as the commerce raiders of the first Great War.

Nevertheless it is felt they would be easier to trace than commerce raiders as activities of their aircraft would give notice of their presence over a greater area.

PENALTY OF CRIME PAIR WILL PAY

Montreal, Feb. 22 (CP).—Achille Grondin, graying Ste. Methode villager, and his wife, Marie Louise Cloutier, will die on the scaffold here tomorrow for the murder of the 40-year-old woman's first husband.

Only a last-minute reprieve order from the Department of Justice can stop the double hanging to be conducted at Bordeaux jail. The woman was brought to the jail yesterday from Quebec. Grondin has been in a cell at Bordeaux since last week.

The two were convicted late in 1938 of poisoning Villemond Brochu who was barely five weeks dead when his widow married Grondin, his hired man.

Brochu, Ste. Methode taxi-driver and peddler, died in the remote Frontenac County village in August of 1937. His widow and Grondin had been married but a few days when his body was exhumed at the request of relatives and police discovered arsenic poisoning had been the cause of death.

No Interference.

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (CP).—The remissions branch of the Federal Department of Justice said today there would be no interference in the cases of Achille Grondin and his wife, Marie Louise Cloutier, scheduled to die on the scaffold tomorrow for the murder of the woman's first husband.

The double handing will be conducted at Bordeaux jail in Montreal.

Volunteers' Status Subject of Question In British House

London, Feb. 22—(CP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain, questioned in the House of Commons regarding the status of British volunteers fighting for Finland, declined to say today whethe rsuch fighters would be pensioned if wounded.

The terms of service, he said, are arranged between the Finnish Aid Bureau and th Finnish Government and the British Government is not concerned.

The Prime Minister announced that th eHouse would resume the five-day week in March, sitting on Mondays and Fridays in addition to the present sessions of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The addition sittings are necessary he said, because of the large amount of business confronting parliament.

Mr. Chamberlain rejected a request for a secret session to debate the "shadow" budgets for the services, saying it would be "inadvisable" to hold it.

NAZI "SLAVE SHIP" HARD AGROUND

The German ship Altmark is pictured here hard aground in the ice of a Norwegian Fjord with the stern of the vessel piled on shore after being chased and boarded by members of the crew of the British destroyer Cossack, who boarded the Altmark with cutlasses in hand as in the days of old. Three hundred and twenty-six British seamen were rescued from the hold of the Altmark where they had been kept captives for many weeks. Their vessels had been attacked and sunk by the scuttled German raider Graf Spee. This picture was cabled from England to New York and then transmitted by Phonephoto. —Phonephoto.

Police Blotter

Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard today was seeking the possible whereabouts of two girls, who are reported to have escaped from the Galt Training School. Girls answering the description of the escaped lassies were believed to have been responsible for the theft of clothing from an Evrett St. residence yesterday, after the pair had taken shelter for the night.

The Oshawa police reported the theft of a 1935 Chevrolet sedan last night. The vehicle was equipped with Ontario licence plates number 871—B—8.

Employees at the Quinte Motors Ltd., Pinnacle St., informed Belleville police today that a 1940 model Plymouth sedan had been left in their premises since Feb. 4th last. The police were requested to check upon the ownership of the vehicle through the licence plates, which carried the numbers 6—A—139.

Apprehended loitering around the main street, two local teenaged girls were taken to the police station last night, where Chief Kidd warned the girls regarding this practice and sent them home.

FIVE SPIES ARRESTED

Amsterdam, Feb. 22. — (AP)—Arrest of one foreigner and five Netherlanders in Groningen and other North Holland provinces in connection with an espionage investigation was announced by the police today.

They said they had uncovered evidence that the espionage organization had branches throughout the Netherlands. Details were withheld.

'Open Revolts'

by Germans Reported Over Cruelty to Poles

Paris, Feb. 22.—(CP-Havas) The Polish Telegraph agency today estimated the number of Poles executed by the Germans in the occupied zone at more than 50,000.

So harsh are the methods used by the conquerors, the Polish agency said, that they have provoked "open revolts" by Germans themselves in some parts of Poland.

TWO FIRE ALARMS DURING NIGHT

Two fire alarms were turned in at the local Fire Department since the paper went to press yesterday. The first was from the residence of Mrs. F. G. Kennedy, 241 Foster Avenue, shortly after four o'clock last evening, where a chimney fire was in progress, while the second was at nine-thirty last night from 16 Wills St., and also for a chimney blaze. There was no damage in either case, however, reported firemen this morning, as both fires were quickly extinguished.

Pat Counts Women's Hats

By SIDNEY MELLAR

When the purse snatching occurred, Pat, the traffic officer, was comparing the number of tricornes with the number of sailors that passed. This was his wife's doing. She was sick of having Pat define suede as a short-furred animal.

Pat actually witnessed the robbery out of the corner of his eye. He saw an alligator purse dangling from the hand of a woman who'd made the eighteenth tricorne. She was waiting at the curb for a street car.

Above the roar of traffic Pat neared the cry of the woman with the purse and saw that it was now in the hands of a man dashing toward the Drummond building. Pat caught one glimpse of the thief. He was small, his face was wizened and he had practically no chin.

The purse snatcher sprang past the doors of the Drummond building. The woman still screamed.

Pat knew instantly what the thief had in mind. The Drummond building had a large front entrance, but then it had a smaller, lesser used side exit on the street to the left of Pat. The thief would evidently head for that.

Pat sprinted around the proper corner beautifully, and then bumped into a man, sent hi msprawling. He was thrown off balance himself, knocked against a billboard. As he jumped to his feet he saw the man running from the side exit. There were about ten people passing and Pat couldn't afford to shoot. "Stop! Stop him!" cried Pat, but no one could have heard the officer or known what to do. As Pat looked, the thief shunted into a drug store almost a block away.

Pat knew there was a side door on the next street from which the man could make his getaway. Desparingly he glanced about him saw a street car that was passing, ran for it, made the lower step, hung on. The conductor rang one bell for the motorman to stop, but Pat cried "Keep on! Fast!" and the conductor signaled the motorman to continue.

"Counting women's hats, I am," thought Pat. "Counting women's hats when I should be attending to my duty and the public welfare! A fine idiot!"

The car jammed to a stop at the corner and Pat swung off almost on to an automobile fender, but he reached the sidewalk in safety. He raced to the side exit of the drug store. No one like the wizened, chinless thief was walking down that street. Pat charged inside. No one resembling the culprit there. He went to the entrance through which the man had come. No one.

Pat went to the blond at the tobacco counter. "Seen any undersized gent, almost without a honest chin maybe with a bulk under his coat?"

"No. What's happened?"

"It's to your own business you should be attending," rebuked her, and peered around without success. He went outside again and looked up and down the street.

The solution popped into his head, and he couldn't understand how he'd been so dizzy as not to think of it before. The telephone booths! He turned and saw the thief leave a booth and slip toward the other exit.

Making no sound Pat leaped after him caught him at the door. "And where are you travelling so fast my man?" he asked.

"What's it to ya?" growled the man.

Pat's hands tapped over him swiftly. No purse. "Where's that alligator purse?"

"Alligator purse? Say, officer, d'ya take me for? A animal trainer?"

"You won't make a monkey out of me while I'm counting women's hats!"

"Women's hats?' repeated the man. Say you crazy?"

"Come along!" Pat led him to the five booths. He opened one of the two vacant ones. Empty! Opening the other, he found the purse buried beneath a wad of newspaper.

"O. K." said Pat. "I've got the purse. Thought you'd sink it, eh? You come with me, you!"

As the two walked out, a crowd gathering and the man protesting a flushed woman came to Pat. "My purse, oh, my purse!" she sobbed and took it from Pat's hand. "Oh officer thank you for saving it for me."

"You'll prosecute this man won't you?" asked Pat.

"No," said the woman. "I—I believe in kindness officer. I'll buy him a dinner and perhaps start him on the right road...."

Pat, puzzled, thought she couldn't do very much with the purse snatching breed. Irresolute, he watched the woman in the white sailor departing with his man. Then he let out a roar and caught hold of both of them. It's not this Irishman you'll be outwitting! I put you both under arrest. The woman who owns the alligator purse wears a tricorne hat."

Little Benny's Note Book

My sister Gladdis and Harvey came around to play bridge with pop and ma after supper, and ma and Gladdis started to talk about the movies and the differnt pictures they had either seen or hadn't Gladdis saying, What do you think of the announcement about Clive Darcy of all people having been selected for the roll of Bart Stanton in Dust of Yestidday?

I think it's perfectly gasly, it gives a black eye to the entire motion picture industry, as Cholly Siddenham wrote in his collum today, ma said, and Gladdis said, You could of knocked me over without the use of a feather when I read it. The idea of Clive Darcy, who won first place all over the country in the competition for the most appealing actor after his wonderful work at the false friend in The Home Wreckers, the idea of Clive Darcy being cast as a wishy goody goody character, without a bad thought in his head, it's perposterous, she said.

We didn't talk about anything else at the Dawters of Cleopattera meeting, ma said. There was even talk of organising a committy of 80 women to call on every nayborhood picture theatre in the city and notify the manager that they'd stay away in a body if he booked Dust of Yestidday with Clive Darcy cast as Bart Stanton, she said, and Gladdis said, Why, it would simply undo all his marvelous work as the soft eye forger and murderer in Opposite Sexes.

How could you even think of him as that straight lace Bert Stanton with your mind full of his fassinating passed devilitries? ma said, and pop said, Yee gods, Harvey, what's a use of waisting our lives as upright citizens? I know where I can get hold of a lot of lead slugs, what do you say to taking a little walk and putting them in chewing gum slot machines? he said, and Harvey said, Okay, if bridge doesn't get started in one minute.

INDIAN TRIBESMEN AND TROOPS CLASH

Combat Breaks Out on Northwest Frontier Says New Delhi Report

New Delhi, India, Feb. 22 —(CP) —Combat broke out on the troubled northwest frontier today as British military forces moved into that jagged land of ambuscade and adventure to clean out marauding tribesmen and perhaps to meet again their old and elusive foe, the Fakir of Ipi.

"Our casualties were light," said a military communique. "The second of two columns encountered considerable opposition from tribesmen concealed in caves on either side of the Tangai valley."

Aided by artillery and two companies of Gurkha Rifles (native troops), "we eventually seized the caves," it said.

Plan of Pacification

The newest of nearly a century of campaigns to pacify the wild mountain men was linked here with rumors of possible Soviet Russian incursions through Afghanistan—and Great Britain intends to take no unnecessary chances.

Particularly designated for a cleanup is the Ahmadzai salient, flanking the vital Khyber Pass.

In that region, Mehr Dil and two other native leaders under the influence of the Fakir are reported to have strongholds from which they can launch looting raids into the Bannu and Johat districts of North Waziristan.

Fakir of Ipi

The Fakir of Ipi, a giant figure with beard and hair dyed red when he goes into battle, is a champion of Islam. Religion is his generally accepted motive, but the British often have suspected him of heeding Russian influences. He is a good man with a rifle, a daring horseman, and clever arranger of traps.

In addition to the usual raids and ambushes, he is blamed for planting crude bombs on army parade grounds, connecting telephone circuits with electric power lines and poisoning wells.

By 1937, the Fakir and his men had so aroused the authorities that 33,000 soldiers and a force of bombing planes were put on his trail. The Fakir set up headquarters in a bomb-proof cave but when the hideaway was attacked with machine-guns it was discovered the Fakir had stolen away.

PLAINFIELD IN LEAD OF E. H. RURAL LEAGUE

Farnsworth Wins as Roslin Ties Plainfield at Tweed Arena

Tweed, Feb. 22 (Special)— Two games were played in East Hastings Rural League at Tweed arena on Tuesday night. In the first game the league-leading Plainfield team was again held to a tie by Roslin. The score 1-1, the second in succession in which the leaders have been engaged was a bitterly-fought engagement as Roslin endeavoured to improve their position in the standing. After a scoreless first period in which three penalties were handed out, Plainfield opened the scoring on D. Denyes' drive. Chisholm scored his team's only goal of the game to give Roslin an even division of the points. The scoreless third period was again packed with action but the deadlock remained unbroken.

Tweed Lost

Tweed proved no match for Farnsworth in the second half of the twin bill to further tighten up the race, and force a three way tie for second place. The winners rapped in four goals while holding their opponents scoreless. The final score of 4 to 0 did not represent the difference between the teams as Tweed was outlucked repeatedly around the goal.

The first period of torrid hockey was unproductive of goals but saw plenty of action. Meraw scored the only goal of the second period to give Farnsworth a lead which they maintained throughout. McCaw's goal early in the third period broke Tweed's resistance, Lajoie and D. Palmateer ran in two unnecessary markers to put the game safely into the bag.

Standing, February 20th.

Exhibition Game 'Smokies' Win

Gaining sweet revenge the Smith's "Smokies" triumphed 11 to 4 over their arch enemies of the ice lanes, the Upper Canada "Newsies" in an exhibition hockey game played at the Hume arena last night. The "Smokies" have now won two out of three games played in the series.

Hammett, Semark, Muir and Green accounted for the majority of the winners' eleven goals, while Cook and Coburn carried the torch for the vanquished.

Referee Stan Holton was called upon to rule with a strong arm and a loud whistle, as the game saw continued roughness.

TWEED DOWNS MADOC 10 TO 4

Winners Are Paced by Wagar and Elsbury; Courneyea Returns to Line-up

Tweed—With their front line of Courneyea, Wagar and Elsbury performing in spectacular fashion, Tweed advanced a step towards a playoff berth by humbling their Madoc rivals 10-4, before a crowd of three hundred wildly cheering fans last night. Courneyea's return to the line-up after an absence of two or three games was heralded by the greatest scoring spree the locals have engaged in this season. Centred by Wagar, who scored five goals, this line scored all their team's goals. Elsbury collected four goals and Courneyea the other.

Wide-open hockey featured the entire sixty minutes of play, and the game was under way only a few minutes when it gave evidence of developing into a scoring spree. The visitors opened the scoring with Akey the marksman, his first of two goals scored in this period. Elsbury and Wagar secured the locals' goals, the latter scoring twice. The pace was fast and play strenuous but no penalties were handed out in this frame.

Madoc again opened the scoring in the middle frame to tie the score, Heyworth being the marksman, on a freak shot that bounced off the screen and struck Reeves in the back, falling into the net. Wagar and Elsbury again monopolized the scoring as they did in the opener to give Tweed a lead of 6-4. Courneyea figured in two of these goals.

The visitors faded badly in the final period and were unable to get close for the greater part of the twenty minutes as Tweed retained possession of the puck and ran in four goals. Keller was hit in the face by a flying puck from a team mate's stick and had to be assisted from the ice. He had been the spearhead of his team and his loss was keenly felt. Coo, the bad man of the game drew two minor penalties and a misconduct, the last for foul and abusive language to the referee.

T. Rupert of Madoc and G. Quinn of Tweed were the referees.

PET BUCK RELEASES PALS

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 22 (AP).—The nger of suspicion points to Benny, a five-year-old buck, for the mass exodus of deer from the zoo here. Soon after he was taken in custody, Benny was seen to lift the gate latch with his antlers.

SAY RADICALS NEEDED

Springeld, Mass., Feb. 22 (AP). — Every college needs a few "Reds", in the opinion og Dr. Roswell Ham, president of Mount Holyoke College. "The experimental tendency of youth is a characteristic that should not be snuffed out," he told a joint meeting of Kiwanis and exchange clubs. "I would be fearful of a college that did not have some radicals."

ONTARIO MAYORS PROTEST ACTION OF PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT

Gathering in Toronto, Ontario, municipal heads sharply protested the action of Premier Hepburn in reducing the municipal subsidy by half a mill. Mayor John P. McCrimmon, of Paris, RIGHT, called the Hepburn action "a breach of faith." The meeting of the Ontario municipal heads was called by Mayor Stanley Lewis, of Ottawa, CENTRE, secretary of the Ontario Mayors' Association, Alderman J. A. Allen, LEFT, represented the mayor of North Bay. It was indicated at the meeting that a protest delegation may visit Queen's Park.

ANSON BOMBERS BEING ASSEMBLED IN CANADA

The first of a shipment of Avro Anson twin-engined bombers to be used to train R.C.A.F. pilots have arrived at the DeHavilland Aircraft plant in Toronto. DRAMATIC MEETING provincial organiser, that Alderman Haig was the choice of the convention, Mr. Cory immediately expressed his dissatisfaction with the method of selection of delegates, and announced his decision to remain in the field as a King Liberal.

"I am not satisfied with the way the delegates were picked for this convention," he said, "and I refuse to accept the verdict of this afternoon. I am in the field as a King Liberal."

Thanked Convention

The successful candidate immediately followed with a brief address of appreciation to the convention for the honor bestowed upon him, but his remarks were scarcely heard in the near-bedlam that followed Mr. Cory's utterance, and that which greeted Mr. Haig as he walked to the front of the platform.

Other acts in the drama that unfolded during the course of the convention occurred when Mr. Cory declared, following the chairman's request that a pledge of nominees and delegates be given to support the successful candidate, that "I reserve the right that I am not supporting a Conservative in this nomination."

"Who brought Haig out?" "Billy Fraser," shouted a voice from the rear benches.

Chairman Sullivan held up his hand for silence. "I am confronted with a serious problem, as chairman of this convention," he said, in the sudden hush that fell over an auditorium, that was crowded to its utmost capacity. Outside a large crowd milled in the corridors unable to obtain admission. "I am only the judge and must abide by the law," he continued. "I have before me the constitution of the South Hastings Liberal Association. I had nothing to do with the drafting of it. I have nothing to do now but uphold it."

"I am going to ask Mr. Cory to reconsider his decision, and take this pledge as required by the constitution", he said.

Before he could continue, Mr. Cory walked to the front of the platform. "I have been a Liberal all my life, and I always will be one. I positively refuse to back a Conservative as a Liberal standard-bearer in South Hastings." Deafening cheers rang out in the auditorium. It was seconds before order was restored.

Suggested Adjournment

"I am going to suggest a ten-minute adjournment. After that I promise you I will give you a definite decision", Chairman Sullivan declared.

At this point Alderman Haig addressed the convention. "I am prepared to back up whoever this convention chooses as its candidate," he said "I will abide by my decision to support him, whoever he is." Cheers again rang out in the hall.

Mr. Cory again stepped to the front of the platform. "The meeting's adjourned," shouted a voice, Others took up the cry, but Chairman Sullivan stepped into the breach; and formally declared the meeting open again.

"My supporters," Mr. Cory said, "have asked me to abide by the constitution. It goes against my grain, but I am going to leave it in your hands if a Liberal or a Conservative will represent you. I will abide by the constitution."

Both nominees and the convention, standing, pledged support to the successful candidate.

Some minutes later, after Song-leaders Tommy Mason and Harold Barrett had led the impatient convention in community singing, scrutineers appointed by both candidates, entered the hall with the results of the ballot. Mr. Jack McIntosh handed the official findings to Chairman Sullivan who immediately announced the identity of the successful nominee. Two hundred and fifty three accredited delegates were in attendance he said, and of these, 251 had recorded a vote.

Record Crowd

Early indications that the convention would establish an attendance record came as early as one-thirty p.m., when delegates and spectators filed into the auditorium in steadily increasing numbers. By 2.10 p.m. twenty minutes before the convention was scheduled to open, the auditorium was crowded to capacity, while an overflow crowd waited in hallways and anterooms for an opportunity of admission. Late arrival of some of the delegates and last minute convention organization resulted in a delay and it was three o'clock before President Ed. Roach of the South Hastings Liberal Association formally declared the convention open. He welcomed the delegates and spectators in a brief address, in which he warned that disorders would result in ejection of guilty parties, and turned the convention over to Mr. Bart Sullivan, who presided for the remainder of the session.

Forecasts Liberal Victory

In his remarks to the convention, Mr. Sullivan stated, "If this meeting is any criterion of Liberal conventions of Ontario, I predict an overwhelming victory for the government of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King".

"Selection of a candidate is as serious a business as never before in our country," he said.

He reminded the convention they were free citizens of a free country to select a candidate for the government of the country. It is a privilege we should well be proud of, one that is denied those of other countries."

He asked the convention to approach the matter at hand with a broad tolerant spirit. This is particularly desirable at this time as the time is all too short when we meet the opposition, and anything of a nature of intolerance would surely reflect on the results of the great battle of March 26th., Mr. Sullivan said.

Col. Roscoe Vandewater in moving the nomination of McLean Haig, pointed out the importance of elections in wartime. The convention, he was sure, was behind the present Premier's platform of "united efforts of a united empire for the successful prosecution of the war."

"The candidate is a successful young business man in his thirties. He has risen steadily in fraternal and business circles of this city. A graduate of Queen's, Osgoode Hall and associate editor of a Liberal paper in Regina. He has a brother in the King's uniform at present in England. He has offered his own services."

Mackenzie Robertson, in seconding the nomination of Mr. Haig, eulogized the nominee's work in civic work, hospital and fraternal affairs.

"This is a wartime election and we have a very serious duty to do, in selecting a candidate".

Must Be Unbiased

"We must use unbiased opinion in selecting a candidate," Mr. Mac McGaughey, Trenton, declared, in proposing the name of ex-Mayor Harry Cory. Weakness may have crept into our ranks and criticism of prospective candidates noised about. We must forget these things".

The seat for this good old riding of Hastings South requires a man of executive ability, one who can handle the affairs of the riding in an unbiased manner without catering to class or creed; a man of courage to enter the political field; who will give everything he has, a go-getter, serious thinker, and a sympathiser with the many calls which will be made upon him.

Mayor Cory, he said was in his early 50's and had spent 26 years in the riding. He served seven years in municipal life, six of them as Mayor of Trenton, where he conducted the town's business affairs in an upright manner. He has friends throughout the riding and is well-known in the district. "I do not need to tell you who he is," Mr. McGaughey said. "Cheers rang out in the hall. "Send Cory up", yelled a voice.

"I submit the name of Mr. H. Cory, Mr. McGaughey said. Again prolonged cheering rang out as Mr. Walter Post, Deseronto, in a brief speech seconded Mr. Cory's nomination.

Mover Thanked

Mr. Cory in addressing the convention thanked his mover and seconder for placing his name in nomination and also personally thanked the Chairman of the meeting for his kind words and the expression "you are free people in a free country." "I wonder", said Mr. Cory "if you grasp the significance of that remark because many of you here today will admit, that you are not free men in a free country, because the Liberal "Machine" in this riding has been trying to dictate to this convention, who shall be the candidate in the forthcoming Federal election."

The speaker asked his audience to cast their eyes back to the convention of 1935 and note "that I was runner-up" but that in this convention certain ones have gone through the riding and asked the delegates to support a Conservative, that has turned over but I am not a turncoat." Mr. Cory stated that he had spent 26 years in the riding and all that time has been in service to the Liberal party. "Have we not got a man, who is a known Liberal for years in this riding, who can win this riding or have we got to go to the Conservative party to select such a man?" asked the speaker and a number in the hall greeted the remark with a cheer.

A conversation between Mr. Cory and McLean Haig on February 6th., last was recounted by Mr. Cory. The speaker stated, that he asked Mr. Haig at that time if he proposed to run at the convention, as I had heard his name prominently mentioned and "Mr. Haig said it was true and this is the man, that appears before you today asking for support, when at the Conservative nomination in April of last year he sought the nomination for that party but Mr. George H. Stokes was nominated. I shall also tell you that in October, 1939, Mr. Haig bought from Charles Cochrane a membership card in the Conservative Association of Belleville, and is likely the holder of that card in good standing today."

Spoke of Meeting

The speaker also spoke of a meeting held in Sidney Township last Friday night, when Mr. Haig stated that he believed in a National government and two years ago this same man spoke to Rotary and advocated the amalgamation of the two railways. "I wonder how the railway workers of the Belleville terminal will like that piece of news?" the speaker asked. Mr. Cory turned from that angle of his address and ridiculed what he called "the machine" that was guiding the destinies of the Liberal party in this riding. "When the machine was picking a man why did they not approach George O. Tice, A. B. Collins, K.C., or myself, when they knew us to be Liberals in every sense of the word", said Mr. Cory. "They did not approach us because "the machine" could not handle us as they will be able to handle the man, whom they have chosen. He is to be the yes man" for "the machine". Mr. Coleman and Mr. Gough have had the pleasure of working steadily at the Airport for five years but if I am elected as your candidate the work and the contracts will be spread around through the riding".

Calls for a Change

Mr. Cory charged that "the machine" was endorsing a Conservative and "I think it is time for a change". "Liberalism has been allowed to drift and the result has been detrimental to the people as a whole in this riding I have no doubt but that William Lyon Mackenzie King will be elected on March 26th., and I will see to it that Mr. Perry Denike, the foreman, packs his little grip and gets out of the Airport forever and the work will be distributed and Liberals will be given their full share". The speaker before closing again alleged that "the machine" had used every tactic to put the delegates "on the spot". "If you want continuation of the present system in Hastings South vote for the "yes man" but if you want the situation cleaned up vote for me but I will not support a Conservative in a Liberal fight in South Hastings.

Answers Cory's Charges

Answering charges of Mr. Cory Alderman Haig in his address told the convention that he had never been an aspirant to a Conservative convention, nor had he favored a national government which he said, "was the first element of dictatorship." He declared emphatically that he was not a 'yes-man'.

Mr. Haig also stated he was opposed to amalgamation of railways, and is firmly behind the King government in its railroad policy.

"I am big enough to come out and say that I am behind Mr. King and his administration in his prosecution of the war" the speaker asserted. "I said that long ago and before any thought of offering myself for this convention had appeared in my mind. We have never had an administration in the past that has done so much toward the successful prosecution of the war, as the King Government."

The Canadian people are embarking upon an election campaign the results of which will interest the whole world, Mr. Haig said, pointing out that Britain and the Allies watched with the closest interest deliberations of parliament in special session last September and with what joy they received the news that Canada had declared herself unitedly beside Britain in her determination to rid the world of Nazism and Barbarism so that nations of the world may live in peace.

Again, the eyes of the world were upon Canada when the government of Quebec appealed to the people of that province as a protest against Canada's participation in the war. "You will recall" he said, "how, staking their political future on the outcome, several of the Prime Minister's colleagues campaigned to tell the citizens the truth about the war and the issues involved. You will also recall how on Oct. 25th. last year, the people of that province spoke with a voice that not only carried across Canada, but to the capitals of our enemies, proclaiming their loyalty to the cause for which we are at war, and declaring conclusively its unity with the rest of Canada in support of the war effort of the Federal administration."

Same Answer to be Given

"The issue in that election," declared Alderman Haig, "is the issue in this election. I know you will agree with me when I say that on March 26th, the whole of Canada will answer in the same emphatic manner that Quebec did on Oct. 25th last." (Cheers).

Other achievements of the Federal Government apart from its war effort could be discussed, the speaker said, included in which and this should be of especial interest to the rural residents of the riding, is the bonus paid on quality cheese which amounted to $55,000.00 in this county during 1939. Then, "he added is the assurance and undertaking of the Minister of Agriculture received during the calendar year, that Hastings County will be included in the tubercular free area for cattle.

There are two main issues in this election," Alderman Haig told the convention. First, "the continued unity of Canada, achieved through the present administration through years of assurance that parliament and parliament alone should decide our destinies whether Canada should be at peace or war; and secondly, the successful prosecution of the war."

Issue Quite Clear

"Preparations and organization undertaken by the government on all fronts—military, economic and financial—will be discussed during the campaign by your candidate whoever he may be," he said. "He will tell you how the best brains of the country without regard to race, creed or color or political persuasion have been commandered by the government to take over the details of war administration. He will tell you how Canada has been transformed from a peace time to a war time economy."

"This, then is the issue," he concluded, "war, and its prosecution—upon the result of which depends the future of your children and your children's children. Do you want a government experienced in the way of administration, supported by the people of the country, to continue in leadership, or, do you want to turn over the reins of government to other hands at this critical juncture in our history?"

Alderman Haig asked for the support of the convention, "because I am a firm believer in Mr. King and in the ability of his government to administer the affairs of this country. I want nothing except the opportunity of serving Canada."

No Confirmation of Report Allied Warships Have Contacted Soviet Navy Near Russian Port of Murmansk — Port is Ice-Free

UNEASINESS MAGNIFIED

Scandinavian Nations Worry Over the Future of Their Neutrality by Recent Development — Almost Anything Can Happen in Northern Waters

Copenhagen, Feb. 23—(AP)—British and French warships were reported by the newspaper Berlingske Tidende today to have extended their blockade to Arctic waters off the Russian port of Murmansk.

The newspaper said the ships were strung out for a considerable distance along the Arctic coast to prevent shipment of Russian supplies to Germany and to halt any possible attempt to deliver Russian submarines to the German navy.

Presence of Allied vessels in that far northern vicinity was reported yesterday.

There were rumors that the blockading war vessels already had come into conflict with Soviet naval craft. There was no confirmation.

Aside from blocking trade between Germany and her friend, Russia, the Allies were described as anxious to prevent any German ships from taking refuge in Russia—as a number of merchantmen did in the early days of the war.

Until now, it was reported that German merchant carriers had been maintaining steady connec-

Savannas! A study of the climate of the savannas and its effect upon the inhabitants shows how important climate may be in the cultural progress of those regions. Savannas are grassy but tree-dotted plains which lie in general between the equatorial rainy belt and the tropical deserts. The climate is warm, with rainy and dry seasons. Because of the prolonged dry season closed forests do not develop, and the growing season is short. This condition compels the inhabitants to industry and thrift. It is a noteworthy fact that the people of the savananas are more civilized than those of the forests because they must raise crops and otherwise provide for the dry season just as people of colder climates provide for the winter.

Germany Claims One British Plane Shot Down in Battle

Berlin, Feb. 23—(AP)—The German high command's communique today said:

"On the western front, between the Mosel (Mosselle) River and Palatinate forest lively activity before enemy trenches.

"In a successful patrol action in the region of Apach and an equally successful surprise assault on the enemy occupying a position in the Heydt forest west of Merzig numerous prisoners were taken. No losses were suffered by our patrols.

"The Air Force undertook extensive reconnaissance flights over the North Sea, British Islands and Eastern France. Two German planes failed to return from a flight to England.

"Of three British planes which flew over German, Heligoland Bight one, of the Vickers Wellington type, was shot down by one of our Messerschmitt machines.

NAVAL AUXILIARY VESSELS TOTAL ABOUT 1,700

Winston Churchill Tells Seamen Number of Ships is Increasing Rapidly

PRAISE FOR RESCUE

Churchill Reports Nearly 3,000 Men Lost in 'Unrelenting Struggle at Sea'

London, Feb. 23—(CP)—Winston Churchill, paying tribute to 760 veterans of the battle of Montevideo, said Great Britain had lost nearly 3,000 men in the "hard and unrelenting" struggle at sea and described the victory over the German battleship Graf Spee as "almost a relief."

The first lord of the admiralty spoke at the Guildhall where the seamen were banqueted after a great parade through London. He told them that naval auxiliary vessels now totalled about 1,700 and the number was increasing rapidly "until not only cargoes by which we live but the high purposes we have in hand are all brought safely into port."

"For one stroke that goes home, for one clutch that grips a raider there are many which miss their mark," Mr. Churchill said.

"For every success there are many disappointments and you must never forget that dangers that are seen are only a small part of those that are warded off by care and foresight and therefore pass unnoticed."

Rescue of Prisoners Extolled

The rescue of the 299 British merchant seamen held aboard the German prison ship "under the nose of the enemy and amid the tangles of one-sided neutrality," Mr. Churchill said, "proved that the long arm of British seapower can be stretched out not only for foes but also for faithful friends."

PROBLEMS OF FUEL AND HOGS TOSSED INTO CAMPAIGN

Conservative Leader Manion Proposed National Fuel Policy in Address at Calgary

ATTACKS WAR EFFORT

Hon. Ernest Lapointe Opens Campaign by Address in French to Quebec

(By the Canadian Press)

Problems of fuel and hogs have been tossed into the election hopper to be ground in the mill of public controversy along with a dozen other campaign topics that keep cropping up as the wartime electoral fight gains momentum.

In normal times such discussions would tend to depart from the main issues but today they are all being linked with the chief concern of all parties—the conduct of the war and the manner in which Canada is assisting in the conflict.

Conservative Leader Manion proposed a national fuel policy in a speech last night in Calgary, near the Turner Valley oil fields and Albert coal deposits, which he said would encourage use of Canadian oil and coal. During wartime a fuel policy for Canada is very much more urgent than it is even in peacetime, he said.

The present Dominion Government was accused of injuring the coal industry and the Conservative leader declared that his proposed national government would review tax and freight structures affecting the oil industry, which have been subject of some dispute. New subsidies and tax remission for certain fuel industries were advocated.

Departing from his discussion of fuel, Dr. Manion again launched into an attack on the government for what he charged was unpreparedness for the war.

ONTARIO'S HOUSE NOT TO PROROGUE UNTIL SATURDAY

This Will Permit Timber Committee to Complete Their Probe

BUDGET APPROVED

Toronto, Feb. 23—(CP) — Ontario's legislature will not prorogue until Saturday to permit the Special Committee probing administration of timber resources to hold a session and hear witnesses from the head of the Lakes area.

The House approved the budget 57 to 21 yesterday and in a night session voted $56,502,215 supply, finished its work on the estimates and cleared the way for prorogation. But if the House prorogued today, the Timber Investigating Committee would die.

During the discussion on provincial police estimates last night Attorney General Conant told the legislators that it was not the policy of the force to go into municipalities unless its aid is sought. It was not the responsibility of the province either to see local forces carry out their duties.

'New Wave' of Nazi Subs Operating in North Sea Says French Command

Naval Experts Belief Force Composed of Craft Recently Constructed and Sent Out as Soon as Crews Could be Assembled to Man Them

Paris, Feb. 23 (AP). — France's high command today reported a "new wave" of German submarines operating against allied warships and merchant shipping in the North Sea.

Naval experts expressed the belief the force was composed of craft recently constructed and sent out as soon as crews could be assembled to man them.

French sources said the submarines appeared several days ago but the number and fighting power of the group remained to be determined.

Belief is generally held in naval circles that the German submarine fleet works in relays with one group in port for refitting while another is at sea.

The western front was quiet outside of artillery fire in the regions both to the west and east of the Saar river. Aerial forces on both sides fulfilled numerous reconnaissance and photographic missions but no engagements were reported.

Hold "Finland Day".

Early today the French Chamber of Deputies voted to hold a "national day of aid" for Finland and last night Vice Premier Camille Chautemps declared outside parliament that the French "will not fail" in their "duty" to the small Baltic country.

The chamber did not set the date for the day of aid. While no indication was given of just what would be done, observers expected special efforts would be made to collect funds and useful objects for Finnish use.

"We can never testify enough to this heroic nation the fraternal sympathy of the people of France," Champetier de Ribes, Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, told the Chamber.

The Chamber's vote was taken to demonstrate that all French opinion is behind the French and British governments' action in sending aid to the Finns.

Naval sources announced that French naval convoys had escorted 2,000 ships with the loss of only three in the first five months of the war. The losses amounted to 12,390 tons.

Village Volunteer Fire Brigade Praised by Warkworth People

Villagers and Rural People Helped in Fighting Flames and in Saving Contents

NO ONE INJURED

Residents of Warkworth set about the task today of cleaning up debris and restoring furniture to undamaged residences, following the disastrous fire that caused damage estimated at $20,000, and threatened the entire village yesterday.

A resident of that village in the city today paid tribute to the work of the volunteer fire brigade whose efforts with a small chemical apparatus held the fire in partial check until the arrival of larger and more efficient fire-fighting equipment.

"Much more damage would have resulted from the blaze and the fire would have spread over a larger area of the village but for the fine work of this small group of men," he said.

"The entire population of the village, some eight hundred all told, augmented with large numbers of rural residents attracted by the fire, helped in the work of fighting the blaze. Fortunately no one was injured," he said.

Two large stores and a residence were completely destroyed, while another store was damaged in the worst fire in the history of the Northumberland village.

Prime Minister Ousts Eden as Best Dressed Man

London, Feb. 23 (CP)—Seventy-year-old Prime Minister Chamberlain has ousted handsome Dominions Minister Anthony Eden from first place in the sartorial stakes, according to a group of men who influence style in tailoring here.

These anonymous experts met in conference and, according to report, named Mr. Chamberlain best dressed Englishman of today. Second place went to Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal. Mr. Eden declined to third place.

But the findings of this body of fashion arbiters did not receive unanimous support in tailor circles, and there were cries of "old school tie!" from supporters of the rival Savile row crowd and the Piccadilly gang.

Mr. Chamberlain, it seems, won his place by the conservative cut of his garments. Sir Samuel, whom many would place before the Prime Minister, was said to be clothes-conscious—"and the well-dressed Englishman should not disclose, either consciously or unconsciously, that he knows his clothes fit him well and suit him perfectly."

And Mr. Eden, it was hinted by this executive group, had simply gone out because the black felt hat to which his name is linked had become "too popular."

New Voters Lists Increased 10 P. C.

Ottawa, Feb. 23 —(CP)— Figures of the number of electors on the new voters lists are pouring in from constituencies to the chief electoral office here and indicate a 10-per cent increase over the numbers listed in the 1935 election.

Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, said returns so far show a total of more than 6,500,000 voters on the lists as compared with 5,918,207 in the last election. This increase of approximately 600,000 has been over a period of only four years, four months.

The increase from the 1930 to 1935 elections, a period of five years and three months, was 781,236. The increase for the full five years from 1925 to 1930 was 545,335.

Picks Black Ball So Killer to Die

La Paz, Bolivia, Feb. 23—(AP) — Francisco Mamani today drew the black ball from the "Anfora Reos" (criminal vase), and under Bolivian law he must die while his partner in murder lives.

Mamani and Julio Zegarra, convicted of lynching Domingo Quispe, drew lots as specified in a statute which provides that when two or more persons are convicted of murder only one must die for the crime.

They were convicted of taking the law into their own hands and killing Quispe after the latter robbed Mamani and then set fire to Zegarra's home.

SIX-YEAR TERM IS IMPOSED FOR ARMED ROBBERY

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP)—Harry Mueller of Toronto, an unregistered German alien, was sentenced today to six years in Kingston penitentiary when he pleaded guilty to armed robbery of the Bank of Toronto Branch at [illegible]nal in Grenville county last Nov. 30.

Mueller, arrested at Toronto last Dec. 4, and a companion who has not been apprehended, escaped from the bank with approximately $2,225. At revolver point, the bandits forced seven persons in the bank to the back of the establish- the feet and hands of three were tied.

The money in the teller's cage was stuffed into a satchel carried by one of the men. Then, all seven in the bank were locked in the teller's cage and the bandits fled in an automobile.

Naval Heroes of Exeter and Ajax Royally Welcomed in Old London

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 23 (CP Cable).—Old London opened her heart today to the naval heroes of the Exeter and Ajax who helped "pocket" the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

By hundreds of thousands the people turned out to cheer and shower confetti on 760 officers and men of the two cruisers as they paraded through streets tramped by naval heroes of yore, stood proudly for inspection by the empire's Sailor-King and then marched off to the ancient Guildhall for luncheon with the Lord Mayor and the City Corporation.

It was the first opportunity London had had for a mass demonstration since the war and the numbers who lined the route of the triumphal march and the pent-up enthusiasm they loosed went to make up scenes unparalleled since the coronation.

People Whooped Tribute.

From the moment that these newest of Britannia's long line of sea heroes swung away from grim old Waterloo Station to the stirring strains of "Hearts of Oak", played

BRITISH AIRMEN FLY DEEP INTO GERMAN TERRAIN

"Successful Reconnaissance Flights" Over Austria and Bohemia Announced by Air Ministry

NO DETAILS GIVEN

Machine - Gun Fire Heard Off English Coast as Fighter Planes Chase Nazi Raider

London, Feb. 23 (CP)—The Air Ministry announced today that Royal Air Force planes which scouted Helligoland Bight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning bombed German warships and fought off enemy fighting planes.

The Berlin communique of Wednesday said that early this morning "enemy planes from the west and northwest" flew over Heligoland Bight, strategic waters off the northwest German coast, but mentioned nothing of results.

The Air Ministry that day announced a successful reconnaissance of Heligoland Bight by several R.A.F. planes.

Announcement of details of the Heligoland engagement followed an Air Ministry disclosure that R.A.F. planes, flying deep into German territory, last night made "successful reconnaissance flights" over Austria and Bohemia.

Elaborate on Flight

Elaborating on the Heligoland flight, the Air Ministry stated today:

"As already announced Royal Air Force aircraft were active over Heligoland Bight during Tuesday night and the early hours of Wednesday.

"Warships observed near Heligoland (German North Sea naval fortress) were attacked with bombs. Anti-aircraft fire was encountered

VIIPURI STANDS, DEFIES RUSSIANS ON ANNIVERSARY

Red Army's Hopes to Have Captured City by 22nd Anniversary Dashed

BLIZZARD HALTS RAIDS

Moscow, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Red army reported the capture of the 676th. Mannerheim line fortification today but failed to fulfill the expectation of its admirers by taking the Finnish city of Viipuri (Viborg) as a 22nd. anniversary feat.

A Leningrad military command communique reported the capture of "21 defensive fortifications, including 15 iron and concrete artillery forts" on the Karelian Isthmus. This added to the 654 previously reported taken.

Lecturers in Moscow previously had expressed confidence the army's birthday celebration today would coincide with an announcement that the Mannerheim line had been broken and Viipuri, key objective of 85 days of warfare, had fallen.

The Red army, largest in the world, continued hammering at Finnish defences by land and air although the communique said a blizzard had restricted aerial warfare to reconnoitering flights.

Russians Offer Explanation

Russian spokesmen sought to justify the time elapsed in the campaign against Finland by comparing the capture of the "hundreds" of Finnish forts and pillboxes with the lack of similar progress by the armies on the western front.

Caterers to Advise Army Cooks To Make Best Use of Rations

With the British forces in France Feb. 23 (CP-Reuters)—"Catering advisers" are coming out from England to advise army cooks in the British Expeditionary Force as to ways of making the best use of rations. Many of these kitchen experts are connected with the hotel business in civil life.

The senior officer of the supplies service said great things are expected from the "catering advisers" who will visit all units, including those in the front line.

"Take the prune," he said. "Prunes and other dried fruits, such as figs, dates and apples, are issued to units once weekly. But how many cooks know how to treat the prune properly? Some cooks just boil them and you have small wizened things on your plate. Now if you soak the prune 24 hours before you boil it, you have a magnificent dish."

'New Strong Points' And War Material Taken by Finns

800 Russians Are Killed and 100 Are Captured at Sikniemi

TANKS DESTROYED

Russian War Planes Raid Issalmi and Kill 12 Women and Children, Says British Communique

By THOMAS HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Helsinki, Feb. 23 (AP)—Two Red army battalions were dispersed with large numbers killed in one battle on the Karelian Isthmus and 800 Russians slain in another, the Finnish high command announced today.

The smashing of the two battalions was the result of the repulse of six Russian attacks between the Gulf of Finland and Muloa, westernmost sector of the Mannerheim line, the Finnish communique said.

The communique, reporting yesterday's action, said that between Lake Muola and Ayrapaanjaervi "the enemy attacked twice, leaving behind him each time as he withdrew about a battalion killed."

Russians Repulsed

"An enemy force that attacked across Ayrapaanjaervi at Sikniemi was repulsed and lost about 800 killed and about 100 prisoners," the communique continued.

Ayrapaanjaervi is a lake about 22 miles nearly due east of Viipuri (Viborg) and almost midway of the Isthmus.

The Finns reported capturing "several new strong points" northeast of Lake Ladoga, along with "large quantities of war material," including 12 guns "and more than 50 machine guns and sub-machine guns, 10 field kitchens, tractors, automobiles and ammunition."

22 Tanks Destroyed

The Finns reported destroying six tanks here and 16 more in the Isthmus fighting.

"Several enemy patrols were wiped out" in the Kuhmo sector farther north, the communique said.

Russian war planes raided Issalmi in the home area and killed 12 women and children, the communique said, and also dropped "a few parachute patrols which were either killed or taken prisoner."

As the Red Army went into its 23rd day of assaults on the Karelian Isthmus, the Finns confirmed that Soviet forces were attacking in the region of Kamara, a dozen miles southeast of Viipuri (Viborg), but reported the defensive lines eastward to Lake Ladoga were holding fast.

Situation at Viipuri

Already the Finns had acknowledged semi-officially that on the west, near the Gulf of Finland, Viipuri could be counted a definite part of the front lines.

Fighting, however, was in progress across the entire isthmus, the narrow bridge of land which is Russia's most direct connection to populous southern Finland.

A Russian victory here, said foreign military observers, would allow the Red Army to form a wider front and manoeuvre infantry more readily than in the comparatively restricted confines of the Isthmus.

They still would have no easy path, these observers said, for behind the Mannerheim Line's forts and trenches is a network of marshy lakes. The usual spring rains would make this area of great defensive value.

Northeast of Lake Ladoga, where the Russians tried to outflank the Mannerheim Line, a Red Army was being isolated in a new "lost battalion" drama.

There, where the Soviet 18th Division was shattered by a process of attrition, one remaining group of Russians, described as about a battalion in strength, hung on valiantly as the Finns drew the noose tighter.

47 German Bombers Shot Down in France Since War Began

With the Royal Air Force in France, Feb. 22—(P)—The Allies' fighters and anti-aircraft guns have shot down forty-seven German bombers in France since the war began, Air Headquarters said today.

For the first time the entire crew of a British bomber have now received awards for bravery, it was announced at the same time. The men are Squadron Leader W. M. L. MacDonald, Distinguished Flying Cross; Sergt. Gardiner, Gallantry Medal of the Order of the British Empire, and Aircraftsman First Class Alexander Murcar, Distinguished Flying Medal.

Squadron Leader MacDonald led a flight of five battle planes which took off from a French airfield at the end of September to reconnoitre positions behind the German lines in the most strongly defended part of the Saar.

Three were shot down in flames and a fourth made a forced landing. MacDonald and his men fought their way out of a hornet's nest of fifteen Messerschmitt fighters and intense anti-aircraft fire into which the flight ran. Eighty bullets tore holes in the fabric of the aircraft. Others smashed the instrument board. One fuel tank burst. But the craft was brought back safely.

ITALIAN PAPERS FORECAST WAR ON NEW FRONTS

Possibilities Range From Balkans to the Caucasus and in Scandinavia

RUSSIA THREATENED

Rome, Feb. 23 (AP). — Imminent extension of the war to new fronts was widely forecast in the Fascist press today.

The possibilities cited very nearly boxed the compass. They ranged from the Caucasus, where Russia has rich oil fields near the Turkish border, to the Balkans, Scandinavia, Finland and the Barents Sea, that body of Arctic water off Northern Russia, Finland, and Scandinavia.

Il Piccolo used the headline: "Intensive war preparations in the east—the allies are seeking a near battle field." Il Popolo Di Roma said: "London threatens the Kremlin with war". Il Messagero bannered: "London wants decisive action".

OBITUARY

MRS. HOWARD GRAY

After an illness of one year's duration Mrs. Howard Gray passed away at the family residence, 284 Foster Ave., on Thursday evening, February 22nd.

The late Mrs. Gray, who was in her 57th. year, was born in Kingston, Ont. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Elizabeth Ann Farrell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farrell. For the past twenty-six years she resided in Belleville and held a high place in the regard of many friends to whom her passing has brought sincere regret. In religion she was a member of St. Michael's Church.

Surviving her are her husband, Mr. Howard Gray; one daughter, Mrs. John Lafferty, Trenton; one son, Mr. Earl Joseph Gray, Sudbury; one sister, Mrs. Mary Woods, Akron, Ohio; five brothers, Mr. Michael Farrell, Kingston; Mr. Wm. Farrell, Kingston; Mr. James Farrell, Toronto; Mr. Bernard Farrell, Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. Stewart Farrell, Rochester, N.Y.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

Norwood Wins First Game in School Playoffs

Tweed, Feb. 23 (Special)—Norwood High School defeated Tweed High School in a strenuous encounter in the first of home and home games by a score of 7 to 5. The second game of the round will be played in Norwood on Saturday night. As total goals on the round count, the visitors returned home with a margin of two goals. They anticipate little difficulty in protecting this lead on their larger ice surface, the second largest in the province.

Puffer, easily the best of the visitors, opened the scoring on a solo effort, the first of two goals which he scored in the opener. Don Porritt, husky defenceman of the locals broke through for the only local goal of the opening frame.

The locals monopolized the scoring in the middle stanza, with Porritt scoring twice; Trudeau and Courneyea each secured a single marker, while Buck scored twice for Norwood. The period ended with the homesters leading by 5-4. No penalties were inflicted in this period.

The visitors opened up in the last period with Puffer and Buck again beating Wagar from close in as they combined to get by the defence. Johnson scored the final goal of the game in the last minute of play. Porritt drew the only penalty of the game when he tripped Green as he was in the clear. A penalty shot was awarded to Norwood by Referee Innis. Puffer's effort was easily blocked by Wagar who took the rubber on his pads.

Tweed: Goal, Wagar; defence, Porritt, Courneyea; centre, Bergeon; wings, Luffman, Langevin; subs, Vance, Connor, Hayes, Doyle, Trudeau.

Norwood: Goal Bonguard; defence, Puffer, Gardiner; centre, Johnson; wings, Buck, Green; subs, Nelson, Cole, Morris, Lemon, Lubo, Fife.

Referees: Innis, F. Geraldi.

An interesting review of the book "The Arab Awakening" by George Antonius, was given by H. D. Williams.

Dr. D. S. Lighthall was guest speaker and spoke on "The Mound Builders of Prince Edward County" Study of early life has been his hobby and he exhibited some of the article found in mounds in the county. Mounds had been found at Cold Creek, Black Creek, Picton, Cherry Valley road, Bald Head near Consecon and Trout Creek near Picton.

Dr. Lighthall believed more facts covering the existence of these mound builders would be ascertained when new mounds were discovered. He had investigated mounds where arrows, pottery and other articles were found. In one ossuary nine skeletons or portions had been uncovered.

The speaker believed the mound builders came to North America from Asia shortly after the ice age. Ice some three feet thick covered the continent fifteen thousand years ago, said Dr. Lighthall.

POLICE COURT

Today's session of city police court was short and somewhat to the point as only three minor cases were heard by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C.

Douglas Striker, Milford, appeared charged with careless driving, the charge being a sequel to a motor accident which occurred on Dundas Street over the week-end. The only damage resulting was to Striker's own car, Chief Kidd revealed. The minimum fine was imposed.

Two Madoc residents appeared on minor charges of the violation of the Liquor Control Act and paid corresponding fines.

No arrests have been necessary in Belleville, with the exception of the above two cases, during the past three days, police reporting their activities in the entire district being rather tranquil of a recent date. Nine transients were afforded warm sleeping quarters at the police station last night.

ONTARIO'S HOUSE NOT TO PROROGUE

Leopold Macaulay, (Cons. York South) asked why something was not done about "these vast gambling bastilles" near Toronto. Mr. Conant said he had sent police in once and two days later municipal officials protested.

"So what?" said Mr. Macaulay. "So what?" came back the minister, "I'm not going to do it any more."

Former Premier George S. Henry (Con., York East) said one attorney-general had been run out of office for saying he was no policeman. Evidently Mr. Conant took the same attitude.

Only 22 in House

Only three Conservatives and 19 Liberals were in their seats when the house opened last night and in committee of supply dealt with educational department estimates. Education Minister Simpson said provincial grants to primary schools were larger because of higher salaries for teachers.

French specialists were employed in Ontario secondary schools who didn't understand the language, A. Belanger, (Lib. Prescott), told the House. The educationists spoke Parisien French — the worst in the world. This resulted from too much teaching in French grammar and too little in oral French.

Before the vote to go into committee of supply, Premier Hepburn replied briefly to Conservative leader George Drew who sought a 10 per cent cut in the estimates. Col. Drew said Ontario's job was to reduce taxation on individuals and industry in order to make a maximum contribution in Canada's war effort.

Not Shown Where to Reduce

Premier Hepburn said Col. Drew had not shown where estimates could be reduced. Never had there been more accuracy in budget forecasts and expenditures than in his term, but because of war conditions the Premier said he didn't feel so sure about the forecast for the next fiscal year.

Ontario is giving far more back to the municipalities than she took from them when she absorbed income taxes previously levelled municipally into provincial revenues, Premier Hepburn said.

Ontario's job was to reduce taxation on individuals and industry in order that they might make a maximum contribution to Canada's war effort, said Col. Drew. Yet Ontario showed no sign of curtailing expenditures.

Drew Urges Economy

Gross ordinary expenditures of Ontario had mounted from $70,263,982 in 1930 to $99,536,122 estimated for the next fiscal year, said Col. Drew.

"In 1930 there was an entirely different system of bookkeeping," said Premier Hepburn. "It didn't show cross-entries.

Col. Drew said the estimated expenditure per capita was $23.85 and the people weren't getting value for it.

"In December there were 290,000 people dependent on the province wholly or in part," observed Premier Hepburn. "They don't contribute."

"The very people to whom the Premier refers get money for relief and whether they know it or not when they spend this money they are contributing taxes to the province," retorted Col. Drew.

With a gross provincial debt of $881,000,000 there was danger in increasing capital obligations, said Col. Drew. Ontario was approaching the billion-dollar debt mark. He urged "a really dramatic act of economy on the part of the government."

Corporation Tax Bill Passes

Premier Hepburn said Col. Drew had not put his finger on one spot where estimates could be reduced. He had talked a long while and said nothing. The Premier referred to unanticipated provincial expenditures, such as those for guarding Hydro plants since the outbreak of war. Col. Drew seemed to be lukewarm to this expenditure.

The Conservative leader said he was heartily in favor of it, but he thought that it should be a federal cost and that after March 26 the province should take it up with the new government that would be at Ottawa.

"It is indefinite as to whether there will be a new government," said Premier Hepburn. "I'm not expressing my own views at this moment."

Preceding the budget debate, the House moved much legislation through committee stage, second and third readings. The bill increasing provincial taxes on corporation incomes was given final passage. The measure would seriously damage business and retard employment, Col. Drew predicted.

House Approves Clause

The House approved in committee stage a clause in the statute law amendment act requiring the approval of the welfare minister for the dismissal of any municipal relief administrator or his assistants. Liberals were unanimous for the change. Col. Drew opposed it, but one of his followers, George Dunbar (Con. Ottawa South) said it was high time something was done to prevent local politicians interfering in relief administration.

Col. Drew was at odds with another of his followers—this time Frank Spence (Con. Fort William) —when the leader opposed a government bill to permit export of peeled spruce pulpwood from lands held by railways and other corporations. Col. Drew said the House didn't have enough information. Mr. Spence said the pulpwood was going to waste and should be exported if no other market could be found. The bill carried on second reading.

During review of Health Department estimates Dr. Harold Welsh (Con. Hastings East) said he thought the government made a mistake in doing away with district health officers in northern Ontario, though he conceded they were not needed in the older sections of the province.

Welsh Praises Service

Doctors in the health department were giving fine service, said Dr. Welsh. They were not extravagant and in any case the treasury had a good watchdog in Chester Walters, controller of revenues.

Ontario Milks Control Board should be abolished, Leopold Macaulay (Con. York South) said when agriculture department estimates were being considered. T. L. Kennedy (Con. Peel) moved that the estimate of $40,925 for the board be reduced to $25,000, but the estimate stayed as it was.

Mr. Macaulay inquired what the salary was of William Newman, former Liberal member for Victoria, now employed in the department of agriculture. Agriculture Minister P. M. Dewan said it was $3,400, plus travelling expenses.

"He's in the Ontario Senate," said Mr. Macaulay. "That is where he is."

"That Senate isn't as large as it was a few years ago," interjected Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon.

"It is getting larger all the time," said Mr. Macaulay, recalling when Mr. Nixon had once waxed wrothy about former Conservative House members getting jobs in the Civil Service.

A. H. Acres (Con. Carleton) said he had no objection to Mr. Newman having a job, but he thought he should pay his own travelling expenses as did district agricultural representatives.

MANION DENIES KING'S CHARGES IN RADIO SPEECH

States Prime Minister Warned Against Canada's Lack of Defences

ON WAY EAST

Calgary, Feb. 23 (CP)—Charges by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that he had not been warned against Canada's lack of defences before the war started were denied here last night by Conservative leader Manion.

"Mr. King is just not telling the truth when he says he was not warned by me and by others," Dr. Manion declared in an election campaign address. The Conservative chief is on his way back to Eastern Canada after travelling as far west as Victoria during a general election campaign tour of Western Canada.

Dr. Manion will speak in Edmonton tonight, following which he will go to Winnipeg where he will make a speech tomorrow night. He is scheduled to talk again in Kakabeka Falls, Ont., Feb. 26.

The Conservative leader said the Prime Minister had been warned of the country's unpreparedness by himself in the House of Commons a year ago. Warnings also had been given last June by W. D. Black, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and by the Defence Association on a number of occasions.

Cited Hansard as Proof

Dr. Manion cited the Hansard reports of his speeches in the Commons of January 16, 1939, his first speech there in three years, and again on May 12, 1939. On the first occasion he had asserted that Canada could not be without defences, especially when such threats were being made by the dictators, for whom Canada would be a choice morsel. He had said then that it should not have taken the government four years to recognize that the world was not going to be peaceful when there was no semblance of peace. He had said Canada must be ready to participate in the defence of democratic ideals and also had urged the government to "stop fiddling and get down to business."

Reviewing the government's war record, Dr. Manion pressed his charges that the government had "betrayed" Britain and Canadian industry in turning down the original air training scheme proposed two years ago. He sketched the farm policy laid down for his proposed National Government and also proposed establishment of a national fuel policy in regard to coal and oil.

Claims Soldiers Ill-Clothed

Preceding Dr. Manion, Col. D. G. L. Cunnington, Conservative candidate in Calgary West, asserted that while the Prime Minister claimed all enlisted men had been properly uniformed within three months after the war began, citizens of Calgary knew that "up to a few days ago" men enlisted here had been clad in "khaki fatigue pants."

Introducing the party chief, Dr. V. Macaulay said a National Government would plan for use of surplus oil produced in nearby Turner Valley.

Later Dr. Manion proposed a complete review of the oil industry's tax and freight burden so that it might be placed in something the same position as the gas industry.

A National Government would aid development of the present oil fields and also help discovery of other fields so Western Canada would become of greater importance in the empire oil supply.

Make Easier Competition

Regarding oil, he advocated a policy which would make it easier for Canadian coal, either from Eastern or Western Canada, to compete with United States coal in Central Canada.

Dr. Manion accused the present government of striking "a series of blows at our coal industry,". It had removed the three per cent excise tax under the trade treaty with the United States making it easier for United States to ship coal into Canada, making it more difficult for Western and Eastern Canada to ship coal to the central provinces. It had also reduced subsidies on Canadian coal, "giving economy as the reason," making competition in the central Canadian market more difficult.

No Blind Promises

He would not make "blind promises," he said, but would make every effort to aid utilization of Canadian resources to give Canadian workmen a fair deal.

"When I form a government I shall do whatever is necessary, by way of remission of taxes or otherwise, to assist and encourage the industry until such time as it has overcome the difficulties incidental to its early development and has been firmly established on its feet," he continued.

A National Government would aim to bring about "a real development not only of the present oil fields but to make Western Canada of greater importance in the Empire oil supply.

The petroleum division of the Resources Department would be expanded to help research for oil. An "extremely heavy burden of taxation" was now delaying oil exploratory work.

W. E. Tummon Elected President Tweed Red Cross

Tweed—Mr. W. E. Tummon was the unanimous choice of Tweed Red Cross Branch for the office of President at the annual meeting held in the Veterans' Hall on Monday evening. Despite the fact that Mr. Tummon is moving to Foxboro early in March, he very kindly consented to continue in the office of president of Tweed Red Cross for the year 1940. The local branch was organized early in September 1939, largely through Mr. Tummon's enthusiastic interest and the society felt that the loss of his guidance would be a serious matter. Despite the fact that returning to Tweed periodically will considerably inconvenience him, Mr. Tummon willingly agreed to accept re-election.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Members present—Mrs. H. L. Morrison, Mrs. F. B. Foster, Mrs. J. C. Hayes, Mrs. Jno. McNaught, Mrs. A. E. Beach, Mrs. F. C. Arber, Mrs. D. W. Sills, Mrs. J. F. Doyle, Miss C. Meiklejohn, Messrs W. E. Tummon, Geo. Elwood and S. H. Connor.

The secretary and treasurer were instructed to forward their reports to headquarters in Toronto.

The secretary read letters from the Ontario Red Cross anent contribution to National Headquarters for overseas activities. It was moved by Mrs. Hayes and seconded by Miss Meiklejohn that Tweed branch make an immediate contribution of $100 to National Headuarters.

In the election of officers which ensued the following were chosen as officers for 1940:

President, W. E. Tummon.

Vice Presidents, Mrs. J. C. Hayes, Mrs. M. J. Quinn, Mrs. F. B. Foster, Mrs. S. B. Rollins, Mrs. E. Wright.

Treasurer, Geo. Elwood.

Secretary, S. H. Connor.

Assistant Secretary, Miss Cosey Meiklejohn.

It was decided that in view of Mr. Tummon's absence from town at times when important matters have to be dealt with, that an officer should be chosen to have full charge at such times. It was moved by Mrs. Arber and seconded by Mrs. Doyle that Mr. C. E. White should be named a vice president. Carried.

The following committees were appointed:

Women's War Work Committee—The five lady vice presidents who will add to their numbers.

Wool Committee—Mrs. John McNaught (convener), Mrs. W. E. Prust, Mrs. Ray Quinn, Mrs. D. W. Sills, Mrs. P. T. Bowlby, Mrs. J. W. McGowan.

Hospital Supply Committee—Mrs. Geo. E. Clark (convener), Miss Edith Graham, Mrs. Stan Quinn, Mrs. H. Countryman.

Shipping Committee—Mrs. F. C. Arber (convener), Mrs. W. E. Tummon, Mrs. Felix Rashotte, Mrs. S. A. McCarey.

Supply Secretary, Miss Myrtle Foster.

The treasurer gave a financial statement of Tweed Red Cross Branch up to December 31st.

A resolution was passed by the executive placing on record their appreciation of the loyal services of the large group of ladies who, through their knitting, sewing and other activities, have made it possible for the Branch to carry on its work so successfully during the past few months. With this resolution was expressed the hope that any who have not yet done so will join with the others in carrying on these essential war services.

Since the organization of Tweed and Sulphide Branch four hundred and eighty articles of all kinds have been made. The number of workers engaged in this work is one hundred and twenty, thirty-five of whom assist in the work room each week.

H. C. Martin Honored By the Fire Brigade Of Stirling Village

Stirling—(Special)—On Tuesday evening all the members of the Stirling Voluntary Fire Brigade gathered at the home of Mr. H.C. Martin, who recently announced his retirement from active service in the organization of which he has been a prominent member for the past thirty years and for twenty-nine years Treasurer.

In reviewing the past thirty years Mr. Martin stated, that cost had been low and that a special celebration sponsored by the brigade had provided the money which equipped the members with such equipment as rubber coats, helmets and boots. The Brigade had an enviable record in the fact that since 1910 though many fires had been fought by the men who were always on the job at the moment called no serious mishap had taken place.

Modern equipment increases efficiency, he declared. In the early days the method of bucket brigades presented many problems that have ceased to exist with Stirling's modern waterworks system and fire truck, good hose and general improvement in all branches of the department, fire hazard had been greatly reduced throughout the village.

The evening was spent in brief speeches by prominent members of the organization climaxing with the presentation of a fine Coleman bag to Mr. Martin and an address expressing appreciation of his long and faithful service was read. The address was signed on behalf of the Stirling Fire Brigade by the following members present:

R. H. Williams, A. F. Weaver, Francis Jeffrey, Gordon Bailey, Earle Green, Carl Conley, Conley Ackers, C. R. Bastedo, Earl Luery.

At the conclusion of the social part of the evening and the presentation ceremony luncheon was served climaxing a fine evening. Mr. Martin capably expressed his appreciation of the kindly gesture. Mr. Gordon Bailey was appointed to the position of Treasurer left vacant by Mr. Martin's resignation.

Tuxis Boys Meet at Marmora

On Sunday afternoon nearly one hundred boys of the district gathered in the lodge hall for a meeting to advance the cause of organised Youth under the program of the Canadian Tuxis Square Movement. Mr. Roy Juby presided over the meeting. A model Tuxis group meeting was portrayed by the Tuxis square group from Bridge Street United Church and great interest was shown in the ceremony by boys from all parts of the district. The Group from Belleville were directed in their activity by Mr. Moore, mentor of the group and Mr. Fred Houchin of Stirling presided at the piano. A special musical number in the form of a violin solo was contributed by a member of the Marmora Group.

Leslie Pickering of Belleville, Member of the Older Boys Parliament for South Hastings was the featured speaker of the afternoon and in his fine address capably described activities of Parliament while in session, the purpose of its being and the qualification necessary to make a boy eligible as a member. These qualifications are strictly observed and serve to raise the standard of good living in Canadian Youth. The Parliament is financed by the selling of Bonds and in it's sessions, carried on in strict parliamentary fashion, Canadian Boys are educated on matters such as proper Parliamentary procedure.

Other prominent speakers of the day included Rev. Mr. Fletcher and Mr. Jack Baker of Bonarlaw. It is hoped that the meeting will bring forth a worthy Boys' Organization in Marmora.

Mr. F. R. Mallory spent a few days last week in Toronto where he attended the Annual Convention of the Ontario Fairs' Association. Mr. Mallory is Secretary of the local Fair Board and represented Stirling Agricultural Society along with the President Mr. J. B. Thompson.

Mrs. I. Kerr and Miss Elsie Kerr, Reg. N., have returned to Toronto after spending a week visiting friends in Stirling and Belleville..

Capt. W. H. Pedley will return to his post on Friday after spending eight days leave at his home in Stirling.

Among those from Stirling present at the Special Tuxis Square meeting held in Marmora on Sunday last were: H. Hagerman, Art. Duncan, Donald Scott, Garland McKeown, Russill. Pyear, Fred Houchin, George Dainard, Don Hulin, Fred Elgie, Don Williams, Cecil Macklin, Russill West, George McLeaming, Roy Juby.

Mr. John Munro of Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, spent the week end visiting relatives and friends in Stirling.

Messrs. J. L. Good, Arthur Duncan, John Munro, C. A. Wells, John Munro, Morriss Rose and Russill West were among those from Stirling who attended the High School Hockey game in Tweed on Saturday night last.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scarlett of Trenton were Tuesday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hulin.

Pte. Fred Dainard of the Lanark-Renfrew Scottish regiment is enjoying his first visit home on leave this week.

Mr. Lorne Anderson of Roseneath spent the week end visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Anderson.

Pte. Gerald Ward of the R.C.A.F. Trenton, spent a few days last week visiting relatives in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Martin left on Wednesday to spend a few days with relatives and friends in Toronto and Hamilton.

Mr. Wm. Jones spent the week end with friends in Toronto and Islington.

Memorial Service

A large congregation attended the special service of tribute to the late Lord Tweedsmuir conducted at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by Rev. W. H. V. Walker. The fine service which included a fine address by the minister embodied special musical contributions by a large choir under the direction of Miss Grace Pitman, who presided at the organ.

Bridge Party in Aid of Red Cross

A very successful card party was held at the home of Mrs. Nina Morton and Mrs. Nora Wescott in aid of the Stirling Red Cross. After a pleasant evening of cards luncheon was served and the committee in charge of the event are to be congratulated for the manner in which they arranged the interesting social function for a worthy cause.

NAZIS GIVEN SURPRISE

Nazi airmen this week found themselves facing a new situation, they were brought face to face with anti-aircraft guns on British fishing boats.

The policy of the German Nazis would be met, Mr. Chamberlain said a few weeks ago. Now the answer is guns and bullets against the German airmen who would machine-gun or bomb helpless fishermen.

How the Germans imagined they could kill and wound the men in the fishing boats and not be called upon to pay is one of the things humanity has not been able to discover. German military stupidity was displayed throughout the other war and absolute disregard of consequence seems to be the Nazi German policy in carrying on this war.

Soon the Hun bombers will have learned that an attack on a trawler may bring them down into the sea.

Shooting at harmless fishermen was not dangerous to enemy bombers but it was most inhuman and unmanly. Being caught by the guns of trawlers, it will now lose its fascination for the Nazi command.

GERMANS FED ON GOEBBELIZED INFORMATION

People of democracies would hardly know themselves if they could learn just what the German Nazis allow the German people to know about the condition of the people of the United Kingdom.

A dancer returning from Germany under an exchange agreement whereby 8 civilian Germans in England were exchanged for a like number of English who had been held in Germany had the surprise of her life when she walked into her mother's home and found food. She had been told in Germany that the British were starving and so on her way across from Germany she carefully saved what food she could in order to help out her mother. She had the very happy experience of finding that her mother and the family were well-fed and had ample food.

This is a typical revelation of the state-enforced ignorance of the German people as to the real state of affairs in the Allied countries and probably in large measure of the neutral countries.

Those whom Hitler has Hitlerized live on false information as to the exact state of affairs in their own country as well as in the Allied countries. Hitler's answer, if he would speak, would be that the Germans have no right to know anything but what he chooses, that it would interfere with the policy of the Nazis for them to know what is going on in lands beyond the German borders.

Propagandist Goebbels has goebbelized every form of information to suit the Nazi. He is doing a work which is thoroughly suitable to the German dictator who will trust no German with the truth.

HE SAW THE COMING PERIL

A former American ambassador to Germany, Dr. William Dodd, is dead but his name is known to many through the press for he was one of the first men to see the coming Nazi peril. Dodd was outspoken, he asked to be relieved of his post and the world soon knew his attitude to the destructive storm of Hitlerism which he saw coming.

To him today the world owes a great deal for drawing its attention to the trend of events which he saw in Hitler's regime.

He saw the Fuehrer steadily reducing the liberties of the German people and the general decadence of that people under the rule of the dictator.

What he saw could not be exaggerated though the story was almost unbelievable. Events have proven that he and those who saw with him what was happening in Germany knew whereof they spoke.

Many were probably surprised by his boldness at the time in speaking as he did of the German leader and of the steady weakening of the German people.

Today the world feels the full sweep of the foul influence and tragedy the world endured with the arrival of Adolf Hitler on the scene of the world's politics.

'MYSTERY' OF THE BIRD ATTACKS

If there were any persons who imagined that some as yet undescribed bird had been attacking timber workers in the Rouyn area of Quebec, they had a disappointment. For the bird was the large horned owl and such attacks on men wearing fur caps are not unusual especially when on their way to work early in the morning near the woods or when they return home from the woods just before darkness. The owl being a bird which lives on such food as rabbits, seeing the fur of the cap and not the face of the lumberman, would swoop down and attempt to carry off the fur. Naturally the man would resist and there would be scratches on his face and hands if they were exposed.

Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb of Abbey Dawn,, who was in the city this week, said that there was a record kept by a naturalist of such attacks experienced in Labrador from the great horned owl. That book was published in 1906. The author mentioned case after case of such attacks by large horned owls on men on the edge of wooded areas.

The human mind is such that it is intrigued with the sense of mystery, a very natural thing, because of man's development through the ages. So arose such a story as that of "ogopogo" in British Columbia waters some years ago, and the mystery of the Monster of Ness seems to be another. Once in a while a story drifts in of a mysterious animal with qualities which might indicate it as a cross between different animal groups, of such animals attacking human beings and of being seen on the edge of clearings or in the depths of forests.

But the scientist has a wide knowledge of the groups of the animal and the bird kingdoms and would be surprised if a species of strange animals was able to live from generation to generation almost within touch of civilization and not be detected.

So the Rouyn mystery bird at once was believed by Dr. Tavenor of Ottawa to be one of the owls which was seeking food and attacked the lumbermen's caps. A beaver trap set in a tree top captured a great horned owl and the mystery was explained.

With reference to mythological animals, such as the dragon and the unicorn, some believe there may be a basis of fact behind these traditions which have come down from prehistoric times. But if so, the real animals and their descriptions which have come down to us differ greatly. The very sane Greeks, the greatest artists and philosophers, were of a race that kept in its mythology such animals as the half-man-horse, the centaur, which assuredly never existed, the tradition likely being the relic of man's early limited knowledge of science and of the animals and birds of the unknown places of the earth.

Daily War Survey

By The Canadian Press

Finland's hard - pressed defenders in the Karelian Isthmus received a bit of luck when a blizzard howled over the battlefields and temporarily slowed up the Russian attacks but the finest gift the weatherman could give Finland now probably would be an early spring.

On the new Finnish defence line an early spring would work against the mechanized Russian forces.

While exact location of the new Finnish defence line has not been disclosed it probably runs from somewhere south and west of Viipuri across the Isthmus to Lake Ladoga. The line is thus somewhat shorter than the first line through which the Russians penetrated in their long offensive drive.

Aside from being shorter the new line traverses a veritable network of lakes and rivers. In winter transport over this territory is simple as the waters are frozen but with the spring breakup the Russian mechanized force would be up against a more difficult problem.

The shorter line and the watered area may, to some extent, help the Finns overcome the disadvantage of inferior numbers should the ice go out before the Russians smash the new line.

So long as the Russians enjoy freedom of movement over the ice-bound lakes they can bring up fresh troops to launch new attacks each day while the same small garrisons of Finns must keep fighting day after day without relief, without rest and perhaps without sufficient reinforcements to replace their casualties.

They are Dutch

Adriaan J. Barnouw obviously had a wide choice of names for the volume which he describes on the title page as a portrait study of the people of Holland. He might have called it just that, or Holland and Its People, or The People of the Netherland, or Netherland Portraits, or Holland Traits. Instead he chooses to call his book "The Dutch", just out loud like that, and in the very first sentence of his preface he leaves no doubt of his intentions. He picked the title of the book "as a challenge to those Hollanders who are ashamed of the name of Dutch". The author is himself a native of Holland and for twenty years has been Queen Wilhelmina Professor of the Dutch Language and Literature at Columbia University states the New York Times.

As a matter of fact, it is not wholly a case of Hollanders shying away from the name Dutch in spoken and written English because of certain uncomplimentary phrases like Dutch courage or Dutch concert or the Dutch taking Holland. There are more practical reasons.

Sound Not Pleasing

Half a dozen years ago the Netherland Government issued orders that all official correspondence in English abandon the word Dutch and substitute the word Netherland in names like the Dutch East Indies. The reason was Hitler and his ferocious persecution of the Jews. The boycott on German goods by people in this country worried Dutch manufacturers and exporters because of the similarity of Deutsch and Dutch. Perhaps it was not wholly the chance of Dutch goods actually being mistaken for German goods that bothered The Hague Government. Hitler has done very little to make the very sound of the German name popular abroad.

In this country it is a good many years now since Mr. Dooley and Mr. Hennessey would occasionally refer to the Dutchman who ran the delicatessen store down the street. They meant the German delicatessen store. Does the mixed usage still flourish? We doubt it. Americans have a pretty clear distinction on the whole between the Dutchman in the delicatessen store and the Dutch in Knickerbocker's History of New York and "Hans Brinker".

Dutch Well Established

Professor Barnouw is perfectly right when he argues that Americans will always need a name for the people of Holland or the Netherlands and will use the easiest and shortest word, which happens to be Dutch. But something more than mere convenience is in favor of the word. There is also history. Children in school are certain to go on saying that along with the English who settled Virginia and Massachusetts, and the French who settled Quebec, and the Swedes who settled Delaware, there is a place called New York which was settled by —automatically—the Dutch.

We have in addition a very well-known piece of American historical writing called "The Rise of the Dutch Republic" and a well-known religious denomination called the Dutch Reformed Church. So let us hope that Mr. Hitler will soon be sent about his business and a fine people like the Dutch of Holland need no longer worry about being mistaken by careless listeners or readers for the Deutach of Deutschland.

Problems Are Natural

A survey which points out room for improvement in the colleges or schools or newspapers or subways. It may be only a report on what might be better. And yet the temptation is always to say, what is wrong with the colleges or the subways? It makes things more interesting, no doubt, but it frightens people, too.

All children are prolbems, but by no means every cihld is a problem child; though if certain perfectionists could have their way there would be very few children who did not have something wrong with them. If children never grew up but always remained in a state of charming infancy, there obviously would be a great many less children's problems.

About children, about schools, about colleges, about the nation and the national way of life, it should be possible to speak of problems and of improvements without falling into the panic attitude of What is Wrong, or Whither? There is nothing necessarily wrong about problems. Problems are what life is made of.

Not Worried

British statesmen are not at all worried over the Norway incident. In truth, British diplomacy is inclined to be just as tough as the British Navy and has the full force of public opinion behind it, as well as 75 per cent of neutral opinion. If there is chicanery and perfidy to be explained away, it lies with Norway, and also with the Nazis. In the face of the admission by the Norwegian Foreign Minister that the Altmark carried guns, it is just the commonplace to have the Nazi captain of the Altmark, in a broadcast to America, say that his ship was entirely without arms, and his crew had been ordered to give no resistance. How, then, did that British tar off the Cossack get a shot through the shoulder?

But the amazing thing of the whole episode was the studied, deliberate overlooking of those 326 men in the hold of the Altmark, by the Norwegian officers. There is every reason to charge collusion with the Germans. More than that, there is every reason to charge collusion when Nazi ships carrying their valuable iron ore cargoes, every week traverse only the territorial waters of Norway. They have to take this route since the freeze-up of the Gulf of Bothnia. It is predicted that out of the diplomatic crossfire, there will come something sensational. Britain will not be backward. There can be such a thing as power pressure by Britain in the manner that Germany has been applying it. The British would put the heat on if they went in and took those Nazi iron ore ships, or made their crews do the scuttle act.

Sweden refuses to permit soldiers to cross that country to help Finland. Why should Norway provide a safe lane for the transport of German raw material for war down along the coast line? The Nazis have threatened every reprisal under the sun for the loss of the Altmark. It would be folly to think that the British Admiralty has not an ace in the hole based on command of the sea.

Chamberlain or Churchill may speak in the British Parliament today. Whatever is said will be with the greatest deliberation and forethought, but in the background lies the thought that Britain has naval power and will use it, under laws of humanity, and it will be the answer to the mass murder every day of the week on the high seas by the Nazis. The time seems to be past for discriminate consideration of a neutral like Norwaj, which would covertly condem 326 British seamen to enslavement in a Nazi concentration camp. This episode was revolting to every instinct of the British people.—St. Catharines Standard.

Italy in Precarious Position, Say Neutral Observers

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, has made public a synthesis of reports from correspondents in different countries of Europe, outlining possible developments of the war in the immediate future, says the Montreal Star. "A most important factor is the sharp difference of opinion between the Reich and Italy in the attitude to be taken toward Russia", he said. "Public men in Italy are repeating the statement that Mussolini will not permit any Russian expansion in the Balkans, and that she will not make war for any extraneous Baltic interest.

"It is hard to believe that Germany concluded an agreement with Russia dealing with Poland and the Baltic States unless that agreement established the main lines along which their several Balkan policies were to be developed. The crucial point of the imperialistic expansion of both Germany and Russia lies in that region. Germany cannot, of course, accept Russian influence or control in Hungary, and Russia refuses to permit German exclusive influence or penetration in Rumania, with her subsequent installation on the shores of the Black Sea.

Italy Gets Little

"On the basis of these facts, it would appear that the zone of the Soviet's hoped-for sphere of influence incudes eastern Rumania, Bulgaria and Turkey, while that of Germany includes Hungary and Yugoslavia, the latter being enlarged to reach the shores of the Aegean Sea. Should Italy decide to enter this combination as a third party, she would have to be satisfied with Dalmatia and some form of protectorate over Greece, from which Salonica would have been subtracted. It is hard to believe that this small portion of the Balkan booty would satisfy Mussolini, but the German argument on this point is that Italy has a natural way of expansion open to her in that part of North Africa now under French control. Should Italy not accept the Russo-German theory of Balkan occupation and partition, she would have to try to oppose it by force of arms. But in that case the military risk would be really very serious for the Fascist control of Italy.

"So long as the present policy lasts, the Allies will not attack on the Siegfried Line, which is almost impregnable. Neither will they violate the neutrality of Luxemburg, Belgium or Switzerland to turn the German defences on the west. Therefore Hitler wil be able to maintain his position from the Rhine to the Moselle with reduced forces, just as he did in his conquest of Poland.

Italy in Danger

"The Hungarian-Yugoslav resistance would be very short. Italy's position would become quickly precarious, even if the Allied Powers send forces to her aid. Turkey, helped by an Allied army of more than 500,000 men, already gathered, would strongly oppose this German advance, but Turkey does not wish to enter any war against Russia if she is not directly attacked by Russia.

"There is every likelihood that the developments of the character just outlined will manifest themselves during the next few weeks. In such a contest, Germany and Russia would have the advantage of territorial continuity and of the ability to manoeuvre on internal lines, while the Allies would have to transport, and maintain in high efficiency, tneir troops and materials to Albania, Macedonia, Rumania and Asia Minor."

THE DOCTORS PROTEST

Public wards in our hospitals are maintained for patients unable to pay anything for their treatment, and for patients of small income who yet are not charity cases. The rate charged does not meet costs of hospital operation, and the difference in the case of the Civic Hospital is made up by the Ottawa taxpayers. Thus the person able to pay for a private or semi-private room, and who instead secures admission to the public ward, is getting the difference at the expense of the taxpayers.

But the protest does not come from the taxpayers nor entirely from the Trustees of the Civic Hospital, but from the doctors. For attending cases in the public wards the doctors are prohibited from making any charge to the patients, and they are not paid for their services by the hospital or anybody else.

The doctors gladly give their services to people whose circumstances entitle them to admission to the public wards but they do object—and quite naturally— to attend without compensation patients who should be able to afford a doctor They contend that these should be admitted to semi-private rooms at $2.50 per day where the doctors can charge and collect fees for medical attention.

In their efforts to protect the doctors in this respect, the Civic Hospital Trustees now have the official support of the Ontario Department of Health. Hon. H. J. Kirby, the Minister has written them that they may exclude from public wards persons able to pay the higher rate, and persons already receiving treatment in public wards may be moved to more expensive accommodation if the authorities are satisfied that the higher rate can be paid.

Of course there are what are known as "border-line" cases—where there is doubt about the ability of the patient to pay—and it is for the most part cases of this sort in which the opportunity to obtain free medical attention is alleged to have been abused.

All these conditions apply to the Ottawa General Hospital equally as the Civic.—Ottawa Journal.

Pep Pills During College Examinations

During the college examinations in my student days, I noticed one of the students with a most peculiar expression on his face and remarked to another student that Blank must be much afraid of the examinations. I was quietly informed that Blank was using a stimulating drug to brighten him up and keep him awake.

Many physicians and others were amazed to read last Spring that students at Universities in the United States and Canada were using stimulating drugs—pep pills—during examinations. This was done in some cases with full knowledge of the university authorities who "recognized' that as the students were likely to be nervous and upset, a pep pill would prevent them from collapsing during the examination.

A timely warning of the danger of the "pep pill" is to hand in the Journal of the American Medical Association from Coroner Lowell C. Smith, M.D., Lafayette, Indiana. who reports the death of a student during a written university examination. The cause of death was a greatly dilated heart. He had eaten large meal just before the examination.

His examination paper, as far as he had completed it was studied by the professor in the subject who stated that the student "was writing a very good paper and had made very good progress in the examination during the hour which he had written." He was a good student, a splendid athlete and had passed life insurance examinations less than a year before.

Dr. Smith points out the great mistake students and others make in using a stimulating drug when they are so fatigued— the usual condition during examinations.

"Four important factors figure prominently in this student's death. They are the large meal, the nervous tension of the examination, fatigue, and the pep pill. Probably no single one of these factors would have caused a sudden collapse and death in a healthy person such as the patient was, but when all were present at once, the situation was changed."

Since it is known that severe collapse can occur following use of "pep pills" when an individual is over tired, it is probable that it contributed to the collapse in this case.

Coal Deliveries Start Soon After Strike is Settled

Toronto, Feb. 23—(CP) — Coal delivery got under way "on the double" in Toronto today as dealers rushed to fill bins near-empty after a four-day delivery strike.

The deadlock ended yesterday when dealers and strikers came to an agreement in the office of Hon. Norman Hipel, Ontario Labor Minister, who acted as chief mediator in the tie-up. No announcement was made as to the terms of the agreement but Mr. Hipel said "all parties seemed happy."

The strikers original demands included a closed shop. There was no indication if the issue was touched on in the agreement. It was believed however one clause called for an investigation of the coal industry soon.

Shortly after the deadlock was broken, heavy coal trucks rumbled through the streets to fill emergency orders in industries, institutions and private homes.

Trapline Tragedies

A "spring pole's" low-bent saplin flips
Then mangled in its snare
A beaver, weighed, with unborn young,
Hangs moaning, helpless there.

Beside the marsh grass' roof of ice
A trappied mink gnaws and gnaws
Through swollen flesh and shattered bone
To freedom form steel jaws.

Wee, anguished, suffering ball of fur,
He crawls off through the night
On two good paws, two bleeding stumps. . . .
O piteous, tragic sight!

Beneath a deep wood's canopy,
Where lacing branches rub,
A mother bear stands by to nurse
Her trapped and crying cub.

Brides Honest If Unblushing

Fredericksburg, Va., — (CP) — Court Clerk Mason H. Willis, who knows whereof he speaks, says the proverbial blushing bride has vanished as completely as the dinosaur.

Since January, 1939, when Fredericksburg became the quick-marriage centre of the east, Clerk Willis has met more than 2,000 brides. He says he has yet to observe a blush.

Many present-day brides actually take the leading role in pre-marital arrangements. Nine times out of 10, Willis avers, it is the bride-elect who writes or telephones here for first-hand information on Virginia's marriage laws. And just as often she answers all the questions Willis is required to ask before issuing a licence — even those pertaining to the name, age, occupation and parentage of her intended.

"And don't you know," said Willis, "every now and then the women pay for the licence."

Willis' only explanation of this transformation is that most women who elope to Fredericksburg are "beyond the blushing age". His statistics reveal that the average Fredericksburg bride is 27, and the groom 30.

But the unblushing brides are honest. Willis says they give their ages without addition or substraction. Even those who are five to ten years older than their would-be mates admit their age.

Though Willis doesn't subscribe to the theory that marriages are made in heaven, he takes every reasonable precaution to be sure that Fredericksburg weddings aren't the product of jazz or gin. He refuses to issue licences after four p.m. or before nine a.m., in compliance with his edict: "No wait unless you're late."

Fiction for German Mothers

The Nazi press continues to advocate the propagation of the species in Germany with an enthusiasm that is amusing mainly because it continues to ignore facts that every schoolboy knows,—that is, every schoolboy in every country who is allowed to read news of the world.

Schwarze Korps, the weekly organ of that charming organization of gentleminded Nazi bullies known as the Blackshirt Elite Guard, urges every German woman to become a mother because "in the East wide spaces are waiting to be filled with German life." By "East" is presumably meant Poland. But it would take a larger stretch of the imagination than even a Blackshirt possesses to picture German mothers cheerfully setting off for blood-stained, wrecked, horror-strewn Poland, as a desirable spot in which to bring up little Fritz and tiny Gretchen, though we can quite understand their being herded off in cattle trucks under the usual methods of genial persuasion with which the name of Hitler has become so happily associated.

But Schwarze Korps goes one better when it declares: "Colonies which we are wresting from the British money-bag call for youthful pioneer spirit. We need more of our best, and only mothers will be able to supply these best." The implication of that last remark must have escaped the eagle eye of Berchtesgaden, or it would never have been printed. But probably Hitler was too busy at the time thinking up names of imaginary British colonies the capture of which he could announce through his mouthpiece Goebbels in order to further mislead the German public as to the fictional triumphs of German arms.

Madoc

Madoc — On Monday evening, a group of Trinity Club members enjoyed a sleigh-riding trip to the home of Mrs. Ford Tumelty, due to the generosity of Robert Caskey.

Following an opening hymn, a brief period of devotion was conducted by Mrs. George White. Fitting words of tribute were given in respect to the memory of Lord Tweedsmuir, whose death on Sunday, Feb. 11th, has occasioned national mourning. The president, Mrs. R. C. Cummings with the assistance of the treasurer Mrs. Jas. Irwin and the secretary, Miss M. Ferguson dispensed with the various items of business. Pleasure was felt concerning the proceeds derived from the skating party. The fine type of box forwarded to a Madoc soldier created interest and also the desire to repeat the procedure. The decision to offer assistance to the Red Cross organization in giving the Thursday afternoon, following our regular meeting, for sewing, was unanimously agreed upon. A pleasant social time was spent with Mesdames K. Stockloser, R. Bristol J. Vowles and Miss S. Smith assisting the hostess in the offering of hospitality.

Mr. Frank Smith, Madoc, and Mr. Ezra Smith of Arnprior attended the funeral of their sister, Mrs. J. Hutchins in Toronto on Tuesday.

Mr. Douglas Ashley of Arnprior spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Ashley.

Mrs. Jennie Morrison is visiting relatives in Toronto.

Cannifton Red Cross Sponsors Play

A rather small, but well-pleased audience gathered in Cannifton Orange Hall on Wednesday evening as the Presbyterian Young People of Foxboro, presented their four-act play "The Road to the City".

The play itself presented many laughter-provoking situations as well as bringing home the idea that "road to the city" is not always the road to happiness.

The acting showed considerable talent and the Red Cross Society, under whose auspices the play was given, tender their thanks to the Young People for a very enjoyable evening.

LEMON JUICE RECIPE CHECKS RHEUMATIC PAIN QUICKLY

If you suffer from rheumatic or neuritis pain try this simple inexpensive home recipe. Get a package of Ru-Ex Prescription from your druggist. Mix it with a quart of water, add the juice of 4 lemons. It's easy and pleasant.

You need only 2 tablespoonsful two times a day. Often within 48 hours — sometimes overnight — splendid results are obtained. If the pains are not quickly relieved and if you do not feel better, Ru-Ex Prescription will cost you nothing to try. Your money back, if it does not help you. Ru-Ex Prescription is for sale and recommended by Doyle's Drug Store and all other leading druggists.

4th Thurlow

4th. Thurlow — Young People's meeting was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. Frank Walker, 3rd line. The program was in charge of Russell Ritz. The main feature of the evening was a debate "Resolved that the City is more dependent on the country for a livelihood than the country on the city." The affirmative side was defended by Clem Treverton and Edith Walker, while the negative side was presented by Harry McPherson and Reta Clarke. Both sides had a splendid array of points, and after several minutes consideration, the judges decided in favour of the negative side on a very narrow margin of points. Mrs. Walker and the girls served cake and coffee to all present.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Too Early Marriage Makes a Girl Lose Her Playtime in Life

Whenever I pick up a paper and read that someone has left a sizable fortune for cats and dogs, though I love both of these "critturs", I wonder why people with money to leave don't start some sort of Foundation for young married women under 20, who have missed their playtime in life.

I get such pitiful letters from girls who have married at 16, 17 or even earlier, and whose lives are a grim round of drudgery, while the almost equally-young child-husband is off evening after evening goodness only knows where.

They've lost their youth and the fun that goes with it, and the young husbands are bored to death with them. These male youngsters regard a crying baby as an atrocity to escape from at all costs. They seek diversion in pool-rooms, movies and pick-up girls, and never give a thought to their young wives' recreation. I have had literally hundreds of letters from young married girls, saying they would look toward death as a blessed release, if it were not for their babies.

A grudging dole comes to these mothers sometimes from some member of the family, who never fails to add: "You oughter known better", which is certainly a nifty way of locking the stable door after the horse is gone.

What's back of all these ill-considered child weddings which turn sour before the wedding dress has lost its freshness? Is it our faulty system of education? Is it those glamorous movies with high-pressure romance and magical surroundings which bewitch a girl of 16 and make her see in some hobbledehoy, who has not yet outgrown the pimples of adolescence, a Prince Charming?

Whatever it is "something ought to be done about it." The remedy might be an educational course on the facts of life, instead of leaving this type of education to sex magazines, which, thank goodness, are now being swept off the newsstands by due process of law.

Another remedy might be in honestly trying to discover if girls have any genuine ability to take training beyond the grade school and teach them something which would enable them to take training beyond the grade schools and teach them something which would enable them to take decent jobs and stand on their own feet.

Some time ago, I got a letter from one of these child-mothers. She was 18, had two children, and realized that if her loneliness and bitterness, caused by the neglect of her husband, did get her down, that she'd be a poor type of mother for her babies.

So she started up some kind of a club in the neighborhood where she lived, got a couple of the mothers to take turns at being "minders" for the other women's children, while the club met. Tea was served with bread-and-butter sandwiches, and the girls discussed best bargains at chain stores, best methods of bringing up babies, and even made little feeble jokes about their absentee husbands who couldn't bear to hear meat frying, babies crying, or the rest of domesticity so different from the movie version. It was just a little friendly pow wow, and it helped lots.

Churches could do real missionary work at home, if they would only take into consideration this side of life. Brave young mothers, who have lost their playmate of life and are doing their best, under the circumstances, surely need a helping hand.

Leap Year Dances Provide Sure-Fire Run

An old reliable, in its pattern and its fun, is the Leap Year dance. "Put in reverse" is its theme-song, and that's just what should be planned for every detail of usual party procedure. The girls, taking the initiative in a big way, are the escorts, and the boys, who must be martyrs to sportsmanship, are the dates. They might be called "blind dates", for the invitations that are sent to them by the hostesses give them no foresight of what is going to happen to them!

The fun begins when the girls call for their dates in their cars and escort them to wherever the dance is to be. Sometimes, in order to make the "doe line" as populous as the usual "stag line", two girls call for one boy. (Manners note: I hope the girls don't honk the horn in front of the boy's house! And I hope, although this hope may be crushed by the boys' revenge, that the girls won't be kept waiting by the boys while they are accomplishing their final sartorial "touches.") The Leap Year hostess helps her date on with his coat!

The girls should provide corsages for their dates. Very often these are fashioned as awkwardly as possible from onions, carrots, stalk of celery and such, but when girls do this I think they are missing a perfect opportunity to send the handsome corsage (gardenias, orchids, or whatever) that will show the boys what their taste in corsages should be.

The climax of the put-in-reverse procedure comes, of course, with the girls cutting-in on the boys' dances. And many a handsome and popular young man, whose cutting-in technic may have been too concentrated on especially pretty girls, may find that the girls have ganged up on him to show him how it feels to be a wallflower.

The girl takes her partner to supper and sees that he has as much chicken salad and ice cream as he coyly desires. And she mustn't forget to keep him supplied with cigarettes.

Sometimes the girls carry the Leap Year privilege throughout the evening and escort their dates home. Sometimes it is taken for granted that midnight marks the end of this "reverse" procedure. The orchestra may give a hint to the boys by following "Good Night, Ladies" with "I was Seeing Nelly Home".

Skating Carnival In Point Anne Rink Aids Red Cross

Point Anne (Special) — A very successful skating carnival was held in Point Anne open-air arena on Wednesday, Feb. 21. The proceeds, which were for Red Cross work, amounted to $30. Several members of the Quinte Skating Club, namely, Miss Helen Grey, Douglas McBride, Clare Ridley, Ralph Griffin, Bill Yerrow and Warren Hodges gave splendid exhibitions of figure skating which drew much applause. This friendly gesture of these talented skaters, who gave their services free gratis, was much appreciated by the Canada Cement Tennis Club which sponsored the event. The large crowd in attendance also showed their appreciation in an enthusiastic manner.

Following the figure skating, races were held, the winners of which were: Boys, age 11, Howard Williams; to age 14, Murney Green, Jr.; free-for all, Don Piles. Girls to age 11, Audrey Green; to age 14, June Deforge; free-for-all, Dorothy King. Prizes were also given for fancy costumes. Best dress prize went to Miss Madeline Bennett; comic, Mrs. J. MacKay. Billie Sutherby aged 10, also received a prize for boy's comic which was well deserved. Billie acted the part of clown as well as being dressed as one.

Following these special events general skating was enjoyed by a large number of young and old.

Music for the evening was furnished by Point Anne Municipal Band composed of members of the Belleville Band with Mr. Walter Aselstine as band master. Bandmaster Jobson was also in attendance.

These bandsmen gave their services free gratis also and helped to make the evening the grand success which it was. Owing to the recent thaw the ice was rough but all events passed off smoothly. The active committee, H. A. Scollan, A. B. Charlton, J. Hart, T. Bowler and P. W. Akey were assisted by others, among them Geo. MacLaughlin, Bill Williams, Clark Fraser and Frank Insley.

Much credit is due those who worked to make the event successful and even the weather man helped out. Mrs. A. Wonnacott of Belleville acted as judge for the costume parade. Following the skating Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tulk invited the bandsmen and the Quinte Club members to the Club House where they were served with a dainty lunch.

Building Today For the Future

By ELEANOR ROSS

TODAY'S house is modern in the best sense of the word. We proved this to ourselves lately by accepting the invitation to visit the newly-completed house of a reader and his family.

Today our standards of what constitutes a beautiful house are vastly different from what they used to be. We once thought in terms of spacious salons, of big foyers, of ornate fixtures. Now we want manufactured climate, we want a house which opens to the outdoors in summer and which has windows that frame views and seem to bring them into the house in the winter. We want corner windows and wall windows that can be controlled at the turn of a crank. We want rooms that can be opened up or shut off to insure privacy. We want a sense of space without waste. We want bathrooms and kitchens which are models of efficiency. We want built-in furniture, and we want fitted closets. We want bedrooms with one wall devoted to wardrobe storage. We know that with properly-equipped wardrobe closets there is no need to clutter up bedrooms with bureaus, chests and dressers. We want proper insulation and sound-proofing.

We feel that these things should be for what is termed the "average" house, things that we can enjoy now.

Everyone Helped

The house this family built should give all would-be owners ideas. Periodical meetings were held at which every member reported his findings as to costs, building possibilities, sources of supply, etc. Finding were embodied in a detailed report and this was presented to the architect and builder, along with sketches of every room, even to the placing of furniture! Of course, when blue prints were drawn up in their finality, some changes had been made But owing to the thought which had gone into this job, surprisingly little had to be eliminated. Builder and architect were delighted at the absence of gadgets. They liked the fact that the house was built so that it could grow.

Next year our friends plan to add a guest wing, with bedroom, dressing room, bath and little porch, that will be part of, yet away from the main house. They prefer this to incorporating a guest room in the original house. At present there is a small sitting room with an inner-door bed that serves as a guest room when necessary.

FIRST WALLPAPER

Plunkett Fleeson of Philadelphia founded the first American wallpaper manufacttory in 1739, according to the authorities of the Cooper Union Museum. The papers were sold in his shop with other wares, which included "bedticks, live geese feathers, blankets and sacking bottoms". No examples of his early wallpaper are known to be extant.

The salmon is one of the most powerful fishes in fresh water, yet the much smaller eels have been known to work together to devour it even in the pride of its strength before spawning.

Keeping Alert to Beauty

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN IT comes to looking after her health and keeping up appearance, no woman can afford to procrastinate. Consider the woman who gains weight; every few weeks the bathroom scales makes a depressing report and she does nothing about it. A few pounds can be fought off, but when adipose tissue blankets the svelte shape, it is no picnic getting rid of it.

There is the foolish woman who knows that her eyes are failing but won't wear glasses because she fancies they will make her look older. Eye strain will put on the appearance of age in the form of frown lines and sun ray crinkles around the soul orbs. But she waits and waits and all the time her poor peepers are in a state of discomfor. Then she fumbles and stumbles around because vision is impaired.

Spanish Chicken Mashed Potatoes
Pineapple Salad Celery
Crunchy Whip Wafers Coffee

AS THERE are peas, tomatoes and possibly mushrooms in the meat dish, I have not suggested another vegetable for this meal.

Spanish Chicken — Ingredients: four pounds fat chicken, two large onions, diced, one-fourth cup chicken fat(or butter), one can tomatoes, two chopped carrots, one celery root finely cubed (or several outside stalks of celery), one green pepper, one can peas, drained. Cut cleaned chicken in pieces to serve. Season with salt and pepper and some paprika. heat fat and drop into it the chicken which has been very lightly floured. Brown and cook very slowly, covered, for one hour. Now add tomatoes, carrots, celery, pepper. Cover tightly and simmer very slowly until tender. Five minutes before serving add drained peas. A can of mushrooms may be added if you want it especially good. In this case add mushroom liquor when you add the tomatoes.

Pineapple Salad — Lay one slice of commercial canned pineapple or pieces of home-canned pineapple on lettuce or finely-shredded or chopped cabbage top with mayonnaise or favorite salad dressing, cottage or cream cheese and a nut meat.

Crunchy Whip — Ingredients: one cup raisins or cooked dried figs, one-half cup orange juice, three-fourths teaspoon grated orange rind , one-third cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two teaspoons plain gelatin, one tablespoon cold water, one cup whipping cream, one egg, two cups crumbled graham crackers. If raisins are used, cover with boiling water for five minutes and drain. Dried figs should be sliced after stems are clipped. Combine fruit with orange juice, orange rind, sugar and salt, and heat to boiling. Moisten gelatin in cold water, add to hot mixture, and stir to dissolve; cool. Whip cream stiff. Beat egg thick and creamy. Combine cooled fruit mixture, whipped cream, beaten egg and graham crackers, and blend lightly but thoroughly. Chill but do not freeze. Serve in stemmed glasses. This will serve six.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, February 24

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ACCORDING to an impressive array of planetary aspects, this should be a lively and stirring day, even to the point of being devastating and disintegrating, unless there is much sagacity and judicious handling of sudden and imperative situations that may arise. Complete upheaval is possible in the launching of major projects, which have every promise of success. Elements of duplicity call for wisdom and tact rather than hasty speech or quarrels. Sign papers cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of revolutionary change and surprising success and satisfaction if they manager with tact, policy, and restraint of tongue and pen. Bad temper and impetuosity make no headway, and carelessness with signatures may be hazardous. Duplicity menaces. But when such perils are wisely managed, there should be good results and perhaps thrilling adventure and romance.

A child born on this day may have great capacity for success, being intuitive, original and creative in novel directions. But it may suffer from its own unguarded tongue and temper.

When frying up cooked potatoes, add a sprinkling of flour, as it helps to make the potatoes brown more easily.

Band Concert Under Auspices Of St. Julien Chapter I. O. D. E.

The R.C.A.F. Band of 45 pieces from the Trenton Airport will give a concert in the Capitol Theatre beginning at 8.30 p.m., Sunday, February 25th in aid of the war work of the St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. The band will appear with the kind permission of Wing Commander J. A. Sully, A.S.C., A.D.C.

The St. Julien Chapter has been doing a fine work on behalf of the soldiers and it is requested that there be a very generous silver collection so that the members of the chapter may be able to carry on the most effective work.

Two additional numbers will appear on the program, two solos by Mr. Gilbert Wiltshore.

The numbers to be played by the R.C.A.F. band are as follows:

March: "Washington Greys"; Overture: "Orpheus in the Underworld"; Selection: "H.M.S. Pinafore"; Cornet Solo: "Dream of Paradise" (Soloist, Aircraftman Sager); Descriptive: "A Hunting Scene"; Fantasia two popular numbers: "Beer Barrel Polka and "Roll up the Old Umbrella"; Trombone Solo: "Bells of St. Marys" (Soloist, Mr. C. E. Scholey with bell accompaniment); Selection: "Popular War Melodies"; Classic: "Monastery Garden"; Euphonium Solo: "Nazareth" (Soloist, Aircraftsman Lockyer); Suite: "Ballet Egyptien'; Grand March: "Aida". God Save The King.

DAIRY VOGUE REVIVES

Two Victorian habits have been revived in Britain by the war: the keeping of diaries and lengthy correspondence. Stationers interviewed by The Daily Telegraph in London report a twenty-five per cent rise in the demand for diaries for 1940 over 1939, and nearly a fifty per cent rise in the demand for double-sheet note paper, where as a single sheet or a card was sufficient for holographic communications a year ago.

The latter vogue, the paper says, will be received with joy by those persons who have "prattled about the lost art of letter writing", but it dilates more extensively on the revival of the diary:

"One interesting feature this season is the request for diaries with locks. More books of this private nature have been sold than ever before, owing to the number of people now engaged on work of a confidential nature.

"While the pocket diary will always be popular and required for the short note of appointments, it is the larger sizes that are being bought in bigger numbers.

Parties have had to be advanced so that all little friends can join together before the return to evacuation area or school.

"Shopping days have had to be planned very early in the year for the same reason. The opening days of the sales have been clearly booked.

"An important entry for the housewife already appeared in most diaries on January 8: "Official rationing of butter, bacon and ham, due to begin'."

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Whooping Cough

The survey I have been making of the infectious diseases of childhood we must look for in late winter and early spring, must naturally give some attention to whooping cough. Nearly every child is likely to take it at some time or another and it is one of those illnesses that hangs on and hangs on for weeks, wracking the child with a heavy cough and wearing down the nerves of mothers and fathers.

Among my patients I once had a family in which eight children contracted whooping cough within a period of a few weeks. The first children to get it were not isolated by the parents from the others. What a household it was turned into! I remember driving up the lane time and again to the accompaniment of a barrage of whoops from inside the house. And I remember what a wreck the mother was after she had nursed all of them through the siege. It was a wonder to me that she managed to keep going. Yet even frail mothers seem to summon super-human strength at such times.

This mother never let up in her vigil because she realized what a menace whooping cough can be. It can be very hard in the younger children. In their cases it is more apt to be serious for there is a greater danger from such complications as pneumonia and bronchitis in winter and diarrhoea in summer. If the coughing becomes too violent it may injure the heart Or rupture of the lung tissue may occur.

Fortunately, however, no dangerous sequel needs to be feared in the majority of cases in children over two years old. Whooping cough occurs chiefly in children from six months to six years. Girls seem to be slightly more susceptible than boys. After six susceptibility usually diminishes with age.

Sometimes, however, a parent who is nursing a child with whooping cough will develop the disease herself. When this happens the adult is in for a bad few weeks.

In this disease, the coughs come in spasms of 15 or 20. The child coughs and coughs until he is quite out of breath. Then, in the midst of a cough, he tries to inhale and the result is a high-pitched cry that sounds like a "whoop" and which has given the disease its name.

The coughing spasms—and the whoops, often become much worse at night. This is probably because of a lack of fresh air and to lack of moisture in the air in the patient's room. Anyway, coughing can be reduced if there is lots of fresh air and the humidity is a bit above normal in the room.

In recent years a serum has been devised that is of great use in fighting this infection. It isn't a hundred per cent efficient yet, but it does greatly reduce the number of cases. It should be given the child during the first year of life. Usually three doses are injected into the arm, with a week between doses. There is no serious reaction to the serum except that the arm may swell for a few hours.

But even when the child is protected with serum it is a good idea to keep him away from possible infection. Whooping cough is usually contracted through direct exposure to sick persons or contact with the sickroom or clothes used by the sick. The germ causing the disease is a small bacillus that may be expelled either through the mouth or nose in the paroxysms of coughing. It is contagious both before and after the whoop. Even mild cases which do not have the characteristic whoop spread the disease.

Jelly-glazed bananas go mighty well with chops or roasts. Split bananas, lay them in a shallow pan, sprinkle with a little lemon juice and generously spread with some tart jelly. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Carefully transfer to the service platter.

WAR SECRETARY SEES CANADIANS PUT THRU PACES

Oliver Stanley Visits Aldershot Camp Where Canadians Are in Training

SPENDS FOUR HOURS

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aldershot, Feb. 23 (C.P. Cable)—The proficient, rugged men of the First Canadian Division went on full dress review today for the benefit of Oliver Stanley, Secretary of State for War, and accomplished their tasks like seasoned veterans.

From the time the war cabinet member was greeted by Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton shortly before noon until he took his leave of the general officer commanding four hours later, the tall son of the Earl of Derby saw the Canadians go through every phase of training from elementary squad drill to the most complicated tactical field exercises.

Fired Several Bursts

During the course of his eventful tour of Mr. Stanley squatted by the side of a gunner on the Bren gun butts firing several bursts at the target himself tasted food being prepared, for the men inspected their quarters, waded through fields ankle deep in mud to get a close-up view of field manoeuvres and stopped a long time to watch an artillery unit going through its paces. The War Secretary was a gunnery officer himself in the last war.

Mr. Stanley also had an unrehearsed taste of the real trials of active service when a car carrying him and the Canadian G. O. C. became bogged on a side trail. The following cars also were trapped and for a while generals joined privates in pushing the vehicles from the mire.

Later the party was caught without warning in a cloud of tear gas. Their eyes streaming and smarting, Mr. Stanley and others rushed to the car where they had left their gas masks.

Shakes Hands With Officers

The Minister, wearing a light grey topcoat and brown fedora, moved about the Canadian units as if he had suddenly come across old friends. He shook hands with hundreds of officers and men chatted with them about Canada and their experiences in the army, and probed into the technicalities of the weapons they were using.

As he approached the Third Infantry Brigade where he was greeted by Brigadier C. B. Price of Quebec, he stopped to watch men of the West Nova Scotia Regiment playing baseball on their parade ground during the lunch interval.

Inspects Cook House

He then inspected the modern cook house of the Royal 22nd Battalion where he tasted food being served to the men, and pronounced it "excellent". Mr. Stanley in the dining room addressed the men in French.

"There are two things in particular I'd like to say to you in behalf of the government I represent," he said. "First, I want to thank you for coming from such a great distance to help us in the common cause; and secondly I wish you God speed and good luck. Ultimately you will reach France and I know you will maintain that high reputation which your predecessors wrote into history 25 years ago."

The men gave him three rousing cheers.

Escorted By Brigadier Pearkes.

Brigadier, G. R. Pearkes, V.C., of Calgary escorted the minister through the maze of defensive positions held by men of the Seaforth Highlanders, the Edmonton regiment and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

In full battle kit the troops lay huddled close to the ground behind bushes of gorse or bracken, in improvised shell holes and in hurriedly dug shallow trenches flanking the sunken highway. Camouflaged guns and trucks were cleverly concealed in the woods and copses while despatch riders sped orders and reports to and from advance posts and brigade headquarters located in a roadside pub.

Farther along the Carleton and York Regiment was busy digging a system of entrenchments while a company of men rushed up barbed wire entanglements and tank traps. Stretcher bearers sloshed through the mud bearing imaginary wounded just as the gas alarm went off, trapping the unwary visitors.

Visit Men At Ranges.

At First Infantry Brigade headquarters, Brigadier Armand Smith took his visitor to see his men of the Royal Canadian Regiment in action on the ranges. Without warning Mr. Stanley dropped flat on a waterproof sheet beside Sergeant-Major A. A. Couche of Toronto and opened up on the target 600 yards away.

He missed with his first burst, then scored an outer and finished with a perfect bull's eye. "Not too bad for a novice," he remarked as he walked away smiling.

The minister spent more than half an hour among the artillerymen under Brigadier J. C. Stewart. Men drawn from such widely scattered points as Winnipeg, St. Catharines, Brantford, Kingston, Montreal, Sherbrooke and Fredericton gave a full display of the day's training syllabus.

Before he left Mr. Stanley told newspapermen he was profoundly impressed not only with the progress the Canadians are making with their training but also with the excellent quality of the troops.

All Display Keen Interest

"I have been particularly struck by the intelligence and knowledge TAKE FOUR WAR SECRETARY shown by everyone I questioned," he said. "All have displayed the keenest interest in and understanding of their work and any one who has had the privilege of watching these men in action can have no doubt of the prime mettle of Canadian soldiers."

General McNaughton said the division had been highly honored by the secretary's visit. What the minister had seen had not been a ceremonial parade but the ordinary everyday course of training.

"Thousands of our men are doing similar work in other parts of the training area, going ahead with the business of getting ready for war," the G. O. C. continued. "It won't be long before they are ready for battle."

He expressed gratitude for the helpful co-operation of the War Office in providing the Canadian contingent with adequate training facilities, excellent accommodations and the best of rations. As a consequence he was proud to say the general health of his troops was "most satisfactory."

Among those who attended Mr. Stanley and General McNaughton on their tour were Major-General H. D. G. Crerar of Canadian headquarters, London; Colonel G. R. Turner and Colonel A. E. Walford of the Canadian staff.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMAS G. WELLS

Mrs. Thomas G. Wells passed away this Friday morning at the family residence, 43 Dunbar Street, after an illness of seven months' duration.

The late Mrs. Wells, who was in her 65th year, was born in London, England. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Eleanor Caroline Judd, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Judd. For some time she resided in Ottawa and for the past twenty-six years she made her home in Belleville. In religion she was a member of the Church of England and associated with Christ Church parish. During her residence in Belleville Mrs. Wells made many friends to whom her passing has brought sincere feelings of regret. Fraternally she was a member of the Canadian Woodmen of the World, Quinte Circle No. 20.

Surviving to mourn her loss and to whom the sympathy of many friends will be extended are her husband, Mr. Thomas G. Wells; two sons, Capt. J. Herbert Wells, R.C.A., Kingston; Mr. Thomas G. Wells, Jr., Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. W. J. Cooke, Belleville; two sisters, Miss Emily Judd and Miss Marion Judd both of London, England.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

CORNWALL YOUTH IS COMMITTED

Gerald Duvall to Stand Trial on an Attempted Murder Charge

Cornwall, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP) — Gerald Duvall was committed for trial on an attempted murder charge today after Chief Constable William Bertrand of Cornwall township, testified the 26-year-old Newington amateur chemist admitted poisoning food and water in the home of Robert Young, Cornwall Centre farmer.

"I asked him if he intended to kill Young and he replied: "No, I only want to scare him," said the chief constable as he told of questioning Duvall.

Young discovered the water in a tea kettle had been tampered with after he returned from a dance early in the morning of January 12. Later he became suspicious of some cheese and sugar and these along with a sample of the water were turned over to the police. Analysis showed the presence of bichloride of mercury in the water, strychnine in the sugar and carbolic acid on the cheese.

In a statement by Duvall read in court, accused said he had met Young and a Miss Audrey Grant on a country road some time ago and that was the start of his animosity to the farmer whom he had known for 11 years.

"It has been hell ever since," the statement added.

SILOS HURTING BUSINESS

Pittsburgh, Feb. 23 (AP)—Silos are hurting the business of painting farm pictures, Lila Hetzel, veteran artist complained today. The silos, she said, mean farmers must have more corn cutting machines. If they operate machines farmers can't plant pumpkins between the rows of corn, and nobody, she says, will buy a harvest picture without a pumpkin in it.

LAY LEADERS CALL MEETING TO END DISPUTE

Cleveland Church Councilman would Like to Have Meeting With Archbishop

Cleveland, Feb. 23 (AP)—Lay leaders in the Holy Redeemer Catholic Church, under interdict for refusal to recognize a new pastor, today called a meeting "to try to settle the dispute in a peaceful manner."

Meanwhile Archbishop Joseph Schrembs announced the parishioners who prevented installation of the pastor must make "unqualified submission" to authority and fulfil four other conditions to be absolved of the interdict.

"We would like to have a meeting with the Archbishop to settle the dispute peacefully," said Tony Capasso, a church councilman. "At the beginning all but three of the 1,300 families in the Parish joined in the protest. They are cooling off now. They are faithful people."

Monsignor Floyd Begin, officials of the Cleveland diocese, orally invoked the interdict last Sunday at the height of a demonstration at the east side Italian-American Church.

The interdict denies sacraments and sacramentals of the church to all parishioners above 14 years of age except when in danger of death. There are approximately 1,100 families in the parish.

Interdict is Published

In the formal interdict published today the Archbishop declares those "responsible for resisting ecclesiastical authority" may be absolved from personal interdict on five conditions.

They must, 1. Present themselves to the prelate or his delegate, 2. Make "unqualified submission" in writing to ecclesiastical and civil authority, 3. Be "truly sorry for their sin and promise to repair as far as in them lies the scandal created by their action." 4. Give information usually sought in a parish census and 5. Receive in writing evidence of absolution and permission to confess their sins "and be fully restored to their rights as Catholics."

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME AT HERMON, ONT.

Joseph Beaudrie, Owner, Estimates His Loss at $2,500

FANNED BY WIND

Bancroft, Feb. 23.— (Special)—Believed to have started from flying sparks from the chimney, fire totally destroyed the farm home and contents of Joseph Beaudrie, at Hermon, sixteen miles east of this village at noon today. A woodshed filled with wood, was also destroyed while a nearby drive house and a large barn were saved by the efforts of neighbours who reduced several minor blazes, when these buildings ignited.

Very little of the contents of the house were saved, while the winter's supply of preserved fruits and raw vegetables stored in the cellar were lost.

Fanned by a strong wind blowing at the time, the flames, which broke out on the wooden-shingled roof rapidly spread. By the time the Beaudrie family, and neighbours attracted by clouds of smoke, arrived, the top part of the building was a mass of flames.

Burning embers wind-driven, ignited the roofs of nearby buildings but these were saved. The metal roof of the large barn in which were housed livestock and horses, was responsible for its being saved from the flames, eye-witnesses stated.

Loss was estimated at $2,500.00.

Dr. W. C. Blackwell Pres. Deseronto Nat. Conservative Assoc.

The annual meeting of the National Conservative Association of Deseronto was held last night in thei town, with the PUresident T.L. McCullough, presiding over one of the most largely attended gatherings of this nature held in many years.

Officers elected for 1940 are as follows: Ho.n Presidents—Geo. H. Stokes and Dr. H. E. Welsh, M.L.A.; President — Dr. W. C. Blackwell; 1st Vice Pres.—Harold Lee; 2nd Vice Pres.—Sidney Brown, Secretary — T. L. McCullough; Treasurer—Loral Clement; Chairmen of Committees, East Ward—Sidney Harnes; Centre Ward—Wesley Lindsay; West Ward—Charles Mastin.

Addresses were given by Geo. H. Stokes, National Conservative party candidate, Hastings South; Dr. W. C. Morgan, M.C., Belleville; Capt. Howard Van Dusen, T. L. McCullough, G. M. Campbell and several of the newly-elected officers.

First "Sign" of the Election

(Editor's note.—This morning Mr. Mackenzie Robertson, president of the West Hastings Liberal Association, found a sign nailed to his house on Bridge Street. Mr. Robertson learned today the sign was placed there as a practical joke on the part of some of his friends).

He gazed—he gasped—he gazed again, his eyes in wonder grew,
For there upon the house's side, a sign in white and blue
Flapped in the wind, its printing rough diagonally ran
Across the sheet in figures rough—in this way it began:
"DEAR MAC — PLEASE OIL MACHINERY. IT'S SQUEAKING" — not a hitch Showed in the message which was signed, "AFFECTIONATELY, MITCH!"

• • •

He scratched his head—he rubbed his chin, "I wonder what that means,
I told the boys down at the plant to oil all their machines"
He ruminated as he stood, then "light" came in its glory,
And suddenly he laughed aloud, "I'll bet that's some Tory."

Partial Text of Address by Mr. Winston Churchill to Heroes of Naval Victory

London, Feb. 23 (CP—Following is a partial text of the address made today by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, at the Guildhall luncheon in honor of 760 officers and men from the British cruisers Ajax and Exeter:

I do not suppose that the bonds which unite the British nation, or those which join the navy to the mercantile marine, were ever so strong as they are today.

The brunt of the war has fallen upon the sailormen and upon their comrades of the coastal command of the R.A.F., and we have lost nearly 3,000 lives in the hard and unrelenting struggle which goes on night and day and is going on now without a moment's respite.

Brilliant Sea Fight.

The brilliant sea fight which Admiral Harwood conceived and which those who are here executed, takes its place in our naval annals and I might add that, in the dark cold winter, it warmed the cockles of British hearts.

But it is not only in these few glittering hours—in the glittering deadly hour of action which rivets all eyes—it is not only in these hours that the strain falls upon the navy.

It falls in weeks and months of ceaseless trial and vigilance on the stormy, icy seas, dark and foggy nights, when at any moment may leap from the waves death and destruction with a sudden roar. There is the task which you were discharging and which your comrades are discharging. There was a task from which intense, fierce action was almost a relief.

Encouragement to Navy

It will be a comfort and encouragement to the whole navy, to flotillas of the Grand Fleet, to hunting groups, to mine sweepers, and to warships and auxiliaries, now about 1700 in number and rapidly rising—it will be a comfort to all of them that the Lord Mayor of the City of London should have wished to show so heartily his approval of the way the Royal Navy is carrying on and is going to carry on until not only the cargoes by which we live but the high purpose we have in hand are all brought safely into port.

You must remember that for one clutch that grips a raider, there are many that miss the mark on the broad ocean. For every success there are many disappointments.

You must never forget that the dangers that are seen are only a small part of those that are warded off by care and foresight and therefore pass unnoticed. The Admiralty and the fleet are learning together the special conditions of this hard and novel war, and although mistakes and accidents will certainly occur and sorrow will fall from time to time upon us, we hope that from Whitehall a sense of resolution and design at the centre will impart itself to all the fleet and will lighten the burden of their task and conserve their vigor of action.

Spirit of Forces

The spirit of all our forces serving on salt water has never been more strong than now.

As the two captains who have spoken have said, all over the world, wherever the white ensign flies—and there are very few seas into which it has not as yet penetratd—your comrades are waiting and eagerly hoping that they may have the chance which you turned to such excellent results.

I am absolutely sure that I speak for the Exeter and Ajax when I say that the most ardent wish in every heart in these ships' companies is that fortune may be kind to them and that they may have another "go at them".

Race Has Not Lost Daring.

The warriors of the past may look down, as the Nelson memorial looks down upon us now, without any feeling that our island race has lost its daring, or that the examples they set in bygone centuries have faded as the generations have succeeded one another.

To the glorious action of the Plata there has recently been added an epilogue—the rescue last week by the Cossack and her flotilla under the noses of the enemy and amid the tangles of one-sided neutrality—the rescue of British captives taken from the sunken raider.

Their rescue at the very moment when those unhappy men were about to be delivered over to indefinite German bondage proves that the long arm of Britain's sea-power can be stretched out not only for foes but also for faithful friends.

And to Nelson's immortal signal of 135 years ago, 'England expects that every man will do his duty', there may now be added last week's no less proud reply, the navy is here!'

Greatest Show of Planets in Century Now Visible

Five Planets, Only Those Ever Visible to Naked Eye, All Seen in Diagonal Line in Sky at Present Time

New York, Feb. 23—(AP) — A show that comes once in a century starts tonight, to continue the rest of February.

It is five brilliant stars in the west, just after sunset, hanging in a long, staggering string above the place where the sun goes down. Two of them are brilliant enough to answer the description of the star of Bethlehem and the others only a little less luminous.

The five are all the planets that are ever visible without telescopes. They are, in order upward from the sunset spot, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn and Mars.

Their line is diagonal, leaning off toward the south, /or to the onlooker's left, and at the start tonight the top of this string of celestial lanterns is well up toward the overhead point.

These five stars continually change their positions in the sky, due to their rotation around the sun. It is seldom that they become bunched. The bunching is only apparent, due to the fact that they are all in the same direction in space looking from the earth.

NO CHANCE OF GETTING LOST

Williamsport, Pa., Feb. 23 (AP)—If Thomas Thomas, Jr., ever gets lost, he shouldn't have any trouble remembering his address. He and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thomas, and several little Thomases, live on Thomas Avenue. The Thomases say it's pure coincidence that they moved into a house formerly owned by C. A. Toronto Jeweller Swindled of $12,000 By Pair of Men

Toronto, Feb. 23 —(CP)— Police revealed today that two men, one posing as a German refugee, swindled a prominent Toronto jeweller of $12,000 recently. The fraud was known only to police until today at the request of the jeweller who said he was ashamed at being "taken" so easily.

Police said the two men are believed to have left the city and are believed to have worked similar swindles in Montreal and New York. Federal United States police are co-operating with Toronto and Royal Canadian Mounted Police in an effort to trace the men.

The Toronto jeweller told police the man who approached him said he was a jeweller who had fled Germany with $60,000 in diamonds. The swindler said majority of the diamonds were in Paris but he gave the jeweller a bag of diamonds which he said he would sell for $12,000.

The Toronto jeweller had the diamonds appraised and was told by experts that he was getting a "great bargain." A few days later the swindler returned with another man, a deal was agreed on, and the following day during negotiations, an empty package was substituted for the one containing the diamonds, police said.

DEATH TOLL MOUNTS TO 125

Ankara, Feb. 23 (AP)—The death toll in the earthquake-stricken region of Kaisari, in Asiatic Turkey, mounted to 125 today with hundreds more reported injured. Thousands were left homeless when temblors, starting on Wednesday damaged 11 villages and killed tens of thousands of cattle.

IRVINE G. HEFKEY RE-ELECTED AS RED CROSS HEAD

Annual Meeting of Local Society Held in the Y.M.C.A.

REPORTS GIVEN

The magnificent response shown by the people of Belleville and district in subscribing to the First National War Appeal sponsored by the Canadian Red Cross was truly exemplified last night when the Belleville Red Cross Society met at the local Y.M.C.A. for their annual meeting and election of officers.

In his short address at the outset of last night's meeting, Mr. Irvine Hefkey, president of the Belleville Red Cross, said, that although carrying on a large program of peace time efforts, the Canadian Red Cross, had swung into full action at the start of the present war. Realizing the need for more money to carry on their Peace program as well as that of the war, an appeal was made to the people of Canada and an objective of $3,000,000.00 was set. So great was the response, that by January more than $4,500.00 had been subscribed. Of this amount more than 500,000 had been spent at the Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Taplow, England. A grant of $100,000 had been made to the British Red Cross, $100,000 to the British Naval League, the Halifax Hostel had received a grant of $25,000, the Finnish Red Cross $100,000 and a grant of $25,000 towards the Polish relief.

Local Drive Success

The campaign sponsored by the local Red Cross Society was a grand success, said Mr. Hefkey. Our objective had been set at $8,000 and it was quickly oversubscribed. Of the amount received, C.N.R. employees had alone contributed more than $1,372, he said, and he related many indicences of large individual donations.

Mrs. Lazier read the peace-time report of the Belleville Welfare Committee relating the welfare work done among the needy folk of the district.

Miss E. A. Earshman gave a report of the Belleville Junior Red Cross of which there are 825 members. Miss Earshman said these school children were doing a grand job in their effort towards raising money for the Red Cross.

Mr. Howard J. Clarke, Campaign Chairman, reported that $8,680.94 had been subscribed to the Belleville Red Cross in their recent campaign, with expenses amounting to only $151.10. It was greatly due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Morley Duff, Campaign Organizer, that the campaign was a success, said Mr. Clarke, and he also thanked the many volunteer workers of the various service clubs of the city for their assistance.

War Work Committee

Mrs. F. S. Lazier reported the work of the Belleville War Work Committee, which stated that there were twenty-eight different societies in the district organized for this work. Donations had been made to the Polish Relief Fund, while up until Dec. 31st 1939 there had been sent to the Canadian Red Cross Headquarters at Toronto seven boxes containing 916 knitted articles of which 652 were socks, 111 sweaters, 913 hospital supplies including 206 pairs of pyjamas, 671 abdominal D & T bandages, 36 pneumonia jackets, 12 bed pads and other articles. A box of clothing for the Polish Relief contained 6 quilts and children's clothing made from remnants of pyjama materials.

To the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at Picton were donated 36 pairs of socks.

The Nurse's Alumni of the Belleville General Hospital have taken complete charge of hospital dressings as their war service—a very important and heavy piece of work.

Mr. Clarke moved a vote of thanks to the Ontario Intelligencer for the many press notices and publicity, so instrumental in the success of the Belleville Red Cross campaign.

The officers elected are as follows: President, Mr. Irvine G. Hefkey; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. F. S. Lazier, Mrs. C. A. Cameron, Rev. Dr. J. Semple and Mr. Howard J. Clarke.

Bill to Grant Quebec Women the Vote Ready

Quebec, Feb. 23 (CP-.—Premier Adelard Godbout said today a bill to grant Quebec women the vote in Provincial elections will be introduced in the Legislative Assembly probably in about three weeks. Women were promised the vote in the Throne Speech read at the opening of the Legislature Tuesday.

"I shall probably sponsor the measure myself," the premier told newspapermen. "I cannot say yet exactly when it will come up, but it probably will be in about three weeks."

Extension of the suffrage, promised by the premier and his Liberal supporters last fall, will end a long fight by feminists of the province. The Provincial Lower House has rejected such a measure more than a dozen times.

The Throne Speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Fiset, disclosed government plans to grant women the vote because under modern conditions they "play an important part and their co-operation has become indispensable in bringing about much needed social reforms."

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

PETERBOROUGH TAX RATE IS 33 MILLS

Peterboro city council struck a tax rate of thirty-three mills at its regular meeting on Wednesday night. The advantage of the distribution of part of the City Trust Commission's surplus as a credit in the general tax rate was 1.9 mills.

NO SERIOUS DAMAGE FROM CHIMNEY FIRE

No serious property damage resulted as fire broke out in a chimney at 103 West Dundas Street, shortly before noon today. The fire department hastened to the scene as an alarm was sounded and successfully etinguished the blaze with the application of chemicals. Although the home became filled with smoke, no other damage resulted.

"STARRY" LINEUP VISIBLE TONIGHT

A celestial phenomenon, one that will not be witnessed again by those now living will be visible in the sky for the next two weeks starting tonight.

The "starry" lineup of the five brightest planets of the solar system will include Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn and Mars.

Mercury will be the first to appear and will scintillate near the western horizon shortly after Old Sol has gone to rest. Following in order will be the other four as named above.

WATERTOWN CHARGES FIFTEEN PER CENT

Watertown banks posted this week a new window exchange of 15 per cent. on Canadian currency. The new discount rate was necessitated by the steady decline in the Canadian dollar's value in the New York market the past two years, according to bank officials. The rate has been 13 per cent. at Watertown banks since the first of the year and apparently had stabilized at that rate.

FIRE DEP'T. GIVEN SECOND RUN OF DAY

A chimney fire at 172 Dufferin Avenue shortly after the noon hour today caused the Belleville Fire Department their second run since the morning. No damage resulted however, stated officials of the department as the blaze was quickly extinguished with the arrival of the reels.

INJURED MAN TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Bancroft, Feb. 23.— (Special)—Alex Wadsworth, twenty-six year old farmer, residing fifteen miles north of this village, critically injured yesterday when a tree fell on him in the woods owned by Ernest Reeves, a neighbor, was removed from Reeves' home today and taken to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital.

His condition, however, according to attending physicians, is still very serious, and while he changed slightly for the better overnight, little hope is held out for his recovery.

Guildhall Scene Impressive as Naval Heroes Are Feted

Lord Mayor Tells Men in Service Dress That Glory of Their Achievement Merits Place in Annals of Royal Navy

(By Sam Robertson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 23—(CP-Cable)—In service dress, with the dust of London's streets on their boots, the 760 naval heroes of the Exeter and Ajax who helped in the defeat of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, came to the ancient Guild Hall here today to lunch with the Lord Mayor and city corporation.

They took in the great hall with its stained glass, its gold plate and pendant banners. They looked down and smiled shyly at one another, moved to their places as quietly as they could.

While the officers were being welcomed in the art gallery by the Lord Mayor, the men, unshaken in battle, sat timidly like schoolboys on their best behavior. But presently their restraint began to evaporate. Their whispering became a hum and then a lively chatter.

"A Change from Old Ship."

"Bit of a change from the old ship," one was heard to say to a shipmate.

The orchestra started playing as the Lord Mayor came into the hall with Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, Captain Woodhouse of the Ajax, Captain Bell of the Exeter and other notables.

The men rose and applauded.

Captains Bell and Woodhouse sat on either side of the Lord Mayor. Seated nearby were Mr. Churchill, Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal, Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood; Lord Chatfield, Minister for Coordination of Defence, and Lord Hankey, Minister without portfolio.

The Lord Mayor, proposing the toast to the men, said nothing had given a greater thrill to the people of Britain since the war began than the account of the battle of the Plata.

LABOR CANDIDATE SWAMPS 2 OTHERS

Has 14,343 Votes to 966 for Communist and 151 for Fascist

London, Feb. 23—(CP) — The Labor party candidate, Arthur Hollins, won an overwhelming victory today in a three-cornered by-election fight in the Silvertown Division of West Ham against a communist and a fascist.

Mr. Hollins was elected to parliament with 14.343 votes, against 966 for Harry Pollitt, former secretary general of the British communist party, and 151 for the candidate of the British Union (formerly the British Union of fascists), Tom Moran.

The communists and fascists campaigned against the war and asked voters to show their desire for immediate cessation of hostilities by voting against the Labor party candidate. The Labor nominee declared the war must be continued until the Hitler peril has been removed.

The seat was made vacant by the retirement of J. J. Jones, Labor. In accordance with the wartime political truce, the Conservative and Liberal parties did not run candidates in the by-election.

Both Pollitt and Moran forfeited their deposits of 150 pounds, ($667).

WAR BRIEFS

Paris, Feb. 23 (AP)—France's first war "ace" was decorated today for having shot down four German planes.

Sergeant Edouard Sales won a citation and the Croix de Guerre. The official journal said his fourth victim fell in flames after he had chased the Nazi plane 12 miles into German territory.

London, Feb. 23 (CP)—The sinking of an unidentified Norwegian ship yesterday by a German bomber was reported today. A British vessel is searching for the crew.

Also announced today was the sinking of the Netherlands vessel Alja, 385 tons, on Wednesday. No details were given.

Lisbon, Feb. 23 (AP)—A British warship took 14 German passengers off the Portuguese liner Nyassa, homeward bound from Portuguese African colonies, her captain reported today on arriving at Madeira.

Providence, R.I., Feb. 23 (AP)—Elizabeth Adams, a school teacher, today finished two months of greasing cars and checking batteries in an auto service station today preparatory to sailing for France to offer her services to the Allies.

She decided even before the war started, she said, that she would do nursing and other auxiliary work, and plunged into auto mechanics "so I won't have to sit in a broken-down ambulance or car waiting for help."

Rome, Feb. 23 (C.P.-Havas) — German airmen are fighting with the Russian air force in Finland, the Giornale D'Italia reported last night in a dispatch from its special correspondent at Helsinki.

"During the last four days, Finnish pursuit ships have shot down 28 enemy craft," the dispatch said. "The pilots of several of the downed planes knew only one language, and it was not Russian."

London, Feb. 23 (CP)—The British steamship Leo Dawson, 4,330 tons, was nearly three weeks overdue today and was presumed to have been lost with all hands. The size of her crew and her last port of call were not disclosed.

Paris, Feb. 23—(AP)—Soldiers and sailors can be married in France after they're dead, if a proposed measure now being considered by a Chamber of Deputies Committee passes.

The bill, is designed to legitimize children and enable widows to draw pensions. The law would stipulate that the men express their wish to marry before they die.

Reporting Depots Are Announced

Depots throughout the district at which enemy aliens may make their monthly report were announced through the local detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police by Constable Wm. Beatty today. Since the commencement of the war enemy aliens in the district have been required to make monthly report to the local R.C.M.P. headquarters, as provided under the Enemy Alien Act. However, for the convenience of such persons residing in the outlying districts from Belleville they may report at their nearest post office as listed in a report from Ottawa today. The new depots at which enemy aliens may make monthly reports are at Denbigh, Gilmour, Madoc, Marmora, Napanee, Picton, Trenton, Tweed, Whitney, Frankford as well as Belleville.

Rangers Lose Scoring Punch As Amerks Win in Overtime; Leafs Defeat Detroit Wings

Boston Bruins Now Level With Rangers With Three Games in Hand

CANADIENS SWAMPED

Hawks Had Field Day when Cude Had to Leave Game Due to Neck Injury

(By Robert Clarke Canadian Press Staff Writer).

It may only be Art Ross' idea of a joke, of course, but there is a rumor that silver-thatched Lester Patrick is ready to offer a handsome reward to the man, woman or child able to discover the lost scoring punch of New York Rangers.

The records show Rangers are a far cry from the club that went 19 straight unbeaten games earlier in this National Hockey League season. In fact, it is becoming more evident day by day that Ross' Boston Bruins likely will finish up on top of the standing with the Rangers in second place as was the case last season.

Three Games in Hand

True the Rangers presently are tied with the Bruins for the top position but the Bruins have three games in hand.

Beaten 2-0 by Detroit Red Wings a few nights ago, the Rangers suffered their second straight shutout, when defeated 1-0 in overtime last night by New York Americans. It was also the third time in their last four games, that Rangers have been blanked and left them with a February record of five losses, three victories and a draw in nine games. In comparison the Bruins, idle last night, have won their last six straight games, last losing to the Wings on Jan. 28.

Amerks Boost Chances

Meanwhile, as the Americans boosted their chances of making the sixth and last playoff spot with the victory on Tommy Anderson's goal in the extra session, Toronto Maple Leafs came out on top 2-1 over the Wings and Chicago Black Hawks pushed Canadiens farther away from a playoff spot by whipping the Montrealers 10-1.

While Anderson got the payoff goal, on a play with Hooley Smith after the start of overtime, the star of the game between the New York clubs was goalie Earl Robertson of the Americans. His shutout was his fifth of the season and left him only one behind the leading Davie Kerr of Rangers in this respect.

Walter (Turk) Broda, of the Leafs, another netman, also was one of the night's standouts with a great game against the Wings. Broda allowed only a shot by Ebbie Goodfellow to elude him in the third period as the Leafs gained their victory on a score in the first period by Hank Goldup and another in the second by Red Heron. Lex Chisholm figured in both goals.

The success was important to the Leafs for it kept them five points ahead of the pressing Hawks, who are in fourth place with a game in hand over the Leafs. The Wings, in fifth place, have a similar margin over Americans with both teams having played the same number of games.

Equalled Season's Mark

The Hawks, with their 10 goals, equalled the season's high mark set only little more than a week ago by the Bruins against Detroit and also ran their unbeaten streak to eight straight games. The Hawks had some help though in that Canadiens' regular goalie, Wilfie Cude, had to leave the game because of a neck injury near the end of the second period with his place being taken by forward Charlie Sands. Cude and Sands each allowed five goals.

Pacing the Hawk scoring spree were Phil Hergesheimer and Johnny Chad, who each accounted for two goals and an assist, Bill Thoms and Les Cunningham also picked up three points apiece, with each getting a goal and two assists. Other Chicago goals went to Johnny Gottselig, Jack Portland, Mush March and Cully Dahlstrom while the single Montreal marker was scored by Louis Trudel.

Canadiens' officials announced after the game they had obtained permission from the Hawks to use Mike Karakas, goalie suspended recently by the Chicago club, for the remainder of the season. Karakas drew his suspension when he refused to play in the minors.

VARSITY BEATS HARVARD BY 10-1

Toronto Wins Sixth Victory in Row in Intercollegiate Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

A brand new order has come to the International Intercollegiate Hockey League this season largely because of the winning ways University of Toronto and Yale Bulldogs have acquired.

A glance at the league standings last season at this time would have shown McGill University dominating the loop and the Bulldogs creeping along far behind.

But not this year.

Toronto is hurtling along in first place with a record of six victories and no losses while Yale has jumped into first place with Princeton in the quadrangular section—the United States division—of the league.

Toronto won its sixth victory last night lambasting last place Harvard University 10-1. The fastest-skating Torontonians outplayed their opponents in every period scoring four goals in the first and three each in the second and third.

Maple Leafs Win Championship Of Belleville Juvenile League

Defeat Black Hawks 3-2 in Sudden Death Fixture at Hume Arena

FINE COMBINATION

Frank Cunningham's Maple Leafs won the first championship of the Belleville Juvenile Hockey Association as the Leafs beat Cliff Howie's Black Hawks 3-2 in a sudden death play-off game for the league title at the Hume Arena last night.

The teams battled at even terms for well over two periods before Vernon Goyer took Ingram's well-timed pass to skate in and beat Cook, the Hawk's goalie, with a well-timed drive into the upper corner of the twine. The Leafs protected their one-goal margin well in the dying moments. Although last night's game concluded the City Juvenile loop and gave the Maple Leafs the city puck championship, juvenile hockey moves out into the higher brackets here on Monday when the Belleville Juveniles meet the Picton Juveniles in the first round of the Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association provincial playdowns at the Hume Arena, the return game to be played at Picton on Wednesday with the total goals to count on the round.

Showed Results of Coaching

Both the Black Hawks and the Leafs showed the result of a full season's coaching with the first two periods providing some exceptionally fine combination hockey on the part of both squads. The Leafs seemed to show more finish around the nets and carried more speed than the Hawks. Bruce May put the Leafs into an early lead as he picked up a loose puck in the Hawks' zone and scored. Lorne Maracle stick-handled through the entire Leaf squad to knot the count three minutes later and the the initial period ended at one-all. Langabeer beat Cook from Robertson's pass on a long shot to put the Leafs in the lead once again, but McCabe rapped in Rowe's rebound for the Hawks and the second period ended at 2-2. The Leafs were never headed and in the middle of the last frame Goyer scored from Ingram on a well-timed combination play, that gave the Leafs the league title.

Rowe, McCabe and Davis looked the best for the losers, while Powers, Barnum, Langabeer and Robertson carrying the mail for the league champions, with Ingram getting in some profitable defensive efforts.

The line-up:

Maple Leafs — Goal, Clark, defence, Ingram and Langabeer; centre, Goyer; wings, Robertson and May; subs, Barnum, Powers, Bradley, Keegan.

Black Hawks—Goal, Cook; defence, Fitzgibbon and Rowe; centre, McCabe; wings, Rosebush and Maracle; subs, Holway, Davis, Hall and Gannon.

Referee—Norman Barriage.

Summary:

First Period

Maple Leafs, May 4.55
Black Hawks, Maracle 9.00
Penalties—none.

Second Period

Maple Leafs, Langabeer (Robertson) 10.10
Black Hawks, McCabe (Rowe) 14.50
Penalties—Goyer, Robertson.

Third Period

Maple Leafs, Goyer (Ingram) 12.07
Penalty—May.

On Being Well Dressed

CLOTHING COSTS

Much as we dislike telling, the cost of men's clothing inevitably will advance. The amount has been variously estimated from 20 to 50%. Great Britain is the source of supply for woollens, and with the increase of shipping rates and insurance—to say nothing of rising costs of labor, scarcity of materials and other factors— there is no telling to what heights prices will rise. Our suggestion is that you take advantage of present stocks in our shop and buy extra suits.

KELLY'S CURLERS BOAST THE LONE PERFECT RECORD

Defeat Chisholm's Rink in Quarter-Finals of Birks-Ellis-Ryrie Event

8 IN ROYAL YORK

Semi-Finals Also Reached in the Seagram Trophy Race

Toronto, Feb. 23—(CP) — Two days play remain in Ontario's annual bonspiel, but only one of 124 competing rinks has weathered the storm of the first four days of competition. D. P. J. Kelly and his Toronto Granite Club rink boast the lone perfect record in the curling classic.

Kelly and his stanemen eliminated their only rivals with spotless records last night, when they turned back the threat of H. H. Chisholm's Toronto Curling Club quartet 10-5. It was a quarter-final match in the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie event which brought the unbeaten fours together. Both previously had scored nine straight victories.

Other skips to lead their rinks into the semi-finals in this competition were Percy Skitch of Lindsay, C. R. Redfern of Toronto and Stan Sarjeant of Orillia.

Play for the Royal York trophy, most prized award at the bonspiel, reduced the field to eight. Winning skips were Kelly, Chisholm, P. Gilbert of Chatham, A. R. Tarlton of Hamilton, D. H. Storms of Toronto, W. H. Keller of Midland, O. T. Dudley of Toronto and H. A. Dickson of Toronto.

Five in Quarter-Final

Five quartets achieved quarter-final brackets in the Seibering event. They were piloted by T. S. Graham of Toronto, G. Campbll of Hamilton, Dr. S. T. White of Orangeville, Andy Grant of Toronto and O. T. Dudley of Toronto.

Three rinks, skipped by Frank White of Bala, Col. W. O. Morris of Toronto and A. E. Stephenson of New Liskeard, reached semi-final berths in the Seagram Trophy race. White defeated Dr. J. A. Mackenzie of Milwaukee 10-7. Mackenzie was the only United States skip to reach quarter-finals in an event.

In the North American Life, two quarter-finals were played. Winning skips were Dr. C. L. Eaton and R. H. Howard of Toronto.

Hopes of the Lakehead are for a trophy-winning rink ended with the defeat of Davie Walker's Fort William stanemen. Halker lost 11-10 to George Robinson's Penetanguishene rink in the Canada Dry third round and were eliminated from further play in the bonspiel.

DIAMOND METEORS

Little Guy, but Ray Schalk Ruled Major League Backstops for Years

Closeup
White Sox rookie

At peak of career

By Central Press Canadian

Chalk up Schalk as one of baseball's diamond meteors.

The most durable receiver in the American league, Raymond W. (Cracker) Schalk, was a little fellow, only five feet eight inches tall, but he had the knack of handling pitchers, of making putouts that made many big fellows look like punks.

In a Chair

The story goes that Gleason marched the rookie catcher into the office of President Charles A. Comiskey, a giant himself, only to be met with a sneer and a retort:

"But, Kid, can he catch Ed Walsh?"

"Boss," Gleason replied, "this kid can catch Big Ed sitting in a rocking chair." And little Ray Schalk could.

Born at Harvel, Ill., in 1892, Ray began catching at an early age. When he was 17, he was backstopping for a kid team at Litchfield, Ill. Given a chance to catch with the town team in the second game of the day when the regular catcher failed to show up, Schalk put on a swell performance and his future was sealed.

Milwaukee Gets Him

His first work was with Taylorville of the Illinois-Michigan league in 1911. He batted .398 in 46 games and his amazing work gave him a chance to climb. Milwaukee of the American association put on the pressure and Schalk signed for that club. He spent only two years with Milwaukee and was purchased by the White Sox.

Schalk caught for the Sox for 17 years. His 1,721 games caught in that time set a new record, held until last year, when Gabby Hartnett beat the mark.

In all those years Schalk's bat was quiet. He never even once hit .300. But his catching skill was unsurpassed. He was the best fielding catcher of all time. He had a knack of skidding sliders around the plate instead of blocking them off.

Schalk's all-time fielding average was .980. His batting mark was .254. He appeared in two world series.

The little catcher's last year was 1928. He went to the New York Giants the next year as a coach. The next season he transferred to the Cubs as coach. Then he became manager of the Buffalo team in the International league.

Schalk managed the White Sox one year, 1927, but poor material kept the team in the second division.

OUTSIDER WINS $50,000 CONTEST

Sweepida Owned and Bred in California, Leaves Supporters Happy

Los Angeles, Feb. 23 —(AP) — California finally got a winner under the wire in one of its super-special horse races but interest turned today on the next stake offering at Santa Anita Park—the $10,000 added San Antonio handicap, last major event before the running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

The $50,000 added Sanita Anita derby pot fell to a long shot, Sweepida, in an upset yesterday that left the home state supporters happy—and a little dazed by it all.

The 3-year-old, bred by H. C. Hill on his modest ranch near Stockton, Calif., flashed a winner from wire to wire in the mile and one eighth derby that netted the owner $43,850.

Maryland-bred, California-owned Royal Crusader, of Walter Hoffman of nearby Ventura, finished second; Weigh Anchor, bred in New York and owned by a New Yorker, William Ziegler, Jr., ran third, while Charles S. Howard's Mioland, an Oregon colt, was fourth.

The big tote board at the finish showed only $2,072 of the $173,424 wagered on the race was on the winner's nose. Sweepida paid $68.60 to win.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with Ken J. Colling

Sometimes behind the scenes there is the odd bit of comedy connected with sports, which tends to make life worth living after all. For instance down in Fulton, Missouri, during the progress of a college basketball game a bit of horseplay was entered upon without the knowledge of the players or officials. Timekeeper Burton Moore pointed his official gun to the ceiling and pulled the trigger, ending the first half of the game. To the astonishment of all, and more particularly Mr. Moore, a dead guinea fowl fell to the playing floor. The bird had been placed in the rafters by pranksters, who released the dead bird with a string as Moore fired the blank cartridge. The moral of this story doesn't altogether mean that, when the gong sounds to end a hockey period at the Hume Arena, one can expect to find the fire department reeling off hose in the centre of the ice.

The few cash customers to take in last night's City Juvenile loop hockey championship game were surprised to see the combination and blue line play put into practice by the two clubs. The kids showed willingness to pass the puck and took all advantages of modern hockey and handed out more body checks than have been seen in any O. H. A. game throughout the season. The Maple Leafs won the first championship of the newly instituted Juvenile League, but not before the Black Hawks had battled them to the last ditch, but with slightly more speed and a little more finish around the nets, the Leafs proved their superiority and we might add they did not lose a game all season, but were tied twice. With the league concluded it was announced last night that the Belleville City Juveniles would meet the Picton Juveniles in the first game of the Ontario Juvenile Provincial playdowns at the Hume Arena on Monday night with goals to count on the round. The winner of this series will then meet the Kingston Juvenile titlists. With O.H.A. hockey cast into oblivion, the hockey fans can now support Belleville's future puck stars in the O.J.H.A. playdowns.

It is interesting to observe the progress of the Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association. For instance when the Association was formed about five years ago there were but five teams entered from the whole province. This season, however, the O.J.H.A. boasts of 78 clubs, all of which are actively interested in the advancement of hockey among the teen-aged boys of this province. Thanks to the foresight of Dr. R. W. Matchett, and Secretary J. H. Stafford, of Toronto, the association refused to affiliate with the O.H.A. recently and voted to continue its good work as sponsors of amateur hockey among the teen-aged boys. Juvenile hockey is the true sense of amateurism as it is played by boys under 18 years of age and played solely for the love of the game. Two years ago the Belleville juniors of the current season were launched on their hockey career and today we find another such team in the city stepping out into their first taste of provincial competition in their favourite sport. What the future holds for these boys only Dame Fortune can tell.

Kingston sport scribe Bill Walshe openly admitted, after Tuesday night's Kingston - Belleville junior game, that the Quintes had better individual players but went on to say the Limestone City kids were better collectively and possessed a more determined spirit to win. Further commenting, the Kingston scribe adds: "A battling spirit, brains and a break kept Kingston in the running for the O.H.A. Junior "B" championship last night when the Redmen defeated Belleville in the Quinte City. After ending the first game of their provincial elimination round here last Friday in a five all tie the Belleville boys were favored to take the series but the Kingston collection outfought them, adopted the smarter campaign under the ice conditions and clicked for a winning count when it was a toss up which team would tally the odd goal.

"Wally Elmer, manager coach of the Redmen, examined the ice in the Hume Arena before supper and it was covered with a scum of water. He ordered his boys to play back and let Belleville carry the puck. The system was followed for two periods while the ice, after two scrapings and with the weather getting cold, became much better. In the last session there was a solid sheet and the Kingston boys put on the pressure for all three goals while Belleville seemed worn out from early efforts in the slush."

George Goodwin, Jr., the world's professional badminton champion, who will give an exhibition of his art at the Y.M.C.A. this evening, won his title in a tournament that saw Jack Purcell eliminated in the semi-finals. Incidentally Mr. Goodwin will play several local players and also give pointers on the proper method of play. All are welcome.

Do you remember when Azucar, Irish-bred steeplechaser, galloped home a winner in the 1935 Santa Anita handicap and took the greatest sum ever won by a race horse in a single race five years ago today? First money of $108,400 surpassed the $105,830 earned by Whichone in the Belmont Futurity of 1929.

The sympathy of the sporting fraternity is extended to H. M. (Dolly) and Earl (Soxy) Gray upon the death of a wife and mother. Mrs. Gray died yesterday after a lengthy illness.

SPORT SPICE: With the elevation of the Brockville Riversides to a junior "B" status, bet there are some red faces among the Belleville 'Quintes' today . . . Like old times to read about ice harness races and we wonder if Kingston sport scribe Bill Walshe really enjoyed himself at the Clayton, N.Y., ice races yesterday? . . . Willie sure gets around, advantage of the week-end facilities. There are two races in the N.H.L., one for the top rung and the other to keep out of the cellar slot . . . Skiers had better take advantage of the week-end facilities, as there won't be too many more Sundays in which to enjoy this popular winter sport . . . See where Roy Covert is holding up his end with the third-place Washington Eagles in the U. S. amateur puck loop . . . Roy keeps sniping away with the odd goal or assist per game . . . Ol' Diz Dean is the only major league holdout to spout out—so we'll just hop-out.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Was Horned Owl

Rouyn, Que., Feb. 23—The mad owl of Roger Lake has finally been classified as a Virginia horned owl and not a screech owl as it was believed to be by local people.

The Canadian International Paper Company, whose special constable, J. A. Charlebois, trapped the bird, sent the carcass to Montreal to be stuffed and mounted. There O. Bogart, taxidermist of the House of Learo, identified the four pound bird. The paper company will keep it as a reminder of the month when it scared forty lumberjacks so badly two policemen had to be sent 55 miles in to the bush to destroy it.

Several men were scratched dangerously close to the eyes as the owl swooped down from the trees, attacking them. Bogart believes hunger drove the owl to taking lumbermen's caps from their heads, believing they were small animals.

SURE, YOU CAN BUY Used Cars AT ANY PRICE,— BUT BE CAREFUL;

When you are offered a used car at a very low price, by all means go slow. There are at least two things to find out before you buy.

Is the car itself in first-class mechanical condition? And how responsible is the seller. Does his guarantee mean anything? Has he the shop facilities to put the car in proper condition, in the first place and to keep it in good order after you have bought it? Has he an established reputation for fair dealing?

Otherwise the car cheaply bought may be dearly paid for.

Many buyers have returned to us to buy a second or third time. The cars they have bought have been late models that we put through our own shops to give them every needed item of repair or service. Do not miss looking over our used car stock before buying elsewhere.

Many of these cars have special equipment. For instance, we have a

Belleville Boys' Band May Represent Canada At Derby in Akron, O.

A strong possibility that a Belleville Boys Band will represent the Dominion of Canada at the International World's Championship Soap-Box Derby to be held in Akron, Ohio, this summer, was voiced today by officials of the local Kinsmen Club, sponsors of the Belleville and district Soap-Box Derbies since their inception here a few years ago.

In normal times the band of the Essex Highlanders has carried the banner of the Maple Leaf in a musical sense at the Akron Soap-Box Derby classics, but this year, due to war conditions, that organization will be unable to attend.

The proposal that a Belleville boys' unit represent the Dominion was received in a communication from a high-ranking official of General Motors, general sponsors of the Derby, by the local chairman of the race committee.

Kinsmen officials are giving the matter serious consideration and within the next few weeks plans will take a tentative form relative to organization of such a unit. It is felt that the Belleville School Band, members of which are rapidly rounding into first class musicians, would form the nucleus of a representative organization, and other youthful artists would be invited to try for positions within the band.

The communication suggests that a band of forty pieces would be desirable.

Another feature of the world's championship event held in Akron this year, is the fact that all Canadian entries for the international events will be eligible for the major prizes, given formerly to United States contestants exclusively.

NAVAL HEROES OF EXETER AND AJAX

by the band of the Royal Marines, the people whooped up the tribute the sailors had so richly earned.

Shouts of "well done, navy" and "hell scuttler!" greeted these "brave upon the waves" just before the parade turned into the Horse Guards' Parade for the royal inspection and investiture of the medals awarded to outstanding heroes.

A small knot of people led by a Cockney using a small Union Jack for a baton started singing "Rule Britannia". Thousands soon joined in.

The newly-gazetted awards for services in "the gallant and successful action with the Admiral Graf Spee" included six Distinguished Service Orders and seventeen Distinguished Service Crosses, and the officers and men in the parade who had won such decorations received them from the King.

Crowd Roars Approval.

As each of these men of oak stepped forward to receive his decoration and the warm handclasp of His Majesty, who wore the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet, the crowd roared thunderous tribute.

But there was a hush which was even greater tribute when the black-clad widow of a marine who died aboard the Exeter with both arms shot off stood before the King to receive her departed hero's conspicuous gallantry medal. Marine W. A. Russell was awarded this posthumous decoration for refusing all save first aid and going about the decks cheering his comrades until he died of his wounds.

Then the parade re-formed to march off through Admiralty Arch as the statues of Lord Nelson looked down from its tall granite pedestal and swing away toward the Guildhall.

Everywhere cheers rolled like thunder and cheeky little tugs and other merchant craft coursing the Thames added to the din by whistling shrill salutes.

Cheered From Ships.

Many cheered the Exeter and Ajax men from ships almost as famous in their day as the victors over the Graf Spee—the "Seven Seas Spray" and Scott's "Discovery", now moored at a permanent berth in the Thames with H.M.S. Chrysanthemum and the Royal Naval training ship H. M. S. President.

A party of Sea Scouts on board the Discovery had a perfect view by climbing to the lookout platform, and one, even more daring, went up the rope ladder to the main masthead.

The route through the city was packed long before the time for the march past. One enterprising group of spectators were disappointed. They clambered on a lorry which was apparently stuck in a jam just behind the crowd. A few minutes later police cleared a way for the lorry which sped off with its unwilling passengers aboard.

Hailed With Fanfare.

The triumphal return gave the capital a chance to crowd the streets and hail its heroes with the fanfare of bands.

Before the investiture the King, with the First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill, Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord, Rear-Admiral the Duke of Kent, and Prime Minister Chamberlain inspected the 760 officers and men of the two warships.

After the investiture the Queen, who had watched from a window of the Admiralty, joined the King and stood at his side as he took the salute while the men marched past.

Scotland Yard took extra precautions to prevent demonstrations by the outlawed Irish Republican Army during today's parade after two west end explosions injured about twelve persons last night.

Reception and Lunch.

The line of the parade wound from Waterloo Station to the Guildhall for a Lord Mayor's reception and lunch.

Crowds jammed St. James's Park and Trafalgar Square where the statue of Britain's greatest naval hero, Lord Nelson, looked down. Showers of streamers and confetti were flung from windows on the marchers and on throngs packed so densely that many used periscopes to see over those in front.

Everywhere along the route came shouts of "'Ello 'Arry!" and "Wotcher, Tom!" as the tars, some grizzled seadogs and others just pink-complexioned boys, marched by.

The men marched in groups, each watch led by its own officers and petty officers.

Further awards for distinguished and gallant service in the River Plata battle were announced in the London Gazette today.

Commanders Cited.

The awards are made to officers and men in each of the three British cruisers which engaged the Admiral Graf Spee. The first to be cited were the commanders of the ships—Captain Douglas H. Everett of the Ajax; Commander Douglas M. L. Meane of the Achilles; and Commander Robert R. Graham of the Exeter—who received the Distinguished Service Order.

Of them the Gazette said:

"As commanders of their ships, having done all they could during the long months of waiting to perfect their ships and ships' companies so that they stood the test of battle when the day for action came, they heartened all by their readiness, example and encouragement."

Other officers who received the D.S.O. are Lieut. Ian Dudley Heath, Royal Marines of H.M.S. Ajax; Lieut. Richard Washbourn of the Achilles and Commander Charles E. Sims of the Exeter.

Made Use of Gun Crews.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded to Midshipman Archibald Cameron, of the Exeter, for his bravery—"throughout the action he showed the utmost coolness and resource. He never failed to make the best use of his gun crews."

Able Seaman G. William received the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal. His citation said:

"He showed no regard for his own safety in putting out fires on the upper deck near aircraft from which the petrol was leaking."

Another man to receive the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal is Sergt. Samuel John Trimble, Royal Marines, severely wounded when the Achilles' gun director tower was struck.

"He stood fast without flinching or complaint through the hour of action that followed, bearing his wounds with great fortitude," his citation said.

AWARDED D.F.C.

Flight-Lieutenant L. W. Skey, of Toronto, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross it has been announced by the British Air Ministry. Flight-Lieutenant Skey joined the R.A.F. in 1936.

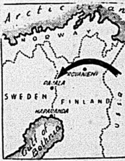
NEWEST DICTATOR

Newest recruit to the ranks of the "strong men" is President General Jose Felix Estigarriba who made himself virtual dictator of Paraguay with a formal decree that he was assuming "all political powers in order to save the republic from anarchy." In a radio broadcast prior to issue of the decree General Estigarriba announced that he was acting with full approval and co-operation of the army and navy. He is the hero of the Chaco war against Bolivia, and served as Paraguay's minister at Washington. He was inaugurated as president last August 15, for a four-year term.

Swedish Town Bombed



Seven Russian bombing planes are reported to have dropped 20 incendiary bombs on the small Swedish town of Pajala, near the Finnish frontier. The Russian bombing followed closely on the announcement that Swedish military leaders were advocating direct aid for Finland.

5 TEAMS HAVE PLAYOFF CHANCES

Western Division of Int.-Am. Loop Develops Into Real Race

All five teams in the International American Hockey League's western division have playoff chances but the lower end teams must make their own breaks.

Syracuse Stars who occupy fourth position in the western section met Providence Reds, leaders of the eastern division, last night. The Stars got the first goal of the game half-way through the first period, but the Reds came back to win 4-2.

Hershey Bears, western tailenders, tied with Indianapolis 3-3. Bears were out in front until late in the third period but Indianapolis came back with two goals.

Cunningham put the Stars ahead in their game at Providence at 11.53 of the opening period. About four minutes later Normie Mann evened the count. In the second period Mann assisted Hub Wilson on another Providence goal and Joffre Desilets also scored.

In the last frame Mann scored his second goal, putting the game away for Providence. Norm Locking later brought the Stars another point.

Mackie put the Bears into the lead at Hershey at 15:43 of the first period. Hamill made it 2-0 in the second but in the third frame Ron Hudson scored for the Capitals at 9:11. After Pettinger got Hershey's third point, Kilrea counted for Indianapolis. Hudson tied the score with less than a minute left.

Mac Colville

One of the many unique features of Lester Patrick's New York Rangers have been their brother acts. From the team's inception until not so many years ago the Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, were spearheads on their attack, and no sooner did they fade than up came the Colvilles, Neil and Mac, currently two important cogs in Rangers' attacking machinery. (And of course, there are the Patricks). Just as Bill Cook overshadowed Bun, so Neil Colville, one of the National league's outstanding players, overshadows Mac, but the chunky right wing is no slouch and is a vital part of the line centred by his brother, with Alex Shibicky on left wing. This trio is in its sixth year together, starting in 1934-35 with New York Rovers, moving to Philadelphia Ramblers the next year (with the odd N.H.L. game thrown in), and then becoming full-fledged Rangers in 1936-37, making this season No. 4 for the line. Before going to the Rovers, Mac played for Edmonton Juniors, a team good enough to reach the Memorial Cup finals in 1934. Born at Edmonton 24 years ago last month and christened Matthew Lamont. Two seasons back he potted 14 goals, his best N.H.L. total, and figures for his so-far short career stand at 29 goals, 51 assists for 80 points, plus 60 minutes served in penalties.

TOMORROW: Art Wiebe, Black Hawks.

N.H.L. STARS

By the Canadian Press

Earl Robertson and Tommy Anderson, Americans, former turned in his fifth shutout of the season and the latter supplied the overtime goal in a 1-0 victory over Rangers.

Walter (Turk) Broda, Toronto, allowed only Ebbie Goodfellow's shot to slip by as the Maple Leafs won 2-1 over Detroit on the strength of goals by Hank Goldup and Red Heron.

Johnny Chad and Phil Hergesheimer, Chicago, each picked up a pair of goals and an assist in a 10-1 victory over Canadiens.

Louis Trudel, Canadiens, got his team's only goal and played an all-round fine game against the Hawks.

Many people here think Mike Jacobs announced the Baer-Galento brawl for Jersey City merely to club the N. Y. Boxing Commission into reinstating Galento's manager, Joe Jacobs...... that accomplished, Mike might get a brilliant idea to shift the fight to the Polo Grounds.

The Alibi That Failed

By LILLIAN OAKLEY

I was surprised to see young Bill Hay at one of the tables when I came in to give things the once over before the breakfast rush began. He was by himself, and looked low enough to whisper in a worm's ear.

"What's the matter, son," he asked, "the insurance business gone bust?"

"Can't a fellow drink a cup of coffee in this place without you givin' 'em the third degree?" he snarled.

... run a restaurant and delicatessen on this corner for the last thirty years, and I've known Bill Hay ever since he was knee high to a duck. He's one of the finest young fellows in the city; and he's got a hand-picked wife and the cutest kid that ever rode a baby buggy through my front door. But even the best of these young couples have their spats, an' it was easy to see that Bill was boilin' and setthin' with family trouble. An' I knew he'd have to spill it to somebody, so I motioned the waiter to bring my breakfast over to his table.

"If all men are liars it's because their wives make them lie," he said bitterly. "The way women act, if their husbands told them the truth their tears would cause another flood."

"So you've been playin' poker again," I said. Mary's a regular hyena about poker.

'What the heck if I have?" he asked, giving me a dirty look. "I play contract all the time to please Mary. But contract can't take the place of poker any more than fruit salad can take the place of corned beef and cabbage. So last night when Lem Tod blew into town and rounded up the gang for a game in his room. I went. I couldn't get out of it without making a perfect ass of myself."

"Of course not," I agreed, but he just give me another look.

"I sent Mary out a box of candy and two tickets to a show she's been wanting to see," he said. "Then I called up and told her I was going to have to stay down and do some business with an out-of-town man and for her to get somebody and go to the show and have a good time."

"She said she was sorry I had to work so hard: she said she'd invited the Brooks over but she'd phone 'em not to come. And she wouldn't use the tickets, she said she'd exchange them for some night when we could both go."

"You was sure lucky," I told him.

"She acted so darned sweet that I came very near throwing the whole thing over and going home," he said. "But I knew what the boys would say if I did, so I slapped my conscience down and went on up to Lem's room."

"You'd oughter had your conscience taken out with your tonsils." I told him. "Lyin' an' deceivin' like you did to get there. I reckon you lost everythin' but the shirt off of your back?"

"I did not," he said. "I filled three straight flushes, and four aces was just an ordinary hand for me to hold. I was two hundred dollars to the good when we stopped to eat the stuff Lem had sent up from the coffee shop. Then we played a round-of-roodles and my luck was so rotten that I only cashed in for five dollars."

"An' you found Mary waitin' at the door with the baby in one hand and the rollin' pin in the other." I guessed.

"I did not; she was sound asleep. I pulled off my shoes and got upstairs without any fuss. I undressed in the bathroom, and when I went into the bedroom I pushed the switch at the door so Mary wouldn't be able to turn on the bed lamp and see the time."

Bill sat and chewed and stared into space.

"Go on," I urged him.

"Well," Bill said, "I guess the click of the switch woke her up for she turned over and called me. I stumbled over the chair by the baby's cradle and quick a scratch I sat down and began to rock the cradle and sing.

"What in the world are you doing?" she asked me.

"What was I doing?" I said. I've been sitting here for hours trying to get this baby to sleep. While you lay over there and snored. A fine mother you are!"

"That was the smart thing to do," I told him. "Always get the other fellow in wrong and then they can't say much to you."

"Is that so?" he said with lots of sarcasm in his voice.

"Didn't it work that way last night?" I asked him.

"It did not. She'd had the baby in bed with her all night."

Bill laid fifty cents on the table and left without waiting for the change. Well, marriage needn't necessarily make a man miserable, but it's a great help.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating breakfist and pop said, Horse blanket to blases and blast it to bits, sometimes I think I'm the worst bosehead since the stone ages, and other times I'm sure of it.

Now Willyum I wont tolerate such talk about yourself, even from you, ma said, and pop said, The truth is mitey and must be tolerated. Any sap as big as I am ought to be inside a tree where he'd be some use, he said.

You stay right where you belong and stop talking nonsense, ma said, and pop said, What elts should I be talking, what elts can a dumbell talk? Because believe me I'm such a dumbell if I was in a jimnasium I'd be blackballed by all the Indian clubs, he said.

My goodness such an inferiority complex, ma said. You better take another cup of coffee, it may not be good for your sistem but maybe it'll brighten your spirits, she said, and pop said, I'm not exaggerating, I'm such a dope I'm just one oversized knockout drop, and nobody but the king of the nitwits could of done what I did.

What did you do for land sakes? ma said, and pop said, I stepped on your wrist watch.

Why Willyum you did not. I mean you couldn't, my wrist watch is in the draw of my dressing table where I asked you expresly to put it last night for safety sake, ma said, and pop said, But did I put it there? No, in a moment of moronic abstraction I put it on the chair by my bed and this morning, I must of knocked it off without noticing, because the first thing I knew I was stepping on it. I dont know how it's running, but the cristal isn't what it was, he said.

Willyum Potts you're everything you said you were and more, only I cant think of any more, ma said, and pop said, I think I can, I'll call you up and let you know.

And he left for his office still looking diskusted.

WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Share quotations shuffled lower in hangdog fashion today. Toward the fourth hour, fractional declines captured the ascendancy on the scoreboard.

Only a couple of well known issues, Loft and Seaboard Air Lines, saw much action, and that was all downhill. Others in the dip included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Standard Oil of N.J., Eastman and Union Carbide.

Among the resisters to this trend were Du Pont, Pajardo Sugar, Douglas and Harvester.

Bonds were uneven. Commodities gained with wheat at Chicago and elsewhere reaching new highs.

International Nickel and Canadian Pacific, among Canadian issues, slipped back. Dome Mines gained 1-4 of a point while Canada 4s, in the Bond Market, rested unchanged.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 23—(CP)—Volume of tradin gon Toronto Exchange totalling 137,000 shares, showed little improvement. Price tone was better in the Mines and Western Oils. There were moderate gains for these groups at noon while Industrials held steady. Steel and Utilities showed gains. Foods, Banks and Papers had minor losses.

Steep Rock recovered some of its recent loss and the market was up for Falconbridge, Pend Oreille and Smelters. Lake Shore, McIntyre, Cariboo and McKenzie were firmer Gold issues.

CHIEF JACK OF DUNDAS CHARGED

Police Allege Reckless Driving and Intoxication in Charge of an Automobile

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP)—Chief Constable Earl Jack of Dundas was charged in magistrate's court today with reckless driving and being intoxicated in charge of an automobile. Chief Jack did not appear himself but was represented by O. M. Walsh, K.C. An adjournment of one week took place.

Last night Constables Arthur Robson and Robert Green of the city police force were called to Main street and Leyland avenue where cars had collided. An automobile owned by Sim Skene had been damaged, but no one was injured. The driver of the other car, the number of which was supplied to police, had moved off, turning up University avenue towards McMaster University. Police followed and arrested Chief Constable Jack sitting in his car. He was later released on bail.

ALICE FAYE PLANS DIVORCE

Hollywood, Feb. 23 (AP). — The tuneful romance of blue-singer Alice Faye and her radio-crooning husband, Tony Martin, has come to a discordant ending. Alice plans to get a divorce. Martin's work kept him constantly on the east coast and Alice's kept her in Hollywood and so their careers pulled them apart.

Weekly Livestock

Toronto, Feb. 23—(CP)— Prices on weighty steers and butchers eased down 15 cents on Monday on the cattle section of the Toronto livestock market and held steady for the remainder of the week. Other cattle held steady with the previous week's close. Lambs sold weaker toward the close of the present week. Calves were strong to 50 cents higher and hogs remained steady on live and dressedweight.

A holdover of 400 cattle from Tuesday was reduced to around 400 head by Wednesday's close. Weighty steers closed the week at from $7-$7.25 for good to choice, with the bulk selling from $7 down to $6.50. Butcher steers and heifers closed at $6-$7.25. Butcher cows brought $3.75-$5.25 with canners and cutters selling at $3.25-$3.75. Bulls sold from $5.50 for bolognas up to $5.25 for good butchers. Fed calves closed at $7.50-$8.75. The few stockers offered sold at $5.50-$6.50 per cwt. Good milkers and springers sold steady at $80-$90 each.

Calves opened strong to 50 cents higher and remained firm. Good to choice vealers sold at $11-$12 with common down to $7.

Most of the hogs offered sold on a dressedweight, rail grade basis at $12 per cwt. Hogs sold on the liveweight basis brought $9 off-trucks.

The lamb run included nearly 1,600 westerns. Lambs dropped 25 cents per cwt, with good westerns selling at $10, and becoming weaker toward the close.

Good local lambs sold at $10 at the beginning of the week and closed lower with one truck load selling at $9.90. Common to medium local lambs sold at $7-$9 Local sheep sold from $3-$6. Western lambs sold weaker at the close, one carload selling at $9.50 while two carloads remained unsold.

Graded Eggs Slightly Higher

Toronto, Feb. 23—Eggs continued to feature trading on yesterday's session of the Toronto open produce market. Graded prices edged still higher on top grades. Further weakness developed in butter prices.

A good movement through retail channels was reported on the egg market. Fresh receipts cleared well in both sections, however. Grades A-large and A-medium improved to 24 cents and 22 cents respectively in the graded division, while in retail section remained unchanged.

It was difficult to establish a firm price basis in view of the continued draggy trading on the butter market. A little more inquiry was evident in morning dealing, but this did not seem to materialize into actual business. Prices again sagged for No. 1 Ontario creamery solids to 25 3-4 cents per pound. Prints to the retail trade moved at steady quotations.

Montreal Produce

Montreal, Feb. 23—(CP) — Produce market prices here as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

NO WONDER HE'S HAPPY

Portland, Ore., Feb. 23 —(AP)— The traffic officer will wait until the excitement wears off before again trying to serve an overtime parking warrant on Arthur A. Stone.

"I couldn't keep Stone still long enough to tell him what I wanted," the officer complained.

"He had just learned he was the father of twins."

PROBLEMS OF FUEL AND HOGS TOSSED

Perth riding, was named National Government candidate for the riding at an open National Government convention at Stratford.

Mr. Murray was given the nomination by acclamation. Thirty-four names were placed in nomination, among them F. G. Sanderson, deputy speaker of the last parliament, who already has been nominated by the Liberal party to seek re-election in Perth constituency.

At his home in St. Mary's, Ont., Mr. Sanderson said he was not at the meeting and knew nothing of his name being placed as a nominee. He said he had no plans to divert from his present position as Liberal candidate for the riding.

Last night also witnessed a notable event in the Liberal campaign —the first important speech of Justice Minister LaPointe, who soon will tour the west. In a French language broadcast from Ottawa over a Quebec network, he said the present cabinet was the truest form of National Government possible in Canada at present.

Praises King Government

He said: "No government could be more of a National Government than the administration headed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. I declare in all sincerity that Mr. Mackenzie King and my colleagues form a group of earnest workers and staunch patriots and that they are the best administration I ever knew."

Mr. LaPointe said he considered it his duty to stay in the present cabinet, and referring to Conservative leader Manion's proposal for a National Government, the minister declared that such a government without any representation from Quebec could not be a National Government.

"If Dr. Manion wants Quebec to be represented let him say who are the men he has in mind and the electors shall then be in a position to decide if they want us to be replaced by those 'best brains' who, in the first place, would have to be elected."

Merit Sole Criterion

Mr. LaPointe said the Conservative leader charged the government with political expediency and favoritism in war appointments and contracts. The minister quoted Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the First Division overseas, as saying in London last January 31: "Political patronage or favoritism of any kind no longer exists. It has been eliminated by our minister, the Hon. Norman Rogers, and merit is the sole criterion for appointments and promotions."

Greatest contribution Canadian women could give toward winning the war would be to the best of their ability support candidates whom they knew to be carrying out what they thought to be right, Senator Cairine Wilson told the Hamilton Women's Liberal Association.

Urging women to strive to unite the people of the Dominion and to keep the peace, Senator Wilson advised them not to give their ear to "wild stories, which often were too readily carried." Instead of being criticized for its lack of haste, the government should be congratulated on its war effort because there was so little disturbance of the normal life of the country.

Defends Action of Gov't.

Senator Wilson did not think the government should be taken to task because military uniforms were not immediately available. If they had been prepared long in advance of needs probably moths would have destroyed them and in any event they would have been "scrapped" because changes were ordered."

Those who wish to assist the farmer in hog production and marketing would be well advised to get the true facts and stay with them, Hon. J. G. Gardner, Minister of Agriculture said at Wingham. To do what some suggest would result in the Canadian market for hogs in the United Kingdom being sacrificed.

"I can not imagine any propaganda machine working anywhere during this war more consistently upon false information than those who are trying to pry a loop hole in the bacon agreement," said Mr. Gardiner. "More mis-statements have had to be corrected about it since it was entered into than about anything else connected with the war effort."

Supports Bacon Board

He supported the organization of the bacon board and the bacon agreement. In answer to his critics who said the board was a tool of the packers, Mr. Gardiner said the board head, Hon. J. G. Taggart came from a Nova Scotia farm. He graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, had served as an agricultural representative in Ontario Agricultural College and held posts in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Taggart was a "natural" for the post of agricultural minister in Saskatchewan and no better choice could be made than to have him as head of the bacon board.

M. A. MacPherson, former Saskatchewan attorney-general, made his second speech of his maritime tour in Halifax and hammered away with the Conservative charge that Canada was unprepared for war and that the fault lay with the present administration.

Discussion of parliament's sudden dissolution was revived by the Regina lawyer who said the government had violated by this act the very principles that Canadians were fighting for.

Hon. T. A. Crerar Heard

No government could throw its full weight into the conduct of a war with a political struggle going on underneath, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines, said at Orillia. That was the reason Prime Minister Mackenzie King called a Spring election, he said.

"We all know," Mr. Crerar, "that the great struggle today is between democracy and dictatorship. Above all we must prove to the world that democracy—with all its weakness—can work under any circumstances.

"And no government can throw its full weight into the conduct of war with a political struggle going on underneath. That is why the election—one was due in Summer, anyhow—is being held now, to get this war on untramelled."

Plaxton Resigns

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, speaking at a Liberal meeting in Toronto-Trinity riding, said that Hugh Plaxton, whose candidacy as an Independent Liberal in the riding had been announced previously, has resigned from the campaign.

Mr. Howe said that Mr. Plaxton, one of the central figures in the Bren gun contract charges and investigation, visited him at his hotel and left the letter of resignation.

Mr. Plaxton lost the Trinity Liberal nomination to A. W. Roebuck, a former Ontario attorney-general, at the Liberal nominating convention.

"Hugh Plaxton is a real sportsman," said Mr. Howe. "For two years he has been living under the storm caused by the slanderous articles written by Colonel George Drew, which since have been proved groundless by an official inquiry.

No Charges of Favoritism

"In the contracts awarded by the War Supply Board, which comes under my supervision, the total value amounts to $120,000,000," said Mr. Howe. "There hasn't been a single charge of favoritism. We have been extremely careful with our buying. But any person can tender and gain a contract, if his material and prices are acceptable."

The transport minister said there had been some delays in arranging and paying dependents' allowances of the soldiers in the first few weeks of the war, but said this was due to the greatly enlarged payments compared to the first Great War. The system was straightened out as soon as possible.

BLOCKADING VESSELS ALREADY

tions with Murmansk which is an ice-free port despite its Arctic location on Kola Bay.

May Raise Knotty Problems

Development of the blockade magnified uneasiness of Scandinavian nations over the future of their neutrality.

In view of the tension that resulted from British rescue of captive merchant seamen from the German ship Altmark in Norwegian waters last Friday night, there were apprehensions that any new naval clashes in northern waters would raise further knotty problems for the neutrals. There was no suggestion, however, that Allied vessels in the Arctic were in neutral waters.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet reported yesterday that the Russian Arctic navy had been prepared for the possibility of war and that Admiral Nikolai Kuzentzoff, naval affairs Commissar, had flown to Murmansk to inspect it.

The Scandinavian countries are coming to the foreboding view that almost anything can happen in the waters of northern Europe.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter voiced the hope that the Scandinavian Foreign Ministers, who are to confer in Copenhagen Saturday and Sunday, would agree on uniform rules for the treatment of belligerents' ships in territorial waters.

Russian Ship Searched

Istanbul, Feb. 23—(AP)—The Russian steamship Svanetia, 4,125 tons, was stopped and searched by a British cruiser near the southern entrance to the Dardanelles, it was learned today.

Two Italian freighters also were reported held and searched in the first such general British action in these waters. The Svanetia, whose home port is Odessa, on the Black Sea, was in the Aegean Sea between the islands of Lemnos and Tenedos.

British Aid Increased

London, Feb. 23—(CP) — The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph said today that it is believed that Soviet submarines are cruising "in the vicinity of Petsamo" in far northern Finland. He said the reports were without confirmation in British naval circles."

British aid to the Finns has been increased "in the last few days," the correspondent said.

"In diplomatic circles last night there was the impression that events will move quickly in the Scandinavian situation.

"Since the Altmark incident the government has been considering the attitude of the Scandinavian neutrals towards Germany and Russia and aid to the Finns has been increased in the last few days. Informed observers are watching closely signs of Soviet-German co-operation in that quarter."

France's Asserted Right

Paris, Feb. 23—(AP—An Allied naval blockade of Russia's northern waters might be an execution of France's asserted right to take "all measures" necessary to protect Allied rights at sea, it was said in unofficial quarters today.

French officials said they had "no information" concerning Paris Press dispatches stating Allied warships have been reported operating in the Arctic ocean, notably off the Finnish Petsamo coastal region, now held by the Russians.

(In London the admiralty refused to comment on the reported Arctic operations. Any comment, it was pointed out, might give information to the enemy.)

Last Tuesday a French spokesman said that the case of the German ship Altmark using Norwegian territorial waters to transport British prisoners "justifies the French and British admiralties in any acts of reprisals they consider necessary to reestablish in the North Sea and Arctic Ocean the equilibrium which has been destroyed to the detriment of their interests."

Bancroft

Bancroft, Feb. 23 (Special)—Mr. F. A Correll, Manager of the Canadian Department Stores, Belleville, also Mr. Walker of the clothing department and Mr. P. Cornell of the radio and refrigerator department were in town Tuesday and Wednesday on business.

Eldorado hockey team played a return game with Bancroft boys in town Monday night. The local boys were unable to pull a win and Eldorado returned home carrying a 6-4 lead over Bancroft.

Miss Mary Fitzgerald, of Maynooth, was in town Tuesday afternoon on business.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Loney of Little Ireland passed away Monday afternoon.

Mr. Charles A. Pigden, Dodge and DeSota dealer of Eldorado was in town Monday and Tuesday with a Dodge demonstrator.

The Spring-like weather which Bancroft has been adapting itself to the last few days has made a decided slump in the snow. The roads in the village are breaking up and bare in many places. The Department of Highways have made such an excellent job of ploughing all winter that they are in first class condition. The department at present are busy opening up culverts for the spring freshets.

Mrs. Ben Spence received the sad news by telegram Monday morning of the death of her husband who for the past few weeks had been a patient of Gravenhurst hospital. The remains were brought by motor to his home in Bancroft.

Mr. J. L. Churcher, Warden of Hastings County, motored to Toronto Tuesday morning to attend the Good Roads convention.

that 'England expects that every man will do his duty' there may now be added last week's 'the navy is here.' " Mr. Churchill said, referring to the destroyer Cossack's raid on the Altmark.

"The admiralty and the fleet," he said, "are learning together of the special conditions of this hard and novel war.'

Captain F. S. Bell of the Exeter, telling of his ship's cooperation with the Ajax, said, "Not one signal was exchanged" between the flagship (the Ajax) and the Exeter from the first time contact was made with the enemy to the time when the Exeter fell out of the action."

Sir William Coxen, Lord Mayor of London, toasting the men of the Exeter and Ajax, referred to Adolf Hitler's threat of a secret weapon and said "there is one thing he cannot build . . . the boys of the bulldog breed, some of whom we honor today."

BRITISH AIRMEN FLY DEEP INTO

from ships and from shore batteries.

"One of our aircraft reports having been attacked by three enemy fighters without success and it is believed that one of the enemy fighters was forced down.

"No casualities or damage was suffered by any of our aircraft during the operation, but the homeward journey was made in very bad weather conditions which accounted for failure of one aircraft to return."

German planes resumed forays after the shooting down of two German planes yesterday in raids on the British east coast. One plane was reported off Essex today and another off Norfolk.

Greeted by Anti-Aircraft

Anti-aircraft guns greeted the first plane, which was reported, although without immediate confirmation, to have been shot down.

British fighter planes pursued the second.

A third German bomber flew over Sunderland on the coast of Durham so low that witnesses could discern the Swastika painted on it.

The Air Ministry gave no details of the R.A.F. flights over Austria and Bohemia beyond saying the planes took off from a British base in France. It was the second flight so deep into Germany to be announced since the war began.

The first, on New Year's Day, was called the "largest survey flight of the war." British planes from French bases at that time dropped propaganda leaflets over Vienna and Prague.

An airplane believed to be German was reported off the eastern British coast early today. Royal Air Force fighter planes took off later and machine-gun fire was heard.

Steamer Attacked

The 2,546-ton British steamship Gothic, which left port last night, returned within about two hours, having been attacked by enemy planes. The captain and second mate were wounded, the latter seriously, by machine-gun bullets.

The superstructure of the vessel was heavily riddled with bullets.

Two German raiders were shot down when they invaded British waters yesterday. The 540-ton naval trawler Fifeshire was sunk with the probable loss of 21 men aboard by one of the raiders. Only one was known to have been saved.

They also set fire to the 1,524-ton Norwegian merchant steamship Akabahra off the English east coast. A lifeboat stood by the ship until the flames were extinguished.

British fighter craft shot down one raider on a farm in southeastern Scotland and the other at sea off Northumberland.

Mine Trawlers Attacked

Nine trawlers were attacked by the German flying blockaders in what some called "vengeance raids" over the rescue of 299 British seamen prisoners by the destroyer Cossack from the German ship Altmark Friday night.

Although the Fifeshire sank the other trawlers — newly-armed — drove off the air raiders. The Fifeshire was the first victim of air attack among the 14 British trawlers sunk.

At sea, meanwhile, the sinking of the 2,52?-ton Finnish steamship Brita after an explosion off the Irish coast was reported in despatches from Amsterdam which said the ship wirelessed, "a submarine was sighted." The crew abandoned the ship.

POLICE LISTS KILLING SOLVED

John Reavis, Musician, Admits Stabbing the Girl in a Rage

San Diego, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP) —Police listed the killing of a 17-year-old Texas girl at Los Angeles last Dec. 28 as solved today with the arrest of John Reavis, 25, a musician.

Reavis, arrested yesterday, admitted he "flew into a rage" and stabbed Alice (Jerry) Burns to death, police said, but appeared puzzled when pressed for the motive.

"We were sitting in the car," Reavis told police, "and all of a sudden, for what reason I don't know, we both became terribly angry.

"We began struggling, left the car and continued struggling in an empty lot. I seemed to be in a daze. The next thing I remember I had a knife in my hand." He admitted they had been drinking.

The girl's nude body was found in a lot, a crushed artificial rose under her head. The slaying was popularly termed the "Red Rose Murder."

FACE CRISIS OVER FINNISH AID

Rumors from Stockholm state that Sweden is on the verge of a constitutional crisis as a result of the refusal of the Swedish government to extend direct military aid to Finland. The government headed by Premier Albin Hansson, LEFT here, may be overthrown. Even the unprecedented action of King Gustav in announcing persona approval of his government's neutrality policy has failed to quiet the interventionists. There are reports that the political situation may compel the King to give up his throne to make way for a regime ready to assist the Finns. King Gustav is pictured here, RIGHT, with Premier Hansson.

TONY

— BY ELIZABETH VERNON —

CHAPTER VII

Christmas morning.

Tony, seated between Jacky and Alan Fleming, glanced round the little church. The pillars, the lectern, the pulpit—they were all decorated with holly. But Tony didn't want to look at holly this morning, nor, she thought, ever again. Listening dreamily to the "Voluntary," her eyes fell on Hyacinth's white hand and on the emerald which now gleamed there. Strange to think that Hyacinth would soon be married; glorious to think that her husband would remove her from Oaken.

She glanced across the aisle at the empty Holme Dacey pew. Hyacinth, she supposed, would sit there after her marriage under the painted stone effigy of "Alan Farquhar Fleming, gentleman,' and his lady. Alan Farquhar Fleming, gentleman, had died in 1556, and his monument showed him kneeling to face his wife. Behind him knelt six sons. Behind his wife knelt five daughters. Would Hyacinth and her husband have as many children? How horrid to be their aunt. Well, Tony reflected with a little half grin, none of them was likely to be called "Antonia."

With a rustling sound Hyacinth rose from her knees. Tony averted her eyes. Supposing one were to tell Alan Fleming that Hyacinth had never, in seven years, been to church—not even on Christmas morning? What would he say? He wouldn't believe it. And of course one wouldn't tell him. Sneaking was a coward's fault—so Tony's father had taught her; the one person except Jacky whom she had loved. No, let Alan Fleming, poor boob, discover for himself the truth about his bride. There would, Tony reflected, be a good deal to discover and a long time in which to discover it. It comforted her to think of Alan Fleming as a poor boob; perhaps because so far she had found him anything but that.

The choir entered. The organ broke into a carol, the old, remembered notes stirring the air till it trembled.

"While Shepherds watched their flocks by night," sang Tony in a voice as clear and unself-conscious as a bird's. At sound of it, Alan smiled a little. Yes, she had a nice voice and, he remembered, her speaking voice, though quiet, was as clear. He could like that in her, and one other thing—a glance of hers that he had caught as it rested on Jacky. It was obvious, he thought, that shecared for her little sister and that, perhaps, was something that he and Hyacinth might build on in their future relations with the family firebrand. His eyes fell on young Beckett, standing with his mother and members of their Christmas party, in the Cockersdale pew. Remembering his conversation with that young man, he remembered also that he had not liked him, but at the end of their talk he had been certain that there had been no real harm in Tony's escapade with the boy, and he had told Hyacinth so, and Mrs. Querne. It had been one more piece of defiance of authority, that was all. Tony might be a little devil—he had quite sufficient evidence that she was—but at least she was not a precocious little toad. Vividly, he remembered last night's ludicrous scene. How clearly he could see her now, carrying the thorns and holly across his bedroom, her pointed face mutinous above them. Well, on that occasion, if never before, she had been pulled up with a round turn and, Alan considered, that would have done her no harm.

"Goodwill on Earth from Heaven to Man

finished Tony, as happily as though she had ever had experience of peace on earth or goodwill towards men.

Kneeling beside Alan Fleming, able only to remember her defeat at his hands, her thoughts would hardly have commended themselves as prayers. She hoped that he might drop the offertory bag when he carried it round. She hoped that he might make a fool of himself hunting, tomorrow. She hoped that he might get peppered out shooting on Tuesday......

"Amen," came Hyacinth's deep contralto, and at that voice, Tony felt herself shiver a little. So it sometimes was when she thought of her sister. It was like being caught down into a sea, deep, cold and bitter—a waste of memories. Half consciously, she shook her head as if she might shake those memories away. The words of the service came to her on the still, earth-smelling air of the little church. Vaguely she listened as she would have listened at that moment to anything which might distract her thoughts. And gradually and quietly, something in the beauty of the words—or perhaps something which lay behind them and which was so different from anything that she had known—entered her heart and rested there.

Jacky fidgeted, kicking her toe against the pew. Tony turned to glance at her. Jacky was making faces at the choir boys. And as Tony frowned down, shaking her head at that loved and now ludicrously contorted little face, the peace that she had felt became an unexpected lightness. It was almost gayety. She could not have explained it, nor did she try; for she was easily made happy and needed to know no reason for that. But unconsciously she smiled towards the jeweled east window as if, perhaps, she had felt a sudden certainty that somewhere, some day, there might be escape.

x x x

The village children, bearing their presents, had departed. The Christmas tree candles were now extinguished. The tree stood, still glittering from its hundred points of silver and spun glass and gilt. It was a tall tree and now, keeping its air of mystery, it soared towards the high ceiling of the hall and seemed to gaze down with a little of the somberness of the forest on the comfortable room and the flickering fire.

Alan Fleming sat at the telephone. Tony stood, a little stiffly, by the hearth. In her hand she held a small flat parcel. It was an hour since she had opened it and found in it chiffon handkerchiefs of every color, embroidered with her name "Antonia." On them had lain a card. The words "Mr. A. F. Fleming", had been crossed out. In pencil was written, "With best Christmas wishes from Alan."

Alan laid down the receiver. Tony caught her breath a little. Then, quickly, she went towards him. She held out the parcel.

"I'm very sorry," she looked him in the eyes. "I've been waiting to tell you; I can't take your present."

He returned that glance. The words had sounded composed enough, but he saw how her hands moved. A nervous child, he thought whatever else she was. Her "I'm sorry" had seemed to him disarming. And—this was Christmas Day—a day for new beginnings; not, at any rate, a day for feuds.

"Why not?" he asked.

"Because I don't like you."

"I see." He slipped the packet into the pocket of his jacket.

She turned to go.

"Tony," he said; "will you speak to me for a few minutes?"

Warily, she looked round at him. Her face gave nothing away, but he knew that she had had to screw herself up to give his gift back into his hands. She might have put it in his bedroom. But he guessed she hadn't wanted to find herself in his room again.

"If you like," she replied at last.

"Then we'll go to the smoking room."

"All right."

Tony turned. As she crossed the hall with her usual swiftness, walking ahead of him, Alan could take in her carefully careless air—the tilt of her head. So she would have looked, he thought, when she went to that last interview with her head mistress.

They entered the smoking room. He closed the door. Tony remained near to that closed door. She glanced round her as if perhaps she had not been inside the room for some time, or as if, he thought, she was reminded of some unhappy scene. His hands in his pockets, Alan took a turn up and down. Then he came back to where she stood.

"Tony—do you want to keep up this hostility?"

"Yes. I always will."

He looked down into that determined little face. "Why?" he asked.

"Last night—"

"Last night," he interrupted her gently, "you made a successful booby trap for me, and another, very well designed, was in my bed. Did you think I should thank you for those if I caught you?"

"It isn't what you did—said—last night." Tony, flushing, stammered a little. "You—you've taken our friend Harry from Jacky and me. He—" she stopped.

"I see," Alan said meditatively. He sat down on the arm of a chair. "Well, you and young Beckett were up to no harm I know, Tony. I think that your head mistress was rather a fool to expel you." And that, he thought, was [illegible]. Why couldn't Tony have been left to work out the last few days of what would anyway have been her last term, without the disgrace of expulsion?

"I don't care what any one thinks," said Tony.

"Perhaps not," Alan replied. "But Harry Beckett is not the right sort of friend for you."

"How do you know? You don't know anything."

"I have more experience than you of boys and men."

"I wish you had never come here," Tony muttered.

"Do you"? Alan smiled a little. "I don't. Look here, Tony, it's Christmas Day. Can't we start again? I wish you no harm. Be friends with Hyacinth—"

"No."

"Why not?"

Her eyes met his. "Ask Hyacinth.'

There was a little pause. "If I had been in Hyacinth's place," Alan told her slowly, "I should have broken you in some years ago, Tony."

"Oh!" Something in that little laugh—something incredibly bitter, unchildish—struck him. It was as if pity knocked with utter unexpectedness and, he told himself, utter unreason, at his heart. He contemplated the little Ishmael before him.

"You do know a lot, don't you?" Her voice held a sudden breathless note. "You are wise. You're an experienced little fellow, aren't you?" Thus she addressed his six lean feet of height and his twelve years of seniority. Her eyes, he saw, had filled with tears. With a furious, humiliated gesture she brushed them away. "One day I'll be even with you and Hyacinth—"

At that mention of Hyacinth, Alan's anger rose—a much more reasonable feeling than pity, it seemed to him.

"I shouldn't try that, Tony. If you hurt Hyacinth in any way, I shall take my own measures. And I can promise you that whatever they are, you won't like them."

She looked at him. "Yes. I won't try to fight with you any more," she said with the quietness of acceptance. "You're stronger than I am in every way. And I haven't anything to fight with. But I'll watch you ride with Hyacinth for your own fall, and when you're lying broken, I'll be glad."

She turned away. She opened the door. It closed, and she was gone.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Mutiny in the Big House"

A powerful drama of men without women is Monogram's thrilling "Mutiny in the Big House", which opened at the Capitol theatre next.

The story of a prison chaplain, dedicated to the men of every creed who work unsung and unhonored to rebuild the lives of broken men, "Mutiny in the Big House" is actually based upon fact, for it is a tribute to Father Patrick O'Neil who risked his life to break up in Canon City, Colorado State prison riot in 1929, and was awarded the Carnegie Medal for heroism.

"Mutiny in the Big House" deals with the every day lives of men behind bars.

It tells how Father Joe, the prison chaplain fought for the soul of Johnny Gates, sent up for a ten dollar robbery. The priest's opponent in the battle for the boy's welfare is killer Red Manson, who tries to convert Johnny to his anti-social philosophy. The quiet war reaches a tense climax as Red engineers a prison break, and in the hands of Johnny Gates are placed the lives of fifty men, with the priest letting him make his own decision.

The three top roles in the picture are carried by Charles Bickford as Father Joe, Barton MacLane as Red Manson, and Dennis Moore, a newcomer, as Johnny. All three are intelligent characterizations.

The added attraction is a good 3 mesquiteer western "Cowboys From Texas"; the 5th chapter of the thrilling detective serial "Red Barry," and a cartoon complete the bill.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Five Little Peppers at Home"

"Five Little Peppers at Home", the heart-warmingly human comedy drama now at the McCarthy Theatre, is a pleasant, charming sequel to "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew," first of the lovable screen series. Dorothy Peterson is again to be seen as Mrs. Pepper, who must work to support her sturdy brood, while other familiar roles are played by Clarence Kolb, as the financier, and Ronald Sinclair, as his grandson Jasper. The little Peppers, in addition to the talented Miss Fellows, are played by adorable Dorothy Ann Seese, four-year-old Phronsie, Charles Peck, Tommy Bond and Bobby Larson.

"Five Little Peppers at Home," unlike most screen series, takes up where its predecessor left off. The Peppers, in "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew" had won the heart of the stern financier on the hill, and had even moved in with him. Now, apparently safe from the adverse buffetings of fate which they had so successfully withstood, the Peppers are forced to return to their humble home when the financier's health fails him, just as his financial efforts are also failing. Polly again assumes charge of the household while Mrs. Pepper returns to her old job in the factory.

As Polly, Miss Fellows faces a demanding role with her accustomed skill. The lesser characters are also seen to advantage and attention must be paid to the winsome little blonde enchantress who plays the curious, mischievous Phronsie.

"Five Little Peppers at Home" is ideal entertainment, a classic in the realm of good pictures, recommended unconditionally to both adults and children as wholesome comedy and Mothers should bring or send their children to the McCarthy Theatre to enjoy this lovable film. The program also includes an excellent outdoor picture "The Stranger From Texas" starring Charles Starrett, who has made a name for himself in Hollywood, as one of the most popular favorites of present day action and adventure productions. A new episode of "Kit Carson" the exciting serial presented weekly, is also shown in addition to the above two features "Five Little Peppers At Home" and "The Stranger from Texas", now at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE

"Brother Rat and a Baby"

Heading a cast of "Brother Rat and a Baby," the comedy opening next at the Belle Theatre, are Priscilla Lane, Wayne Morris, Jane Bryan, Eddie Albert, Jane Wyman, Ronald Regan, and 14 months' old Peter B. Good who plays the "baby". Also featured are Arthur Treacher, Moroni Olsen, Jessie Busley, Larry Williams and many others.

The story, written by John Monks Jr., and Fred F. Finklehoffe, takes up the adventures of the "Brother Rat" characters just one year after graduation from V. M. I. One of the three erstwhile cadets is already a family man, the other two are just having girl trouble.

"Commencement," the baby who was born on graduation day, is the real little trouble-maker and his exploits land his mother and father and the other two couples into an hilarious series of adventures and misadventures. The production was directed by Ray Enright, one of Hollywood's ace directors of romantic comedies.

The popular Belle British Newsreel, with its up to the minute news events from "Over There" and its gist of important Canadian News Events, a very funny color cartoon, "Screwball Football," and an interesting and entertaining passing parade film, "American Saddle Horses," in technicolor, will be exhibited on the same program.

Romance and Adventure

Alice Faye and Warner Baxter find perilous adventure and romance in a remote American consulate besieged by fierce bandits, co-tsarred in 20th. Century-Fox's thrilling drama, "Barricade," which will be presented at the Bell tonight only.

The supporting cast features Charles Winninger, Arthur Treacher, Keye Luke and Willie Fung. Gregory Ratoff directed.

Such at cute girl — you'd think she'd have a raft of beaus! And she did until Mama scared them all away by trying to help rope them into matrimony.

That's the hectic situation that sets the 20th. Century-Fox picture, "Stop, Look and Love," in motion as the companion feature attraction with Jean Rogers, William Frawley, Robert Kellard, Eddie Collins, Mina Gombell and Cora Sue Collins sharing featured honors.

Then the girl meets "Mr. Right" —and what fun and heartaches she has trying to keep Mama out of the picture.

A remarkable screen oddity, "Birthplace of Iceberg," will be exhibited on the same program. The last complete show starts at 8.30 p.m.

Fortified Coastal Area of Koivisto Now Held by Reds

Communique Lists Russian Dead at 2,350 and Destruction of Two Detachments of Unstated Size

FIGHT NEAR LAKE

Western Anchor of Mannerheim Line Bent but Finland Command Tells World Country Will Fight to Last Man for Independence

Helsinki, Feb. 24—(AP)— The Finnish High Command announced today that the Russians now hold the fortified coastal area of Koivisto and have made it the starting point for new drives toward Viipuri (Viborg) and against strategic islands of Viipuri Bay.

The daily communique declared "the enemy's losses were heavy" in these attacks but did not say whether they were successful.

Until today the Finns had not admitted loss of the Koivisto region, which had been the western anchor of the Mannerheim fortress line across the strategic Karelian Isthmus.

2,350 Are Dead

The communique listed Russian dead of more than 2,350 in yesterday's fighting in addition to destruction of two detachments of unstated size.

To the east, almost in the centre of the Isthmus front, the High Command said two Russian detachments "which had penetrated our positions were wholly annihilated" and at Salmenkaita "the attacking enemy was hurled back and compelled to leave on the field more than 1,000 killed."

The Finns said "about 1,000" Russians were killed on the east-

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Just as fossils disclose the kinds of plants and animals that lived ages ago, so there have been found ice fossils indicating at least something of past climates. These fossils are markings in flagstones of sandstone and limestone, indicating that ice was formed in that particular period, long before man was evolved. The evidence seems to be unmistakable; it appears as grooves made by the freezing of water in fine clay which adhered to the stones. These grooves are from one-half to two inches long and from one-sixteenth to one-eighth inch wide. Stones with such markings are found in South Dakota, Texas, Illinois nd Mexico.

SHIPS SUNK THIS WEEK

By the Canadian Press

Netherlands shipping suffered severely in the week ending Feb. 23, German submarines and mines sinking more than 25,000 tons of that country's ships as against 16,008 tons lost by the British merchant marine. Norwegian losses also were heavy.

One German ship of 5,805 tons was scuttled and is listed as sunk in the following summary. Three other German vessels were captured by British warships before they could sink themselves and were brought to British ports.

The week's sinkings:—

Nationality	No. of ships	Tonnage
Netherlands	5	25,520
British	3	16,008
Norwegian	5	11,561
German..	1	5,805

BRITISH PLANE LANDS IN BELGIUM AFTER LOSING WAY

One of Squadron Carrying Out Reconnaissance Flight Over City of Prague

CREW ARRESTED

London, Feb. 24—(CP) — The Air Ministry announced today that Royal Air Force planes flew over Prague last night, the second successive night that British fliers penetrated deep into Germany.

The ministry's communique said the flights were successfully completed.

It was the third such expedition the British have disclosed since the start of the war.

Starting from bases in France, British fliers flew Thursday night on reconnaissance over Austria and Bohemia. On the night of Jan. 12 they scattered propaganda leaflets on Vienna and Prague.

One of the British planes failed to return, the communique said, and it was later learned the craft had landed in Belgium when the pilot lost his bearings.

A dispatch from Brussels reported a damaged British plane came down in a beet field near Gembloux early today and its crew of six were arrested.

The communique declared:

"During last night extensive reconnaissance flights were carried out by the Royal Air Force over northwest Germany. One of our aircraft failed to return. It has been since ascertained that the pilot having lost his bearings has landed in Belgium."

Hamilton Architect Draws $165,638 From Gov't in Six Years

Toronto, Feb. 24—(CP)— W. L. Somerville, Hamilton architect, has been paid $165,638 by the Ontario Government since the present administration came into office in 1934, it was revealed today in questions answered in the Legislature votes and proceedings.

Among the fees paid were $126,894 for preparing the working drawings for the new Ontario Hospital near St. Thomas, $36,044 for work on the architectural restoration of Fort Henry at Kingston (50 per cent being paid by the Dominion Government). Restoration of the fort cost $831,895 divided equally between the province and Dominion.

Answer to another question said special features of the new Henley Bridge at St. Catharines, commemorating the Royal visit, cost $49,704 (the Federal Government sharing it.)

LIBERAL LEADER WARNS AGAINST NATIONAL GOV'T

States Over Radio No King Cabinet Ministers Will Join Manion Cabinet

FORM OPPOSITION

Sole Issue is "War Record" States Revenue Minister Ilsley at Nomination

The chief Liberal and Conservative contenders for the parliamentary crown finally have squared off on the National Government issue and battled through the first round of the political bout that probably will be a rough-and-tumble scrap before it is settled at the polls.

The election campaign began ponderously but this first full week of strenuous electioneering saw the government launch a vigorous campaign and witnessed Conservative leader Manion steadily press his efforts in the far west.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Dr. Manion both hit out on the National Government question in speeches last night as five other Liberal cabinet ministers and three prominent Conservatives added their voices to the growing campaign din.

Warned of Danger.

The Liberal leader in his third national broadcast warned against what he said are dangers in a National or Union Government and made it clear that neither he nor his cabinet colleagues would enter such an administration which Dr. Manion proposes to form if he obtains a majority.

The advantages of an official opposition are important to a democratic parliament, the prime minister said, and the Liberals will constitute that opposition if defeated.

But if the government is returned, he continued, a still larger number of outstanding men will be brought to the aid of the ministry in an advisory capacity. This was interpreted at Ottawa as indicating possibility that parliamentary under-

TRADE POLICY MAY CONTINUE

U.S. Senate Opponents Concede Hull's Trade Agreement Will be Continued

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Senate opponents conceded today that the triumph of State Secretary Cordell Hull's trade agreements program in the House of Representatives last night foreshadowed continuation of the policy in some form.

They served notice, however, that they would make a vigorous effort to attach restrictive amendments to the extension bill which the House approved, 216 to 168.

The House vote, which gave the Roosevelt administration a victory in the first big legislative test of the session, shifted the battle over the trade agreements to the Senate side of the capitol.

Up to the Senators now is the question: Shall Congress grant the executive branch of the government, for three more years, power to enter into reciprocal agreements with other countries concerning tariff reductions and other trade concessions? The present grant of authority, under which the United States signed a pact with Canada and a score of the nations, expires June 12.

Admits Two Wives In Same Household

Lubbock, Tex., Feb. 24 (AP)—A 29-year old produce company employee admitted today that he maintained two wives in the same household.

G. E. Brown, held on a bigamy charge, was quoted by District Attorney Burks as saying he married the first time in 1929 and the second time in 1937.

In a written statement Brown said he had three children by his first wife and one by the second.

THE HON. DR. R. J. MANION, Conservative Leader, who will be in Belleville on Saturday evening next, where he will address a mass meeting in the interests of Conservative candidates of the counties of Hastings, Northumberland and Prince Edward-Lennox.

War Aims Contrasted

Birmingham, Feb. 24 (C.P. Cable) — Prime Minister Chamberlain today contrasted the Allies' and Germany's war aims in a war progress report.

He said: "Their aims have been made clear to the world."

"In his preface to the German white book," the Prime Minister added, "Herr Von Ribbentrop declares Germany will not lay down her arms until she has reached her goal, namely, the military destruction of her opponents.

"In his speech of January 19, Dr. Goebbels said that in Germany there is only one opinion about the English—to destroy them There never was a time, he (Goebbels) continued, when Germany had such splendid prospects of achieving a dominating position in the world.

"We do not desire the destruction of any people. We are fighting to secure that the small nations of Europe shall henceforth live in security. But we do not want domination for ourselves, nor do we covet anyone else's territory.

"We are fighting for freedom of the individual conscience and for freedom in religion; we are fighting against persecution, wherever it may be found."

FOURTH SESSION OF LEGISLATURE PROROGUES TODAY

Legislative Program of Session Scanty With Canada's War Policy Offering Keenest Debate

SOME BILLS DROPPED

Toronto, Feb. 24—(CP)—Fourth session of Ontario's 20th Legislature will be prorogued today and the 90 members moved into the federal election campaign they had so large a part in causing.

The House finished its business yesterday, but it had to meet today in order that the committee inquiring into administration of timber resources might finish hearing the evidence. Had the House prorogued yesterday, the committee would have died.

The Liberal government of Premier Mitchell Hepburn had a scanty legislative program. Some of it was dropped, some was modified and some passed without change. But it wasn't the legislative program but debate on Canada's war policy that put the legislature into national and international news.

The debate — the Premier and Conservative leader George Drew teaming up to attack Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his conduct of the war—caused the first major house split in Ontario Lib-

FURY OF ATTACKS SHOWS VALUE OF VIIPURI CITY

Attacks Aimed at City and Others Along Isthmus Being Beaten Off by Finns

SLOW RED ADVANCE

Helsinki, Feb. 24 (AP). — Soviet Russian attacks on the Mannerheim Line were concentrated today in a half-dozen spearheads aimed at the shell-battered city of Viipuri (Viborg), their objective since the invasion of Finland began Nov. 30.

Noncombatants of Viipuri's normal 74,000 population have been removed, but the fury of the Russian drive, particularly since Feb. 1, indicates it remains a much-desired strategic centre.

The Finns said one Russian salient northwest of the Kamara railway station was ten or twelve miles from Viipuri.

(The Russians at the same time declared they were only six miles away.)

Finns Claim Enemy Beaten Off.

Attacks aimed at the city, and others ranging the full 65-mile width of the Arealian Isthmus, were being beaten off, the Finns reported, with heavy Russian casualties.

Military observers, noting the slow advance of the Red army, said the Finnish withdrawals were deliberate and well-planned, with each bit of soil bought in Russian blood before

MANION CLAIMS KING GOV'T IN POWER TOO LONG

Charges Prime Minister Interpreting Criticisms of Its Actions as Attacks on Canada

GOES TO WINNIPEG

Senator Griesbach Says Soldiers Given Rifles That Were Relics of Last War

Edmonton, Feb. 24 (AP). — A charge that the Liberal Government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King was interpreting criticisms of its actions as attacks on the country was left with Albertans today by Conservative leader Manion.

"This simply proves that the King Government has been in power too long and they are confusing Canada with themselves," Dr. Manion told a near capacity crowd in a 1,500-seat theatre (Empire) here last night.

Answering a statement of Justice Minister Lapointe that "Mr. Manion and his henchmen are attempting to belittle our country," the Conservative leader asserted "It would be an ill day for our country if its reputation is confused with the reputation of the King government."

Leaves For Winnipeg.

Dr. Manion left immediately after the meeting for Winnipeg where he will address a public meeting tonight, two speeches in his own riding Monday, in the afternoon at Kakabeka Falls and in the evening at Fort William, will conclude the western phase of the Conservative leader's speaking tour.

Senator W. A. Griesbach of Edmonton told last night's meeting that the first overseas division of the Canadian Active Service Force "wasn't equipped at all" and that Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement the contingent left Canada fully clothed and fully equipped was an "outrageous misstatement of fact".

Policy Criticized

The First Division was given rifles that were relics of the last

MAIL SEARCH IS DISCUSSED

New York Times Urges Britain to Heed U.S. Criticism and U.S. Not to Lose Fair Perspective

New York, Feb. 24 (CP). — The New York Times today urged Great Britain to heed American criticism of British interference with United States mails but at the same time urged Americans "not to lose a fair perspective in the present controversy".

United States mail destined for Germany and nations adjacent to the Reich have been removed from trans-Atlantic clipper planes at Bermuda for inspection by the British authorities and from United States vessels passing Gibraltar. The Times said editorially such contraband found in the mails is not worth Britain's running the risk of "alienating American sympathy".

Advice To Americans.

Pointing out that Americans are criticizing Britain for interfering, at Bermuda and Gibraltar, "with a right which we ourselves have waived willingly in the North Sea and the English Channel (by passing the Neutrality Act which forbids United States vessels from entering the war zone)" 'the Times' lengthy editorial concluded:

"For some members of the senate it is apparently all a matter of being ruthless enough. When Germany embarks on a savage policy of sinking neutral ships with attendant loss of life, these gentlemen submit to the threat, insist on bringing our ships home and call our act of self-denial a noble piece of legislation. But when Britain searches our mail for contraband they cry to the high heavens."

ACCEPTS COMMISSION

Port Arthur, Ont., Feb. 24—(CP) S. A. Cheesman, noted northern Ontario aviator, formerly a Port Arthur alderman and later member of the Public Utilities Commission, has resigned from the commission to accept an air force appointment which will take him to Trenton, Ont., it was learned today.

FREEDOM SHALL PREVAIL

British Premier at Birmingham Extols Canada's Response—Canadian Troops Now in Britain Proof of Moral Greatness of Allied Cause

Birmingham, Feb. 24 (CPCable)—Prime Minister Chamberlain revealed today that the British government expects to spend more than £100,000,000 ($445,000,000) in Canada during the first twelve months of the war.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech to his constituents wound up a series by members of the War Cabinet delivered in the last two months to inform the country and the Empire of the war's progress.

The Prime Minister's native city audience gave him a rousing ovation when he rose to speak and repeatedly cheered as he drove home his points. During the speech the cry of "We Want Mosley for Peace" was heard in the back of the hall. Mr. Chamberlain went right on.

(Sir Oswald Mosley is leader of the British Fascists.)

Speaking about the men, munitions and materials being received from various parts of the Empire, Mr. Chamberlain said: "I should like to give you an idea of the scale on which they and we are working. We expect, for instance, that in the first 12 months of war we shall be spending £100,000,000 in Canada alone.

Buy Wheat and Wood from Canada

"From Canada and Australia we have already purchased nearly 4,000,000 tons of wheat since the war began and I might add that we have contracted for 437,000 standards of soft wood from Canada and 350,000 fathoms of pit wood from Canada and Newfoundland."

Mr. Chamberlain said that by arrangements with Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Britain was purchasing half the normal wool exports of the whole world.

A number of times the Prime Minister paid special tribute to the part Canada is playing in the Allies war effort. Before disclosing in impressive figures the extent of the Dominion's contribution to the material side, he singled out the Canadian troops in England for praise.

Canadians Praised

"In London we see every day members of Canadian contingents on leave from their headquarters and when we think that these men have travelled many thousands of miles, leaving behind their parents, their wives, even young children, to cast in their lot with us against the tyranny of the aggressor we must be profoundly impressed with the moral greatness of the cause which has inspired so intense a conviction of its righteousness."

One of the most remarkable developments of the war, said Mr. Chamberlain, has been the partnership between the Royal Air Force and the navy. Together they patrol the seas, discover enemy haunts and repel bombers.

"Our plans for training expert pilots and crews at home and in Canada will give us tens of thousands of airmen who will in turn rival the splendid deeds of daring already standing credit to the Royal Air Force," he said.

War Aims Reiterated

Independence of the Poles and Czechs and proof that Germany "has once and for all abandoned the thesis that might is right," were summed up as basic war aims of the Allies by the Prime Minister. He said the Allies were fighting to free ourselves from the barbarities of the middle ages and establish an order more in keeping with the fundamental principles of Christianity.'

He gave Germany's war aims, in phrases which he attributed to Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, as "destruction of this nation and

Chamberlain Highlights

Birmingham, Feb. 24 (CP-Havas) —Highlights of the address delivered here today by Prime Minister Chamberlain follow:

The speech that I am going to make to you this afternoon is the last of a series of addresses by members of the War Cabinet delivered over the last two months with the purpose of informing the country of the progress of the war.

This afternoon my mind goes back to the last occasion when I spoke in this hall. It was nearly a year ago, and it was just after Herr Hitler had proclaimed, in breach of his own solemn assurances, the annexation of Bohemia and Moravia to the Reich.

Czecho-Slovakia was followed by Poland in spite of warnings up to the last, and with the wicked and cruel attack on Poland the die was cast, the challenge was accepted and the acceptance of that challenge approved by the whole Empire.

Alas, the bad example soon spread. So easy did these conquests appear that the apprentice thought he could safely make a similar attempt on Finland.

Can you wonder that the small states who are near enough to Germany to be reached by her claws, and have not the numbers or weapons to resist her, are living in a perpetual nightmare of fear? And can you not wonder that there should be any in this island who doubt what would be our fate if we were unable to defend our lives and liberties with our strong right arm?

That system which has been built up by the efforts of civilized people, and which, with all its faults, represents a genuine and earnest endeavor to free ourselves from the barbarities of the middle ages and establish an order more in keeping with the fundamental principles of Christianity, is at stake, and only by the victory of the Allies can it be preserved.

So little do the Nazis reckon of neutral interests that neutral ships are no longer safe from their attack even when they are only sailing between neutral ports. Merchant vessels are sunk without warning, cargoes are destroyed, helpless crews are turned adrift to drown or perish of exposure, and the neutral country must not complain—though if, to save from a concentration camp 200 men illegally made prisoners, Britain commits a mere technical breach of neutrality, taking no neutral life and touching no neutral property, the Nazis vent them-

OBITUARY

JUNE BONE

Helena June Bone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Bone, 221 Coleman Street, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday afternoon, Feb. 23rd, after an illness of one week's duration with heart trouble. She was in her 17th year and all her life was passed in Belleville.

To many young friends as well to numerous older persons her death at so early an age, has brought sincere feelings of regret. She attended St. Michael's Academy and was well thought of and popular with the teachers and pupils.

Much sympathy is entertained by friends for Mr. and Mrs. Bone and their young son, Douglas, in their bereavement.

The funeral will take place Monday morning to St. Michael's Church; the announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

LATE ALBERT GIBSON
Tyendinaga

The funeral of Albert Gibson took place Friday afternoon, February 23, from his late residence in the 7th. concession of Tyendinaga township. The service in the home and at the graveside in Victoria Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. G. Mackenzie of Plainfield United Church. During the service in the home a vocal solo, "City Four Square", was rendered by Mr. Joseph Gow.

The bearers were Messrs. Wesley Harrison, Murney Wilson, Henry Larkin, Phillip Shannon, James McCreary and Albert Kingston.

The late Mr. Gibson for a number of years was president of East Hastings Cheese Company and also acted as salesman for the same company. In educational matters he took an active interest and for some time filled in an acceptable manner the office of secretary-treasurer of Moult School Section No. 22.

National Gov't Almost Certain To Mean Weak or Dictatorial Gov't Says King in Address

Prime Minister States When Manion Talks of National Gov't. He Really Means Union Gov't.

WAR MAY SPREAD

Ottawa, Feb. 24—(CP)—A national or union government is almost certain to mean a weak or dictatorial government and it conceivably might mean both, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in his third election broadcast from here.

Such a government would be weak because it leads to endless compromise and stifling of views, he said in a speech over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation last night.

"Differences which now divide parties in parliament would be transferred from parliament to the cabinet. What should be a clash of public principles might well become a clash of personal interests. Effective government would be crippled by compromise and paralyzed by inaction.

"On the other hand, such a government might easily follow the European pattern. There the merging of the parties into one, the suppression of minorities, the silencing of opposition have soon resulted in the abolition of representative institutions. That is the soil in which dictatorships grow and flourish."

May be Subterfuge

The Prime Minister declared that union government also may be a mere subterfuge to bring together, under the guise of a combination of parties, men of divergent views whose main purpose is to take some course of action which they would not be prepared to champion openly.

When Conservative leader Manion talks of national government he really means union government, Mr. Mackenzie King stated. "Probably he doesn't like the name because it summons up from the past memories of many things he would like to forget. What, however, Dr. Manion is avowedly advocating is a government composed of men of different political parties and therefore of conflicting political opinions."

Speaking with the authority and support of the present cabinet, Mr. Mackenzie King said that neither he nor his cabinet colleagues would enter the national government Dr. Manion proposes to form if his supporters win the election.

To Constitute Opposition

"If after an appeal has been made to the country on our war effort and our policies, we are not returned to power, those of us who are elected, together with our followers, will not betray our parliamentary duty, but will constitute His Majesty's loyal opposition. I make that simple and straightforward statement, so that there will be no mistake in the minds of either the people or of Dr. Manion concerning our position, and no recriminations later on because anyone was left in doubt."

Concerning the war effort, he said the government has no desire and has not exercised so-called patronage and this was true of the fighting forces as well as other branches of the war activity.

Secure Best Men is Pledge

The government will continue to bring into the service of the country the best men. It can get and "it doesn't require a Union government to join together intelligence and patriotism."

"With the war and its problems growing in intensity and magnitude I shall seek, if we are returned to power, to bring to the aid of the ministry, in an advisory capacity, a still larger number of men of outstanding ability and experience whose services in one way or another might be made available to the state and add strength to the administration of our policies."

(When the present government first took office it indicated consideration was being given to the adoption of a system of parliamentary under-secretaries such as exists in the British parliament but none was appointed).

The Liberal leader said the time to form a Union government is before not after a general election as was done in 1917 by Sir Robert Borden. Then the leaders of the opposed parties who joined together in the Union government stood side by side on political platforms and their policy was supported and attacked openly.

No Blind Man's Bluff

"The electorate was not asked to engage in a game of blind man's buff, in which the parties constituting the Union government, their leader, their policies, and even their candidates, were all unknown. Believe it or not, that is exactly the situation as we have it today.

"You are actually being invited by Dr. Manion to go from now on till March 26 up a blind alley, which he says leads to National government, and on that day, in some booth at the end of the dark road, to mark and deposit your ballot for a government that is not yet in being and may never come into existence."

War May Spread

The Prime Minister warned Canadians to prepare for the possibility that the war might spread with Asia as well as Europe aflame and the whole world engulfed "in the angry seas of battle."

"Let us not imagine that our land will inevitably escape the wrath that darkens land and sea or that our shores will be spared as the conflict grows and spreads. The great co-operative war effort which this government has planned is gaining every day in momentum. Our hope lies in the gatherings of our strength to meet the gathering of the storm."

The Prime Minister said he did not intend to make promises in order to gain support. All administration developments would be worked out carefully.

"In this election," he said, "I do not intend, to make promise after promise for the sake of gaining political support."

Carries German Peace Plan

Torkild Rieber, U.S. business man is reported to have brought a message from the German Government to President Roosevelt that they are willing to enter peace negotiations now to end the war, but if the Allies insist on fighting Germany threatens to initiate warfare that will leave Europe in shambles. This message was reportedly brought to President Roosevelt 10 days before Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles was named special envoy to sound out peace sentiments in European capitals. Taking Over of County Highway by Dep't Not Considered Likely

"Little encouragement" was given to the Hastings County Roads and Bridges Committee, and county officials, who waited on the Ontario Minister of Highways on Thursday with regard to the taking-over by the department of the Foxboro to Madoc highway, according to a member of the delegation today.

The minister told the delegation that consideration would be given the matter, but he held out little encouragement that the road involved would be absorbed by the department this year due to war and other conditions.

The delegation received the sanction of county council at its January session to wait on the minister after discussion as to the advisability of maintenance work being done this year.

The road in question had been turned back to the county some years ago, it was stated during the discussion, before construction work had been completed.

Further action on the matter will necessarily have to be delayed until the regular June session of council.

KING AND QUEEN SURPRISE TROOPS AT BEAVER CLUB

Their Majesties Met and Talked to Scores of Men in Recreation Centre

EXCHANGE GREETINGS

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Feb. 24—(CP Cable)—The King and Queen made a triumphant two-hour royal tour of a "little bit of Canada in England" as they inspected the magnificent Beaver Club today.

Their Majesties met and talked to scores of men while they visited every room of the newly-opened hostel for the Canadian troops. Its beauties and comforts were shown the royal visitors by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, and Mrs. Massey, and the manager of the building, Captain H. J. Swetman.

The King wore a field marshal's uniform and the Queen was charming in a plum-colored coat, off-the face hat, and fox fur.

From the moment they entered between the lines of a guard of honor of men of the Canadian Active Service Force who served in the last war, until they left after tea, Their Majesties were keenly interested in every feature—the cafeteria, library, lounges, offices, even the three-chair barber shop where two chairs were in use as bemedalled, white-coated barbers snipped away.

Visited Cafeteria

"Boy, what a feeling," commented Corporal Herb Hillier of Toronto, attached to the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, who was one of the first men spoken to when Their Majesties entered the cafeteria, which is in the room which is supposed to have London's finest dance floor. Their Majesties asked Hillier how he was enjoying England.

Questioned by Their Majesties about the weather, Ron Bates of Regina, also attached to the R. C. A. S. C. said he told them he would like to see the sun shine and when the King mentioned it was hot during his visit to Regina last summer, Bates replied he would like to see it hot again.

He told Their Majesties that "these fire places get me down and I'd like a good old Canadian fire just to get warm again."

The Queen shook hands with Sergeant-Major William Bennett of Montreal after Sergeant-Major Alf Gillis had mentioned Bennett was in the guard of honor when Their Majesties attended the civic banquet in Montreal. The Queen told the Montrealers she had enjoyed her visit here.

USED MANY METHODS

Jerseyville, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Marshall used nearly everything but stage coach in travelling here from Parshall, Colo. They rode a bob sled from their farm to Parshall, took a train to Denver, a plane to St. Louis, and finished the trip by automobile.

HARRY R. CORY HOLDS MEETING IN CITY HALL

Attacks What He Calls Activity of 'Machine' in Liberal Party

WOULD REMOVE IT

Predicts Large Dominion Works Projects in the Future

Denouncing what he termed was a "nefarious machine", operated by remote control, which ignored party Liberals, and selected a Conservative as its candidate for the riding," Harry R. Cory, Trenton, who announced his intention to run as a King Liberal following his defeat by Alderman McLean Haig at the South Hastings Liberal Association convention here this week, declared here last night that "if this machine is not taken in hand, it will grow into an octopus which will absorb all South Hastings Liberals, and make them do its will, or else......"

Speaking before upwards of three hundred people in the City Hall Auditorium, Mr. Cory confined his remarks to a scathing criticism of the "machine" which he termed the "Little Tammany Hall of Bridge Street, that is rapidly assuming the proportions of a great dictatorship." He did not touch on the policies of the King administration, but stated that "Bob Manion would not be the Prime Minister of Canada after March 26th."

Number Sign Up

At the end of his address, Mr. Cory passed paper and pencils among the audience, requesting signatures of those who would actively support him in his forthcoming campaign. A large number of his listeners complied with his request, Mr. Jack Burgess acted as chairman.

He had been reprimanded in some quarters for the strength of his remarks at the Wednesday convention, Mr. Cory stated. "But I was not half strong enough," he added, "because I believe the people of South Hastings are dissatisfied with what happened. It is the people who elect candidates, not the 'machine'—and the 'machine-elected' candidate is going down to defeat."

"I believe," stated the speaker, "that with two Conservative candidates in the field I can lick the pants off both of them."

Declaring that he had been "ignored all down the line" the speaker told the gathering that he had been runner-up in the 1935 nominations. "Now", he said "in 1940, the Tammany Hall of Bridge Street decided to bring in a Conservative to take the machine nomination, and disfranchise the Liberals of this riding."

"Outside of one or two Liberals, they ignored such men as A. B. Collins and George O. Tice, and brought in a Conservative. Why? Because they brought him in knowing, that he did not know where he was going."

Operated by Remote Control

"Mr. Haig," the speaker declared, "has been led into something because the 'machine' made him promises. But no 'machine' makes promises unless promises are made in return. This machine is being operated by remote control, but is not making the balls it is throwing. They are being made for it."

The only reason he was ignored by the 'machine', the speaker charged, is because "it knows I am not a "yes-man." Its members cannot tell me what to do unless it is in the interests of the riding I hope to represent."

"Tell 'em it is Billy Fraser," shouted a voice.

Mr. Cory lifted his hand, "Tut, tut, keep quiet," he smiled.

Reiterating his charges made against Mr. Haig at the convention on Wednesday, Mr. Cory stated that "he did advocate amalgamation of railroads two years ago. Recently he stated he supports the amalgamation of the C.P.R. with the C.N.R. I want to say to Mr. Haig and the 'machine' that that was a bad statement to make, for anyone who has the interests of the railroad people at heart, knows that amalgamation in any form, means that a number of men will lose their jobs. And there are all too few jobs now."

Fight For Liberalism Is Claim.

Liberals throughout the riding did not know or were not sure who was with them, he said. "This is not my fight, it is your fight, a fight whether a stagnated 'machine', elected in 1935, hibernated five years, never called a meeting until last Thursday, and operated by remote control, is going to foist on South Hastings a candidate who does not know the first thing about Liberalism, has never done anything for Liberalism, and is not in a position to represent the riding. It is a fight whether or not machine-rule as it is practised in Germany and Russia, where people jump when the whip is cracked, and where a man does what he is told to do, or else . . . will govern this riding."

"We have the growth of a great dictatorship on Bridge street," the speaker charged, "Little Tammany Hall, a 'machine', which, if not taken in hand, will grow into an octopus which will absorb all South Hastings Liberals and make them do its will, or else . . . The convention of last Wednesday placed the power of Liberalism in South Hastings in the hands of a few."

"I will carry this fight into the enemy's camp and on March 26 will have South Hastings out of the hands of the 'machine', if you people will support me." (Cheers).

Predicts Large Projects.

Predicting large Dominion works projects in the future, Mr. Cory stated that "the manner in which work has been distributed in the past is a crime. The few that make up the nefarious machine got it all," he charged, "while other poor devils went on relief."

"There will be a redistribution of labor after March 26," he said, "also a redistribution of the overlords who now rule the jobs at the airport. Labor will be redistributed in such a way that everyone will get his rightful share."

Returning to his attack on Mr. Haig, the speaker charged that the only pledge the candidate made in his convention address was sympathy with the King administration's war policy. A man who says he sympathizes with the King Administration, yet states that he believes in a national government, should be on the Manion platform, he said.

Not Allowed to Use Judgment Charge

Mr. M. McGaughey who introduced Mr. Cory, charged that ward chairmen previous to the Wednesday nomination were not allowed to use their own judgment. "They were dictated to by the party or class called the "Old Machine", he said. That 'machine', I regret to say", he continued, "is composed of those who are benefiting through their political affiliations".

Referring to Mr. Haig, the speaker said "I think he is a fine young man, who, owing to his unfamiliarity with the Liberal Party, was not aware, when the 'machine' approached him, what he was putting his foot into. Instead of criticising Mr. Haig, I feel a little bit sorry for him, a smart young man from the Conservative ranks, who was approached to come and serve the 'machine'.

The aftermath of the convention was a thorough dissatisfaction of the South Hastings electorate, he said, "and that is why this organization meeting has been called".

Tweed Liberal Heard

Mr. Felix Rashotte, Tweed, told the audience, that Liberals in his village, "had been governed by an outlaw organization for the past four years." He told in detail the efforts to organize but on each occasion these were thwarted by the machine. "Last week", he charged, "five Liberals had elected three poll chairmen, who voted for the nominated candidate. That shows how the 'machine' is working in South Hastings", he said.

Mr. Cory asked members of the audience to speak from the platform stating conditions in their parts of the riding. One responded, stating that the "ring" had defeated Cory five years ago, but when a Tory was nominated, by them this year, it was time for a change".

Interior Construction of New Wing Of Hospital Nearing Completion

New Addition Constructed of Finest Materials Procurable and Will Provide, When Completed, the Best of Everything in Hospital Service—Accommodation Will Include Twenty-Five Private and Nine Semi-Private Rooms—Cost of New Wing Plus Alterations in Main Buildings Will Total $200,000 Without Equipment and Furnishings

COST OF FURNISHING PRIVATE ROOM IS $350

With the handsome red brick of its outside construction showing in imposing contrast against the color scheme of the building proper, the new west wing of the Belleville General Hospital houses a group of workmen and expert artizans busily about their various tasks of construction and other work. The new addition, which when completed will be one of the most modern in equipment, conveniences and other phases of hospitalization in Eastern Ontario, is expected to open to the public sometime in April.

The new addition, in its various departments, will house much of the latest equipment used in the modern hospital. Twenty-five private and nine semi-private rooms furnished with modern hospital furniture, will afford accommodation for 43 patients. Three operating rooms, X-Ray department, maternity wards, emergency wards, clinics, rooms for doctors and nurses, laboratory and many other hospital conveniences are included in the structure.

Tribute to W. C. A.

Worthy testimonial to the unceasing efforts of the Women's Christian Association to give the residents of this city and outlying districts the very best in hospitalizations, the new wing is without doubt a project that is not only supplying a long-felt want, but one that will be a source of justifiable pride to, not only its owners, but to the large clientele which the hospital proper serves.

Nothing has been left undone to make the addition fire-proof as well as convenient. Partitions in various parts of the wing are constructed of hollow tile. Windows are double-glazed. Cork of two-inch thickness covers the nineteen-inch cement wall of the basement as well as the outside walls of the upper storeys. Engineers state that the cork is as effective an insulator as the wall it covers. Thus all outside walls will have a protection of the equivalent of thirty-eight inches of cement wall. All water supply piping is of copper, assuring prevention of the accumulation of scale and sediment.

Interior Construction

The admitting, emergency, x-ray, central supply and laboratory departments are on the ground floor with a new ambulance entrance at the west end of the wing approached from the driveway which enters from Dundas Street and passes between the two Nurses' Residence Buildings.

Fine Surgical Accommodation

The surgical department will be located on the second floor with two major operating rooms and one minor operating room. These rooms will be "air conditioned." It is evident that this department has been provided with the facilities necessary to give the surgeons every consideration which in the final analysis is for the benefit of the patient.

The new obstetrical department will be on the third floor. A portion of the existing building on this floor will be remodelled and replanned to provide a cheerful complete new nursery with separate rooms for premature infants and isolation cases entirely shut off from the main section, and having the necessary utility, food and other services required for an up-to-date nursery.

It is anticipated that various other alterations in the existing building will be made including a new children's department. The actual location has not yet been definitely decided on, but in any event a section will be set aside where only children up to fourteen years of age will be admitted.

Five entirely new metal stairs enclosed in fireproof masonry and protected with fire doors have been built in the new and onto the old buildings to provide adequate service and exits convenient to all parts of the hospital. The old open wooden staircases are being removed and with them one of the most serious menaces to the safety of the occupants.

An entirely new elevator is being installed now and improvements are also being made to the existing elevator and electric dumb waiter. Thus with both elevators available and better food service made possible via the dumb waiter, the needs of the enlarged hospital will be fully met with much greater satisfaction to patients, friends and staff than has been possible with the restricted service available hitherto.

More space for special diet preparation and general food service is being provided in the South Wing. These improvements, together with electrically heated food wagons, the new elevator, better rumb waiter service and new diet kitchens conveniently located for room and ward service will all contribute materially to this most important item in good hospital administration. The rearrangement of the power plant which includes installation of a new boiler, stoker and other necessary equipment will all make for increased efficiency.

Comfortable Rooms

Private rooms in the new wing will be light, airy and comfortable. Communication methods are such that a minimum of noise will be evident should a nurse be demanded by a patient. Actual construction of the rooms and various department is in an ultra-modern motif, one that ensures the patient the maximum in comfort and service, and the staff the last thing in equipment, and facilities for service.

The new wing will afford an answer to prayers of hospital authorities and city and district medical men. For some time accommodations in the hospital proper have been so crowded that patients have been placed on beds in corridors. Nurses, have been extended, in these emergency wards, as the service to patients has not depreciated because of the fact that accommodations and facilities have been at a premium.

Extensive Alterations Needed

Apart from the actual construction of the new addition, extensive alterations that are necessary to fit into the scheme of things to improve the service to the institution. Dining-room facilities for nurses and staff will be enlarged. The kitchen will he re-arranged to suit the new mode of modernization in the hospital proper.

The cost of furnishing one of the rooms in the new wing will be approximately $350. This includes everything contained in the room. And while a number of individuals, societies and organizations have expressed their intention of furnishing one of the rooms, there still remains a large number awaiting the generosity of a "sponsor."

In the work being done at the Belleville hospital there is abundant evidence of the fact that a serious attempt is being made to ensure that every dollar spent is as effective as possible in improving the quality of service to and comfort of the patients, and also in providing the modern facilities required by the medical practitioners for their work in caring for the sick.

The scheme of new work and alterations now being undertaken will cost approximately $200,000.00 without equipment and furnishings. When completed it will be a credit to the citizens of Belleville and its environs, and will well merit their continued and increased financial support and personal patronage.

The screen's newest and most glamorous romantic team, lovely Linda Hayes and Kent Taylor, coming next to the McCarthy Theatre in "Sued for Libel," which was shown seven weeks at one theatre in Toronto just recently.

For January, the figures recently released are: XIII A—97.5 per cent; IX A—97.4 per cent; IX E—97.2 per cent. The average percentage for the entire school was 94.7 per cent, in spite of sub-zero weather for eighteen days.

Jack Zufelt and his male choristers rendered our fighting football song on Thursday morning, during the course of the band presentation. Judging by the applause, it was greatly appreciated.

Announcement was made in Thursday Assembly that our Senior Basketball Team won a hard-fought game over Albert Seniors, 24-21. Our Juniors are waiting till the next time for that victory.

Girls' Athletic Society:

The highlight of the last week has been girls' basketball. On Monday afternoon the senior Collegiate team played of against Albert's senior team at the Collegiate. To a much overcrowded gallery the game was played with a final score of 16-10 for the Albert College girls.

At the end of a hard fought first half Albert was leading 13-8. With their long passes, fast play and splendid team-work it was their game from the first two goals. The collegiate rallied in the last half and put up a good, but vain defense.

After the game the Albert girls were entertained at the "bun-feed" in the cafeteria,

On Tuesday XI B played off against XII D, XI B put up a good fight, but when the final whistle blew, the score was 18-10 in favour of the seniors. —M.C.

Boys' Athletics:

In the first scheduled off-campus games in the 1940 Intercollegiate Basketball series, the B.C.I.V.S. Seniors scored a victory by a wide margin of 23-13 against the Napanee High School Seniors. The game was played Monday afternoon at Napanee and was an exchange game between Napanee High School and B.C.I., and a return match will be played on our own home ground Monday afternoon. The game had plenty of pace throughout, and certainly brought out the best in both teams. For a time it loked like a close score, until our own team really got in line for a victory.

In the Junior division, the Napanee players trounced our Juniors to win a 17-14 victory. But it wasn't because of lack of spirit our boys lost — just one of those things. We'll show them Monday, eh fellows? Ath. Board Reporter

The lineup of B.C.I. players is as follows:

Senior—B. Pigden, M. Vechter, A. Argue, S. McBride, C. Gardner, G. Griffin, R. Warren, D. Redick, J. Thorne, D. Wannamaker.

Juniors—B. Kerr, R. Parliament, M. Tamaso, W. Gannon, J. Stock, C. Nicholson, N. Scott, B. Boynton, N. Pomeroy.

LIBERAL LEADER WARNS AGAINST

secretaries would be appointed after the fashion of the British parliament.

War Likely to Spread

Mr. Mockenzie King painted an ominous picture of a possibly spreading war and declared Canada's hope "lies in the gathering of our strength to meet the gathering of the storm."

Dr. Manion in an Edmonton speech argued that a one-party government could not avoid leaning to politics, fovoritism and extravagant public works in constituencies, while a National Government could. He pointed to the National Government in Great Britain as the best argument for a similar administration in this country which would have the duty of carrying out a whole hearted war effort and laying plans for peace.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his cabinet had a political attitude that meant continuation in Canada's war effort of politics, favoritism and profiteering.

At the same meeting Senator W. A. Griesbach of Edmonton charge dthat the government's policy was one of "limited liability."

Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, Minister without portfolio, gave another provincial network speech in Alberta.

"War Record" Sole Issue

Sole issue in the approaching Dominion election is the "war record" of the Mackenzie King government, Revenue Minister Ilsley told a nomination meeting at Middleton, N.S.

There was no issue between the major parties as regards their answering determination to devote every effort toward victory for the Empire and her ally, France, he said. The question was which group—Liberal or Conservative—was regarded by the Canadian people as best-fitted for the job.

The meeting re-nominated Mr. Ilsley as Liberal candidate in Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

Mr. Ilsley defended the record of the Mackenzie King administration. A war budget was passed, the Excess Profits Act was placed on the statutes and other necessary measures effected.

Desirable To Dissolve.

Parliament had been dissolved surdenly, he said, because it was desirable that an election should be over and stability of government established before a probable spring offensive developed.

The "hasty" dissolution of parliament in January had the effect of arousing a "real demand for a national government in the broadcast sense of that term," W. Allen Walsh, Conservative candidate in Mount Royal, said at Kingston.

"The reason advanced by the prime minister for the dismissal of parliament carries no weight as far as the electorate are concerned," said Mr. Walsh.

He said the electorate felt as did members of parliament that "it was rather a sharp turn and a somewhat cold-blooded act to prevent the registration of public indignation against the government for their lack of energy in prosecuting the war."

"This action of the King Government places a blot on parliamentary democratic institutions and undermines the very principles for which we are fighting," he added.

"One direct effect of the hasty action of the prime minister in dissolving parliament has been to unite the National Conservative Party into a real fighting unit," Walsh said.

Appeals For Support.

Hon. J. Earl Lawson, former Conservative Minister of National Revenue, appealed for the support of a National Government which he maintained was the only government capable of administration during wartime.

In an address at Toronto broadcast over a national network, Mr. Lawson said a nation at war required a national government. He reiterated his charges that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had "scuttled" parliament so that he might gain at the polls another four years in office.

Need of National Government.

"No business in Canada is more important than the national business at any time," he said, "and particularly in times of war. Surely if women need national organization to obtain the best results from their war efforts, Canada needs a national government to best manage its business and administer its affairs."

The Canadian government has had an absolute disregard for the soldier, sailor and airman, Denton Massey, Conservative member of the riding of Toronto Greenwood said in an address at Lindsay, Ont.

"If you want to know the shameful conditions at the outbreak of the war you don't want to listen to a political speaker delivering a partisan address," said Mr. Massey, "you should listen to the soldiers themselves.

"Prime Minister Mackenzie King says he has been in the shadow of war for two years and I say this is condemnation in view of the fact our defences have been left almost untouched."

Castigates Gov't.

Mr. Massey said it would be 92 weeks before the first delivery of planes from Canadian factories would be made as a contribution of the Empire training scheme when he castigated the King Government for what he described as their refused to accept this scheme in 1938.

The Prime Minister had said "No" to proposals that Canada provide some of her vast space to the Empire training scheme "away back on Dominion Day, 1938 — I heard him."

Mr. Massey said that the Lindsay arsenal, with 20 men employed "is not doing much to keep Hitler out, despite the fact the ordinance officers have recommended long ago the establishment of pilot plants throughout the country."

Dealing with the Mackenzie King cabinet, Mr. Massey criticised the appointment of Hon. Norman Rogers to the defence portfolio. He said he was incapable of dealing with the problems of labor minister, a post Mr. Rogers held previously. He also criticised agriculture minister Gardiner as one "who doesn't know anything of Ontario mixed farming."

Finance Minister Heard

Limit of Canada's war effort, so far as the present government is concerned, "is just the limit of her resources and her strength, Finance Minister Ralston declared in a nomination speech at Summerside, P.E.I.

"I believe that Canada wants to put every ounce she can muster into this war and that in trying to estimate her capacity every true Canadian will approve the principle, not how little? But rather, how much?"

The Minister warned his listeners they should "strangle on sight those twin offspring of wishful thinking which get in our way and hinder our effort"—the idea that the enemy is likely to collapse and that an early peace will be negotiated and the war will be short."

For the fiscal year starting April 1, 1940, the Finance Minister estimated Canada would spend $500,000,000 on her war effort. Already the estimate for the first year of war, ending next September 1 has been placed at $375,000,000 more than $1,000,000 a day.

Col. Ralston was given the Liberal nomination in Prince County.

Col. Ralston said the proposal of Conservative Leader Manion to select the best brains available for Cabinet posts had "already been pretty well put into actual practice by the Prime Minister when he selected his present Cabinet".

Spent for Preparedness

Any government that had advocated expenditures on war preparedness in proportion to those of Great Britain four years ago "would have been forced to relinguish office," Agriculture Minister Gardiner said at Sunderland, Ont.

Mr. Gardiner said Liberal administrations had consistently spent more on preparedness than Conservative governments.

"In the last year before the King administration left office in 1930, $22,000,000 was spent on national defence," he said. "When we came back to power we found that Bennett in 1935 spent $13,750,000. They cut the expenditures for defence of Canada—not for war—and Dr. Manion was a member of that government."

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines, charged in an address at Milton, Ont., that many of the difficulties in speeding up Canada's war effort could be directly attributed to the "collossal neglect" of the nation's vital defences by the last Conservative government.

Over the period between 1930 and 1935 only a total of $100,000,000 was spent on the Canadian army, navy, air force and coast defences, he said.

The Minister said purely destructive criticism of the Liberal government had strengthened Hitler's hand and weakened the position of Great Britain and France. He warned Canadians against "playing politics" and thus playing into the hands of the dictators.

Hon. Earl Rowe Chosen

Hon. Earl Rowe, former Ontario Conservative leader and Member of the last Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe riding, was chosen as Conservative candidate for the riding at a nominating convention at Alliston.

Mr. Rowe charged in an address that the Mackenzie King administration had been lax in war preparation. The Liberal government had voted $188,000,000 two years ago for the defence of Canada and to date and "there has not been one revolver nor rifle manufactured with it."

"Our first contingent didn't even have suitable clothing to make the trip to England," said Mr. Rowe. "Why they even drilled in sweaters and shirt sleeves."

BELGIAN BOAT REPORTS SHE IS ATTACKED

Heyst, Belgium, Feb. 23 (AP) — The Belgian fishing boat Alex Gabriel reported today that she was being attacked in the North Sea by machine-gun fire.

Another Heyst boat, the Helena, was stopped by a foreign warship and conveyed to an undisclosed port.

Arthur Treacher, Wayne Morris, Peter B. Good is the baby, Eddie Albert and Jane Bryan in a scene from the uproarious romantic comedy, "Brother Rat and a Baby," featuring Priscilla Lane, now on the Belle Theatre screen.

AT THE BELLE

"Brother Rat and a Baby"

"Brother Rat and a Baby," Warner Bros. new sequel to the comedy hit "Brother Rat," is now on the Belle screen. Heading the cast are Priscilla Lane, Wayne Morris, Eddie Albert, Jane Bryan, Jane Wyman, Ronald Reagan and Peter B. Good, the infant actor who plays the second half of the title.

Based on a story by John Monks, Jr., and Fred F. Finklehoff, who originated the "Brother Rat" comedy for the stage and later for the screen, the new film continues the adventures of trio of V. M. I. cadets after graduation. Eddie Albert, the Brother Rat who became a father Commencement Day, is the proud screen papa of little Peter B. Good and Jane Bryan is the mother. Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane pick up the tangled threads of their romance where they left off in "Brother Rat" and Ronald Reagan and Jane Wyman are another twosome, bucking parental disapproval.

The six of them meet in New York to try to get Albert the job of varsity coach at V. M. I., but the baby manages to throw their plans out of gear. With his innocent propensity for making mischief he manages to get them all in and out of trouble with remarkable speed. The cadets who thought all their troubles would be over if and when they managed to graduate from V.M.I. find that there are still some merry mixups for them to get into.

The supporting cast includes such players as Arthur Treacher, Henry O'Neill, Moroni Olsen, Nana Bryant and several others.

The popular Belle British Newsreel with its up-to-the-minute world news events, a very funny color cartoon, "Screwball Football," and an interesting and entertaining Passing Parade film "American Saddle Horses," filmed in third dimension technicolor, will be exhibited on the same program.

Excellent Belle Bookings

An excellent array of feature film bookings are announced for presentation at the Belle Theatre during the month of March, including Ronald Coleman in Rudyard Kiplin's romantic adventure story, "The Light that Failed," featuring Walter Huston and Ida Lupino. James Stewart and Margaret Sullavan in Ernst Lubitsch's clever romantic comedy drama, "The Shop Around the Corner." Walter Pidgeon and Rita Johnson in "Nick Carter, Detective." Alice Faye, Fred MacMurray, Richard Greene and Brenda Page in "Little Old New York." Spencer Tracy and lovely Hedy Lamarr in "I Take This Woman.' David Niven and Olivia de Haviland in "Raffles." Charles Laughton, Vivien Leigh (Scarlet O'Hara of "Gone With the Wind," fame) in "Sidewalks of London." Other important March bookings at the Belle Theatre will be announced. Contracts have been signed for the exhibition of "Gone With the Wind" at the Belle Theatre, definite booking dates to be set and announced shortly. "Gone With the Wind," is now in its 5th week at Loew's Theatre, Toronto.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Assassin of Youth"

The "Assassin of Youth" next attraction at the Capitol is a picture that portrays the ravages of the Marihuana weed. It is a type of picture that is entirely different and new. It deals with the deadly drug as it is being used by the modern youth of today.

The picture was screened throughout the country and has the endorsement of the Women's clubs and numerous educational bodies, and it is a picture that teaches a vital lesson and should be seen by everyone.

Leo J. McCarthy, the producer, started to make this picture with the thought in mind that it would portray merely the ravages of the Marihuana weed, but after getting into the studying, looking up, and finding articles on the obnoxious drug, he became so enthusiastic, instead of making just another picture, he decided to produce it with a definite object lesson in mind.

But in order to keep away from the preachment he interwove the story with the natural happenings of high school youths of today, their friends, their enemies, and their problems, and their achievements as they see them through the eyes of 18 to 20 years of age.

At a recent screening held for the clergy, welfare workers, clubs, and numerous other people interested in this work, some very fine comments were received.

Without a doubt it is something entirely new and different in the entertainment field. The cast is made up of some of the younger movie folks of Hollywood and they have done a very splendid job in bringing out this picture.

The added attraction "Poor Man Rich Girl", a comedy riot stars Robert Young, Ruth Hussey, Lew Ayer and Guy Kibbee.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Sued For Libel"

Kent Taylor, Thurston Hall, Linda Hayes, Lillian Bond and Morgan Conway in "Sued For Libel" opens next at the McCarthy Theatre, after a seven weeks presentation at the Eglinton Theatre, Toronto, with the English production "A Girl Must Live" which recently was also shown at the McCarthy Theatre.

The McCarthy Theatre in playing "Sued For Libel" first of the week wil lgive from the total box-office receipts during those three days, fifteen percent to the Belleville Branch of the Army and Navy Veterans as a donation to their War Service Fund. Belleville and vicinity will therefore not only enjoy an excellent show, but in addition will be assisting in a major manner to help Belleville's returned soldiers to reach their quota in this drive which is taking place across Canada. Latest Fox News events and an all star comedy is also screen hits shown in advance of the feature presentation "Sued For Libel."

"Five Little Peppers At Home"

The McCarthy Theatre now presents for the last times, Edith Fellows and the Pepper family in "Five Little Peppers At Home" and also Charles Starrett in an action-crammed western "The Stranger From Texas" two swell features, a guaranteed program of fun and great entertainment, from start to final fade-out scene, that will be thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

DESPOILING OF POLAND

A nation and a culture to survive must be one that possesses among its qualities the element of tolerance. Germany has what is known as Nazi Kultur, one of the most savage twists of human development witnessed in history.

German Nazis would destroy the very thing that life has created—diversity. Nature and conditions have made the various races of the earth. The Nazis would make them one and that Nazi German. To do that every trace of other civilizations and cultures would have to be wiped out.

In Poland there is such an example of the Nazi principle at work. Poles have been despoiled of their land and possessions, they are to be deprived of the use of their language, Polish history is not to be taught but German history in the German language. The plan of education has been entirely changed.

Poles have been taken from their homes into Germany to be used as cheap labor to help along the flagging Nazi machinery and to set free Germans to become soldiers, lands have been handed over to Germans uprooted from Baltic states and imported into Poland. and Poland.

It is no wonder that over Poland hangs a cloud that only victory and the spirit of the Poles and the Allies can disperse.

A writer in the Hamilton Spectator notes that all the art treasures in Poland, public and private, including paintings, sculptures and works of art, not only Polish but works of Italian, French and Dutch schools, the priceless contents of museums have been sent to Germany. The physical laboratory at Warsaw university and precious original documents from libraries have been taken away, celebrated monuments and statues have disappeared.

This is the hand of the destroyer.

But Poland has a spirit which will live. She has known sorrows yet she will rise above the organized Nazi elimination of her country. She has a democratic culture which is backing her return to her freedom, which will take back from the hands of the despoiler Nazi his ill-gotten loot and swag which he stole from Poland. There is a day of retribution coming for Hitler Kultur. This war will not last forever and when it ends, there will be a return to freedom and to the right of cultures to exist, but Nazi Kultur can not exist for it is anarchy and selfishness in its worst form.

LOCKING OF AUTOMOBILES

It may be that car owners in many parts of Ontario will be under the duty of locking their cars when left in public places. A bill has been favorably reported upon by the municipal law committee of the Legislature under which municipalities will be enabled to make it an offence for car owners to leave cars unlocked in public places.

It has been pointed out that 22.3 per cent of the 841 prisoners in the Guelph Reformatory are there for car thefts. The inference is that the leaving of cars unlocked puts temptation in the way of boys. In Ottawa it is said that the vast majority of stolen cars are taken by joyriders, not professional thieves and that these cars are quickly recovered.

One of the objects of the bill is to make theft less easy, thereby saving boys from temptation and possible careers of crime and to save police a great deal of trouble in investigating car thefts.

Motorists will watch with great interest the progress of the bill through the Legislature.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR ENTRY TO UNITED STATES

Applications for entry to the United States by Europeans more than doubled in the year ended June 30th., 1939. Of 657,353 persons registered up to that time awaiting their turn as compared with 317,606 for for the year before, nearly one half were chargeable to the quota for Germany, enough to fill that nation's total immigration to the United States for eleven years under present admission regulations. In Czechoslovakia 51,271 were registered, exhausting the quota almost eighteen years ahead. Pre-war Poland had 115,222 registrants filling the total for 17 years.

Actual visas issued under the quota regulations were 2 per cent below the permissable total of 153,774 for all countries. Forty-six per cent of those receiving quota visas during 1939 came from the German Reich, including Austria. Quotas were filled during the year for Albania, Bulgaria, China, Czecho-Slovakia, Danzig, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Palestine, Poland, Rumania, Syria, Turkey, Yugoslavia and the Philippines.

Of the 79,346 "new" inhabitants 15,627 or approximately 20 per cent consisted of fathers, mothers, and husbands of American citizens, wives and unmarried minor children of lawful alien residents of the United States.

CIRCUS FIRE SADDENING

Destruction of a circus is something which saddens the minds of boys and girls and adults too. The circus is so rivetted in the minds of the people that they feel for animals in the menagerie. With the help of intimacy gained through moving pictures which have featured circus stories, everyone has a very conception of what such a scene means when a circus takes fire.

Everyone regrets the fire which swept Cole Brothers and Robbins circus winter quarters at Rochester, Indiana, the other day. The meat-eating and savage animals were caught in the inferno, they could not be turned loose but the horses, camels, elephants, mules and ponies were saved as they were taken out and turned loose.By the time the fugitives were rounded up some of them had recovered their composure.

Stories from the winter quarters show the scene on the countryside when the animals were rounded up. Camels were on the paved highways, elephants were trudging along without apparent worry through the snow. Three hundred horses 12 camels, 11 elephants and 20 mules had been liberated.

But six lions had died with two tigers, two black leopards, two zebras, 100 monkeys and there were also caught in the flames 15 antelopes, 2 llamas and a sacred cow. Lions could be heard hurling themselves against the bars of their cages, the snarling lionesses being heard to change their notes to whimperings at last.

The scenes on the streets of the small town were strange as the released animals bolted in terror and ran for a mile or so. Motorists heard the thunder of the galloping herd and most of them got out of the way. One struck a horse and another ran into an elephant with disaster to his motorcar.

Fire brings terror to every living thing but to animals which do not know how to control it, it has a natural terror.

The amount of attention which the conflagration attracted in the newspapers is a clear indication of the place the circus occupies in the minds of the people.

Mr. Wang's Army

It is reported that members of Wang Ching-wei's Chinese revolutionary army, which he raised to assist the Japanese in the conquest of his own country, are deserting and going over to the other side, bringing General Chiang Kai-shek not only many additional troops but much valuable war material into the bargain. If this is the case, it makes Wang's boasts of a new "national" army, enthusiastically pledged to restoration of "peace and national reconstruction," look rather ridiculous. In any case, the army is of much too small proportions to ensure the success of any such grandiose scheme. "The aim of the revolution," states Wang, "is to elevate China to the status of full equality in the comity of nations. Although different measures have to be adopted at different stages of the revolution, the aim remains the same. The purpose of army reconstruction is to strive for the freedom and equality of China, and the present mission is to destroy the military system under personal dictatorship and thereby to establish a national and modernized army in order to discharge the revolutionary duties of the present stage.

It is a strange way to promote the "freedom and equality of China" to sell out to the enemy. But strange things happen in China, especially when an ambitious war lord goes on the rampage. Wang tells his troops that they "must give their body and soul to the country and the Party" with a small "c" for country and a large "P" for party. Yet it is all done under the sanctimonious guise of self-devoted patriotism and of loyal sentiments of good-fellowship. A collection of speeches and "other statements," together with a prefatory note, has been published by the "China Institute of International Affairs," with the title, The Army Under the Peace Banner. The prefatory note sets forth that "present circumstances have forced the leaders of the peace movement to adopt positive actions." It is somewhat Gilbertian to revise the old adage and suggest that the way to secure peace is to make war on one's fellow-compatriots, but the apologists for Wang do not shrink from the paradox.

It has become necessary to "save China," we read. The independent character of the government can only be assured through the use of military force, to preserve order throughout the country "and at the present moment to take over the garrison duty which the Japanese would relinquish." After all, we are invited to believe, though there may be different ways of achieving it, "the future army under the peace movement and the army now under the Chungking regime have but one common aim,' namely, the freedom of China. The only difference is, it seems, that Chiang Kai-shek believes in letting the Chinese work out their own salvation, whereas Mr. Wang wants Japan to work it out for them. This is, however, a fundamental difference, and one is not surprised that "Chungking could not take his advice." — Hamilton Spectator.

Rumanian Oil

Dire need of the Nazis for oil, particularly the high-grade aviation gasoline, is admitted by their reaction to the quota set by Rumania for export to Germany. The Balkan state has allotted the Nazis 1,560,000 tons for 1940, as compared with 1,300,000 tons in 1939. She has stipulated, however, that it all be of the crude product. The Nazis would have to refine it themselves for use in aircraft.

The Nazis have now sent Dr. Karl Clodius, expert negotiator, to Bucharest. He is to insist on a supply of aviation gasoline, and also that the full quota of 1,560,000 tons of oil be shipped. They are afraid that the Allies will buy up some of the quota supposed to be exported to Germany. This action is underlined by an implied threat that if Rumania does not agree with Nazi demands, it will be too bad for her.

Rumania's decision is satisfactory to the Allies, who were keeping a close watch to see that the Nazi pressure did not force Rumania into diverting the most of her oil to Germany. Britain and France figure that if 1,300,000 tons met with Germany's needs from Rumania last year when, for the most of the time she was able to get what she wanted from other sources, that 1,560,000 tons will by no means meet her wartime requirements with supplies from America shut off. A difference of 260,000 tons from Rumania is negligible compared with what she has been deprived of by the British blockade.

In 1937, Germany's oil consumption was 5,150,000 tons, of which 3,300,000 tons were imported. What she is to get from Rumania is less than half her normal imports, and the only other external source she now has is Russia. Her wartime requirements, of course, are far in excess of the 5,150,000 tons used in 1937.

The Rumanian agreement will not even be a step towards solving Germany's oil problem, and the Nazis know it. Hence, they are sending the negotiator to Bucharest.—Windsor Star.

30 YEARS AGO

FEB. 24th., 1910.

The At Home given last night in the rooms of Belleville Lodge No. 81, I. O. O. F., under the auspices of orchestra of the lodge was a great success. The following besides the orchestra took part: Messrs. Eldridge, McKay, Brown, Pearce. Burrows and Dickens. Special mention should be made of the baritone solo by Mr. Robert Bland and the trombone solo by Mr. W. Aselstine. The music by the orchestra was a rare treat.
